The head of the household, Grandpa, quit work one day because he didn't feel like going anymore. The rest of the family followed suit. His daughter, Penny, began writing plays, one day, because a typewriter was accidently delivered to their house. Paul, her husband, makes fireworks in the basement with Mr. Depina, the former ice delivery man who just ended up staying at the Sycamore home. Paul and Penny's daughter, Essie, is a wanna–be ballet dancer, and she is married to Ed. Essie's dance instructor, Boris Kolenkhov, also frequents the Sycamore home, as well as Rheba and Donald, the Irish help.

Paul's and Penny's other daughter, Alice, possesses a business–type ambition that differs from that of her family. Although she loves her family, Alice is also embarrassed by them. With her big job on Wall Street, new fancy clothes and wealthy boyfriend, Mr. Anthony Kirby, Alice's feelings become even more apparent. But when Tony's parents are invited to the Sycamore home for dinner, the fun begins.

Set designer Jack Brady designed the set so that it would reflect the clustered and eclectic nature of the Sycamore family.

The Theatre Guild's production is very close to the original. "It is a very well written play. I've only made some minor changes," said director Christy Penney. "I've made some of the characters larger than they actually are in the original."

"Christy has pulled amazing talent out of the cast of 19 people," said Production Manager Matthew Cavanaugh.

Penney, a sophomore theater major, is making her directing debut with You Can't Take It With You.

"It has been an incredible experience. Although it has been a lot of work, it has been worth it. I have really learned a lot. The actors are outstanding," said Penney.

You Can't Take It With You opens tonight Dec. 3 at 8 p.m. and will run through Dec. 5. There also will be a matinee performance at 2 p.m. on Sat., Dec. 5. Tickets are $8 for the general public and $5 for students. Tickets can be obtained at TIX in the Student Union.

COURTESY KINE ARTS CENTER

Graceful visions

The University Dancers will light up the Bowker stage tonight, tomorrow and Saturday night at 8 p.m.

COURTESY PAUL SHOUL

Stash performs at the Amherst Brewing Company tonight.

Stash to brew up a storm

Singer Kim Zombik promises that there will be "a lot of groove going on" when Stash performs at the Amherst Brewing Company tonight in an intimate appearance for all their fans in the Pioneer Valley.

The quintet from Northampton has established itself as one of the most successful local bands to grace the area in quite some time. From the independent release of their first LP, Cover to Cover last April, to opening up for Maceo Parker in his last visit to Pearl St., Zombik and company — guitarist Eric Olsson, trombonist J.D. Keating, bassist Don Hayward and drummer Doug Raneri — have dominated the local music scene, packing the Iron Horse on several occasions and generating quite a following.

A Boston native, Zombik has worked with jazz greats such as Archie Shepp, and has been compared to Arethra Franklin and Nina Simone. Her voice is invaluable to Stash, and is evocative of the aforementioned jazz divas. Stash's fans come to their shows to dance, groove and have a good time. With their smooth combination of jazz, R&B and soul, Stash is ready to show ABC the definition of funk.

Stash is playing tonight at the Amherst Brewing Company at 10 p.m. Tickets are $3 at the door.

— Kevin Monahan

Massachusetts International Festival of the Arts

Donald T. Sanders, Executive Artistic Director,
Vanessa Redgrave and T. Marc Futter, Benefit Co-Chairs
PRESENT

CORIN REDGRAVE
in a one man performance of

Oscar Wilde's De Profundis

UMass students only $5.00!
Tuesday, Dec. 8, 8:00 PM
Bowker Auditorium, UMass

A Moving Theatre production direct from London's Royal National Theatre. One of only two performances in the United States.

the theatrical event of the fall season!

Distinguished British actor Corin Redgrave as Oscar Wilde in a fully staged dramatization of Wilde's passionate love letter to the world.

Wilde's grandson, Merlin Holland, will introduce this performance. The original score for solo cello will be played by Roman Placek of the UMass music department

Jailed for homosexual offenses in 1895 and sentenced to hard labor in Reading Gaol (jail) in England, Wilde was only allowed writing materials for a few hours each day, and only for the purpose of writing letters. Under these conditions, he wrote a monumental letter to his lover, Lord Alfred Douglas. "One hundred years on, it is still an astonishing tour-de-force of self-analysis and a passionate appeal for us to re-examine our attitudes and assumptions about crime and punishment."

Tickets: 413-545-2511 or at Bowker box office
$5.00 UMass Students, $10.00 Students
$17.50 Seniors 65+, $30.00 General Admission
Information: 800-224-6432 or www.mifa-net.org

One night only
All proceeds to benefit MIFA

ATTENTION STUDENTS!

SATURDAY DECEMBER 5
AT 12:00 PM

FIRST 1,000 TICKETS ARE FREE COURTESY OF "YOUR UMASS ALUMNI ASSOCIATION & THE NEXT 500 ARE COURTESY OF COCA-COLA--SO PICK YOUR TIX UP EARLY!!

Tickets:
• $12 Adult Reserved •
• $10 Adult General Admission •
• $5 Child/Student General Admission •

Tickets available at Athletic Ticket Office @ Curry Hicks Cage

(413) 545-0810

~Art Galleries~

Hart Gallery (Northampton) — Hand painted saws and handmade quilts by Mark Brown and Sue Boss will be on display from Nov. 19 through Dec. 6. Gallery hours are Monday through Wednesday, 9:30 a.m.–5:30 p.m.; Thursday through Saturday, 9:30 a.m.–8 p.m., and Sunday 12–5 p.m.

Hart Gallery — Charles Mulenski: Arcadian Vistas. Lush landscapes of the Valley before man.

Mount Holyoke College — Arts Museum. Landscapes on paper: Works of Art from the Collection will run through Dec. 13. For information call 538–2245.

Mount Holyoke College — Art Museum. American Modernism, Roy R. Neuberger's collection, is now on display through Dec. 13. Hours are Tuesday through Friday, 11 a.m. 5 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, 1–5 p.m. Call 538–2245.

Mount Holyoke College — Art Museum. The exhibition On the Nature of Landscape is now on display until Dec. 15. Hours are Tuesday through Friday, 11 a.m.–5 p.m; Saturday and Sunday, 1–5 p.m. Call 538–2245.

Northampton — R Michelson Galleries. The 9th Annual Illustrators Show is currently running through Dec. 10. Call (413) 586–5964 for more information.

Smith College — Museum of Art. A Renaissance Treasury will be on display starting Dec. 10. Museum hours are Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday 9:30 a.m. 4 p.m.; Thursday 9:30 a.m.–8 p.m.; Sunday 12–4 p.m.

University of Massachusetts — Augusta Savage Gallery. Gallery hours are Monday and Tuesday, 1–7 p.m., Wednesday–Friday, 1–5 p.m. A photographic installation by Peter Hutchins and Katrina Papson will be performed and displayed Dec. 7–11.

University of Massachusetts — Durfee Conservatory. A sculpture exhibit featuring over 30 artists will be on display Dec 11–18. Opening reception is Dec. 11 at 5 p.m.

University of Massachusetts — Wheeler Gallery. Modern Dynamism, a presentation by painter Sherid Adams, runs from today to Dec. 17. The artist will speak on Thursday, Dec. 10 at 5 p.m. Hours are Monday–Thursday, 4–8 p.m., Sunday, 2–5 p.m. For information call 545–0680.

University of Massachusetts — 125A Herter Hall. Hours are Monday through Friday, 11 a.m.–4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 1–4 p.m. Call 545–0976.

University of Massachusetts — Hampden Gallery. Hampden hours are Monday through Friday, 3–7 p.m. and Sunday, 2–5 p.m. Call 545–0680.

University of Massachusetts — Student Union Visual and Performing Arts Space. BFA Thesis Exhibitions: An Inventory of Strange Animals from the Basement of a Natural History Museum sculptures by Jason Bourque and Paintings by Ryan Keene will run Dec. 7–11. Hours are Monday through Thursday, 10–5 p.m. and Friday, 10–3 p.m. Not open on Saturday and Sunday.

Worcester Art Museum — Blurring the boundaries: 25 Years of Installation Art. Running from Oct. 4 through Jan. 3. For information call 508–798–5646.

— compiled by Emily Trask

The Boss shines on set

By Mike Messaros
Collegian Staff

TRACKS
Bruce Springsteen
Columbia

The first voice you hear on the new Bruce Springsteen box set, Tracks, is not Bruce Springsteen's, but a deep New Jersey/New York honk, announcing that these are the demos of Columbia recording artist Bruce Springsteen.

When Springsteen's first album, Greetings from Asbury Park, came out in the early 70s, it was preceded by an electric buzz of anticipation. But when it did come out, critics were disappointed. Rolling Stone critic Lester Bangs, hailed by some as the greatest music critic ever, wrote him off as another Bob Dylan wanna–be, saying he'd never be heard from again.

But of course, we did hear from him again. And again. It wasn't until his third album, Born to Run, that he garnered the following and the praise that have followed him ever since. And now, more than 26 years after those demos were laid down at CBS studios in New York, comes the release of Bruce Springsteen's Tracks, a four–CD box set that tracks his career from his early demos for Columbia, to a song recorded this year ("Gave it a Name"). It's the Rosetta Stone of Bossology.

For the fan, this box set traces Springsteen's movements, as his style changes from the Dylan wanna–be he really was at the start, to the confident rock 'n' roll star he is today. Each song adds a new shade to his already impressive catalogue.

What's amazing is to see how these previously unreleased songs became totally different songs on the albums. It allows us inside the Boss' creative process, letting us witness the genesis of his work.

"Stolen Car," a song finally released on The River, is given a longer, gentler treatment on here. Springsteen goes deeper into this chilling character study, fleshing out the story of a man who drives around in a stolen car after his marriage falls apart, hoping to get caught, but he never does. He watches the town celebration from far away. "From these banks I can see those party lights shine/ Maybe she's there, maybe she's looking for me."

This version also includes a heartbreaking dream sequence where everything works out right. "But as I leaned to touch her pretty lips/ I

Turn to TRACKS, page 8

Live Pearl Jam CD a Ten

By Ryan Benharris
Collegian Staff

PEARL JAM: LIVE ON TWO LEGS
Pearl Jam
Epic

The boys from Seattle released their sixth major album this decade last week. After months of touring to try to promote their excellent new CD, Yield, Pearl Jam put together their first official live album entitled, Pearl Jam: Live on Two Legs.

The CD includes a very good variety of songs from their previous five albums, taking the some of the most popular tracks from each CD. The selections that were taken from Yield were: "Given to Fly," "Do the Evolution" and "MFC". Notably missing was the popular "Wishlist," which received a lot of airplay on the radio this spring.

The other albums that the live songs were taken from were No Code, Vitalogy, Vs. and Ten. The tracks include "Hail Hail," "Daughter," "Betterman," "Elderly Woman Behind the Counter in a Small Town," "Even Flow" and "Black."

There was also an untitled track that was previously unreleased, and, of course, what Pearl Jam event would be complete without a cover song from frontman Eddie Vedder's best friend, Neil Young.

The album clearly shows that Pearl Jam's strong point is their incredible ability to perform live, and with all of the bootlegging that goes on with this band, they felt the need to release a top quality version of their very best talents.

The newest addition to the band is drummer, Matt Cameron. Cameron's last job was with the widely popular rock band, Soundgarden, who broke up in 1996. He signed on at the beginning of the summer's tour, when then drummer Jack Irons announced that he was unable to tour with the band. Pearl Jam was extremely lucky to gain Cameron, who proves to be the best drummer they have ever had, and enhances even the oldest and best Pearl Jam material to make something that seemed already perfect even better.

The most interesting aspect to the CD is its ambiguity about where it was taped. There is no indication of whether or not the CD is an entire concert, or a compilation of songs that were played on the tour. Regardless, the album flows nicely from one song to the next, and makes it seem like the band is putting on a private show simply for the listener.

The CD actually plays like an entire concert. The first song on the album, "Corduroy" from Vitalogy, was an excellent way to start off, and was in fact the opening song that the band played at their show in Hartford this summer. Though most of the new stuff is good, the highlights of the CD were, as always, the old Pearl Jam material in, "Even Flow" and especially "Black." The band knows that it must stay true to its old roots, and absolutely had to include songs from the legendary Ten.

There are many indications on this CD that Pearl Jam is trying to give the fans what they want, while at the same time, doing whatever they please. After the track "Nothingman," from Vitalogy, Vedder says, "That was an old song, now here's a new song. It's evolution baby!" and proceeds to move into "Do the Evolution" from Yield.

He clearly knows that in order to make the fans more excited about the new material, he must put it in the same category as the old material, and prove that they are equivalent. The band really wants to convey the idea that Yield is as good an album as Ten was, it is just different, and should be treated differently.

What the fans must realize is that though the band has the same attitude it had years ago when Ten was released, the sound has changed. In this case, change is definitely not a bad thing, and shows that such a great band can shift themselves into the next millennium.

Live on Two Legs brings up another controversial issue in Pearl Jam's history which is extremely discreet. There is a small note on the inside of the CD case that says, "A P.S. to the Raleigh, N.C., and Hartford, Conn. police depts. Get a life. Leave those kids alone." The lines refer to difficulties that the band had on these two stops on the tour this summer, and "Leave those kids alone," is a reference to strong Pearl Jam influence, Pink Floyd. It just proves that no matter how established a band may be, problems can follow them anywhere they may go.

Pearl Jam, Live on Two Legs is excellent. It is vital that even the slightest Pearl Jam fan add this CD to their collection, simply because the chance to experience live music from one of the greatest bands on the planet is a rare opportunity. Even if you are not a fan of the band, it would be impossible to listen to this album and not appreciate the influence that some of these songs, among others, have had on the music industry. A

COURTESY HERTER ART GALLERY

An eternal question

When, an intriguing 1997 painting by Catherine McCarthy, is just one of the artworks on display at the Herter Art Gallery.

THEATER UMASS and New WORLD Theater presents

Nāga-Mandala

Thurs-Sat, December 3-5
Tues- Sat, December 8-12
8pm, Rand Theater
additional 2pm matinee on Dec 12

General Admission: $7; Students and Low Income Patrons: $4
Call FAC Box Office, 545-2511

It's not too late for Spring or Summer Co-ops and Internships!

Campus Career Network

Paid positions still available at:

State Street Bank
- SOM, Economics
Fidelity Investments
- SOM, Arts & Sciences
Uniroyal
- Chemical Engineering
Compaq
- CSE, Computer Science
Pratt & Whitney
- ME, IE, SOM, Communications
General Electric
- All Engineering, Math, SOM, Computer Science
Reebok
- Communications
Sony Electronics
- Engineering, Math, Art
Analog Devices
- Engineering

Personnel Position at Sybase
Boston Globe
- Accounting, Finance, Art
Baby Gap
- Business, Economics & related majors
Comprehensive Environmental Inc.
- Environmental Engineering
NYC Department of Health
- Public Health, Computer Science
Center for Disease Control
National Center for Infectious Diseases
Public Health Summer Fellows
U.S. Food & Drug Administration
Physicians for Social Responsibility
Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute
And many, many more!

Attend a "Welcome to Field Experience" workshop to learn more about these positions and get started on the road to success with internships and co-ops!

"Welcome to Field Experience" Workshops
Check with your Field Experience Coordinator for dates and times.

Social & Behavioral Sciences	Jeff Silver	545-6267
Humanities & Fine Arts	Dianna Dunn	545-6266
School of Management	Cori Ashworth	577-0418
Engineering & Computer Science	Deborah Pace	577-0419
Education/Public Health/Nursing	Gloria DiFulvio	577-0427
College of Food & Natural Resources	Deborah Pace	577-0419

Or contact the Field Experience Office for scheduled times at 545-6285

Natural Science & Math and any other students that cannot attend the workshops in their college can attend a general "Welcome to Field Experience" session on Thursdays at 3pm in the Campus Center Rm. 803

Smits out, Ricky in on "Blue"

Tube Notes with Ryan Benharris

Goodbye Jimmy Smits, oh we hate to see you go. The popular actor has left ABC's award winning series "NYPD Blue" the way that all soap opera stars leave their series, six feet under. Apparently ABC felt that Smits' only suitable replacement would be childhood "Silver Spoons" star, Ricky (who now wants to be called Rick) Schroeder.

Two Tuesday nights ago, ABC showed what they felt would be a classic television episode that involved the final goodbye for Jimmy Smits. Smits showed his interest in leaving the series last summer, and was told that the only way he would be allowed out of the show would be through his death, and he agreed.

ABC did an excellent job putting together an episode that it was sure would draw a huge audience. There were some great scenes that involved strong emotional responses from Smits' partner Detective Sipowicz, played by Dennis Franz, among other characters that have been a major part of his life, including Kim Delany.

Schroeder, who has done nothing important besides made-for-TV movies since finishing up "Silver Spoons," took on the extremely difficult task of filling Smits' shoes. Upon taking the job, he knew that he could be in for a wild ride, and would always be compared to his great predecessor.

The idea of Rick Schroder returning to television did not appeal to everyone, and there were many questions surrounding his ability to act in such a popular drama.

Schroeder absolutely lived up to all of the expectations. He was able to handle a character, Detective Danny Sorenson, who with a strong New York accent and tough guy attitude would be a completely different person than Schroeder actually is. Simply put, the way that my RA and good friend Rich said, "He did a great job!"

If I were a betting person, I'd definitely put my money on Rick Schroeder becoming one of television's top dramatic actors. Take it from me, Rick Schroeder is here to stay!

In other news, this past Tuesday night on "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno," Anne Heche, star of the new Psycho remake, gave all sorts of opinions, not only about the movie, but also about her much talked about romance with Ellen Degeneres. Heche exclaimed that she doesn't even know Ellen anymore, because she is so busy working, and even asked Leno what she was like.

Heche, who has been really busy lately making such films as 6 Days and 7 Nights, and Return to Paradise said that she is extremely optimistic about Psycho, and feels that audiences will respond extremely well to it, regardless of the comparison to it's legendary original.

Another star was able to use the night-time talk shows to send out valuable information to the world was "Hollywood" Hulk Terry Hogan. The most famous wrestler ever went on with Jay Leno to announce that he was officially retiring from wrestling, to pursue a life of politics. He told Leno that he "plans to use his real name," and even though he practically knows nothing about politics in general, "He'll take care of Sadaam Hussein."

I can't help but wonder if anyone actually takes Hogan seriously. It is a known fact that 15 percent of the American public actually believes that professional wrestling is real. Although, 14 percent are children, there are people out there who honestly think that what's going on is based on fact, and that all of the feuds are genuine.

I've never claimed to know much about the way that the government is run and how people get elected, but the one thing that I am sure of is that a person who has spent his life yelling and screaming at someone that was his best friend last week, only to become his worst enemy this week is not at all qualified to be President of the United States.

However, we all know that there will be people wasting their votes on a professional wrestler to lead the free world, and forcing me to believe it when my grandfather says, "They just don't have qualified candidates like they used to."

Some sad news was released from the TV world over this holiday season. One of the funniest men ever to take the stage, Flip Wilson, died on Thanksgiving morning. The New Jersey native was 64-years-old. Also, one of today's top actors, Michael J. Fox revealed that he has Parkinson's disease, and has been battling it for about seven years. Fox plans to give an interview with Diane Sawyer, and will tell her everything that has been going on, and what he plans to do to cope with the illness, as it tends to get worse as people grow old.

Finally, over the past 27 years, there have been many game shows that we remember, and many have simply come and gone. However, there is one show that has remained constant throughout this time. Of course I'm talking about the show that made "Come on down" a household phrase.

Bob Barker, the host of daytime's "The Price is Right," and winner of a fight with Adam Sandler in Happy Gilmore turned 75 this week, and said that he plans to keep on doing the show for at least one more year. This came as a relief to animal shelters everywhere, when they heard the news that Barker may retire, and became scared that the animal population would grow without his daily reminder to "Have your dogs and cats neutered."

Ryan Benharris is a Collegian columnist.

■ tracks

continued from page 7

felt it all slip away through my fingertips," he concludes. This narrative device pops up on Born in the USA's incredibly sad "Downbound Train." Also differing greatly, and even more startlingly, is an acoustic, Nebraska-era version of "Born in the USA."

Even less obvious are the snippets within songs that would later blossom into fully realized songs. Pieces of "My Father's House" and "Open All Night," both from Nebraska, spring up in "Wages of Sin" and "Livin' on the Edge of the World," respectively.

"Be True" and "Mary Lou" both begin with the same lyrics ("Your scrapbook's filled with all the pictures of your leading men/ Well, baby don't put my picture in there with them"), though "Mary Lou" follows through with the movie imagery. It's fascinating to see a theme that Springsteen couldn't follow through with, even though he obviously tried to make it work. The aborted idea only sees the light of day now, on this collection.

But songs survive on their own, not just under the scrutiny of some Springsteen archaeological dig. Most of them could easily fit on an album without ruining the mood. "Thundercrack" is an eight-and-a-half-minute opus of "Jungleland" proportions. A lot of the earlier tracks move from the wanna-be Dylan stance of the first album ("Bishop Danced" is one of the few songs that does not work) to street influenced doo-wop. "Linda, Let Me Be the One," in particular, rests on a tinkly "Chopsticks"-esque piano and a swaying vocal melody. "Hearts of Stone" is the prom theme of all prom themes.

But for fans, Springsteen's best stuff, like "Stolen Car," is uneasy and sad. "Shut Out the Light," which closes out the second disc, is a gentle acoustic ballad with an almost bluesy arc to it, as the scared, sick narrator implores, "Hey now mama don't shut out the light."

This album allows you to swim in Springsteen's work from beginning to end. There is really just such an amazing body of work presented on here, it's overwhelming. Even the maligned later-era Lucky Town recordings have a few gems among them, like the Roy Orbison inspired falsetto lilt of "Sad Eyes."

But there is so much more out there. So much has been left off this collection, and there are low muffled rumors of another box set one day (as well as a reunion with the E Street Band). Springsteen has joked that he could put out a hip-hop album with all of his still unreleased stuff. I'm looking forward to it. A+

~FILM CLIPS~

A selection of reviewed films playing in the local area:

ANTZ (Dir Eric Darnell, with the voices of Woody Allen, Sharon Stone, playing at Hampshire). From the very first scene, Antz captivates the audience with its small, fanciful world, creating an elaborate, visually deep microcosm of our own society. Worker ant Z (Allen) searches for princess Bala (Stone) while saving his colony from evil. Features a witty script and the voices of Sylvester Stallone and Gene Hackman. B (Adam Martignetti)

LOLITA (Dir Adrian Lyne, with Jeremy Irons, Dominque Swain, playing at Pleasant St.) With all of the hype and anger surrounding this new version of Lolita, going to see it feels like you're in a strange club, watching a snuff film or a Pamela and Tommy Lee honeymoon video. Unfortunately, the product simply does not meet the demand. The story of an old scholar falling in love with a pre-teen girl is vastly inferior to the artistic eroticism of the classic novel, largely because of inconsistent performances from Irons and Swain and Hollywoodized directing from Lyne. C– (Mike Messaros)

MEET JOE BLACK (Dir Martin Brest, with Brad Pitt, Anthony Hopkins, playing at Mountain Farms) Divine acting by Pitt, Hopkins and newcomer Claire Forlani lifts this tale of love and death beyond just the good looks and beautiful photography. Pitt especially succeeds, investing his role with a child-like naivity. While the pace is slow at times, it adds to the movie's ability to capture the magic of life. Director Brest sometimes tries too hard, but Meet Joe Black is a triumph of spirit nonetheless. B+ (A.M.)

PLEASANTVILLE (Dir Gary Ross, with Tobey Mcguire, Joan Allen, playing at Hampshire) Simple fable of two 90's teenagers whisked into a 50's TV show turns into a slightly flawed but pleasing parable of anti-conformity and following your heart. In perfect "Pleasantville," Mom always cooks a hearty breakfast, Dad's in a bowling league and the basketball team always has a perfect shooting percentage. But all is not well in happyland: along with the perfect life comes crushing conformity and emotional deadness, symbolized here with black and white film. Brilliant use of color and visual effects relieve this. B+ (R.R.)

THE WATERBOY (Dir Frank Coraci, with Adam Sandler, Henry Winkler, playing at Hampshire) Hot off The Wedding Singer, Sandler's most complete movie, the resident Hollywood goofball puts together a by-the-numbers, cliched sports flick in The Waterboy. But since when are we looking at artistic merit. Sandler plays Bobby Boucher, a dumb Cajun waterboy who soon discovers a talent for flying tackles and joins the team. Sandler is funny and charismatic as always, but this a one-joke movie. (A.M.) B-

WHAT DREAMS MAY COME (Dir Vincent Ward, with Robin Williams, Cuba Gooding Jr., playing at Hoyts, Springfield). What Dreams May Come begins with the form of a hero's journey into the underworld and then revisions it through the lens of Hollywood schmaltz. The movie is tear-jerking and occasionally beautiful, especially some eerie, hypnotic editing and sharp special effects that turn a painting into a landscape. Williams plays a doctor whose death echoes that of his children years before, and journeys to heaven to find them, and soon after, his wife. But What Dreams May Come is a hollow exercise in American pop-spirituality, glossing over complicated ideas like religion, madness, and family. C– (R.R.)

COURTESY JON FAVAU'S

"The Fonz" Henry Winkler coaches Adam Sandler in The Waterboy, the hit film playing at Hampshire Six.

Attention Collegian Staff Members:

Elections for spring semester editorial positions will be held next Wednesday and Thursday in the Collegian offices. Applications for election are available in the office and are due Monday, Dec. 6 at 5 p.m. Candidate's Night will be held Tuesday night (the room will be posted).

Amherst 256–8911 DOMINO'S PIZZA

Drivers Wanted Pay $8 to $15 Per Hour

Open till 4am

4.99 Medium Cheese Pizza Topping 99¢ expires 12/15/98

6.99 Large Cheese Pizza Topping $1.35 expires 12/15/98

8.99 Ex-Large Cheese Pizza Topping $1.75 expires 12/15/98

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

Discount Discount

18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

Featuring "Milwaukees Best" $9.11 30/pk.

"Micro's" Brewery Hill Raspberry, Honey, BLK+Tan Pale Ale, Porter $3.29 1/6

WINE SPECIALS!
Andre Chamoagnes $2
Freixent Gordon Negro $5
Berigher White Zinfandel $3
Kendell Jackson Chardonnay $8

Pabst Blue Ribbon... $8.99 case both.

Your Choice! PETES CATAMOUNT HEINEKENS BECKS $4.99 6/PK BTTS

CIDER JACK $A.99 6PK (EVERDAY PRICE)

VODKA 80 $8.99

Courvoisier V.S. $18.99 750 ML

CHECK OUT RUSSELL'S INDOOR "WINE" SPECIALS

• Delivery Available • OPEN 9:00AM to 11:00PM • Visa/Mastercard • All Beers Plus Deposit •

The University of Massachusetts Boston presents

JAMAICA today

January 3 - 24, 1999

Experience Jamaica's culture, environment, and language in this special travel/study program which examines the country's economic, political, and social realities. Lectures and readings are supplemented by presentations from local experts and participation in cultural activities and grass roots development projects. Six undergraduate credits are awarded.

For further information, please contact

The Division of Continuing Education
University of Massachusetts Boston
100 Morrissey Blvd.
Boston, MA 02125-3393

617.287.7915
continuing.education@umb.edu

UMASS Boston

PRICEWATERHOUSECOOPERS

You've worked hard to get where you are. Isn't it time to start seeing the results?

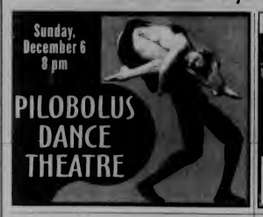
At PricewaterhouseCoopers, you will.

expand your horizons

KWASHA HR SOLUTIONS

You'll find us consulting to global and national Fortune 500 companies providing an array of Human Resources Services. You'll find us using cutting edge technology to best serve our clients. And you'll find yourself contributing from the very moment you join our team.

Whether it's Benefits Solutions or Human Resources Consulting Services, Kwasha HR Solutions has an integrated team of professionals and services for every HR need. Our entry level opportunities include:

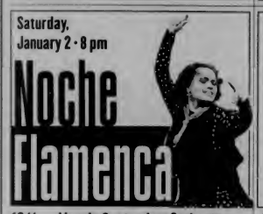


- Actuarial Analysts
- Health Care Consultants
- Defined Contribution Processing Specialists
- Defined Benefits Analysts
- Health & Welfare Analysts
- Compensation Analysts
- Systems & Technology Associates
- Benefits Service Representatives

Please visit our website at www.pwcglobal.com

© 1998 PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP. PricewaterhouseCoopers refers to the U.S. organization of PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP and other members of the worldwide PricewaterhouseCoopers organization.

CALVIN



Theatre and Performing Arts Center

Friday, January 1 8 pm

Saturday, January 2 · 8 pm

PHILIP GLASS & ENSEMBLE
KOYAANISQATSI LIVE

January 14 8 pm WYCR

12/4	Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra with Wynton Marsalis
12/6	Pilobolus Dance Theatre
12/18	John McDermott: Christmas Memories
1/1/99	Cry, Cry, Cry: Dar Williams, Richard Shindell & Lucy Kaplansky plus Buddy & Julie Miller
1/2	Noche Flamenca
1/13	The Kronos Quartet	WYCR
1/14	Philip Glass & Ensemble: Koyaanisqatsi Live	WYCR
1/23	Charlotte's Web Presented by Theatreworks U.S.A.
2/6	Chick Corea & Gary Burton
2/7	The Northampton Arts Council's Silver Chord Bowl
2/11	Ladysmith Black Mambazo
3/6	Cirque Eloize

Coming soon: Arcadia Players, James Galway, Kai-Hi Chen Dance Company, The Wizard of Oz, Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Co., The Adventures of Courduroy

CALVIN THEATRE · 19 KING STREET, NORTHAMPTON, MA 413-584-0610
Tickets for the Calvin Theatre are available at the Northampton Box Office, Thornes Marketplace in Northampton.
To charge by phone call 586-8686 or 1-800-THE-TICK. Visit www.masslive.com for more information.

all shows all ages! Pearl Street Nightclub

MON. 12/7 · 8:30 PM · PEARL ST. CLUBROOM
GOLDEN SMOG
featuring JEFF TWEEDY from Wilco
GARY LOURIS & MARC PERLMAN from the Jayhawks
DAN MURPHY from Soul Asylum · JODY STEPHENS from Big Star and KRAIG JOHNSON from Run Westy Run

THU. DEC. 10 · 8:30 PM
PEARL ST. BALLROOM
REVEREND HORTON HEAT
PLUS AMAZING CROWNS AND FLAT DUO JETS

THU. 12/10 · 8:30 PM
PEARL ST. BALLROOM

FRI. DEC. 4 · 8:30 PM · CLUBROOM — The eight-headed funk machine know the score — RIPPOPOTAMUS plus The Rockett Band
SAT. DEC. 5 · 8:30 PM · CLUBROOM — high-energy groove surf — MOONBOOT LOVER plus Ben Swift Band and Easyah Funk
MON. DEC. 7 · 8:30 PM · CLUBROOM — the Depression all stars — GOLDEN SMOG plus Josh Rouse
THU. DEC. 10 · 8:30 PM · BALLROOM — Predictably Spectacular — REVEREND HORTON HEAT plus Amazing Crowns and Flat Duo Jets
FRI. DEC. 11 · 8:30 PM · CLUBROOM — Worldbeat grooves — ENTRAIN plus Garden Stone
SAT. DEC. 12 · 8:30 PM · BALLROOM — STARDUST OVER PEARL STREET: HOLIDAY SWING DANCE with Ole Jan Skeply Band & DJ Jitterbug Bill Tavares
SAT. DEC. 12 · 8:30 PM · CLUBROOM — Energetic ska punk — SKOIDATS plus Kicked in the Head
SUN. DEC. 13 · 8:30 PM · BALLROOM — Acoustic Singer/Songwriters — BILLY BRAGG & THE BLOKES THE MERMAID AVENUE TOUR
FRI. DEC. 18 · 8:30 PM · CLUBROOM — Rockin' country punk heroes — BUFFALO TOM

COMING SOON: New Year's Eve with Stash

all shows music alone shall live all ages! IRON HORSE MUSIC HALL

WED. DEC. 9 · 7 PM everything
plus Seeing Homer

FRI. DEC. 4 · 7 PM — Sweet voiced singer songwriter — VANCE GILBERT plus Pamela Means
FRI. DEC. 4 · 10 PM — Psychedelic funk grooves — DEEP BANANA BLACKOUT
SAT. DEC. 5 · 7 PM — Guitar pop a la Big Star — THE MAGGIES plus The Grand Pa
SAT. DEC. 5 · 10 PM — Studio One style reggae — ABDUL BAKI & NEW ROOTS
MON. DEC. 7 · 7 PM — Diane Krall meets k d Lang — PATRICIA BARBER DUO
TUE. DEC. 8 · 8:30 PM — Jam rock double bill — THE SLIP AND TUSCAN GROOVE
WED. DEC. 8 · 7 PM — They've got the "Hook" — EVERYTHING plus Seeing Homer
THU. DEC. 10 · 10 PM — The Valley's and boogie champs — LETTUCE
FRI. DEC. 11 · 7 PM — Acoustic blues trio — SAFFIRE: THE UPPITY BLUES WOMEN
SAT. DEC. 12 · 7 PM — Wise cracking singer songwriter — DAN BERN plus Chocolate Genius
SAT. DEC. 12 · 10 PM — Amherst's African reggae greats — BLACK REBELS
SUN. DEC. 13 · 7 PM — Son of Woodie and Arlo McGarrigle — RUFUS WAINWRIGHT plus PJ Olsson
MON. DEC. 14 · 7 PM — Klezmer meets Knitting Factory — HASIDIC NEW WAVE
THU. DEC. 17 · 8:30 PM — Allmans esque blues rock — ELECTRIC BLUE & THE KOZMIK TRUTH plus Schlegelia
FRI. DEC. 18 & SAT. DEC. 19 · 7 PM — Smooth voiced pop singer — LIVINGSTON TAYLOR
SUN. DEC. 20 · 7 PM — Poetic lyrics/rich baritone — DAVE MALLETT
SAT. DEC. 26 · 7 & 10 PM — Party band #1 — NRBQ
SUN. DEC. 27 · 7 PM — In heaven there is no beer — CLEAN LIVING
MON. DEC. 28 · 7 PM — A folk rock farce — POUSETTE-DART TRIO
TUE. DEC. 29 · 7 PM — Youthful chamber quartet — STRING BEAM
WED. DEC. 30 · 7 PM — The psychedelic cowboy rides again — COMMANDER CODY & HIS LOST PLANET AIRMEN
THU. DEC. 31 · 7 & 10:30 PM — New Year's Eve blues bash! — LUTHER "GUITAR JUNIOR" JOHNSON plus Michael Hill's Blues Mob
FRI. JAN. 1 · 7 PM — Incredible blues vocalist — SHEMEKIA COPELAND
SAT. JAN. 2 · 7 PM — Blues/folk singer songwriter — RORY BLOCK
SAT. JAN. 9 · 7 & 9:30 PM — Detroit-driven country rock — FRED EAGLESMITH plus Mike Plume Band
SUN. JAN. 10 · 7 PM — Extraordinary singer songwriter — GARNET ROGERS
COMING SOON: G.E. Smith Band

PEARL STREET NIGHTCLUB, 10 PEARL ST., NORTHAMPTON, MA · THE IRON HORSE, 20 CENTER ST., NORTHAMPTON, MA
Tickets for all shows available at the Northampton Box Office, 2nd Floor, Thorne's Marketplace, Northampton 1-800-THE-TICK or 413-586-8686. Tickets for the Iron Horse are available at For The Record in Amherst; Tickets for Pearl St., are available at For The Record, About Music in Broomfield and Platterpus Records in Westfield. 24-Hour Concert Info: (413) 584-0610 or visit www.massilive.com

Bill, Bridget and Billy Bob

Combining the three actors' talents with Darkman director Sam Raimi results in A Simple Plan, a bleak thriller arriving just in time for winter.

remakes

continued from page 5

Bogart, Robert Mitchum and James Garner). Murder, My Sweet/Farewell My Lovely, and The Big Sleep are just a couple of the Marlowe films that have been made and re- made.

Some recent examples of modern re-makes of Noirs (commonly referred to as Neo-Noirs, though not all Neo-Noirs are necessarily re-makes) are Robert De Niro's Night and the City (1992) and director Barbet Schroder's Kiss of Death (1994), and although the title of the latter film is the same as the original, it could also be a reference to the casting of David Caruso in the starring role.

So what is the point of re-makes? Are they a lame attempt to cash in on the success of a previous hit film? Or a sincere attempt to arouse the interest of an apathetic audience in a film that they otherwise never would have seen? I'd have to go with the former possibility here. Hollywood is not a professor of film studies that must educate the ignorant masses. The ignorant masses are a market to be soaked by Hollywood if not for all they're worth, for all they're willing to give. If the purpose was to introduce a classic to a younger audience, they would be made closer to the director's original vision.

Psycho, however could be a little bit of both. Van Sant has done things that Hitchcock would have done, had he the technology to do them (helicopter shots, etc.). But the fact of the matter is that everybody has seen Psycho. We all know what happens to Marion Crane in the shower, and we all know what's going on between Norman Bates and his mother. The only reason people (myself included) are going to see Van Sant's Psycho is out of sheer curiosity. But don't try to make a Hitchcock film better, because it's just not possible.

Kevin Monahan is a Collegian staff member

安城中國飯店
AMHERST CHINESE FOOD
we do not use "MSG"
253-7835 or 253-2813
62 Main Street, Amherst

Thanks for reading the Collegian!

MICHAEL'S BILLIARDS
10A Belchertown Road
Amherst, MA 01002 256-8284
8 ft. 9' Tables
Big Screen TV
Thursday "24 Hr. Band"
"Everyday from 3-7pm $4.00 hour pool"
Live Music Every Thurs. Fri & Sat

LIQUOR SPECIALS
CAROLAN'S IRISH CREAM 750 ml $10.99
BACARDI SPICED RUM 750 ml $9.99
JAGERMEISTER GIFT SET 750 ml $14.99
JACK DANIELS 750 ml $13.99
DR. McGILLICUDDY'S 750 ml $11.99

Spirit Haus

BEER SPECIALS
SARANAC (MIXED 12 BEERS) $10.99 +DEP
RED DOG (30 PK CANS) $10.99 +DEP
SIERRA NEVADA (6 PK BTLS PALE ALE, STOUT PORTER) $6.29 +DEP
GROLSCH (12 PK BTLS) $9.49 +DEP
MICHELOB/MICHELOB LIGHT (12 PK BTLS) $7.99 +DEP
KEG SPECIAL HEFE'S WICKEN SCHWEINEBIER $80.00

"Fantastic Selection of Kegs"

MICRO BREW SPECIALS
LOON (6 PK BTLS) $4.99 +DEP
OTTER CREEK (COMPLETE PEPPER ALE SEASON SAMPLER VARIETY 6PK BTLS) $4.99 +DEP
BLUE MOON (BELGIAN WHITE, HONEY BROWN, RASPBERRY, PUMPKIN 6 PK BTLS) $5.99 +DEP

SPIRIT HAUS ALSO FEATURES A FULL REDEMPTION CENTER !
Open Sundays 12-6 For the Holidays!
BEAUJOLAIS NOUVEAU NOUS ARRIVONS!
FRAGRANT, FESTIVE, AND PLAYFUL SALE PRICE $6.99
BEL ARBOR MERLOT $6.99 (BILL'S FAVORITE)
PRICES GOOD DEC. 3-9 (NOT IN WINE AREA)
GEORGES DUBOEUF
LE BEAUJOLAIS NOUVEAU EST ARRIVÉ!

MAJOR CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED OPEN 9am to 11pm
338 COLLEGE ST (RTE 9) 1 MILE EAST OF AMHERST CENTER ON RTE 9
PHONE (413) 253-5384 • FAX 256-8433

Collegian gives two big thumbs up in review of NCAA GameBreaker '99

Paul Teves and Seth Koenig, Collegian sports associates, decided to battle it out, mano a mano, in '989 Sports' latest release, NCAA GameBreaker '99, on Playstation.

Three games were played; 1.) Koenig as Florida St. defeating Teves' Penn State at Happy Valley by a score of 38–33, 2.) Teves as Hawaii visiting Southern Methodist University, losing to Koenig again, 12–7, and finally, 3.) Teves' revenge coming while using Central Michigan to pummel Koenig's University of Idaho, 45–32.

For the inaugural contest, both associates embodied themselves in the game, making two wide receivers using the "Create Walk–On" option, "Koenig," No. 82 on FSU, ended the matchup with four receptions for 37 yards and a touchdown, while returning two kicks for a 19.5 yard average. "Teves," No. 84 on PSU, caught only two passes, but managed to generate 116 yards and a score out of them.

Seth Koenig gives a rave review.

Now, I'll be honest. I'm going to be pretty kind to this game because it helped me win two out of three tilts with Paul.

First and foremost, I was especially pleased with the graphics. That's one thing I'm a sucker for, I guess. I was half expecting to be let down in that department because my experiences with 3–D graphics have been that they're blocky and awkward, but the players in NCAA GameBreaker '99 were not too bad. The folks at 989 Sports put computer sensors on such former college superstars as Ryan Leaf and Mike Alstott to track the natural motion of the athletes, and that innovation really showed in the movement of the characters on the screen.

The fact that all 112 Division I–A teams were represented on this game was a big turn–on as well (ladies, take note). Each and every one of these teams had realistically modeled stadiums and uniforms, as well. I couldn't help but jump on the opportunity to use the SMU Mustangs in game two, controlling UMass' own, wideout Jimmy Moore, before he transferred to Massachusetts.

As for gameplay, offensively it was decent. Once I got the hang of what exactly I was doing with the controller, things were pretty natural — the configuration didn't make it easy to hit the wrong button and blow the game, although I did command my quarterback to fall over harmlessly once or twice while going nuts on the buttons.

Defensively, I was a little frustrated. It seemed I could never figure out how to make a diving tackle, an action that might have won me game three, as I found myself chasing Paul's tailback down the sidelines toward the end zone more than once. The only maneuver I could get my defenders to do was jump up in the air, which got me a couple of interceptions over the course of the evening, but left my men useless when a step behind my opponent.

As far as the options are concerned, the game leaves little to be desired. Aside from creating your own players, complete with height, weight, speed, strength, reaction, mood and even college major, you are allowed to customize your playbook and edit your team's season schedule.

Seth Koenig is a Collegian columnist.

COURTESY 989 SPORTS

COURTESY 989 SPORTS

Paul Teves would like a little chat with the refs.

When talking about the new American pasttime of football, the realness of the game is the most important thing. After all nothing beats being there in person.

So when you purchase a football game for Play Station or your Nintendo Entertainment System, you want it to be as real as possible. Well, NCAA GameBreaker '99 is as real as it gets.

The graphics were incredible, and the manageability of the players was easy… and kicking was easy once we got a hang of it.

My problem was with the officiating. The officiating was either non–existent in our first game between Penn State and Florida State, when I needed some officiating — either that or they interfered with every play, like in the second game. Each of us had scored one touchdown in the second game, when the officials killed my drive with a holding call, and then twice extended SMU's drives with pass interference calls.

I like the way the plays went; meaning what you called actually happened. Good clock management, and, if I had to nit–pick at the game, I didn't like the way the quarterback moved so slowly to the line of scrimmage. In the short time we played, we couldn't find a way to speed him up.

Other than that, the game was great. You received your occasional big play from your wide receivers, and occasionally someone was left wide open, but the defense was pretty good.

The passing game was good. There was a great variation of plays that worked. I liked the "shotgun." It gave me most of my success. But you could also draw success from other random plays in "three wide" and "run and shoot."

The pass defense was also quite realistic. Even if you had the so–called "guaranteed" pass defense, they can still catch it on you, which adds to the reality of the game.

The running game was very similar. There were big plays that you could rattle off for 30–yards, semi–big plays for seven yard runs and also not–at–all–big plays for losses, and the run defense worked in the same manner.

The best part of this game was that you won or lost due to your own ability to pick plays instead of the game deciding how you would do because of it's limitations… But the officiating sucks!

Paul Teves is a Collegian columnist.

Four Orangemen capture awards

By John Raby
Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W.V. — Big East champion Syracuse landed four players on the all-conference first team yesterday, including players of the year Donovan McNabb on offense and Kevin Johnson on special teams.

Other Syracuse players on the first team were offensive guard Scott Kiernan and safety Phil Nash. Johnson also made the first team as a wide receiver.

Virginia Tech defensive end Corey Moore was named the league's defensive player of the year. Miami offensive tackle Joaquin Gonzalez was selected rookie of the year and Rutgers head coach Terry Shea was chosen coach of the year.

Miami and West Virginia each had six players named to the first team. Virginia Tech had five, Boston College four and Pittsburgh two. Twelve players were repeat selections to the first team. Voting was conducted by league coaches, who were not allowed to vote for their own team.

McNabb, a senior who led Syracuse to its third straight Big East title, is the first player to win three Big East offensive player of the year awards and the first to be named to the first team four times.

He had 2,134 yards passing yards for 22 touchdowns and ran for 438 yards and eight more scorer. His Big East career records include passing yards (8,389), touchdown passes (77), total offense yards (9,950) and touchdown responsibility (96).

Moore, a junior, led the Big East with 14 sacks, tying him for the second best total in league history. He was sixth on the team in tackles with 67.

Johnson, a senior, is the fifth Syracuse player to win the special teams honor in the league's eight–year history. He led the Big East and was third in Division I–A in kickoff returns with a 30.0–yard average. He returned two kickoffs for touchdowns. Gonzalez, a former walk–on, earned a starting tackle position this season.

Cruise down to your local newstand and pick up a Collegian!!!

Bledsoe carries Pats; running game dead

By Howard Ulman
Associated Press

FOXBORO — The Patriots' passing took the spotlight as Drew Bledsoe's last–minute touchdown throws produced dramatic victories in their past two games.

The team's running has been a lowlight.

Rookie Robert Edwards has struggled after a strong start, the offensive line hasn't opened many holes and injuries to wide receivers have allowed opponents to focus more on New England's ground game.

"I'm definitely disappointed," coach Pete Carroll said yesterday. "This is not where we wanted to be at all."

So amid the euphoria of Bledsoe's game–winning plays in victories of 26–23 over Miami and 25–21 over Buffalo, the reality crept in that the Patriots (7–5) might have put those games away sooner if the running game had been more productive. They totaled 85 yards rushing in those games.

"I didn't think it was going to be this difficult," said Edwards, the Patriots' first–round draft pick from Georgia. "But a lot of people told me at this level it's hard. You're going to be faced with adversities you've just got to overcome."

In his first six games, Edwards rushed for 483 yards and six touchdowns and averaged 80.5 yards per game and 4.4 per rush. In his last six, he's rushed for 222 yards and one touchdown and averaged 37 yards per game and 2.4 per rush.

Only Carolina has a lower rushing average than New England's 78.8 per game. That has forced the Patriots to rely more on Bledsoe, whose 412 passes are third in the NFL behind Peyton Manning and Brett Favre.

"We're going to do what we have to do to win," Bledsoe said. "If it means we're going to just focus on the passing game, then that's what we're going to do."

They may have to do that Sunday in Pittsburgh against a Steelers' improving run defense that's ranked ninth in the NFL. In their first eight games, they've allowed five teams to run for more than 100 yards. That's happened just once in the last four.

"We've got to get the ball and run effectively or it's just putting too much pressure on one side of our offense," Carroll said. "We have not been effective moving the line of scrimmage and Robert has tried probably too hard to make the cuts and try to create and he's lost his rhythm a little bit."

Edwards rushed for a total of 86 yards in his first two games, then started to make up for the loss of Curtis Martin to the New York Jets as a free agent. In the next four games, he ran for 92, 97, 104 and 104 yards.

Since then, Edwards has rushed for more than 50 yards only once. But he said he's not worn down by an NFL season that's longer than his college season.

"A couple of games, I haven't had as many carries as I would have in college," he said. "I'm excited to still be playing. My college season would be over."

In Sunday's win over Buffalo, Edwards gained 13 yards on seven carries in the first half and 27 yards on six carries in the second.

"In the first half, I was running kind of tentative and trying to look for holes," he said. "But I came out in the second half and you can tell I was running different. I saw the hole and went for it compared to the first half when I was trying to find the hole."

The Collegian is your source for sports!

SPRING BREAK HEADQUARTERS
Heller Travel
Student Travel Specialists, LOWEST student and faculty discount airfares.
HELLER TRAVEL
You just can't get it anywhere else!!
146 Massachusetts Avenue at Berklee Boston, MA 02115 (800) 843-1544 email: heller@berklee.edu

SHOPPING FOR PRICE?
YANKEE
· DISCOUNT OIL ·
NORTHHAMPTON / HOLYOKE
584-4112 • 535-1888
· SAME DAY DELIVERY ·

Has your mind settled in for a long winter's nap?
Wake it up with Dean's 3–week Accelerated Intersession!
December 28th–January 15th
Come back from the holidays intellectually exhilarated with Dean College's 3–week Accelerated Intersession! Dean College offers part–time evening, morning, and afternoon classes in Business, Liberal Studies, Computers, English, Economics, Math, and more during this 3–week session. Whether you need transferable credits, an improved grade, or a step closer to your degree, you can earn credits in no time. You can live on Dean's campus while classes run December 28th–January 15th. On–going registration by phone, mail, web–site, or walk–in. Awaken your senses and your mind this winter break with learning that won't put you to sleep!
REGISTER NOW! 1–877–TRY–DEAN
Registration Mon–Thur 8:30AM–6:30PM, Fri. 8:30AM–4:00PM
Visit our web–site at www.dean.edu
Dean College
99 Main Street, Franklin, MA
Located at Rte 495 · Free Parking and Accessible

'98
ONCE
A monthly col… by the UMass …

Events

Thursday, December 3
DANCE: Alumnae Choreographers University Dancers perform works choreographed by alumnae. 8pm in Bowker Auditorium $ 545–2511. Through Dec. 5th.

Friday, December 4
MUSIC: World Premiere by Stern Mark Russell Smith & Fredric T. Cohen, conductors. 8pm in Fine Arts Center Concert Hall $ 545–2511. Pre–concert talk by Mark Russell Smith and Robert Stern at 7pm in Bezanson Recital Hall.
THEATER: Naga–Mandala Through a combination of dance, storytelling and music, Naga Mandala crosses cultural boundaries and imparts a universal story of self–awakening. 8pm in the Rand Theater. Talk–back session to follow performance tonight only. Dec. 3–5 & 8–12. Dec. 12 matinee at 2pm. $ 545–2511.
※CAFE: Quintessentially Queer Cafe Student expression including poetry readings, musical performances, and photography exhibit. 8pm in the Graduate Student Lounge. 545–4824.

Sunday, December 6
MUSIC: Winter Winds Youth Wind Ensemble & Symphony Band Mark Dahm & Malcolm W. Rowell, Jr., conductors. 3pm in the Concert Hall, $ 545–2511.
MUSIC: Alumn In Concert Ryosuke Suganami on piano. 2:30pm in Bezanson Recital Hall 545–2511.

Monday, December 7
MUSIC: Solos & Songs: Jazz Band & Jazz Choir Horace Clarence Boyer, director. 8pm in Bezanson Recital Hall $ 545–2511.

Tuesday, December 8
MUSIC: Student Composers Concert 8pm in Bezanson Recital Hall 545–2511.

Wednesday, December 9
MUSIC: A Baroque Christmas Chamber Choir E. Wayne Abercrombie, director. 8pm in the Concert Hall $ 545–2511.
LECTURE: Designers At Work Lighting, scenic, sound, and costume designers from Naga–Mandala discuss and demonstrate their work. 1:30–2:30pm in the Rand Theater. 545–3511.

Friday, December 11
MUSIC: Jazz and Holiday Cheer University Jazz Ensemble, Jeffrey Holmes, director and Isabelle Wolfmann, voice. 8 pm in Bowker Auditorium, $ 545–2511.
THEATER: Love, Langston Dark Moon Theater presentation 8 pm in the Curtain Theater. Dec. 11–12.
※MUSIC: Midnight Blues with the Lance James Project. 8pm in the Graduate Student Lounge. 577–4178.

Sunday, December 13
MUSIC: Winter Concert: University Chorale E. Wayne Abercrombie, director. 4pm in Bowker Auditorium $ 545–2511.

Monday, December 14
MUSIC: Jazz In Concert David Sporny & Adam Kolker, directors. 8pm in Bowker Auditorium $ 545–2511.
THEATER: Jim Crow: From Minstral Show to Hip–Hop Describes how ethnic stereotypes are perpetuated in contemporary performance. 12pm in the Rand Theater. 545–3511.

Tuesday, December 15
MUSIC: Music From Italy Faculty Recital. Salvatore Macchia, contrabass & Dorothy Orneal, piano. 8pm in Bezanson Recital Hall $ 545–2511.
5–College students can attend any Fine Arts Center event for only $5!
※ funded in part by a grant from the UMass Arts Council

Exhibits

※AUGUSTA SAVAGE GALLERY
545–5177
BFA Thesis Exhibitions: Dec. 7–11
Peter Hutchins and Katina Papson
Reception: Dec. 7, 5–7pm
Dec. 14–18
Meredith Pahoulis and Kalley Trahan
Reception: Dec. 14, 5–7pm

※HAMPDEN GALLERY
545–0580
Dec. 3–10
Graduate Group Show UMass MFA students from the Art Dept
Reception: Dec. 3, 5–7pm

※HERTER ART GALLERY
545–0976
Through Dec. 20
Icons, Myths and Legends by Michael Coblyn
Through Jan 24
Altar Nature
by Dozier Bell, Walton Ford, Catherine McCarthy, and Frank Moore

※STUDENT UNION VISUAL & PERFORMING ARTS SPACE
545–0792
BFA Thesis Exhibitions
Dec. 7–11
Jason Bourque and Ryan Keane
Dec. 14–18
Jesse Connor, Cecelia Lim and Kwang Dong
Opening Receptions: Mondays 4:30–6:30pm

※UNIVERSITY GALLERY
The University Gallery will be closed during the fall due to construction.

※WHEELER GALLERY
545–0580
Dec. 3–17
Modern Dynamism by Shenid Adams
Opening Reception: Dec. 8, 5–7pm

ARTS COUNCIL INFORMATION :
Plan Your Spring Events NOW!
Apply for funding from the Arts Council to support your art event. The Council awards grants to UMass organizations. This year's remaining Single Projects/Events deadlines are: February 4 & March 11.
WATCH FOR DETAILS ON THE ARTS COUNCIL'S NEW MINI–GRANT PROGRAM–COMING NEXT SPRING!
12/98
UMass Arts Council, 101 Hasbrouck Lab, 545–0202

Party.

ZANNA
downtown Amherst

football

continued from page 16

work horse again this week if Chandler doesn't go.

In the AFC it is a free for all. All but two teams have a shot at making the playoffs. Granted three of those teams include the Ravens, Chiefs and Chargers, who are all 5–7. These teams would need a lot of help, but only two games out of the final spot with four games remaining, you never know.

But the teams with realistic shots include 10 of the conferences 15 teams.

Starting in the AFC west the Seattle Seahawks (6–6) still have a decent shot at making the playoffs, but in order for that to be a possibility they need to take the New York Jets (8–4) out this weekend at the Meadowlands. If they do so it will have to be done with Jon Kitna at the helm. Kitna led the Hawks past the Tennessee Oilers (6–6) this weekend 20–18.

The Oakland Raiders (7–5) appear to be in a good position but really are a team on the decline. This is the story of the Raiders. They are a team with so much talent and no production. They have lost their last two games and have also lost left George for the season. George left the Redskins game at the half this weekend with that same groin injury that has been bothering him.

The Broncos round out the West with a 12–0 record and are looking for an undefeated season. They have already clinched the division and probably home field advantage. They have done this on the strengthen of a solid defense, and running back Terrell Davis and quarterback John Elway. Davis has run for 1,566 yards and 17 TDs and a sick 5.3 yards per carry average.

Elway has been more modest than usual, but he has collected 1,737 yards, along with a 98.9 QB rating. The Broncos victim this week is the Chargers. A Broncos' win should put the Chargers mathematical playoff hopes out of reach.

In the Central, the Oilers have struggled in the last two weeks having dropped their last two, and will have their backs against the wall when they face the Ravens this weekend. In order for Tennessee to be successful they need Eddie George to dominate the game. He already has 1,101 yards this year as he looks to push the Titans past the Ravens.

For the Pittsburgh Steelers (7–5) the last two weekends will probably determine the entire course of the season. Last weekend, the Steelers lost 19–16 in overtime on Thanksgiving day on what will be affectionately know as Coin-gate. This was when Steelers captain Jerome Bettis clearly called tails, but the ref said he called heads and gave the ball to the Lions, who then kicked a field goal on the first possession to win.

For the Steelers, the entire season rides on this game against the New England Patriots (7–5) this weekend. The difference is that the Patriots have already played in two games that meant the entire season two weeks in a row, so dare I say they're experienced in games when the season is on the line. This game is to tough to call, but I'm sure it will be a great finish.

The Jacksonville Jaguars, at 9–3, hold control right now of the second spot in the AFC, which would probably earn them a home game in the second season, as well as a bye week. The Jaguars hold all the tie breaks, and play Detriot this weekend at home. The Jags should use this game as a chance to pull away as the rest of the AFC beats on each other.

The AFC East is by far one of the most exciting divisions in football as we head down the home stretch.

The Jets head into this weekend's action at 8–4, and in control of the division. Vinny Testaverde, the Jets quarterback, has been terrific after starting for the injured Glen Foley earlier this season. He has compiled 2,243 yards and 20 TDs. The Jets have also had a great performance from former Patriot Curtis Martin, who has eclipsed the 1000–yard mark for the fourth straight season. They also have two wide receivers who rank fourth and fifth in the conference in yards, and rank eighth and ninth in receptions.

But the Jets have one of the toughest schedules, as they have to play the Seahawks this weekend and then three tough games against division opponents — the Dolphins, Bills and Patriots. Bill Parcells said that if they win the division after playing the remainder of the schedule, they deserve to be champs.

The Dolphins have also been pretty good, 8–4 heading into the last four games. Although Dan Marino and O.J. McDuffie have been picking it up on offense, the Dolphins will have to count on their defense to finish strung.

Their defensive backfield has been spectacular this season at creating turnovers. Cornerbacks Sam Madison and Terrell Buckley each have six interceptions, while safety Brian Walker has four INTs.

Miami's defensive backs compare with only one other team in the AFC and they happen to be in the Dolphins' division — the New England Patriots. The Patriots have matched Miami with Ty Law (7 INTs) and Lawyer Milloy, who has recorded 5 INTs of his own.

The Patriots will be looking to this defense to come up big in Pittsburgh this weekend, in their third straight do–or–die game. The Dolphins will also be looking to their defense to beat Oakland.

Those two games will be two of the most telling games of the season, because they will probably control the teams' playoff chances.

Finally, there is the Buffalo Bills, who are 7–5. They will probably fall out of the playoffs first because as Doug Flutie goes, so go the Bills. They have games left with the Jets and the Falcons, so don't be surprised if they lose three out of their last four.

Now, I want to tell you what is going to happen this week in the NFL. The last time I did this column I went 4–1, and improved my season mark to 8–10. We are going to build on that.

First, let's talk about the underdogs. We are taking three. First we are taking the 'Aints and the 6 1/2 points they're getting over the Cowboys. The game is in New Orleans, and they play well in the big easy. The Cowboys are terrible out of the division and the 'Boys will also be without both Deion Sanders and Kevin Smith at the corner positions.

The Seahawks are the team to take this weekend. Although they are not good enough to beat the Jets yet, they are good enough to cover and they're getting seven and that will be enough. Kitna's the man in the World League, and soon will be the man in the NFL.

The Patriots will also be a good team to take this weekend because although they are as likely to lose as they are to win, the game will definitely be close. For that reason you must take the Pats and 4 1/2.

For the favorites, take the pick of the week: my boys Jake Plummer, Larry Centers, Rob Moore and Frank Sanders will eat up the really bad New York football Giants. They will not just beat them, they will beat them. That's what makes the 4 1/2 points insignificant.

Finally, the Miami myth goes on for one more week against the Raiders who have been playing poorly, and the spread is only 2 1/2, so Miami should cover no problem. Their decline should begin when they face the Jets and the Broncos in the coming weeks.

Paul Teves is a Collegian columnist.

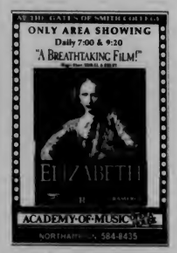
Tyson in trouble yet again in Md. for misdemeanor

By Steve Herman
Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — Just as his boxing career is getting back on track, Mike Tyson faces a possible return to jail as he awaits word on his fate from authorities in Maryland and Indiana.

The former heavyweight champion pleaded no contest Tuesday to misdemeanor assault in Maryland stemming from a traffic accident in August, a move that leaves him legally vulnerable on several fronts.

He faces sentencing in Maryland early next year, and he also could be put back in jail in Indiana, where he already has served three years for rape and has less than four months left on probation. In addition, Nevada authorities have the power to revoke his newly granted boxing license.



Tyson is scheduled to fight Francois Botha on Jan. 16 in his first bout since his boxing license was revoked for biting Evander Holyfield's ears during a title match in June 1997.

A news conference will be held Tuesday in Los Angeles to announce the Tyson-Botha bout in Las Vegas, according to a boxing source who spoke on condition he not be identified.

Indiana authorities want to hear the terms of Tyson's sentencing in Maryland before deciding if he violated probation.

Shelly Finkel, Tyson's boxing adviser, said he believed sentencing will be "in late January or early February."

VIDEO TO GO
6 University Drive, Amherst (413) 549–8509
◆ Across from Rafters, On Bus Route
◆ Inventory of over 16,000 Films
◆ Everyday Special: Four Catalog Titles, for Four Days for $5 (+tax).
$1 OFF ANY VIDEO RENTAL
(Not to be combined with any other special)
One Coupon per Rental
Expires November 30, 1998

AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE
ONLY AREA SHOWING
Daily 7:00 & 9:20
"A BREATHTAKING FILM!"

ELIZABETH ACADEMY OF MUSIC
NORTHAMPTON 584-8435

"Reason №4 why you should take my MCAT course."

Our teachers deliver
Only the best instructors teach our courses. Not only are they experts in their specific field, (physics, biology, chemistry, verbal) but they have also passed our rigorous hiring and training process.
Call 1-800-2REVIEW
or visit us at www.review.com
Courses held at UMASS campus!, Smith, Mt. Holyoke, and WNEC as well.
THE PRINCETON REVIEW

BUCCI
HAIRCUTS... always $10.
25 n. pleasant st. amherst 256.0733
145 main st. northampton 586.0155

Best Place for a Hot Tub
EAST HEAVEN HOT TUBS
VOTED #1 BEST OF THE VALLEY 1998
30% STUDENT DISCOUNT
W/VALID I.D.
SUNDAYS -THURSDAYS
Holidays Excluded
413-586-6843 • 33 West St. • Northampton
www.eastheaven.com

DELIVERY HOTLINE
549-0077
Newly Rennovated Sushi Bar!

CHINESE &JAPANESE RESTAURANT
103 N. Pleasant Street
Amherst, MA 01002
(413)256-8923 • 256-8924
NOW ACCEPTING OCMP!

Little Pleasures from DUNKIN' DONUTS
LOCATED IN THE MULLINS CENTER PRACTICE ICE RINK

* 1 lb. Original Blend Coffee.....$3.99 add $1 for Flavored and Decaf varieties
* Thermos, filled with coffee.....$9.99
* Travel Mugs.....16 oz. filled.....$1.99
24 oz. filled.....$2.59
* Sample Variety Packs (1.75 oz. ea.)...$.99 ea.
* Gift Certificate book.....$5.00
PRICES DO NOT INCLUDE APPLICABLE TAXES. QUANTITIES ARE LIMITED.
DUNKIN'DONUTS
BUY 3 BAGELS, GET 3 BAGELS FREE
UMASS Mullins Center Location ONLY. One coupon per customer per visit. Offers may not be combined. Limit 1 Offer. Exp. 12/16/98

GIFTS from GLASS to GOLD
Find that ruby, sapphire, emerald or handmade diamond engagement ring... featuring Lazare® ideal cuts
Watch batteries, full in-house repair service, pearl re-stringing, appraisals and free ear piercing with purchase of studs. Great selection of earrings!

silverscape designs
GOLDSMITHS GEM GALLERY
One King St., Northampton 584-3324 • M-Wed 10-6, Th-Sat 10-9, Sun 12-5
264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst 253-3324 • M-Sat 10-6, Thurs 'til 8, Sun 12-5

SINCE 1984
La Cazuela
RESTAURANT
The Cuisines of MEXICO and the AMERICAN SOUTHWEST
Hand Crafted Food . . . Seasonal Specials . . . Extraordinary
Tequila List . . . Superb
Margaritas . . . Warm Hospitality
Please join us!
Dinner Every Night
Downtown Northampton
Across From The Parking Garage
7 OLD SOUTH STREET
NORTHAMPTON
413 • 586 • 0400

$ Attention $
February 1999 Graduates
If you are a member of the class of February 1999 who received Federal Perkins Loans while enrolled at UMass you should have recently received a certified letter about those loans.
We know this is a very busy time for you so we've mailed this information rather than having you attend a meeting.
However, there are serious consequences if you fail to return these documents by 12/4/98 as instructed in our letter.
If you haven't received our letter but think that you should have or if you have any questions about what you did receive,
Call 545-2377

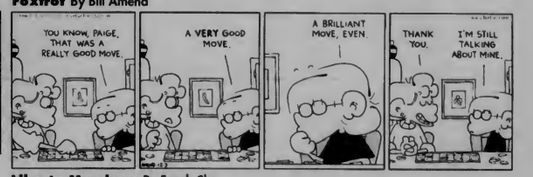
Cathy By Cathy Guisewite

Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Rose is Rose By Pat Brady

Non Sequitur By Wiley

Fiendish Foglios By Brian D. Moses



Robotman By Jim Meddick

Dilbert By Scott Adams

Foxtrot By Bill Amend

Liberty Meadows By Frank Cho

Non-Cents By John Zaccone Jr

Horoscopes

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) — You can surprise many of those around you today with a new strategy that takes advantage of seemingly negative circumstances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) — You'll have the opportunity today to lift yourself up into a new level of involvement — personally and professionally. Do it!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) — That which starts off with a bang is sure to keep you busy to the bitter end. You will want to guard against too much personal sacrifice.

PISCES (Feb. 19–March 20) — You may feel as though you're doing more for your "team" than any other member of the group. Indeed, you efforts will pay off more dramatically.

ARIES (March 21–April 19) — This is a good day for sharing those "secret thoughts" with your most special friend or companion. He or she understands you quite well.

TAURUS (April 20–May 20) — Someone is likely to offer you a challenge today which you cannot turn down. Soon, however, you may find yourself wishing you had resisted.

GEMINI (May 21–June 20) — Even the slightest miscalculation can set you back today. You must take care that you don't take on more than you can handle on your own.

CANCER (June 21–July 22) — Even the best laid plans can go awry today. You'll learn how to make the best of it when something goes wrong. Trust your instincts.

LEO (July 23–Aug. 22) — You may be compelled to involve yourself in someone else's affairs today. It's not because you can help, but because there may be something in it for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) — You are feeling capable and confident at this time. Someone may be watching you, so you are best to do things according to the rules.

LIBRA (Sept. 23–Oct. 22) — You often win the day by being creative, imaginative, and doing things in your own inimitable fashion. Today, try a more conservative approach.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23–Nov. 21) — Now is not the time to succumb to temptation of any kind. Focus on circumstances as they appear, and remember the commitments you've made.

Quote of the Day

"Touch my monkey."

–Deter from Sprokets

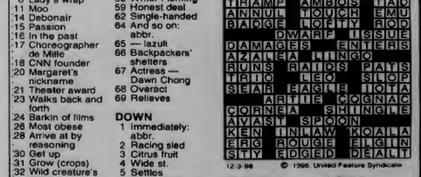
Close to Home By John McPherson

Bruce tries out his new combination mouse/massager.

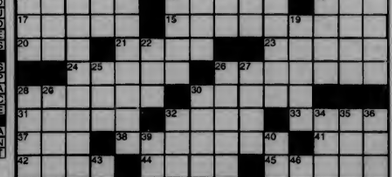
Today's D.C. Menu
Call 545-2626 for more information.

Franklin
LUNCH
Chicken Cutlet Sandwich
Spicy Black Bean Burger
Macaroni and Cheese
DINNER
Roast Top Round of Beef
Cheese Lasagna
Chicken Breast Sandwich

Worcester
LUNCH
Macaroni and Cheese
Meatball Grinder
Rotini/Tomato Sauce
Red Beans
DINNER
Roast Top Round of Beef
Baked Ziti
Caponata with Pocket Bread
Pastabilities: Baked Ziti



Hampshire
LUNCH
Hamburger on a Roll
Chicken Cutlet Sandwich
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
DINNER
Roast Top Round of Beef
Baked Ziti



Berkshire
LUNCH
Macaroni and Cheese
Charbroiled Chicken Sandwich
Tri Bean Casserole
DINNER
Roast Top Round of Beef
Cheese Lasagna
Chicken Breast Sandwich

ACROSS
1 Bride's destination
6 Lady's wrap
11 Moo
14 Debonair
15 Passion
16 In the past
17 Choreographer de Mille
18 CNN founder
20 Margaret's nickname
21 Theater award
23 Walks back and forth
24 Barkin of films
26 Most obese
28 Arrive at by reasoning
30 Get up
31 Grow (crops)
32 Wild creature's home
33 Made a picture
37 Prince Valiant's son
38 Tartest
41 Period in history
42 Gourmet cheese
44 — and cons
45 Chipmunk's leader
47 Gloss
49 Double-reed player
50 Annie and Copperfield
53 Beetle larvae
54 Dismisses an employee
55 Zoo favorite
56 Writer Fleming
59 Honest deal
62 Single-handed
64 And so on: abbr.
65 — lazuli
66 Backpackers' shelters
67 Actress — Dawn Chong
68 Overact
69 Relieves

DOWN
1 Immediately: abbr.
2 Racing sled
3 Citrus fruit
4 Wide st.
5 Settles
6 Wedding-dress fabric
7 Elm or pine
8 Out of the ordinary
9 Fortune
10 Spews
11 Thrusting weapon
12 S-shaped moldings
13 Most inferior
19 Evaluated
22 Honey maker
25 Fleur-de- —
26 Cooks in oil
27 Melodies
28 Dingy
29 James — Jones
30 Moses' brother
32 Entices
34 Changes
35 Goddess of discord
36 Type of ad
39 Unwrap
40 Count
43 Bridegroom's attendant
46 Big tennis shot
48 Bother
49 "Are you a man — mouse?"
50 Bid
51 Cowhand's rope
52 Cost
53 Silly ones
55 Mini-play
57 Start a poker pot
58 Loch — monster
60 Smoked meat
61 Mil. address
63 Meadow

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

Night Editor — Casey Kane
Photo Technician — Kelly FitzPatrick
Copy Editor — Kenneth Mc Donald Production Supervisor — Robert Snow
Production Staff — DJ Carey, Bridget Dolessar

SPORTS

NFL playoffs tightening: teams prepare last run

Paul Teves on the NFL

After 13 weeks the National Football League playoff picture is no clearer today than it was in August. If anything it's more complicated.

If the season ended today in the NFC there would be six teams heading to the postseason. These six teams would include the Dallas Cowboys (8-4), Minnesota Vikings (11- 1), Atlanta Falcons (10-2), San Francisco 49ers (9-3), Green Bay Packers (8-4) and, yes my preseason pick for the playoffs the Arizona Cardinals (6-6).

In the AFC the race is to close to call. There are four teams in the AFC East which are all within a game of one another. There are three teams in the AFC Central which have shots at post season play. In the AFC West, the Denver Bronocs (12-0) have already clinched the division title, as well as a playoff berth, and theoretically there are two other teams that have a chance at making the playoffs from that division.

Lets stan with the NFC.

In the NFC Least, both the Cowboys and Cardinals have been able to somewhat take advantage of the three other non-factor organizations in their division. The Cowboys are 6-0 thus far this season in the NFC East and outside the division the 'Boys are an terrible 2-4. When they get to their wildcard round playoff game don't be surprised if they lose. If the teams were to win out they might be playing the Cardinals in the first round, a team they have beaten twice already this season.

But nothing is set in stone. The Cardinals haven't even made the playoffs yet. The Cardinals have been playing mediocre ball lately and need to step it up right now. This week would be a good time for that against the New York Giants (3-9). The Cardinals need to watch for three teams which are still within striking distance at 5-7, Including the New Orleans Saints, Tampa Bay Bucco and the Detroit Lions, who have won their last three.

It's true — believe it or not teams that are 5-7 after 12 games still have a great shot to make the playoffs.

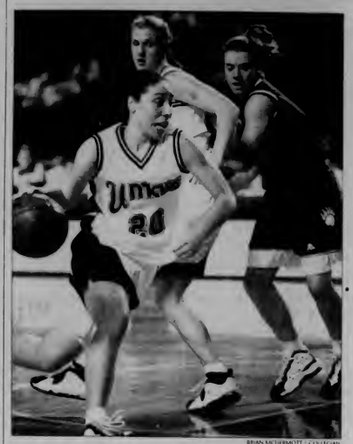
The Cardinals also made a signing this week which could improve their chances of making the playoffs for the first time since 1982. They signed Chris Jackie to do the remainder of the kicking this season.

We have already talked about the Lions and the Bucco having an outside shot at the playoffs, but two teams in this division have a stranglehold on the playoffs.

The Vikings and the Packers are well on their way to the playoffs. The only question for these two teams is where they finish in playoff positioning. The Packers rebounded after their most recent loss to the Vikings by beating the Eagles this week. The Vikings just continued to loft up touchdowns to Cris Carter and Randy Moss. This strategy is being run by Moss, Carter and Randall Cunningham. But for the first time this season, the Vikings might have to play without Robert Smith who sprained his knee last week.

It will be tougher for the Vikings to win games without Smith. Smith has rushed for his second straight 1,000-yard season, totaling 1,013 and six touchdowns.

The Vikings should be fine without the Smith against the Erik Kramer-less Bears this weekend, but the 23 touchdowns thrown by Cunningham (QB rating of 109.2) and the 2,000 plus yards receiving by Moss, Carter and Jake Reed should lead the Vikings past the Bears this weekend.



The other team with a solid threesome of wide receivers is the Niners, who will continue to rely on Jerry Rice (931 yards), Terrell Owens (882 yards, and 10 TD's) and J.J. Stokes (618 yards). This is combined with the MVP play of Steve Young, who has thrown for 3,320 yards, 29 touchdowns and a QB rating of 101.6.

Young and his band of Pro Bowl wide receivers should have an easy time beating the Carolina Panthers (2-10). But no matter because Atlanta should also win this week over the Indianapolis Colts (2-10), who will be playing without Marvin Harrison, who is lost for the season with a right shoulder separation.

The Falcons might also be getting back Chris Chandler this to quarterback. Chandler will wait for a game-time decision. Regardless of whether or not Chandler plays, the Falcons will be able to count on running back Jamal Anderson, who has rushed for 1,326 yards and 11 touchdowns on 305 carries thus far this season. This includes a career high performance last week against the Saint Louis Rams (3-9) with 188 yards on 31 carries. Expect Anderson to be the

Turn to FOOTBALL page 12

Minutewomen turn it around, beat Bears

BRIAN MCGARRATT / COLLEGIAN

Tez Kraft and the UMass women's basketball team pulled out of a five-game slide with a win over Maine last night.

By Jackie Leroux
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts women's basketball team took a step in the right direction last night. The Minutewomen ended a five-game losing streak by defeating the Black Bears of Maine, 64-56.

UMass snagged the much needed 'W' by changing things around in the lineup. The usual starter at center, Yolanda Rayside, was benched for the start of the game, with little- used Lucia Madajova starting in her place. Guard Alison MacFarland, who generally plays much of the game, also saw some of her minutes reduced. Coach Joanie O'Brien instead split a lot of the minutes among her bench.

"Yolanda has been playing a little bit flat, sometimes you need something to get some kind of reaction, and tonight was one those," O'Brien said. "Our injuries have hurt us a little bit... but post-wise the players know what to do, and whoever is going to step up in a particular game is going to see minutes in that game."

Madajova, a senior, responded well to her first-ever career start, scoring the most points and pulling down the most rebounds since her freshman year. She had 11 points, shooting 5-for-6, five rebounds, one block and a steal. She put in a career-high for minutes played, with 27, as well as tying her career-high for field goals made and steals.

"You go through practice and you have people that have to step up and do things," O'Brien said. " And Lucia has been consistent for a while. It was just a situation where she understands what she's doing. She's been around for a while, and she doesn't need to learn a lot."

"I was very excited," Madajova said. "I was very happy, and I went out there and I did what Joanie and everybody expected me to do, and what was my job to do."

Senior forward Tez Kraft put in a good all-around performance for UMass, scoring a game-high 19 points, along with six rebounds and three assists.

UMass' defense was able to hold Black Bear center Jamie Cassidy to 17 points; her season average was 28.7.

The game was a tight one throughout, with UMass' largest lead coming with the final score. The Minutewomen finally began to seal the game with just four minutes remaining.

Madajova had a layup at the 4:01 mark which was followed by a jumper from MacFarland to put UMass up by five. Black Bear Kristen McCormick cut into that lead with a jumper, but sophomore point guard Kathy Coyner hit two free throws off of a foul on Maine guard Amy Vachon.

The lead was increased to six with a made free throw by Rayside, and then pushed to eight with two more free throws by Coyner. Madajova counteracted two free throws from guard Kizzy Lopez by nailing a layup with seven seconds to go.

The game had entered halftime with Maine up by one. UMass managed to stay in the game in the first half despite being outrebounded in the first half. Rebounding is usually a strong area for the Minutewomen, but they conceded 12 defensive rebounds to Maine, with the Black Bears totaling 21 to UMass' 18. The game was tied a total of four times in the first half. freshman center Nekole Smith broke an 8-8 tie with a jumper at 15:27.

Tez Kraft hit a jumper at 7:52 to tie the game at 17 apiece. The next two ties were as close as the Minutewomen would get in the rest of the half. Maine would increase its lead to 33-28 in the opening minutes of the second before UMass was able to get back into the game.

Madajova made a layup that was followed by two free throws from MacFarland to bring the Minutewomen within one.

Freshman guard Tonia Thomas made a jumper at the 14:15 mark to put UMass ahead by one. They allowed Maine to take over once again however, until there was 9:56 remaining. A three-pointer from Kraft and another layup from Madajova gave UMass the lead for good.

"We had to win this basketball game, no question," O'Brien said. "If we would have lost, I don't know what we would have done."

Madajova breaks through against Maine

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

The first player Massachusetts woman's basketball coach Joanie O'Brien praised at the team's press conference last night was none other than Lucia Madajova.

Madajova, not exactly a household name amongst team followers, was instrumental in the Minutewomen's much needed 64-56 triumph over Maine last night at the William D. Mullins Center.

The senior power forward earned her first career start last night in place of Yolanda Rayside, and came up big by notching 11 points, five rebounds, one block and one steal in 27 minutes of play.

"Luc stepped up for us last night," O'Brien said. "She made plays when we needed them and contributed solid defense which is very important to our team."

As for her late insertion to the lineup, O'Brien alluded to the fact that Madajova is always prepared to play, and that the lineup is still being toyed with.

Not only did Madajova make a solid impact with her well- rounded effort, but Rayside responded positively off the bench despite having started five of the first six contests.

Rayside chipped in with five points and four rebounds in the unfamiliar role of playing as a reserve.

"Yolanda had been down a bit, and we got a good reaction out of her tonight, O'Brien said. "We are still trying to figure who is going to play when and where. With the amount of players we have, everybody will get their chance."

Upon hearing the news that she would trot out with the starters for the first time, the excitement was not to be hidden from her teammates.

"I was running around the house this afternoon, and Alison [MacFarland] was even making fun of me," Madajova said. "But after the initial excitement, I calmed down and tried to do what was expected of me on the court."

While the end result was overwhelmingly positive, Madajova had to fight off some early nerves and foul trouble to get on the right track.

After Madajova collected two quick infractions, O'Brien called upon Rayside to enter the game less than four minutes into the opening half, and it appeared Madajova's long awaited window of opportunity would close.

"I knew I had to stay calm, and be smart about the situation," Madajova said of the slow start.

Upon reentering the game, Madajova began to establish herself in the post, and netted her first two points of the game to cut a UMass deficit to 21-19. She entered the locker room at the break with three points and two rebounds to her credit, before officially breaking out in the final session.

Madajova put her own exclamation point on the UMass win, with a power rebound in a crowd of Black Bears with two minutes remaining to play.

The Minutewomian advantage was 57-54 at that point, and after that rebound, UMass reeled off a 6-0 spurt to seal the game.

After the game it was all smiles for the Slovakian native, who clearly had a post-game agenda in mind.

"I'm ready to go call home and tell my mom about this one," Madajova said. "She's probably just getting up for work around this time."

Monsters of McGuirk: linebacking trio on rampage

By Seth Koenig
Collegian Staff

Villanova quarterback Chris Boden was still hearing bells after three punishing periods of play against the Massachusetts football team as he settled under his center on a crucial 3rd-and-10 play down 36-18 in the fourth.

Boden had finally gotten over his original shock of how different this UMass team was from the bunch he played the year before. Leading the No. 3 team in the nation into a home game with the Minutemen on Oct. 11, 1997, the All- America candidate QB racked up 276 yards and five touchdowns before halftime.

This year, though, Boden spent the first half watching his Wildcats fall behind by a score of 23-3; and he was usually watching from the ground. Although Villanova's star signal- caller got the ball off all but one time, he was hammered time and time again as he released the pigskin, forcing his completion percentage to drop dramatically from what he remembered the year before's to be.

As Boden surveyed the defense before him, he knew that the game was in reach. A touchdown on this drive would force UMass into another close situation, and maybe his Wildcats could pull it off. Now to find a weak spot in the Massachusetts alignment...

To the left side of the Minuteman defense was linebacker Kole Ayi. Better not go that way. Ayi would end the regular season in second place in the Atlantic 10 with 127 tackles, and this game against 'Nova was no exception to that impressive standard. No matter where Boden seemed to send the ball, the carrier always ended up under fiery No. 50.

The inience Ayi usually did not stop short of absolutely clobbering the unlucky individual that the Wildcat coach deemed worthy of the "privilege" of trying to move the yard markers. Left was certainly not the way to go, as It was 3rd- and-10, and Boden's mates would be lucky to break the line of scrimmage if they contested Ayi.

No, better check to the right. No. 56, Matt Dawson was over there shifting hungrily about the defensive set-up. Boden didn't know exactly how to read this one. On one hand, the Pepperell native led this feisty squad in sacks, making him someone to respect as a pass-rusher once the ball left the center's hands. On the other hand, Dawson was a threat in coverage as well, as he would eventually lead the Minutemen in interceptions. What to do.

"Matty has about five sacks and three interceptions," Ayi said, noting his teammate's hefty statistics.

Boden then turned his attention to the center of the UMass lineup while he finished barking out his signals. Khari Samuel. Maybe that wouldn't be such a good idea either. Samuel was one of only two non-seniors to be nominated for the Buck Buchanan Award, given to the top defensive player in the nation, a year earlier, and now the intimidating No. 26 was playing in his final year for the Minutemen.

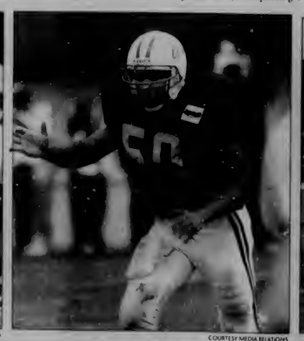
Samuel, the only UMass player to tally over 100 career solo tackles, was to be headed from Warren P. McGuirk Alumni Stadium to the roaring arenas of the NFL, and the only thing in his way was Boden and his Wildcats. It would be smart not to mess with the Minuteman middle linebacker, for Boden and his tailback. Brian Westbrook, could feel Samuel's competitive eyes burning holes in their jersies before the snap was even made.

"Khari is definitely, from what I've seen, the best linebacker no matter where we've played," Dawson said of the senior leader.

Boden needed that 10 yards, and he wasn't going to get it hunched behind his offensive line watching the play clock tick away.

Boden called for the ball and back-peddled. He fired it downfield and connected with one of the impending evils; Dawson. The fierce outside linebacker had chosen to drop back into coverage, and proceeded to wrestle the pass from the intended receiver.

"As a team, we really made the guy from Villanova struggle," Dawson remarked. "Pretty much every play somebody was in on him and hitting him. I don't think we had many sacks, but every time he threw the ball, he was getting hit."



Boden would end the day shooting 15-of-49 with two interceptions. Dawson recorded a fumble recovery and two pass breakups to compliment his drive-ending pick. Ayi would tally a team-high 10 tackles and hammer Boden for the squad's only actual sack. Samuel would have a statistically quiet seven tackles — quiet to everyone hut the ball carriers.

"[Ayi and Dawson] are both very talented," Samuel said. "I think we all do well together. We compliment each other very well."

Another Saturday at the ballpark for the three UMass linebackers.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN

Khari Samuel, Kole Avi and Matt Dawson have combined to form perhaps the most dominant linebacking set in the nation, leading UMass to a 9-3 record so far.

The Massachusetts
DAILY COLLEGIAN
Volume CIV Issue 61 New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 Friday, December 4, 1998

It's a buggy bug world

A Bug's Life is the second animated movie about insects released in the last few months. Check out our review (see Arts & Living, page 5).

The price is right

Chris Price and the rest of the UMass football team will host Lehigh tomorrow afternoon at 12 p.m. in a Division I-AA quarterfinal matchup (see Sports, page 12).

WORLD

Japan's economy is down another quarter

TOKYO — Japan's economy has sunk deeper into recession, shrinking at an annual-rate of 2.6 percent in the latest quarter to mark a startling four consecutive quarters of contraction.

The latest sign of weakness from Tokyo means other struggling Asian nations will have to wait even longer for Japan, normally the strongest economy in the region, to help pull its neighbors out of an economic slump. Japan's gross domestic product - a measure of all goods and services produced slid 0.7 percent in the three months from July through Sept. compared to the previous quarter, the government reported.

It was the first time the economy has shrunk for four consecutive quarters since the government started compiling growth statistics in 1955, and showed Japan remains mired in its worst recession since World War II.

The Asian economic slowdown is continuing to be felt in the United States. On Tuesday, Boeing Co. announced an additional 20,000 job cuts on top of 28,000 announced earlier partially because of a sharp dropoff in orders from Asia. Boeing, one of the biggest exporters in the United States, said it expects the Asian slowdown to last up to five more years.

NATION

Boeing layoffs may cool Puget Sound economy

SEATTLE — Huge job cuts at Boeing Co. could chill what has been a red-hot economy in the Puget Sound area. However economists don't expect anything like the "Boeing bust" of the early 1970's because the economy is much more diverse.

Dick Conway, who publishes an economic newsletter, said Thursday he expects "a big change in the economy, but no recession." Practically nothing short of a national recession could trigger a regional recession, Conway said.

Boeing plans to shed 48,000 jobs by the end of 2000 from a worldwide work force of about 238,000. It cites declining airplane orders mostly because of declining demand from customers in the hard-hit Asian region.

The job cuts in and around Seattle could blunt price increases in one of the nation's 10 most expensive metropolitan housing markets, said Geoff Wood, president of Windermere Services Co., corporate parent of the region's largest real estate company. But prices probably would not decrease, he said.

"I don't think it's going to hurt our market very much because this is still a very desirable place to live," he said.

One big reason is Microsoft Corp. and the thousands of smaller software businesses that have sprung up around it.

The Washington Software Alliance, a trade group, said there are about 47,000 people working in the software and information technology fields .

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Saturday	Sunday
HIGH: 62 LOW: 37	HIGH: 50 LOW: 33	HIGH: 53 LOW: 40

INSIDE

Arts & Living.....page 5
Classifieds .....page 10
Comics .....page 11
Crossword .....page 11
Editorial .....page 4
FYI.....page 10
News .....page 3
Sports .....page 12

ON THE INTERNET

www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

UMass professors backing a push for post–tenure reviews

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

Massachusetts Society of Professors (MSP) president Jenny Spencer struggled to present tentative Periodic Multi-Year Review (PMYR) committee recommendations to University of Massachusetts faculty yesterday at an informal discussion hosted by MSP and the Faculty Senate.

As Spencer explained, the committee has been mandated "by external pressures" to draft a proposal for Periodic Multi-Year Review, commonly known as post-tenure review. The Massachusetts Board of Higher Education is at the forefront of the push for review.

In a Sept. 21 letter to the Chairman of the UMass Board of Trustees, Robert Karem, Board of Higher Education Chair James Carlin wrote: "We think, or at least hope, we have commitments from the University of Massachusetts to put some real no-nonsense post-tenure review language in its faculty contract...We have been asked by the Governor and the Secretary of Administration and Finance to comment on the University of Massachusetts post-tenure review wording when it is submitted. We are looking forward to doing this."

Carlin also commented on the issue at a Nov. 18 Board of Higher Education meeting, as quoted in the Nov. 19 Collegian.

"We've never suggested abolishing tenure," he said. "[But] all you have to do in Massachusetts is stay around for seven years and have a pulse and you get tenure. It's not a selective process."

Partly in response to such comments and pressure from the Board of Higher Education, Spencer noted, "We need some process to keep the Board of Higher Education at bay."

"Only if the faculty at this campus design [a post-tenure review process] ourself [will we keep] control of our own review process," she added.

She stressed that the primary function of the review would be "professional development," and not a mechanism to dismiss tenured faculty.

"[I would like to] reinforce that this is not an orchestrated witch hunt," she said.

"The larger argument that this is an attack on tenure makes no sense," added Prof. Bruce G. Laurie, Chairman of the History department and PMYR committee member. "We can not dismiss people. We can only make recommendations to the administration."

But many professors disagreed. Robert P. Wolff, a Professor from the W.E.B. DuBois Afro-American Studies department, likened the post tenure review process to the Inquisition.

"We know that in the Inquisition the Church did not actually burn people," he said. "After they found them guilty they turned them over to the state...[The post tenure review process] would simply identify the people for the administration to fire."

Spencer and other committee members tried to convince the faculty that the administration shared similar philosophies about the professional development function of post-tenure review.

"This year the administration is not against us," countered Sociology professor Dan Clawson, "but this policy is likely to endure much longer [and may be used] as a future form of leverage. There has got to be real concern whether we are providing [future] openings."

Spencer also explained that a negative review would translate into "action needed," or, "a recognition that professional development would be useful and important."

"I think frankly that the vast majority of our colleagues should have no concern," said PMYR committee member and Linguistics professor John Kingston. "The defense we have is the quality of the work that we do."

Wolff agreed with Kingston about the quality of teaching at the University. "We're working under the assumption that something is wrong that needs fixing," he said. "[But] in the context of higher education, UMass is a better university than anyone can expect for what they pay."

Some professors, such as Sociology Professor Roland Chilton, believed that the University should simply extend the Annual Faculty Review (AFR) already in place.

"We should build on what we have," he said, "[and] add a summary process to the AFR. Ninety-five percent of the time this would be satisfactory or better. That should be the end of it."

Students sponsor human rights walk

By Julie Fialkow
Collegian Staff

There will be a walk for human rights on Saturday, Dec. 5 from Pulaski Park in Northampton at 11 a.m., to the UMass campus center at 4 p.m.

The walk, sponsored by the five-college chapters of Students for a Free Tibet and Amnesty International, is in celebration of fifty years of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights.

Participants in the walk will walk along the Amherst/Northampton rail--trail; an approximately 10-mile walk. Along the way there will be designated rest stops.

At the conclusion of the day, there will be a reception at the Campus Center with food and music.

In 1948, the UN adopted the declaration which recognized the importance of human rights for all people, around the globe.

Yeshi Chodon, a member of the UMass chapter of Students for a Free Tibet, said it is also important to be aware of places in the world where human rights violations are still taking place, such as Tibet.

According to a press release for the event more than four fifths of the world's people are still regularly denied their civil and political rights.

In a UN publication "For the Record 1997: The UN Human Rights System," Mary Robinson, UN high commissioner for human rights, discusses the theme for the 50th year of human rights declaration.

"The theme for the year is 'All Human Rights for All,' guides many initiatives being undertaken worldwide to raise human rights awareness through education and dissemination of information," Robinson said.

"I welcome these initiatives in the belief that full knowledge of human rights empowers people and indeed is the prerequisite for the enjoyment and effective defense of their basic human rights."

For further information on the "Walk for Human Rights," on Dec. 5th contact Sergio Paluch at (413) 739-0040.

Antonio's 'web–cam' now up and running

ROBERTO DELGADO / COLLEGIAN

The web–cam is posted outside of Antonio's.

By Julie Fialkow
Collegian Staff

Where were you last Thursday night? Possibly you were sharing some pizza with friends quietly in front of Antonio's. Enjoying the late evening Amherst breeze and conversing about your 18th century literature class. Or maybe you were doing other stuff...

Whatever you were doing there— it's on the web! MassLive, a news/entertainment website producer based out of Northampton, has set up a "web cam" facing the sidewalk and benches just outside of Antonio's.

The web-site, originally supposed to begin live video feed on Oct. 2, was delayed due to technical problems. The phone lines involved were not equipped for this kind of use.

Scott Brodeur of MassLive, said the web site has been up for a week and a half now and is getting a lot of positive feedback.

"People are logging on and checking out the site. It's fun to watch people, but it's more fun to watch people having fun," Brodeur said.

"Thursday through Saturday people are having a party out there."

Who is likely to visit the web-site?

"Alumni that are looking for nostalgia like keeping in touch with the town this way. What's going on? Is it snowing there?"

"It's a way for them to peer back on campus even if they're not physically there," he said.

Brodeur also said parents have logged on to the site.

"We've had parents say they've seen their kid on there."

Mom and dad must be so proud...

"People go on doing their business. Some people make funny faces. You'd be surprised with how many people chew with their mouth open," said Brodeur.

Steve Reves, the owner of Antonio's said the camera is an interesting addition to his storefront.

Turn to WEB-CAM, page 3

Hollywood not always on target with FBI operations

By Jason Trenkle
Collegian Staff

The newly released action movie Enemy of the State, about the federal government running amok to track down a political murder witness, suggests there may actually be more that the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) knows about you than you think.

When Smith unknowingly receives classified information on the witness of a murder. the federal government uses all forms of top-secret technology. phone taps, surveillance cameras, and a space satellite capable of locating the coordinates of any individual, and thus tracks Smith down.

What did not hit the big screen was an answer to whether or not the FBI is indeed capable of monitoring the behavior and actions of any person.

"The unique ability of satellites in space are very highly efficient, and they need to be monitored," special agent Jeff Forster for the FBI said. "However, it's highly classified information as to the capability of satellites and even I wouldn't be able to find out if it could monitor people."

The FBI, as Forster explained, usually doesn't have anything more than the normal police officer. In fact, in most cases, to obtain information the FBI needs to go through the Federal Courts to obtain warrants because of legalities concerning privacy.

"We must obtain legal permission to do such things as tap phones or set up surveillance cameras," Forster said.

He said the FBI can only do surveillance or tapping with a warrant. Without one. the University of Massassachusetts, for example, could protect the information on any student sought for questioning by the FBI.

The Privacy Act is not intended to protect criminals however, and the FBI will go to every extent to protect the lives of citizens. When they received a call in the summer of '96 tipping them about a bomb in the Oklahoma Federal Building, Forster and the FBI obtained a list of all postible individuals seen and reported around the area.

"People tip us off beforehand about a possible crime or terrorist act," Forster said. "Other than that, there's absolutely no way we can obtain any information, let alone the social security number of someone."

The FBI tracks suspects only through the evidence at the scene of the crime or through witnesses providing tips.

In one of the scenes from the movie, the FBI goes on a wild goose

Turn to FBI, page 2

ROBERTO DELGADO / COLLEGIAN

Bubblegoose

A young campus visitor and her family relax by the campus pond while a curious swan approaches.

Student dance this Sat. to benefit Amherst charity

Swing dance considered a great chance to socialize and do good

By Elana Premack
Collegian Staff

This year's Hillel/Jewish Student Union semiformal, an event combining fun with fundraising for the second time, will be held this Saturday night.

Tzedakah, or charity, is a root value in the Jewish religion. In an effort to bring Jewish students together to contribute to charity, dance organizer Yael Torbin responded to the surge in popularity of swing dancing and chore the music of the era as the central theme of the dance.

Though the dance will revolve around the music and social interaction, the purpose lies a bit deeper.

"People are going to come for the dance," Torbin said. "It's a big bonus that we're donating the money to charity."

All the money collected from tickets sold for the dance will be donated to the United Jewish Appeal (UJA), an organization which helps Jews throughout the diaspora, and the Amherst Survival Center. Last year, money was donated to the UJA and the American Cancer Society.

Torbin thinks that the charity component of the event is important. The students of Hillel and the Jewish community see this event as a chance to have fun and help out a good cause.

"Groups on campus should do more for the community," Torbin said. "Especially around the holiday season."

But she recognizes the social nature of the dance.

"It's a good end-of-the-semester event," Torbin said.

The dance will be held at the Top of the Campus restaurant in the Campus Center, and will begin at 8 p.m. and run until midnight.

Students from the Five Colleges are invited to the semiformal and Torbin is expecting about 100 people altogether.

Torbin said disc jockey Jon Unger will include all genres of music in his mix. Unger, a University of Massachusetts alumnus, was the d.j. at this year's Falafel Ball in Boston.

Tickets bought in advance with a Hillel Activity Card are $5. Tickets bought at the door with an Activity Card are $7.

Otherwise, tickets are $6 in advance and $8 at the door. Advance tickets are available at TIX in the Student Union.

Everone is welcome!

Police Log

Accident/Pedestrian
Dec. 2
A motor vehicle and bicyclist collided on Kennedy Road. The bicyclist refused treatment at the scene.

Accident/Property Damage
Dec. 2
A two-vehicle accident was reported on Massachusetts Avenue. No injuries were reported.
Dec. 1
A minor two-vehicle accident was reported on Massachusetts Avenue. No injuries were reported.
A two-vehicle accident was reported on Governor's Drive. One individual received a minor injury and refused medical treatment.
A vehicle hit a pole on East Pleasant Street. Amherst Police were notified.

Alarm – Fire
Nov. 30
The malicious activation of a pull station was reported at Moore Hall.

Annoying Behavior
Dec. 2
An unruly passenger was removed from an Escort van on Infirmary Way.
Dec. 1
A Peeping Tom was reported in the women's locker room at Boyden Gym.

B&E/Burglary
Dec. 1
A vehicle was broken into in Lot 22 on University Drive. Approximately 60-70 CDs, a radar detector, clothing and a ring, all valued over $1000, were stolen.
Nov. 30
A vending machine in Leach Hall was broken into. Food, valued over $100, was stolen.
The Bilingual Collegiate Program staff in Wilder Hall reported a computer and monitor, valued at $1000, stolen within the past few days.

Disturbance
Dec. 1
Four individuals were involved in a heated discussion at Gorman Hall.

Larceny
Dec. 2
A front grill was stolen from a vehicle in Lot 22 on University Drive.
A package was stolen from a Cluster Office in Coolidge Hall.
$100 in cash was stolen from a dresser drawer in Coolidge Hall.
A chair, valued at $300, was stolen from the lobby of Coolidge Hall.
Dec. 1
An individual reported his parking decal stolen from Southwest Circle.
Nov. 30
A new laptop computer, valued at $2400, was stolen from Lederle Research.
Unauthorized purchases, valued at $70, were made over the Internet with a credit card at Butterfield Hall.
A suitcase was reported stolen from a bus stop on President's Drive. The property was located at Mt. Holyoke College; the owner retrieved it.

Recovered Stolen Motor Vehicle
Dec. 2
The parking office discovered a stolen motor vehicle in Lot 79. The owner was notified.

Vandalism
Dec. 2
A vehicle was damaged in Lot 33 on University Drive.
Graffiti was reported on a wall near a bathroom shower area in Pierpont Hall. Referred to Housing Staff.

Push for Elizabeth Dole to join GOP ballot in 2000

By Libby Quaid
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Republican admirers of Elizabeth Dole are laying the groundwork to encourage her to run for the GOP presidential nomination in 2000.

Mrs. Dole, president of the American Red Cross and wife of 1996 GOP presidential candidate Bob Dole, has said she would not seek the presidency, but that hasn't quelled speculation about her political future.

Leading the effort to draft Mrs. Dole is a Republican activist, Earl Cox, who also tried to draft Colin Powell for a White House run.

Cox has set up headquarters in a renovated railroad depot in Mrs. Dole's hometown, Salisbury, N.C., and plans to form similar operations in Kansas this month, he said in letters sent recently to state Republican chairmen.

The National Draft Elizabeth Dole 2000 campaign has filed federal candidate paperwork to begin raising funds and has set an official kickoff for Jan. 23 in Salisbury. Organizers plan to present Mrs. Dole with a petition next March urging her to run.

COLLEGIAN GRAPHICS- WE WORK ALL NIGHT LONG JUST FOR YOU!

ROBERTO DELGADO / COLLEGIAN

Lines and angles
An unknown student crosses the campus pond bridge yesterday afternoon.

■ FBI

continued from page 1

chase to catch Smith and in the process causes chaos in the city. As Forster explained, contrary to the movie, FBI agents don't do flying leaps off building tops.

"There's no magic like the Hollywood magic," Forster said. "I usually don't have any more privilege than the normal police officer."

Still, there are many movie critics feeling there's more out there than meets the "FBI." As FBI Supervisory Special Agent Steven Berry said, there are some types of technological equipment and detective methods they just can't talk about.

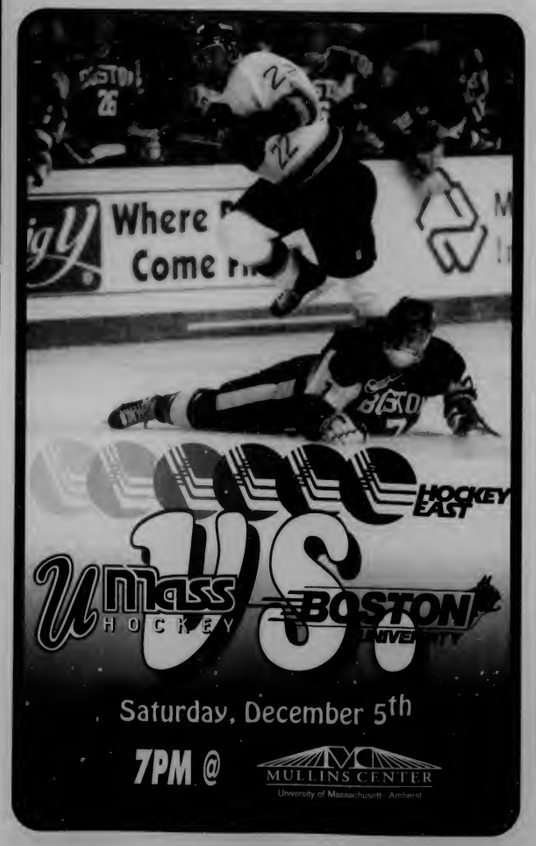
"We use very effective techniques to apprehend criminals," Berry said. "Why would the National Security Agency want to relate that to people; it would decrease security methods."

The last day of Finals is Dec. 23...

GOT GIFTS?

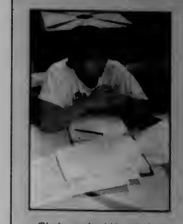
We have thousands.
Don't wait until it's too late...
Buy Now, Play Later!

WE GIVE 100%
University Store
In the UMass Campus Center
Open 9 to 5 M-F, 11 to 4 Sat.
413 - 545 - 2619



BUB'S BAR-B-Q

VOTED BEST BAR-B-Q AND BEST RIBS FOR THE PAST 14 CONSECUTIVE YEARS BY THE ADVOCATE READERS POLL · (413) 548-9630



Campus Perspectives

Compiled by Jason Trenkle • Photos by Roberto Delgado

Do you think the U.S. should take foreign action in bombing Iraq? What is the best resolution?

"Yeah, we should bomb them. Man, they've been too much of a hassle. They're causing too much trouble."

Hung Phan
Senior
Computer Science

"No, because a lot of the innocent people will get killed or injured, but I think they should go after Hussein. He's a lunatic."

Cameron Dominick
Junior
Sociology

"I don't think they should bomb Iraq. It should be the very last resort and I feel this country is too quick to make decisions that may start a war."

Thavma Phillips
Senior
Education

"I think if Iraq is bombed, then definitely Hussein should be taken out of power. His actions warrant extreme measures and I want the fewest people to be harmed."

Caroline Sunshine
Senior
Psychology

"No, I think we should stay out of it unless there's an immediate threat of the U.S. being in danger."

Sarah McGuane
Senior
Marketing

"I don't think we should be in Iraq. We don't have a right to go to other countries to advance our national interests."

Tim Olander
Freshman
Civil Engineering

■ web-cam

continued from page 1

"It's nice — a lot of people are talking about it," he said "people stop and pose and say 'Hi mom,' some just stop and say hi to their friends."

Brudeur said so far, no one has done anything of a lewd nature in front of the camera. He said they aren't prepared for anything like that, but doesn't see it being a problem.

The MassLive website, an off-shoot of the Springfield Union News, includes local and national news, arts and entertainment, PVTA and movie schedules.

The web-cam works based on a wire that connects it to a computer in Antonio's that will be secured inside. A modem will be connected to their phone line to make the connection with the Internet.

MassLive controls the images that go on the page at their office in Northampton.

Viewers of the page can opt to either see an image that is updated every 30 seconds or a streaming video. Also, the images will be archived from 24-hours back, so they can be recalled the next day.

There is also "best of" photo gallery with MassLive staff favorites. Also, viewers of the site can submit their favorites.

The address for MassLive is http://www.masslive.com.

Escaped death row inmate found dead

By Michael Graczyk
Associated Press

HUNTSVILLE, Texas — A death row inmate who cleared two razor-wire-topped fences and escaped into the Thanksgiving night through a hail of bullets was found dead yesterday in a river near the prison, authorities said.

Martin Gurule, 29, was the first man to break out of Texas' death row since a member of the Bonnie and Clyde gang escaped in 1934. Gurule had been the subject of a massive manhunt for a week.

His bloated corpse was discovered at about 5:30 p.m. beneath a Trinity River bridge by two off-duty prison employees who were fishing, said prison spokesman Larry Todd.

Authorities did not immediately say how Gurule died.

Todd said his identity was confirmed by prison clothing he was wearing and facial features. "The body had deteriorated from being under water," he said.

The body was found about a mile east of the prison.

Gurule was among seven condemned killers who tried to break out of the Ellis Unit, 15 miles northeast of Huntsville, late Thanksgiving night.

The other six surrendered as guards in towers opened fire after spotting them, but Gurule managed to get over a pair of 10-foot chainlink fences topped with razor wire and scamper into the fog and darkness.

Tracking dogs lost Gurule's scent on a road near the prison.

Todd said it appeared Gurule had been dead for some time. He was found wrapped in cardboard and had two sets of underwear.

Authorities believe that is how he was able to get over the razor fence without serious injury.

A massive search that focused on the area immediately surrounding the prison had failed to turn up any leads, and authorities on Thursday posted a $5,000 reward for Gurule's capture.

All seven inmates, who used a hacksaw blade to cut a hole in a death row recreation area fence, were part of the nation's only prison work program that uses death row inmates.

The work project, where inmates make cloth goods for the corrections system, has been suspended.

Gov. George W. Bush demanded answers to how Gurule was able to escape.

"I've asked the Texas Rangers to step in," said Bush, who just returned from a Middle East trip.

The Rangers are the investigative arm of the Department of Public Safety. Huntsville prison officials said Gurule may have been helped by the Mexican Mafia prison gang.

Gurule was sentenced to death for shooting Minas "Mike" Piperis during a 1992 robbery at a Corpus Christi restaurant. In Jan. 1934, Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow broke into nearby Eastman Prison with guns blazing. They shot and killed two guards and freed Barrow's cousin Raymond Hamilton, who was serving a 263-year sentence.

Irish peace talks take a turn for the worse

By Shawn Pogatchnik
Associated Press

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Northern Ireland's major Protestant and Catholic parties clashed yesterday, hours after apparently agreeing on the next steps toward making April's peace agreement a reality.

Rival wings of Irish Catholic opinion, the moderate Social Democratic and Labor Party and militant Sinn Fein, accused the British Protestant party, the Ulster Unionists, of retreating from commitments made early yesterday in negotiations overseen by British Prime Minister Tony Blair.

The prime minister's spokesman, Alastair Campbell, said Blair was "disappointed that the parties had not been able to build on the progress made last night and that a number of different interpretations had arisen."

0
www.bose.com

We've created a whole new sound experience for your college years. And you'll only find it at wow.bose.com/w2305

BOSE
Better sound through research.

© 1998 Bose Corporation

— The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian —

Shot in the foot

Oh please. Can we just get on with things? Republicans in the House and Senate are still trying to censure or impeach Clinton for...do I even have to say it? Hearings began this week, and the media has been oddly quiet, at least compared to the slobbering pack of rabid dogs they were back in September.

For those of us who can't quite bring ourselves to hop in the sack with the Democrats (figuratively speaking, of course) but take immense pleasure in seeing Newt Gingrich fall on his bloated ass, the outcome of the Clinton affair has been immensely satisfying. I knew when the whole thing started that a) the average American thinks the President is a lying pervert to begin with and b) they don't care because everyone's making money.

> "Maybe Clinton should have taken a few lessons from his predecessors on how to silence potential witnesses and cover his tracks."
>
> Paul Martinez

The Republicans shot themselves in the foot on this one, ironically because they have lost touch with the very people they claim to be the champions of. By dragging the President kicking and screaming into testifying about his booty calls, Ken Starr put the nail in the coffin of the Republican party for years to come. Does anyone honestly think the next presidential election is going to be anything but a Democratic beat-down of a whimpering Republican party? Even my parents — lifelong GOPers — have left the party in disgust.

What really gets me about the whole affair is the way the Republicans have acted as if they are the angels of the Beltway. The reality is that they are masters of scandal and deceit; most Republican presidents have skeletons in their closets that make Bill Clinton look like a rank amateur. Imagine, if you will, a conversation among our recent presidents:

Clinton: "Well, I had sex with an intern. A lot of sex with an intern."

LBJ: "I stood over JFK's casket on Air Force One and laughed. Jackie caught me, but who the hell's going to believe her anyway? Oh, and I got us further embroiled in an undeclared war that killed 55,000 U.S. soldiers and millions of Vietnamese citizens to support the military– industrial complex."

Nixon: "Hey, me too — and I destroyed America's faith in her leaders by sending my lackeys to play James Bond in the Watergate. And thanks to me, every government scandal since has had that annoying "gate" suffix."

Ford: "Don't forget, Dick — I'm the guy who pardoned you!"

Nixon: "Thanks Jerry. Now lick my shoes."

Carter: "Uh...I farmed peanuts?"

Reagan: "I started wars in Central America and illegally sold arms to Iran, despite the fact that they had only recently released United States hostages whom they had held for more than two years. Then I lied to Congress about it and blamed it all on one guy. Thank God I got Alzheimer's or I'd be in jail right now."

George Bush chimes in: "I helped on that one! Being the director of the CIA really helped, too. Oh, and I bombed the hell out of Iraq so that we could have cheap oil." He laughs and slaps his leg. "And the best part is I made everyone believe it was a war for freedom!"

Clinton: "I had sex with an intern. Did I mention it was kinky?"

Does this even compare to the crimes our recent (and mostly Republican) presidents have visited on us? Even worse, the Republican party has a way of making us forget about their crimes, as horrific as some of them have been. Bush sucked us into the Gulf War by cutting us off from the reality of it; Iran-Contra was covered up in a way that would have made Machiavelli blush.

Maybe Clinton should have taken a few lessons from his predecessors on how to silence potential witnesses and cover his tracks. For someone who is supposed to be so adept at lying, he isn't very good at it. I mean, even the most dedicated Democrat knows the man is lying when it comes to his penis and its recent whereabouts.

This, in fact, was the central problem with the Starr investigation. Everyone already knew Clinton was lying when he denied having sex with anybody. Let's face it: the man is almost pathologically horny and is none too picky about his targets. Nobody cared when he finally admitted to "sexual impropriety." Even those who rallied against him seemed to be trying to convince themselves that the whole affair was as big a deal as they made it out to be.

The Republicans thought they could pull the wool over the eyes of the American people again with the Clinton affair, as they have so many times in the last 35 years. This time though, we refused to be fooled by a hypocritical and politically motivated witch hunt. Or maybe we didn't care because there are enough jobs and we can afford new Range Rovers.

There's a lesson here: sex may make good copy, but no one is going to support impeaching a president because he got frisky with a willing adult. At least I can have the immense satisfaction of watching the bloated carcass of the Republican political machine be harpooned over the next two years leading up to the next presidential elections. Even now, they're foundering, trying vainly for one last shot at Clinton. Their own short–sightedness and greed has finally brought them what they have deserved for years.

Paul Martinez is a Collegian columnist.

That time of year

Often the end of the year or the end of the season is an emotionally intense time for students and family. Many events may be occurring simultaneously, and the end of the semester brings with it the pressure to finish many things. There is concern with grades and the intense stress associated with study. There is anxiety about the future for seniors and those in graduate school. This is also the case for first semester students who are wondering if indeed they have what it takes to make it in a demanding academic environment.

For others many family pressures arise. There are anticipated family meetings with the potential for stirring up old, unresolved conflicts with family and siblings. Sometimes these can be sad and mixed with reminders of past family situations. These "reunions" are all the more intense because one is psychologically trying to establish one's own separate identity in the world and experience real autonomy for the first time. Thus, there are dreaded visits, where old guilts and pressures are brought up. These situations can lead to various kinds of pressures which become family– and individually–oriented crises around the holidays and anniversaries.

> "Thus, there are dreaded visits, where old guilts and pressures are brought up."
>
> Edward Bruce Bynum

Family life is a critical and important aspect of everyone's life. Indeed, it is the bedrock of our primary emotional and psychological relationships. When there is a disruption or a stress in one of these primary relationship configurations, we respond generally with a personal crisis. Crisis, of course, is both a sign of danger and an opportunity for emotional and even spiritual growth.

These individual and family re–engagements can create crises around the holidays which can express themselves in a number of ways. One of the more common ways is an increase in anxieties, especially with one's roommate. There may be increased frustration and short–temperedness with other people. One of the more subtle changes is a perception that time is shorter and more contracted. Sometimes with this crisis there is an increased concern about somatic and physical problems. These may have been dormant throughout the year but suddenly take on a greater urgency.

For some individuals there is a reactive depression. This can lead to decreased concentration, more difficulties with sleep or sleeplessness, and an increase in pervasive anxiety. This means that the anxiety is not necessarily associated with a specific person or situation but rather with the mode or the general atmosphere of one's life at that time. It should be noted that this is not the same as grief, mourning and bereavement. Rather it is the anticipation and the anxiety and the depression which may come as a result of this.

It is important to notice this in yourself. Generally these situations are more intense than in high school. In high school one may have been at the top of the class and perhaps studying came easily. In a more demanding academic and athletic environment, older skills may not shine as easily as they did in the past.

In most cases these holiday and anniversary stimulated family crises pass with the holidays, which is quite normal. It is not an indication of pathology or the need for counseling or psychotherapy. At the end of the year most of it ends and the person returns to school or home for the summer. However, when situations are persistent, when depression is something that doesn't seem to be shaken easily, when an anxiety begins to disrupt concentration and the flow of work, then it is indeed time to go beyond talking with friends and associates, and seek out at least a brief professional consultation.

Edward Bruce Bynum, Ph.D., is the Director of Behavioral Medicine at University Health Services.

You're not funny

While I hesitate to use the awesome power of The Massachusetts Daily Collegian to single out a certain segment of the population and attack them, I feel that I must. For too long I have watched this group of people plague the rest of humanity. I must speak out.

Unfunny people, the bell tolls for thee.

To clarify, I'm not talking about humorless people, those who have no interest in hearing or telling jokes. Humorless people are content to shuffle through their bleak, gray lives without bothering those around them, and I respect their choice.

No, I'm talking about the person who really enjoys to laugh and yearns to share their joy with the rest of the world.

That in itself is commendable. Nothing could be better for the world than more laughter. But problems start to crop with the ineptitude of some of these joy–spreaders. You see, these people are sort of like malfunctioning humor radios. They can receive just fine, but when they attempt to send, all the rest of us get is blaring, garbled static.

We all know people like this. We've all been forced to listen to their pointless and going–nowhere stories until they collapse into helpless laughter while everyone else tries to muster up a polite smile.

Curse that polite smile! Wouldn't it cut down our overall stress level if it were socially acceptable to smack these people right in their giggling mouths? Then, when they looked at you with hurt and confusion in their eyes, you could shake your finger in their face as if they were a puppy that wasn't housebroken: "Not funny! Not funny!"

> "Wouldn't it cut down our overall stress level if it were socially acceptable to smack these people right in their giggling mouths?"
>
> Mark Shea

Now, maybe you're sitting back, perusing this article and saying, "Damn straight! I hate those unfunny bastards! 'Bout time someone said something."

But you just hold on a minute. Remember, my wonderful face–smacking solution has yet to gain widespread acceptance. It is possible — but unlikely — that you are actually no funnier than a hernia yourself. Perhaps you were so convulsed with laughter at what you perceived to be your own hilarity that you missed the strained, brittle smiles of those around you.

In case you have any worries along these lines, I have thoughtfully provided a quick and simple quiz to allay your fears:

1. A typical ending for one of you fabulously entertaining stories would be:

A) "...and so I said to the cop, 'That hooker was dead when I found her, and I've never seen that donkey before in my life.'"

B) "...after all that, the hardest part was getting the mayonnaise out of the VCR!"

C)"...oh...um...well I guess you had to be there. But it was funny at the time, I swear!"

2. Your snappy comebacks result in:

A) The recipient of said snappy comeback having a complete nervous breakdown from being so completely "zinged" and moving to Yemen to escape the shame.

B) You finding yourself in a no–holds–barred struggle of 1–know–you–are–but–what–am–I?

C) Everyone furrowing their brows in confusion since your blithering made absolutely no sense.

3. When you tell a joke, people laugh like:

A) They're watching a Chris Farley movie.

B) They're watching Chris Farley on Saturday Night Live.

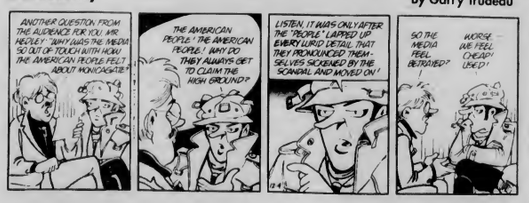
C)They're watching Chris Farley now.

Well, you're done. Award yourself two points for every "a," one point for every "b," and hit yourself in the head with a shovel for every "c." If you're still conscious, congratulations! You're funny.

I don't mean to be harsh, but this is a problem that has to be solved. Being unfunny is like having chronic halitosis or body odor: if no one ever mentions it to you, you'll never know something is wrong. So the next time someone tells what you can only assume they meant to be a joke, smile politely and nod encouragingly. Then, when they let their guard down, smack 'em.

Mark Shea is a UMass student.



Editor's note: The poem that ran in the Letters–to–the– Editor section on Monday, November 30, 1998 was for David Kinsey.

We encourage our readers to respond to the contents of the Collegian through letters to the editor. But please remember:

- Letters must be typed and signed.
- No more* than 400 words long
- They must include name, address, and phone number for confirmation purposes.
- The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters for length, clarity, and style.

They can be submitted by mail to Ed/Op Editor, Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, UMass, Amherst MA 01003; by email to our new account at: letters@oitunix.oit.umass.edu; or by fax to (413) 545–1592.

Doonesbury By Garry Trudeau

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545-3500 • Fax (413) 545-1592 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor–in–Chief Position Vacant Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Laura Forster Developing Nations Editor
Mike Messaros Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Co-Jewish Affairs Editor

Morgan Tobor Co-Jewish Affairs Editor
Heather Lei Guzzetta Multicultural Affairs Editor
Jill Carroll News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Sports Editor
Allana E. Todman Women's Issues Editor

Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Danie Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Prestes Distribution Manager
Feisal Ahmad Marketing Manager

Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life, became the College Signal in 1901, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri–Weekly Collegian in 1956. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1994. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Newest insect epic A Bug's Life kicks Antz

COURTESY DISNEY ENTERPRISES, INC. / PIXAR ANIMATION STUDIOS

In this scene from A Bug's Life, the great new animated feature, Flik and the gang enjoy a feast of seeds and dewdrops.

By Rob Roensch
Collegian Staff

A BUG'S LIFE
Directed by John Lasseter with David Foley, Kevin Spacey, and Denis Leary
Playing at Hampshire Mall Cinemas

A Bug's Life is the Gone With the Wind of animated insect epics. It towers over Antz, its predecessor, which featured a more adult world than a typical animated cartoon, complete with a neurotic ant voiced by Woody Allen. A Bug's Life does not have the quasi–hipness of Antz, but who cares? All the clever, cynical jokes in Antz can't hold a candle to the soaring, astonishing animation bursting out of every frame of A Bug's Life.

The animation is done by Pixar, the same group that brought us the ground–breaking Toy Story. In general, the animation in A Bug's Life is convincing and full of rich textures, less plastic than it was in the earlier movie. It's the animation that makes the movie truly great. This movie is worth watching even if there is no sound in the theater. In particular, the animators do some amazing things by changing light conditions, including several scenes set in a dusky, shadowy, orange sunset.

The movie's visuals are its strongest points, but the surrounding elements are also well thought out. Thankfully, the movie avoids the urge of most animated movies these days to include screechy, melodramatic songs that heighten emotions to Celine–Dion–in–a–speeding–fire truck proportions. The music, by Randy Newman, is gentle and restrained.

Likewise, the story itself is straight–forward and unfussy, following the adventures of Flik, a young ant with a racing imagination voiced with a refreshing lack of over– earnestness by "Newsradio"'s David Foley. Flik's colony is dominated by the grasshoppers, a thuggish species of insect who bully other insects into collecting food for them. Their leader, Hopper, is voiced by the wonderfully deadpan Kevin Spacey. Flik sets out to find warriors to fight off the invaders, but he accidentally brings back a band of circus insects, including Denis Leary as a male ladybug. The grasshoppers arrive to claim their food and a great battle ensues.

The story seems ordinary, but it's not. The story is told with much more patience and attention to detail than in the typical animated adventure, or for that matter, in the typical live action adventure. We don't just see the bugs in situations of constant crisis, we are allowed to visit with them in less intense situations. We share in their work and their celebrations. The ant's home, Ant Island, is carefully observed and actually has the warmth of a home. You can understand why the ants want to live there. We even get to witness the grasshoppers outside of the field of battle. The ants and the grasshoppers aren't just cook–ie–cutter cartoon figures fighting, they are imaginative characters.

The calm, anti–sugary storytelling is much more similar in tone to works of children's literature like Watership Down than it is to anything recently released by Disney. In some ways, Disney movies are all the same: the same attitudes toward heroism and friendship, the same wisecracking sidekick, the same sort of songs. A Bug's Life is different. There's nothing formulaic or contrived about it. A Bug's Life is a unique movie about a unique world.

Some critics say that adults will like the attitude–heavy Antz better than the non–cynical A Bug's Life. Avoiding a beautifully put together movie like A Bug's Life simply because it has been marketed to kids is just plain silly. Adults and children both will love A Bug's Life, not because it is self–aware and full of pop–culture references, not because the bugs are cute, but because it is a good story told unpretentiously.

As if that wasn't enough, the "outtakes" in the end credits are probably the funniest thing in any movie so far this year. A

Do you like jazz or blues?

THE ARTS & LIVING DESK IS CURRENTLY LOOKING FOR A WRITER TO CONTINUE A JAZZ/BLUES WEEKLY COLUMN NEXT SEMESTER. WEEKLY IN THURSDAY'S PAPER. EXPERIENCE NECESSARY.

WE ARE ALSO LOOKING FOR A COLUMN IDEAS FOR NEXT SEMESTER. WRITERS TO COVER MUSIC, AND MORE.

FOR MORE INFORMATION, COME DOWN TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICES (OR CALL 545-1361) AND ASK FOR BRYAN OR KEVIN.

New York songwriter Heaton to hit Noho

By Matthew Nixon and Kevin Monahan
Collegian Staff

Fire and Water cafe in Northampton will showcase a wealth of talent tonight as New York based singer/songwriter Anne Heaton brings her melodic tunes to the Valley.

Anne O'Meara Heaton is a piano player. She began playing piano classically at age three and over the years has developed a distinct style that incorporates a variety of vocal influences. She has made quite a name for herself by performing her songs all over Chicago and New York City. Her excursion to Northampton is a much welcomed visit to an area that embraces the intimate feel of live, coffee–haus performed music.

Experience gained from singing in rock bands and playing piano in Latin and jazz bands has come together on her first independently released compact disc, Spoke From the Heart.

The album's first track "Like You Cared" is a wonderful vocal and piano piece. Her voice dips and swoops alongside the upbeat sounds of the piano. Her style on this and several songs is evocative of material by Tori Amos.

Her songs are intensely personal sto–

Turn to HEATON, page 6

Read Collegain Arts- Everyday!

The only thing better than an iMac: An iMac for less than $29.99/mo.

Apple® Computer couldn't make iMac™ any easier to set up or use. So they made it easier to buy. Now, if you're a student, you can get an iMac for less than $29.99 per month* with the first payment not due for 120 days. For about what you'd spend on a few pizzas, you can have a super-fast computer that can get you onto the internet in 10 minutes right out of the box. You also get a coupon book worth $2,000 in possible additional savings, for software, games and accessories. Come try an iMac for yourself at

Computers E.T.C. | University Store — In the UMass Campus Center 9 to 5 Mon. – Fri. 11 to 4 Saturday 413-545-2018

http://www.apple.com/education/store

Authorized Reseller

© 1998 Apple Computer, Inc. All rights reserved. Apple and the Apple logo are registered trademarks and iMac is a trademark of Apple Computer, Inc. *36 equal payments of $29.99 based on a 9.9% (variable) annual percentage rate (APR) consisting of minimum lender's suggested retail price of $1,161.96 (not including all taxes, shipping, and UV fees) plus a one-time origination fee of $19.95. First payment is due the approximately 120 days after loan disbursement. The 36 equal, variable rate payments are based on the prime rate published in The Wall Street Journal on the first business day of each 30-month plan (9.9% Jan. 1, as of November 1, 1998 the rate is 11.0%–19.0%). Prime rate plus 7.9% (11.7%–18.9% APR) minimum payment applies to purchases and changes to the loan's credit limit effective the fifth business day of each calendar month and will affect the dollar amount of your monthly payments. Each loan subject to credit approval. No down payment required. No prepayment penalty.

Work During Break

$$Earn Money$$

$400 - $600 PER WEEK
$7.50+PER HR with OVERTIME AVAILABLE
JOIN OUR TEAM TAKING INVENTORY IN YOUR HOMETOWN AREA DAYS AND NIGHTS

RGIS Inventory Specialists

Visit our website rgisinv.com
OR CALL TODAY & SET UP AN INTERVIEW
24 hour job line — 1-888-241-RGIS
BOSTON 617-484-1788 PLYMOUTH 508-833-1145
SOUTH OF BOSTON 508-821-5891 ROUTE 3 SOUTH 781-340-6355
SEA COAST AND NORTH OF BOSTON 603-926-9813
Come visit us on the concourse 12/1, 12/8, 12/9, 12/15
EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

ATTENTION STUDENTS!

UMass VS. LEHIGH

SATURDAY DECEMBER 5
AT 12:00 PM

FIRST 1,000 TICKETS ARE FREE COURTESY OF "YOUR UMASS ALUMNI ASSOCIATION & THE NEXT 500 ARE COURTESY OF COCA-COLA--SO PICK YOUR TIX UP EARLY!!

Tickets:
• $12 Adult Reserved •
• $10 Adult General Admission •
• $5 Child/Student General Admission •

Tickets available at Athletic Ticket Office @ Curry Hicks Cage
(413) 545-0810

Doherty matures as witch

By Frazier Moore
AP Writer

Jeer at her bad-girl image, and savor recollections of the stories that advanced it: those press accounts of tantrums and boozing and a marriage-for-a-moment to, of all people, George Hamilton's son. Then scoff, if you must, at her return to series TV four years after ditching the gang at West Beverly Hills High. For she came back this fall in a hocus-pocus frolic called "Charmed." Here is Shannen Doherty, at age 27 a little older and a lot wiser. "Yeah, right," you may be thinking.

Meanwhile, here are two other things to consider. One: With her return, Doherty is once again TV's most beautiful presence. Those regal cheekbones! That saucy overbite! The soulful eyes, set at a blessed bias on that fabulously asymmetric face! Of all TV's lovelies, surely she's the fairest of them all.

Two: Doherty, who was acting professionally when she was 10 and a regular in two series prior to "90210," remains undiscovered. Certain TV films she made in recent years reveal acting chops no one is quite ready to acknowledge. Yet Doherty could be just one meaty role away from something she has never been accorded as an actress: respect.

"Charmed" won't gain her that stature, of course. But as one of three comely sisters who learn they are witches, Doherty gets to play a responsible career woman stuck with an unsought sideline — righting wrongs with the magical powers she would just as soon not have.

Doherty-as-good-witch, then, reflects an image makeover of mammoth proportions, and she's fun to watch working her magic.

"Charmed," which also stars Holly Marie Combs and Alyssa Milano, airs on the WB network Wednesdays at 9 p.m. EST.

"The story line was adorable, and I had never done anything that involved special effects," says Doherty, listing reasons she signed on. Plus her new show would be on the WB, a network with cheek not unlike Fox back in 1990, where her fortunes soared on a teen soap named for a zip code. Besides, Doherty was ready to work again.

Butterfield Hall to host two rockin' concerts this weekend

COURTESY TRUE BLUE MANAGEMENT

Rockers Electric Blue and the Kozmik Truth play Butterfield dorm this weekend.

Butterfield residence hall has always been a fun venue for live music, and this weekend should be no exception. Tonight at Butterfield, The Gordon Stone band will bring their jazz/bluegrass stylings and tomorrow night Electric Blue and the Kosmik Truth will deliver their own brand of psychedelic blues.

The Gordon Stone Band (formerly known as the "Gordon Stone Trio") formed in 1995 with Stacy Starkweather and Jamie Masefield playing along side Gordon Stone. Today the band consists of four members: Stone (banjo, guitar), Josh Stacy (guitar), Andy Cotton (bass), and Russ Lawton (drums). Stone has made quite a name for himself in the "groove rock" scene, and has worked in the studio with fellow Burlington, VT natives Strangefolk and Phish.

Electric Blue and the Kosmik Truth are known for their live performances in Western Massachusetts and New York. Their blues-based rock and improvisational jams have generated a large following since their birth in 1996. Lead vocalist Callie Katsounakis has been hailed for bringing her powerful, fresh voice to a genre of music dominated by male singers. Their first album entitled La Raza Cosmica was released earlier this year.

With a few bands performing tonight and tomorrow, it looks like a good weekend for live music at "da Field."

The Gordon Stone Band will be playing at Butterfield basement tonight at 8 p.m. and Electric Blue and the Kosmik Truth will be playing tomorrow night at Butterfield at 8 p.m. Tickets are $5 at the door.

— Kevin Monahan

■ Heaton

continued from page 5

ries "Sting of Mortality" is a song about the suicide of a loved one inspired by the poetry wall of St. John The Divine Cathedral in New York City. Some songs utilize guitar and percussion. The album incorporates jazz and pop to Heaton's Celtic style folk rock.

Spoke From the Heart is available through her website: http://anneheaton.mindspring.com, or through mail order at Spill Records — P.O. Box 250508 Columbia University Station, New York, NY 10025.

With her quiet, yet powerful voice and her soft, honest songs, Heaton is a talent worth checking out. The intimate Fire and Water in Northampton is the ideal place to see Heaton tinkle the ivories with Frank Marotta, Jr. on guitar.

Anne O'Meara Heaton will be playing at Fire & Water cafe in Northampton tonight at 8:30 pm. There is no cover charge. For more information call (413) 586-8336.

NiGht Graphics

Collegain night graphics department is now accepting positions for spring '99.

Anyone with expirence with QuarkeXPress or Adobe Pagemaker should come down to the Campus Center Basement room 113 and fill out an application.

If you have any questions please call 545-1864 and ask for Joe or Dave

Amherst 256-8911 DOMINO'S PIZZA

Drivers Wanted Pay $8 to $15 Per Hour

Open till 4am

4.99 Medium Cheese Pizza Topping 99¢ expires 12/15/98

6.99 Large Cheese Pizza Topping $1.35 expires 12/15/98

8.99 Ex-Large Cheese Pizza Topping $1.75 expires 12/15/98

Some People Want to Change the World!

We Just Want to Change Your Oil!

Scott HAMILTON Tara LIPINSKI Kristi YAMAGUCHI Tara KULIK

DISCOVER STARS on ICE

presented by SMUCKER'S

1998-99 TOUR

Director & Co-Produced by SANDRA BEZIC

Co-Directed by MICHAEL SEIBERT

www.starsonice.com

Ekaterina GORDEEVA

Elena Oksana BECHKE & PETROV

Ilia CHEN

Jenni Todd MENO & SAND

Rosalyn SUMNERS

Renee Ouesha ROCA & SUR

Mercer COUSINS

March 3 • 7:30 p.m. MULLINS CENTER

Tickets: $50.00*, $38.00 and $28.00 at the Mullins Center box office and Ticketmaster* locations, including Filene's, Main Music Shop and Bliss Pharmacy. *Subject to availability. *Convenience fee applicable

Phone Charge: 413/733-2500. Group Information (20 or more): 413/545-3134

Purchase tickets with your Discover Card and $2 per ticket will be donated to the Make A Wish Foundation of Western and Central Massachusetts.

JAMAICA

ONE LOVE. ONE HEART. ONE GREAT PARTY!!!

IT'S THAT TIME OF YEAR WHEN THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS COME TO JAMAICA TO FEEL ALL RIGHT - FOR AN UNBELIEVABLE PRICE!!!

PACKAGE INCLUDES:
- Round-Trip Airfare
- 7 Nights Hotel Accommodations
- Free Welcome, Beach & Evening Parties
- Free Admission to Night Clubs
- Packages available to Negril and Montego Bay
- Round-Trip Airport & Hotel Transfers
- Discounts on Restaurants, Water Sports & Side Excursions
- Professional On-Site Tour Reps
- Complete Weekly Activities Program Offering Optional Sunset Cruise, Disco Cruise, Toga Party & More!
- Free Bonus Party Pack

SAVE $50 BOOK BEFORE NOVEMBER 30TH!

Sun Splash Tours 1 800-426-7710

Student Travel Services 1 800-648-4849

Price is per person based on quad occupancy, from select departure cities. Other cities may qualify for reduction or require surcharge. US and Jamaica departure taxes (currently $50) and $9 handling charge additional. Rates increase $30 on 12/15/98. Peak-week surcharges/off-week discounts may apply. Restrictions and cancellation penalties apply. Limited availability. Subject to change without notice. Call for full details on hotel selection and availability.

All Weekend.

AT&T Announces 5¢ Weekends.

Call anytime in the U.S. for only a nickel. Plus, get AT&T Call Organizer™ Service free and 100 FREE minutes.*

Live off campus? Stay in touch for the lowest price around. Talk 5¢ a minute all weekend long on all your direct-dialed state-to-state long distance calls from home. Weekdays are only 10¢ a minute on all your direct-dialed state-to-state long distance calls from home. It's for a low $4.95 monthly fee. 100 FREE minutes

AT&T Call Organizer Service. Forget doing the math on your phone bill. With our free AT&T Call Organizer Service, we divvy up and tally it based on who made the calls. Which means no more splitting headaches. You and your roommates will love how AT&T makes your life easier.

Sign up by 12/31/98 and get 100 FREE minutes.*
Visit www.att.com/college
Or call 1 800 654 0471 and mention offer code 66114.

It's all within your reach.® AT&T

*Subject to terms and conditions apply. Terms and conditions apply. Rates® Off-Peak Plan: These plans are subject to billing availability. Limited-time offer. Offer ends 12/31/98. Call AT&T for details. Taxes and a nominal connectivity charge apply. AT&T: You Have The Right To Know.®

Men's track team off to Boston for opener

By Matthew Despres
Collegian Staff

Among the toughest competitors on campus, the University of Massachusetts men's indoor track team epitomizes the word "athlete." Their sport of choice requires the ability to handle tough competition and multiple events, all while maintaining an extraordinary balance of mental and physical strength.

With all of this pressure they need someone to help show them the way, and that someone is head coach Ken O'Brien. Fresh off the cross country season, O'Brien is ready to get the new campaign moving when he leads the Minutemen to Boston University tomorrow to take on the Terriers, as well as Yale, the University of New Hampshire and Providence.

O'Brien says this meet is more of a stepping stone than anything, a chance to gauge the level his team is currently at.

"This is our first chance to look at the team, to see where we stand," O'Brien said. "We can look at the returning members to see how they have come along, and also see where the newcomers stand."

While O'Brien's cross country team focused on one thing, running, his track squad has a considerably different challenge ahead of them. Events include the triple jump, high jump, pole vault and a variety of distance and throwing events. Cross country vets will tackle the middle and longer distance races, while the rest of the squad will zero in on the more individualized events. O'Brien realizes the value of experience in these situations.

"We can count on the top returning men, because they have been there. This year's team has a pretty even distribution of veterans and top young runners, and they have all trained hard. Right off the bat there should be no delay for us to get going."

To help UMass get off to that good start will be a few key members of the team. Ben Baraldi can be counted on as a top returning veteran, one whose success in the past includes being named the New England champion in the high hurdles event. Other names to look for include quarter miler Mark Sylvander and jumper Alvi Vazquez.

However, those who know O'Brien realize that he will not rely on certain people to get the victory, but rather the concept of teamwork, especially when the competition may not.

"BU has some strong individual competitors, but they lack the depth we have to cover all of the events," O'Brien said. "I think we can go in there and finish first, with Yale and UNH competing strongly for second and third. Like I said, it's a good chance to analyze where we stand, and make the necessary adjustments as needed."

UMass women's swimming heads to Harvard

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

After a long layoff the Massachusetts women's swimming squad is set to take their 5-0 dual-meet record into the pool this weekend at the Harvard Invitational in Cambridge.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS
Julie Alexander

The Minutewomen are coming off a recent victory over St. John's in Jamaica, N.Y. on Nov. 21, 157-90.

The Minutewomen take their recent found success to Harvard this weekend where they will face New Hampshire, Northeastern, Central Connecticut and Harvard. They have beaten all these teams in dual meets except for Harvard.

"We wanted to be well rested, which gives us a chance to race against Harvard really fast, and try to swim our best," Julie Alexander said. "I think UNH will really try to come after us."

Coach Bob Newcomb is counting on his depth to help the Minutewomen succeed. The Minutewomen are deep in every race and at the diving board.

Of all the stars this team, freshman Anne Dentloff's shines the brightest. The Barrington, Ill. native leads the team in the 50 free [25.04], 100 free [53.81], 200 free [1:56..78], 500 free [5:09.67] and the 1000 free [10:53.13]. Dentloff is also second on the team in the 100 backstroke and third in the 200 backstroke. She is also a member of both the 200 free and 400 free relays.

When talking about the depth that exists, the name Elizabeth Risotto comes up. She is number one on the team in both the 100 backstroke [59.11] and the 200 backstroke [2:06.32].

Julie Dragon is also a big part of the equation for UMass. She is number one on the team in the 100 breast [1:09.29], and number two in both the 50 and 100 free, as well as being a member of both the 200 and 400 IM relays.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS
Amy Mullen

Andrea Kazanjian has been clutch in the relays, she is a member of all four of the Minutewomen's relay teams. She is also number one in the 100 butterfly [59.41].

Second year swimmer Sarah Newell, as well as Rebecca Hunnewell, have been the true meaning of the word "depth." They both clinch several seconds and thirds in almost every race for UMass between the two of them, which racks up the points.

The Minutewomen also look to their young diving squad for points. The three-person team of Kim Schadt, Robin Velona and Signe Dahlquist have been splitting the points for the Minutewomen in the two diving events. When one struggles, the others pick it up.

"Depth is important to this team, especially this year. We have a lot of women who can swim a lot of different races. We do not have to many standouts, we have a lot of great swimmers [who consistently finish strong]," Alexander said.

■ women

continued from page 12

the runners-up in last year's Big Apple Classic. They lost in the championship game to powerhouse Tennessee. Manhattan is also under the leadership of a new head coach in Sal Buscaglia. Returning from last year's 13-18 squad is All Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference Second Team pick Meredith Morse. Morse, who was named to last year's Big Apple Classic All-Tournament Team, is a junior center who averaged 11.5 points per game last year.

Colgate [2-4] is another struggling team who is looking for their first winning record in 12 seasons. Tri-captains Kristin Donahoe, Megan Gibbons and Kelty Weeks lead the way for the Red Raiders.

Gibbons, a senior forward from Northfield, Mass. is averaging a team-high 10.8 points as well as a team-high 7.7 rebounds.

UM women's track to start season Sat.

By Bryan Smith
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts women's indoor track and field team will open up their 1998-99 campaign this Saturday at the Brown Invitational, a meet entitled for its host school, Brown University.

UMass hopes to finish strong in this meet due to a shortened season, with the NCAA's being moved up from the end to the middle of February. Because of this, the season is lacking two weeks of preparation for its competitors, which gives them shortened qualifying time for the Atlantic 10, New England, and ECAC meets.

The Minutewomen will be without several members of its team due to injury, but will still put forward competitors in all events.

"We do not specialize in events like other schools do. We try to maintain a competitive team rather than be just one event program," said Massachusetts women's indoor track and field coach Julie LaFreniere. LaFreniere also coaches the UMass women's cross country team which won the A-10 title this past fall.

With the distance runners coming off their season, they would usually sit this meet out. But with the season being so short, they do not have as many chances to qualify for the big meets.

LaFreniere dislikes the fact that this meet is not going to be scored, citing that "all athletic competitions should be scored."

Even though the meet will not be scored, it still counts as a qualifying meet. This presents a problem because there are some athletes who will qualify without any problem, while others will have to work really hard to find themselves a spot in the bigger meets. A lot of teams will opt not to run their distance runners because the meet is not being scored. LaFreniere feels it is necessary to run, rather than rest, her distance runners because of the calendar change this year.

On a more positive note, the UMass coach thinks that UMass will do well this season.

"The team doesn't have any big gaps," she said. "This weekends meet allows for the competitors to concentrate on qualifying in one event, even though when it comes time for the big meets they may have qualified in more than one."

The short distance runners and field competitors are fresh. They are coming off two months of training, and are dripping at the mouth for a chance to compete. They are hungry to qualify early, which would allow them to concentrate on excelling and qualifying in other events. The pole vault is in its second year as an event and is making its Minutewomen debut on Saturday with four competitors.

Even without some of its top athletes, LaFreniere thinks that UMass will have a strong showing in the meet and put a solid start on the season ahead.

■ football

continued from page 12

12-6 points per game, while getting 33 points themselves.

In the second half alone, Lehigh has outscored their opponents 158-58.

"It's pretty easy to see why they're 12-0," Whipple said. "They've got all the things you need to win. We have a gameplan and just have to go out and execute."

The only other time a Lehigh squad has won 12 games was in 1977, when the Mountain Hawks went on to win the Division II National Championship.

The showdown could come down to the quarterbacks, Bankhead and Lehigh's Phil Stambaugh. Bankhead comes off a 250-yard passing evening against the Cowboys, while Stambaugh, who hasn't thrown an interception in a month, threw for 281 yards and a touchdown against Richmond.

"This is a huge game," Whipple said. "If we don't win it, hey, we have a whole lot of time to rest up."

Game time is set for 12 p.m. at Warren P. McGuirk Alumni Stadium. The game can be heard live on WMUA 91.1 FM. The winner will move on to the semifinals of the 1-AA playoffs in a game that will take place next Saturday.

McMurphy's Uptown Tavern
Budweiser Night
WIN the Bud Couch!! Bud Pitcher So.
Friday 9 pm
37 North Pleasant St.

If you or someone you know is drinking too much, we can help.
DOES SOMEONE YOU CARE ABOUT DRINK TOO MUCH?
TAKING CARE OF A FRIEND WHO DRINKS TOO MUCH ISN'T HELPING, IT'S ENABLING.
For a confidential appointment contact REAP @ 545-0137
(Residential Education Alcohol Program)
REAP is a Student Assistance Program Located in Moore Residence Hall Lobby Southwest
This message is brought to you through donations from the UMass Police Department

PIZZA RAMA
356 College Street
253-3808
"25th Anniversary"
(Next to Spirit Haus Liquors)
Call Delivery Express → 549-0077
BYOB

"Reason №4 why you should take my MCAT course."
4 Our teachers deliver
Only the best instructors teach our courses. Not only are they experts in their specific field, (physics, biology, chemistry, verbal) but they have also passed our rigorous hiring and training process.
Call 1-800-2REVIEW or visit us at www.review.com
Courses held on the UMASS campus! Smith, Mt. Holyoke, and WHEC as well.
THE PRINCETON REVIEW

$Attention$
February 1999 Graduates
If you are a member of the class of February 1999 who received Federal Perkins Loans while enrolled at UMass you should have recently received a certified letter about those loans.
We know this is a very busy time for you so we've mailed this information rather than having you attend a meeting.
However, there are serious consequences if you fail to return these documents by 12/4/98 as instructed in our letter.
If you haven't received our letter but think that you should have or if you have any questions about what you did receive,
Call 545-2377

UMass Jewish Student Union invites you to the Semi-Formal
to benefit UJA and Amherst Survival Center
Featuring a Swing Theme with a lots of kickin' Techno, Mainstream, Pop and lots of delicious food!
Saturday, December 5, 8-12midnight
Top of Campus Restaurant
Campus Center, UMass
Tickets:
At TIX in Advance: $6 ($5 with Hillel Activity Card)
At Door: $8 ($7 with Hillel Activity Card)

COME TO LIQUORS 44 AND SAVE A LOT OF "DOUGH! DOUGH! DOUGH!"
LIQUORS 44
Don't Drink and Drive
Everyday Pricing
1/2 KEGS NATURAL LIGHT & ICE $34.99 + DEP
1/2 KEGS ICEHOUSE, RED DOG, ROLLING ROCK $36.99 + DEP
1/2 KEGS BUD, BUD LT., BUD ICE $40.99 + DEP
BUD-BUD LT-BUD ICE CASE OF 30-12 OZ. CANS $15.99 + DEP 30 PACK
MILLER HIGH LIFE, GENUINE DRAFT & DRAFT LIGHT CASE OF 30-12 OZ. CANS $11.49 + DEP 30 PACK
CORONA EXTRA CASE 24-12 OZ. BOTTLES $16.99 + DEP
CATAMOUNT ALL FLAVORS & SARANAC ALL FLAVORS 12 PK. BOTTLES $8.99 + DEP
FOSTER'S LAGER 12 PK. BOTTLES $8.49 + DEP
WOODCHUCK CIDER 6 PACK $4.99
WINE OF THE MONTH
ROBERT MONDAVI COASTAL CHARDONNAY $8.49
CABERNET SAUVIGNON & MERLOT 750 ML $9.99
CARLO ROSSI ALL FLAVORS 4OL $6.99
CITRA WINES ALL FLAVORS 1.5L $5.99
JOLIESSE CHARDONNAY MERLOT CABERNET SAUVIGNON 1.5L $8.99
COLUMBIA CREST CHARDONNAY 750 ML $5.99
JACK DANIELS COUNTRY COCKTAILS 4 PK. BOTTLES $3.69
RUBINOFF VODKA 1.75L $8.99
GORDON'S GIN 1.75L $12.99
INVERHOUSE SCOTCH 1.75L $12.99
FLEISCHMANN'S PREFERRED WHISKEY 1.75L SALE $11.49 MAIL-IN REBATE -3.00 FINAL COST $8.49
JACK DANIELS 750ML $13.99
BACARDI LIMON RUM 750 ML $9.49
Discounts Available on Cases of Wine & Liquor, Ask For Details.
AT THE STOP & SHOP PLAZA
HADLEY 253-9344 NORTHAMPTON 586-3007 HOLYOKE 534-4555
SALE PRICES THURS. 12/3/98 THRU WEDS. 12/9/98
WE'RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

UM's polo team goes to NCAA's

By Alexander Wood
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts men's water polo team will be heading out to do battle in the NCAA's this weekend in Newport Beach, California.

The No. 11 ranked Minutemen will bang heads with the No. 1 ranked University of Southern California in first round action this Friday, as they make their fifth NCAA appearance. UMass owns the fourth seed in the pool behind third ranked UC-San Diego [No. 10] and second seed Stanford [No. 3], while USC is holds the first slot in the bracket.

"I'm psyched and the kids know what they have to do," said Massachusetts men's water polo coach Russ Yarworth.

UMass earned its ticket to the west coast by defeating arch rival Queens in a thrilling 11-10 overtime victory after sweeping George Washington 7-5 and Bucknell 11-2 back on Nov. 15, in the CWPA Eastern Championships. The Minutemen will be looking to continue a 10-game winning streak that dates back to Oct. 18.

The CWPA also released its All-East Honors for the 1998 season, with Yarworth receiving Coach of the Year and senior Brian Stahl getting MVP tabs and a first-team selection. Other Minutemen elected to the All-East first team were senior Aldo Roman and junior goalie Richard Huntley, while senior Gabriel Marrero received second-team honors.

The All-Conference honors for the CWPA were also released yesterday, with Yarworth again taking home Coach of the Year while Roman received the MVP award for the Northern Division. First-team selections for the All-Conference honors went to Roman and Stahl, with Huntley being selected to the second-team.

After missing the tournament last year, the Minutemen are anxious to make some waves in the pool this season. UMass is winless against USC, losing both of their previous meetings with the Trojans. The Minutemen fell to the Trojans 21-6 in their first meeting back in the 1996 NCAA Championships and then lost 12-4 at the 1997 NorCal Tournament.

"We didn't go last year so we want to get back in there," Yarworth said.

UMass will have their work cut out for them should they defeat USC, as they are winless against the other two teams in the bracket. Against the second seeded team, Stanford, the Minutemen went down 21-5 back in the only meeting of the two teams in 1989.

Meanwhile, UC-San Diego leads the all-time series with UMass 1-5, which includes a 12-8 win over the Minutemen this season back on an Oct. 18 confrontation. UMass is 1-1 against the Tritons in NCAA tournament play, including a 15-13 victory in 1993. The win marked the first time an East Coast team defeated a West Coast team in the NCAA Championships.

Minutemen travel to Cambridge to swim in Harvard Invitational

By Jimmy Chen
Collegian Staff

Just 14 days ago, the Massachusetts men's swimming team was defeated for the first time in two years. On the very next day, the Minutemen lost a heartbreaker to a hungry St. John's squad and suffered its first losing streak in four years. Suddenly, the defending A-10 champion is 3-2 and is no longer the dominant team that it used to be.

"We are very disappointed," Massachusetts men's swimming head coach Russ Yarworth said. "We felt that we had let the program down a little bit, so we need to get our heads into it and get it going again."

And today, UMass will travel to Boston for the weekend to compete in Harvard Invitational with Central Connecticut State University, New Hampshire College, Northeastern University, and the host Crimson.

This meet, though, will not be a redemption for this short- handed UMass squad because the Harvard Invitational consists only of individual tryouts and finals, while the team score will not be kept.

However, it will still be a good opportunity for the swimmers to gain confidence and experience in a tournament competition. A lot of swimmers will shave down in order to compete in their peak condition.

Yarworth, who will not be with his squad due to the time conflict with his water polo team, has asked eight of his swimmers, mostly freshmen, to shave down for the Boston trip, hoping to get the best time performance out of them.

For his other proven swimmers, he will have them train themselves through the meet and get used to the game format that will be used in the Atlantic 10 championship at the end of the year.

"It is a good bench mark for us [to] see where we are in conditioning," Yarworth said. "From the time they do, it will help me evaluate what do we have to do with our training, and who is going to swim a lot at the end of the year meet."

Assistant coach Rich House and diving coach Guy Pollino will take charge this weekend in the absence of Yarworth, but they will need senior co-captains, B.J. Brannan and Brian Wisniewski, to help keeping the UMass team in tact.

Brannan will compete in 200 breaststroke and 500 free. Wisenieswki should continue to dominate in 200 backstroke and 200 individual medley, while sophomore standout Billy Brown will swim in the 100 breaststroke and team up with Wisniewski, senior Geoff Gear and sophomore Chris Arsenault in the 200 medley relay. Junior diver Ed Heffernon will return to his event in one-meter and three-meter diving.

UMass swimmers will see most of their competition from Harvard University, who had a 30-plus points victory against St. John's, of whom UMass lost by one point. However, UMass should have no trouble in competing against swimmers from New Hampshire and Central Connecticut, of whom UMass has beaten by an average margin of 67.5 points. UMass has not competed against Northeastern yet.

The meet will held from today through Sunday in Cambridge.

Men's gym to open season Saturday

By Gary Mendese
Collegian Staff

It's getting colder outside, the semester's ending, and the post-Thanksgiving slump is setting in as most students can't wait until winter break. Many will start to neglect their work and concentrate on the vacation that lies ahead.

That's not so for the Massachusetts men's gymnastics team, as its first meet of the season, the UMass Open, takes place on Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Curry Hicks Cage. The men have been training since September to perfect their skills in order to retain the first place finish they earned last year at this multi-team competition.

"We're ready," Massachusetts men's gymnastics coach Roy Johnson said. "The guys will be doing relatively basic [skeletal] sets for this meet, but we're quite prepared. Jeff LaVallee is looking very good, and he's in good health."

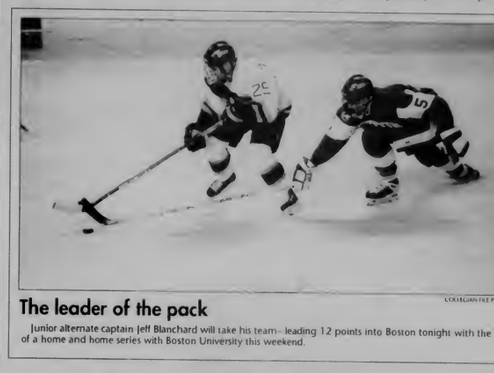
The former U.S. National Team member, LaVallee, underwent elbow surgery last season which impaired his performance. However, the UMass junior has been training throughout the summer and is ready to lead the Minutemen to victory.

One advantage of this squad is its depth, as there are many strong competitors for each event.

"Ben Kandel is looking a lot stronger on rings, [J.] Hershey will contribute on pommel horse and parallel bars, and Phil Lieberman will help out on floor and vault," Johnson said.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS
Stephen Pryor

Though there are many veterans from last year that have the potential to reclaim the top spots, there are some athletes who haven't competed that may also take the spotlight.



"Freshman Matt Plumser is a strong competitor on parallel bars, and almost every event. And [sophomore] Mike Alexander has the potential to become conference champion on high bar," Johnson said.

The UMass open is comprised of many teams across the Eastern region, as well as younger, non-collegiate athletes from across the nation. Temple, UMass' main rival, will be there to test the will of the Minutemen.

"Temple won't be much of a problem for us. We've won against them at the Open for the past three years. Later on in the season is when we need to be concerned," Johnson said.

One disadvantage of having such a large team is that only 12 men are allowed to be in the lineup of any given meet, which means that about half of the team has to sit out on Saturday. Though senior Stephen Pryor, sophomore Andrew Leis, and LaVallee are virtually guaranteed to compete because of past performances, many of the Minutemen won't know if they're competing until today when Johnson makes the announcement to the team.

Johnson and his team are quite confident about winning this weekend, and are anxious to put this stressful meet behind them, and end the semester once again as UMass Open Champions.

COLLEGIAN FILE PHOTO
The leader of the pack
Junior alternate captain Jeff Blanchard will take his team- leading 12 points into Boston tonight with the end of a home and home series with Boston University this weekend.

COURTESY UMASS WOMEN'S HOCKEY TEAM
Back into the swing of things
Kathy Lee and the rest of the Massachusetts hockey team will host Skidmore tomorrow afternoon at 1 p.m. at the William D. Mullins Center practice rink.

■ hockey

continued from page 12

backline has been having loads of problems. The Terriers are allowing a almost four goals a game, and neiminder Michel Larocque has not been playing like an All-America candidate in the cage.

UMass, who is coming a 6-2 win over the Air Force Academy on Sunday, is lead by junior alternate captain Jeff Blanchard. Nathan Sell has also been hot as of late, while Kris Wallis, Bryan Fitzgerald and Ray Geever all made

continued from page 12

continued from page 12

■ hoops

continued from page 12

Although he did not speculate on whom he would remove from (or insert into) the starting lineup, one possible change would feature a front court of Ajmal Basit moving to the center position in place of Ketner, Chris Kirkland at power forward (for his athleticism and rebounding) along with the other regular starters Babul, Mack, and Charlton Clarke.

As far as the rotation is concerned, Flint, during the broadcast, made specific mention of reserve center Anthony Oates, whom he felt played very well in place of the foul-plagued Ketner.

Perhaps their upcoming contest against the Marshall Thundering Herd may be the optimal time for such experimentation. Although it returns all five of its starters from the 1997-98 campaign, the team mustered a meager 11-16 mark overall. Marshall plays a very soft schedule, which features few formidable opponents aside from the Minutemen.

Minutemen Notes: The Marshall game will be televised locally by WGGB Channel 40, whose coverage begins at 7 p.m., just before tip-off... Excitement on the Thundering Herd campus is expected to be extremely high, as it hosts not only a premier basketball contest, but also a Division I- AA football tournament game. Flint anticipates that the 9,000-seat Henderson Center will be a difficult place to play, with the school's Alumni in town to watch both events.

Good going UMass Water Polo!!! We'll be supporting you. Best of luck in California!!!

Calculus Tutor
• Friendly & Helpful
• Affordable
• Available Anytime (at our campus bookstore)
CAMPUS MARKET
www.wispeour.com

KICK & RUN SPORT SHOP
181 WEST STATE ST. (ROUTE 202)
CHATEAU HARMONY - P.O. BOX 56
GRANBY, MA 01033
"Check out our bargain basement sale!"
HOURS MON-THUR 11-8 FRIDAY 11-8 SATURDAY 9-4
(413) 467-7200

U-SAVE AUTO & TRUCK RENTAL
North Amherst Motors A Collision Repair Center
78 Sunderland Rd. North Amherst, MA
549-RENT
Weekend Special
Noon Friday to Monday AM - Starting at $59.95
• Cars • Mini Vans • Trucks • Cargo Vans • 15 Passenger Vans • Low Daily/Weekly/Weekend Rates
• We Rent to Qualified Drivers 21 years or Older • Direct Billing To Insurance Co.
(On bus route - one mile from UMass)

MINI MALL '98
Sponsored by Hillel/JSU
Handcrafted Jewelry...
Pottery, Clothing...
Posters, candles, etc...
23 tables of Vendors!!
FREE to the Public
December 8-11 10am - 5am
Student Union Ball Room

Go Team!
amc There is a Difference!
Silence is Golden
No child under 6 in any PG-13 or R rated film after 6PM.
Mt. Farms 4•Mt. Farms Mall 584-9153
HOME FRIES (PG-13) Today at 1:20 3:30 5:30 7:30 9:30 10:40 Sat at 2:00 4:20 6:30 8:40 10:40 Sun at 2:00 4:20 6:30 8:40 Mon-Thurs at 4:20 6:30 8:40
BABE: PIG IN THE CITY (G) Today at 1:10 3:10 5:10 7:10 9:10 10:40 Sat at 1:10 3:10 5:10 7:10 9:10 10:40 Sun at 1:10 3:10 5:10 7:10 9:10 10:40 Mon-Thurs at 1:30 4:30 5:30 7:30 8:30
MEET JOE BLACK (PG-13) Today at 1:00 4:30 8:00 Sat at 1:30 5:00 8:30 Sun at 1:30 5:00 8:30 Mon-Thurs at 4:30 8:00
ENEMY OF THE STATE (R) Today at 1:40 4:50 7:50 10:30 Sat at 1:40 4:50 7:50 10:30 Sun at 1:40 4:50 7:50 10:30 Mon-Thurs at 5:00 8:00
Hampshire 6•Hampshire Mall 584-7550
WATERBOY (PG-13) Today at 12:30 2:30 4:30 6:30 8:30 10:30 Sat at 12:30 2:30 4:30 6:30 8:30 10:30 Sun at 12:30 2:30 4:30 6:30 8:30 10:30 Mon-Thurs at 1:30 4:30 6:30 8:30
RUG RATS (G) Today at 1:00 3:00 5:00 7:00 9:00 Sat at 11:30 1:30 3:30 5:30 7:30 9:30 Sun at 11:30 1:30 3:30 5:30 7:30 9:30 Mon-Thurs at 1:00 3:00 5:00 7:00 9:00
BUG'S LIFE (G) Today at 11:00 1:15 3:30 5:45 8:00 10:40 Sat at 11:00 1:15 3:30 5:45 8:00 10:40 Sun at 11:00 1:15 3:30 5:45 8:00 10:40 Mon-Thurs at 1:15 3:30 5:45 8:00
PLEASANTVILLE (PG-13) Today at 1:20 4:20 7:20 Sat at 11:50 1:20 4:20 7:20 9:50 Sun at 11:50 1:20 4:20 7:20 9:50 Mon-Thurs at 1:20 4:20 7:20
I STILL KNOW WHAT YOU DID LAST SUMMER (R) Today at 12:10 2:30 4:50 7:10 9:40 Sat at 12:10 2:30 4:50 7:10 9:40 Sun at 12:10 2:30 4:50 7:10 9:40 Mon-Thurs at 1:30 4:50 7:10
PSYCHO (R) Today at 12:50 3:30 6:30 9:30 Sat at 12:50 3:30 6:30 9:30 Sun at 12:50 3:30 6:30 9:30 Mon-Thurs at 1:00 4:00 7:00
THE SIEGE (R) Today at 11:30 Sat at 11:30 Sun at 11:30 Mon-Thurs at 8:00
$2.50 'Twi-lite' Show Daily!
Special Engagement No Passes or Coupons

Party.

ZAMA
downtown Amherst

Collegian Classifieds

113 Campus Center — University of Massachusetts • Phone: (413)545-3500 Fax: (413)545-1592

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Women's Ice Hockey would like to thank the UMass Police for a great benefit game. Come see the women play Skidmore this Saturday at 1p.m.

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Take Over My Lease Amherst Town Studio. Hot water. $440. 253-1708.

1 bedroom apt on Main St. $475. Utilities included. Call 253-7328.

Great 2 bedroom apt on bus route. Be warm for the winter. Utilities are included. Available 1/23/99. 549-1943.

Take Over My Lease Dec 25. 2 bedroom in Puffton. Call 549-2873.

Take Over Our Lease 2 bedroom apt. Utilities included. Sunderland. On bus route. $700. Starting Jan. or Feb. Call ASAP 665-2154.

Large 1 bedroom in nice 2 bedroom Squire Village apartment for Spring Semester. $279/month. Chris 665-8432.

Take Over Our Lease 1 months rent free! 2 bedrooms, 2 baths. Excellent condition. Mill Valley Estates. Available Jan 1st. 253-1656.

1 bedroom with study in Puffton Village. Renovated. Starting Jan 1st. 549-1174.

Take Over Our Lease 2 bedrooms. Mill Hollow Apts. $560 (hot water). 549-5318.

2 bedroom apt in Mill Valley. Available Jan 1. 2 full bathrooms, heat and hot water included. Partially furnished. Two air conditioners. Call 253-0761.

APARTMENT FOR RENT

3 bedroom- Puffton Starting 1/1. Heat included. Call 549-0453.

New Puffton Village- Rent starting at $570. Includes heat, hot water, and cooking gas. DSS satellite and cable ready. On-site parking and laundry. Near UMass. On bus line. One, two, and three bedrooms. Call 549-0145 now.

Brandywine Apartments
1 and 2 bedroom apartments available. 1/4 mile from campus.
Dec or Jan 1.
Call 549-0600.

Lantern Court (Sunderland)- 2 bedroom. Close to bus stop. $550. Call 665-6705.

AUTO FOR SALE

84 Dodge Caravan Reject sticker. $300. 549-2987.

92 Subaru Loyale Wagon 103K, 4WD, air, tape deck, many new parts. $4495/BO. Must sell. 259-1750.

Honda Accord 83 Good condition. 177K miles. Needs rear brake work. Asking $1000. Call 549-3878.

90 Nissan Sentra Great condition. 100K. $2500 or B/O. 253-5990.

1992 Jeep Wrangler Mint condition. $5600 or B/O. Call Katie 527-8284. Must sell before 12/19/98.

Datsun Maxima Station Wagon 136,000 miles, cruise control, Californian reliable. Must sell! $1000. Matt 546-0658.

Toyota Camry 88 Standard. $2650 or B/O. 549-8773.

EMPLOYMENT

84 Volvo DL Runs perfectly. $2100. 367-0169.

'91 Isuzu Trooper LS 4x4, automatic V6, black, PW, air, tape stereo, new brakes and recent tune-up. Good condition in and out. $4000. 548-9892.

WANTED: Toyotas, Novas, Prizms, Sentras. Any condition. Cash paid everyday. 1-800-649-4795.

COMPUTERS

Macintosh Performa 640CD 15" monitor, Stylewriter color printer, modem. $410. 549-0866.

Monitor NEC 17" M700 Like new. $325. 549-0866.

ACAD R12 for Macintosh Student version. Does everything plus tutorials. $200 new, unopened $100. 584-1489.

EMPLOYMENT

Best Winter Break Job In The Valley! Get paid to make a difference! Earn $300+ a week fighting air and water pollution. Leadership development seminars offered free to staff. CLEAN WATER ACTION 584-9830.

Relief Staff wanted for apartment program serving adults with mental illness. Need to be available during Winter Session. Great experience, flexible hours, training provided. Work with creative, diverse individuals in a supportive, caring environment. $7.50/hr. Call Dave or Shari @ 256-0626.

CIS is looking for motivated off-campus students. Earn $10-15 per hour. Set your own schedule. For information, call 1-800-567-6247.

EMPLOYMENT

SUMMER MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITY Where are you working during the SUMMER OF '99? College Pro, a $25 million company, seeks highly motivated college students from New England to manage a service business. Summer earnings average $8-10K+ per manager. Internship credit possible. If you are a goal-oriented leader searching for the right opportunity, call for an application and information to be sent by mail. Leave your name, school address, and phone # on the automated voicemail system at: (617)576-6833 ext 124.

Summer Job/Internship- Mass. Firm seeking FRESH, SOPH, or JR. Earn $8,500 for the summer. Seeking aggressive go-getter with strong history of past work experience. For information & prelim. interview on campus with student who worked in the position last summer, call 1-800-658-3841 ext 100.

CRUISE SHIP EMPLOYMENT- Workers earn up to $2,000+/month (w/tips & benefits). World Travel! Land-Tour jobs up to $5,000-$7,000/summer. Ask us how! 517-336-4235 ext C50011.

FOR SALE

Silence Snowboard- 152cm., never used. $150/BO. Call Adam 253-9776.

TV Stand $10 + shelf $5. Call Franci. Cell (413)433-0081.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Caitlin, Happy Birthday! We hope you have a great day.
Love Ya,
The Girls

HEALTH & BEAUTY

We're here to pump... YOU UP! Creatine Monohydrate, Creatine Surge, DHEA, Whey Protein and more from Fitness Workshop delivered right to your door. 1-877-FIT-WORK. www.fitnessworkshop.com

HOUSE FOR RENT

Summer Rentals Cape Cod Group Summer Rentals. Some waterfront houses, some with swimming pools. Falmouth area. Call Diamond Real Estate 1-508-477-1900.

INSTRUCTION

CARDIO KICKBOXING Amherst Athletic Club. Train with the pros! 256-0080.

MUSICAL INSTRUCTION

Marshall Valvestate 80 Watts Amp. Wants $350 or B/O. Serious inquiries only. Call 549-3962.

PERSONALS

Andrea,
This is just the beginning.
Happy Anniversary.
I love you sweetheart.
Love, Scott

PETS FOR SALE

Rabbit Rescue has a lovely selection of bunnies. Many colors and types as well as a selection of cages and hutches. We can also help with any bunnies you can no longer care for. Call Ellen at 367-0105.

ROOM FOR RENT

LIVE IN PUFFTON- Looking for female to rent room in easy-going 3 bedroom apt. $265/month for Spring Semester. On bus route. Call Erin 549-1359.

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom. Brandywine. For Spring/late December. Call Jeremy 549-6955.

ROOM FOR RENT

One nice room available in a four bedroom Alpine Commons apartment. Move in Jan 1 or possibly earlier. Two full bathrooms. On bus line. Great roommates! Apartment is fully furnished with the exception of the bedroom. $314.50/month. ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED! Please call Jenny at 253-2050 ASAP.

Quiet Setting Kitchen privileges, laundry, parking, non-smoking. $335. 549-4853.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female to share 2 bedroom apt in NoHo. Available 1/1. $275/month. 1st/last/security. Call Rachel 586-4426. No pets.

Grad woman needs roommate (Grad woman or mature Undergrad) for Spring Semester to share modern/luxury 3 level townhouse condo on bus line less than one mile from campus. Totally furnished; two large bedrooms; deck; laundry in unit; basement storage! Much more! Only $300/month + utilities. Call Monica (413)549-4808.

Three rooms opening ASAP in large 5 bedroom house in Hadley. On bus line. Spacious, close to NoHo and Amherst. Pre-paid heat. $270/month. Craig or Jon 587-5319.

ROOM WANTED

Clean, Quiet Room Starting Jan 1st. Call Mike 256-1597.

Need housing January 1. Bus route preferable. Matthew 665-0021.

SERVICES

Rental Problems Questions about your lease/security deposit deductions? Questions about subletting/assigning leases? Questions about the condition of your new house or apartment? Contact The Student Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

Pregnant? Need help? Call Birthright of Amherst Area for free testing and assistance. 549-1906

TO SUBLET

Feb 1st 2 bedroom apt. On bus line to campus. $700 a month. Call 253-4621.

Nice furnished room available for Winter Session. $215/month + 1/5 utilities. One mile from campus. 549-5863 Jordan.

At Puffton One room in a three bedroom apt. Starting 12/23. Stay all Spring Semester. $216, heat included. Call 549-5842.

TRAVEL

SPRING BREAK '99 Student Travel Services is America's #1 Student Tour Operator. Don't book with anyone else until you talk to us!! Cancun from $399. Jamaica from $399. Panama City from $119. Daytona Beach from $139. Student Travel Services 1-800-648-4849 www.ststravel.com On Campus Contact: Erich @ 413-549-5287 Jonah @ 413-549-8867 Dan @ 413-253-1341 George @ 413-546-4223

TRAVEL

A #1 SPRING BREAK... HOURS & HOURS OF FREE DRINKS! Earn 2 FREE Trips & $$$$$! Cancun, Jamaica, Florida, Barbados, Bahamas. Lowest Prices/Best Meal Plan 1-800-426-7710 www.sunsplash-tours.com

WANTED

Earn $30 in 90 minutes by being in a GRE study. Purpose is to try out a new math item type. You must be a senior or first year grad who has taken the GRE since 9/1/96. For info or to sign up send e-mail to kmeara@educ.umass.edu.

WANTED TO RENT

Winter Session Sublet Needed Will pay rent and utilities for the month. 546-0626.

Are you looking to Advertise?

Place an Ad in The Collegian Classifieds..

We advertise to Thousands!

Your Ad could fill this Space!! Come down to The Collegian and place an Ad!!

Five College Community Calendar

FRIDAY, DEC. 4

Performance — The UMass Theatre Guild presents "You Can't Take It With You" at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

Service — There will be a Shabbat service at 6 p.m. in the Hillel House. A free Shabbat dinner will follow.

SUNDAY, DEC. 6

Concerts — Mount Holyoke College will hold its annual Christmas concerts in Abbey Chapel at Mount Holyoke at 4 and 7:30 p.m.

Concerts — Meg Irwin-Brandon and Paul Utgoff of the Arcadia Players will put on free harpsichord concerts in the Hart Gallery at the Guild Art Centre in Northampton. Light refreshments will be served.

Films — Abraham Ravett will present two films entitled "Forgefeel" and "The Boardwalk" with photographs from the Brighton Beach-Coney Island boardwalk at 7:30 p.m. in the Film/Photo Building at Hampshire College.

Potluck — The Hellenic Students Association will hold a potluck dinner in the Thatcher Lounge in Northeast at 7 p.m.

MONDAY, DEC. 7

Concert — There will be a concert entitled "German Renaissance Christmas and Other Music" at 8 p.m. in Sweeney Concert Hall in Sage Hall at Smith College.

Meeting — There will be a meeting of the Student Labor Action Coalition at 7 p.m. in the Women's Resource Center (Davis third floor) at Smith College.

Workshop — There will be a workshop on contraception and safer sex at 3 p.m. in room 302 of University Health Services.

NOTICES

Community — The Spring portion of federal work-study will be available for students to begin using after January 3.

Community — The 1999 Yearbooks are now on sale in room 304 of the Student Union. Call 545-0848 to order one.

Community — The Teacher Education Coordinating Council and the School of Education's Office of Teacher Education have information on the Mass. Educator Certification Tests in room 125 of Furcolo Hall. Contact Michael Schwartz at 545-2701 for more information.

Scholarship — Juniors and Seniors interested in the Elie Wiesel Prize, based upon an ethics essay, should contact Professor James Young at 545-5872.

FYI's are public service announcements printed daily. To submit an FYI, please send a press release containing all pertinent information, including the name and phone number of the contact person to the Collegian, c/o the Managing Editor by noon the previous day.

The deadline is Dec. 10.

Submissions — Submissions are being accepted for the Spectrum Literary Magazine. The deadline is Feb. 12. Also searching for the 1998-99 cover contest winner. Deadline is the end of Dec. Call 5-4220 for more information.

WE GIVE 100%™ Bookworks Everyday Discounts of 10% OFF! or More! On nearly every book in stock! *See store for details. We give a portion of our profits to support University programs.

Bookworks is a division of University Store

Remember when reading was affordable? It still is!

HSCN 4 Housing Services Cable Network

2	HSCN Bulletin Board	18	The Learning Channel
3	CBS/3 Hartford	19	UVC-TV19
4	CBS/4 Boston	20	ABC/40 Springfield
5	ABC/5 Boston	21	Gavel to Gavel
6	PBS/57 Springfield	22	NBC/22 Springfield
7	HSCN Movie Ch.	23	Sundance
8	UPN/20 Hartford	24	Bloomberg Financial
9	Weather Channel	25	CTN
10	NBC/30 New Britain	27	TBS
11	Fox/61 Hartford	28	BET
12	PBS/24 Hartford	29	TV Land
13	WCCH & HSCN	30	Univision
14	International	31	Comedy Central
15	UMass Academic TV	32	Cartoon
16	WB/New Haven	33	Much Music
17	HSCN Programming

FRIDAY EVENING — C - Campus — DECEMBER 4, 1998

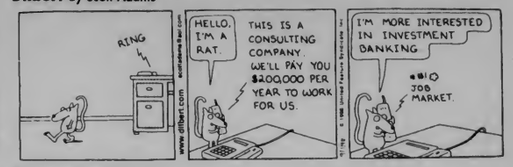
	C	6:00	6:30	7:00	7:30	8:00	8:30	9:00	9:30	10:00	10:30	11:00	11:30
WEDH	2	12 Wishbone (C	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer (C		Great Performances "Cats" (R) (Stereo) (C						Wash. Week	Wall St. Week
WFSB	3	3 News (C	CBS News	Inside Edition	Hollywood Sq.	Kids-Dateline	Candid C...	Buddy Faro (In Stereo) (C		Nash Bridges "Hardball" (C		News (C	Late Show (C
WBZ	4	4 News (C	CBS News	Hollywood Sq.	Ent. Tonight	Kids-Dateline	Candid C...	Buddy Faro (In Stereo) (C		Nash Bridges "Hardball" (C		News (C	Late Show (C
WCVB	5	5 News (C	ABC News	Inside Edition	Chronicle (C	Two of a Kind	Boy-World	Sabrina-Witch	Brother s Kpr	20/20 (C		News (C	Nightline (C
WLVI	6	Sister, Sister	Fresh Prince	Nanny (C	Friends (C	★½ "The Five Heartbeats" (1991) Robert Townsend,				News		Friends (C	Nanny (C
WHDH	7	7 News	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! (C	Dateline (In Stereo) (C		Homicide: Life on the Street (C		News		Homicide: Life on the Street (C	Tonight Show
WTXX	8	Home Imp.	Judge Brown	Judge Judy (C	Jim Calhoun	Legacy "Tango" (In Stereo) (C		Love Boat: The Next Wave (C		News	Newsradio (C	Newsradio (C	Married...With
WVIT	10	10 News	NBC News	Ent. Tonight	Herd Copy (C	Dateline (In Stereo) (C		Homicide: Life on the Street (C		Homicide: Life on the Street (C		News	Tonight Show
WTIC	61	11 Simpsons (C	Friends (C	Seinfeld (C	Frasier (C	Brimstone "Executioner" (R		Millennium (In Stereo) (Pa. (C		News		Friends (C	Friends (C
WWLP	22	22 News (C	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! (C	Dateline (In Stereo) (C		Homicide: Life on the Street (C		Homicide: Life on the Street (C		News (C	Tonight Show
WGBY	57	8 Creatures	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer (C		Wash. Week	Wall St. Week	Great Performances "Cats" (R) (In Stereo) (C
WGGB	40	40 News (C	ABC News	Seinfeld (C	Millionaires	Two of a Kind	Boy-World	Sabrina-Witch	Brother s Kpr	20/20 (C		News (C	Nightline (C
WSBK	38	Judge Judy (C	Judge Judy (C	Seinfeld (C	Frasier (C	Legacy "Tango" (In Stereo) (C		Love Boat: The Next Wave (C		Mad Abt. You	Mad Abt. You	Frasier (C	Cheers (C
WTBS	72	Family Matters	Family Matters	Roseanne (C	Roseanne (C	Grinch-C mas	Flintstones Christmas Carol			★★★ "Edward Scissorhands" (1990, Fantasy) Johnny Depp
A&E	42	Northern Exposure (C		Law & Order "Jesus Morris" (C		Biography: Norman V. Peale		Rise of Christianity: The First Thousand Years (Part 1 of 2) (C				Law & Order "Blood" (C
CNN	29	23 Worldview (C	Moneyline Newshour (C		Crossfire (C	World Today (C		Larry King Live (C				Sports	Moneyline (C
COM	63	30 Saturday Night Live (C		Offsides	Stein's Money	Robin Williams: Off the Wall		★★ "The Favor" (1994, Comedy) Harley Jane Kozak,				Upright	Comedy Hall
DISC	69	New House	Fix-It-Line	Gimme Shelter (R)		Wild Discovery: Lions		News	Storm	Mysteries of the Unexplained		Justice Files "On the Outside"
ESPN	31	Up Close	Sportscenter		NASCAR Racing	Rivalries (R)	NASCAR	NASCAR Winston Cup Awards				Sportscenter (C
LIFE	62	Ellen (C	Ellen (C	Party of Five (In Stereo) (C		Chicago Hope (In Stereo) (C		★★ "Once in a Lifetime" (1994, Drama) Lindsay Wagner,				New Attitudes	Golden Girls
MTV	53	Countdown	Cut (In Stereo)	Celebrity	News	Eye Spy Video	Say What?	Total Request Live (In Stereo)		Psychotic Vid.	Model Mission	Real World (C	Real World (C
NICK	68	Figure It Out	Secret of Alex	Doug (C	Rugrats (C	Kablam!	Animorphs (C	Brady Bunch	Wonder Years	I Love Lucy (C	I Love Lucy (C	I Love Lucy (C	I Love Lucy (C
SCIFI	64	Monsters	Sci-Fi Entert.	Sightings (C	Star Trek:	Work of an Eye" (R		★★★ "Halloween" (1978, Horror) Jamie Lee Curtis, (C				Sightings (C	Star Trek: (C
TLC	79	28 Home Again	Home Again	48 Hours "To Save a Life" (R)		Mysteries of Magic				Mysteries of Magic		Mysteries of Magic
TNT	54	Babylon 5 "A Day in the Strife"		ER "Calling Dr. Hathaway" (C		★★½ "Overboard" (1987, Comedy) Goldie Hawn, Kurt Russell,				★★★★ "Jaws" (1975, Horror) Roy Scheider
USA	52	Hercules: Legendary Jrnys.		Xena: Warrior Princess (R) (C		Walker, Texas Ranger (C		★★ "Kindergarten Cop" (1990, Comedy) Arnold Schwarzenegger,				"Psycho IV: The Beginning" (C
HBO	43	0:00) The Manhattan Project"		Inside the NFL (In Stereo) (C		★★★ "Alien 3" (1992, Science Fiction) Sigourney Weaver. (R (C				Renegade Force" (1998) Michael Rooker. "R (C		Hostile Intent"
MAX	45	(4:30)	The Naked Gun 2 1/2: The Smell of Fear," (1991)			"Fly" (1986, Drama) Peter Fark. "NR			Making Edge	★★★ "Beverly Hills Cop" (1984, Drama) Eddie Murphy. "R (C
SHOW	46	Stargate SG-1 "Sonris" (N) (R		Outer Limits "Joan" (In Stereo)		★★★ "Starship Troopers" (1997) Casper Van Dien. "R (C				Stargate SG-1 "Family" (N) (R		Dead Man s	Outer Limits

Cathy By Cathy Guisewite

Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Rose is Rose By Pat Brady

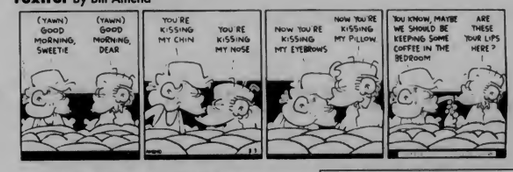
Non Sequitur By Wiley



Kampus Kids By Adam Souliere

Robotman By Jim Meddick

Dilbert By Scott Adams



Foxtrot By Bill Amend

Liberty Meadows By Frank Cho

Foxtrot By Bill Amend

Horoscopes

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Take care that you're not being propelled against your will down a dangerous path. You'll want to maintain control over your own destiny!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — This is a good day to close your mouth and open your ears. You can learn a great deal about yourself at this time by listening to others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — You may surprise yourself today by agreeing with those you are usually very much at odds. The truth is, you're starting to mellow out.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Today, you're going to want to keep your wits about you as you engage in a friendly competition with a pal. By all means, follow the rules.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — It's a good day to spend more time around the home. You'll discover something about yourself in the way you address domestic issues.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — It's never a waste of time to go back to the basics. Today, you can derive a great deal of profit from starting at the very beginning.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You'll have the opportunity to perform some long-overdue work on your own reputation today. Some people see you in the wrong light.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — There's more to your bad attitude today than meets the eye, or the ear. You'll want to arrive at a greater understanding of your own moods.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — You can prove yourself to be quite flexible today when you need to be. Take care that you aren't unwilling to take a stand!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Avoid criticizing others today and you can avoid being criticized yourself. You're in no mood to play games with someone who insists on cheating.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Someone may feel that he or she can "tame" you at this time. Prove once and for all that you are your own person, so come what will.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — You may be too concerned with doing things the "right" way, and this can prove limiting. Trust your instincts and experiment more freely.

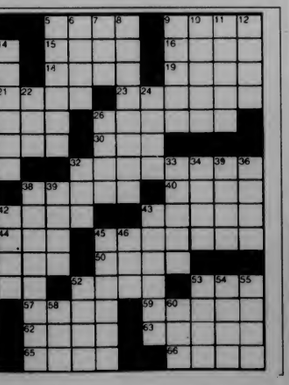
Quote of the Day

"...whoa, I thought I was smart for a second."

–UMass student almost having a revelation

Close to Home By John McPherson

"Essentially, it's voodoo for a good purpose. We'll soak this replica of you in our mini-whirlpool for 24 hours, and in six weeks your back will be as good as new."



ACROSS
1 Docile
5 Complain
9 Wine and —
13 Seize the throne illegally
15 Fiery gem
16 Actor Estrada
17 Washer cycle
18 Actress Moreno
19 Zoo enclosure
20 Harp on 21 Stylish
23 Declared
25 Amaze
26 Ahab's vessel, e.g.
27 Joking
30 Be ill
31 Jordan's capital
32 Certain siren signal
37 Went to the bottom
38 Waste time
40 Overdue
41 Tested
43 Went rowing
44 Dead
45 Dolled up
47 Cave
50 "The Mammoth Hunters" heroine
51 Ring — wedding participant
52 Toward shelter
53 Run quickly
56 Writer Seton
57 Des Moines is its capital
59 German river
61 Spoils
62 No, to Yeltsin
63 "— You've Been Gone"
64 Swede's neighbor
65 "What — is new?"
66 Blemish

DOWN
1 Rotate
2 Korea's location
3 — bean
4 Sounds of hesitation
5 Monotonous
6 "The Raid" e.g.
7 Have a meal
8 In a gaudy manner
9 Iron-on picture
10 Angry
11 African river
12 — out scraped by with 14 Jelly thickener
22 Barbarian
24 Nursery item
25 Quench (one's thirst)
26 Room part
27 Speedy
28 Sharif of films
29 Former Atlanta arena
32 Model Carol
33 Pack animal
34 Marshal Wyatt —
35 Fit to —
36 Actor Foxx
38 Belief
39 Car
42 12/4/98 e.g.
43 Houston eleven
45 Taste
46 Deli bread
47 Columbus' port
48 Synthetic fabric
49 Give a speech
51 Hairless
52 Fills with wonder
53 — oxide
54 Ancient Peruvian
55 Equal
58 Popeye and Olive —
60 Not hers

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

ALHAB STOLE LOW
SUAVE ARDOR AGO
AGNES TEDTURNER
PEG ORIE PACES
ELLEN FATTEST
DERIVE ARISE
RAISE LAIA DREW
ARN SQUEST ERA
BLEU PROS ALVIN
SHEEN OBOIST
ORPHANS GNUBIS
FIRES SEAL TAN
FATTRSHAKE ALONE
ETC LAPIS TENTS
RAE EMOTE EASES

12-4-98 © 1998 United Feature Syndicate

Today's D.C. Menu
Call 545-2626 for more information.

Franklin
LUNCH
Hot Turkey Sandwich
Grilled Cheese
Fish Munchies

DINNER
Country Style Ribs
Baked Ziti
Charbroiled Chicken Breast

Worcester
LUNCH
Fish Munchies
Mesquite Chicken Sandwich
Pasta
Tri-Bean Casserole

DINNER
Beef Strips w/Snowpeas & Mush.
Fried Shrimp Dinner
Stir Fri w/Tofu

Hampshire
LUNCH
Hamburger
Chicken Cutlet
Grilled Cheese
Fish Munchies

DINNER
Beef Strips with Snow Peas & Mush.
Lemon Pepper Cod

Berkshire
LUNCH
Fish Munchies
Buffalo Chicken/Honey Wheat Wrap
Grilled Cheese
Vegan Ravioli

DINNER
Ceef Strips w/Snowpeas A Mush.
Baked Ziti
Stir Fry w/Tofu

Night Editor — Dinica Jimenez
Photo Technician — Roberto Delgado
Copy Editor — Laura Sansoucy
Production Supervisor — Matt Wallaver
Production Staff — Angie Annese

SPORTS

BCS causing a mess; Still lots of spots open

At this point in time, rescheduling the Hurricane Georges– bitten contest with, well, the Miami Hurricanes, would not be in the best interests of coach Bob Toledo.

Stupid hurricane. Miami was good then, we swear.

Right now, the Bruins are hangin' at

Brett Mauser
UPI

No. 2 in the BCS polls, where a slip could send Kansas State to Tostito land, and Bruins unwillingly back home to Pasadena.

No doubt all of Manhattan, Kan. has been calling up the Tostito factories around the nation, explaining in detail how much they dig the chip 'n' dip business. But tortillas are tortillas, they can't really talk all that much. Kansas State is on their own on this one.

While the Wildcats have recently joined the Hurricanes Fan Club, Arizona has painted their faces sky blue and gold, rooting for their archrivals in this do-over. Y'see, if UCLA drops to third in the rankings, they will most likely accept a bid in the Rose Bowl. Arizona, who would happily take the ticket to Pasadena as the first second-place PAC-10 team to make it there since never, that is, if the Bruins win big in the Hurricanes' place.

If Arizona drops, so do Oregon, Washington, and USC. It's basically a big push. Granted, settling for Hawaii [they have both the Aloha and Oahu Bowls this year] would not be a bad out anyday, but college campuses are concerned about money and recruiting far more than leis and bellydancers.

That's still up for argument.

• Miami's loss, check that, thorough whooping, by Syracuse at the Carrier Dome, 66–13, hurts UCLA dramatically. Any win at all is still a mediocre one, and if the game's close, their eyes turn to the Texas A&M Aggies, who tangle with KSU in the Big 12 Championship game.

Miami is likely to be Micron PC Bowl-bound.

Ouch.

Anything that technical can't be good for a program. Rumor has it the Bowl actually exists, but nonetheless, beating Chump State in the Micron PC Bowl just isn't going to cut it.

Miami fans might as well park with a nice, healthy serving of popcorn for what should be a clinic. Miami's demise has brought the 'Canes lower and lower as we delve into the 21st century. Butch Davis knows by now that no talented high school player in the state of Florida would choose Miami over Tallahassee or Happy Valley, for obvious reasons.

The decline has begun. The gridirons and the hardwoods are swapping places, amazingly enough. And if anybody's happy to see that, it's the PAC–10. Rooting for the rivals, like any bowl–bound BCS–ridden squad.

UCLA, giving 10 1/2 at the Orange Bowl, is a sure bet.

UCLA 42, Miami 17.

Mauser's Toilet Bowl Picks of the Week:

Last week: 2–1

Season: 18–18

Now this is where I get mad.

This is my signature move, which, like Hulk Hogan's killer leg drop or Earthquake's stomp–around–the–guy–like– an–earthquake/idiot, has no effect in the long–term, but packs a "wow" from the reader or Jesse Ventura, for sure.

It's time to reflect on a .500 season, a time to determine who are my real friends. This could get emotional.

I'll hang with Tennessee any time. They've hooked me up with two wins, including an upset of Florida in the early going.

Mississippi State, on the other hand, has been my nemesis all year long, handing me two losses.

I'll show you, Mississippi State, you just wait.

In tomorrow's SEC Championship game, a freight train will go through the 'Dawgs locker room. The preparation doesn't matter because the Volunteers are coming. Tennessee wants a strong showing going into the game of their lives. After being Florida's punching bag, finally, without Peyton Manning or Heath Shuler, the Vols move onto the promise land behind the play of Tee Martin, and without Jamal Lewis.

Gimme Tennessee, giving 14 1/2, against them 'Dawgs. This time I'm going to be Doctor Claw and finally get my version of Gadget. There will be no raspy voice or next time, fellas.

On the undercard, Air Force Is too much for BYU, for sure. Gimme the Force, giving 3 1/2, against the Cougars. My high school posted 15 points against Southegan in a Thanksgiving Day win. Texas A&M couldn't do that, never mind against KSU. I'll take the 'Cats, giving 14 1/2, in the Big 12 ho–down for the bucks.

Brett Mauser is a Collegian columnist.

It's do or die time for the Minutemen

UMass football squad set to host Lehigh

By Brett Mauser
Collegian Staff

Massachusetts football coach Mark Whipple munched on a melting ice cream sandwich. In the locker room, players sang and launched pieces of paper into the trash can.

For the time being, the Minutemen were enjoying themselves, after all the playoff atmosphere was finally back in Amherst. Just a leisurely Thursday afternoon in Amherst.

That zero, though, keeps their heads out of the clouds.

That zero.

In the Lehigh Mountain Hawks loss column.

That, indeed, keeps UMass from looking forward to next week.

"They don't know what it's like to lose," quarterback Todd Bankhead said. "We can't take them lightly and I don't think anybody is."

Only six teams in all of college football made it through 1998 unscathed, and only two from Division I–AA. One is Lehigh, the other is top–ranked Georgia Southern.

Lehigh started its uphill trek by beating Richmond 24–23 at UR Stadium. After driving in the final moments, they concluded the run with a last second Jaron Taaffe field goal with no time remaining to win it. That took the asterisk off of the "just a Patriot League team" billing.

Now the road goes through Amherst. UMass learned that before taking on McNeese State, and then disposed of the Cowboys 21–19, giving McGuirk another whirl after losing to UConn on the final day of the regular season.

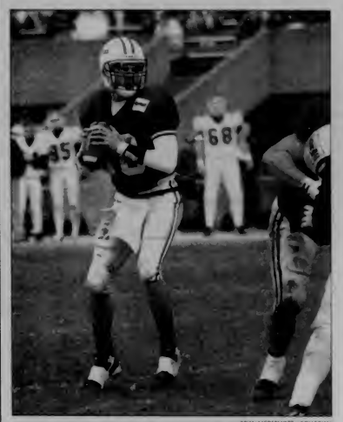
It looks as though running back Marcel Shipp will return to the lineup after sitting out the first round victory, suffering from pre–patella bursitis in his left knee.

"I'm definitely in," Shipp said. "Last week was a game– time decision and I came up a little short, I guess, but [Kevin Quinlan] did a good job and, me or him, we'll take the win."

"We'll just see where the swelling is, but right now, we figure he's going to play," Whipple said. "How much we're going to give it to him depends on how he looks, but if he looks good, he's going to get the ball."

The bug has also bitten the Mountain Hawks, as running back Brian Baker has been out the past three games with a foot injury and doesn't look to be ready for tomorrow's game.

Lehigh tops on top of the Lambert Cup standings, the poll that determines the best football team in the Northeast, placing ahead of playoff survivors UMass and UConn.



The two teams that will take the field tomorrow represent the only two playoff teams to win on the road. Lehigh will hope to continue the trend they've set.

The Minutemen were not phased by McNeese State's high ranking in total defense. Lehigh comes in with the same bill, placing fifth in the country in total defense, giving up only Engineers. With 1:18 left in the game, Pendergrass ran in what appeared to be the game–winning touchdown and a sure seven points. But when Jeff Falkowski kicked the extra–point attempt, Brinely was there to block it — it hit his wrist. Richmond took the lead, but only by two points.

Lehigh took possession, and drove 56 yards in 1:15 to set up Jaron Taaffe for a 30–yard field goal attempt, which he hit with :08 on the clock, prompting an eruption of celebration from the visitors' stands, which spread to the field shortly thereafter.

Rob Davis is the sports editor at the University of Richmond's Collegian. This article is an edited version of the original, which ran in UR's Collegian yesterday.

Turn to FOOTBALL, page 8

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Although sophomore tailback Marcel Shipp sat out last week's win over McNeese State with a knee injury, it appears that he will be ready to go for tomorrow's game.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Todd Bankhead and the Massachusetts football team are looking to take care of business tomorrow against Lehigh and move on to the Division I–AA semifinals.

FOOTBALL
UMASS @ LEHIGH
SATURDAY, 12PM
91.1 FM-WMUA
MIKE COREY-PLAY
MARK WOODALL-COLOR
WEEKEND PREVIEW

Getting here: Lehigh upsets Spiders in first round

By Rob Davis
Special to the Collegian

RICHMOND, Va. — It was an odd twist added to the University of Richmond's sports history last Saturday in the first round of the NCAA Division I playoffs. Richmond felt the sting of defeat, losing 24–23 against Lehigh in its first playoff game in 11 years.

The Spiders went into the playoffs having won nine straight, seemingly unstoppable. But the vigor that marked its play appeared to be eroded against Lehigh.

Richmond came out strong, taking an early 14–0 lead. Jasper Pendergrass ran the ball 19 yards for a touchdown on the Spiders' first drive and Jimmie Miles ran in from four yards out early in teh second quarter.

Pendergrass rushed for 148 yards and two touchdowns. Miles rushed for 80 yards and was 8–15 passing for 98 yards. He was sacked three times.

Richmond's defense struggled to contain Lehigh quarterback Phil Stambaugh. He was 26–for–37 passing for 281 yards and a touchdown. He even doubled as a receiver on a reverse that gave wide receiver Deron Braswell a chance to test his arm. Braswell connected with Stambaugh for 27 yards.

"We were working on that all week," Stambaugh said. "That was the second one we completed all week. Deron gave me a good ball, I was just trying to get No. 36 off me."

Credit Stan Brinley for saving the day for the UMass hoops to battle Marshall

By Aaron Soykin
Collegian Staff

After his highly–touted and pre–season ranked Minutemen were stunned by the College of Charleston 77–75 on Tuesday night, Massachusetts basketball coach Bruiser Flint sounded distraught during his post–game radio show, as he searched for a remedy to stop the snowball effect which has consumed his team.

Two straight losses and lackluster efforts from certain players have resulted in his recent vow to make changes in the starting lineup and rotation for tomorrow's 7 p.m. contest at Marshall.

"We're going to make some changes," he said. "...I'm going to play the guys who are ready to play."

Perhaps former UMass coach Jack Leaman put it best when he said of the team, "They just can't get everybody on the same page at the same time."

Inconsistency from every starting position and lack of intensity have plagued the Minutemen during their 1–2 start. Not only must Flint contend with these uncertainties, but he also has found a new dilemma in his front court, which has been severely out–rebounded during losses to St. John's and the College of Charleston.

Despite solid back–court play, and a fantastic start by junior shooting guard Monty Mack [34 points against the Cougars], the Minutemen have had little stability on their front line. Small forward Mike Babul, who is known as a defensive player and not an offensive threat, has been the front court's leading scorer so far.

After watching St. John's Tyrone Grant grab 17 rebounds and score 20 points against his forwards, and then witnessing College of Charleston's Jody Lumpkin net 22 points, Flint voiced his disappointment in the play of center Lari Kelner. The senior All–America candidate and NBA prospect has been challenged by foul trouble, missed shots, and lack of rebounding.

"Lari played awful," Flint said during his 99.3 WHMP radio broadcast, hinting that his big man may need some time to go back to the drawing board and find his game again.

Turn to HOOPS, page 9

Minutewomen off to N.Y.

By Jackie Leroux
Collegian Staff

After a brief two–game home stand, the Massachusetts women's basketball team will hit the road again this weekend.

The Minutewomen will be competing in the Sixth Annual Marriot Big Apple Classic. The tournament is hosted by Manhattan College at their campus in Riverdale, N.Y.

UMass ended a five game losing streak Wednesday with a win over Maine, and will look to continue improving their record of 2–5.

The tournament will begin for the Minutewomen on Saturday at 3 p.m. Massachusetts will take on the Texas A&M Aggies [2–3]. The Aggies hold a 2–0 overall advantage over the Minutewomen. Their last meeting occurred at the 1995 Postseason National Women's Invitational Tournament, in Amarillo, Texas. There the Aggies defeated UMass by a score of 80–59.

Texas A&M eventually went on to win the NWIT that year, but none of the current Aggies were in that game, and just one UMass player, senior forward Tez Kraft, remains from that season's squad.

Texas A&M has been a struggling team for the past two seasons. They have won only seven games in their conference, the Big 12, over the past two years. They finished last year with an overall record of 9–19.

This year, however, the Aggies are looking to make a fresh start. They have a new head coach in Peggie Gillom. Gillom brings high–quality experience with her. She spent the last two years as an assistant coach with the WNBA champion Houston Comets. She also spent 16 seasons as an assistant coach at the University of Mississippi.

Junior power forward Prissy Sharpe is the main force for Texas A&M. She leads the team in five statistical categories; points–per–game, total blocks, rebounds–per–game, free–throw percentage, and three–point field goal percentage. She is also averaging a double–double each game with 22.8 points, and 13.2 rebounds.

Junior forward Kera Alexander is expected to make her return on Saturday. She has missed the last few games due to a mild concussion. Alexander is the second leading scorer on the team, averaging 17.3 points–per–game.

Another strong player for the Aggies is senior point guard Kim Tarkington. Tarkington is one of the leaders in the Big 12 conference for defensive rebounding and assists. She is averaging 9.8 points a game, 6.2 rebounds and has garnered 25 assists on the season thus far.

On Sunday, UMass will face one of the other tournament participants, either Manhattan College or Colgate University. Depending on whether or not UMass wins their first game, they will play in either the consolation game at 1:30 p.m. or in the championship game at 5 p.m.

The Manhattan Lady Jaspers were

Turn to WOMEN, page 8

WOMEN'S B-BALL
UMASS @ TEXAS A+M
SATURDAY, 3 P.M.
91.1 FM-WMUA
MATT PERRAULT-PLAY
GREGG MATALAS-COLOR
WEEKEND PREVIEW

Hockey squad to play pair vs. B.U.

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

Oh, the times they are a changin'...

With all apologies to Bob Dylan, that song appears to be applicable in Hockey East this year. While the Massachusetts hockey team has been one of the pleasant surprises in the conference, the Boston University hockey team has been turning some heads as well — but for all the wrong reasons.

The Minutemen [4–6–1 overall, 2–2–1 in Hockey East] will face off twice this weekend with the Terriers in a traditional home–and–home matchup with the boys from Beantown. BU brings a 3–8–1 mark into the weekend and is a mere 1–4–1 in conference play.

It will be a key two days for the Minutemen, who are looking to scrape up at least one win against the only Hockey East team who they have not beaten since the reinstatement of the program.

"This is probably the first time they've [BU] been down [as a program] in the past 20 years," Massachusetts hockey coach Joe Mullen said. "But it's not like they're not still a good hockey team even though they are a little down. They beat Princeton 9–1 and Boston College, who was No. 2 in the country at the time. It's just a great opportunity for us."

Game one of the two game set will take place tonight at 7 p.m. at Walter Brown Arena in Boston, while both teams will head back to Amherst for a 7 p.m. faceoff tomorrow night at the William D. Mullins Center.

BU has had problems overcoming the loss of Hobey Baker Award winner Chris Drury and All–American Tom Poti, both of whom are off in the National Hockey League now. Sophomores Chris Heron [9–4–13] and Russ Bartlett [4–9–13] are the leading scorers for the Terriers, while teammates Albie O'Connell and Nick Gillis are right behind with 11 points.

While UMass boasts one of the best defensive units in the league, the BU

Turn to HOCKEY, page 9

HOCKEY
UMASS @ ROSTON
SATURDAY, 7 PM
91.1 FM-WMUA
MICHAEL KOBYLANSKI-PLAY
PAUL TEVES-COLOR
WEEKEND PREVIEW

The Massachusetts
DAILY COLLEGIAN
Volume CIV Issue 62 New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 Monday, December 7, 1998

Fitzy hitting stride

Bryan Fitzgerald had a goal and an assist in a pair against BU this weekend. Despite the effort, UMass dropped the pair of Hockey East contests. (see Sports, page 14)

All that Jazz

The UMass Vocal Jazz & African–American Music Ensemble performs tonight at Bezanson; Corin Redgrave at UM. (see Arts & Living, page 6).

WORLD

Palestinian Parliament warns Israel of violence

JERUSALEM (AP) — The speaker of the Palestinian parliament yesterday warned of possible violence if Israel continues to expand settlements in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, where the Palestinians hope to establish a state.

"If settlement activity continues, then all means of resistance are open," Ahmed Qureia, who is also known as Abu Ala, told reporters in the West Bank town of Ramallah.

Since the signing of a land–for–security accord, Jewish settlers have accelerated the establishment of makeshift communities on West Bank hilltops in a bid to keep the land from being turned over to the Palestinians.

After an attack on an Israeli soldier by a Palestinian mob in the West Bank last week, Israel announced it was suspending the accord until the Palestinians stopped violating the agreement. Israel's Channel 2 TV reported yesterday that Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, under pressure from hard–liners who threatened to bolt his government over the accord, had secretly agreed to freeze the deal days before the attack took place and use Palestinian violations as an excuse.

NATION

Former congressman comes out of closet

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Republican Rep. Michael Huffington, a California millionaire who spent $28 million in a failed bid for the Senate in 1994, disclosed in a magazine interview that he is gay.

"I know now that my sexuality is part of who I am,"

Huffington, 51, said in the January issue of Esquire. "I've been through a long process of finding out the truth about me." The oil and banking heir and former congressman disclosed his homosexuality during 20 hours of interviews with the article's author, David Brock, last spring.

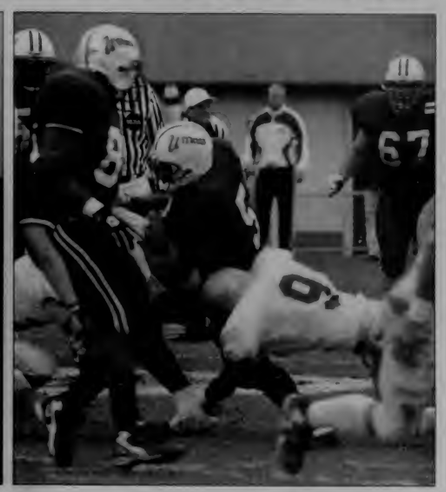
In a $5.4 million campaign, Huffington unseated a veteran Republican congressman from California in 1992. Two years later, he ran and lost a race for the seat held by Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D–Calif.

The Senate campaign was notable for Huffington's big spending, and its negative tone that included controversy over his then–wife Arianna's employment of an illegal immigrant as a nanny.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Tuesday	Wednesday
HIGH:65 LOW: 37	HIGH: 40 LOW: 26	HIGH: 36 LOW: 19

INSIDE



Arts & Living.....page 5
Classifieds .....page 10
Comics.....page 11
Crossword .....page 11
Editorial .....page 4
FYI.....page 10
News.....page 1
Sports .....page 12

ON THE INTERNET

www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

UM going to national semifinals

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN

The Umass football team advances to the national semifinals after defeating Lehigh University this past Saturday.

By Casey Kane
Collegian Staff

With just under a minute remaining in Saturday's NCAA Division I–AA quarterfinal playoff contest between the University of Massachusetts and Lehigh University football teams, fans began streaming out of their seats and over the short fence separating the field from the stands. A few seconds later, those same fans rushed to congratulate the Minutemen, who had captured their first home playoff win ever with a 27–21 defeat of the Mountain Hawks at Warren P. McGuirk Alumni Stadium.

UMass now advances to the national semifinals to face Northwestern State in Natichitoches, La. next Saturday.

"We're one of four right now," UMass coach Mark Whipple said after the game. "In my mind, why not UMass?"

Georgia Southern, which defeated Connecticut, and Western Illinois, which beat Florida A&M, will meet in the other semifinal.

In the wake of the win, fans climbed atop the goalpost at the south end of the field, but police intervened to pull people off the structure before any damage was done. The fans then rushed to the north end zone, where they succeeded in pulling down the crossbar and two uprights.

UMass junior Josh Dubreuil was on the football field when he was hit by the falling goalpost. The goalpost, he said, had already been knocked on its side when it was pushed over again, hitting him in the head.

"I had my back to [the post]. Everybody screamed 'heads up,'" he remembered about the scene. "It whacked me in the head."

Dubreuil said the post didn't hit him "squarely" in the head but "grazed" him and didn't knock him unconscious. He said he was taken to Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton where he received a "couple of stitches" for his injury.

"It wasn't as bad as it could've been," he said.

Dubreuil described the post–victory scene on the football field as "a good time," but, of his injury, said, "I guess I was in the wrong place at the wrong time."

For more on this weekend's win over Lehigh, turn to page 14.

Collegian staff member Lorraine Kennedy contributed to this report.

Campus pond water quality tested

By Jake Lilien
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group (MASSPIRG) released the findings of a study testing the water quality of the Campus Pond on Dec. 4.

MASSPIRG announced that the pond, as well as Warner Lake in Hadley, have excessive levels of total phosphorous. The campus pond also is endangered by a low oxygen saturation level

MASSPIRG water monitoring coordinator Marlene Naanes and several student interns have performed dissolved oxygen testing on the water in the Campus Pond, as well as Warner Lake in Hadley, since mid–September. According to their results, both bodies of water are endangered by runoff from the town of Amherst and nearby agricultural lands.

Two volunteers attempted to get more recent results. However, the results could not be analyzed because the sample was lost in the pond.

Earlier research by MASSPIRG shows that the Campus Pond and Warner Lake both have high phosphorous levels, which can lead to eutrophication, a condition which encourages growth of excessive plant life. Eutrophication can cause lakes to turn into bogs or fields.

Naanes said that she felt that this is mostly the result of residential and corporate run–off, such as fertilizers, but that swan feces and nearby plants were also partly responsible.

She announced that Warner Lake, unlike the campus pond, already shows signs of eutrophication, such as green algae mats, floating plants from the lake's bottom to surface, and a strong smell."

Howard Asher, of the UMass Outing Club, said this condition can cause a body of water to be unusable.

"Such high plant coverage can impair recreational uses, such as boating, swimming and fishing," Asher said.

The campus pond, despite having higher phosphorous levels than Warner Lake, does not yet exhibit these symptoms. However, it does have a dangerously low oxygen content. According to MASSPIRG, the pond's 50 percent oxygen saturation level could prove harmful to aquatic life. The ideal saturation level is 70–75 percent.

The low oxygen saturation level occurred after a day of rain, which suggests that the oxygen depletion was a direct result of local run–off.

When asked what could be done to improve the lakes' conditions, Naanes suggested that a "buffer zone" be created; in which no fertilizer could be used. She added that testing would be done to determine the effect of such a zone.

However, Naanes also stressed that continued sampling of the phosphorous and oxygen saturation levels would be necessary, so as to "provide a better scope of possible problems."

According to MASSPIRG, the water content of a lake can be affected by changes in season. The Water Watch internship will be continued during the spring semester.

Scholarship fund established in memory of Kerry Hines

A scholarship fund has been established at the University of Massachusetts in memory of UMass student Kerry Hines.

Hines had been in the intensive care unit at Baystate Medical Center in Springfield since she was hit by a car in front of Hills House on Nov. 11. She died Nov. 27.

The memorial scholarship fund was established by the University Controller's Office, where 25–year–old Hines had worked, to benefit biology and exercise science students in need of financial assistance, a press release from the UMass News Office stated.

The fund was announced at a memorial service held for Hines, a senior biology major, on Dec. 3 at Memorial Hall. The service was estimated to have been attended by 200 friends, family members, classmates, faculty and administrators.

Donations can be sent to: The Kerry Hines Scholarship Fund, c/o Controller's Office, 405 Goodell Building, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass., 01003–3210.

— Lorraine Kennedy

KARA STOKES / COLLEGIAN

A springlike December

Two unidentified Amherst children spend a warm December day climbing a tree in Amherst center.

Anti–semitism manifests in local area

By Julie Fialkow
Collegian Staff

This past Halloween five juveniles in Hatfield, dressed like Ku Klux Klansmen, drew a swastika with shaving cream on the lawn of a local Jewish family, according to a Dec. 1 article in the Hampshire Gazette.

On the following Saturday, several hours before a rally was held to protest such acts, Hatfield resident James Tarr awoke to find his van painted with bright orange Nazi swastikas and the symbol for Hitler's elite SS guard.

The article also stated that just prior to the rally, a series of swastikas and the letters "KKK" had been painted on a Main Street barn.

James Young, a professor of the English and Judaic Studies department said the first incident probably stemmed from ignorance.

"The incident with the fourteen year–old kid with other young teenagers dressed as Klansmen comes very close to being minor," he said.

Young said the teenagers probably didn't understand the significance of swastikas during the Holocaust.

"If they knew what it means they are probably bad kids," Young said.

"The best thing to do is to teach them history. Teach them that the meanings of these emblems are not innocent."

The other incident, where a man's van had a swastika spraypainted on it, Young said, was probably more of a hate–crime.

"It means neo–nazis live nearby. We affirmed that when the car was spray–painted," he said. "Swastikas are a hate– crime here. In Germany they are illegal. There is a law against putting them on anything. They understand what it means there."

Young said that if in fact there are neo–nazis in the area, they should come out and face the public.

"I say let them come out so they can be dealt with out in the open," he said.

"Many [neo–nazis] deny events that happened during the Holocaust. Many deny German war crimes."

Young said neo–nazi groups don't take responsibility for their beliefs.

"Generally they plead ignorance. Generally they get themselves off the hook," he said "They hide under the cover of night; hit and run."

Shira Hutt, co–president of the Jewish Student Union at UMass, said it was disturbing for her to hear about the incidents in Hatfield.

"It goes without saying that it's really disturbing to hear about acts of anti–semitism. Especially in this community, which prides itself on diversity education," she said.

Hutt also said the University has a role in eliminating such acts of discrimination.

"I do think there should be other forms of education, not just [on] anti–semitism but all forms [and other acts] of discrimination," she said.

Hutt talked about the anniversary of Kristallnacht — "night of broken glass" — and its relevance to the recent events in Hatfield.

"Years after Kristallnacht, and also other acts going around the world, people's efforts to try and eliminate anti–semitism and other forms of racism still haven't succeeded," she said. Kristallnacht, which took place Nov. 9 and 10 in 1938 in Austria and Germany, was the first organized violence against the Jews leading up to the Holocaust. All the synagogues and Jewish stores were destroyed in the villages, and 20,000 men were sent off to concentration camps.

Spanking may constitute child abuse, according to court

BOSTON (AP) — A Woburn minister has lost a round in his fight for the right to spank his 11-year-old son.

Suffolk County Superior Court Judge John Cratsley has ruled that Donald Cobble may not use corporal punishment against the boy and that doing so could constitute child abuse.

Cobble, who admits to spanking the boy regularly with a belt, told the Boston Herald he would challenge the ruling.

"I am going to fight this thing and I'm going to win," he said.

Cobble, an associate pastor of the Christian Teaching and Worship Center, says the Bible sanctions corporal punishment, and he is a firm believer in the philosophy of "spare the rod, spoil the child."

He administers one or two spanks with the leather end of a belt when his son acts up.

"What I have done is legal and it's Biblical," he told the newspaper. "Why are they able to declare me a child abuser?" The Department of Social Services filed abuse charges against Cobble last year, charges that were affirmed Cratsley's ruling. DSS argued that spanking put Cobble's son at risk, a factor that outweighs his right to practice his faith.

"Given the continued nature of the spanking, the vulnerability of the child, and the Cobbles' admission of both spanking and believing in spanking as a form of discipline, there is a real risk that this practice will lead to serious injury," Cratsley ruled last week.

Cobble's lawyer, Robert Sherman, called the decision "bizarre" and said it appeared to rubberstamp the DSS findings.

"I think this decision will never withstand scrutiny by a higher court — you cannot label somebody an abuser based on what they may do in the future," Sherman said.

"You're judged by your current conduct. Was it abusive? The answer is no."

Cobble was turned in to authorities in March 1997 after his son mentioned the spankings to a teacher. Social workers, who said the child told them he was afraid of his father when he gets angry, offered to drop the case if Cobble agreed to stop striking his son. Cobble refused. He pulled his son from the school and teaches him at home.

DSS spokeswoman Loraine Carli acknowledged that corporal punishment isn't against the law, but said case workers have to make decisions about whether punishment crosses the line into abuse. "These are very tough calls," she said. "It's much easier when you have a very clear-cut abuse or neglect case."

State Rep. Marie Parente, D-Milford, criticized the ruling, saying it sends a message that parents better understand DSS regulations "or beware." She said DSS investigators are not always properly trained and can get carried away with their work. "Very oftentimes abuse is in the eye of the beholder, who happens to be the DSS investigator," she said.

But Joyce Strom, executive director of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, said officials should put children's safety first.

"We wouldn't be having this discussion if it was about someone hitting a dog and we saw it," she said. "We'd call the MSPCA, they'd move in, file charges and take the dog away. We all feel like we must protect animals in this country. But we don't want to interfere with how someone treats children."

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN

The thrill of victory
The Umass football team celebrates their win Saturday afternoon.

Students walk to free Tibet

By Aimee Wallis
Collegian Correspondent

Saturday morning Sergio Paluch, creator of the University of Massachusetts Students For Free Tibet, led supporters of human rights and Tibetan freedom on a march through Northampton.

Students from the five-college community, Amnesty International and members of the Tibetan community of Western Massachusetts gathered at Pulaski Park Saturday morning with signs saying, "Free Tibet" and "Human Rights."

The march was organized in honor of the 50th anniversary of the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights on Dec. 10.

Supporters wanted to raise awareness of the lack of basic human rights around the globe. Four fifths of the human race are denied political and civil rights, according to Thondup Tsering, president of the Tibetan Association of Western Massachusetts.

Paluch, an undergraduate, organized the UMass group last year when he learned that only a graduate group existed. The group meets once a week to discuss ways in which they can raise awareness of human rights and the abuses taking place in Tibet.

Paluch said he joined the group because he himself is a political refugee.

"We live in different times... we have weapons to destroy the world many times over... we need to ensure that everyone has human rights to express thoughts," Paluch said.

Tsering is also a member of the Tibetan community, which works with the Tibetan Association of Western Massachusetts to preserve Tibetan culture and identity. He said that he participated to send a message to the United Nations (U.N.).

"We are joining the walk to remind the United Nations that for 48 years the Tibetan people have been at loss without their country or freedom. Human Rights have to be addressed. Wake up, U.N.," Tsering said.

Tsering explained the human rights violations that have been taking place in Tibet for the past 50 years. Tibetans do not have freedom to speak about independence and do not have a right to practice Buddhism, he said. In addition, pictures of the Dhali Lama are not allowed in Tibetan homes.

Tsering also said thousands of political activists are being imprisoned and tortured, and young children are also being tortured. Tsering cited an example of an eight-year-old boy who was put under house arrest because he was believed to be the reincarnation of the Dhali Lama.

China has a large hold over Tibet, Tsering said, and does so, in part, by forcing Tibetans to learn the Chinese language.

"China is trying to destroy Tibet. They don't mean it when they say they want to talk, they are just trying to buy time," Tsering said.

In the end, Tsering looks at how the Tibet situation affects him.

"I am a person without a country and without human rights," Tsering said.

The Walk for Human Rights also attracted area residents who weren't involved with any of the groups.

"We did it for the walk, and it sounded like a good cause," said Robin Zegarski, a participant in the march.

After the 10-mile walk, supporters attended a reception at the UMass Campus Center where the groups discussed resolutions that they would attempt to pass within the coming year.

Greenfield Community College — January Classes

Take a course during January Intersession!

Title	Credits	Days	Times	Course Dates
Counseling Skills	3	MTWThF	9-12:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
English Composition I	3	MTWThF	9-12:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
English Composition II	3	MTWThF	9-12:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
English Grammar and Usage	1	MTWThF	9-12:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
ESL Computer Training	1	MTWThF	9-10:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
ESL Intermediate Grammar Review	2	MTWThF	10-12:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
French Skills Practice I	2	MTWThF	9-12:00	1/5/99- 1/15/99
History of the American People Since 1865	3	MTWThF	9-12:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
Introduction to Dance	3	MTWThF	9-12:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
Introduction to Writing Poetry	3	MTWThF	9-12:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
Massage Therapy II	1	M W F T Th	1:30-4:30 1:30-5:30	12/31/98-1/21/99
Oral Communication:Public Speaking	3	MTWThF	9-12:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
Paramedic II	2	T Th and Saturday 1/16/99	6-11 p.m	12/31/98-1/21/99
Pathology	3	MTWThF	9-12:30	12/31/98-1/21/99
Practical Nursing Practicum	2	TWThF	8-2:45	1/4/99-1/21/99
Principles of Psychology	3	MTWThF	9-12:00	12/31/98-1/21/99
Spanish Skills Practice I	2	MTWThF	9-12:00	1/5/99-1/15/99
Spanish Skills Practice II	2	MTWThF	9-12:00	1/5/99-1/15/99

You can earn one, two, or three transferable credits during January.

Register by Wednesday, December 23.
Financial Aid can apply to January courses!

Classes begin Thursday, December 31, 1998 and run through Thursday, January 21, 1999 – unless otherwise noted.
(No class on Monday January 18, Martin Luther King Day)

Spring Semester begins Monday, January 25, 1999

GREEN FIELD | Greenfield Community College
Higher Education at an affordable price.

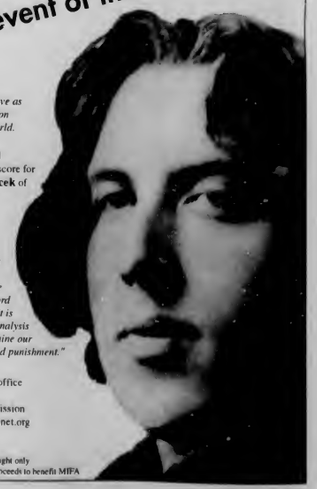
Call 774-3131, ext. 272 for more information.

Massachusetts International Festival of the Arts

Donald T. Sanders, Executive Artistic Director,
Vanessa Redgrave and T. Marc Futter, Benefit Co-Chairs
PRESENT

CORIN REDGRAVE
in a one man performance of

Oscar Wilde's De Profundis



MIFA Theatre

UMass students only $5.00!

Tuesday, Dec. 8, 8:00 PM
Bowker Auditorium, UMass

A Moving Theatre production direct from London's Royal National Theatre.
One of only two performances in the United States.

the theatrical event of the fall season!

Distinguished British actor Corin Redgrave as Oscar Wilde in a fully staged dramatization of Wilde's passionate love letter to the world.

Wilde's grandson, Merlin Holland, will introduce this performance. The original score for solo cello will be played by Roman Placek of the UMass music department.

Jailed for homosexual offenses in 1895 and sentenced to hard labor in Reading Gaol (jail) in England, Wilde was only allowed writing materials for a few hours each day, and only for the purpose of writing letters. Under these conditions, he wrote a monumental letter to his lover, Lord Alfred Douglas. "One hundred years on, it is still an astonishing tour-de-force of self-analysis and a passionate appeal for us to re-examine our attitudes and assumptions about crime and punishment."

Tickets: 413 545-2511 or at Bowker box office
$5.00 UMass Students, $10.00 Students
$17.50 Seniors 65+, $30.00 General Admission
Information: 800 224-6432 or www.mifa-net.org

Massachusetts WYCB One night only
All proceeds to benefit MIFA

Fire breaks out on UM land; quickly put out by fire dept.

By Michael Puffer
Collegian Correspondent

There were no injuries or property damage after a brush fire broke out in the woods behind Presidential Apartments around 4 p.m. Friday afternoon.

Other than several acres of burnt ground, there was no property damage. Amherst Fire Department Captain, Donald McKay, said the cause of the fire is still "undetermined."

McKay said he believed the burnt property belonged to the University of Massachusetts.

Smoke filled the sky and ash fell on North Pleasant Street while the fire burned.

"I saw flames shoot 20–25 feet in the air," said Colsby Streeter, a witness to the blaze.

The Amherst fire department responded with three fire trucks and one brush truck, and was on the scene at about 4 p.m., McKay said.

The fire department was able to extinguish the blaze in about 15 minutes, according to McKay.

The firefighters stayed another two hours to drench the area in order to prevent another possible flare-up.

Brock said the fire burned for half an hour before the department responded and spread quickly in dry, dead undergrowth, but the fire department was able to gain control quickly due to the light wind.

KARA STORES / COLLEGIAN

The art of battle
Members of the Tae Kwon Do club display their skill and focus.

Satellite reveals size of ice cap on Martian face

By Joseph B. Verrengia
Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — New satellite images providing the first close-up views of Mars' north pole show it is a thick ice cap wider than Texas, but much smaller than previously thought.

Planetary scientists said yesterday that the ice cap revealed by the Mars Global Surveyor is made of water ice. But even with Mars' very cold climate, it is only half the size of the ice cap covering Greenland and only 4 percent of the Antarctica's combined ice sheets.

The amount of water trapped in the ice cap is not sufficient to have carved the deep gullies that scar the surface of the planet, and is about 10 times less than the minimum volume that researchers believe would have been necessary to fill an ancient ocean. The new three-dimensional images were discussed at the American Geophysical Union meeting in San Francisco. The data will be published Friday in the journal Science.

Researchers said the ice cap is unlike any feature they have seen on Earth, or any other orbiting body in the solar system. It rests in a deep basin at the top of the planet that might have been created by an asteroid impact similar to craters on the Moon. The ice cap measures 750 miles and is 1.8 miles thick. Like any large feature, it is not uniform.

Parts of its surface are very smooth, with elevations varying only a few feet over many miles. But in some areas, the surface is riddled with canyons — one trough is deeper than the Grand Canyon — or marked by half-mile mounds of ice that extend for miles. If humans were to explore the ice cap, they probably would be able to cross-country ski across it's gentler grades, and might even get down its steeper slopes on downhill skis.

"It looks like a hockey puck in a shallow depression," said David Smith of NASA-Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md. Mars Global Surveyor is gradually descending into the Martian atmosphere, using its own aerodynamic drag to slow down. Since last summer it has made over 180 looping orbits around the planet's poles, passing as close as 80 miles above the ice cap.

Researchers said the new images raise more questions about past conditions on Mars than they answer.

KARA STORES / COLLEGIAN

Unified motion
Umass students are tested for belt advancement in Tae Kwon Do Sunday afternoon in the Webster dorm.

Space station link–up successful

By Marcia Dunn
Associated Press

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Endeavour's astronauts connected the first two building blocks of the international space station yesterday, creating a seven-story tower in the shuttle cargo bay. It was the first time that the Russian-built Zarya control module and the made-in-America Unity chamber had ever touched. It looked to be a perfect and, hopefully, long-lasting fit.

"We have capture of Zarya," commander Robert Cabana announced the moment the two pieces came together.

"Congratulations to the crew of the good ship Endeavour," replied Mission Control. "That's terrific."

The 240-mile-high construction job began two hours earlier with Nancy Currie's capture of Zarya (Russian for Sunrise) using the shuttle robot arm. "We're hallway home," Cabana said.

Then came the hard part: stacking the two giant cylinders in the cargo bay.

The two station pieces are so big — 77 feet from the tip of one to the tip of the other with a combined mass of 70,000 pounds — that Currie and her crewmates had to rely on a computerized vision system and camera views, rather than direct line of sight. This was the first time such a "blind" docking had ever been attempted. Currie positioned the solar-winged Zarya, still on the end of the shuttle robot arm, several inches directly above Unity. It was slow going; she wanted and needed perfect alignment.

Once Currie was sure she had it, Cabana fired Endeavour's thrusters, and the brief burst raised the shuttle, and thereby Unity, enough for the docking mechanisms on the two station components to snap together. The historical moment occurred above the South Pacific.

The union — intended to last the station's 15-year or more lifetime — set the stage for a spacewalk by two astronauts to attach electrical connectors and cables between the two components; the operation is planned for today.

Mission Control thought yesterday's work might take hours longer than planned and gave the six astronauts plenty of time for the tasks. Everything occurred more or less when and how it was supposed to, aside from a piece of space junk that strayed too close.

Before beginning their final approach to Zarya, the six astronauts had to steer clear of a chunk of a rocket launched last month from California.

Mission Control ordered the pilots to fire the shuttle thrusters to put an extra three miles between Endeavour and the space junk, putting Endeavour a total of five miles from the orbiting debris. The smaller gap would have been "probably a little too close for comfort," Mission Control said.

The bigger worry, by far, was over Endeavour's pursuit and capture of Zarya, and its coupling with Unity.

The shuttle's 50-foot robot arm had never before handled an object as massive as the 41-foot, 44,000-pound Zarya, a power and propulsion module that was launched from Kazakstan on Nov. 20. It will provide all of the necessary electricity and steering for the fledgling space station until a permanent control module can be launched next summer.

Minutes after Zarya's capture, Cabana called down that two antennas on the module were still undeployed, as Russian flight controllers had feared. The antennas must be fully deployed in order for Zarya's manual docking system to work.

News is looking for writers.
Speak to News Editor Jill Carroll, 545-3500

Amherst 256–8911 DOMINO'S PIZZA
Drivers Wanted
Pay $8 to $15 Per Hour
Open till 4am

4.99 Medium Cheese Pizza Topping 99¢ — DOMINO'S PIZZA expires 12/15/98

6.99 Large Cheese Pizza Topping $1.35 — DOMINO'S PIZZA expires 12/15/98

8.99 Ex-Large Cheese Pizza Topping $1.75 — DOMINO'S PIZZA expires 12/15/98

The only thing better than an iMac: An iMac for less than $29.99/mo.

Apple® Computer couldn't make iMac™ any easier to set up or use. So they made it easier to buy. Now, if you're a student, you can get an iMac for less than $29.99 per month* with the first payment not due for 120 days. For about what you'd spend on a few pizzas, you can have a super-fast computer that can get you onto the internet in 10 minutes right out of the box. You also get a coupon book worth $2,000 in possible additional savings, for software, games and accessories. Come try an iMac for yourself at

Computers E.T.C. | University Store — In the UMass Campus Center 9 to 5 Mon – Fri, 11 to 4 Saturday 413-545-2510

http://www.apple.com/education/store

Authorized Reseller

© 1998 Apple Computer, Inc. All rights reserved. Apple and the Apple logo are registered trademarks and iMac is a trademark of Apple Computer, Inc. *0% 36 monthly payments of $29.99 based on a principal amount of $1,079 consisting of manufacturer's suggested retail price of $1,199.99 and including all taxes, shipping and 0% down plus a one-time origination fee of $19. First payment will be due approximately 120 days after loan disbursement. The monthly variable rate equals the prime rate published in The Wall Street Journal on the first business day of each month plus 1.99% ("Table"). As of November 2, 1998, the rate is 11.99% (8.00% prime rate plus 1.99%). 11.07% APR, subject to monthly increase or decrease. Any changes in the Rate will take effect on the fifth business day of each calendar month and will affect the dollar amount of your monthly payments. Tax & hazard insurance required. No prepayment penalty.

GRADUATE WOMAN'S NETWORK

Buffet Dinner & Refreshments will be served

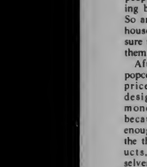
Invites graduate students to an
Informal Gathering of Graduate Women
Come meet other women who will speak on issues of concern to us here in UMass.
THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10
International Human Rights Day
7 - 9 P.M., GRADUATE LOUNGE, CAMPUS CENTER

For more information call Yanti at 545-5316
GWN is a project of the Graduate Student Senate. 919 Campus Center

Work During Break

$$Earn Money$$

$400 - $600 PER WEEK
$7.50+PER HR with OVERTIME AVAILABLE
JOIN OUR TEAM TAKING INVENTORY IN YOUR HOMETOWN AREA DAYS AND NIGHTS



RGIS Inventory Specialists
Visit our website rgisinv.com
OR CALL TODAY & SET UP AN INTERVIEW
24 hour Job line — 1-888-241-RGIS
BOSTON 617-484-1788 PLYMOUTH 508-833-1145
SOUTH OF BOSTON 508-821-5891 ROUTE 3 SOUTH 781-340-6355
SEA COAST AND NORTH OF BOSTON 603-926-9813
Come visit us on the concourse 12/1, 12/8, 12/9, 12/15
EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

-- The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian --

Ad nauseum

I had an extremely disturbing experience the evening before Thanksgiving. My sister and I decided to go see a movie; we wanted to sit back and be entertained for a couple of hours the night before a stressful day. We chose to see "Elizabeth," a historical drama that had received excellent reviews. We were also looking forward to the previews of other artsy films, the kind that generally play in one–screen cinemas and last for a week because most people prefer to watch mind–numbing blockbuster flicks.

So anyway, we left the house extra early to be sure that we didn't miss them.

Lindsay McCarthy

After we bought our popcorn and other overpriced especially designed to suck the money out of you— because you're stupid enough to buy them at the theate—food products, we seated ourselves. There were less than ten people watching this film. It was probably because "The Waterboy" and "Enemy of the State" were both playing on double screens in the same complex, so luckily there were no armrest wars going on or seventh graders making out. We sat back as the lights went down, and focused our attention on the "larger than life" screen as we waited to be enlightened.

We were then bombarded with pre–movie advertisements. Of course they are annoying and serve only to remind me just how materialistic our society is, but they have never appalled, shocked, or scared me the way one particular advertisement did.

It was an advertisement for Aiwa sound systems. At first it seemed innocent, the ad just displayed a big sound system. That's all we saw visually, the stereo, but we were hearing the terrorized shrieks of a woman. At the very least she was being brutally beaten, but the pummelling noises, mixed with her screams led the imagination to wander. This lasted for maybe five to ten seconds, followed by what I presumed to be a knife plunging into her body. There was a pause, which we may assume means that the woman is dead. This was followed by a pro–Aiwa pitch, something like, "Aiwa brings you the finest in quality."

I was deeply affected by this advertisement. I was angry, disgusted, and very disturbed. I realize that it's no big secret that companies and corporations have very few reservations about exploiting anyone or anything to sell a product. I know that hundreds of thousands of dollars go into the images that my only flash across my eyes; that advertising is one of the largest industries in the world. Even given all these facts, wow, that was truly horrible.

When I pointed this out to my sister, who I assumed would have the same reaction as I did, she immediately shushed me in an irritated tone. That was unexpected. I let it go until we got home after the movie, and then I demanded of her, "How could you shush me during that ad!"

"Lindsay, all I wanted to do was watch a movie, I didn't want to analyze anything."

"But, didn't it disturb you, just a little?"

"Yeah, I guess, but you overreact to everything. I just ignore that kind of thing."

"That kind of thing?! They used the sounds of a woman being assaulted and killed to sell a stereo, don't you think that's more than just a 'kind of thing?'"

That's about where the conversation took a "you always try to tell me that I'm stupid" turn (a rather unfortunate turn in my opinion, but that's what happened).

So, apparently I am alone in my opinion. I can't understand why Aiwa would make the decision to create that advertisement. Does their public relations committee really think that they are marketing to all the unconsciously (or consciously) woman–hating murderous men who just happen to be watching "Elizabeth" the night before Thanksgiving? Did they think that no one would be offended by their ad? (Well, my sister wasn't. Maybe I'm missing something.) We appear to be so desensitized to violence in our daily lives that it's becoming socially acceptable to use it as a blatant marketing ploy. Is this what "shock ads" are?

Granted, I only remember seeing that one specific ad out of all the others, so I guess they have done a good job of etching their product into my mind, but I'm not exactly running to the nearest electronics store to buy an Aiwa stereo. I suppose though, that my personal boycott of Aiwa goods—–because they crossed every seemingly socially acceptable boundary—is a futile one. Maybe a woman being assaulted and murdered is socially acceptable, and maybe my sentiment is in the minority...

Will I ever get around to writing a letter to the company complaining and demanding that they stop running their ad or else? Probably not. I guess I'm no better than my sister; she didn't waste any time or energy being angry and trying to "change" the ways of the world. I mean, who am I, anyway, just another Gen Xer who keeps trying to make everyone stay within their politically correct boundaries? Does my opinion even matter? Should I just not have an opinio? Who really cares? People just want to watch their movies and buy their cheap headsets and not have to think. Sounds good to me.

Lindsay McCarthy is a Collegian columnist.

In the mail

'Dear fellow Vietnam Veteran," the fundraising letter began.

Back in time again. AKs sound different from M–16s. More of a pop–pop–pop noise. Suddenly we heard a whole lot of them. Charles, announcing his presence. The rounds came whacking through the trees. Our ride was inbound. Our guys were returning fire, and I had to shout into my handset to hear myself talk to the helicopter pilots. The landing zone had gone hot just as we were about to make our exit.

Di di mau! I was running for my slick as fast as a healthy nineteen–year–old could run and crouch at the same time. Then I felt myself shoved into the ground while my legs seemed to fly out from under me. A mortar got me. My right leg was broken and I couldn't get up... and I was short, damn it. I strained to look over the grass. The Huey's crew chief had seen me go down. He unhooked, ran over with another guy and started dragging me by my web gear. I could feel the broken bones grinding together. A couple of the other guys helped him drag me into the bird and we got the hell out of there — most tik. My trouser legs were a bloody mess. I remember wondering if I was going to lose my leg. Then I passed out.

Fast forward. I'm in a Spanish class at UMass. La profesora expressed her delight at the apprehension of that tin–horn murderer, Pinochet. I attempted to express the wildly held sentiment that Castro ought to be next on the list.

I was startled when a bellow resembling that of a water buffalo issued from a faculty member and demanding that they stop running their ad or else? Probably not. I guess I'm no better than my sister; she didn't waste any time or energy being angry and trying to "change" the ways of the world. I mean, who am I, anyway, just another Gen Xer who keeps trying to make everyone stay within their politically correct boundaries? Does my opinion even matter? Should I just not have an opinio? Who really cares? People just want to watch their movies and buy their cheap headsets and not have to think. Sounds good to me.

Political and religious fanaticism have a special appeal for people who fail to acquire adequate social skills. When I was in school, the fanatics occasionally banded together, but they were loners nonetheless. Homebodies. Many came from homes where one or both parents were alcoholic. Fanatics are desperately afraid of chaos, and they are equally desperate for an order or "structure" that will make them feel in control. They are sure that they can only be safe by imposing their egos on the world they are surrounded by — but do not feel part of. The "true believers" rail on with an awkward air of moral superiority while secretly feeling, deep down, that everyone they meet is somehow "better" than they are.

Some of these wretched souls do rather well in some of life's pursuits, as attested to by their presence among the faculty of this and other reputable universities. It is much easier to do harm than to do good, however. Much worse are the ne'er–do–wells, who, like Lee Harvey Oswald, Timothy McVeigh and Ted Kaczinsky, make their mark on the world with the vilest acts of evil. A fanatic denizen of the streets and back alleys of Vienna gathered an army of true believers and managed to convince a "civilized" nation to perpetrate the most villainous agenda in the memory of guilty humanity. A thoughtful librarian in China set in motion the destruction of a hundred million human beings along with the most widespread and abject misery conceivable. They always want to destroy first. And it's still not over.

Martin Reddy

"Dear fellow Vietnam Veteran..." The letter was from the National Commander of the American Legion. A flyer contained a picture of him in the wheelchair, which he has depended upon for mobility since wounds received in combat in the Republic of Vietnam made him a paraplegic.

He asked for funds for the relief of veterans who, like himself, had received serious physical setbacks resulting from wounds in that war. The money would be used to provide them with wheelchairs, prostheses, medicine and much needed health care.

This appeal was different from others I had received from the Legion, the VFW and the Special Forces Association. The beneficiaries were not to be occupational therapy programs in VA hospitals or "homeless veterans." The funds we provided were to be used for the relief of our former enemies — the North Vietnamese Army and the Vietcong.

At first I was annoyed. "I wish we could have killed more of those bastards," I thought. Then I looked at the picture of the man in the wheelchair. I hardly have a limp. I wrote a check and put it in the mail before I could change my mind.

Martin Reddy is a Collegian columnist.

On skirts and flirts

A note to all single males: if the girl you've just hit on says she's not interested, the correct response is not, "Please? I'm infatuated with you!" A simple smile and perhaps even a sheepish "Okay, bye then," will do.

A little over two months ago, I got a job at a nearby mall working at a calendar kiosk, a stand which sells — use your power of logic here, folks — calendars. Basically, I spend my shifts sitting at the register reading the latest Cosmo, occasionally making a sale or teaching a customer the merits of, say, the "Studs and Spurs" calendar versus the "Men are Like Placemats" calendar.

Sounds relatively tame, right? Guess again. You see, being an employee at the kiosk entails the provision that one must dress up for work. This means no jeans, which is a problem if the majority of my waist–down wardrobe consists of Levis. So after I was hired, I invested in a bunch of skirts, all of which match my other clothing staple, black crewneck shirts. All I have to add are a pair of black nylons and some black clunky shoes and I'm good to go.

Alison Schelin

However, I quickly discovered that wearing a skirt ensconces you in an aura visible only to males which apparently causes them to believe you want nothing more than to be told you are a) one good–looking babe, or b) a hot mama. Of course, that's an exaggeration: usually wearing a skirt elicits a less generic come–on like, "Damn, baby, those gams are makin' me feel glad to have a Mr. Happy!" Uh, glad to be of service.

Skirts, by some feminine magic, make a woman feel more confident. Yet I should be able to wear them without having to hear, "Hey, honey", forty–six times a day. While on the job, decked out in leg–revealing outfits, I've been offered a Snickers bar by a fifteen year–old who stared unabashedly as he not–so–eloquently asked if I had a boyfriend. — "So, uh, um, do you, like, have, like, uh, a boyfriend or anything like that?"

I've had to put up with a trio of helplessly infantile twenty–somethings who not only tried to impress me by staging an orgy of mechanical stuffed animals at the neighboring toystore, but also ogled the girly calendars and asked me to help compare the pinups. I've been visited and revisited by an older man who simply can't take no for an answer, and insists on telling me that he will never, ever give up (creepy, creepy, creepy). Just looking up at passers–by is risking being subject to whistles, winks, and insinuating smiles.

I don't know where the source of this confidence, which seems to suddenly emanate from males upon catching glimpse of a girl in a skirt, is rooted. There's no way anyone can know whether or not I'm in a relationship merely by the length of what's adorning my legs — it's not as though there's some unwritten rule that all those who wear skirts are unattached. Nor should it be inferred that a skirt–wearer is seeking the attention. In my case, my job requires it, and even if it's not for business–related purposes, I should be able to spend a day without being ogled or catcalled.

I'm not parading around in a string bikini, after all — skirts really aren't all that revealing. Now, this isn't to say that all guys hit on me with an utter lack of class. Some are very sweet. Ones who compliment my eyes rather then my "stems" score points, as do ones who strike up meaningful conversation. If you are genuinely nice to a girl before asking for her number, your chances of getting it increase tenfold. If you're vulgar or disrespectful, you're absolutely annihilating any hope of walking away with her digits in your pocket. Sometimes you'll be let down, no matter how polite or kind you are, but I can't stress enough that if your pickup lines are tasteless, you're going to be zero for 2,472, or however many times you try before deciding on changing your method.

Alas, I know that these pearls of wisdom I am offering the male gender will largely go unread or ignored. The resulting unavoidable fact that when I wear a skirt, a slew of males will make some kind of indecent comment about it has got me yearning for my faded blues. Girls who are getting a job with a dress code: invest in khakis — lots and lots of khakis.

Alison Schelin is a UMass student.

In defense of...

There are a lot of people in this country who think that private ownership of firearms increases the crime rate, and that if the government makes people surrender firearms, the crime level will dramatically drop. They are wrong. Russia, where civilians are completely banned from handgun ownership, has one of the highest crime rates in the world. Finland, on the other hand, allows its citizens to keep and bear arms and has one of the lowest crime rates in the world. But why go so far for an example?

Let's have a closer look at this country. The strongest anti–guns laws now exist in Washington D.C., New York City and Los Angeles, but still these are the places with the highest crime rates. Vermont has liberal gun control policies and one of the lowest crime rates. In New England, Massachusetts has the toughest gun control laws, but the highest homicide rate.

Denis Drygin

The truth is that it is not about the guns, it is about the people. Criminals will continue to commit crimes, guns or no guns. For them it doesn't matter if governments ban guns or lets them be. Criminals will always have guns. It will, however, make a difference for law abiding people — will they be able to respond equally when they are attacked by a criminal or not? Well, if the government denies them right to keep and bear arms, then they would not have this chance.

Proponents of gun control say that guns cause many accidental deaths. That is true. This means that everybody (and especially kids) should be taught that special rules must be followed when you have a gun around. It doesn't mean that guns should be banned; this would be equal to the case when you have a headache, and the doctor chops your head off in order to stop it. Do you know that in this country, cars kill many more people than guns do?

Think about this: these "crime fighters" banned high–capacity clips (more than 10 rounds), because only criminals need such things. Normal people don't need them. Well, following this lead, the next logical thing to do would be to ban all cars that can do more than 65 mph from private ownership. Why? As you might know in this state the highest speed limit is 65 mph. So, law abiding people do not need cars which can go any faster. Also, the import of good–looking foreign cars must be stopped. They stopped the import of "mean–looking" guns, didn't they? So, if you by any chance own a fast or good–looking car, soon it will be time to kiss it good–bye.

"Aha," you say, "Here we've got you. The difference between cars and guns is that cars have many 'peaceful' purposes, while the sole role of guns is to kill." Try to understand this: the primary use for the object (gun in this case) is the one you practice the most. Chainsaws can be the favorite toy of a maniacal ripper, but it is just the tool of trade for a lumberjack. And guns have many purposes: sports, plinking, hunting, self–defense, collecting, etc. The responsible gun–owners who practice those should not suffer for the sins of criminals.

Nothing adds the fuel to the anti–gunner's bonfire as much as maniacal shootings. Almost standard scenario: some armed psycho comes into a crowded public place and starts to discharge his weapon in people around him. It is really horrible. Such things should not happen. Will a gun ban stop them? Of course it won't. First, if a maniac really wants to get a gun, he'll get it and no law can stop him. Second, there are a lot of other ways to kill people. Banning firearms will not stop the maniacs, but will deny to the would–be victims the chance to resist the maniac and save their lives. Banning guns is not the solution to this problem, control of mentally ill people is.

Last, but not least, is that in the country where citizenry is armed, the tyranny is impossible. If you think that it will not happen in your country, let me tell you — it is already happening. The signs are everywhere — the attacks on smokers, the unconstitutional gun control laws, and many more. You just do not realize that it is very easy to lose personal freedom if you are not willing to fight for it; and it is very hard to win it back after you lost it.

Do not get me wrong. I'm not supporting the idea that firearms should be distributed to anyone and made available for everyone starting with the babies. I'm promoting the rule that every law abiding, mentally fit adult without a violent crime record, who legally resides in this country and has a knowledge in firearms safety rules and firearms laws must have the right to keep and bear arms.

Denis Drygin is a UMass student..

Doonesbury BY GARRY TRUDEAU

There will be a meeting on Thursday, Dec. 17th at 7 p.m. in the Collegian office for all current and interested Ed/Op writers. Questions? Call Mike, Tanya or Alexis at 545–1491.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545–3500 • Fax (413) 545–1992 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor–in–Chief Position Vacant Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Laura Forster Developing Nations Editor
Mike Messaros Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Co-Jewish Affairs Editor

Morgan Tobor Co-Jewish Affairs Editor
Heather Lei Guzzetta Multicultural Affairs Editor
Jill Carroll News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Sports Editor
Allana E. Todman Women's Issues Editor

Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Prestes Distribution Manager
Feisal Ahmad Marketing Manager

Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life, became the College Signal in 1901, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1956. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1994. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN

Black Affairs

Monday, December 7, 1998

Letter from the Editor

I'm going get straight to the point. I am highly disappointed. Black Affairs was created because of brave students who took over the Collegian 11 years ago because of lack of representation. Today black students on this campus are taking the Black Affairs for granted!

The University of Massachusetts in Amherst is the only university that has a daily newspaper which has a Black Affairs page. People at other schools would love to have this sort of arena where they may voice their opinion, share knowledge, and help support the movement.

Every week it is the same thing. "Yeah, I'm going to come down and write this article. It's phat!"

Come Sunday afternoon, I am all by myself down here at the Collegian, trying to figure out a way to put out a Black Affairs page. All the promises, all the guarantees, and all the "I'll be theres," are plain sad. I can count at least 11 people who I have personally told how to get into the computers here at the Collegian. They know the login names and the passwords, but when Sunday arrives, either they forgot, they had a hangover, or they just plain blew me off.

I even had an individual tell me on a Tuesday that since there had been no Black Affairs the past Monday, he did not write for the current week. I mean, the excuses are pathetic.

We are more worried with how we are dressed, what our hair looks like, and who's screwing who than we are about real issues and real responsibilities!

Too many talkers and not enough doers. Too many supervisors and not enough workers.

There should be a staff of Black Affairs writers and reporters. We should have so many articles that we don't know what to choose from. We should be able to turn people away.

The Black Affairs page is dying! It is on the ground, barely breathing and about to take the fatal blow.

I am not Black Affairs.

I am simply the editor; I am simply steering this ship; I am simply a connection from the Collegian to all the black people out there.

I am not a journalism major, nor am I an English major. I am a Finance and Economics major. The Collegian only pays me a stipend of thirty dollars per week. I do this for the love of my people; for the love of the struggle. I follow in the footsteps of those who came before me.

I need help!

I am calling out for YOU right now at this very moment. Call me at the Collegian at 545–1851, call me at home at 549–9234, send me an email at ebarros100@yahoo.com, stop me on campus, just do something because if you don't come to the rescue, Black Affairs is dead.

I can't do it by myself.

Edgar A. Barros is the Black Affairs Editor.

Eliminate Affirmative Action now!

Affirmative action should be eliminated!
Affirmative action is illegal!
Affirmative action is racism!

These are just some of the cries of many people here at the University of Massachusetts, and across the nation. The ongoing crusade against affirmative action continues. I am certain that you have heard or overheard many conversations by your peers, fellow classmates, as well as read editorials in several magazines and newspapers. Are these people right? Should affirmative action be eliminated? Should affirmative action be ruled as a crime? Is affirmative action really racist in nature?

Edgar Barros

I agree one–hundred percent.

Eliminate affirmative action.

The system of setting up quotas in favor of people of color is totally racist against whites. It is a crime against human rights to favor one group or another simply based on the color of their skin.

If two people apply to the same institution of higher learning, one should not gain acceptance to the institution based on his or her race. How can anyone allow such an atrocity to occur?!

Again I agree one–hundred percent with eliminating affirmative action. Black people do not want affirmative action. Black people, not only whites, are in favor of eliminating affirmative action!

But it's not that simple.

Affirmative action is a Band–Aid placed on a huge gaping wound in American society. There is no way anyone can stitch up a wound that requires countless stitches. It just doesn't work.

This gaping wound was cut open, and is currently being held open, by the lack of equal educational opportunities for black children. From kindergarten through high school, black children are continuously behind white children. The majority of inner–city schools are not equipped with the latest in computer equipment; audio visual equipment, and books are not up to date (in other words, they're old!).

In Massachusetts the tax allocation system is at the bottom of this mess. The amount of tax money for public schools is based on property value. The higher your property value, the higher your tax, thus the more tax money your local school receives. It's a no–brainer that inner–city schools are caught in an endless cycle of poverty. Suburban schools are constantly receiving greater tax funding than inner–city schools because well, let's face it, the property values in the ghetto just ain't as high as they are in the suburbs. Therefore, our children keep missing out, they become adults who have missed out, and they have children who miss out. In other words, a continuous cycle of poverty.

Many people claim that the "system is against me" plea is just an excuse. Well, I am giving you a real life, current situation where the system is set up against inner–city people — and who would you guess lives in the inner–city?

"Therefore, our children keep missing out, they become adults who have missed out, and they have children who miss out. In other words, a continuous cycle of poverty."

Why can't Massachusetts re–structure its current tax allocation system to a system where every school receives equal funding?

What, that isn't fair? Oh, I see. Only people with a lot of money and nice big houses deserve a good education. It's the American way, right?

Another equally feasible alternative would be to set up a temporary "Emergency Relief Fund for our Inner–city Youths" (ERFIY). With this program, the Federal government would fund the difference between what white suburban schools receive and what black inner–city schools receive. Schools that are absolutely mired in poverty would receive a booster fund to get them up to standards. Eventually, things would even out and the cycle of poverty would be broken.

What, it wouldn't work, you said?

I sure would like to believe that America's children are as important to her as floods in the Midwest, or as hurricanes in Florida, or as oil in the Middle East, or as removing Castro from Cuba, or as the Space Program, etc., etc.

Our inner–city schools are right now in a state of emergency. Government at the state level has to start caring, and government at the federal level has to start caring. The system has to be changed. There is no way that the current tax allocation system will remedy the problem.

No matter how much a parent cares and is involved in his/her child's education, no matter how adamant the child is to succeed, he or she will not be able to write as good a college entrance essay as a child who was brought up in a much more affluent school system. SAT scores will also be higher in children who are brought up and trained in more affluent school systems.

Money is what counts here. The more money you have, the better textbooks you can buy, the more and better computers, the more field trips you can take, the more teachers you can hire, and the more after school programs you can have.

As you can see, we do not need affirmative action. What we need is a fair shake as Americans. If the system would take heed of my suggestions today and act on them today, then we would be able to eliminate affirmative action in college entrance situations on December 07, 2010. This allows us a window of 12 years where every black, brown, red, yellow, and white child who starts first grade today will receive equal education. The end result of this is: all of these children will be able compete with each other for acceptance at institutions of higher learning solely based on their academic achievements. With this system, I can guarantee you that UMass would truly be diverse.

So to all my anti–affirmative action people, why won't you first help us stitch up this gaping wound, before you remove the Band–Aid.

Edgar A. Barros is Collegian Staff Member.

Black Affairs is seeking dedicated writers to awaken this page. No experience necessary. We will train you. All those willing to help uplift our people — call Edgar A. Barros @ 545–1851.

Supa–Thugs distort image of community

This is strictly for all the thugs who are keepin' things real at UMass. Ya'll need to wake up and join us in reality! The only thing real about ya'll is your ignorance and lack of a genuine sense of self–identity. I have always noticed this "thug" persona being perpetrated by many of my hermanos y hermanas in the community of color, but I never put much mind to it. I figured that these individuals would grow out of this "phase" by the time they graduate. Unfortunately, one thing I noticed this past HASA/Casa made me reassess my view, and take a more serious look at this "thug" persona.

Like most of ya'll, I was at HASA/Casa chillin', gettin' my dance on. It was a phat cultural event put together by the Haitian American Student Association and Casa Dominicana. The underlying theme of the night was unity among various groups within the community of color here at the University. The night was highlighted by a dance collaboration performed by Cayena and Negres Kreyol. Judging by the crowd's response to the various speakers and performances throughout the evening, I thought to myself that the message of unity was well received by all in attendance. As I became witness to later that evening, it was not. As I was dancing to a merengue jam, I noticed a group of three making their way forcefully to the center of the dance floor. Now, those of you who were at HASA/Casa know how packed it was on the dance floor. You could hardly turn without bumping into the person next to you. With that said, I noticed these guys push themselves past many heads without saying "excuse me" at all. When they reached the center of the dance floor, they settled there and started rockin' their hard rock poses, lookin' as if they had been in jail for decades. Anyway, after a while I overheard one of the guys from the supa thug crew turn to the other and say, "Yo, no–body better be lookin' bit me kid, word!," "Cause if they do, it's ova!" His boy responded to him "Word! 'Cause if I get hit by any of these muthafuckas dancin,' someone's gonna get fucked up!" After saying this, they started to give each other pounds, as if to seal the deal that if anyone was inconsiderate enough to not respect their space and bump into them on the dance floor, they were going to jump them on the spot. Fortunately, no one bumped into them, and the event was a success. My problem with seeing them behave in this manner was the possible ramifications of what could have happened. What if they did jump someone there? It would have caused a huge ruckus, effectively ended a phat–ass event, and put other events by the community of color in jeopardy.

"Your 'keepin' it real,' like the hard rock you think you are not only pulls your self down, but your community along with it."

Pericles Perez

Seeing them do this burnt me so much. I've seen the behavior before, but it got to me because they were willing to put in jeopardy events by the community of color for their own self–driven motives, in an attempt to live up to that "supa thug" image they have carved out for themselves. This near mishap made me reflect on why people try to adopt the roughneck image, "specially in college. Are these cats really that "hard"? Could their life experiences have been so rough that they can't be any other way?

The first thing I ponder when I see a "supa thug" on campus is: where do they come from? I know one thing for sure. They aren't from any inner–city neighborhoods I have been in. Acting that way in Washington Heights, Bushwic, Hell's Kitchen, Queens Bridge, Jamaica Plain or Mission Hill would be a daily invitation for a confrontation, and it's more likely than not that you will not be coming out of all those confrontations well.

Also, I figure that if you're such a damn hard rock, you aren't going to be in school. You're going to be slingin' rocks or muggin' people for their loot. You are definitely not going to be in college trying to "better" yourself.

Another thing that I realized is that real thugs from around my way were silent and inconspicuous, never tryin' to draw attention to themselves, always on the D.L. with their biz. Never did I see them chillin' in a crew tryin' to pose as people to be feared. When they would have beef, they dealt with it and moved on with their business.

What I find the most interesting, though, about the UMass supa thugs is that a large percentage of the kids who act in this way come from middle–class families. Yep, these are those ill–tempered suburban supa thugs, whose harshest life experience has been their parent's refusal to buy them a new car. In their defense, many of these individuals are this way to show that they are keepin' it real, and different from their white counterparts. Unfortunately, the reality of this supa thug image is that it is a mostly make–believe, heavily marketed character. It has been put together by countless entertainers — stereotypes of what a person of color is supposed to do, act, and dress, — and spread through all forms of media.

It's hard to believe that so many of us position our identity only by what certain sectors of society has defined for us. You have to realize that being a Latino or African American is in open–ended existence. It can be different for all of us. It's not something that comes with instructions, stating that we have to be one certain way in order to be "real." A lot of us come from messed up environments, but that does not mean we have to reflect the environment we live in to be true to ourselves and our identity. I know many of us have lived through some hard times, and experienced some ill–ass experiences that have shaped our views and behaviors, but that is only to survive in our surroundings. That behavior doesn't translate into what a person of color is supposed to be. That behavior was used to survive in a harsh environment that might have called for it. When you come in and act out that behavior in college, you are limiting yourself. You do not give yourself a chance to grow and attain a more organic, realistic sense of self–identity and what being a Latino or an African American means.

I used to find the supa thugs at UMass comical, but now I realize that their behavior is not just detrimental to themselves, but to the community of color as a whole. Besides misrepresenting who they are, and achieving a self– identity as unrealistic as that of N.O.R.E. and Puffy, they hurt all of us.

One of the things vital for the progress of the community of color is for us to build bridges and unite with each other. That means connecting with one another physically and emotionally. It does not mean staring one another down, waiting for the slightest provocation to show your "realness" to your hermano or hermana. Without each others' support, it becomes even harder to reach your goals and achieve any measure of success without compromising who you truly are in this white–washed society. Ready for the cliche? You cannot build bridges or connect with one another when you are fighting amongst yourselves. Your "keepin' it real," like the hard rock you think you are not only pulls you down, but your community along with it. Remember, "keepin' it real" is being true to who you truly are, not to what others have defined you to be.

Pericles Perez is UMass student.

The Black Affairs Page will be looking for new writers next semester. However, interested parties may begin this semester by speaking with Edgar Barros, 545-1851.

Black Quote of the Week

"If you don't dream, you might as well be dead."

–George Foreman

COURTESY JON KOSHKIN

Boppin' at Bezanson

Horace Clarence Boyer conducts the UMass Vocal Jazz & African American Music Ensemble tonight at 8 p.m. in Bezanson Recital Hall.

Guild's You Can't Take It With You a sweet treat

By Bryan McAllister
Collegian Staff

YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU
Student Union Ballroom
Dec. 4

The screwball comedy, so popular in the 30's and 40's, has certain staples: an eccentric if not truly weird family, a bumbling absent-minded professor-type, a situation which climaxes in chaotic, everyone-on-stage humor, and a headstrong protagonist who tries to maintain normalcy. While familiar, this recipe rarely gets old — and fittingly, the UMass Theatre Guild's production of the 30's stage play You Can't Take It With You this past weekend was fresh, light and easy to digest.

Attention to detail, whether it be in the superb set design by Jack Brady or through small character touches, was the key factor in such success. There's not a lot going on plot- wise in You Can't Take It With You, but director Christy Penney and the cast filled the stage with idiosyncracies — such as the absent-minded professor-type's love of pencils, or a young, ditzy daughter whose dancing is near suicidal.

Ironically, the only real flaw of the Guild's production was that sometimes such character activity was overdone, and distracting to the main plot. It's almost as if Penney did not trust audiences' attention span, so she added as much background action as possible. Then again, maybe she was right.

You Can't Take It With You revolves around the Sycamore family, a collection of bizarre but loving characters, headed by mother Penny (Kristina Aija Johnson) and grandfather Martin Vanderhof (Jeff Devergilio). This is the kind of family where Penny only started writing plays because she was once sent a typewriter by accident, and where father Paul (Matt Hicks) makes rockets in the basement with a crazy old man named Mr. DePinna (John Kazlauskas).

For all their zany behavior, however, the Sycamore family is wonderfully accepting, both of themselves and others. Unfortunately, daughter Alice (Maria Boucher) doesn't see it this way. As she falls in love with a rich, upper-class boy, Tony, she grows frustrated with her family's equally growing weirdness, and takes steps to insure that they'll never be revealed to the family of the new lover.

It takes the whole first act to establish this, but the second is quicker, as an accident in scheduling finally matches the quirky family with the stuffiness and sophistication of Tony's. Wackiness, of course, ensues, as do a few lessons about family, love, and the way to live one's life.

Credit the cast for keeping this type of sweet family plot from being either too slow or too overdone. Special praise to Devergilio, who kept the whole thing together; Johnson, who sported a delicious accent and made mother believably bizarre; and Sheila M. Daley as the ditzy dancing daughter Essie, one of the play's breeziest, most fun characters.

Where the Guild succeeds best of all is with supporting roles, and YCTIWY was no exception. Pedro Gomes, as the Russian ballet dancer Boris Kolenkhov, was the biggest scene-stealer. His intensity and conviction was so good that in a scene where he was to pick up a man and body slam him, his reactions and apologies to the event were even funnier than the event itself. You could just tell that he was having a great time on stage.

Equally scene-stealing was Gareth Booker as Irish lad Donald, another performance so fresh that you waited for his next appearance. His chemistry with maid Rhebe (an equally appealing Jake Burrell) was the show's early highlight. This is Booker's first show with the Guild; I doubt it will be his last. Also solid were Hoyt as Tony, and Charles W. Laver IV as Mr. Kirby. Hoyt also deserves an award for wittiest program biography.

One small problem with such screwball comedies, though, is that some characters get lost in the mix, or become so one-joke that they cross the line into being annoying. Such is the case with Hicks' Paul — there really becomes no purpose for him. His whole character could have been cut from the play without notice. Mr. DePinna is the latter — sometimes funny and sometimes unnecessary. Kazlauskas has obvious talent, and does his best (especially with help from pencils), but the playwrights mistakenly thought the character would be hilarious just by showing-up on stage, and forgot to write funny lines for him.

You Can't Take It With You isn't an especially memorable or exciting play, but it's well-crafted and thanks to the Guild, mostly well executed. There's a scene in the first act when Alice and Tony are alone at the Sycamore home together, sharing a drink, and director Penney stages it with touching brilliance — a marvelous feat of comic timing.

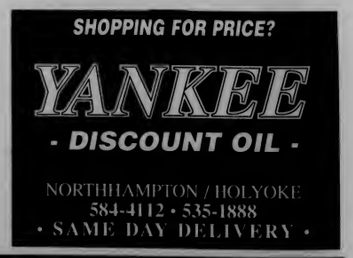
She doesn't handle bigger scenes as well, frequently having her characters upstage each other, but luckily her cast saved her unintentional chaos: as did the fabulous production and costume design teams. The multi-leveled set had an appropriately dusty look to it, and was quite photogenically composed. The costume design, from the stunning tuxedos of the rich to the rags-and rips of Mr. DePinna, was also top-notch.

Ultimately, though, the success of the play comes from a connection to the zany characters, and a moral which, especially in this fast, competitive, oh-so-crazy age, has much weight. Grandfather Vanderhof has a great speech towards the end, where he analyzes what's wrong with life today. And that was in the 30's. In the 90's, it's even more of a message you can take with you.

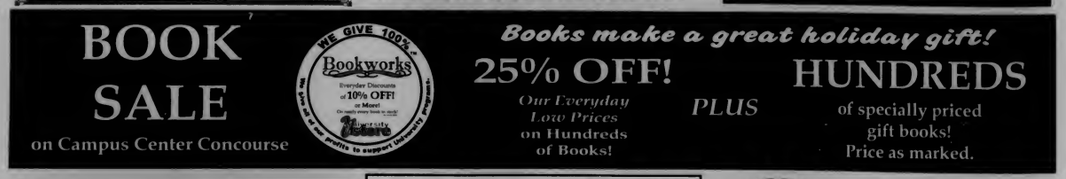
Redgrave to resurrect Oscar Wilde

By Emily Trask
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts International Festival of the Arts (MIFA) will present a single performance of Oscar Wilde's De Profundis starring Corin Redgrave on Tuesday, Dec. 8, at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium at UMass.



De Profundis is a one-man performance featuring Redgrave, who is the brother of Vanessa and Lynn, and the son of Sir Michael and Lady Rachel Kempson Redgrave.



De Profundis is Oscar Wilde's epic letter to his lover, friend and nemesis, Lord Alfred Douglas. It was written during Wilde's imprisonment for homosexual offenses in 1896. Wilde spent three years in unusually harsh conditions at Reading Gaol (jail) in England. Sentenced to hard labor, he was deprived of writing materials until, in his second year of imprisonment, a sympathetic guard allowed him writing material each day for letter writing

Turn to WILDE, page 8

Stop. Go. Pennzoil.™ | A Member Of CARE, A Customer Assistance Program of the Better Business Bureau ®

FREE Shuttle To Home, Work Or Campus

FREE CREDIT 90 DAYS SAME AS CASH! Instant Credit Available

BRAKE KING Discount Autoservice Supercenter

Free Towing With Repair

10% STUDENT & FACULTY DISCOUNT ON PARTS

AMERICA'S FAVORITE TUNE-UP SUPERCENTERS Avoid Dealer's High Costs!

FREE Brake Inspection & Tire Rotation No Appointment Necessary

WE DO IT ALL

- Tune-Ups
- Oil Leaks
- Starters
- Alternators
- Batteries
- Tires
- A.B.S. Brakes
- Power Steering
- Alignments
- Timing Belts
- Water Pumps
- Air Conditioning
- Computers
- Emissions
- Radiators
- Front End
- Belts & Hoses
- Ignition
- Transmissions
- Shocks & Struts
- Coil Springs
- CV Joints & Axles
- Gas Tanks
- Ball Joints
- Mufflers
- Oil Changes
- Coolant Service
- Electrical
- Fuel Injection
- Rack & Pinions
- Fuel Pumps
- Clutches
- Overheating
- & More

Foreign & Domestic Auto Supercenters • 4x4 Light Trucks

FREE Winter Safety Inspection
Complete Check of Cooling/Antifreeze System, Charging System, Brakes, Tires, Belts/Hoses, Battery, Exhaust, Shocks/Struts and Car Performance.

FREE SNOW TIRE CHANGE-OVER
Bring in your snow tires and we will install them on the vehicle at no charge. Balancing Extra.

WINTER SPECIAL
RADIATOR FLUSH & FILL & LUBE, OIL & FILTER
- Drain & Fill Radiator up to 2 Gallons Antifreeze
- Lube, Oil & Filter • Tire Rotation
- Check Belts, Hoses, Shocks & Tires
- Inspect Water Pump, Thermostat & Gasket

MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS $39.95

Winterize Your Radiator Before It Freezes
ANTI-FREEZE FLUSH & FILL
Up To 2 Gallons Antifreeze
Pressure Test Cooling System, Inspect Belts & Hoses, Check Heating System.
MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS $29.95

WINTERIZE NOW!!!
- Lube, Oil & Filter
- Anti-Freeze Flush & Fill
- New Wiper Blades
- Check Heating System
- Check Belts & Hoses
- Rotate 4 Tires

$59.95 MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

ENGINE TUNE-UP SPECIAL
In most electronic ignition cars we'll install new spark plugs, set timing & adjust idle speed (if applicable). Computer engine analysis, check fuel and emission systems
$35 4 cyl. | $45 6 cyl. | $55 8 cyl.
Transverse V-6 engines and A/C interference extra.

BRAKE SPECIAL
Includes Free Alignment • Lifetime Warranty
2 Front Disc or 2 Rear Drums
- Install Pads or Shoes
- Machine Drums or Rotors
- Test Drive
- Inspect Brake System
- Semi-Metallic Pads Extra

$49.95 MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

SHOCKS & STRUTS
Lifetime Warranty • Free Alignment
50% OFF
Your Second Shock or Strut • Buy One Shock Or Strut At Regular Price And Receive The Second One At Half Price, Plus FREE Four Wheel Alignment.

BRAKE KING MUFFLERS
30% OFF
LIFETIME WARRANTY
We Will Beat Any COMPETITOR'S Best Written Estimate by 10% - Guaranteed!

LUBE, OIL & FILTER
FREE Tire Rotation & Brake Inspection
- Up to 5 Quarts of Oil
- Chassis Lube
- Install New Oil Filter
- Includes Oil Disposal Fee

$12.95 Add $3.00 For Foreign Cars, Light Trucks & Vans

MANAGER'S CAR CARE SERVICE PACKAGE
1. OIL CHANGE & FILTER • Install new filter • refill up to 5 qts Pennzoil 10W30 oil • Lubricate chassis
2. FOUR TIRE ROTATION
3. ENGINE TUNE-UP • Install new spark plugs • set timing • adjust idle (if applicable)
4. RADIATOR FLUSH & FILL • Up to 2 gallons of Antifreeze
5. BATTERY SERVICE • Load test battery, clean terminals & battery box
6. COMPLETE VISUAL INSPECTION • In-depth visual analysis of major systems
6 Services • 1 Low Price
4 cyl. - $59.95
6 cyl. - $69.95
8 cyl. - $79.95
Most Cars & Light Trucks
Transverse V-6 engine & AC interference extra

Nationwide Battery
5 YEAR WARRANTY
$49.95
1 Year Free Replacement
Most Cars & Light Trucks

COMBO TUNE-UP
Spark Plugs, Oil Change & Filter, Fuel Injection Service
- Set Timing
- Adjust Idle
- Check Fuel & Emission System
- Computer Engine Analysis
- Clean Injectors

4 Cyl. $69.95
6 Cyl. $79.95
8 Cyl. $89.95
Most Cars & Light Trucks

BELTS & HOSES
Don't Press Your Luck!!
90% of roadside breakdowns are due to belt or hose failures
- V-Belts • Fan Belts
- Radiator Hoses
- Heater Hoses
- Bypass Hose

10% OFF Most Cars

TIMING BELT REPLACED
ONLY $149.95 Installed
Recommended every 60,000 Miles to Avoid Costly Breakdowns. Good for most vehicles.

CV JOINT BOOTS
(Outer) Includes Inspection of front end, motor mounts & brakes
$59.95 EACH INSTALLED
Most Cars & Light Trucks

COMPLETE AUTO SERVICE
- Idler Arms
- Ball Joints
- Pitman Arms
- Tie Rod Ends
- CV Joints

FLEET ACCOUNTS WELCOME

SUPER SERVICE PACKAGE
MANUFACTURER'S RECOMMENDED 30,000 MILE SERVICE
- Engine Tune-Up, Spark Plugs, Air Filter, Fuel Filter and PCV Valve
- Complete Transmission Service
- Fuel Injection Service
- Oil Change, Lube & Filter
- Complete Antifreeze Flush & Fill • Rotate 4 Tires

Dealers charge $300 or more for same service!
$189.95 MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

FUEL INJECTION SERVICE
- Clean fuel injector deposits & restore build-up
- Restore injector flow pattern
- Clean carbon deposits from upper combustion chamber
- You'll enjoy improved performance, increased gas mileage, and reduced emissions

$39.95 Most Cars
SAVE GAS!

SPIN BALANCE & ROTATE
INCREASE THE LIFE OF YOUR TIRES!
$19.95 Complete Spin Balance & Rotation of 4 Tires

COMPUTERIZED ALIGNMENT
Thrust Angle $29.95
4-Wheel Alignment $39.95
Most Cars & Light Trucks

DRIVE AXLE SHAFT
INCLUDES FREE ALIGNMENT
$159.95 INSTALLED FRONT WHEEL
Most Cars & Trucks

TRANSMISSION SERVICE
$49.95 Rear Wheel Drive & $59.95 Front Wheel Drive
Includes filter, fluid, gasket & labor. Applies to most vehicles.

RACK & PINION
INCLUDES FREE ALIGNMENT
$269.95 INSTALLED
Most Cars & Light Trucks

Before You Purchase A Major Brake Job, Shocks And Struts, Mufflers And Exhaust Work, Front End Work, Tune-Ups Or Any Automotive Service, Just Bring Us Our Competition's Best Written Estimates And We'll Beat It By At Least 10% GUARANTEED And Still Give You The Best Warranty In The USA!

Nobody In New England Beats Brake King ... N-O-B-O-D-Y!
5 CONVENIENT FULL-SERVICE LOCATIONS

VISA MasterCard Discover

Find us in the Bell Atlantic Yellow Pages

HOURS: Mon., Tues., Wed. & Fri. 7 a.m.- 6 p.m. • Thurs. 7 a.m.-8 p.m.. • Sat. 7 a.m.-4 p.m.

We Employ MACS ASE Certified Technicians

NORTHAMPTON	WESTFIELD	SPRINGFIELD	SPRINGFIELD	ENFIELD
346 King St.	234 E. Main St.,	1107	867 Boston Rd.	809 Enfield St.,
413-584-4988	Rte. 20	E. Columbus Ave.	413-783-3727	Rte. 5
	413-572-1735	413-747-7133		860-253-9017

■ Wilde

continued from page 6

only. From this allowance, Wilde was able to compose De Profundis, an apologia written to Lord Douglas.

Wilde died bankrupt in Paris in 1900 at the age of 46, three years after his release from prison. De Profundis was published posthumously in 1905.

Redgrave's production of De Profundis is a recent stage adaption by Merlin Holland, Wilde's grandson. The production features music for solo cello composed by Jonathan Goldstein and performed by Roman Placek.

De Profundis is a production of the Moving Theatre Company which was founded by Corin and Vanessa Redgrave. This is the second new theater performance by the celebrated Redgrave family in the Festival this year. Last May, MIFA presented Vanessa Redgrave and her mother, Rachel Kempson Redgrave, in Sarah Bernhardt Comes to Town, a world premiere stage recital of recently-discovered stories by Anton Chekhov. Vanessa also serves as the Festival's Honorary Chair.

De Profundis was first presented in London as a co-production with the Chelsea Theatre in November of last year, and it was presented again last April in London's Royal National Theatre. Redgrave will perform it twice in the United States: in New York today and tomorrow at UMass.

Corin Redgrave's performance will benefit the MIFA, which is now in its sixth year of presenting world-class performing arts in the Pioneer Valley.

For tickets and information call (413) 545-2511 or 1-800- 999-8627. Tickets are $100 for reserved orchestra seating with benefit reception in the UMass Campus Center following the performance. General admission is $50. Admission is $5 for UMass students, $10 for other students, $17.50 for seniors (65 and older).

Movie News

By Bryan McAllister
Collegian Staff

The biggest thing at the local movie theater these days is not a movie, but a movie preview. In late November director George Lucas finally released the two-minute trailer for Episode I of the Star Wars saga, subtitled The Phantom Menace after a villain in the old Flash Gordon serials which Lucas owes so much debt to. The trailer begins mystically, with shots of a lone spaceship and titles like "every generation has a legend..." and then progresses to a rush of images from the film.

The new trailer is as much a landmark for publicity as it is for Lucas. Reports of audience members leaving the theater right after the preview and skipping the actual movie have created the biggest buzz in Hollywood since the Independence Day preview. But even ID4 couldn't get people to buy an eight-dollar movie ticket just to see a two-minute sneak peak.

Star Wars: Episode I arrives in theaters Memorial Day Weekend and stars Liam Neeson, Ewan McGregor, Natalie Portman, Jake Lloyd and Samuel L. Jackson.

—

More creative advertising comes from the team behind Mike Myer's Austin Powers sequel. The film, entitled Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me, is set to be released this summer and stars Myers in the double role of Austin/Dr. Evil. Heather Graham, rollergirl in Boogie Nights, joins the cast to play Austin's new love interest. The new preview for the movie has also just been released, with the tagline, "If you see one movie this year, see Star Wars. But if you see two movies, see Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me."

—

Tom Hanks and Steven Spielberg are combining their war movie talents once again. The actor-director team behind this summer's Saving Private Ryan will collaborate as producers on the HBO miniseries Band of Brothers. The 13 part series, based on the book by WWII author Stephen Ambrose, will revolve around an American Rifle Company that parachuted into France during D-Day. No word on whether Hanks will star, but the budget will probably exceed the $68 million Hanks spent on his award-winning NASA opus, From the Earth to the Moon.

—

Tommy Lee Jones, last seen (or unseen, really) as a voice in this summer's Small Soldiers, will next star in Clint Eastwood's Space Cowboys. The movie is about aging astronauts who are recruited to fly the space shuttle. Gee, sure sounds like the John Glenn story to me. Jones replaces Sean Connery, who bowed out for unknown reasons, and joins co-star Jack Nicholson.

COURTESY FRANK WARD

Lord of the Flies

Rob O'Hare and Jennifer Kaufman act out a scene from The Flies, an adaption of the John-Paul Sartre work at Amherst College this past weekend.

COURTESY ALEX BAILEY

Dancing Queen

Cate Blanchett is the powerful new star of Elizabeth, a costume drama creating some Oscar buzz and playing at the Academy of Music in Northampton.

Do you like jazz or blues?

The Arts & Living desk is currently looking for a writer to continue a JAZZ/BLUES WEEKLY column. No writing experience is necessary.

We are also looking for 1–2 more column ideas for next semester, as well as new writers to cover music, fine arts, film, books, and more.

For more information, come down to the Collegian offices (or call 545–1361) and ask for Bryan or Kevin.

Textbook Annex - Textbook Buyback - December 1998

Beware of buyers in your dorm!

The Textbook Annex buyback is not associated with people who buy textbooks inside your dorms. You will not get the best prices possible from them. They do not buy any books at 50% of the Publisher's Retail Price. The Annex does. In fact, some of these people bring your books to the buyback to sell them at the higher price even though they have paid you a lower price.

Maximize your return by coming to the authorized locations in the Campus Center Room 162, Hampden in Southwest and the Textbook Annex.

How are buyback prices determined?

Buyback prices are determined by whether or not an instructor has submitted a book list for the next semester.

The Textbook Annex staff spends a lot of time trying to get this information because we know that the best source of those books are from those of you who are already using them. Around mid-terms our staff begins to encourage faculty to place their next orders through a variety of methods including a personal visit to each academic department, letters, flyers and phone calls. We want to give our customers the money that we would otherwise pay a used book wholesaler for used books. To maximize the half price list, we enter faculty's book orders into the buyback data base on the day we receive them.

If we know what books are needed, then the Textbook Annex will pay 50% of the Publisher's List Price, even if the book was purchased used. You will receive the wholesaler's predetermined current market price (wholesale price) If we do not have an order at the time you try to sell your book. You will receive wholesale prices because the Textbook Annex is not trying to add that book to our inventory. The prices they pay depend primarily on the national demand for the book. Wholesale buyback prices can range from 0 to 35%.

Ask Questions!

You should always take a minute to ask the buyers if your book is being purchased for the Annex to reuse or if you are being offered a wholesale price. You may not like the wholesale price but at least you'll understand what you are being offered.

Fall 1998 Ending Buyback - Textbook Annex
Location	Operating Hours
Monday December 14 - Friday December 18, 1998
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Campus Center	9am - 5pm
Hampden in Southwest	9am - 5pm
Saturday, December 19
Campus Center	11am - 5pm
Hampden	12pm - 5pm
Monday & Tuesday, December 21& 22
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Hampden	9am - 7pm
Campus Center	9am - 7pm
Wednesday December 23 (Last final ends 12:30pm)
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Campus Center	9am - 5pm
Hampden	9am - 3pm
Thursday, December 24 (no exams, snow day)
Textbook Annex (only)	9am - 4pm
Monday, December 28
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm

UNIVERSITY STORE'S Textbook Annex UMASS AMHERST

The University Store's Textbook Annex is owned and operated by the University of Massachusetts.
For more buyback information visit our web site at: http://www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex/

■ womens' hoop

continued from page 11

It appeared the game might be a runaway, as UMass shell- shocked Colgate with eleven straight points to open up the period, propelling them to a 43-23 lead.

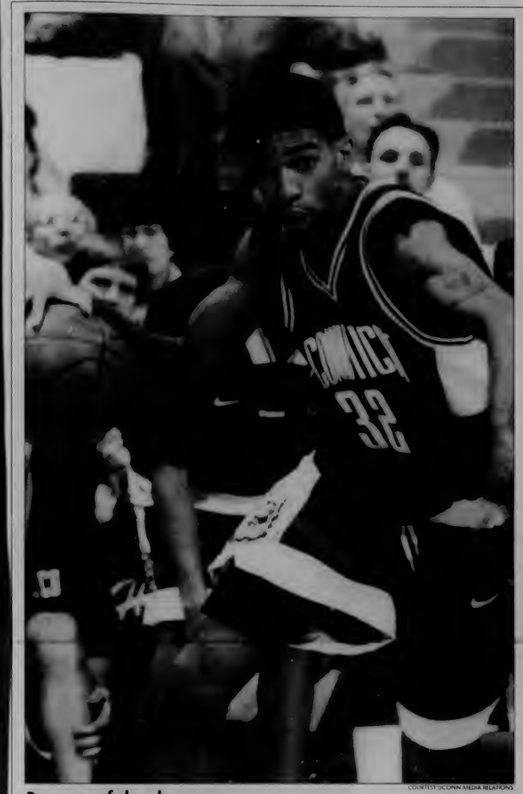
The highlight of the run was Tonia Thomas slashing to the hoop for a running banker, before Yolanda Rayside concluded it with a free throw.

Colgate, a team that has only won nine ball games over the course of the past two seasons, was able to muster up a well-concerted effort in an attempted overtaking of the gelling Minutewomen.

After slicing their deficit to 49-37, thanks to a 14-6 run, Colgate was able to cut the lead to single-digits, when they trailed only 51-42 with 6:28 remaining.

Kraft was able to settle the troops for the time being, as she canned a jumper from the right side for an eleven-point bulge.

The Red Raiders continued to keep UMass on guard, as they trimmed a once overpowering UMass lead to 59-54 with 34 seconds to go.



Coyner put UMass in good standing, nailing one free throw, before Rayside grabbed two monstrous defensive bounds and hit two free throws to clinch the victory.

Coyner and Kraft were a formidable combination all afternoon for UMass. Coyner notched 13 points, while dishing out 13 assists. Kraft put 18 points on the board, while snatching eight rebounds.

"Kathy and I work really well together," Kraft said. "She has been getting me the ball at the right spots, and at the right times, and she has really helped get our whole offense in rhythm."

Aside from the calming influence of Coyner on the floor, the addition of Lucia Madajova to the starting lineup has been both a boost to both herself and Rayside coming off the bench.

Madajova chipped in with twelve rebounds, while Rayside poured in eight points to go along with eight boards.

COURTESY UCONN MEDIA RELATIONS

Beware of the dawgs

All-American Richard Hamilton and No. 1 UConn will be coming to Mullins center this Wednesday night to face the 1-3 UMass Minutemen.

Bills owner Ralph Wilson gets game ball, feels replay possible

By Joe Kay
Associated Press

CINCINNATI — Buffalo Bills owner Ralph Wilson got a token of appreciation from his players yesterday — a ball from their 33-20 win over Cincinnati.

They figured the best way to thank the 80-year-old owner for criticizing the officiating — and drawing a $50,000 fine — was to give him a game ball.

"They just like him," coach Wade Phillips said. "He signs their checks. I like him, too.

"I think they felt he backed the team. That's why they gave him the game ball."

The Bills were livid at a pass interference call on a desperation pass that gave New England one more play and a chance for a 25-21 victory last Sunday.

Although teams are prohibited from criticizing the officials, Wilson spoke out and said his team had been robbed. Commissioner Paul Tagliabue sent him a letter on Wednesday saying he intends to fine Wilson $50,000.

"We all appreciated Ralph's comments," said Doug Flutie, who threw two touchdown passes yesterday. "That says a lot. He stands up for the team when we have to bite our tongues. We really appreciated it."

"It's special to get a game ball from the team," Wilson said. The controversy has prompted Wilson to consider supporting instant replay.

"I'm going to give that a lot of serious thought about modifying it," Wilson said. "

Patriots defense great in big victory in playoff chase, 23–9

By Alan Robinson
Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — Drew Bledsoe didn't need a questionable call, a debatable penalty or the full use of all the fingers on his passing hand. He didn't even need the fourth quarter.

Bledsoe ignored a non-stop blitz and a fractured right index finger that throbbed on every throw to lead the New England Patriots to a critical 23-9 victory yesterday over the Steelers — their first win in Pittsburgh since 1986.

Bledsoe, the first NFL quarterback since 1960 to throw last-minute game-winning touchdown passes in consecutive games, didn't wait until the last minute to win this one.

Terry Glenn caught an 88-yard touchdown pass late in the second quarter among his team-record 193 receiving yards, as the Patriots (8-5) won their third in a row since Bledsoe was hurt leading the first of consecutive last-minute victories over Miami and Buffalo. This time, the big plays came earlier and without argument, unlike the much-debated Hail Mary pass interference penalty that led to Bledsoe's game-winning 1-yard touchdown pass against Buffalo last week.

"They were blitzing some guys at different times, and our guys were able to pick them up, and if I have that much time, generally I'm going to be effective," said Bledsoe, sacked only twice while going 21-of-34 for 327 yards. "We made some big plays that way, including the one to Terry."

Glenn's catch behind safety Darren Perry on second-and-nine with 1:56 left before halftime clearly surprised the Steelers defense. Bledsoe stood up to the blitz just long enough to allow Glenn to get 10 yards behind Perry as the Patriots led 13-6 at the half. "We had a couple of miracles happen in the last two games and that tells you anything can happen," Patriots coach Pete Carroll said. "We know we're right in it and, hopefully, we can find a place in the playoffs."

The Steelers (7-6) might not. They have lost two in a row for the first time since December 1996 and are in danger of missing the postseason for the first time in Bill Cowher's seven seasons as coach. They trail Jacksonville (10-3) by three games with three to play in the AFC Central.

"I was not pleased with this performance," Cowher said. "I'm going to sit down, evaluate it and make some changes accordingly."

Carroll wasn't going to change quarterbacks unless absolutely necessary. But after throwing some wobbly passes, Bledsoe asked team trainers to adjust the wrap on his bandaged finger as backup Scott Zolak warmed up on the sidelines in the third quarter. "Drew had some problems with his finger," Carroll said. "The ball started flying on him and he had a hard time controlling it. They made an adjustment on the brace, which I think helped, and he came back and did a nice job."

The Steelers again didn't have enough offense. They have scored only two touchdowns in their last 14 quarters and, trailing only 13-9, turned the ball over on consecutive second-half possessions to set up 10 momentum-swinging Patriots points.

Ty Law's eighth interception of the season on the final play of the third quarter led to Adam Vinatieri's third field goal, a 35-yarder that make it 16-9.

Two plays later, Jerome Bettis' fumble was recovered by Lawyer Milloy at the 35. Bledsoe then led a five-play drive finished off by Robert Edwards' 4-yard touchdown run with 9:20 to play. Linebacker Levon Kirkland's pass interference penalty on first-and-20 gave New England a first down at the four.

"I didn't agree with it, but I've seen worse pass interference penalties," Kirkland said.

Earlier in the game, the Patriots drove to the Steelers' three and eight on their first two possessions, only to settle for field goals by Vinatieri of 21 and 29 yards.

The blown opportunities might have been costly if Kordell Stewart, under constant pressure, hadn't thrown erratically while going 21-of-45 for 206 yards and two interceptions. Bettis was held to 48 yards on 12 carries, the fifth time in six games he has been held to less than 100 yards.

"We're in a situation where we're wondering what's wrong," Bettis said. "We see a leak and we know we have to fix it, but we don't know where it's coming from. And we can't fix it until we find it."

It might have come from the grandstands, where an unhappy fan showered Stewart with a beer as the quarterback walked off the field.

"It's agitating to walk off the thing and have people throw beer on me," Stewart said. "That's the first time that's happened to me in my life... but as far as the fans' reaction, I promise you that I don't care. They're not going to run me out of here like they did Neil O'Donnell."

The Steelers, held to only 86 second-half yards, had the ball inside the Patriots' 20 twice in the final five minutes. But Pittsburgh turned it over on downs once and Stewart was intercepted on its final possession.

Notes: The Patriots lost middle linebacker Ted Johnson, one of their best run defenders, for the season with a torn biceps muscle. Steelers backup running back Fred McAfee injured a knee ligament. ... A section of fence in the north end zone collapsed onto the field in the fourth quarter, but there were no serious injuries. ... Glenn broke the team receiving yards record of 182 set by Stanley Morgan against Miami in 1981. ... The Steelers had won seven of eight including New England, including a 7-6 playoff victory last season. ... The gametime temperature was 71. The coldest it has been for any Steelers home game this season was 50 in as many games.

IN SHAPE NUTRITION
NUTRITION SUPPLEMENT DISCOUNTER
65 UNIVERSITY DR. AMHERST, MA
End of Semester
Blow Out Sale!
Come Check It Out.
20%-50% off retail prices everyday
Walking Distance - 549-7434

Jewish Student Union
ELECTIONS TOMORROW
Tuesday Dec 8th
6pm - 7pm
Hillel House 549-1710
ALL POSITIONS AVAILABLE
President
Social Action/Tikun Olam Vice-President
Religious-Cultural Vice-President
Membership Vice President
Administrative Vice-President
Secretary
Treasurer
Come to vote, run, and meet other Jewish students
For information please call Co-Presidents
Dan Friedman 549-7690 • Shira Hutt 546-2610

amc
Hampshire 6 · 584-7550
Hampshire Mall
Mt. Farms 4 · 584-9153
Mt. Farms Mall
HOME FRIES (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:20 @ 52.50) 8:20
BABE: PIG IN THE CITY (G) Today at (5:30 @ 52.50) 8:30
MEET JOE BLACK (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (4:30 @ 52.50) 8:00
ENEMY OF THE STATE (R) Today-Thurs at (2:00 @ 52.50) 8:10
WATERBOY (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:50 @ 52.50) 8:30
RUGRATS (G) Today-Thurs at (6:00 @ 52.50) 8:40
BUG'S LIFE (G) Today-Thurs at (5:30 @ 52.50) 8:20
PLEASANTVILLE (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:20 @ 52.50)
I STILL KNOW WHAT YOU DID LAST SUMMER (R) Today-Thurs at (5:40 @ 52.50) 8:20
PSYCHO (R) *Today-Thurs at (5:30 @ 52.50) 8:10
THE SIEGE (R) *Today-Thurs at 8:50
Special Engagement ... $2.50 (Twi-Lite) ... Shower Brolly

PART TIME TELLER POSITION
Florence Savings Bank is currently seeking candidates for a part-time teller position. The successful candidate will be responsible for operating a teller window to handle a wide variety of customer transactions in a courteous, professional manner, while adhering to Bank policies and procedures.
Applicants should possess a high school diploma or the equivalent, customer service experience, prior cash handling experience, strong communication and interpersonal skills, and computer experience.
Florence Savings Bank offers a competive salary and outstanding benefit package. A sampling of benefits includes:
* Medical Insurance
* Dental Insurance
* Life Insurance
* 401(k) Plan
* Pension Plan
* Profit Sharing
* Paid Vacation
If you are interested in becoming part of the FSB team, please forward your resume, or apply in person to: Human Resources Assistant, Human Resources Department, Florence Savings Bank, 85 Main Street, P.O. Box 60700, Florence, MA 01062-0700. Florence Savings Bank is an Equal opportunity Employer and encourages diverse candidates to apply for this position. No phone calls, please.

FREE GIFT
WITH PURCHASE
Champion
I.D. KEY RING
(EMBOSSED LEATHER)
BUY $40.00 WORTH OF CHAMPION™ WOMEN'S APPAREL AND HOPEFULLY NEVER LOSE YOUR KEYS AGAIN.
GET YOURS TODAY!
Collegiate Castals™
UMass Clothing for Everyone™
*Offer good while current supplies last.
A division of University Store
In the UMass Campus Center
9 to 8 Mon. - Fri.
11 to 4 Saturday
413-545-2619

UM drops a pair to Boston University by identical 3–2 scores

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — Most Hockey East teams usually don't seem too enthusiastic when the time comes on their schedule to play at Boston University.

Besides the fact that the Terriers traditionally have one of the top teams in the nation, Walter Brown Arena can be one of the most hostile environments around thanks to the boisterous BU faithful.

However, that wasn't the case for the Massachusetts hockey team heading into the weekend. The Minutemen were all fired up to face the Terriers in hopes of sweeping both ends of the home and home series.

When all was said and done, though, UMass was dealt a setback in their ascent up the conference ladder. The Terriers came through with late third period goals on both nights in taking a pair from the Minutemen by identical 3–2 scores.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN
Captain Dean Stork scored a goal against BU in a losing effort this weekend at the William D. Mullins Center.

"I think that we played 120 minutes of great hockey this weekend, but we just didn't get any points to show for it," Massachusetts hockey coach Joe Mallen said.

On Friday night in Beantown, the Terriers rebounded from a 2–1 third period deficit to earn two points. After Nick Gillis tied the game with a power play goal at the 2:22 mark of the final frame, the Terriers caught a big break in scoring the game-winning goal. A centering pass deflected off the leg of UMass netminder Markus Helanen and over the goal line with 7:17 left in regulation.

The Minutemen had their chances to even the game, but BU goalie Michel Larocque made that soft goal hold up for a 3–2 win.

"This was one of our best games of the year," Mallen said. "Unfortunately we had a one-goal lead and lost it. Some nights the bounces go your way and some nights they don't, and they got a flukey goal to win it."

The hosts opened the scoring with a power play goal at the 16:35 mark of the first period. Dan Cavanaugh tucked home a rebound over a fallen Helanen for a 1–0 lead.

The Minutemen (4–8–1, 2–4–1 in Hockey East) stormed back in the second period to take a 2–1 lead after 40 minutes. Senior alternate captain Bryan Fitzgerald knotted the game 3:18 in the middle frame with a goal in a maze of players in front of the BU cage.

Sophomore forward Jeff Turner gave UMass its first and only lead of the game–winner with 1:31 left to play.

In a game which the Minutemen clearly dominated offensively, it was Larocque who was once again the story. He made 36 saves on the night to lead his team to the win over UMass.

"We gave a good effort, a real good effort and had some good chances, but Larocque was the difference," Mallen said.

BU struck first again on another fluke goal only 0:36 into the first frame. Dan Ronan partially fanned on a shot from the right point, but the puck trickled through a few sets of legs before landing on the stick of Jack Baker, who flipped it over a fallen Helanen.

The Minutemen tied the game later in the period when Jeff Blanchard intercepted a clearing attempt and fired a shot over the glove of Larocque to make it 1–1.

After Russ Bartlett put the visitors back on top midway through the second, junior captain Dean Stork let loose a wrister that went right through the legs of Larocque, to keep the game at a stalemate after two periods.

Now, with these two heartbreaking losses fresh on their mind, the Minutemen will need to regroup quickly in preparation for another home and home series coming up this weekend with No. 6 New Hampshire. The Wildcats beat UMass 4–1 in a game earlier this season in Amherst.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN
Markus Helanen came up with 43 saves this weekend but it would not be enough to push the Minutemen over the hump against the Terriers.

■ minutemen

continued from page 14

Welsh, pulled them back within one. When the fourth quarter came to an end the game was knotted at eight, and the Minutemen once again found themselves headed to overtime.

Cory Koenemann struck for UMass in the first of two three-minute regular overtime periods, but his goal was canceled out when UCSD's Ross Mecham scored in the second session to push the game to sudden death. The first three-minute sudden death period went scoreless, and it seemed the second would as well, until UC San Diego's Vladimir Djapic scored an extra–man goal with 13 seconds left to give the Tritons the game, 10–9, and a third place finish in the NCAA tourney.

UMass received a well–balanced attack in the loss. Ramos, Marrero and Timmy Troupis each chipped in with two points, while Brook O'Neill, Stahl and Koenemann each had one. Huntley had 16 saves in the losing effort.

UMass will have to wait until next year to make another march. They will lose players like Roman, Marrero, Filault and Stahl to graduation. Huntley and VanderWall are returning, but it's up to Yarworth to keep the program prominent.

Testaverde & Jets come back to win

By Barry Wilner
Associated Press

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — On a day when he nearly wore out his arm, Vinny Testaverde used his legs to lift the New York Jets to a wild comeback victory. And in this season of officiating bobbles, Testaverde got a kind boost from the head linesman. A boost? Some say a gift.

"People told me it looked like it wasn't in," Testaverde said after his 5–yard sneak on fourth down with 20 seconds left yesterday was ruled a touchdown, giving the Jets a 32–31 decision over the Seattle Seahawks. "I got knocked around and sometimes you can't see the refs. There were a lot of questions whether I was in or not, which is all the more reason for instant replay."

Television replays showed he didn't reach the end zone. "It makes you sick," Seahawks coach Dennis Erickson said. After being informed what the replay indicated, he added, "It makes you even sicker."

The Jets' AFC East championship hopes are healthy thanks to the last–minute call. Testaverde called his own number after throwing a career–high 63 times, completing 42 for 418 yards and two TDs. And head linesman Earnie Frantz immediately signaled that the AFC's leading passer had won the game with his run.

"He called it right away and signaled," said referee Phil Luckett, who also conducted the now–infamous coin toss on Thanksgiving Day at Detroit. "There was a pileup, but the head linesman had already called a touchdown for the ball breaking the plane [of the goal line]."

However, there was nearly a minute of consultation before a final ruling that it was a touchdown that was made.

Seahawks cornerback Shawn Springs, who was whistled for unsportsmanlike conduct for throwing his helmet after the touchdown, wondered if the officials had been "intimidated." "The refs should really let the players decide the game," Springs said. "Don't make a call that determines the outcome." It was New York's sixth straight home victory and kept it atop the AFC East at 9–4. The win was constructed by the league's sixth–ranked offense, which committed three turnovers, but had the moxie to overcome them.

"That's certainly many more passes than I've thrown in a game," Testaverde said. "I hope there aren't many games like this, where I have to throw 60 times."

Testaverde found Keyshawn Johnson nine times for 114 yards and the touchdown that closed the Jets to 31–26. He calmly led them downfield on their final drive, and drove a stake in the playoff hopes of the Seahawks (6–7).

"It's hard to fight like we did and lose like that," defensive end Mike Croel said. "Now our chance to go to the playoffs probably went out the window."

Before the late offensive heroics, the Jets were victimized by Seattle's big plays.

Joey Galloway burned Aaron Glenn, New York's best cover cornerback, on almost identical first–quarter TDs. He ran under Jon Kitna's 70–yard pass to tie the game at seven. Then Galloway, one of the NFL's fastest receivers, beat Glenn on a 57–yard TD bomb. He couldn't do it again in the second quarter, but the Jets fared even worse, because Glenn sprained his right ankle while making a leaping interception.

Galloway's first score came after safety Jerome Henderson's fumble while returning an interception. Ricky Watters broke a 39–yard run on fourth–and–one to make it 21–10 following Kyle Brady's fumble on a 25–yard reception.

The Jets opened the scoring after recovering Kitna's fumbled snap at the New York 42. Testaverde found Keith Byars alone in the end zone for a three–yard score on fourth down.

John Hall added two 20–yard field goals, making it 21–13 at halftime.

Anthony Simmons, a first–round draftee from Clemson, picked off Testaverde's sloppy pass and rambled into the end zone on the fourth play of the second half.

That put the Jets into a semi–desperate mode, and they threw on the first 10 plays of a 13–play drive. Curtis Martin finally ran in from the one, but Fred Baxter tripped and dropped a two–point conversion pass.

Seattle responded again on Todd Peterson's 50–yard field goal, making it 31–19.

When the Jets put together a 66–yard drive on which Johnson caught a 16–yard TD pass — he also had an 18–yard reception on fourth–and–three — it set up the tight finish.

New York drove to the Seattle 3 before rookie tackle Jason Fabini's five–yard motion penalty. The Jets got to the five on fourth down, from where Testaverde ran behind center Kevin Mawae, a former Seahawk, for the TD that maybe wasn't.

"The linesman thought Vinny was in," Mawae said. "He threw his arms up and we win."

■ handed

continued from page 14

left, the once–close game had completed a return to the designation of "blow–out" once and for all. Young's shot from the line finished off a 15–4 Herd run that pushed the lead to 64–48 and eliminated any hope the Minutemen had for escaping West Virginia with pride.

With the clock closing in on four minutes, UMass acknowledged defeat by rushing two panicked three–point attempts — by Mack and Rafael Cruz, who launched the pair of unnecessarily hard misses.

As Flint mercifully commanded his players to allow the Marshall guards to run out the clock with roughly 40 ticks to go, the UMass faithful most likely began questioning whether or not this is a good time to be playing top–ranked Connecticut.

When those faithful glanced at the 88–66 tally proudly displayed on the Marshall scoreboard, they might have been able to answer those questions.

The Minutemen's arch–rivals will come to the Mullins Center on Dec. 9 to try and complete the dismantling of the UMass basketball program. Luckily for Minutemaniacs, the resilient Massachusetts hoopsters have a history of knocking off No. 1 teams.

Cadets hurt at Army/Navy

By Ken Berger
Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Kevin Galligan walked out of the hospital yesterday, wearing a neck brace and feeling lucky to have escaped serious injury in a railing collapse that injured nine spectators at the Army–Navy game.

"I can't believe I got out of here so early," said the 21–year–old West Point cadet, expected to recover from a broken bone in his neck that resulted from a 15–foot fall from the first row of stands. "I mean, they were telling me that I was in bad condition."

The accident marred Army's thrilling 34–30 victory in the 99th game between the rival academies on Saturday. It also raised questions about safety of 27–year–old Veterans Stadium, as well as the conduct of academy members whose antics are as much a part of the rivalry as option tosses and fake field goals.

"Any person of common sense knows that a railing like that is not meant to support 20 people leaning on it," said Mayor Ed Rendell, a staunch supporter of funding for new sports stadiums for Philadelphia.

Rendell said city engineers were investigating what caused the railing in the temporary stands to give way, sending cheering Army cadets and prep school students tumbling from the first row to the artificial turf.

Galligan, of Fairhope, Ala., was the most seriously injured and the last one released. He walked out of Thomas Jefferson University Hospital yesterday with a neck brace and a bandaged wrist. Also yesterday, in Pittsburgh, a security fence in Three Rivers Stadium collapsed onto the field in the fourth quarter of the Pittsburgh Steelers' 25–9 loss to the New England Patriots. No serious injuries were reported.

As a precaution, Galligan was strapped onto a stretcher for the ride back to the U.S. Military Academy in West Point, N.Y., and was expected to make a full recovery, West Point doctor Mark Smith said.

A tenth person went to a hospital on his own out of concern for a friend, but ended up being treated. Most of the injuries were minor sprains.

The spectators fell after Army's Ty Amey ran 70 yards for a touchdown that gave the Cadets a 31–30 lead with 6:08 remaining. During a timeout, fans in the Army section cheered wildly while being filmed by national TV cameras when the railing broke. Galligan told Rendell that he saw the accident coming.

"Not only did he know who won the game, he had seen the tape of the mill giving way," Rendell said. "And he said to me, 'You can see before it goes, I'm motioning for the other guys to get back, because I knew something was going to happen with all those guys bearing down on us.'"

Play was suspended for 31 minutes while the injured were taken off the field in ambulances. The accident dampened the highest–scoring game in Army–Navy history, with the Cadets avenging last year's 39–7 loss that stopped a five–game winning streak. "If we had played four or five more minutes, we might have come out on top 38–34," said Navy defensive tackle Jason Snider, who played for the first time since suffering a bruised spleen against Notre Dame on Nov. 14. "That's what makes the game exciting." The passionate cheering in the stands — from pushups for every point on the scoreboard to the arrival of flamboyant paratroopers before kickoff — makes the game special, too.

CASTAWAY LOUNGE
1997 Rte. 5 & 10 Whately, MA 413-665-8733 1998
Adult Entertainment
proudly presents:
EVERY MONDAY NIGHT IS FOOTBALL NIGHT
FREE FOOD, PRIZE GIVEAWAYS!!!
5 Beautiful Exotic Dancers 5pm–1am
all other day entertainment 1pm–1am
$$$ BEAUTIFUL GIRLS, need money? $$$
No experience? No transportation? We will provide everything!
Call (413) 665-8733 Ask for Jim
Coming
AMATEUR NIGHT
Ladies must apply in person
Our beautiful VIP room is available for private parties
North of 91: Exit 22 take Rte. 5 & 10 north 2 miles
South of 91: Exit 24 take Rte. 5 & 10 south 2 miles

ATTENTION COLLEGE STUDENTS:
Earn college credits during your winter break!
Wintersession:
· January 4-15
· One & Two week courses
· Classes guaranteed to run
· Classes available days and evenings
Art, Biology, Criminal Justice, Education, English, Geography & Regional Planning, Management, Movement Science, Music, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Women's Studies, Credit-Free Computer Courses
Call (413) 572-5224 for registration information
Westfield STATE COLLEGE www.dgce.wsc.mass.edu
DIVISION OF GRADUATE AND CONTINUING EDUCATION · WESTERN AVENUE · WESTFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS

Welcome back... NOW GO AWAY!
Cheap tickets. Great advice. Nice people.
Travel accessories and backpacks sold here! European railpasses and international student ID cards issued on the spot!
Council Travel
CIEE: Council on International Educational Exchange
44 Main St., Amherst
(413) 256-1261
www.counciltravel.com

Calculus Tutor
· Friendly & Helpful
· Affordable
· Available Anytime (at your campus bookstore) CALCULUS
www.wispaper.com

安城中國飯店
AMHERST CHINESE FOOD
we do not use "MSG"
· MANDARIN & SZECHUAN CUISINE
· HOME STYLE COOKING
· FRESH, ORGANIC GROWN VEGETABLES FROM OUR OWN FARM
· EAT IN OR TAKE OUT
· FULL BAR OUR SPECIALTY
· DAILY LUNCH SPECIALS
253-7835 or 253-2813
62 Main Street, Amherst

UMass takes one in NY

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

BRONX, N.Y. — This weekend, the Massachusetts women's basketball team earned a hearty parting gift, as they captured third place at the Big Apple Classic at Draddy Gymnasium.

The Minutewomen (3–6) assembled their best come from behind rally of the season against Texas A&M on Saturday, before dropping a heartbreaker 59–58, and defeated Colgate 61–54 in the consolation game yesterday afternoon.

"Getting one win was certainly better than none," Massachusetts coach Joanie O'Brien said. "We would have liked to have gotten them both, but there is a lot of basketball left to be played this season."

After trailing for most of the game to the Aggies, UMass got the offensive gears on track for a stifling 14–0 run in the second half that almost catapulted them to victory.

Texas A&M carried a 33–22 lead into the break, an advantage they would push to 48–36 midway through the half.

The Minutewomen then dashed off on their aforementioned run, which gave the squad their first lead of the contest at 50–48 with 5:50 to play.

The UMass streak was a well–rounded effort, as six players contributed to the outbreak, including Tez Kraft, who netted four points during the surge.

The contest was nip and tuck, as the Aggies quickly reeled off a 5–0 spurt of their own to break the scoring monotony.

While the game was clearly up for grabs until the buzzer sounded, UMass never recaptured the lead, although they had their chances.

Down 53–52, Kathy Coyner missed the front end of a one–and–one foul shooting situation, which led to Jennifer Burroughs burying a jumper the other way for a three–point grasp on the lead.

Coyner made up for that miss as she sank a pair of crucial free throws to knot the game at 58 apiece with 17 seconds to play.

However, Allison MacFarland was forced to foul a driving Kim Tarkinton with only three ticks of the clock left.

Tarkinton iced the game, nailing the first free throw, as UMass was forced to attempt to move downcourt with no timeouts.

Coyner was trapped by a double–team at midcourt, dashing the teams' hopes of a sensational comeback victory.

UMass transported their positive energy to yesterday's game as they established a lead midway through the first half that they would never relinquish.

The Minutewomen were a little slow out of the gate, falling behind 7–4 on two free throws by Holly Young.

Behind strong encouragement from O'Brien on the sidelines, UMass turned it up another notch, socking the Red Raiders with an 11–0 run that put them in the driver's seat.

That stretch put the Minutewomen up 19–9, and they never really looked back until late in the game.

A 32–23 UMass stronghold at the half, was made possible by domination on the boards (23–8 UMass first half, 45–20 overall), and sound shooting from Kraft, who notched 10 points on four of seven from the field.

"We have out–rebounded teams all season long," O'Brien said. That is something that we must continue doing to stay in our games."

The Minutewomen fortunately continued cleaning the glass in the second half, in fighting off a desperate Red Raiders team that refused to quit.

Turn to WOMENS' HOOP ,page 9

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN
Tez Kraft poured in 16 points and eight rebounds in helping UMass win their third game of the season over Colgate.

Kraft, Coyner duo KO's Colgate during road win

By Aaron Saykin
Collegian Staff

BRONX, N.Y.— If yesterday's women's basketball game were a heavyweight prize fight, Colgate would have been knocked out in the early minutes by the amazing Kathy Coyner/Tez Kraft one–two punch.

The two players combined for almost half of the Minutewomen's points, powering the team to a crucial 61–54 victory over the Red Raiders. While this new and dangerous tandem managed to carry most of the scoring load, it seemed as though one player knew exactly where the other would be — a sign indicative of a lethal combination.

After watching key members of her backcourt suffer serious injuries, UMass coach Joanie O'Brein may have finally found in Coyner the consistency she has been seeking all season. The sophomore starting point guard scored 13 points, and dished out a remarkable 13 assists, committing only one turnover in the process.

As the beneficiary of Coyner's crisp passes, Kraft was able to capitalize on many of her opportunities, scoring a game– high 16 points on seven of 12 shooting from the field.

"I think I know where she's going to be and I [can] see her cutting, and she know's that I'm going to look for her, along with everybody else," Coyner said of the new dynamic duo.

As far as Kraft is concerned, the senior small forward feels that the two are extremely comfortable playing together because of a unique understanding of one another's game.

"Kathy just knows, if I'm having a good game, how to get me the ball," Kraft said of her new battery mate. "She's knows exactly where I want it when I shoot it."

Despite falling behind to Colgate in the game's early going, the two responded by hooking up twice to help the Minutewomen recapture the lead. Kraft connected on a three–pointer to give UMass a 15–9 edge which they would not relinquish for the remainder of the contest.

"They know each other very well and they play similar styles," O'Brein said of the two. "They're going to have to keep doing that... Tez and Kathy play very well together because they both shoot the ball so well. That's why they can play off each other so well."

And after the game, neither member of this modest tag– team would take credit for her performance, instead giving all the credit to her teammates — an indicator that the injury–plagued team has begun to gel, and is primed to turn the corner with their first road win of the 1998–99 campaign.

UMass hockey falls to BU

BU ghosts and goal keeper Larocque the difference

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

Boston — The ghosts of Boston University and Terriers past, and their current wall of a goaltender, Michel Larocque, sealed the fate for the Massachusetts Hockey team this weekend when they dropped both games, of a home and home with BU by scores of 3–2.

Larocque was fabulous for the Terriers. He made 61 saves en route to leading BU to a pair of 3–2 Hockey East wins. He was also the top star of both games.

Larocque was solid on several occasions, coming up with numerous saves in key situations in the second period of the first game, which was held at Walter Brown Arena on Friday night. His performance in the second period was good enough to keep BU in the game, and his great saves early in the third were also clutch in keeping the UMass lead to only 2–1.

His performance allowed BU to claw their way back into the game, and win on two goals in the third by Nick Gillis and Mike Pandolpho.

Larocque's performance was even more spectacular in the second night, when the teams met at the William D. Mullins Center. Again it was a tight game between the two teams as it headed into the third, with UMass carrying the momentum and most of the quality scoring chances, but again Larocque was fabulous in stoning UMass.

Countless times, Larocque turned away breakaways by Minutemen forwards Martin Miljko, Jeff Turner and Jeff Blanchard. They hade several breaks both nights. They Created several scoring opportunities on odd–man rushes and crashing the net. However, Larocque was up to the task, making 36 saves.

The Minutemen bombarded Larocque with shots on their five power play opportunities, but he came up huge everytime.

For the Minutemen, they ran into a hot goalie at the wrong time. The Minutemen had as good a chance, if not a better one, to sweep this home and home, but BU's senior captain Larocque came to play.

"More of the same — we got great goal tending from Larocque, much better in the second game as compared to the first. He didn't give up any greasy goals, and well, he was just seeing everything tonight," BU coach Jack Parker said. "This team is much improved [UMass] and very strong. We had to rely on Larocque."

The other problem for UMass might have been the ghosts of BU. The Minutemen entered the two games with better overall and Hockey East records, and having beat Maine, but the fact of the matter is that they hadn't beaten BU in 18 tries: now you can make it 20 consecutive tries.

It seemed that every time the Minutemen would get close, the deities of Terriers past would help keep the streak intact.

In Friday's game, the ghost of Jay Pandolpho came down to help direct the puck off the back of Helunen's leg for the game–winning goal.

Saturday night you could see the ghost of Chris Drury skating alongside Albie O'Connell before he proceeded to score the game–winning goal through a screen with only 1:31 remaining in regulation.

And as time ran out on the Minutemen's extra skater opportunities on each night — you could see the ghosts of seven Hockey East playoff champions, and the ghosts of two National Championships and 17 final four appearances, skating along side a victorious BU team.

The Minutemen did make a huge step, though: this weekend's one–goal games were the closest UMass has come since beating BU in the 1919–20 season by a score of 10–2, that was also the first meeting between these two teams.

"It's a bit frustrating because of the numbers in the series, but we're getting closer and closer, and we got one more shot at them in our barn, and we gave it a really good effort. We played a solid 120 minutes of hockey both nights and Larocque was the difference both nights," UMass coach Joe Mallen said.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN
Nick Stephens and the Minutemen hockey drop both ends of a home–and–home by scores of 3–2.

■ beats

continued from page 14

game that Shipp has run for 100 yards, all of which has included a touchdown. He sat out the first round game against MSU with pre–patella knee bursitis in his left knee.

UMass is the only Atlantic 10 team left standing, as Connecticut fell to top–ranked Georgia Southern, 52–30.

The last time UMass reached the final four, it was 1978, where they upset Nevada–Reno, 44–21, before eventually falling in the championship game to Florida A&M.

"We're one of four," coach Mark Whipple said. "In my mind right now, why not UMass?"

Write for Sports.

Night Graphics
Collegain night graphics department is now accepting positions for spring '99.
Anyone with expirence with QuarkXPress or Adobe Pagemaker should come down to the Campus Center Basement room 113 and fill out an application.
If you have any questions please call 545-1864 and ask for Joe or Dave

OOPS!
• Free Estimates
• Lifetime Warranty
• Auto Glass Replacement
• Car & Truck Rental
North Amherst Motors
Collision Repair Center (On bus route - one mile from UMass)
78 Sunderland Road, North Amherst, MA 549-2880

Buy your railpass before $99 and save!
Cheap tickets. Great advice. Nice people.
Think Spring Break! Book now and save!
70% OFF great gear!
Eurailpasses issued on the spot!
Council Travel
CIEE: Council on International Educational Exchange
44 Main Street, Amherst (413) 256-1261

The Massachusetts DAILY COLLEGIAN
New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967

Collegian Classifieds

113 Campus Center — University of Massachusetts • Phone: (413)545-3500 Fax: (413)545-1592

APARTMENT FOR RENT

WinterSession: Huge 2 bedroom, 5 miles away, Sunderland. $550. 546-5072 or 546-2793.

Take Over My Lease Amherst Town Studio. Hot water. $440. 253-1708.

1 bedroom apt on Main St. $475. Utilities included. Call 253-7328.

Great 2 bedroom apt on bus route. Be warm for the winter. Utilities are included. Available 1/23/99. 549-1943.

Take Over My Lease Dec 25. 2 bedroom in Puffton. Call 549-2873.

Take Over Our Lease 1 months rent free! 2 bedrooms, 2 baths. Excellent condition. Mill Valley Estates. Available Jan 1st. 253-1656.

1 bedroom with study in Puffton Village. Renovated. Starting Jan 1st. 549-1174.

Take Over Our Lease 2 bedrooms. Mill Hollow Apts. $560 (hot water). 549-5318.

New Puffton Village- Rent starting at $570. Includes heat, hot water, and cooking gas. DSS satellite and cable ready. On-site parking and laundry. Near UMass. On bus line. One, two, and three bedrooms. Call 549-0145 now.

Brandywine Apartments
1 and 2 bedroom apartments available. 1/4 mile from campus.
Dec or Jan 1.
Call 549-0600.

Lantern Court (Sunderland)- 2 bedroom. Close to bus stop. $550. Call 665-6705.

AUTO FOR SALE

VW Jetta 88 Blue, 5 speed, tinted glass, runs and looks good. $1800 or B/O. Must sell! Call Will 549-6659.

84 Dodge Caravan Reject sticker. $300. 549-2987.

92 Subaru Loyale Wagon 103K, 4WD, air, tape deck, many new parts. $4495/BO. Must sell. 259-1750.

Honda Accord 83 Good condition. 177K miles. Needs rear brake work. Asking $1000. Call 549-3878.

90 Nissan Sentra Great condition. 100K. $2500 or B/O. 253-5990.

Toyota Camry 88 Standard. $2650 or B/O. 549-8773.

84 Volvo DL Runs perfectly. $2100. 367-0169.

1992 Jeep Wrangler Mint condition. $5600 or B/O. Call Katie 527-8284. Must sell before 12/19/98.

'91 Isuzu Trooper LS 4x4, automatic V6, black, PW, air, tape stereo, new brakes and recent tune-up. Good condition in and out. $4000. 548-9892.

WANTED: Toyotas, Novas, Prizms, Sentras. Any condition. Cash paid everyday. 1-800-649-4795.

EMPLOYMENT

Best Winter Break Job In The Valley! Get paid to make a difference! Earn $300+ a week fighting air and water pollution. Leadership development seminars offered free to staff. CLEAN WATER ACTION 584-9830.

FOR SALE

Relief Staff wanted for apartment program serving adults with mental illness. Need to be available during Winter Session. Great experience, flexible hours, training provided. Work with creative, diverse individuals in a supportive, caring environment. $7.50/hr. Call Dave or Shari @ 256-0826.

SUMMER MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITY
Where are you working during the SUMMER OF '99?
College Pro, a $25 million company, seeks highly motivated college students from New England to manage a service business. Summer earnings average $8-10K+ per manager. Internship credit possible. If you are a goal-oriented leader searching for the right opportunity, call for an application and information to be sent by mail. Leave your name, school address, and phone # on the automated voicemail system at: (617)576-6833 ext 124.

CIS is looking for motivated off-campus students. Earn $10-15 per hour. Set your own schedule. For information, call 1-800-567-6247.

Summer Job/Internship- Mass. Firm seeking FRESH, SOPH, or JR. Earn $8,500 for the summer. Seeking aggressive go-getter with strong history of past work experience. For information & prelim. interview on campus with student who worked in the position last summer, call 1-800-658-3841 ext 100.

FOR SALE

Nintendo 64 3 controllers, 7 games + memory pack. $200. Call Brian 253-6627.

27" Samsung Stereo TV with universal remote. 2 years old, perfect condition, hardly used. Cost $375 new, $200. 549-5979.

Silence Snowboard- 152cm., never used. $150/BO. Call Adam 253-9776.

TV Stand $10 + shelf $5. Call Franci. Cell (413)433-0081.

GREEK AFFAIRS

Kappa Kappa Gamma Holiday Party
When: 12/10 from 6-7:30 p.m.
Where: 32 Nutting Ave.
Any questions?
Call Julie at 549-2646.
All Freshmen and Sophomore Women are Welcome!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Happy B-Day Blue!
I Love Ya!
Steve (Kevin)

HEALTH & BEAUTY

We're here to pump... YOU UP! Creatine Monohydrate, Creatine Surge, DHEA, Whey Protein and more from Fitness Workshop delivered right to your door. 1-877-FIT-WORK. www.fitnessworkshop.com

HOUSE FOR RENT

Summer Rentals
Cape Cod Group Summer Rentals. Some waterfront houses, some with swimming pools. Falmouth area. Call Diamond Real Estate 1-508-477-1900.

INSTRUCTION

CARDIO KICKBOXING Amherst Athletic Club. Train with the pros! 256-0080.

MUSICAL INSTRUCTION

Marshall Valvestate 80 Watts Amp. Wants $350 or B/O. Serious inquiries only. Call 549-3962.

PETS FOR SALE

Rabbit Rescue has a lovely selection of bunnies. Many colors and types as well as a selection of cages and hutches. We can also help with any bunnies you can no longer care for. Call Ellen at 367-0105.

ROOM FOR RENT

North Amherst 3 bedroom apt. On bus route across from Town Houses. Space can be shared. Two cool roommates are easy-going. Starting Jan 1st. Call Joe at 549-5596.

One nice room available in a four bedroom Alpine Commons apartment. Move in Jan 1 or possibly earlier. Two full bathrooms. On bus line. Great roommates! Apartment is fully furnished with the exception of the bedroom. $314.50/month. ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED! Please call Jenny at 253-2050 ASAP.

LIVE IN PUFFTON- Looking for female to rent room in easy-going 3 bedroom apt. $265/month for Spring Semester. On bus route. Call Erin 549-1359.

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom. Brandywine. For Spring/late December. Call Jeremy 549-6955.

Quiet Setting Kitchen privileges, laundry, parking, non-smoking. $335. 549-4853.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female to share 2 bedroom apt in NoHo. Available 1/1. $275/month. 1st/last/security. Call Rachel 586-4426. No pets.

Grad woman needs roommate (Grad woman or mature Undergrad) for Spring Semester to share modern/luxury 3 level townhouse condo on bus line less than one mile from campus. Totally furnished; two large bedrooms; deck; laundry in unit; basement storage! Much more! Only $300/month + utilities. Call Monica (413)549-4808.

Three rooms opening ASAP in large 5 bedroom house in Hadley. On bus line. Spacious, close to NoHo and Amherst. Pre-paid heat. $270/month. Craig or Jon 587-9319.

SERVICES

Know Your Rights Do you have questions about your rights? Do you think your civil rights have been violated? Find Out! Contact The Student Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

Pregnant? Need help? Call Birthright of Amherst Area for free testing and assistance. 549-1906

TICKETS

Rolling Stones Fleet Center, Boston, Mar 22. Extra tickets, Must sell! 665-0241.

TO SUBLET

Feb 1st 2 bedroom apt. On bus line to campus. $700 a month. Call 253-4621.

Nice furnished room available for Winter Session. $215/month + 1/5 utilities. One mile from campus. 549-5863 Jordan.

TO SUBLET

At Puffton One room in a three bedroom apt. Starting 12/23. Stay all Spring Semester. $216, heat included. Call 549-5842.

TRAVEL

SPRING BREAK '99
Student Travel Services is America's #1 Student Tour Operator.
Don't book with anyone else until you talk to us!!!
Cancun from $399.
Jamaica from $399.
Panama City from $119.
Daytona Beach from $139.
Student Travel Services
1-800-648-4849
www.ststravel.com
On Campus Contact:
Erich @ 413-549-5287
Jonah @ 413-549-8867
Dan @ 413-253-1341
George @ 413-546-4223

A #1 SPRING BREAK...
HOURS & HOURS OF FREE DRINKS!
Earn 2 FREE Trips & $$$$$!
Cancun, Jamaica, Florida, Barbados, Bahamas.
Lowest Prices/Best Meal Plan
1-800-426-7710
www.sunsplash-tours.com

WANTED

Earn $30 in 90 minutes by being in a GRE study. Purpose is to try out a new math item type. You must be a senior or first year grad who has taken the GRE since 9/1/96. For info or to sign up send e-mail to kmeara@educ.umass.edu.

The Classifieds Gets you where you want to go!!

Are you looking to Advertise? Place an Ad in The Classifieds and your Ad could fill this Space!!

Five College Community Calendar

MONDAY, DEC. 7

Concert — There will be a concert entitled "German Renaissance Christmas and Other Music" at 8 p.m. in Sweeney Concert Hall in Sage Hall at Smith College.

Meeting — There will be a meeting of the Student Labor Action Coalition at 7 p.m. in the Women's Resource Center (Davis third floor) at Smith College.

Workshop — There will be a workshop on contraception and safer sex at 3 p.m. in room 302 of University Health Services.

Benefit/fair — The Stonewall Center will sponsor a jewelry sale at their office on the ground floor of Crampton in Southwest, from 4–6 p.m. All students are invited to attend. The first 25 people to arrive will receive a free gift.

Meeting — LVC TV-19 will hold a station meeting at 7 p.m. in the LVC studio. Topics will include end of the semester business and digital editing. Refreshments will be served. For additional information contact Jessica King at 345-1336.

TUESDAY, DEC. 8

Concert — There will be a Faculty Concert with guest performances and alumni choreographers at 8 p.m. in the Studio Theatre at Mount Holyoke College.

Meeting — There will be a Jewish Student Union general meeting at 6 p.m. in the Hillel House. Help plan for next semester.

Meeting — The INDEX yearbook will hold a meeting in room 304 of the Student Union.

Party — Pride Alliance, the GLBT undergraduate organization, will host a QPL Sex Aware Party at 7 p.m. in room 811-15.

Performance — Corin Redgrave will give a one-man performance of Oscar Wilde's De Profundis at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

Poetry — There will be a poetry reading with "Three Women Poets" in the Helen Hills Chapel at Smith College at 7:30 p.m.

Workshop — There will be a workshop on contraception and safer sex in room 302 of University Health Services.

Workshop — There will be a workshop entitled "Early Arm-on-Shape-Note Sing" from 7–9 p.m. in the Helen Hills Chapel at Smith College.

NOTICES

Community — The Spring portion of federal work-study will be available for students to begin using after January 3.

Community — The 1999 Yearbooks are now on sale in room 304 of the Student Union. Call 545-0848 to order one

Community — The Teacher Education Coordinating Council and the School of Education's Office of Teacher Education have information on the Mass. Educator Certification Tests in room 125 of Furcolo Hall. Contact Michael Schwartz at 545-2701 for more information.

Scholarship — Juniors and Seniors interested in the Elie Wiesel Prize, based upon an ethics essay, should contact Professor James Young at 545-3872. The deadline is December 10.

Submissions — Submissions are being accepted for the Spectrum Literary Magazine. The deadline is February 12. Also researching for the 1998–99 cover contest winner. Deadline is the end of December. Call 5-4220 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed to train and facilitate workshops on contraception and sexually transmitted disease prevention during Spring semester 1999. Men and women needed. Contact Karen or Day at 577-5188 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed for the Massachusetts Substance Abuse Information and Education HELPLINE. For more information call (617) 536-0501 ext. 201 for more details.

Volunteers — The University Health Services Women's Health Group needs assistance on several projects. Topics include breast health, body image, eating disorders, STD's, alcohol, mental health, and violence. For more information, contact Karen or Day at 577-5188

WE GIVE 100%

Bookworks

Everyday Discounts of 10% OFF! or More!
On nearly every book in stock!
*You never let details

We give 100% to all of our profits to support University programs.

Bookworks is a division of University Store

Put the FUN back in fun reading!

HSCN Hampshire Services Cable Network

5	HSCN Bulletin Board	15	The Learning Channel
9	CBS/3 Hartford	18	UVC/TV19
4	CBS/4 Boston	20	ABC/40 Springfield
6	ABC/5 Boston	21	Govtl to Govtl
8	PBS/57 Springfield	22	NBC/22 Springfield
7	HSCN Movie Ch.	23	Sundance
10	UPN/20 Hartford	24	Bloomberg Financial
5	Weather Channel	26	CTN
12	NBC/30 New Britain	27	TBS
11	Fox/61 Hartford	28	BET
13	PBS/24 Hartford	29	TV Land
14	WCVB & HSCN	30	Univision
15	International	31	Comedy Central
16	UMass Academic TV	32	Cartoon
17	WB/ New Haven	33	Much Music
17	HSCN Programming

MONDAY EVENING — C - Campus — DECEMBER 7, 1998

	C	6:00	6:30	7:00	7:30	8:00	8:30	9:00	9:30	10:00	10:30	11:00	11:30
WEDH (2)	12	Wishbone (R)	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer (R)		Patti LaBelle Live! One Night Only (In Stereo) (R)				Igr Ntomb: An African Dance Celebration (R) (In Stereo)
WFSB (3)	3	News (R)	CBS News	Inside Edition	Hollywood Sq.	Cosby (R) (R)	King	Raymond	Becker (R)	L.A. Doctors "Leap of Faith" (R)	News (R)	Late Show (R)
WBZ (4)	4	News	CBS News	Hollywood Sq.	Ent. Tonight	Cosby (R) (R)	King	Raymond	Becker (R)	L.A. Doctors "Leap of Faith" (R)	News	Late Show (R)
WCVB (5)	5	News (R)	ABC News	Inside Edition	Chronicle (R)	NFL Football Green Bay Packers at Tampa Bay Buccaneers. (In Stereo Live) (R)						News (R)
WLVI (56)		Sister, Sister	Fresh Prince	Nanny (R)	Friends (R)	7th Heaven "Drunk Like Me" (R)	Hyperion Bay (R) (In Stereo) (R)			News		Nanny (R)
WHDH (7)		News	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! (R)	"A Champion's Fight: A Moment of Truth Movie" (1998, Drama) (R)				Dateline (In Stereo) (R)	News	Tonight Show
WTXX (20)	6	Home Imp.	Judge Brown	Judge Judy (R)	Judge Judy (R)	Malcolm-Eddie Guys Like Us		Malcolm-Eddie (Diffraria (R) (R)		News	Newsradio (R)	Married... With
WVIT (30)	10	News	NBC News	Ent. Tonight	Hard Copy (R)	"A Champion's Fight: A Moment of Truth Movie" (1998, Drama) (R)				Dateline (In Stereo) (R)	News	Tonight Show
WTIC (61)	11	Simpsons (R)	Friends (R)	Seinfeld (R)	Frasier (R)	Billboard Music Awards (In Stereo Live) (R)				News	Friends (R)	Mad Abt. You
WWLP (22)	22	News (R)	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! (R)	"A Champion's Fight: A Moment of Truth Movie" (1998, Drama) (R)				Dateline (In Stereo) (R)	News (R)	Tonight Show
WGBY (57)	6	Creatures	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer (R)		Staying at a Lighthouse		Christmas in Vienna			Encore!	Charlie Rose (In Stereo) (R)
WGGB (40)	28	News (R)	ABC News	Seinfeld (R)	Millionaires	NFL Football Green Bay Packers at Tampa Bay Buccaneers. (In Stereo Live) (R)						News (R)
WSBK (38)		Judge Judy (R)	Judge Judy (R)	Seinfeld (R)	Frasier (R)	Malcolm-Eddie Guys Like Us		Malcolm-Eddie (Diffraria (R) (R)		Mad Abt. You	Mad Abt. You	Frasier (R)	Cheers (R)
WTBS (72)		Family Matters	Family Matters	Roseanne (R)	Roseanne (R)	(:) "Moonraker" (1979, Adventure) Roger Moore, Lois Chiles						"The Man With the Golden Gun"
A&E (33)		Northern Exposure "The Rope"	Law & Order "Life Choice" (R)			Biography: Ray Kroc		Tony Bennett an All-Star Tribute Live by Request (Live)				Law & Order "Shadow" (R)
CNN (29)	23	Worldview (R)	Moneyline Newshour (R)		Crossfire (R)	World Today (R)		Larry King Live (R)			Newsstand: Time (R) (R)	Sports	Moneyline (R)
COM (35)	36	Saturday Night Live (R)		Daily Show (R)	Stein's Money	(:) "Triumph" (1988, Comedy) Rich Little, Divine				Dr. Katz Pro.	Bob-Margaret	Daily Show	Stein's Money
DISC (52)		New House	Fix-It-Line	Gimma Shelter (R)		Secrets of the Deep		Awakenings: The Real Story		Mafia Women (R)		Justice Files (R)
ESPN (43)		Sportscenter	Monday Night Countdown			Figure Skating Professional Championship				Cheerleading (R)		ESPNews	Sportscenter
LIFE (45)		Ellen (R)	Ellen (R)	Party of Five "Truth Be Told" (R)		Chicago Hope "Hello Goodbye"		"A Chance of Snow" (1998, Drama) Jolfrich Williams. Premiere. (R)				New Attitudes	Golden Girls
MTV (53)		Countdown	Cut (In Stereo)	Celebrity		Twisted Toons	Eye Spy Video	Say What?		Total Request Live (In Stereo)	Road Rules	Fanatic	Cut (In Stereo)	Loveline
NICK (50)		Figure It Out	Secret of Alex	Doug (R)		Rugrats (R)	Hey Arnold! (R)	Allen Strange	Brady Bunch	Wonder Years	I Love Lucy (R)	I Love Lucy (R)	I Love Lucy (R)
SCIFI (51)		Quantum Leap (In Stereo) (R)		Sightings (R)		Star Trek "The Enemy" (R)			Sliders "Mother and Child" (R)		Welcome to Paradox (R)	Sightings (R)	Star Trek (R)
TLC (62)	28	Home Again	Home Again	Trauma Center					War Against the Mafia (R)		Sky Crimes	Firestorms (R)
TNT (54)		Babylon 5 "A Day in the Strife"		ER "Random Acts" (In Stereo)		WCW Monday Nitro (In Stereo Live) (R)						Mortal Kombat: Conquest (R)
USA (59)		Hercules: Legendary Jrnys.		Xena: Warrior Princess (R) (R)		WWF Raw (In Stereo) (R)				WWF War Zone (In Stereo) (R)		New York Undercover (R)
HBO (63)		(4:00)	Reflections on Ice: A Diary		Prince	(:) "Batman Returns" (1992) Michael Keaton. PG-13 (R)				(:) "Picture Perfect" (1997, Comedy) Jennifer Aniston. PG-13 (R)
MAX (64)		(:) "Saturday Night Fever" (1977, Drama) John Travolta. PG				(:) "The Stranger" (1994, Drama) Kathy Long. (In Stereo) NR (R)				(:) "He Knows You're Alone" (1980) Don Scardino.		"Hungry Joy"
SHOW (65)		(5:45) (:) "Ghosts of Mississippi" (1996) Alec Baldwin. PG-13 (R)				"Airtight Ames: Trailer Within" (1998, Drama)				Aldrich Ames		"Prison Heist" (1995) Rebecca Chambers. R	Red Shoe

Cathy By Cathy Guisewite

Robotman By Jim Meddick

Spunk By Mike LaRiccia

Dilbert By Scott Adams

Rose is Rose By Pat Brady

Foxtrot By Bill Amend

Non Sequitur By Wiley

Kampus Kids By Adam Souliere

Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Liberty Meadows By Frank Cho

Horoscopes

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) — Your encounter with a Libra or Scorpio native will have you feeling more motivated and capable. Or course, it's all a matter of "inspiration."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) — You'll want to be in the center of it all today. You'll likely be in a position that allows you to enjoy everything the day has to offer.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) — You'll get far at this time by employing that special ability you have to make others feel important. It's not idle flattery, either!

PISCES (Feb. 19–March 20) — Take care that you're not trying to be so attentive to another that you actually become intrusive. Observe the rules of "personal space" today.

ARIES (March 21–April 19) — You have no use today for anyone who expressed anything even slightly negative. You want your interaction with others to be positive!

TAURUS (April 20–May 20) — You may not feel as though you are ready today to make any kind of professional commitment besides those that are already old and long–standing.

GEMINI (May 21–June 20) — The facts and only the facts will enable you to solve a mystery today. Avoid gossip at all costs, and steer clear of those with nothing to offer.

CANCER (June 21–July 22) — Your easygoing manner is quite beneficial when it comes to friendly relationships, but you may have to be more demanding in the professional area.

LEO (July 23–Aug. 22) — You're after nothing but the best at this time. You and a friend think you know how to get it. Take care you're not simply fooling yourselves.

VIRGO (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) — Saying that you're a "perfectionist" may be nothing more than an excuse today. There's really no reason why you can't get things right.

LIBRA (Sept. 23–Oct. 22) — You're in the mood for some variety in what you do, and where you are. Now you know what to do with the money you've saved for a "rainy day!"

SCORPIO (Oct. 23–Nov. 21) — You're in a position of authority at this time, even if only in a small way. You can do much that is beneficial during your time in the spotlight.

Quote of the Day

"Shut your mouth and know your role."

–The Rock

Close to Home By John McPherson

"For heaven's sake! You mean all you did was type in Amazon.com?!!"

ACROSS
1 Dry off
5 Traffic problem
8 Portuguese port
14 Mideast gulf
15 Peron or Gabor
16 Disregard
17 Dessert-cart item
18 "Auction" ending
19 Imperfect
20 Spine adjuster
23 Pebble-Beach units
24 Actor Brynner
25 Dainty-case buys
29 Hearing organ
31 Party staple
33 Poet Lazarus
34 Shade tree
37 Joke
39 Good-tempered
41 Dolphin's habitat
42 Airport info
43 Color
44 Greek letter
45 Absorbs
47 Energy unit
48 — Antonio Spurs
49 — out: barely got by
50 Strange
52 Attack word
54 Damascus' country
56 Go quickly
58 Loop
62 Alien's craft
65 Stir up
68 Baseball stat
69 Donated
70 Bird with a very large bill
71 Income: abbr.
72 Actor Baldwin
73 Scoffs
74 Fr. holy woman
75 Carry on

DOWN
1 Observe
2 Potato state
3 Danger
4 Main course
5 Army vehicle
6 Painter
7 Milton —
8 British elevator
9 Arctic dwelling
10 Tangled
11 Hair decoration
12 Mine output
13 Composer Rorem
21 Missouri natives
22 Trite expression
26 Arab rulers
27 Old cattle town
28 Beauty parlor
30 Proportion
32 Teems
34 — Park, Colorado
35 Like some boats
36 Inventor
38 Indira —
40 Saskatchewan's capital
46 Structure
51 Restaurant patrons
53 Puma
55 Sacrifice site
57 Wading bird
59 Florida city
60 Number of hills in Rome
61 Build
63 Desires
64 Goalie's feet
65 "— too late now!"
66 "Mo, Henri"
67 Actor's prompt

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

T	A	M	E		B	E	E	F		D	I	N	E
U	S	U	R	P		O	P	A	L		E	R	I	K
R	I	N	S	E		R	I	T	A		C	A	G	E
N	A	G		C	H	I	C		S	T	A	T	E	D
		S	T	U	N		W	H	A	L	E	R
F	O	O	L	I	N	G		A	I	L
A	M	M	A	N			A	L	L	O	G	L	E	A
S	A	N	K		D	A	I	L	Y		L	A	I	T
T	R	I	E		D	O	U	T		O	A	R	E	D
			A	C	T		P	R	I	M	P	E	D
	G	R	O	T	T	O		A	Y	L	A
B	E	A	R	F	R		A	L	E	E		Z	I	P
A	N	Y	A		I	O	W	A		R	H	I	N	E
L	O	O	T		N	Y	E	T		S	I	N	C	E
D	A	N	E		E	L	S	E		S	C	A	R

Today's D.C. Menu
Call 545-2626 for more information.

Franklin
LUNCH
Chicken Cutlet Sandwich
Grilled Steak Sandwich
Turkey Tettrazini
DINNER
Chicken Breast with Rice Stuffing
Spaghetti/Italian Sweet Sausage
Italian Tofu Balls & Sauce
Quarter Pound Burger
Qtr.Pound American Cheese Burger

Worcester
LUNCH
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
American Chop Suey
Macaroni, Lentil & Tomatoes
Grilled Cheese on Branola
DINNER
Chicken Breast with Rice Stuffing
Black-Eyed Peas
Pastabilities
Ravioli Alfredo

Hampshire
LUNCH
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Turkey Tettrazini
Hamberger on a Roll
Chicken Cutlet Sandwich
DINNER
Chicken Breast with Rice Stuffing
Spaghetti/Italian Sweet Sausage
Tomato Sauce

Berkshire
LUNCH
Turkey Tettrazini
Hamburger on a Roll
Lentil Chili
DINNER
Chicken Breast with Rice Stuffing
Spaghetti/Italian Sweet Sausage
Penne with Tomatoes and Spinach
Pastabilities

Night Editor: Michael Perry
Photo Technician: Kara Stokes
Copy Editor: Nicole Racicot
Production Supervisor: Jeremy Brothers
Production Staff: Allen Mackey, Lisa Metcalf

SPORTS weekend

Monday, December 7, 1998 — The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

UMass beats once unbeaten Lehigh

Minutemen win only home playoff game ever, 27–21

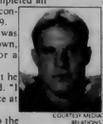
By Brett Mauser
Collegian Staff

If you were there, you saw.

If you weren't, you've heard.

And you can believe that the state of Louisiana is letting out a collective groan themselves.

The Massachusetts football team is headed to the Final Four.



COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS
Matt Dawson

Fans stormed the field, the green grass thoroughly trampled by the overjoyed 12,108 spectators. The south uprights were wounded, but after officials chased the fans off, it was the north goalpost that would soon fall victim to the pandemonium that had just rocked Warren P. McGuirk Stadium.

Lehigh would have its chances, but when Phil Stambaugh's chance faded out of the end zone, it gave the Minutemen a 27–21 victory and a berth in the Division I- AA semifinals.

UMass meets Northwestern State, who was a 31–20 winner over Appalachian State. Louisiana was the site of UMass' first round 21–19 victory over McNeese State.

Down six with 2:17 remaining, Lehigh took over at the UMass 37–yard line. Stambaugh then completed an 11– yarder to Deron Braswell and a 17–yard connection to R.J. Ryan down to the Minuteman 9.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS
Matt Jordan

On first–and–goal, running back Ron Jean was stopped for no gain, and then on second down, UMass' Chris Price sacked Stambaugh for a six–yard loss.

"I wasn't sure what he was going to do, but he kind of stepped right up into me," Price said. "I just kind of lucked out, being at the right place at the right time."

Stambaugh then floated two passes long to the left corner of the end zone that turned the ball over on downs, giving the Minutemen the win.

"I thought all of our kids fought hard on every play," Lehigh coach Kevin Higgins said, "but we just didn't make a couple of plays that we needed to to get over the edge."

The Mountain Hawks closed the deficit to six with 7:11 to go in the game when Phil Stambaugh completed a 10 play, 81–yard drive with a 1–yard keeper.

The Hawks took a 14–13 lead into halftime after Ron Jean's second touchdown of the game, a one–yard run. The junior tailback registered 90 yards on 20 carries on the afternoon.

Up 14–13 in the third quarter, Lehigh lost an opportunity to open up a two–possession advantage when Stambaugh connected with Rick Moore for 46 yards down to the UMass three. Moore, though, was flagged for pushing off beforehand, sending the Mountain Hawks 61 yards back from the catch. The drive would eventually stall and LU punted.

"That was a tough one. We knew going into the game that we would have to complete some long balls against them," Higgins said. "So much of what we do is based on momentum, and it would have given us some more confidence."

The Minutemen took the punt, and UMass rode Todd Bankhead and Marcel Shipp on an 80–yard drive, capped by a 37–yard touchdown pass from Bankhead to Adrian Zullo to give UMass a 20–14 lead with 1:34 remaining in the third quarter.

Bankhead would complete 22 of 36 for 270 yards, two touchdowns, and two interceptions. He got UMass on the board when he threw into double coverage and found Jimmy Moore on a 30–yard pass play give UMass a 10–7 lead early on.

"We're playing really well as a team," Bankhead said. "Every game it seems like I'll play well at times, but be inconsistent at other times. I just need to be more consistent, so I'm still waiting [for my best game]."

Shipp ran for 159 yards on 36 carries to head the ground game. It was the 10th consecutive

Turn to BEATS, page 11

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN
The Minutemen defense tackles a Lehigh offender not allowing him a first down in Saturdays 27-21 playoff win.

UMass defense key in playoff win

Minutemen pressure too intense for Lehigh

By Seth Koenig
Collegian Staff

Massachusetts football Coach Mark Whipple and his staff needed to devise a way to slow down Lehigh's potent offense in their NCAA Division I–AA quarterfinal playoff game at Warren P. McGuirk Alumni Stadium Saturday.

Their plan: throw the kitchen sink at Lehigh field general, Phil Stambaugh. The kitchen sink? Make that the refrigerator and the fine china, too.

Unlike in many of the contests he's played in during the Mountain Hawks' undefeated regular season, Stambaugh was heavily blitzed by the Minuteman defense.

"We have a good package with a lot of blitzes, and we bring certain ones out to fit the team that we're playing," UMass' All–Atlantic 10 linebacker Khari Samuel said. "I thought it was good that we put pressure on [Stambaugh] because I think a lot of teams he played didn't do that too much, so that's why Stambaugh was able to sit back [in the pocket] and throw a lot of balls [this season]. Being a good quarterback as he is, you can't just let him sit back there and throw those balls. It's good that we got after him and got him sacked a couple times. I'm sure that made him think twice when he saw some one coming."

On the first drive of the game, however, Lehigh almost forced the Minutemen out of their game plan by burning a rushing UMass defense with a 50–yard pass from Stambaugh to flanker Kody Fedorcha.

"[Stambaugh] had a fairly long pass early, and I think we got them back on their heels," Lehigh Coach Kevin Higgins said. "They were a little bit tentative from a hlitz standpoint [after that], but unfortunately, we weren't able to take advantage of that."

That scoring drive, which torched the Massachusetts alignment for a touchdown after being on the field for only a minute, did not rock the confidence of Whipple and his coaching staff. Unfortunately for the Mountain Hawk offensive backs, the onslaught was to continue.

"Massachusetts did a great job defensively against us," Higgins said. "They mixed up their blitzes; they mixed up their zones, and they had a tremendous disguise package."

The Lehigh signal–caller rarely could tell what exactly he was looking at when he lined up to examine the defensive set–up. As a result, Stambaugh often looked confused in the face of a surprise rush, going down like a deer caught in the headlights of an oncoming truck.

Minutemen came from all angles. Sophomore safety Lance Overby had a devastating 13–yard sack late in the first half, and recorded another tackle behind the line of scrimmage as well.

"I think they had a hard time picking up the safety blitz in the nickel package. We had real good scheme by [Defensive] Coach [Don] Brown and our defensive coaches," Whipple said.

"They brought a free safety blitz off a double eagle look that we didn't pick up twice," Higgins said of Overby's success.

Samuel, playing in the middle of the UMass defense, had a sack among his two tackles for losses, and junior defensive end Chris Price notched two sacks on the day to lead all players.

The Hawks junior quarterback was sacked a total of four times, and was hit numerous others. Although he posted over 300 yards passing on the afternoon, he threw no touchdown passes.

The Mountain Hawk tailbacks fared little better, as the team's collective 49 yards lost at the hands of UMass allowed the Minutemen to dictate the Lehigh attack.

"They caught us a couple times with pressure, and we didn't want to get into a game where we had to check out of everything, but they did such a good job disguising [their defensive packages]," Higgins said. "We ended up staying within a couple plays, which we normally don't do in our offense, and they hit us right in the teeth and got us in second–and–long and third–and–long."

Forcing Stambaugh to release prematurely on several occasions set up a fourth quarter game–winning stand, during which Massachusetts held Lehigh on four consecutive plays starting at first–and–goal at the UMass nine–yard line with roughly 1:15 left in the game.

"They put us in too many second and third–and–long situations with the blitzes," Higgins said. "In the past, we'd been able to get the ball off in those situations."

Not this time.

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN
Lance Overby sacks the Lehigh quarterback in helping the Minutemen defense to a 27–21 win on Saturday at Warren P. McGuirk.

UMass gets it handed to them by a game Marshall Thundering Herd team, 88–66

By Seth Koenig
Collegian Staff

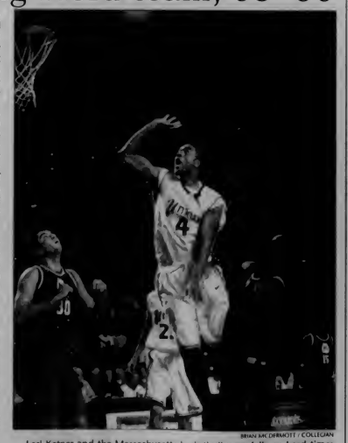
The nightmare isn't over yet. Saturday evening in West Virginia, the Massachusetts men's basketball team was trampled by the Thundering Herd of Marshall, 88–66.

After having entered the season ranked No. 23 in the nation and having been predicted to advance all the way to the Elite Eight by Athlon magazine, the Minutemen have stumbled out of the blocks to a 1–3 record, losing their last three games while seemingly playing in slow motion.

Center Lari Ketner, who welcomed Niagara to the William D. Mullins Center back on Nov. 16 as a future NBA lottery pick, has now descended into temporary mediocrity. Ketner struggled so badly against College of Charleston in UMass' last game, that Coach Bruiser Flint, who later claimed that his superstar "was lucky" to have played the 13 minutes that he did in that game, started Anthony Oates in the five–spot against Marshall.

After the game against the Cougars, Flint was outraged. This time around he must have been violently angry, as the coach was very selective in choosing who to speak with after the game. Obviously frustrated, Flint was absent from the post–game radio broadcast on WHMP, a station on which the Minuteman skipper is a regular.

All game long, whenever the Minutemen appeared to bring the game within striking distance, the Thundering Herd would chisel another letter into UMass' looming head stone. With 10:58 to go in the first half, senior guard Charlton Clarke fired a three–pointer to bring Massachusetts within four points, 15–11. But by the time the hosts stopped retaliating, the score was 20–12.



During nearly the entire first half, the Herd led outright, playing with increased intensity against a UMass squad that seemed to be sleep–walking. Even Massachusetts guard Monty Mack, who carried the team offensively during the first three contests of the year while averaging 24.3 points an outing, started off slow, allowing Marshall to inflate their ever–present lead to 13, 34–21, going into halftime.

After the break, the closest the Minutemen could crawl was five points. With 9:19 to go in the game, junior forward Aimal Basit kept a loose ball inbounds by tossing it to an alert Ronnell Blizzard, whose subsequent lay–in cut the lead to five, 49–44.

Mack, who slowly regained his form by the second period, led the charge to get UMass back in the game by scoring on back–to–back three–point plays with 12:51 on the clock, beginning with a jumper and a foul, and ending with a trifecta the next trip down the court.

Yet, as Marshall's Travis Young buried a second free throw with 5:50

Turn to HANDED, page 10

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN
Lari Ketner and the Massachusetts basketball team falls on hard times as they drop a 88–66 decision to the Marshall Thundering Herd.

Minutemen fall at the final four to USC and UC–SD

By Matthew Despres
Collegian Staff

When the University of Massachusetts men's water polo team kicked off the 1998 campaign by winning three of their first four matches, things were looking good. As the squad continued to reel off win after win, taking away 13 of the first 14 matches from opponents, things were looking really good.

Most of the contests were one–sided, as the Minutemen filled the nets and countered with solid goaltending. Even on the rare nights when UMass was sent home with a loss, it had taken an incredible amount of talent and luck to take these guys down. They were quietly becoming the most dominant athletic team on campus, and had their eyes set on the only thing that matters: post–season play.

The consistently high level of play that the squad demonstrated this season added to the drama this weekend, as head coach Russ Yarworth took his No. 11 ranked team to Newport Beach, California to take part in the NCAA Championships.

UMass missed out on the tournament last year, which made them all the more hungry to go to Corona Del Mar High School with something to prove. The Minutemen entered the event holding the fourth seed, behind third ranked UC–San Diego, second seed Stanford, and their first opponent, the No. 1 ranked University of Southern California.

The Trojans lived up to their No. 1 ranking as they jumped all over UMass in the early goings, quickly building up a 9–0 lead in the first half. USC senior driver Marco Pintaric and sophomore driver George Csaszer helped to spark the early flurry, combining for seven of the first nine points.

The Trojans pushed it to 11–0 before UMass got on the board, when senior Chad Filault scored a two–point goal with seven seconds remaining in the third quarter. Senior Brian Stahl tallied the last goal of the match for the Minutemen as he scored the third goal of the game at 1:26 of the fourth quarter.

Rounding out the Trojan scoring were Ivan Babic, James Castle, Steven O'Rourke and Brian Mericle with one goal apiece. Both squads went with a two–goaltender system, with UMass splitting time between Richard Huntley (8 saves) and J.R. VanderWall (1 save), and USC employing the services of Richard McEvoy (4 saves) and Darin Smith (2 saves).

USC proved too much for UMass, taking the game 12–3, and earning themselves a chance to battle in the championship game. As a result of the win, the Trojans earned their fifth trip to the big game in the last six years. With USC and Stanford advancing, the Minutemen were left to face UC–San Diego on Sunday to determine the third place finisher.

Fresh in UMass' minds was a loss at the hands of UC–San Diego on Oct. 18, when the Tritons swam to a 12–8 victory. Not a championship situation like this time around, but meaningful competition nonetheless.

Once again UMass found themselves the target of an early burst of goals, falling 6–2 until a big third quarter, in which they put four goals by goalie Joe

Turn to MINUTEMEN, page 10

The Massachusetts
DAILY COLLEGIAN
Volume CIV Issue 63 — New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 — Tuesday, December 8, 1998

Psycho Killer?

Check out reviews of the new Psycho and aga–Mandala, Richard Price's latest novel, and Hip Hop Weekly (see Arts & Living, page 7).

I Love Lucia

Lucia Madajova and her Minutewomen teammates will play host to the Holy Cross Crusaders tonight (see Sports, page 12).

WORLD

Malaysian prisoner retracts statement

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — In a startling retraction, the witness whose allegations form the bulk of sex charges against jailed politician Anwar Ibrahim denied yesterday he was ever sodomized by the ex–deputy prime minister.

Azizan Abu Bakar had testified last week that Anwar repeatedly forced him into sodomy, a crime in this predominantly Muslim nation.

But when the trial resumed yesterday after a weekend recess, Azizan denied under cross–examination that he had been sodomized. Anwar is on trial on four counts of abuse of power, and will be tried later on another charge of corruption and five charges of committing illegal sex acts.

He has denied any wrongdoing, calling the charges part of a high–level conspiracy to ruin his political career.

If the defense discredits Azizan's testimony, it could be a major blow to prosecutors who have based the most serious charge of illegal sex acts mainly on Azizan's accusations.

Taken aback yesterday at Azizan's retraction, defense attorney Christopher Fernando repeated his question as a hushed silence fell on the courtroom and everyone strained to hear the answer.

NATION

Spiderman burglar convicted in Miami

MIAMI (AP) — A former Army paratrooper suspected of being Miami's Spiderman burglar was convicted yesterday of scaling a high–rise condo and stealing a laptop computer, jewelry and cash. The jury returned the verdict after watching a surveillance video of a man leaving the Bristol Towers at least an hour before Derrick James was arrested on a traffic violation. The man was identified as James.

James, 33, could get up to 40 years in prison for burglary and grand theft when he is sentenced Feb. 10.

Police suspect James of stealing $6 million in cash, jewelry and credit cards in more than 130 high–rise burglaries carried out by someone so strong and agile that he could climb as many as 30 stories, pulling himself from one balcony to the next, without ropes or hooks.

Many of the victims hadn't locked their balcony doors, never imagining someone could come up the side of the building.

James stood trial in only one burglary — the June 21 theft of $60 in cash, a laptop and $5,000 in jewels from a seventh–floor condo on Miami's ritzy Brickell Avenue. Prosecutors said they expect to file charges for other burglaries.

James denies being Spiderman, saying no one could climb buildings as police described. He claims he won most of his money at the racetrack.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Wednesday	Thursday
HIGH: 39 LOW: 26	HIGH: 39 LOW: 22	HIGH: 42 LOW: 22

INSIDE

Arts & Living.....page 7
Classifieds .....page 10
Comics.....page 11
Crossword .....page 11
Editorial.....page 4
FYI.....page 10
News.....page 3
Sports .....page 12

ON THE INTERNET

www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Housing vouchers to help grad students afford rent, tuition

By Jake Ulien
Collegian Staff

The Graduate Student Senate (GSS) has secured $50,000 from the University's operational budget to distribute housing vouchers to graduate students in need, particularly those affected by welfare reform.

The GSS hopes to distribute these "temporary emergency housing vouchers," which will help cover rent costs, for 40 to 55 graduate students over the spring semester. Priority will be given to students who have been removed from welfare rolls following the Dec. 1 cut–off for two–year recipients.

The voucher system was designed by GSS to correspond to federal guidelines which indicate that citizens should not pay more than 30% of their incomes towards rent. Under the proposed system, any rent costs that go beyond 30% of a student's income would be covered by the vouchers, up to a ceiling level of 75% of the costs.

According to a Graduate Employee Organization survey, more than half of the residents of North Village and Lincoln Apartments (the University's designated family housing area) pay 50% or more of their income towards rent.

Sangeeta Rao, the executive officer of GSS, said that "The incentive is not to let welfare reform get in the way of their education." The number of student welfare recipients has dropped by 88% in the past year.

According to the GSS's original proposal, the priority system for the vouchers is as follows:

1. Students currently on welfare who are being cut off because of the two–year time limit.

2. Students who have already been cut off as of the beginning of the semester.

3. Low–income students on a sliding scale basis.

ALANA (Asian, Latin American, African and Native American) students will also be given priority, and the students' academic standing will be a factor. Rao stressed that while students who fill these criteria will be given preference, the GSS will attempt to accommodate all low– income graduate students.

"The housing vouchers are very important to low–income students. Many of them will be forced to drop out because they can not afford rent or child care," said Mahmood Ketabchi, chairman of the Educational Access Committee. He stated that the procedure for the housing voucher program will be very similar to the GSS's child–care program.

The cost of housing in the Amherst/Sunderland area has risen substantially in recent years, in some cases by as much as 40% from 1997 to 1998 alone. Students who live in campus housing that are unable to meet rent costs are often forced to withdraw from the University.

Applications for vouchers will be made available in the Graduate Student Senate office, the Graduate Employee Organization office, and the graduate offices in Goodell. The GSS hopes to have the applications printed by next week.

The GSS also plans to propose temporary emergency funds to help students in crisis pay their tuitions, and a need–based fellowship, to aid five

Turn to HOUSING, page 2

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN
A picture–perfect day
Rika Miyazawa, a junior art major, paints next to the campus pond yesterday morning.

Peeping tom seen in Prince

University of Massachusetts Police are investigating a report of a peeper in a women's shower room Friday in Prince Residence Hall in the Southwest Residential Area.

In response to the incident in Prince, as well as a number of similar "peeping tom" incidents that have occurred in the residence halls and athletic facilities on campus, UMass Public Safety released an alert to the community.

Many of the incidences have involved a male suspect attempting to look at women in the shower area, according to the Public Safety Alert. The descriptions of the suspects vary, the alert stated, leading police to believe that some of the incidents are unrelated.

The alert makes a number of recommendations for the community's safety and to increase the chance that the suspect is apprehended.

Police released this composite sketch of a suspected "peeping tom" in Prince Residence Hall.

"As a reminder, check the shower area before you use it," the alert stated. "If you live in a residence hall get to know your neighbors, and watch for suspicious people on your floor."

"If anyone appears out of the ordinary please don't hesitate to call 911 or 5–2121," the alert continued. "An officer will be sent to check the area."

Public Safety released a composite description of the suspect in Southwest. He is described as a 23–25 year–old Hispanic male with a medium build and black, curly hair.

Anyone with information about the suspect fitting the composite description is urged to call the Detective Bureau at 545–0893 or the anonymous TIPS LINE at 577–8477.

— Lorraine Kennedy–

Faculty and graduate students voice concern over research

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

The negotiation of research funding at the University of Massachusetts is seriously flawed, according to many faculty members.

A Sept. 8 memorandum written by Joseph Larson, Chair of the Faculty Senate Rules Committee, addressed the concerns of faculty and graduate students on the implementation of recently formulated Commercial Ventures and Intellectual Property (CVIP) policies.

"CVIP staff," the memorandum stated, "while negotiating with industry on behalf of UMass, seem to put first priority on maximizing dollar returns from patent and royalty agreements, while giving little credit to the value of industry sponsored research to the graduate education mission of the campus."

In a recent interview, Larson explained the CVIP negotiating process and its effect on faculty and students. Research conducted by UMass faculty members and graduate students can potentially produce monetary benefits through patents and royalties. Larson said that recent CVIP policies were developed to ensure that the "intellectual property" of researching faculty members are protected, and that the University and state profit from the research conducted in its facilities.

Larson went on to say that patents and royalties are not the only benefits. The money awarded by industrial grants, and the limited income received from research, funds graduate student grants and buys laboratory equipment used by all students.

When a faculty member is approached by an industrial sponsor, the funding contracts are negotiated by CVIP staff, headed by Joseph F. X. McGrail from the UMass Worcester Medical School. According to Larson, McGrail has been a very aggressive negotiator, but his area of expertise is the medical industry.

Larson emphasized that research on the Amherst campus is different from research on the Worcester campus. The kind of research done in the medical field often results in immediate commercial benefits, whereas research done at Amherst focuses on "fundamental problems" in science which are "probably years away from commercialization."

"When you try to apply same negotiating tactics to fundamental science issues, it is totally inappropriate," Larson said. "It gets the company very upset and is making faculty members very frustrated."

Some of this faculty frustration was expressed in e–mails sent to the Faculty Senate in response to the Sept. 8 memorandum.

"[The] implementation [of CVIP] is badly flawed, as it results in a significant number of lost contracts, much ill– will, excessive energy and time dissipation, and a focus away from intellectual benefits in favor of financial metrics," Mike Malone, head of Chemical Engineering, stated via e–mail.

"As outgoing Chair of the Research Council...I am distressed," Malone added. "In incidents too numerous to recount here, many faculty in a variety of departments and programs on campus have spent enormous time and effort to cope with the difficulties resulting from the CVIP implementation. In fact, I believe that this has been a significant factor in top–notch faculty leaving the University for more sensible and effective organizations."

Turn to RESEARCH, page 2

DARRELL GUARDI / COLLEGIAN
Nice wheels
Due to the unusually warm weather, convertibles such as this Chevelle could be found parked in Haigis Mall yesterday morning.

Baltimore disease rates are high, syphilis and gonorrhea on the rise

By James Franklin
Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Baltimore has by far the country's highest rate of syphilis, at more than 30 times the national average, and the city blames the rise of crack and the trading of drugs for sex. Baltimore also topped the nation in gonorrhea, with a rate nine times the national average.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention yesterday ranked the 20 cities with the highest rates of the two sexually transmitted diseases last year.

Overall, the CDC said, both diseases have been reduced to all–time lows in the United States. Syphilis has nearly been eradicated in all but a few cities.

"Our hope is to show that, on one hand, we have made tremendous progress as a nation, but there still is a substantial job that remains to be done," said Dr. Helene Gayle, director of the CDC's center for the prevention of sexually transmitted diseases. Health officials in Baltimore said the spread of gonorrhea doesn't appear to be driven by drugs. Not so for syphilis. "Once it takes off, it's like a conflagration " Dr. Peter L. Beilenson, the city health commissioner.

New Orleans and New York are among other cities that saw syphilis cases rise this decade as they were infiltrated by crack, but their rates have since fallen as health officials fought the problem.

Beilenson said crack came later to Baltimore, about 1995, and that explains the current high numbers.

Gonorrhea infected 991 out of every 100,000 people in Baltimore, the CDC said. The nationwide rate is 123 infections per 100,000 people. The number two city on the list, Washington, had 839 infections per 100,000 people.

And though syphilis infects just three people per 100,000 nationwide, the rate was 99 per 100,000 in Baltimore. That is more than twice the rate of the number two city on the list, Memphis, Tenn., at 40 cases per 100,000 people.

Besides Baltimore, 14 cities appeared on both lists: Washington; St. Louis; Atlanta; Detroit; Richmond, Va.; Newark, N.J.; Norfolk, Va.; New Orleans; Memphis, Tenn.; Oklahoma City; Birmingham, Ala.; Chicago; Nashville; and Milwaukee.

Maryland had the highest infection rate among the 50 states, with 17.6 cases per 100,000.

Reno declines use of counsel, no evidence for investigation

By Michael J. Sniffen
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Janet Reno declined yesterday to order an independent counsel investigation of President Clinton over 1996 campaign financing. She concluded there is "clear and convincing evidence" that he and Vice President Al Gore lacked criminal intent to violate federal spending limits.

Following a 90-day preliminary investigation, Reno advised a special court that "there are no reasonable grounds to believe that further investigation is warranted" into the involvement of Clinton and Gore in Democratic Party-financed issue advertisements run during the 1996 election.

"I find by clear and convincing evidence a lack of knowing and willful criminal intent required for criminal prosecution," Reno wrote. She based that on the fact that Clinton and Gore were advised by legal counsel that the advertising campaign complied with the law.

"As we have said all along, the president and the Clinton-Gore campaign complied with the spirit and the letter of the law," said Amy Weiss, deputy White House press secretary. "We are gratified by this decision."

Reno noted that, in addition to the legal advice, party lawyers screened every ad before it was broadcast to ensure it met legal requirements. Under established law, good faith reliance on the advice of counsel negates criminal intent, she said.

Further, Reno said, established department policy requires the department to defer to the bipartisan Federal Election Commission for the interpretation of ambiguous election laws. Reno noted that in a hearing last week on the party-financed issue ads that both Democrats and Republicans ran in 1996, FEC commissioners expressed the view that the legal standard at the time was "fuzzy" and "hardly clear."

At this time, Reno made no finding on whether the issue advertisements complied with election laws. The FEC is still considering, at meetings later this week, whether the ads amounted to a civil violation of election law.

Reno's inquiry was triggered by draft versions of FEC staff audits that concluded both Clinton and his 1996 Republican opponent, Bob Dole, committed civil violations of federal spending limits. The audits recommended Clinton repay the government $7 million and Dole repay $17.7 million.

The FEC auditors argued that the issue ads, which both Clinton and Dole personally helped coordinate, went too far and amounted to advocating the candidate's election. If so, the advertising costs should have fallen under spending limits Clinton and Dole agreed to when they accepted public campaign funds, the auditors argued. At an FEC meetings last Thursday, four of the six FEC commissioners, including two Democrats and two Republicans, challenged the legal basis for the auditors recommendation. "Today's determination only ends our probe into whether issue ads paid for by the Democratic National Committee violated federal criminal statutes," Reno said. "It does not end our vigorous investigation into allegations of illegal activity surrounding the 1996 elections."

Reno's 120-person campaign finance task force has charged 14 people over the past two years, including prominent Democratic donors, but Republicans in Congress have demanded that she turn the case over to an independent counsel.

GOP lawmakers remained dissatisfied yesterday.

"Janet Reno is failing in her responsibility to investigate the biggest scandal in Washington, the ongoing bipartisan sale of influence in return for unlimited campaign contributions," said Rep. Chris Shays (R-Conn).

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

A long reach

Truth Nissenbaum, of the microbiology department, washes greenhouse windows near the Morrill building yesterday afternoon.

White House abandons Starr-attack strategy

By David Espo
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Backpedaling under pressure, the White House jettisoned plans for a fresh assault on Kenneth Starr yesterday as it readied a last-ditch impeachment defense of President Clinton for the House Judiciary Committee.

The White House recast its strategy on the eve of historic hearings as the panel's chairman, Rep. Henry Hyde (R-Ill.), said there was a "compelling case" for impeaching the nation's 42nd president.

"I haven't heard anybody say Monica Lewinsky is a liar," the Illinois Republican said of the former intern whose detailed allegations of White House sexual encounters with the president are at the core of the nation's impeachment drama. Hyde challenged the White House to present exculpatory evidence over the two days allotted for the president's defense.

With the committee expected to vote by week's end on articles of impeachment related to perjury, obstruction of justice and abuse of power, Clinton's defenders were increasingly turning their attention to a likely battle in the full House next week.

The White House has been given a list of 30 or so GOP lawmakers who officials believe could be persuaded to oppose impeachment, either on the merits of the case or on the basis of the political makeup of their districts, according to sources who are familiar with the situation and spoke only on condition of anonymity. These lawmakers are from districts that Clinton won in his re-election campaign in 1996, and where there is a significant Democratic vote in general.

The list is heavily tilted to the Northeast — ranging from New York Reps. Jack Quinn, Rick Lazio and Michael Forbes to others such as Connie Morella of Maryland, Jim Leach of Iowa and Heather Wilson of New Mexico.

The GOP holds a 228-207 majority in the expiring Congress. Only three Democrats are believed ready to support impeachment, meaning that moderate Republicans hold the balance of power in determining whether Clinton's case goes to trial in the Senate.

In a fresh sign of the political intensity of the issue, officials said that outgoing Speaker Newt Gingrich would decline to preside over the House if impeachment comes to the floor. They noted his absence from the presiding officer's chair would minimize chances that the vote could be interpreted as a clash between Clinton and Gingrich.

Instead, Gingrich has sent word to Rep. Bob Livingston (R-La.) who is in line to become speaker in January, that Livingston could take the gavel. Should Livingston decline, Gingrich would appoint another lawmaker for the duration of the proceedings.

At the White House, spokesman Joe Lockhart signaled the shift in defense strategy. Asked about the president's attitude, and the White House's previous defense tactics, he said, "I can assure you that the contrition is real and is there" from Clinton.

He said he didn't expect the White House to focus on criticism of Starr, as was the case when the independent counsel testified before Congress.

The White House, he said, will make a case that "both under the facts and the law and on constitutional standards argues that the president shouldn't be impeached."

Clinton's spokesman also offered an olive branch to members of Congress angered by the president's legalistic responses to 81 questions posed by the ludiciary Committee. "We answered those questions in good faith," Lockhart said. "We certainly regret those who took offense by the way we answered them."

The White House has arranged for several panels of witnesses over two days. At the same time, plans have been scrapped for a panel — originally announced on Friday — to delve into "prosecutorial misconduct and the impact of tainted evidence." In addition, the president's final defense summation will be handled by Charles F.C. Ruff, the White House counsel, rather than David Kendall, who had questioned Starr sharply in an earlier appearance before the committee. This time, Kendall will be away from the microphone while Ruff sits in front of it.

Following two days of White House witnesses, the committee is expected to begin debate on the three impeachment articles that Hyde referred to. A vote is expected by Friday, or Saturday at the latest.

Hyde sidestepped a question of whether he would permit a vote on censure, an alternative to impeachment sought by many Democrats. "It's not ruled out but it's not a dead-bang certainty either," he said during a news conference. He added that he personally does not believe censure is "an appropriate sanction." Some of Clinton's strongest GOP critics oppose censure on legal and political grounds. They say it is unconstitutional, and they also fear it would give wavering Republicans an excuse to oppose impeachment.

From the beginning, the drive to impeach Clinton has always been part political and part legal.

Republicans pushed an open-ended inquiry through the House last October over Democratic objections. They lost seats the following month in elections that were viewed in part as a referendum on their handling of the issue.

■ housing

continued from page 1

low-income graduate students in good academic standing. However, these proposals are still in the developing stages.

According to Joanne Levinson, the advisor to the Commuter Area Government, the Student Government Association will soon propose a joint plan for undergraduates. The plan would use another $50,000 for vouchers for undergraduate students, many of whom have also been affected by welfare cuts.

■ research

continued from page 1

Corrado Poli, head of the Mechanical Engineering department, also responded via e-mail, "The University's role is education. The main justifications for conducting research at a university are (1) education of graduate students and (2) professional development of the faculty. Everything else is secondary." "In our current situation, we seem to be killing the prospects for industrial research funding in order to protect the extremely remote possibility of some future royalties," said Poli.

U.S. may lift N. Korean sanctions

By Paul Shin
Associated Press

SEOUL, South Korea — The United States could offer economic and diplomatic benefits to North Korea for access to a suspected North Korean nuclear weapons site, South Korean President Kim Dae-jung proposed yesterday.

Kim made the offer during a meeting with William Perry, the newly appointed U.S. government policy coordinator on North Korea. The former U.S. defense minister arrived Sunday on a three-nation Asian tour, which includes stops in Tokyo and Beijing.

"I think all problems related to North Korea should be tackled in a package deal," presidential spokesman Park Ji-won quoted Kim as telling Perry. "I hope for normalization of relations between the United States and North Korea, and I think it's time to think about lifting economic sanctions against North Korea."

Tension is mounting over North Korea's continued refusal to accept a U.S. demand for inspection of the suspected underground nuclear facility under construction at Keumjang-ri, 25 miles northeast of the North's main nuclear complex at Youngbyon.

In loving memory of

HONEY

1986-1998

she was the best dog in the world

may she rest in peace.

Work During Break

$$Earn Money$$

$400 - $600 PER WEEK

$7.50+PER HR with OVERTIME AVAILABLE

JOIN OUR TEAM TAKING INVENTORY IN YOUR HOMETOWN AREA DAYS AND NIGHTS

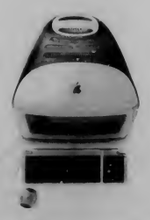
RGIS Inventory Specialists

Visit our website rgisinv.com

OR CALL TODAY & SET UP AN INTERVIEW

24 hour job line — [illegible]

BOSTON 617-484-1788 PLYMOUTH 508-633-1145



SOUTH OF BOSTON 508-821-5891 ROUTE 3 SOUTH 781-340-6355

SEA COAST AND NORTH OF BOSTON 603-926-9813

Come visit us on the concourse 12/1, 12/8, 12/9, 12/15

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

The only thing better than an iMac: An iMac for less than $29.99/mo.

Apple® Computer couldn't make iMac™ any easier to set up or use. So they made it easier to buy. Now, if you're a student, you can get an iMac for less than $29.99 per month* with the first payment not due for 120 days. For about what you'd spend on a few pizzas, you can have a super-fast computer that can get you onto the internet in 10 minutes right out of the box. You also get a coupon book worth $2,000 in possible additional savings, for software, games and accessories. Come try an iMac for yourself at

Computers Etc. — A division of University Store — In the UMass Campus Center 9 to 9 Mon. - Fri. 11 to 4 Saturday 413-545-2619

http://www.apple.com/education/store

Authorized Reseller

© 1998 Apple Computer, Inc. All rights reserved. Apple and the Apple logo are registered trademarks and iMac is a trademark of Apple Computer, Inc. *$0 Monthly payments (-$2.33 basis) on a $999.00 purchase amount (-$1,320 consisting of manufacturer's suggested retail price (-$1,249.00) more including all taxes, shipping and VAT less plus a one time organization fee of 4.5%. First payment will be due approximately 120 days after loan disbursement. The monthly variable rate equals the prime rate published in The Wall Street Journal on the first business day of each month plus 1.0%. (Note: As of November 1, 1998, the rate is 11.00% (8.00% prime rate plus 3.00%). APR subject to monthly increase or decrease. Any changes in the Rate will take effect on the fifth business day of each calendar month and will affect the dollar amount of your monthly payments. Each loan subject to credit approval. No down payment required. No prepayment penalty.

Removal of President too severe, argues White House and witnesses

By Jim Abrams
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The White House will call 14 witnesses and use two lawyers before the House Judiciary Committee to argue that removing President Clinton from office is too severe a penalty. Committee Chairman Henry Hyde complained today that, "We haven't heard one word about evidence repudiating or rejecting the facts." Standing in front of stacks of boxes in which Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr delivered 60,000 pages of evidence to the House, Hyde blamed Democrats and Clinton for presenting legal seminars instead of focusing on the core allegations of perjury, obstruction of justice and abuse of power.

"For almost two months I have been pleading with the White House and the congressional Democrats to present some additional evidence that might demonstrate the president's innocence," Hyde said.

The White House sent a letter today informing the Judiciary Committee that attorney Greg Craig will open the presentation today and "describe — briefly and generally — the president's legal and factual defense" followed by three panels of witnesses. White House counsel Charles F.C. Ruff will make closing arguments tomorrow afternoon.

The White House also disclosed that one of its witness, Yale law professor Bruce Ackerman, will argue that any impeachment article approved by the House this year would not be valid when the new Congress convenes Jan. 6. White House press secretary Joe Lockhart, asked about Ackerman's view on this matter, said the president's lawyers were not taking a stand on the time question.

"We have two days to make a case here and we will spend a good bit of time talking about the constitutional issues," Lockhart said.

"We will discuss what our view of both the facts and the law are, at great length," the spokesman added.

With the committee virtually certain to approve at least one article of impeachment, House leaders are beginning to plan for a vote on the floor. A GOP source said outgoing Speaker Newt Gingrich would call the House back into session for any impeachment vote but probably would allow someone else to preside over the proceeding. One of Clinton's most vocal defenders, private attorney David Kendall, will not be involved in the presentation to the committee. He has been among the sharpest critics of Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr. Lockhart said Kendall would be "there and available" if his help was required.

Among the witnesses are three former members of the House Judiciary Committee that voted to impeach President Nixon a quarter-century ago: the Rev. Robert Drinan, a Roman Catholic priest and former Massachusetts Democrat; Elizabeth Holtzman (D-N.Y.); and Wayne Owens (D-Utah).

The panel was carefully chosen by presidential aides hoping to use former lawmakers to lobby current committee members that impeachment is too severe a penalty for Clinton's transgressions in the Monica Lewinsky affair, and that there isn't evidence that Clinton abused his presidential powers.

The three will comprise the second panel called to testify this afternoon. They will be preceded by four legal experts who will discuss the "historical precedents and constitutional standards" for impeachment.

A third panel of witnesses today will discuss evaluating the evidence gathered by Starr, contrasting it to the process used in Watergate. Former Watergate prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste will join Washington attorney James Hamilton on that panel. Hamilton represented White House lawyer Vincent Foster before his 1993 suicide.

The last witnesses called tomorrow will be five former federal prosecutors, including former Treasury Department chief of enforcement Ronald Noble, to discuss prosecutorial standards for obstruction of justice and perjury. Another former Watergate prosecutor, Richard Davis, will answer questions on that panel. "I think the president's team again will make the case about how this doesn't rise to the level of impeachment," Lockhart said. "And that will be based on the allegations raised, the facts and the law." He said he didn't expect the White House to focus on criticism of Starr, as was the case when the independent counsel testified before Congress.

Clinton's spokesman also offered an olive branch to members of Congress angered by the president's legalistic responses to 81 questions posed by the House Judiciary Committee. "We answered those questions in good faith," Lockhart said. "We certainly regret those who took offense by the way we answered them." The Judiciary Committee's inquiry enters a final, crucial phase this week with two days of presentations from White House witnesses and attorneys beginning today. The White House asked for four days but grudgingly accepted half that time. The committee will consider articles of impeachment later in the week.

Lockhart said Clinton's team would address Starr's report "but mostly in the context of exculpatory evidence that was not used in the referral and some issues where there are some questions of interpretation of the law."

The Judiciary Committee is warning against delaying tactics that might stretch the inquiry beyond year's end. "The committee will not undermine its goal of resolving the inquiry this year," the panel's chief of staff, Thomas Mooney, wrote in a letter Sunday to the president's lawyers.

Rep. Henry Hyde (R-Ill.), the Judiciary chairman, originally gave the White House one day to rebut charges against Clinton in the Lewinsky affair. Clinton's lawyers last week said they wanted three or four days.

Police Log

Accident — Property Damage
Dec. 4
A PVTA bus was sideswiped by a vehicle on University Drive. No injuries were reported.

Alarm — Elevator Telephone
Dec. 5
An individual was extricated from a stuck elevator in Washington Residence Hall.

Annoying Behavior
Dec. 7
A noise problem was reported near Knowlton Hall on North Pleasant Street.
Individuals near the pyramids in the Southwest Mall were causing a problem.
Dec. 6
A security officer reported being harassed by an individual in Butterfield Circle who had received a parking citation.
Individuals on the roof of Butterfield Residence Hall were throwing water balloons. Police assisted the staff in removing the individuals.
An individual in Kennedy Residence Hall requested to see an officer regarding an earlier incident.

Assault and Battery
Dec. 5
An individual was assaulted at Warren P. McGuirk Alumni Stadium. No complaints were sought at the request of the victim.
An individual was assaulted at Washington Residence Hall. A show cause hearing was requested.

B&E/Burglary
Dec. 6
A vehicle in Lot 22 on University Drive was broken into. A Walkman, lighter and trumpet, valued at over $1200, were stolen.
An individual reported illegal entry into a locked room in John Quincy Adams Hall.
Dec. 4
A vehicle in Lot 22 was broken into. A CD player and CDs, valued at over $250, were stolen.

Disorderly Conduct
Dec. 6
A fight was reported to be in progress in Chadbourne Residence Hall.

Larceny
Dec. 6
A bicycle, valued at $100, was stolen from Lot 11 on Stadium Drive.
Illegal use of a credit card was reported in Coolidge Residence Hall.

Suspicious Person/Activity
Dec. 5
Shawn McKay, 21, of 18 Hidden Rd., Methuen, was arrested on Massachusetts Avenue and charged with disorderly conduct and two counts of wanton destruction of property over $250.
Dec. 4
A peeping tom was reported in the women's shower area of Prince Residence Hall.
A poster on a Mary Lyon Residence Hall resident's door was set on fire.

Suspicious Vehicle
Dec. 6
Robert P. Duda, Jr., 37, of 31 New Lombard Rd., Chicopee, was arrested at the Mullins Center and charged with trespassing and disorderly conduct.

Traffic Stop
Dec. 5
Ryan A. Sousa, 19, of 255 Russell Mills Rd., South Dartmouth, was arrested on Sunset Avenue and charged with illegal transportation of liquor, equipment violation (brake lights) and misuse of auxiliary lamps.

Vandalism
Dec. 6
A vehicle in Lot 32 on Massachusetts Avenue was damaged.
A window on a vehicle was smashed in Lot 33 on University Drive.
A window was broken in the lobby of Melville Residence Hall.
Sexual graffiti was written in the men's bathroom on the second floor of the Campus Center.
Dec. 5
Police received a report that some individuals damaged the blimp at the Mullins Center. The Athletics Department reported no permanent damage.
A vehicle in Lot 32 on Massachusetts Avenue was damaged. The individual responsible was apprehended.
An outside mirror was broken on a vehicle in Lot 32.
A vehicle in Lot 44 on Sylvan Drive was "keyed."
A toilet was ripped from a wall on the third floor of Mackimmie Residence Hall. Housing was notified.
Dec. 4
A liquid substance was poured over a number of vehicles in Lot 49 on Clark Hill Road.

DANIELLE GILARDI / COLLEGIAN

Stunt man

Travis Dane, a freshman engineering major, rides his bike near the campus center yesterday afternoon.

■ 2000

continued from page 1

computer moves forward into the year 2000, computer banks and chips with the Y2K time function, will move backward to 1900 and possibly corrupt the files.

Financial, electrical, transportation, and communication services rely on interdependent computer networks, threatened by the Y2K glitch. There are an estimated 100 million computers with the Y2K chips. Government and federal agencies have already poured billions of dollars into fixing and updating systems.

Last night, Town Manager Barry Del Castilho outlined Amherst's four-part preparedness plan.

Three parts of the plan address technical issues in three different areas: the city's computer programs and equipment; the municipal infrastructure including street lights and power systems; and outside agencies contracting with the city for services like Bell Atlantic. Contingency plans for the elderly and the handicapped is the fourth portion of the plan. Work on the plan began earlier this year and will continue indefinitely.

Castilho said the Select Board, who will oversee the program's implementation, should consider forming citizen groups.

Citizens' momentum has outpaced the board. The actions of citizens like Wiley reflects a growing concern among residents. Several citizens, including Wiley, showed up at last night's Select Board meeting hoping to find out more about where their town stands. An increasing number of calls are coming into Town Hall from citizens wanting to know what their city is doing about the Y2K dilemma. Last week, the city's planning commission began questioning their role in Amherst preparedness. Today, Castilho will meet with town officials to plot town departments' courses of action.

"I see this as an opportunity and a crisis," said Wiley. "It's not just crisis management but getting people to move in a positive direction."

Wiley hopes her group will prepare people for the emergency, but beyond that she hopes it will build community.

PART TIME TELLER POSITION

Florence Savings Bank is currently seeking candidates for a part-time teller position. The successful candidate will be responsible for operating a teller window, to handle a wide variety of customer transactions in a courteous, professional manner, while adhering to Bank policies and procedures.

Applicants should possess a high school diploma or the equivalent, customer service experience, prior cash handling experience, strong communication and interpersonal skills, and computer experience.

Florence Savings Bank offers a competitive salary and outstanding benefit package. A sampling of benefits includes:

* Medical Insurance
* Dental Insurance
* Life Insurance
* 401(k) Plan
* Pension Plan
* Profit Sharing
* Paid Vacation

If you are interested in becoming part of the FSB team, please forward your resume, or apply in person to: Human Resources Assistant, Human Resources Department, Florence Savings Bank, 85 Main Street, P.O. Box 60700, Florence, MA 01062-0700. Florence Savings Bank is an Equal opportunity Employer and encourages diverse candidates to apply for this position. No phone calls, please.

★Happy Holidays!!★

from your friends on the Monday night graphics staff

PLAY HARD TO STAY HARD

JOIN THE BEST

HAMPSHIRE FITNESS club

Area's Most Complete Club

90 Gatehouse Rd. off Rt. 9, 2 miles East of Town Center

256-6446

MINI MALL '98

Sponsored by Hillel/JSU

Handcrafted Jewelry...

Pottery, Clothing..

Posters, candles, etc...

23 tables of Vendors!!

FREE to the Public

December 8-11 10am - 5am

Student Union Ball Room

SPRING BREAK

SALES REPS WANTED

EARN CASH & GO FREE

SAVE UP TO $200/ROOM

LIMITED OFFER CALL TODAY

CANCUN

#1 SPRING BREAK DESTINATION

FREE MEALS, DRINKS & ACTIVITIES

MAZATLAN

MEXICO'S NEWEST HOT SPOT

NORTH-WEST COAST

EXCLUSIVE FLIGHTS VIA TWA

LET'S PADRE

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND

EXCLUSIVE FLIGHTS VIA TWA

JAMAICA

MONTEGO BAY & NEGRIL

BEST PRICES - BEST PARTIES!

1-800-787-3787

www.studentexpress.com

"BREAK WITH THE BEST"

--- The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian ---

Santa's little helper

I stopped believing in Santa Claus when I was about eight, when I realized that the "Santa" who visited me on Christmas Eve wore the exact same loafers as my neighbor Tony. For years I was convinced that for some reason Santa smelled overwhelmingly like musk and shoe polish. But I still made a ritual of going down to the mall and telling Santa what I wanted. Every year I went, it was the same Santa Claus, Randy. I knew his name was Randy because it was engraved on the silver flask he drank from after every kid got off his lap. "Just a little cider for my nerves," he'd say, downing another shot. "Where's the next little monkey?"

I'd invariably wander up and plop myself down on Randy's fleshy thighs and look into his bloodshot eyes. His stubble would extend above his fake cotton beard, and the red Santa suit was always buttoned asymmetrically. Some say his heart was two sizes too small. "Ho ho ho, you smelly little turd," he said every year with his Everclear breath. "What do you want me to bring you this year?"

Age 7

"I want a pet Koala bear."

"Koala bears stink because they pee on their hands. But they're still better than wives, because they don't know what alimony is. Now get out of here before I kick your teeth in."

Age 8

"I want a Cabbage Patch Kid. One named Jessica."

"Oh, for the love of Christ. Get this little pansy off of my lap. I need a drink."

Age 9

"I want Ghostbusters on video."

"Two words kid: Lesbian. Vampires. Red hot. Right here, on video, in this bag for five dollars. No? Then get off my leg, before I ghostbust your ass."

Age 10

"I'd like pecs like Hulk Hogan."

"What am I? A magician? Lift some [expletive] weights, you little [expletive] butterball."

Age 11

"I want a bike."

"Get a job."

Age 12

"I'd like a...uh, a girlfriend."

"What the... Who do you think I am? A [expletive] pimp? Just strap on a set and talk to a girl, ya nancy boy."

As you can see, Randy and I didn't see eye to eye on the whole gift-giving thing. I usually left teary-eyed, struggling for breath, my faith shaken. "Hey, that little scamp left a stain." I'd hear him yell to no one in particular, gesturing at the dark red spot on his Santa pants. "Oh, wait...False alarm. That's all Randy."

Mike Messaros

Randy and I had a "contentious" relationship. I'd see him around town occasionally, trying to sell bootleg videos of lesbian vampires or pouring the remnants of semi-empty beer bottles into mason jars, shaking them up to make "Randy's Recycled Cocktail." And he always had that Santa suit on. When I'd see him, I'd slow down on my bike to take in the sight of him. "Hey, nancyboy," he'd call out, catching my gaze. "you know only tissies put tassles on their handlebars." Listen, I'll say it to my grave — tassles were in that year and they were asexual.

I was in my 13th year, a young boy with big dreams in my head, and a song in my heart. And it always brightened my day when it came time to hear that familiar ringsong — "Buddy, it's fruitcake weather!"

Wait — no, that was Truman Capote's A Christmas Memory. Let me see. Oh yeah — I was daring some neighborhood kids to eat bugs in my front yard. It was only a few days after Thanksgiving and I felt it was time to head to the mall to give Santa ye olde Christmas list.

When I arrived at the mall, the line was dwindling like the days and the children swayed from side to side in mock patience. The afternoon light sprayed through the overhead windows. I waited in line, getting up on my tippy-toes to catch a look at my Santa.

When I got there, I sat on Randy's pudgy lap, waiting for his harsh dose of reality. "What do you want for Christmas," Randy asked. His breath smelled like mint.

"What's wrong, Randy? You're not yourself."

"Oh, the mall said I had to shape up. I wasn't 'Christmas' enough." His voice broke. "They almost fired me."

"Fired you? Why, Randy, you're as Christmas as anything in this mall — the talking pine tree, Hickory Farms Gift Packs, the bubble-blowing polar bear. "Grandma Got Run Over by a Reindeer," the...the Christmas issue of Playboy. Christmas isn't about the birth of our savior or sober Santas. It's all in here." I pushed my young finger into his chest.

"Watch the pacemaker, kid." He shifted uncomfortably. "Yeah, you're right. You're right kid. Thanks. Thanks a lot." He leaned in toward me. "You're my little angel." He paused. "And if you tell anyone I said that, I'll tell everyone you tried to kiss me on the lips. Get outta here." I hopped off his lap, brushing a bell hanging from a nearby tree.

The little girl behind me, dressed in her velvet green dress and pigtails, ran up excitedly, pointing at the bell. "Teacher said that when a bell rings, an angel gets its wings."

"Or the wind just happened to blow. What kind of fundamentalist drivel is your teacher heaping on you? Did she tell you about evolution?" Ahhh, Randy. God bless you. God blesses everyone.

Mike Messaros is a Collegian columnist.

Age of Decadence

We live in a hedonistic society in America. Our culture is dominated by the media, which dictates the products we "need" to obtain happiness. All of these consumer goods are geared towards the human body, by providing pleasure. Television, radio, newspapers, magazines, and billboards bombard us with images of food, drink, fragrances, music, books, movies, and comfortable clothing. In other words, items which appeal to the five senses: taste, smell, hearing, sight, and touch. But one has to wonder how many of the products Americans habitually purchase are truly "needs," and which are indulgences.

Granted, humans need food, water, clothing, and shelter to survive. The media and profit-making businesses have extended these basic needs to include snacks, desserts, alcohol, soda, silk or cashmere garments, jewelry, luxury cars, boats, vacation homes, etc. While these are hardly necessities, most Americans have a modest income enabling them to afford extra material goods — within reason.

Some people think that gambling is the sure way to strike it rich, and others become obsessed with making money. The green does funny things to people. In moderation, most people can keep it in perspective, while others will steal or even kill for their obsession. Call it greed, sloth, gluttony; it's more than just one of the Seven Deadly Sins.

It's almost comical how our society and culture convince us that our lives will depend upon how we spend our money. Consider some of the purchases you have made recently. Fast food, chewing gum, cigarettes, and alcohol are common things that college students buy. While all are orally consumable products, none have nutritional content. And what is the value in gum, anyway? There is logically no reason to chew gum because you can't swallow it or eat it.

> "It's almost comical how our society and culture convince us that our lives will depend upon how we spend our money."
>
> Christine Coco

Cigarettes are even more pointless. What is smoking supposed to accomplish besides an early death? And with the new Massachusetts price increase on tobacco, smoking is becoming an even bigger monetary commitment. Another useless yet multi-billion dollar industry is cosmetics. Women can easily live without painting their faces, hair, and nails, yet we are led to believe that beauty, via these products, is also a necessity. I contribute this egotism to our hedonistic society. Our decadence will lead to an eventual depletion of America's resources and our own money.

With Christmas approaching, try to be aware of the purchases you make during the holiday season. This year, be creative in your gift-giving. Beware of consumer traps for objects of no use besides decoration or pleasure. Thought-provoking gifts may be donations to charity or pledges to an upcoming benefit, such as the Walk for Hunger. Or for a tangible present, The Salvation Army has many unique and character-filled items of clothing and furniture for inexpensive prices. If you are afraid that the recipient of your generosity may be offended by your lack of materialism, The Giving Tree is a simple, yet great book to give with a strong message about wastefulness. We need to ensure that there will be many more centuries of Christmases to come, so let's celebrate the Earth this season, not consumer traps.

Christine Coco is a UMass student.

A clothes call

Lawrence was the first public high school in the state in decades to enforce a mandatory uniform policy for students. However, its supporters experienced their worst fears recently. The policy failed.

The past few years, the uniform policy has been increasingly ignored by the student body, to the point where administrators have been suspending students from school for not following it. Then, this year, approximately 40 students walked out of class in protest of uniforms, citing "freedom of expression" as their primary concern.

As reported in a supplementary section to many daily newspapers, Rexct, this has effectively ended the mandatory policy. It has since returned to a loose dress code, such as no extremely sexually revealing clothes, which compares with most other state high schools.

However, this rejects common media notions that uniforms allow students to learn in a more effective environment, free from distractions.

In fact, it seems it actually caused more problems than it solved.

The general idea of administrators and parents is that uniformed students no longer focus so much on appearance or obsess about who has the most stylish and expensive attire. Also, applying more to city schools, uniforms reduce the violence that competition over expensive clothing causes and eliminates the wearing of gang paraphernalia.

Certainly, I cannot deny that some students commit violent acts because of jealousy over someone's clothes or that wearing gang paraphernalia can provoke violence. Furthermore, many public schools outside of Massachusetts that have adopted uniforms have seen a decrease in violent episodes in classrooms and hallways.

However, are uniforms what high school students really want? A sampling of current high school students from Lawrence certainly do not think so. Moreover, after asking several friends and coworkers, uniforms were not something any one yearned for the chance to wear. On the other hand, a few who had attended private schools believed the required uniforms had prevented certain problems.

Obviously, students today do not desperately want to wear uniforms. They do, however, hint that in certain situations, such as in schools with gang clothing problems, uniforms could be used as a short term solution. In a broader sense, though, if we can discover and eliminate the causes behind why students obsess over designer clothes and commit violent acts because of it, then we could likely rid us of not only uniforms but some of the major problems students confront.

To me, the most compelling argument for uniforms is that they erase economic differences in appearance. This well- intentioned argument has been promoted by many who realize that money and the clothing it buys should not be the primary basis for judging a person.

However, students are not born judging their peers on the economic and visual value of their clothing. Someone had to teach them that these are important in society and that we should admire those who adhere to an ideal and ostracize those who can not or choose not to.

Students' problems reflect failures in the adult society. If we stop teaching our children to value competition via materialism, clothing will not matter in schools. We should teach children to work together equally for collective gains, not to disregard others in search of materialistic self-interest.

School uniforms also become a form of state-sanctioned gender differentiation. The uniform options at most of these schools include different choices for males and females. Females can choose to wear what the males do, but doesn't this suggest that for females to equal males, they must wear men's clothing? If uniforms attempt to focus students only on learning, why not make only one option?

This idea shows itself in the years after schooling, for the workplace supports this exact notion. For example, for a lawyer to change her feminine image, one option is to dress in more masculine clothing. School uniforms, then, not only show that adult problems translate to children, but that schools still believe gender differentiation is necessary.

Like in schools, uniforms or dress standards are not necessary in office-oriented professions. An employee certainly can perform as well without an expensive suit, for suits only give the illusion that one is intelligent and respectable.

I am not rejecting the notion of uniforms itself. There are several professions in which they are necessary for purposes of identification in situations where a name tag will not suffice.

I also do not reject any type of clothing, for it in itself causes no problems. It becomes a problem, though, when people are forced to wear it so they can fit an appearance standard. Recent ideas such as "dress-down Fridays" show that suits are not what workers always want to wear. This also shows that society has begun to reject rigid clothing standards, at least in a limited sense.

Like the Lawrence students claim, purposeless uniforms, like ones in schools and offices, suppress freedom of expression. Their supposed need, though, shows that major changes in society are necessary. Cutting the gap between rich and poor, decreasing our materialistic obsessions, and rejecting appearance as a reflection of someone's mind are just three needs we should strive to reach. This country has a history of implementing plans, like school uniforms, that provide limited, if any, success. The problems still persist, however, suggesting we should instead invest in a long-term, effective solution.

Jason Wiesenbach is a Collegian columnist.

Jason Wiesenbach

There will be a meeting on Thursday, Dec. 10 at 7 p.m.

in the COLLEGIAN office for all current and interested ED/OP WRITERS. Questions?

Call MIKE, TANYA or ALEXIS @ 545-1491.

DOONESBURY By Garry Trudeau

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545-3500 • Fax (413) 545-1592 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor-in-Chief Position Vacant Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Laura Forster Developing Nations Editor
Mike Messaros Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Co-Jewish Affairs Editor

Morgan Tobor Co-Jewish Affairs Editor
Heather Lei Guzzetta Multicultural Affairs Editor
Jill Carroll News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Sports Editor
Allana E. Todman Women's Issues Editor

Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Prestes Distribution Manager
Feisal Ahmad Marketing Manager

Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Agric Life, became the College Signal in 1901, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1956. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967 and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1994. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Hatred of Kristallnacht remembered 60 years later

This year marks 60 years since rioters burned hundreds of synagogues and ransacked over 7,000 Jewish shops, businesses and homes. "Kristallnacht," or "The Night of Broken Glass," refers to these organized, anti-Jewish riots in Germany and Austria. It served as a major turning point in the Nazi campaign against the Jewish people.

Two summers ago, I went on a trip to visit Poland and Israel with United Synagogue Youth. Going to Poland was a chance to learn about the violence and killing that went on within the borders of the country many years ago. It was my chance to see, first-hand, the devastation and evidence of Nazi crimes. Soon, there will be nothing left of the structures that testify to these atrocities. Little did I know that I would learn not only of crimes of the past, but of today. I had thought that society had moved past these acts of violence and offense, yet even today there are countless instances of hatred and anti-Semitism.

Renee Cohn

While traveling through Poland as Jews, we were met with blatant disrespect. We had vulgar words shouted as we paid respects, yelling and laughing during prayer, and even rocks thrown at us as we toured this foreign land. We were there to pay respect for the murder of millions of people, and felt that residual feelings of prejudice made that task even more difficult. Living among the ashes and graves caused by anti- Semitism have not yet taught the extent of hatred.

Yet the prejudices do not only come from the outside. In Warsaw, at religious services in an unused synagogue, we were joined by a group of Orthodox Israeli teenagers who were visiting Poland for the same purpose as our own. Yet when we all began to pray, there was an immediate clash, a "melody war." One tune was coming from each side of the room, and we couldn't even make it through familiar prayers. The feeling was contempt instead of familiarity. In a place such as Poland, in lieu of Holocaust history and visits to concentration camps, we could not find peace among ourselves. I wondered how we were to expect peace with our neighbors around the world and in Israel when we could not find it among ourselves.

The next day at Birkenau, we saw the same group of Israeli teenagers. At a camp that had witnessed over one million murders, the place was run-down and left for vandalism and disrespect. Against the Polish sky were huge Israeli flags being waved by the traveling group, a sight of unforgettable hope. Some members of each group approached each other and shook hands. Our differences from the day before vanished, and we understood that we had more in common than we knew.

Prejudice is not a thing of the past, and neither is anti- Semitism; it comes in many forms. We see it in our own communities, we read it in the papers and hear it on the news. It may be 55 years since the Holocaust, and 60 years since Kristallnacht, but mentality has changed very little. If we are ever to move past the destruction that comes with hatred, we must recognize that, despite our differences, we can find one melody and one voice; let this be the voice of understanding.

Renee Cohn is a Collegian staff member.

RENEE COHN / SPECIAL TO THE COLLEGIAN

Part of a memorial at the destroyed concentration camp, Treblinka, this engraved rock is one of 13,000 rocks representing each of the people killed daily at the camp.

"Do the Right Thing" inspires introspection

"Would you like to switch seats with me? This does not excite me. I was born here," the guy next to me says as I lean over him, looking out the window of the plane as it lands in Israel. Embarrassed, I say, "No, thank you."

Now I was in Israel. I was attending a large conference called the General Assembly (GA) through a smaller conference entitled "Do The Write Thing" (DTWT). DTWT is a conference for Jewish college journalists and campus media. The GA is an annual conference sponsored by the Jewish Federation of North America. This year it happened to be in Israel during the week of Nov. 16.

Jaclyn Sobel

Before I left, my family and friends were asking me if I was still going, considering everything that was going on in the Middle East. There were bombs going off and threats of war, but I was determined to go. To be honest, I was very nervous to go. My parents almost didn't send me. I knew in my heart that it was going to be just fine.

I knew that things would be fine for a variety of reasons, but one in particular. The reason: the media distorts just about everything. I can say this because I am part of the media, and since all of the students on this trip were part of the media, we understood that.

In America, we hear about many of the problems going on in the Middle East. We don't live it everyday. What we do live is all the problems the rest of the world hears about. They hear about our drugs, sex crimes, teenage pregnancy, etc., while we hear about bombs.

The problems across the ocean are so different then our problems here in the United States. While I was there I felt at peace. But to be honest, I did not feel at home. However, I felt like my life was complete. I don't know if it was because I was in Israel, the homeland of the Jewish people or if it was because so many Jewish people surrounded me. I believe it was mainly because of the latter.

On our trip we went to the Wailing Wall, or The Kotel, for Shabbat (the Jewish Sabbath). There were so many different sects of Judaism praying at the Wall. We got there a few minutes before Shabbat started. When Shabbat began, a bunch of us were standing off to the side about to start our own service. All of a sudden, we heard the sound of male voices singing. We and everyone there stopped what we were doing and looked up. A bunch of young, religious males were arm in arm, with about five in a line and 15 lines. They were singing songs to welcome this weekly holiday. Although the women could not participate in this ritual due to rules in Orthodox Judaism, I was loving this. Only in Israel can people walk down a street while singing Jewish songs and no one thinks twice about it.

After these men were done and praying on their own, we continued to pray ourselves. We had a spontaneous service. It was very interesting in the sense that with our little group of approximately ten, we all had our own style of praying. Although this was true, we compromised to fit one another's situation. It turned out to be a beautiful expression of faith.

On Saturday afternoon we had a few hours free, so a large group of us decided to go back to the Old City, where the Wall is located. We knew most everything would be closed. Things were closed because on Shabbat Jews are not allowed to do any work. Traditionally, Jews should not handle money, write, use electricity and "basically do anything that can create or destroy."

When we got to the Old City, we had to go to the police station because one of my friends lost her plane ticket. While waiting for her, we started talking to one of the guys in the army truck nearby. No other place will you go and see the military everywhere. The men must carry their guns with them at all times if they are of certain ranks. There is another difference between Israel and the United States — it is really odd to walk down the street and see every other person with an M-16. I can't decide if that makes me feel safer or if it frightens me.

In the Old City we went shopping in the Arab Marketplace because we knew the Jewish Quarter was closed. After we did our shopping, we went to the Jewish section. There was only about a half hour left of Shabbat. Nowhere in the United States — other than maybe a section in New York City would a whole area — let alone a whole country, shut down for a little over a 24-hour period for religious reasons. I can, in a roundabout way, compare this to Sunday in Massachusetts. Many places are closed or at least close early. You can't buy alcohol in a liquor store. There are no banks open on Sunday. The stock market closes. No one in a business-type job works on Sunday. No classes are held on Sunday. In Israel you can't do anything on Saturday. The difference is that the United States is a secular country while Israel was founded on Jewish beliefs.

As we walked around the Jewish Quarter, a friend of mine realized that she needed money. She walked over to the ATM, which was temporarily out of service. It was turned off for Shabbat. So, she went without money for a while. After the ATM incident we kept walking and came back upon The Kotel. We went down flights of stairs to take pictures, and on the way back up, the doors to the synagogue opened and all of the men came pouring out. The Sabbath was over. The men had been praying all day and now it was time to go home to eat.

The whole experience of being in Israel on Shabbat is so amazing it is hard to describe in words. It is a whole other world. Let me try to explain. As a child you are brought up with certain beliefs, values and traditions and as you grow up you learn more about them. You may chose to follow them or alter them to modern day living. Regardless of how you feel or think about it, it is ingrained in you. You know it, you feel it and it is part of you. You have all of these traditions and a way of life you know while most people around you practice a whole separate life. Then you go to a place that was created for your whole belief system, changed or unchanged. To see all of these beliefs, traditions and ways of life play out in front of your eyes is the most beautiful sight.

Jaclyn Sobel is a UMass student.

The Shining Old City

The Dome of the Rock and the Western Wall stand out in the Old City of Jerusalem, Israel.

RENEE COHN / SPECIAL TO THE COLLEGIAN

Understanding Chanukah

Being Jewish is being misunderstood. It's living with a whole set of stereotypes always attached.

"You can't be Jewish. You have red hair."

"You're from Virginia and you're Jewish? No way."

"You're from Virginia, you have red hair, and you're Jewish. You have got to be kidding."

But December brings special stereotypes and the big one deals with Chanukah.

I make the assumption that just about everyone, Jewish or not, who is reading this column knows what Chanukah is. People know what Chanukah is mostly because it is blown out of proportion. The problem is that people don't know what it means.

Elana Premack

Chanukah isn't about presents. Christmas isn't even about presents. It's about miracles and freedom, and it's what I would call a "nice" holiday. Jewish families everywhere gather around a candelabra called a menorah each night for eight nights to light candles in commemoration of a miracle.

The Greek king of Syria, Antiochus, persecuted the Jews during his rule in Jerusalem around 200 B.C. He destroyed their temple, prohibited Jews from practicing their faith and forced them to practice Greek religious rituals.

In rebellion against Antiochus, militant Jews under the leadership of a soldier named Judah Maccabee engaged in guerilla warfare against the Syrian army, eventually pushing the Syrians out of Jerusalem in 164 B.C.

After their victory, Jews repaired their temple, and in dedication, lit the temple lamp with oil expected to last only one day.

The miracle celebrated on Chanukah is that the oil lasted eight days. The freedom the Jewish army gained for their people is remembered also.

But what gets lost in the translation, so to speak, is that, while Chanukah is important to the Jewish people, it is not nearly as important as people, both Jewish and not, make it out to be.

It would be better if Chanukah fell in February, rather than in the days surrounding Christmas. But Judaism doesn't work that way. The Jewish calendar is vastly different from the secular calendar, making holidays fall on different days each year. Chanukah is celebrated beginning the 25th day of the Hebrew month of Kislev. Jesus happened to be born around the same time. It just worked out that way.

That statement sounds blasphemous, but it isn't meant to be. What is more hurtful, at least to me, is that two extremely important Jewish holidays are forgotten with the expansion of the "importance" of Chanukah.

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish new year again falls on a different day every year and nowhere near Jan. 1, and Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, are much more important than Chanukah.

Those are the days Jewish people would like to get off from school. Those are the days Jewish people with were blown out of proportion by secular society, if only to receive due recognition.

I think it is funny that one of the oldest religions is the most misunderstood, both by its own practitioners and by outside observers.

But I can't laugh. I have been giggling away the questions that bother me ("Don't you celebrate Christmas, too?") for too long. The lack of understanding about the holidays I hold sacred makes me uncomfortable in my own religion.

But I also can't help but think that part of what defines me as Jewish is the misunderstanding inherent in the religion. It is manifest in the explanations, much like this column, that I make routinely.

The acceptance that Chanukah will have to be explained for sometime yet is the real "December Dilemma." Wish me luck.

Elana Premack is a Collegian staff member.

Hillel, JSU to host Chanukah bash full of fun, food and singing

By Michelle Veyvoda
Collegian Correspondent

Jack Frost may not be nipping at our noses yet this winter, but all of the other signs are here. Christmas is coming.

Santa Claus has set up post outside of Stop & Shop; colored lights shine from Orchard Hill balconies; vendors bearing potential Christmas gifts have turned the Campus Center concourse into a marketplace and UMass' 3000 Jewish students are trying to remind others, and possibly themselves, that Chanukah, as well as Christmas, is just around the corner.

The UMass Jewish Student Union (JSU) is holding a night of Chanukah festivities on December 13th, the first night of Chanukah, from 7-9 p.m. at the Hillel House.

Members of the Jewish community think it is important that Jewish students on campus come together at this time to celebrate the holiday.

"We all really need Chanukah," Saul Perlmutter, Rabbi and director at Hillel, said. "Faced with exams, darkness and feeling more invisible as Jews than at any other time of the year, along comes Chanukah with its message of hope, light and renewal of the spirit. It's great to come together as a community to celebrate and be strengthened."

Food will be available, including the traditional latkes and fried donuts. Since Chanukah is a time for celebrating what we have and remembering those less fortunate, a main theme of the Chanukah party will be tzedakah, or charity. There will be dreidel games with gambling for gelt where each person will have to buy their gelt and the money raised will be donated to the Amherst Survival Center.

Kolot, UMass's Jewish a cappella group, will be appearing as part of the celebration. Kolot consists of 14 men and women from the Five College area who have been working this semester to arrange, learn and perform traditional and current Jewish and Israeli music. This group will be performing at 8 p.m.

"This is a great chance for Jewish students to come together, light candles, eat some greasy Chanukah food and relax during this busy time of year," Shira Hutt, co-president of JSU and Kolot member said.

"I'm also really excited that Kolot is going to be performing for a larger campus audience. It's a good opportunity for the group, and for other students to hear us perform."

Chanukah Happenings

Sunday, Dec. 13 — Menorah lighting at Hillel House, 4:30 p.m. Chanukah party, 7–9 p.m. Central Area Chanukah Party, Chadbourne Basement, 7–8 p.m.

Monday, Dec. 14 — Menorah lighting at Hillel House, 4:30 p.m.
Northeast/Sylvan Area Chanukah Party, Mary Lyon Basement, 7 p.m.
Orchard Hill Area Chanukah Party, Field Classroom, 7:30 p.m.
Southwest North Chanukah Party, 12th Floor, Kennedy Tower, 6:30 p.m.
Southwest South Chanukah Party, location to be announced, 7–9 p.m.

Tuesday, Dec. 15 — Menorah lighting at Hillel House, 4:30 p.m.

Wednesday, Dec. 16 — Menorah lighting at Hillel House, 4:30 p.m.

Thursday, Dec. 17 — Menorah lighting at Hillel House, 4:30 p.m.

Friday, Dec. 18 — Menorah lighting at Hillel House, 3 p.m.

Saturday, Dec. 19 — Melave Malka (post-Shabbat) Chanukah Party at 7 p.m. at Chabad House. A $10 contribution per family is suggested.

C U next semester!

All Weekend.

AT&T Announces 5¢ Weekends.

Call anytime in the U.S. for only a nickel. Plus, get AT&T Call Organizer℠ Service free and 100 FREE minutes.*

Live off campus? Stay in touch for the lowest price around.
Just 5¢ a minute all weekend long on all your direct-dialed state-to-state long distance calls from home. Weekdays are only 10¢ a minute on all your direct-dialed state-to-state long distance calls from home, all for a low $4.95 monthly fee.

100 FREE minutes

AT&T Call Organizer Service. Forget doing the math on your phone bill. With our free AT&T Call Organizer Service, we divvy up and tally it for you by roommate. Which means no more splitting headaches. You and your roommates will love how AT&T makes your life easier.

Sign up by 12/31/98 and get 100 FREE minutes.*
Visit www.att.com/college
or call 1 800 654-0471 and mention offer code 66114.

It's all within your reach.® AT&T

Stuff our lawyers make us say: * Terms and conditions apply. Free minutes of domestic direct-dialed long distance calls will be credited against qualifying usage on your first 6 months' bill. Unused minutes cannot be carried over. Offer expires 12/31/98. Offer based on choice of AT&T One Rate® Plus or AT&T One Rate® Off Peak Plan. These plans are subject to billing availability in state rates vary. $3 monthly minimum usage applies to One Rate Off Peak Plan. Call for details.  This plan is subject to billing availability. You must be an AT&T residential long distance subscriber to have the AT&T One Rate® Plus 5¢ Weekends plan and AT&T Call Organizer Service. Six months after enrollment, your Saturday calls will be 10¢ a minute. Your bundle calls will remain at 5¢ a minute through November 14, 1999. After that date they will be 10¢ a minute. Enrollment for 5¢ Saturdays expires 12/31/98. In state, inter-LATA rate includes current surcharges and universal connectivity charge. AT&T One Rate Plus 5¢ Weekends plan cannot be combined with any other domestic savings plans or the AT&T True Rewards® program. You will have 60 days from enrollment in AT&T One Rate Plus 5¢ Weekends to redeem your remaining AT&T Rewards points. ©1998 AT&T

Psycho needs Thorazine

Van Sant murders Hitchcock thriller

COURTESY SUZANNE TENNER

Anne Heche in Gus Van Sant's re-make of Psycho.

By Kevin Monahan
Collegian Staff

PSYCHO
Directed by Gus Von Sant with Vince Vaughn, Anne Heche, Julianne Moore
Playing at Hampshire Six Theaters

I tried to go into this with an open mind. Despite my apprehensions, I thought Hitchcock's classic would be safe in the hands of Gus Van Sant, one of the most talented filmmakers working today. I was wrong. My first impression is the right one: this film should not have been made.

Using the same shooting schedule, the same script, and same photographs, this re-make seems unique because such an attempt has never been done before. But really, what is so unique about plagiarism? People get kicked out of college for that.

The story (as if we didn't already know) centers around Marion Crane (Anne Heche). Dissatisfied with her job and longing to be with her boyfriend, Sam (Viggo Mortensen), Marion steals $400,000 ($40,000 in the original, but you know inflation) and runs off to be with her secretive boyfriend. On her way, she stops at a seedy motel, with an ominous looking house behind it run by Norman Bates (Vince Vaughn). After having a quiet dinner with Norman, during which they discuss his overbearing mother, Marion spends time alone in her room, counting her money, etc. She takes a shower, gets killed in the shower by Norman's mother (which is one of the most famous scenes in film history) is wrapped up in the shower curtain, thrown into the trunk of her car, and dumped in a swamp.

Meanwhile, Marion's boss' business partner has hired a detective (William H. Macy) to track her down. He seeks out Sam and Marion's sister, Lila (Julianne Moore,) to find out where she is. He traces her steps up to cabin #1 and some more funny stuff goes on at the Bates Motel.

There are many things wrong with this film so let's point out a couple. For instance, Vince Vaughn. When Anthony Perkins played this role thirty-eight years ago, he had a cute, boyish charm. No one suspected him of being a psychotic killer with Dissociative Identity Disorder. Vaughn, on the other hand, might as well have "psychotic" tattooed across his forehead. His nervous giggles serve no purpose other than to be annoying, and he would be more subtle by winking and nodding at the audience.

Another problem with this movie is the screenplay. Minor changes aside, the dialogue is dated. Anachronisms litter the film, one of the standouts being the use of the operator to dial a phone number. Attempts to update Joseph Stephano's script are lame at best, such as Lila carrying a Walkman with her at all times.

Other changes are nothing more than gratuitous efforts to shock in the 1998s as the original did in 1960. More blood and gore are added (in color pow. to make it look that much more disgusting), there is Vaughn's masturbation scene (just in case we didn't get the double-pun of his character's name,) a few butt shots, and surreal images inserted into the murder scenes, such as wafting clouds, cattle on the highway and a woman in bondage; images that were inserted by our eccentric director in a desperate try to make the film look avant-garde.

The original Psycho is also one of Hitchcock's more homophobic films — a topic which the openly gay Van Sant

Turn to PSYCHO page 8

Sharpened thoughts for duck season

David Katzoff

My pen is bleeding. As we rapidly approach the 1-triple-8s, I have a few random thoughts to fire out.

For all those in attendance on Friday night at Club Metro, much love. We witnessed a modernized version of an old fashioned hip-hop evening. Despite some rocky moments and Metro's strictly enforced "no alcohol" policy, the showcase itself was outstanding. Big up to Sam and Amin for making it possible. Special recognition goes to Boston hip-hop, which continues to prove that it is a competitive force in a pulsating underground scene.

Extended props to the notable performers as well: Kool Herc, 7L, Esoteric, Virtuoso, Octagon Supreme, Akrobatik, Mr. Lif, 5th Platoon and DJ battle champ, Spectacular of the Turntable Crash Dummies. Although the club was not packed as it should have been, there were a select number of true heads that acknowledged the significance of this live, cultural display. My condolences for missing out.

The year's Most Valuable Producer award features a long list of worthy contenders:

• Both Trac Master and 4th Disciple, who have collaborated with Meth, Sunz of Man, Killarmy and L.A. the Darkman, have proven they can swim with the sharks.

• RZA, who has been jaws of the production world, was virtually absent on various Wu projects in '98. However, his own alter-ego album Bobby Digital was fairly unpolished and lackluster. He is still nasty with the beat, but this year he has relinquished the MVP title.

• Pete Rock, who took a three year sabbatical, has re-established himself as a vital element in rap music. Hopefully he won't disappear again.

• DJ Hi-Tek, of Black Star/Reflection Eternal, undoubtably can flex a slammin' array of beats.

• Nick Wiz, who produced Shaabam Sahdeeq's "Soundclash," is making waves and will continue to do so.

• Alanta's Organized Noise, of Goodie Mob and Outkast fame, cannot be overlooked.

• D.I.T.C. (Diggin' In The Crates) crew has been consistently dope, check Brand Nubian's Foundation for reference.

• Even DJ Honda released a stellar, self-produced mix tape/CD. Overall, there have been numerous shining moments in beat making these past twelve months (almost too many to recollect).

But one man emerges with his right arm metaphorically raised by me...drum roll please...DJ Premier takes the crown hands down. No other person in hip-hop has contributed such immeasurable quality in the 9-8. In addition to his brilliance on Gangstarr's Moment of Truth, he has "put in work" behind at least ten other artists this year alone. Each track he touches instantly becomes a gold mine for DJs and beat connoisseurs alike. Primo revolutionalizes every composition with a spicy musical distinction. His patented cuts and staccato rhythms create a uniqueness for each of the artists he collaborates with. Ultimately, Premier is on a level of his own, sitting high on the throne of true hip-hop dons.

In other happenings, One Love magazine is currently available at the Growroom in downtown Amherst. Please be sure to stop by and at least check it out. It features all the hip-hop that other major publications (which will remain nameless) fail to include. The only other areas One Love is currently sold are New York City and Washington D.C., so help prove that the Pioneer Valley is a legitimate market.

Lastly, enjoy the holidays and that lengthy, lavish UMass winter break. See ya next semester!! Until then...remember to keep the third eyes blinking and the sound cavities filled.

David Katzoff is a Collegian columnist.

Tuscan Groove at Iron Horse

COURTESY MATT WASLEY

Tuscan Groove from left: Doug Lubowitz, Matt Wasley and Mike Fitzpatrick.

UMass band Tuscan Groove will be jamming tonight with the Slip at Northampton's Iron Horse. For those of you who are not familiar with Tuscan Groove, they are a group of students fronted by vocalist/guitarist Matt Wasley, rounded out by Doug Lubowitz, Mike Fitzpatrick and Brian Factor. Having played around UMass, the Amherst/Northampton area, and a few gigs in Boston and New York, Tuscan Groove are establishing themselves as a funk/groove band in the Northeast. With influences ranging from The Grateful Dead and Jimi Hendrix, to the funk stylings of Curtis Mayfield and James Brown, and the jazz of Herbie Hancock and Miles Davis, their set tonight should be fun for everybody in attendance.

Tuscan Groove will be playing with The Slip at Iron Horse Music Hall in Northampton tonight at 8:30 p.m.

—Kevin Monahan

Price's latest intrigues

By Mike Messaros
Collegian Staff

FREEDOMLAND
Richard Price
Broadway Books

One of the most unfortunately underread contemporary authors, Richard Price writes novels like sad tapestries, full of characters whose oppressive destinies are obvious from the outset. We are usually left with them exactly where we started with them, although we are now all too aware of the ominous wave of fate waiting right there after the last page. But before that, we feel the pulse of his writing, beating below the novel like steam rising from asphalt, full of sticky heart and soul songs.

In Freedomland, we are presented with the familiar city—as-a-ticking-timebomb motif, wherein a white woman shows up in a hospital emergency room, hands scraped and bloodied, claiming that she had been carjacked and her four- year-old child was still in the backseat.

Following his last book, the excellent Clockers, Price once again delves into the crime story. Of course, by fitting it into the genre of "crime story," he only serves to understate the elegance of his prose and the pure inertia that it sets up. Crime is not an easy way to start a story, but a way to throw off the lives of everyone involved. Crime to him is a trap not easily romanticized, something that doesn't cause ripples in one's day-to-day life, but irrevocably changes it.

The problem with this novel, though, is that Price shows his hand way too early, and finally owns up to it much too late. While the crime is secondary, the timing of revelation is awkward. He wants what seems to be the focus of the story to be secondary, a dangerous catalyst for the later chapters in the book. The problem is, when it does finally become the focus, it is not palpable or as tragic as one would hope. After 400-odd pages, one would hope that the hot city Price describes would erupt, like a spark hitting gasoline. Unfortunately, it doesn't. It is described to us as such, but it never quite hits home.

The other problem is that this book, like Clockers, uses a literary device of alternating narrators. On the one hand, you have Lorenzo Council, a middle-aged, black police detective who is just trying to keep the peace, regardless of the race politics raging around him. He's a glad-hander who suddenly realizes that in this environment, a smile and a handshake will do no good. The other narrator is Jesse Haus, a female reporter for the local New Jersey paper. What kills this narrative is that Jesse is not as compelling as Lorenzo. In Clockers, one narrator was a suspect in a murder, while the other was a police detective trying to solve the murder. Price skillfully kept the truth hidden the whole time. The two characters were adversaries and the parallelism of their situations lent to the structure of the novel.

But in this book, both characters are working towards the same end, and the narrative comes off as a ploy rather than something vital to the dramatics. Price makes a statement about what needs to be done to achieve the truth, as each character wrestles with their identity while dealing with the victim. But this theme is never rings true and is unnecessary. Jesse takes a backseat as her character fails to catch fire.

But behind these two characters, Price weaves in various colorful supporting players. Disparate people litter the landscape, threatening to choke the narrative, but Price's skillful hand keeps them sorted, easily dropping them in and out of the long, winding storyline. He throws up road blocks and misdirections. His plots follow real life; there is rarely an easy twist or savior to move the story along. He plays your bluff — maybe what he is saying is exactly what he means, but sometime's he is just faking it. When I said that he plays his hand too early, I may have oversimplified the situation. Price has the incredible audacity in some of his work to put all of the facts in front of you from the beginning, just to see if you will bite. It is a great move, but one that unfortunately does not work as well as it could here. B

DO YOU LIKE JAZZ OR BLUES?

THE ARTS & LIVING DESK IS CURRENTLY LOOKING FOR A WRITER TO CONTINUE A JAZZ/BLUES WEEKLY COLUMN. NO WRITING EXPERIENCE IS NECESSARY, BUT IT IS PREFERRED. WE ARE ALSO LOOKING FOR ONE-TO-TWO MORE COLUMN IDEAS FOR NEXT SEMESTER, AS WELL AS NEW WRITERS TO COVER MUSIC, FILM, FINE ARTS, BOOKS AND MORE. FOR MORE INFORMATION, COME DOWN TO 113 CAMPUS CENTER, OR CALL 545-1361 AND ASK FOR BRYAN OR KEVIN.

amc — Hampshire 8 • 584-7550, Hampshire Mall
Mt. Forma 8 • 584-9153, Mt. Forma Mall
HOME FRIES (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:20 @ 52.50) 8:20
BABE: PIG IN THE CITY (G) Today at (5:30 @ 52.50) 8:30
MEET JOE BLACK (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (4:30 @ 52.50) 8:00
ENEMY OF THE STATE (R) Today-Thurs at (5:00 @ 52.50) 8:10
WATERBOY (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:50 @ 52.50) 8:30
BUGRATS (G) Today-Thurs at (4:00 @ 52.50) 8:40
BUG'S LIFE (G) Today-Thurs at (5:50 @ 52.50) 8:20
PLEASANTVILLE (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:20 @ 52.50)
I STILL KNOW WHAT YOU DID LAST SUMMER (R) Today-Thurs at (5:40 @ 52.50) 8:20
PSYCHO (R) *Today-Thurs at (5:30 @ 52.50) 8:10
THE SIEGE (R) Today-Thurs at 8:00
Special Engagement on Pictures on Computers
$2.50 (Twi Lite) Silver Bully

Buy your railpass before 99 and save!
Cheap tickets. Great advice. Nice people.
Think Spring Break! Book now and save!
70% OFF great gear!
Eurailpasses issued on the spot!
Council Travel
CIEE: Council on International Educational Exchange
44 Main Street, Amherst
[413]-256-1261

GRADUATE WOMAN'S NETWORK
Invites graduate students to an
Informal Gathering of Graduate Women
Buffet Dinner & Refreshments will be served other women
and speak on issues of
to be here in UMass.
THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10
International Human Rights Day
7 - 9 P.M., GRADUATE LOUNGE, CAMPUS CENTER
For more information call Yanti at 545-5316
GWN is a project of the Graduate Student Senate. # 919 Campus Center

Ancient folk for a new age

COURTESY EDWARD COHEN

Uzay Turner and Aarti Kapuria in Naga–Mandala: A Play With a Cobra, a UMass Theater and New WORLD Theater co–production at the Rand Theater through Saturday night.

By John Hughes
Collegian Correspondent

Naga–Mandala, the story of a woman imprisoned in her home, will run from Dec. 8 through Dec. 12 at the Rand Theater. This production, a collaboration of the New WORLD Theater and Theater UMass, immerses the audience into a pool of visual, audio, and emotional stimulation.

Naga–Mandala, a play by Girish Karnad, is comprised of a series of overlapping stories, interwoven by separate storytellers. One teller is a playwright who has vowed to no longer relay his perspectives, or entertain audiences with "his angle on life." Cursed by some unknown astral force he bargains: "If you let me live I will never tell another story." He stumbles upon a place where characters, the flames, retreat after their lamps have been blown out. It is a place that they go to to gossip about their hunters.

Through their gossip, he overhears one of the flames talk about a story that is unknown, who is personified as a woman (Gretchen Allidi). The story makes a deal with this man: he must listen to her story and tell it to others. This is the backdrop for the main story of a young woman Rani (Aarti Kapuria), who is mistreated by her husband and discovers solace with a snake under the guise of a man (both played by Uzay Turner).

The play is movement based and explodes with visual stimulation. The set is simple, some plaster–cast columns in ruin and a mandala painted on the center of the stage. However, the simplicity of the set is by no means a drawback. The combination of lighting, pantomime, props, music, and movement by the actors superbly unify this play as a work of art.

One love scene was presented through a bright pink sheer material being held by the flames at shoulder–height. Slowly, the flames circled around the lovers, as a projected image of a snowflake–like design circled in the opposite direction. The pink fabric was then released; it slowly descended onto the lovers below, shrouding their bodies in a sensual covering.

The music accompaniment was performed by David Nelson. He combined drums, symbols, and a synthesizer (as well as other unnameable instruments) to vehicle both action and emotion, as well as sounds of the unlocking of locks, the tempo for the dancers, and Rani mixing ingredients in a bowl.

The play is powerful, stimulating, and rich with symbolism. A strong cast under excellent direction, stimulating lighting, music, and artistic design make Naga– Mandala a must see.

Naga–Mandala will begin at 8 p.m. There will also be a 2 p.m. matinee on Dec. 12. For tickets and information call the Bowker Auditorium Box Office at 545–2511 or 1–800–999–UMAS.

■ psycho

continued from page 7

seems to shy away from. The locking of Norman's mother in the fruit cellar ("They think I'm fruits!") roused a laugh from audiences who bothered to read into it, but Van Sant seems to tone such lines down.

The next problem is what Van Sant did not change. Psycho is at its best when it is exactly replicating the original. It almost feels like you are seeing Hitchcock's film on the big screen, but we have constant reminders that it is not.

Secondly, if this film was meant to be profitable (can you think of any other reason this film was made?), a shot by shot remake was a bad idea. The plot of Psycho moves too slowly for the short attention span of today's audiences.

What is most distressing about the new Psycho is that Van Sant left his own creativity behind in order to pursue this crap. After writing and directing such art–house masterpieces as Drugstore Cowboy and My Own Private Idaho, and achieving commercial success with the not–great but entertaining Good Will Hunting, Van Sant seems to have run out of ideas. Hopefully, Psycho will drive him out of Hollywood and back into the world of independent film.

So, what did we learn from Psycho? That Anne Heche in a dreadful actress? No, we already knew that. What we did learn is that this film's budget would have been better spent on restoring and re–releasing the original. F

COURTESY SUZANNE TENNER

Norman Bates (Vince Vaughn) welcomes Marion Crane (Anne Heche) to the Bates' Motel in the re–make of Psycho.

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN

Fumble, fumble–ligh–a, fumble–rooskie...

Tez Kraft and Yolanda Rayside vie for a loose ball during the Minutewomen's win over Maine last week. The team will host Holy Cross tonight at the Mullins Center.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Get the puck outta here!

Defenseman and junior captain Dean Stork will have his teammates ready for their two–game tilt with the University of New Hampshire this weekend.

Collegian

Has your mind settled in for a long winter's nap?

Wake it up with Dean's 3–week Accelerated Intersession! December 28th–January 15th

Come back from the holidays intellectually exhilarated with Dean College's 3–week Accelerated Intersession! Dean College offers part–time evening, morning, and afternoon classes in Business, Liberal Studies, Computers, English, Economics, Math, and more during this 3–week session. Whether you need transferable credits, an improved grade, or a step closer to your degree, you can earn credits in no time. You can live on Dean's campus while classes run December 28th–January 15th. On–going registration by phone, mail, web–site, or walk–in. Awaken your senses and your mind this winter break with learning that won't put you to sleep!

REGISTER NOW! 1–877–TRY–DEAN

Registration Mon.–Thur 8:30AM–6:30PM, Fri 8:30AM–4:00PM

Visit our web–site at www.dean.edu

Dean College 99 Main Street, Franklin, MA

Located off Rte 495 · Free Parking and ♿ Accessible

Welcome back... NOW GO AWAY!

Travel accessories and backpacks sold here! European railpasses and international student ID cards issued on the spot!

Council Travel

CIEE: Council on International Educational Exchange

44 Main St., Amherst

(413) 256–1261

www.counciltravel.com

HAPPY HOLIDAYS & Good Luck on your exams in the coming week!

"Congratulations to the 1999 Graduates" who are finally finishing this semester!

BUCCI

HAIRCUTS always $10.

25 n. pleasant st. amherst 256.0733

145 main st. northampton 586.0158

UM women's indoor track shines

By Bryan Smith
Collegian Staff

This past Saturday the Massachusetts women's track and field team traveled to Brown University for the annual Brown Invitational meet. The women had a strong showing in the first meet of the season and will look to use it as a building block for the season.

Fresh off their Atlantic 10 Cross Country Championship, the Minutewomen performed extremely well in the distance events. Nicole Way finished second in the 1,000 meters with a time of 2:57.40, good enough to qualify her for the ECAC meet to be held in late February.

In the 3,000 meters Sally Hirsch placed first and Melissa Henderson finished a close second, giving them both berths in the New Englands. UMass stole the show in the one–mile with Kristin Ciswoski placing first, Katherine Blais taking second, and Monica Elmore rounding out the top three. In the 5,000 meter event, Tracy Meager placed first, and by doing so, qualified for the New Englands.

The short distance runners also fared well. Shelanda Irish was the brightest spot, placing third in both the 55 meters and the 200 meters. Her finishing time in the 200 meters of 26.21 earned her a spot in the New Englands.

Rosemarie Bryan finished third in the 300 meters and first in the 55 meter high hurdles with a time of 8.12, meeting qualifying standards for the ECAC and New England meets. Raquell Shelton also found herself a spot in the New Englands in the 55 meters. Melissa Ward and Andrea Corneau both will compete in the 55 meter high hurdles at the New Englands.

In the 4x800 meter relay the Minutewomen took first with the team consisting of Katherine Blais, Kristin Ciswoski, Monica Elmore, and Nicole Way.

The field squad also put on a show. In the high jump, Corneau finished first with a jump of 5'8". With this she qualified for the ECACs and the New Englands. The long jumpers had a good day with Irish coming in second with a jump of 17–feet 10–inches and Abby Rubino coming in fourth at 17–feet 7–inches (both qualified for the New Englands). Bryan won the triple jump at 38–feet 7–inches which allows her a chance to compete in the New Englands.

In the weight throw Giselle Nicholas and Shannon Hamilton came in fifth and sixth respectively, and gave themselves an opportunity to throw at the New Englands, while attaining personal records along the way. In the shot put Carole LaPlante (set a personal record) and Alison Tostevin qualified for the New Englands.

UMass put forth its first competitors ever in the pole vault, in only the second year of the event. Coach Julie LaFreniere sent out Heather Palmer (sixth place), Johanna Lelke (seventh place), Rhianna DaCruz, and Neille–Ann Giffune for the inaugural task. The women had a respectable showing in this event having never competed in it before.

Overall, the Minutewomen had a strong performance. This showing should set the tone for what seems to be a good year. LaFreniere was pleased with the effort put forth by the women.

Although the meet was not scored and there were no team results, UMass would have done well if records had been kept, placing in almost every event. If this meet is any indication of what the season holds, UMass should have a successful campaign.

■ men's basketball

continued from page 12

its tradition.

Although it may seem as though no one currently has a nice thing to say about this team, I couldn't help but admire the allegiance and loyalty of one of my former high–school teachers, whom I ran into in the stands during Saturday's football game. This 47 year–old UMass alumnus asked me if I knew any student who would trade his/her student–seating ticket for his assigned season–ticket...he wanted to paint his face and sit and re–live one of the most exciting times in his life.

And from this I leave only a simple message for the players before they enter battle against Goliath. I write this recalling my days as the fat little seventh–grader who said the whole rosary in hope that Jim McCoy would lead UMass to victory over Kentucky in the 1992 NCAA Tournament:

Please just appreciate where you are, what got you here, and the 24,000 students and countless alumni who would love nothing more than to see you win. Nothing.

Travieso did. Dingle did. And Lou Roe certainly did.

And you know what seems funny to me? I wasn't that sad when they eventually lost that game which I prayed so hard for them to win. I turned the television off knowing that McCoy, Roe, Harper Williams and Comany walked away from that season leaving their hearts on the floor — a quality which Lari and Charlton must teach to the younger players.

UM gymnastics shines

By Gary Mendese
Collegian Staff

"U...Mass, U...Mass!" This enthusiastic cry filled the Curry Hicks Cage this past Saturday, as the Massachusetts men's gymnastics team competed in the 8th Annual UMass Open. Represented by five different colleges and a number of Junior Olympic clubs, this competition marked the first win for the Minutemen, as they once again crushed their competition.

With a final score of 223.475, the squad quite easily dominated the entire meet, including their archrival, Temple. Tim Daggett's Gold Medal Gymnastics (Agawam) came in second, followed by Capital Gymnastics (Virginia) in third. Temple finished in a disappointing 6th place, thus losing to its junior competitors, an ego–deflater that will surely light a spark of revenge in later meets.

UMass junior Jeff LaValle took the spotlight last weekend, winning the all–around competition with an impressive score of 56.30. Graduate captain Stephen Pryor took the second AA spot with a 55.55. Also placing in the top AA scores was freshman Matt Plumser in 5th place with a 50.35. Seniors Dan Young and Phil Lieberman also made their contributions to the team. Young scored a 9.2 on vault and an 8.95 on floor exercise; and Lieberman took the second place spot for the minutemen on floor (9.25) and high bar (9.75).

LaVallee captured the top scores on the still rings (9.65), parallel bars (9.6), and horizontal bar (9.85). This near–perfect score on high bar is an all–time record for UMass, well deserved by this tough competitor.

"I competed in U.S. Nationals this summer, and that training helped me out a lot; it was kind of a pre–season for me," LaVallee said. "At Nationals, I had to do much more difficult routines than those here at college, so my high bar set was actually relatively basic. I just focused on perfecting the set, and I'm excited about how it turned out."

The gymnasts start at a base score and have to earn bonus points in order to acquire the high scores. In college, the base score is 9.3 and at U.S. Nationals, the base score is 8.6, the same as at the Olympics; so one can see how much more difficult the national meet can be.

Also a competitor at Nationals this summer, sophomore Andy Leis claimed the top score on pommel horse (9.675), third on high bar (9.5), and tied for third on parallel bars (9.05) on Saturday. Sophomore J.J. Hershey shared the third place spot on parallel–bars with Leis and also placed third on pommel horse.

"Pommel horse is my most stressful event," said Hershey. "Staying on the horse is the key, especially with these early meets, because it helps to build confidence. I was really happy with my performance on pommels, but I never thought I'd place on p–bars. I'm surprised and thrilled with the third place spot."

Coach Roy Johnson was quite content with the team's performance at the Open.

"I was happy with the meet as a whole. I was pretty surprised with the performances on pommel horse and p–bars," said Johnson. "P–bars used to be one of our worst events, but I think with the talent on this team, it could end up being one of our best. Matt Plunser was third in the nation last year, and got an 8.8 this weekend even with a fall. Both Plumser and [freshman] John Szymczyk can really contribute to our p–bar lineup."

This multi–team meet is the first of many for the Minutemen. The fact that they earned a 218.650 at the Open last year, showing an improvement of almost 5 points, suggests a promising future for this talented team in later meets to come. If their recent score this weekend is maintained throughout the season, there's no telling how far they can make it. The men have a month to prepare for their next meet on Jan. 8 and 9 when they will travel to New York for the West Point Open.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Sophomore Jeff LaValle has been a key figure for the UMass men's gymnastics team in 1998.

Men's track wins at BU

By Matthew Despres
Collegian Staff

When the University of Massachusetts men's indoor track team traveled to Boston this past weekend to participate in the Boston University Winter Carnival Invitational, they had only one goal in mind: to win.

UMass swept through the invite with 325.5 points, good enough for first place and nearly 50 points ahead of second place BU. Yale rounded out the top three with 72 points, and was followed by New Hampshire (65 pts), the University of Maine (55 pts), Bentley (19 pts) and Central Connecticut State (13.5 pts). It is still early, but for now it looks as if O'Brien has been dealt an impressive hand.

"I was pleased to see what they went out and did. I thought the results were great," said O'Brien. "I was happy with the way they competed. They seemed confident."

Confident may be an understatement. UMass dominated the field, posted some impressive individual efforts, and managed to score points in every event. Senior Andre Roach led the Minutemen in a sweep of the triple jump with a leap of 44–feet 10.75–inches. Eugene LaFlamme and Paul Berberian secured spots two and three with marks of 43–feet 3.00–inches and 42–feet 9.50–inches respectively.

The pole vault was also conquered by the Minutemen. Freshman Wesley Shaw placed first with a vault of 14–feet 2.75–inches, which qualified him for the New England Championships. Also qualifying for the New England's were sophomore Andrew Nowicki, who placed second in the 800 meters with a time of 1:56.54; junior Patrick Beith, who with a time of 22.83 placed sixth in the 200 meters, and Vic Moroney in the 35 lb. weight event with a mark of 54–feet 5.5–inches.

It is clear that UMass was able to walk away with such a large margin of victory because of the ability they have to perform well in a multitude of events.

"I thought our performance was really evenly spread," said O'Brien. "We are a team that can go into most of these events and have one or two people picking up points for us."

Although UMass has put themselves in a good situation by winning this weekend, they will not compete again until Jan. 16, when they head to Orono, Maine to take part in the New England Challenge Cup Trials. O'Brien says every necessary step will be taken to insure that his team will return next month with the intensity they demonstrated on Saturday.

"We'll send them home with workouts to follow, and hopefully they can find a high school or local college to prepare at. In one respect, it's like starting the season over, so hopefully this break will not have any negative effects."

Men's swim team topped by Crimson

By Jimmy Chen
Collegian Staff

Massachusetts men's swimming coach Russ Yarworth finally got what he was waiting for after the water polo team suffered two losses in the NCAA tournament. Now that his men's squad is completely in tact, it notched a second place finish in the Harvard Invitational last weekend.

But Harvard, whose team consisted of several national qualifiers, was too much for the Minutemen to handle. They finished first with an overwhelming score of 1,891 points, in comparison to UMass's 633 points, Central Connecticut's 528 points and New Hempshire's 352 points.

Although UMass lost to the Crimson by a large margin, the final team stats does not show the process of this UMass squad. UMass brought fourteen swimmers to Cambridge, all of which made at least one final individual race and topped their records for the season as they turned in 54 new season records.

Sophomore standout Billy Brown was the most spectacular swimmer for the Minutemen. He topped three of his individual season records and one team season record as he came in first in the 200 breast [2:05.62], the fourth best time ever in UMass history. Brown also won a second place finish in the 100 breast [58.67].

Senior Brian Wisniewski broke four of his individual season records and three team season records. He finished third in the 200 IM [1:56.80], and fifth in both the 100 back [52.36] and the 200 back [1:55.61]. Even though sophomore Mike Sahina only topped one individual season record, he finished fifth in the 100 breast [1:01.24].

Four freshmen that Yarworth had ordered to shave down in order to swim in peak form responded to their coach's wish. But none could answer the wish better than freshman Josh Kimball who topped four of his individual season events and three team season events. Kimball currently holds this year's season record in the 100 fly and is only 0.48 seconds behind sophomore Chris Arsenault in the 100 free.

Freshman Ryan Rose also satisfied Yarworth's wish by breaking four individual season records and one team season record. Rose is currently the leader in UMass swimming in the 50 free this season with a time of 21.66.

"They really have put it together," assistant coach Rich Hease said. "They swim very well [under] a very competitive atmosphere."

In diving, junior Ed Hefferon, a national qualifier, again had a solid performance, but this time he faced Harvard's own national qualifier, Greg Walker. Hefferon lost in both one meter diving and three meter diving to Walker, but he did come in second in both events.

"He has the hardest list of dives [out] of all the people he competes against," diving coach Guy Pollino said. "[Nonetheless] it was a big confidence boost for him."

Other divers, freshman Mike Borzillieri and freshman Chris Bishop, all turned in their best scores ever.

"As a unit the whole team did great," Pollino said. "For us to have that kind of competition with tryouts and finals at Harvard this early in the season, it's [just] a big plus for us."

UMass takes second at Harvard

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

Massachusetts women's swimming finished second out of six teams this weekend at the Harvard Invitational in their first non–dual meet action.

Host Harvard won the three day event with 1,419.5 points. UMass finished a distant second with 848 points. Third was New Hampshire (638), Northeastern (472.5), Central Connecticut (294) and Simmons (9).

"We cheer each other on. We've been successful and it's because of our spirit, and we have terrific team attitude. It's just great to have people cheering you on," Andrea Kazanjian said.

The Minutewomen (5–0) received solid efforts from their stars. Junior Elizabeth Risotto was a stand out this weekend at Harvard.

"I was able to do so well because I got great support from my teammates," Risotto said.

Risotto broke her own school record in the 100 back stroke, while she led off the 400 medley, when she swam it in a time of 58.43. She also broke the school record in the 200 back with a time of 2:04.87.

Risotto recorded first places in both the 100 and the 200 back. The Setauketi, N.Y. native also contributed to two second place finishes in the 200 and the 400 individual medley relays.

"Our team swims well together. We push each other in practice and it helps us out in meets. I think because we always swim together we were able to step it up," Risotto said.

In the 400 IM relay the Minutewomen set yet another school record in a time of 3:38.35. This team consisted of Risotto, Sarah Newell, Kazanjian and Anne Dettloff.

"We had no idea that we had broken the school record. We just missed beating Harvard in that race. It was so exciting; we dropped six seconds off the record," Kazanjian said.

UMass' depth has been a plus for this team all season long, and this invitational was no exception. Four different Minutewomen recorded two top five finishes. Dettloff finished second in the 500 free (5:03.30) and fourth in the 200 free (1:57.54). Becky Hunnewell came across fourth in the 200 back (2:10.22) and fifth in the 200 free (1:58.04).

Other than Kazanjian's great finishes in the relays, she also came through with a second in the 100 butterfly (58.15) and fifth in the 100 free (53.94). Julie Dragon also came up big for the Minutewomen with a fourth in the 50 free (24.87) and fifth and the 100 free (53.94).

■ women's hockey

continued from page 12

Johnston's effort in the A–10's was phenomenal and she easily could have had a few more tallies late in the URI game. Then, in what would be her last win as a Minutewoman, she scored a goal against Patriot League Champion Holy Cross, in a 2–0 win in an NCAA play–in game.

These honors were not the first for Johnston. As a junior she earned second team All–American honors, first team Northeast All–America pick, and A–10 All–Conference team pick as well as A–10 All Tournament team. That season she was also named A–10 Player of the Week four times.

In her sophomore season, she still made a mark scoring 13 goals and three assists and earning second team Northeast All–American honors as well as All–Atlantic 10 team.

She concludes her career with the Minutewomen having played on three NCAA Tournament squads and under three different head coaches, but thriving most under current coach Patty Shea where she had her best season with 24 goals and three assists, which totaled for 51 points.

Next year it will be difficult for the Minutewomen to replace Johnston and the other four seniors they will lose, not just scoring wise but leadership wise as well.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Apple Computer will be at the Campus Center on December 10th from 10–3 showing the iMac, Mac OS 8.5, Sherlock and lots of other cool stuff as well as answering your questions about Apple products. Make sure that you stop by!!!

NiGht Graphics

Collegian night graphics department is now accepting positions for spring '99.

Anyone with experience with QuarkXPress or Adobe Photoshop should come down to the Campus Center Basement (next to the Collegian) and fill out an application.

If you have any questions please call 545–1864 and ask for Dave.

Collegian Classifieds

113 Campus Center — University of Massachusetts • Phone: (413)545-3500 Fax: (413)545-1592

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Take Over My Lease 1 bedroom, Puffton Village. Nicely furnished. Available Feb 1. $570. Call 549-0316.

Take Over Our Lease One bedroom apartment on bus line. Rent is $450+. Starting Jan 1. Call Tim 256-8852.

2 Bedroom Puffton Village. Renovated. Starting Jan 1. 549-7105.

WinterSession: Huge 2 bedroom, 5 miles away, Sunderland. $550. 546-5072 or 546-2793.

Take Over My Lease Amherst Town Studio. Hot water. $440. 253-1708.

1 bedroom apt on Main St. $475. Utilities included. Call 253-7328.

Great 2 bedroom apt on bus route. Be warm for the winter. Utilities are included. Available 1/23/99. 549-1943.

Take Over My Lease Dec 25. 2 bedroom in Puffton. Call 549-2873.

Take Over Our Lease 1 months rent free! 2 bedrooms, 2 baths. Excellent condition. Mill Valley Estates. Available Jan 1st. 253-1656.

1 bedroom with study in Puffton Village. Renovated. Starting Jan 1st. 549-1174.

New Puffton Village- Rent starting at $570. Includes heat, hot water, and cooking gas. DSS satellite and cable ready. On-site parking and laundry. Near UMass. On bus line. One, two, and three bedrooms. Call 549-0145 now.

Brandywine Apartments 1 and 2 bedroom apartments available. 1/4 mile from campus. Dec or Jan 1. Call 549-0600.

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Lantern Court (Sunderland)- 2 bedroom. Close to bus stop. $550. Call 665-6705.

AUTO FOR SALE

Purchasing a used car? Having your car repaired? Do you know your legal rights? Contact The Student Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

VW Jetta 88 Blue, 5 speed, tinted glass, runs and looks good. $1800 or B/O. Must sell! Call Will 549-6659.

84 Dodge Caravan Reject sticker. $300. 549-2987.

92 Subaru Loyale Wagon 103K, 4WD, air, tape deck, many new parts. $4495/BO. Must sell. 259-1750.

Honda Accord 83 Good condition. 177K miles. Needs rear brake work. Asking $1000. Call 549-3878.

90 Nissan Sentra Great condition. 100K. $2500 or B/O. 253-5990.

Toyota Camry 88 Standard. $1700 or B/O. 549-8773.

84 Volvo DL Runs perfectly. $2100. 367-0169.

1992 Jeep Wrangler Mint condition. $5600 or B/O. Call Katie 527-8284. Must sell before 12/14/98.

WANTED: Toyotas, Novas, Prizms, Sentras. Any condition. Cash paid everyday. 1-800-649-4795.

EMPLOYMENT

Cashiers PT/FT, All Shifts. Full-Time Benefits include 401K, Health, Dental, and Vacation. Please apply in person. Dairy Mart, 259 Triangle St., Amherst, MA.

EMPLOYMENT

WINTER BREAK JOBS Abt Associates can offer you a position as a RESEARCH INTERVIEWER. We require a minimum of 20 hours per week, including 1 weekend shift and offer flexible scheduling options. We start our interviewers at $6.25/hr and pay an additional 10% for weekend work. If you can meet our requirements and want to know more, call Paul Bebo (413)587-1605 or, see our Recruiting Coordinator at our table in the Campus Center Concourse on Dec. 10, 1998 from 9am.-1pm.

Best Winter Break Job In The Valley! Get paid to make a difference! Earn $300+ a week fighting air and water pollution. Leadership development seminars offered free to staff. CLEAN WATER ACTION 584-9830.

Relief Staff wanted for apartment program serving adults with mental illness. Need to be available during Winter Session. Great experience, flexible hours, training provided. Work with creative, diverse individuals in a supportive, caring environment. $7.50/hr. Call Dave or Shari @ 256-0826.

Summer Job/Internship- Mass. Firm seeking FRESH, SOPH, or JR. Earn $8,500 for the summer. Seeking aggressive go-getter with strong history of past work experience. For information & prelim. interview on campus with student who worked in the position last summer, call 1-800-658-3841 ext 100.

CIS is looking for motivated off-campus students. Earn $10-15 per hour. Set your own schedule. For information, call 1-800-567-6247.

EMPLOYMENT

SUMMER MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITY Where are you working during the SUMMER OF '99? College Pro, a $25 million company, seeks highly motivated college students from New England to manage a service business. Summer earnings average $8-10K+ per manager. Internship credit possible. If you are a goal-oriented leader searching for the right opportunity, call for an application and information to be sent by mail. Leave your name, school address, and phone # on the automated voicemail system at: (617)576-6833 ext 124.

FOR SALE

Full-Size Bed $150, Bureau $20, Desk $10. Call Steve 585-8259.

Nintendo 64 3 controllers, 7 games + memory pack. $200. Call Brian 253-6627.

27" Samsung Stereo TV with universal remote. 2 years old, perfect condition, hardly used. Cost $375 new, $200. 549-5979.

Silence Snowboard- 152cm., never used. $150/BO. Call Adam 253-9776.

GREEK AFFAIRS

Kappa Kappa Gamma Holiday Party When: 12/10 from 6-7:30 p.m. Where: 32 Nutting Ave. Any questions? Call Julie at 549-2646. All Freshmen and Sophomore Women are Welcome!

HEALTH & BEAUTY

We're here to pump... YOU UP! Creatine Monohydrate, Creatine Surge, DHEA, Whey Protein and more from Fitness Workshop delivered right to your door. 1-877-FIT-WORK. www.fitnessworkshop.com

HOUSE FOR RENT

Summer Rentals Cape Cod Group Summer Rentals. Some waterfront houses, some with swimming pools. Falmouth area. Call Diamond Real Estate 1-508-477-1900.

INSTRUCTION

Keep Busy During Break Work off holiday pounds and have fun taking KICKBOXING LESSONS. One-on-One training with a U.S.K.B.A. licensed kickboxer. Call Joe @ 548-8979.

CARDIO KICKBOXING Amherst Athletic Club. Train with the pros! 256-0080.

MISCELLANEOUS

Need a unique holiday gift? Try a handmade teddy bear! Call Kelly 253-2654.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT

Marshall Valvestate 80 Watts Amp. Wants $350 or B/O. Serious inquiries only. Call 549-3962.

PETS FOR SALE

Rabbit Rescue has a lovely selection of bunnies. Many colors and types as well as a selection of cages and hutches. We can also help with any bunnies you can no longer care for. Call Ellen at 367-0105.

ROOM FOR RENT

Near Campus on Nutting Ave. Available Jan 1st. Call 549-9135.

Take Over My Lease! Jan-July '98. Moving to California in two weeks & need to find someone. 1 bedroom in 2 bedroom apt. Furnished, spacious, & clean. $345, all inclusive + electric= @$15 per month. Awesome place, awesome roommate staying. Bus drops you off four doors from your own. Call Lori or Daniel @ 665-4149 till 11:30 at night.

ROOM FOR RENT

One large bedroom in two bedroom apartment. Available Spring Semester. Located in Brandywine. Call Stuart 548-6819.

North Amherst 3 bedroom apt. On bus route across from Town Houses. Space can be shared. Two cool roommates are easy-going. Starting Jan 1st. Call Joe at 549-5596.

One nice room available in a four bedroom Alpine Commons apartment. Move in Jan 1 or possibly earlier. Two full bathrooms. On bus line. Great roommates! Apartment is fully furnished with the exception of the bedroom. $314.50/month. ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED! Please call Jenny at 253-2050 ASAP.

LIVE IN PUFFTON- Looking for female to rent room in easy-going 3 bedroom apt. $265/month for Spring Semester. On bus route. Call Erin 549-1359.

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom. Brandywine. For Spring/late December. Call Jeremy 549-6955.

Quiet Setting Kitchen privileges, laundry, parking, non-smoking. $335. 549-4853.

ROOMMATE WANTED

$180 a month for room in a cozy 4 bedroom house. 2nd bedroom available for $250. Seeking friendly mature roommates. Woodsy location. Deck overlooking large back yard. 2 dogs. Close to bike trail and bus route. 5 miles from Amherst. Call Amy or Sheldon 253-4826.

Female to share 2 bedroom apt in NoHo. Available 1/1. $275/month. 1st/last/security. Call Rachel 586-4426. No pets.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Grad woman needs roommate (Grad woman or mature Undergrad) for Spring Semester to share modern/luxury 3 level townhouse condo on bus line less than one mile from campus. Totally furnished; two large bedrooms; deck; laundry in unit; basement storage! Much more! Only $300/month + utilities. Call Monica (413)549-4808.

Three rooms opening ASAP in large 5 bedroom house in Hadley. On bus line. Spacious, close to NoHo and Amherst. Pre-paid heat. $270/month. Craig or Jon 587-9319.

SERVICES

Pregnant? Need help? Call Birthright of Amherst Area for free testing and assistance. 549-1906.

TICKETS

Rolling Stones Fleet Center, Boston, Mar 22. Extra tickets, Must sell! 665-0241.

TO SUBLET

On Bus Route Really spacious. Accomodates 2 to 4 people. Can start either 1/1 or 2/1. One mile from campus. Call 253-1892.

Feb 1st 2 bedroom apt. On bus line to campus. $700 a month. Call 253-4621.

Nice furnished room available for Winter Session. $215/month + 1/5 utilities. One mile from campus. 549-5863 Jordan.

At Puffton One room in a three bedroom apt. Starting 12/23. Stay all Spring Semester. $216, heat included. Call 549-5842.

TRAVEL

SPRING BREAK '99 Student Travel Services is America's #1 Student Tour Operator. Don't book with anyone else until you talk to us!!! Cancun from $399. Jamaica from $399. Panama City from $119. Daytona Beach from $139. Student Travel Services 1-800-648-4849 www.ststravel.com On Campus Contact: Erich @ 413-549-5287 Jonah @ 413-549-8867 Dan @ 413-253-1341 George @ 413-546-4223

A #1 SPRING BREAK... HOURS & HOURS OF FREE DRINKS! Earn 2 FREE Trips & $$$$$! Cancun, Jamaica, Florida, Barbados, Bahamas. Lowest Prices/Best Meal Plan 1-800-426-7710 www.sunsplashtours.com

TYPING

Have your paper typed by an English Major! $1.50 1st 2 pages, $1 each additional. Proofreading & Typing, $2 a page. Call Jen at 256-6351.

WANTED

Earn $30 in 90 minutes by being in a GRE study. Purpose is to try out a new math item type. You must be a senior or first year grad who has taken the GRE since 9/1/96. For info or to sign up send e-mail to kmeara@educ.umass.edu

There are over 1000 students at the University of Massachusetts. That means there are thousands of people looking for The Classifieds. Place an Ad Today!

Five College Community Calendar

TUESDAY, DEC. 8

Community— The last blood drive of the semester will be held from 10:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium. Sponsored by Delta Upsilon.

Concert— There will be a Faculty Concert with guest performances and alumni choreographers at 8 p.m. in the Studio Theatre at Mount Holyoke College.

Meeting— There will be a Jewish Student Union general meeting at 6 p.m. in the Hillel House. Help plan for next semester.

Meeting— The INDIA yearbook will hold a meeting in room 304 of the Student Union at 6:30 p.m. Food and drinks will be served.

Party— Pride Alliance, the GLBT undergraduate organization, will host a QPL Sex Aware Party at 7 p.m. in Campus Center room 811-15.

Performance— Conn Redgrave will give a one-man performance of Oscar Wilde's De Profundis at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

Poetry— There will be a poetry reading with "Three Women Poets" in the Helen Hills Chapel at Smith College at 7:30 p.m.

Workshop— There will be a workshop on contraception and safer sex in room 302 of Umass's Health Services.

Workshop— There will be a workshop entitled "Early American Shape-Note Sing" from 7-9 p.m. in the Helen Hills Chapel at Smith College.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 9

Concert— There will be a Faculty Concert with guest performances and alumni choreographers at 8 p.m. in the Studio Theatre at Mount Holyoke College.

Lecture— A lecture entitled "Growing the Java Programming Language" will be given at 4 p.m. in Morrill I North, room 329. The lecture is part of the Distinguished Lecturer Series and will be given by the Computer Science Department.

Recital— Smith College Gamelan Ensemble will give a recital from 8:30-10 p.m. in Earle Recital Hall, Sage Hall at Smith College.

Theater— Not Ready for Bedtime Players, the sex education improv group, will perform in the lainer/Hemenway classroom, room 112, at 8 p.m.

Workshop— There will be a workshop on contraception and safer sex at 7 p.m. in room 302 of University Health Services.

NOTICES

Community— The Spring portion of federal work-study will be available for students to begin using after January 3.

Community— The 1999 Yearbooks are now on sale in room 304 of the Student Union. Call 545-0048 to order one.

Community— The Teacher Education Coordinating Council and the School of Education's Office of Teacher Education have information on the Mass. Educator Certification Tests in room 125 of Furcolo Hall. For more information, contact Michael Schwartz at 545-2701.

Scholarships— Juniors and seniors interested in the Elie Wiesel Prize, based upon an ethics essay, should contact Professor James Young at 545-5872. The deadline is December 10.

Submissions— Submissions are being accepted for the Spectrum Literary Magazine. The deadline is February 12. Also searching for the 1998-99 cover contest winner. Deadline is the end of December. Call 545-4220 for more information.

Volunteers— Volunteers are needed to train and facilitate workshops on contraception and sexually transmitted disease prevention during Spring semester 1999. Men and women needed. For more information, contact Karen or Day at 577-5188.

Volunteers— Volunteers are needed for the Massachusetts Substance Abuse Information and Education HELPLINE. For more information call (617) 536-0505 ext 201.

FYIs are public service announcements printed daily. To submit an FYI, please send a press release containing all pertinent information, including the name and phone number of the contact person to the Collegian, c/o the Managing Editor by noon the previous day.

WE GIVE 100%™ Bookworks ·Everyday Discounts of 10% OFF! or More! On nearly every book in stock! *See store for details. We give all of our profits to support University programs. Bookworks is a division of the Store

Remember when reading was affordable? It still is!

HSCN 4 Hosting Services Cable Network

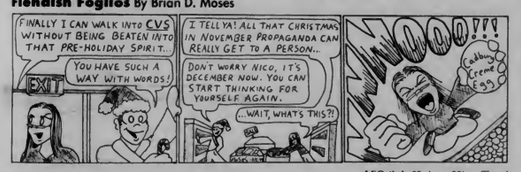
2 HSCN Bulletin Board	18 The Learning Channel
3 CBS/3 Hartford	19 UVC-TV19
4 CBS/4 Boston	20 ABC/40 Springfield
5 CBS/5 Boston	21 Govel to Govel
6 PBS/57 Springfield	22 NBC/22 Springfield
7 HSCN Movie Ch.	23 Sundance
8 UPN/20 Hartford	24 Bloomberg Financial
9 Weather Channel	25 CTN
10 NBC/30 New Britain	26 TBS
11 Fox/61 Hartford	27 BET
12 PBS/24 Hartford	28 TV Land
13 WGCH & HSCN	29 Univision
14 International	30 Comedy Central
15 UMass Academic TV	31 Cartoon
16 WB/New Haven	32 Much Music
17 HSCN Programming

TUESDAY EVENING — C - Campus — DECEMBER 8, 1998

	C	6:00	6:30	7:00	7:30	8:00	8:30	9:00	9:30	10:00	10:30	11:00	11:30
WEQH	12	Newshour With Jim Lehrer (R)		Women's College Basketball: Connecticut at Notre Dame. (Live)				James Taylor Live (In Stereo)		Legendary Lighthouses (R)
WFSB	3	News (R)	CBS News	Inside Edition	Hollywood Sq.	JAG "Embassy" (In Stereo) (R)		"Christmas in My Hometown" (1996, Drama) Melissa Gilbert. (R)		News (R)		Late Show (R)
WBZ	4	News	CBS News	Hollywood Sq.	Ent. Tonight	JAG "Embassy" (In Stereo) (R)		"Christmas in My Hometown" (1996, Drama) Melissa Gilbert. (R)		News		Late Show (R)
WCVB	5	News (R)	ABC News	Inside Edition	Chronicle (R)	Home Imp.	Hughleys (R)	Spin City (R)	Sports Night	NYPD Blue "Czech Bouncer" (R)		News	Late Show (R)
WLVI		Sister, Sister	Fresh Prince	Nanny (R)	Friends (R)	Buffy the Vampire Slayer (R)		Felicity "Bogged" (In Stereo) (R)	News			Nanny (R)
WHDH	6	News	NBC News	Wheel of Fortune	Jeopardy! (R)	3rd Rock-Sun	Just Shoot Me	Just Shoot Me	Working (R)	Dateline (In Stereo) (R)		News	Tonight Show
WTXX	8	Home Imp.	Judge Brown	Judge Judy (R)	Judge Judy (R)	Moesha (R) (R)	Clueless (R) (R)	Legacy "The Big Fix" (In Stereo)		News	Newsradio (R)	Newsradio (R)	Married...With
WVIT	10	News	NBC News	Ent. Tonight	Hard Copy (R)	3rd Rock-Sun	Just Shoot Me	Just Shoot Me	Working (R)	Dateline (In Stereo) (R)		News	Tonight Show
WTNC	11	Simpsons (R)	Friends (R)	Seinfeld (R)	Frasier (R)	King of the Hill	Holding Baby	Guinness World Records		News		Friends (R)	Mad Abt. You
WWLP	22	News (R)	NBC News	Wheel of Fortune	Jeopardy! (R)	3rd Rock-Sun	Just Shoot Me	Just Shoot Me	Working (R)	Dateline (In Stereo) (R)		News	Tonight Show
WGBY	57	Creatures	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer (R)		Italian Americans (In Stereo) (R)		Italian Americans (In Stereo) (R)		A Beautiful Song (R)		Charlie Rose (In Stereo) (R)
WGGB	40	News (R)	ABC News	Seinfeld (R)	Frasier (R)	Home Imp.	Hughleys (R)	Spin City (R)	Sports Night	NYPD Blue "Czech Bouncer" (R)		News (R)	Nightline (R)
WSBK	38	Judge Judy (R)	Judge Judy (R)	Seinfeld (R)	Frasier (R)	Moesha (R) (R)	Clueless (R) (R)	Legacy "The Big Fix" (In Stereo)		Mad Abt. You	Mad Abt. You	Frasier (R)	Cheers (R)
WTBS	42	Family Matters	Family Matters	Roseanne (R)	Roseanne (R)	★★★ "For Your Eyes Only" (1981, Adventure) Roger Moore, Carole Bouquet						"You Only Live Twice" (1967)
A&E	45	Northern Exposure "Zorya" (R)		Law & Order "I.D." (R)		Biography: Dave Thomas		Investigative Reports (R) (R)		Touch of Frost "Deep Waters"		Law & Order "Burned" (R)
CNN	22	Worldview (R)	Moneyline Newshour (R)		Crossfire (R)	World Today (R)		Larry King Live (R)		Late Edition Primetime (R)		Sports	Moneyline (R)
COM	32	Saturday Night Live (R)		Daily Show (R)	Stein's Money	"Clifford" (1991, Comedy) Martin Short, Charles Grodin.				BA	Pulp-Fi	Daily Show	Stein's Money
DISC	49	New House	Fix-It-Line (R)	Gimme Shelter (R)		Wild Discovery "Kalahari" (R)		New Detectives Forensic		FBI Files "Human Prey" (R)		Justice Files (R)
ESPN	43	Up Close	Sportscenter		College Basketball: Indiana at Kentucky. (Live)					College Basketball: Iowa at Kansas. (Live)			Sportscenter
LIFE	44	Ellen (R)	Ellen (R)	Party of Five (R)	Adjustments (R)	Chicago Hope "Wild Cards" (R)		Any Day Now "Fear Awful" (R)		On Body (R)	Maggie (R)	New Attitudes	Golden Girls
MTV	39	Countdown	Cut (In Stereo)	Celebrity	Twisted Toons	Eye Spy Video	Say What?	Total Request Live (In Stereo)		Real World (R)	Bloorhythm (R)	Cut (In Stereo)	Lovelina
NICK	46	Figure It Out	Secret-of Alex	Doug (R)	Rugrats (R)	Thornberrys	Sweater	Brady Bunch	Wonder Years	I Love Lucy (R)	I Love Lucy (R)	I Love Lucy (R)	I Love Lucy (R)
SCIFI	47	Quantum Leap (In Stereo) (R)		Sightings (R)	Star Trek: Espn of Tomorrow (R)			Invasion Earth "Part 1 of 3" (R)		Sightings (R)		Star Trek (R)
TLC	26	Home Again	Home Again	Trauma Center		Trauma: Life in the ER (R)		War Against the Mafia (R)		TWA 800 – The Investigation		Trauma: Life in the ER (R)
TNT	48	Babylon 5 (In Stereo) (R)		ER "Make a Wish" (In Stereo) (R)		★★ "Dumb & Dumber" (1994, Comedy) Jim Carrey, Jeff Daniels.				★★ "Dumb & Dumber" (1994) Jim Carrey.
USA	41	Hercules: Legendary Jrnys		Xena: Warrior Princess (R)		Walker, Texas Ranger (R)		★★ "Bleacher" (1996, Drama) Belle Mickr, Barbara Hershey. (In Stereo) (R)
HBO		Making		★★ "Troian War" (1997) Wil Friedle. "PG-13" (R)		★★½ "Alien Resurrection" (1997) Sigourney Weaver. (R) (R)				Sugar Ray Robinson		★★★ "Wrinchell" (1999) (R)
MAX	28	★★ "Slaying Alva" (1993, Drama) John Travolta. "PG" (R)				★★ "Bachelor Party" (1984) Tom Hanks. (R) (R)		Making-Ana		Sensation Universal" (1997) Corey Haim. "NR"		Emmanuelle
SHOW	29	(5:15) ★★★ "Table for Five" (1983) Jon Voight				★★ "High School High" (1996) Jon Lovitz. "PG-13" (R)		★★½ "Renaissance Man" (1994, Comedy) Danny DeVito. "PG-13"				★★★ "Beautiful Thing" (1996) (R)

Cathy By Cathy Guisewite

Drabble By Kevin Fagan



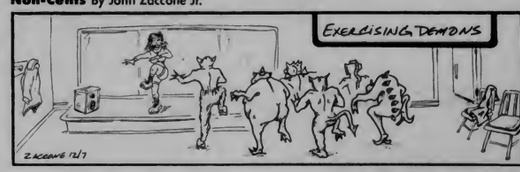
Rose is Rose By Pat Brady

Non Sequitur By Wiley

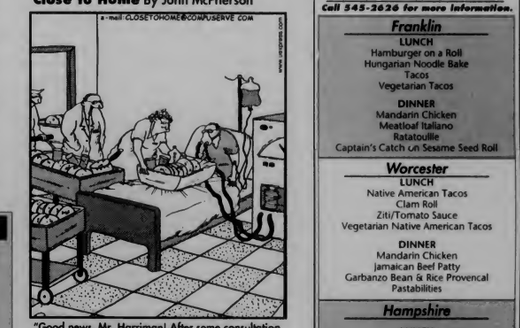
Fiendish Foglios By Brian D. Moses

Robotman By Jim Meddick

Dilbert By Scott Adams



Foxtrot By Bill Amend



Liberty Meadows By Frank Cho

Non-Cents By John Zaccone Jr.

Close to Home By John McPherson

Horoscopes

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) — You're feeling confident and energetic at this time, but you'll have at least one formidable obstacle to overcome today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) — There's no reason to settle for anything less than what your heart desires. Put your skills and determination to the test today, and be satisfied.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) — A moral dilemma is likely to arise before the day is out. In some respects, there is no reason to think that anything you do is less than proper.

PISCES (Feb. 19–March 20) — Someone you know may beguile you from your intended purpose today — at least for awhile. The results? A much needed interlude, the one!

ARIES (March 21–April 19) — You may be trying to tell secrets today, when c'ly open and honest communication can really get you anywhere. Try to be more direct.

TAURUS (April 20–May 20) — Your ability to organize yourself and others will serve you and those around you quite well today. See to issues that have been overlooked at home.

GEMINI (May 21–June 20) — You can lead the way for others today, or you can go at it alone. Each approach brings its own rewards, much like the fulfilling reward you received this weekend.

CANCER (June 21–July 22) — You may be visited by a premonition of sorts which gives you pause, but it'll also afford you a greater understanding of a personal issue.

LEO (July 23–Aug. 22) — There's no need for you to be the center of attention today. In fact, there may be some who will try to keep you from the spotlight at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) — Your reasons for doing one thing over another are very much your own today, but you'll have reason to share them with someone before the day is out.

LIBRA (Sept. 23–Oct. 22) — Soon it'll be your turn, and you won't have to watch others having all the fun. But take care that you're not swept away by your eagerness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23–Nov. 21) — You'll have a chance to demonstrate your willingness to do what is necessary today, but you'll want to temper that with wisdom.

Quote of the Day

"I'm just a love machine, and I don't work for nobody but you."

—The Miracles

"Good news, Mr. Harriman! After some consultation with the hospital's administration and some creative input from our kitchen staff, we've come up with a way for you to work off your medical expenses."

Today's D.C. Menu

Call 545-2626 for more information.

Franklin

LUNCH
Hamburger on a Roll
Hungarian Noodle Bake
Tacos
Vegetarian Tacos

DINNER
Mandarin Chicken
Meatloaf Italiano
Ratatouille
Captain's Catch on Sesame Seed Roll

Worcester

LUNCH
Native American Tacos
Clam Roll
Ziti/Tomato Sauce
Vegetarian Native American Tacos

DINNER
Mandarin Chicken
Jamaican Beef Patty
Garbanzo Bean & Rice Provencal
Pastabilities

Hampshire

LUNCH
Hamburger on a Roll
Charbroiled Chicken Sandwich
Tacos

DINNER
Mandarin Chicken
Meatloaf with Gravy
Garbanzo Beans & Rice Provencal
Pastabilities

Berkshire

LUNCH
Tacos
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Chef's Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Vegetable Taco

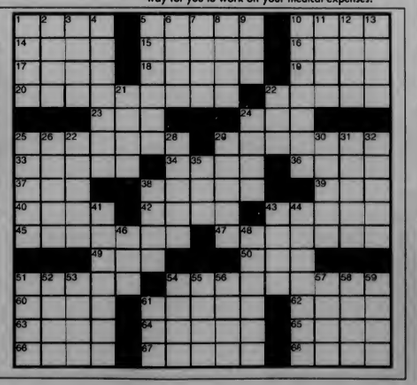
DINNER
Mandarin Chicken
Meatloaf with Gravy
Garbanzo Beans & Rice Provencal
Pastabilities

Night Editor: Erin Murphy
Photo Technician: Danielle Gilardi
Copy Editor: Laura Forster
Production Supervisor: Angie Annese
Production Staff: Caren Figlarski, Karen Charles

ACROSS

1 From a distance
5 Ballroom dance
10 — and kin
14 Fury
15 Unadorned
16 1975 Wimbledon champ
17 Well-ventilated
18 Venice's place
19 Manner
20 Product identifier
22 Church parts
23 "Yes," to a sailor
24 Neighbor of Can.
25 Hide
29 Comparison
33 Chiefs
34 Loose threads
36 Chills and fever
37 Tycoon Onassis
38 Exotic fruit
39 "— Abner"
40 Money used in 18-Across
42 English princess
43 Sleeveless blouse
45 Panther
47 Feasts
49 "School" beginning
50 Explorer's need
51 Safety devices
54 Colorado mountain
60 Region
61 "Separate Tables" actor
62 Capri, for one
63 St. Louis eleven
64 Upright
65 Flimsy, as an excuse

66 Writer Wiesel
67 Takes five
68 Chinese money unit



DOWN

1 Sheik, e.g.
2 Just
3 Taj Mahal site
4 Medieval fox
5 Upright piano
6 Can. province
7 "Just the facts, —"
8 Liver's output
9 Some
10 Uganda's capital
11 Egyptian goddess
12 Quaker pronoun
13 Biddies
21 Pigments
28 Sharp — tack
24 "Do — others"
25 "— We Dance?"
26 Creepy
27 City on the Nile
28 Large antelope
29 Fury
30 Amorous stares
31 Remorse
32 Shouts
35 Lodging place
38 Stallion's mate
41 Soothe
43 Health resorts
44 Joyously
46 18th letters
48 Corrects (text)
51 Toll
52 Russian river
53 Trucker's rig
54 Evergreen tree
55 Curner and — Clark
56 Superman
57 Jacob's brother
58 — master
59 Eager
61 Neither's follower

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

W	I	P	E		J	A	M		L	I	S	B	O	N
A	D	E	N		E	V	A		I	G	N	O	R	E
T	A	R	T		B	E	E	R		F	L	A	W	E	D
C	H	I	R	O	P	R	A	C	T	O	R
H	O	L	E	S		Y	U	L	E		L	O	G	S
			B	A	R		D	I	Z		E	M	M	A
E	L	M		M	A	G		C	O	R	T	I	S	L
S	E	A		E	T	A		H	U	E		R	H	O
T	A	K	E	S	I	N		E	R	G		S	A	N
E	K	E	D		O	D	D		S	T	O
S	Y	D	N	E	Y		H	I	E		N	O	O	S	E
			F	L	Y	I	N	G	S	A	U	C	E	R
I	N	C	I	T	E		E	R	A		G	A	V	E
T	O	U	C	A	N		R	E	V		A	L	E	C
S	N	E	E	R		S	I	T	E		H	A	N	T

12/8/98 © 1998, United Feature Syndicate

SPORTS

Tuesday, December 8, 1998 — The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Kane's Christmas wish list; UMass can beat UConn

Dear Santa,

I know you have a lot to worry about, what with millions of children around the world to take care of come Christmas Eve. I know that you have to diligently watch over those elves so there are no labor dispute problems.

I know that you and the missus are probably going at it over your weight again. I know that you are probably feeling the global warming this recent weather — glorious as it is — is causing you havoc up there in the North Pole.

And I know that I'm probably the last thing on your mind right now. But, if you wouldn't mind, I jotted down a few things that would make this X-MAS an extra special one for me.

Casey Kane on College Basketball

Check it out and see what you can do.

All I want for Christmas is:

• A Massachusetts win over Connecticut tomorrow night in the William D. Mullins Center. Hey, you both know the Minutemen can pull it off. Don't believe me, ask North Carolina, Arkansas and Kentucky; UMass hit the dead–center bullseye on each one of them. And while you're at it, I really want the fan support to knock UConn's socks off. This campus has rocked before (anyone remember Wake Forest in 1995? or Rhode Island last year?) and it will rock again.

Sure, the Minutemen have struggled early. I don't spend every waking minute with the team, so I don't know for sure if it's a motivation problem, the fact that end–of–the– semester stress is setting in for everyone (even basketball players), or whether or not the team has gelled for this season. But the fact remains that the No. 1 team is coming to town in less than 24 hours for one of the biggest games of the year and this campus will be ready, Santa, make it memorable.

• A promise that UCLA coach Steve Lavin will stay in Los Angeles for awhile. The guy is great: young, energetic, enthusiastic, and he has welcomed the pressure of tradition with open arms. He respects what came before him at the school he has that genuine mixture of awe and attitude.

And he is still learning, talking with legendary UCLA coach John Wooden whenever he can (even if what is said goes over his head).

"I've said it before, but when I was younger I used to go to Mass on Sundays. I never understood what was going on. But I knew it was good for you, you felt better afterwards. It's sort of like talking to coach Wooden. A lot of it goes over your head, but you feel better," Lavin once said of his talks.

• A season in which Cincinnati's Pete Mickeal and Maryland's Steve Francis will show the world what junior college players are capable of. Mickeal, the top–rated JUCO player, and Francis, the runner–up, have both performed solidly thus far for their respective teams, and both have the success to back their hype up.

• An alumni game between some of the best players take the court in Duke–UNC contests. Can you imagine it? You could wipe the floor with the extra talent that game would bring in.

Come to mention it, how about a matchup between former UMass and Temple players.

• For Louisville's Denny Crum to lose that ridiculous jacket. Fire–engine red was soooo 1988. Come on, Denny, update!

• A Rick Majerus comedy hour. Maybe he could even have St. Joseph's coach Phil Martelli in as a sidekick. Majerus is a warehouse for some of the best quotes in college hoop, and Martelli once set up his coach's show as a send–up of Carnac the Magician (from Johnny Carson).

• For Lute Olsen's hair to get messed up. Just once. Is that too much to ask, Santa? Come to think of it, how about messing up Lavin's hair too.

• Well, to be truthful, I wouldn't mind a couple of tickets to see some of the greatest old barns in the game: Indiana's Assembly Hall; Duke's Cameron Indoor Stadium; New Mexico's Pit; Kentucky's Memorial Hall (where the Wildcats played before Rupp Arena existed); etc.

• A game showcasing the best of what could have been, or should I say the best of who could be playing right now. Imagine if Paul Pierce and Vince Carter were still in school. But hey, the big bucks were calling louder than the big books (but who's cashing his checks now?).

• That the grand, wonderful, colorful tradition of the nation's best game never dies; despite losses, injuries, coaching changes, program upheaval, players leaving for the NBA, bad image or unhappy fans.

After all, there is no game like college basketball.

Thanks Big Guy,

Sincerely, Casey

Casey Kane is a Collegian columnist.

Minutewomen set to slay Crusaders

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

After nearly driving off the road to glory earlier in the season, the Massachusetts women's basketball team will attempt to steer clear of any future potholes beginning tonight when they host Holy Cross at the William D. Mullins Center.

UMass has been faced with the task of compensating for early injuries to key guards Kelly Van Huisen and Jaywana Bradley. The Minutewomen (3–6), are coming off their first road win, having defeated Colgate at the Big Apple Classic, and appear ready to make a run once Atlantic 10 action commences. But before they begin conference play, the players will have to take on two local opponents including tonight's game and Dartmouth on Friday night.

"We are going to take this season one game at a time from here on out," Massachusetts coach Joanie O'Brien said. We have recovered nicely from tough injuries, and there is a lot of basketball left to be played."

WOMEN'S B-BALL
HOLY CROSS @ UMASS
TONIGHT, 7 P.M.
91.1 FM-WMUA
MATT PERRAULT-PLAY
MIKE COREY-COLOR
PREVIEW

The Crusaders (5–3) will pose a stiff challenge having earned victories over Siena, Tulsa, Fordham and Rider by a combined 89 points — a testament to their offensive potency.

The Crusaders' fifth and most recent triumph was a 71–65 decision over Seton Hall on Sunday.

Holy Cross coach Bill Gibbons will undoubtedly seek production from Amy O'Brien who leads her squad with 25.4 points per game, and 8.8 rebounds.

O'Brien, a 6–1 senior forward from Worcester, will be a tough assignment for the UMass forwards, much like Texas A&M's Prissy Sharpe was last Saturday.

The Minutewomen responded well on that occasion, severely limiting Sharpe's output with solid defense, which is positive sign heading into their encounter with O'Brien.

O'Brien is complimented by four players averaging nine points or better for the Crusaders.

Guard Anna Kinne leads that pack with 10.1 points per contest, while senior forward Summer Ivan has chipped in with 9.5.

The Minutewomen will look to improve on their 2–1 home record, with more solid play from point guard Kathy Coyner, small forward Tez Kraft, and the quartet of post players that O'Brien has to work with.

In regards to leadership, Coyner has let her numbers do the talking, and they speak volumes right now.

After nine games, Coyner has posted 11.2 points per contest, while handing out 5.6 assists.

With the loss of both Van Huisen and Jaywana Bradley, Coyner has not only been responsible for ball distribution but for adding scoring punch as well.

"My main responsibility is to play point guard," Coyner said. "I am looking to pass the ball and get everyone involved, but if we need a basket, I am going to try and find a way to do that as well."

In regards to inside play, O'Brien has utilized a four– pronged attack consisting of seniors Yolanda Rayside, Lucia Madajova, and freshmen Nekole Smith and Caroline Nehls.

"Our post players have given us a lot," O'Brien said. "We need continued production from them, and their play will dictate how many minutes they will be involved."

Madajova and Nehls have started the last three affairs, with Rayside and Smith crashing the boards and shooting well off the bench.

Minutewomen Notes: The sports management graduate students, guided by Dr. Bill Sutton have been competing in a marketing contest for the team...The first 150 students will receive a slice of pizza and soda tonight as part of their efforts.

UM fall athletes receive conference and national honors

Meyers and Hogancamp A–10 All team

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

BRIAN MCDERMOTT/COLLEGIAN

In her final season with the Minutewomen, senior forward and explosive scorer Erica Johnston was selected to the All– America third team.

In an up–and–down season for the Massachusetts volleyball team only two things were constant, junior co–captains from Huntington Beach, Calif. Kari Hogancamp and Jill Meyers.

Both outside hitter Hogancamp and middle blocker Meyers were named to the Atlantic 10 All–Conference selections by the conference's head coaches.

"I have gotten more out of Kari and Jill then I ever expected. They have been here from the start. They're winners, they have a strong desire and are competitive, you can't teach that," UMass coach Bonnie Kenny said.

Meyers had a fabulous junior campaign, to follow up her stellar sophomore and freshman seasons. The 6–0 Meyers led the team in several key categories. She led the Minutewomen in kills with 441, kills per game with 4.01, block assists with 73, and total blocks with 83.

Meyers also was second on the team in digs with 268, digs per game with 2.44, and 10 solo blocks. Meyers was a key force in the middle for the Minutewomen not only in blocking the ball and getting tips at the net, but she was also one of UMass' favorite weapons all season long.

Meyers was building on a solid sophomore campaign in which she collected 441 kills, .292 attack percentage, 100 total blocks and 293 digs. Even as a freshman, Meyers was deadly for UMass, with a season attack percentage over .300 and another 422 kills, while also registering her only 300 or over digs season [343].

Meyers offensive performance also helped the Minutewomen break out of their early season funk (2–7) and end up at .500 with a 15–15 record, of which 12 wins came at the hands of conference opponents.

"If Kari and Jill don't play well then we don't win," Kenny said referring to this year's comeback leadership role that Meyers and Hogancamp played. "They (Meyers and Hogancamp) work very hard. They will hold their teammates accountable and their great leaders."

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Kari Hogancamp

On the outside was another A–10 All–Conference player in the form of Hogancamp. The 5–9 Hogancamp led the Atlantic 10 in total digs and she ranked 15 in the nation in digs. She led the Minutewomen in total digs with 462 digs, and a 4.20 digs per game average.

Hogancamp also led the team in attack percentage with a .265, service aces with 33, and solo blocks with 31.

The California native was also second on the team in several clutch categories. Hogancamp has 419 kills and 3.81 kills per game. Hogancamp is also the second all–time in career digs at UMass, with 1455, she needs only 29 to set the new career digs mark.

Hogancamp's offensive numbers are consistently getting better as she tallied 508 kills, she came within 100 kills of matching her totals from both her freshman and sophomore seasons.

Besides being named to the All A–10 Conference team, Hogancamp was also WHMP 1400 am radio player of the week for Nov. 21, 1998 and A–10 Player of the Week on Oct. 26, 1998.

The Minutewomen will return all their players for next season and for these two A–10 stars, they hope that an off season of training will allow them to lead this currently young team to the A–10 tournament.

"We're not losing anyone. We'll have the whole team coming back, all 10 not just five players. It will be great," Hogancamp said.

Johnston is All–American

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

Erica Johnston concluded a great season and a great career at UMass by being named to the third team All–American in Field Hockey.

Johnston also capped the season by being named to the All–Northeast Region team for field hockey. The Enfield, Conn. native also helped lead the Minutewomen to their third straight Atlantic 10 Conference tournament titles, while making all three All–Tournament teams. Johnston also lead her team to their second consecutive NCAA berth, before bowing out to Penn State for the second straight season.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Jill Meyers

Johnston has been stellar for the extent of her career at UMass. She came into this season with 39 career goals in 63 career starts, while tallying six assists and collecting 84 points.

This season Johnston started only 19 of UMass' 22 games, but she came through when it counted. She scored nine goals, tallied five assists, and totaled 23 points. But johnston's three goals in the A–10 tournament in Philadelphia led UMass to a pair of conference wins over St. Joe's and the University of Rhode Island in the final.

Turn to WOMEN'S HOCKEY, page 9

Minutemen will emerge from recent cloud against UConn

Ketner, Clarke must assert leadership in pivotal game

I once overheard someone say the following about former UMass forward Lou Roe: "If that kid's body were half as big as his heart, he'd be an NBA superstar."

With that in mind, I can't help but wonder whether or not the Minutemen will play with their once–patented "big hearts" and "refuse to lose" spirit when they host No. 1 ranked UConn tomorrow night...and is there just a little bit more of that old UMass magic just waiting to appear?

Well, right now most are inclined to say the answer is no. After an embarrassing 22–point defeat at the hands of Marshall (who, you ask?), a cloud of skepticism has covered Amherst.

In fact, the Minutemen could not have picked a more inopportune time for the biggest game in the history of the William D. Mullins Center. Lari Ketner has been lost. Charlton Clarke has played hard, but has failed as a captain to motivate his sleep–walking teammates.

Perhaps if these two cornerstones were freshmen, or sophomores, or even juniors, we would not expect as much from them. But they're seniors leading a team which many thought could reach the later rounds of the NCAA Tournament.

No one will give UMass much of a chance tomorrow night, but that is why I strongly believe that they will have a great chance to win the game. Yes, they can win this game, and I don't even feel as though I am going out on a limb by predicting a favorable outcome.

But there's a catch to them earning that win. The Huskies will be in no mood to hand over a victory to their biggest regional rival. That's why Bruiser Flint has to start over with his team. That's why he needs to show his players the game tape of UMass' stunning upset of top–ranked North Carolina at Madison Square Garden in November of 1993. They called it "The Miracle on 34th Street."

Little did that group of players realize that it was no miracle. In each of their next two seasons, the Minutemen upset the No. 1 team in the nation — Arkansas in 1994 and Kentucky in 1995.

There was an air of confidence surrounding those teams, an appreciation of the magnitude and excitement surrounding basketball — but also a recognition of the responsibility the players have to themselves, to their University, to their coaches, and to their fans.

As Carmelo Travieso and Dana Dingle watched UMass fall to St. John's before Thanksgiving, you just could see the bitterness and disappointment in their faces, wondering whether or not the torch they passed to the current players is even lit.

Aaron Saykin

Why can't Lari Ketner and Ajmal Basit dominate players 50 pounds lighter and three inches shorter than they are? Why could a skinny, short player like Lou Roe leave his mark on the college basketball world? Because he played with his heart. There were no tantrums, no pouting, and no half–ass efforts from him. He played with class and he played with the heart of a lion.

And so can Lari, Charlton and Ajmal. They did last year at Kansas. No one gave that team a chance to win. And if the officials were competent enough to whistle Kansas forward Raef LaFrentz for offensive goaltending, perhaps UMass would have won. But in the end, the outcome didn't matter. Flint watched his players nearly defeat the No. 2 team in the nation, and saw them gel for the first time.

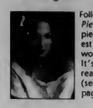
That was arguably the turning point last season for the Minutemen, who eventually earned the trip to the Big Dance when no one, including myself, ever believed they could do so without Edgar Padilla and Travieso.

And, while no one is giving them much of a chance to beat UConn, the seniors come to a cross–roads in their collegiate careers. This may be Lari's last chance to show us that his heart is as big as his body. This may be Charlton's final opportunity to prove to the fans that he still has the same ice in his veins he had against Rhode Island last year. And then there's even the chance for Bruiser to breathe one sigh of relief knowing that a win could remove him from John Calipari's two million–pound shadow for just one night.

There are too many reasons why UMass can win this game for anyone to count them out. Regardless of the final score, it must be a turn–the–corner game for Flint's squad. With foes like Boston College and Villanova looming in the distance, the target will again move to the backs of the Minutemen, who qualified for the Final Four only three seasons ago.

Forget about the distractions, rumors, and pessimism surrounding the start of this 1998–99 team. This program thrives in a big–game atmosphere. Clarke knows that. As the only current member of that Final Four team, he's the last link to the Calipari era. The last link to that inherent confidence and spirit of intensity. The last hope to pass on

Turn to MEN'S BASKETBALL, page 9



COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Former UMass players Mike Williams (10), Edgar Padilla (12), and Lou Roe (15) celebrate their storied victory over No. 1 ranked North Carolina in November of 1993.

The Massachusetts DAILY COLLEGIAN
Volume CIV Issue 64 — New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 — Wednesday, December 9, 1998

All that glitters is not gold

Following her debut Pieces of You, only pieces of Jewel's latest release Spirit are worth the wait. But It's better than reading her poetry (see Arts & Living, page 6).

Beware of the dogs

Monty Mack and the UMass men's basketball team will look to get back on the winning track tonight against regional rival and No. 1 UConn (see Sports, page 12).

WORLD

Furor erupts over strip search in Ontario

TORONTO (AP) — A high school vice principal and gym teacher were ordered to stay away from students after they conducted a mass strip search of ninth–grade boys in a futile quest for stolen money.

The search, carried out last week at Kingsville District High School in southwestern Ontario, prompted a walkout by about 200 students Monday. Yesterday, Ontario Premier Mike Harris joined the widespread condemnation of the search, calling it repulsive.

On Friday, gym teacher Dan Bondy summoned vice principal John MacDonald to help him search students after none of the 20 boys in a gym class would admit to having stolen $90 from a fellow student. The two staff members ordered the boys to come one by one into an office, where they were subjected to a strip search. The stolen money was not found.

After complaints from parents and students, education officials opened an inquiry and ordered MacDonald and Bondy to stay away from students for the time being. Neither man could be reached for comment yesterday. They were not at school, and their telephones went unanswered.

NATION

Two dead after employee opens fire

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) — A state transportation employee accused of harassing co–workers pulled a gun during a disciplinary hearing and opened fire yesterday, killing one person and wounding another before dying in a shootout with a state trooper.

Robert S. J. Hetter, a 50–year–old accounting technician, shot the two women — one of them a personnel employee, the other a supervisor — and then made his way through the building, perhaps seeking more victims.

"There was evidence in his motions he was not done with whatever rage and anger he had," said Gov. Roy Romer, who traveled the 50 miles north from Denver to Greeley to help comfort state workers.

Helter eventually leaped out a second–floor window, landing on a roof, and jumped to the ground. He emerged in a parking lot, where he was confronted by a trooper and killed in an exchange of gunfire. The trooper was not hurt.

"It's hard to understand the demons that go through a person's mind that causes this kind of thing," said Bill Vidal, executive director of the Transportation Department. He wept as he released details of the shootings.

The six–year veteran employee of the Transportation Department had been summoned to a hearing to discuss complaints lodged against him by co–workers, including one particular target.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Thursday	Friday
HIGH: 44	HIGH: 46	HIGH: 42
LOW: 28	LOW: 24	LOW: 26

INSIDE

Arts & Living.....page 6
Classifieds .....page 10
Comics .....page 11
Crossword .....page 11
Editorial .....page 4
FYI.....page 10
News.....page 2
Sports .....page 12

ON THE INTERNET

www.umass.edu/rso/colegian

Hillel Board elected; group looks to future

By Mary Grein
Collegian Staff

As the Hillel's Jewish Student Union Executive Board was elected last night, the atmosphere was casual and many seemed excited.

Despite unexpected changes in the previous board which contributed to new elections, everyone involved in the group is hopeful that the coming semester will be filled with many new activities.

The new board includes Shira Hutt as president, Hannah Braune as religious and cultural vice president, Yael Torbin as membership vice president, Morry Korinow as administrative vice president, Jonathan Goldman as secretary and Natty Yagudin as the treasurer. Although there is still a vacancy on the board social action and community service vice president, the members are confident that it will be filled shortly.

Torbin said this coming semester there is a common goal to encourage new students to become involved in the group. The Board has weekly meetings that anyone is welcomed to attend.

Group member Jared Brooslin said, "The events that we have held, including the semi–formal have been great. The next step is to open these events to more people in the Jewish community."

Although there has not been any definite ideas planned for future events within the group, they are continuing to brainstorm. Some plans for the upcoming semester included bringing more guest speakers to the University.

"I am very excited to be working with a new group of people. I am looking forward to encouraging new faith in our group and getting more people involved," said Shira Hutt, the newly elected president and also a member of the last board.

Some candidates focused on being able to reinforce more tradition and Jewish spirit into the Hillel Organization, but what remained important was bringing in new people to the organization. The group hopes that in the future a larger percentage of the University of Massachusetts Jewish community will get involved.

Administrative vice president Korinow's thoughts mirrored many of the newly voted board.

"I believe I have the skills to help everyone work together," he said.

The group feels as a whole that they hold many fun activites surrounding Judaism in addition to services and therefore believe low participation is because many students are just not aware of what is going on.

"We are willing to do whatever it takes to get the word out. If that includes going door–to–door, calling students or e–mailing them we are willing to commit to the time it takes to do that," Brooslin said.

As the holiday season approaches, the Board continues to plan new activities, while looking forward to new plans when the second semester starts.

STACY COHEN/COLLEGIAN

Arts & glass
Inga Klein a sophomore psychology major works on a stain glass box at the Campus Center Craft Center.

Reaction 'unsympathetic' to Impeach Clinton Rally

By Julie Fialkow
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts Republican Club held an "Impeach Clinton Rally" on Thursday, Dec. 3. The hour– long rally, held in front of the Student Union presented speeches supporting the impeachment of the president.

The rally, according to coordinator Ben Gaumond, saw public opinion as being unsympathetic to the idea of impeaching Clinton.

"A lot of people don't feel it should be addressed. I think there are stronger issues at hand than how we feel," he said.

Gaumond said the purpose of the rally was to make a strong argument for impeachment, allowing people to see that the law was evaded.

Paul Ferro, a member of the Republican Club who spoke at the rally said, "We wanted to express to the UMass and Five College community that Clinton committed enough crimes to consider his impeachment."

"Regardless of what the liberal media says," Ferro said, "it's not just about sex, it's [also] about lying."

Opposition, said Mike Marin also a speaker and member of the club, wasn't overwhelming, but did at one point rear its head.

"I was speaking about the perjury issue and an unknown person came up to the microphone. At one point they unplugged the microphone out of the jack so I couldn't speak," he said.

Ferro added that the majority of students listened to the speakers at the rally.

"We had a few hecklers, but the majority of students listened to what we had to say even if their viewpoint was different," he said.

Ferro also commented on the difference between this rally, and the one held Nov. 20 concerning the United States' involvement in Iraq.

The rally, which was organized by the Radical Student Union, drew strong debate between the RSU and the Republican Club, as well as a large number of observers.

"The Iraq rally was really different in that it had two groups arguing opposing viewpoints. But this was us putting it on," Ferro said.

The Iraq rally was published in the Collegian. This was never published so not as many people knew about it."

Marin said he didn't understand why members of the RSU didn't attend the rally.

"At the pro–Iraq rally they favored Bill Clinton being impeached. Why weren't they there?" said Marin.

"If someone wanted to speak, we would welcome it," said Gaumond.

Marin said he suspected one of the members of the RSU pulled their microphone out.

"It looked like a member of that group, but we don't know," he said.

Ferro interjected and said they don't know who the student was, or what their affiliation happened to be.

According to a Dec. 8 New York Times article, the chairman of the House Judiciary Committee said Monday that his panel had built a "compelling case" for the impeachment of President Clinton. He also challenged the president and his lawyers one last time to contest the evidence against him.

Professor warns of dangers of cults; vulnerable students are most at risk

By Jason Trenkle
Collegian Staff

Students should be careful who they befriend because they may not realize they are getting involved with a cult until it's too late, said Dr. Robert Lenz of the University of Massachusetts Polymer Science and Engineering department in a speech last night.

Lenz, who addressed a small audience in Gorman, became interested and educated on college campus cults when his son Doug was taken in by one about 10 years ago.

"I saw him change from a very nice, open young man to a person very difficult to talk to," Lenz said. "The group opened up to him and wrapped him with affection, but he didn't realize he was getting himself into a lot of trouble."

The Dean of Students Office advises anyone finding three of the following statements true about a group to seek advise from a trusted person outside the organization.

1. The group seems to be perfect. Everyone agrees and follows all orders carefully.
2. The group claims to have "all the answers."
3. You are asked to recruit new members soon after joining.
4. You begin to feel guilty and ashamed, unworthy as a person.
5. The group encourages you to put meetings and activities above studying.
6. The group speaks in a derogatory way about your past religious affiliations.
7. Your parents and friends are defined as "unable to understand and help you with religious matters."
8. Doubts and questions are seen as signs of weak faith.
9. Men are believed to have more rights and abilities than women
10. You are invited on a retreat with the group, but they cannot give an overview of the purpose, theme or activities before you go.

Before Lenz knew it he had lost contact with his son. His son had entered into a cult called the "Moonies." This extremist group has been gradually disappearing from campuses, but the effect the group had on his son was hard for Lenz to deal with.

"He never came home after being abducted, and the only contact I had with him was a phone call once a month," Lenz said. "I couldn't even find where he was located because he wouldn't tell me."

Lenz's son had lost his independence and his ability to make critical decisions. The group had introduced him to intense lectures and little sleep, Lenz said. At these lectures, the Moonies forced his son to reveal personal secrets about himself, he said. They then turned these factors against him by making him feel guilty for what they termed as "sins." He started to think like the group wanted him to, Lenz said.

"It came to the point where they had told him to totally break away from his family and friends," Lenz said. "Once you get in a cult, you live a life of doing what you're told."

Lenz feels groups like the Upside Down Club, an affiliation with the Springfield Church of Christ and a Registered Student Organization (RSO) on campus, subject their members to "love bombing." They attempt to distract prospective members with care and affection, in an effort to get the individual further involved.

Merle Ryan, the assistant dean of students, feels the Upside Down Club purposely targets students that are in a transition in life.

"A lot of college students are vulnerable, and they're in a major transition in finding themselves through college," Ryan said. "There are the types of people the cults target because they know certain individuals cannot think freely on their own."

Evangelist Tom Franz of the Springfield Church of Christ feels the club is serving the Christian community.

"No, we are not a cult and do not intend on being thought of as a cult," Franz said. "We have a strong belief in the bible and we want to love God and share his message with

Turn to CULT, page 2

STACY COHEN/COLLEGIAN

Cold weather wear
Bekka Lenore Berman an entomology major looks at scarfs at the mini–mall in the Student Union.

Nations asked to cease oil overproduction

By Anwar Faruqi
Associated Press

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates — Gulf Arab countries, grappling yesterday with ways to halt the plunge in oil prices that has gouged their budgets, called on oil–rich nations to stop overproduction.

"The whole problem" of low oil prices is caused by countries not sticking to their production quotas, said Jamil al–Hojeilan, secretary–general of the Gulf Cooperation Council.

"We hope that pledges to abide by agreed–upon quotas are respected," he told the Middle East Broadcasting Corp., an Arab TV network.

GCC leaders were in the second day of a summit in Abu Dhabi dominated by the issue of bolstering oil prices that have plummeted because of the recession in Asia and warmer–than–usual winters. GCC member–states — Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Bahrain, Oman, Qatar and the Emirates — sit on half the world's proven oil reserves and depend on exports for 75 percent of their revenues.

Analysts say the top overproducers on the world stage are outside the regional council: Venezuela, Iran and Indonesia. Only Qatar, another main quota–buster according to analysts, is present at the Abu Dhabi summit.

STACY COHEN/COLLEGIAN

Taking things into perspective

The Student Union Mini Store, an aerial view.

Clinton's conduct called 'sinful'

By David Espo
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Clinton gained precious ground yesterday in his struggle to avoid impeachment, winning support from one moderate Republican while a platoon of White House defenders argued his case before the House Judiciary Committee.

"As surely as we know that what he did was sinful, we also know it is not impeachable," White House lawyer Gregory Craig told a committee bristling with skeptical Republicans.

Other witnesses — including some who sat in judgment of Richard Nixon a quarter-century ago — argued that Clinton's conduct in the Monica Lewinsky affair was no Watergate, and thus not worthy of impeachment.

Ready by all accounts to muscle through at least one article of impeachment by week's end, GOP lawmakers bore in with questions relating to allegations that Clinton lied under oath about Lewinsky.

Rep. Howard Coble (R-N.C.) noted that Clinton has testified he never touched Lewinsky in a sexual way, yet she testified to the contrary.

"Do you have any opinion... as to who's lying, because it seems inevitable one of those parties has lied?" Coble asked Craig, special counsel to the president.

"The president... has testified about that kind of activity, and I accept his word about that," Craig said. He added that "It's an oath-on-oath, he says-she says situation."

Outside the committee room came the first indication that the White House campaign to build support among GOP moderates might be bearing fruit. Congressional sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Republican Rep. Amo Houghton of New York would announce today he opposes impeachment and favors censure of the president.

Houghton is among the moderate Republicans whom the White House and Democrats hope can be persuaded to reject impeachment. The White House scripted its two-day presentation to the Judiciary Committee with that objective in mind.

Clinton's allies were hoping, particularly, that Houghton could show the way to others from New York, including Reps. Rick Lazio, Ben Gilman, Michael Forbes and Jack Quinn.

Under the direction of the committee's chairman, Rep. Henry Hyde, the Judiciary Committee's staff has begun drafting articles of impeachment accusing Clinton of perjury, obstruction of justice and abuse of power. Committee votes are expected beginning Friday. The White House defense effort unfolded inside a hearing room that has had its share of history. Constitutional amendments are born inside the ornate chamber. And a quarter-century ago, the panel voted to impeach Nixon.

Nixon, the nation's 37th president, resigned before the full House could vote on whether to impeach him and order a trial in the Senate.

Clinton has vowed to resist rather than resign, and unlike Nixon at the end of Watergate, he retains strong political support in the public at large and among lawmakers of his own party.

Outside the crowded committee room, preparations already were under way for a historic vote on the House floor next week. Several officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Rep. Ray LaHood (R-Ill.) was the leading candidate to preside over the House during the debate — a job that neither outgoing Speaker Newt Gingrich nor Rep. Bob Livingston, the speaker-in-waiting, wishes to perform.

LaHood, 53, recently elected to his third term, has presided frequently — and unflappably — over the House during debate on routine legislation during the past four years. "It would be an honor to do it if that's what Speaker Gingrich or Speaker Livingston wants me to do," he said in a telephone interview, adding that he had received a call to be ready.

The White House deployed a battery of lawyers, professors and former government officials in its defense in the committee room, hoping moderate Republicans would be paying careful attention. The GOP holds a 228-206 majority in the House, with one Democratic-leaning independent.

■ cult

continued from page 1

people."

Ryan said these groups should be treated with caution.

"Members of the group are very firm about their beliefs and they're entitled to that," Ryan said. "They are not entitled to force them onto others, and students should feel free to tell them to 'Get lost.'"

The Upside Down Club is active in recruiting and spreading the words of God.

However, according to Lenz, they have been barred from 25 nationwide colleges including Harvard, Yale, and as of this semester, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. They have not been barred from UMass for many reason.

UMass is a public school and allows any club or organization to freely recruit on campuses. Because the Upside Down Club is an RSO, they have the right to solicit on campus. As Lenz pointed out, a serious complaint has not been filed with the dean of students to arrange an assessment of the organization.

"This semester we have actually had no formal complaints from students," Ryan said. "This is an unexpected trend compared to previous years and may mean recruitment is lessening."

Students like freshman Dinora Walcott feel others are getting involved with organizations on campus before becoming aware of the consequences.

"My friend was approached by the Upside Down Club and said they made her question her beliefs," Walcott said. "Now, she's still with them and it's very difficult to deal with losing her. She's really changed."

According to Franz, "upside down" refers to disciples of the group turning the world upside down, in effect turning the world right side up, the way Christ intended.

Lenz, however, feels groups like the Upside Down Club will go as far as denouncing all other Christians as being non-Christian, and believe only their followers will reach salvation.

"They feel that people who do not share their beliefs will go to hell," Lenz said. "It's very difficult to believe mind control could be that strong and effective but is. Even if you challenged a cult member, you wouldn't be able to penetrate their thinking."

After many years, Lenz was able to relocate his son, but feels a lot of his son's life was wasted because of a cult's influence. He said the key to getting out of a cult is to doubt their beliefs and learn to think independently, and more importantly, just learn when to say "no."

STACY COHEN/COLLEGIAN

Also consider this view

Another angle shows April Bibleau, a senior communications major works the register at the Mini Store.

The only thing better than an iMac: An iMac for less than $29.99/mo.

Apple® Computer couldn't make iMac™ any easier to set up or use. So they made it easier to buy. Now, if you're a student, you can get an iMac for less than $29.99 per month* with the first payment not due for 120 days. For about what you'd spend on a few pizzas, you can have a super-fast computer that can get you onto the internet in 10 minutes right out of the box. You also get a coupon book worth $2,000 in possible additional savings, for software, games and accessories. Come try an iMac for yourself at:

Computers E.T.C. | University Store

In the UMass Campus Center
9 to 5 Mon. - Fri.
11 to 4 Saturday
413-545-2010

http. www.apple.com/education/store

Authorized Reseller

© 1998 Apple Computer, Inc. All rights reserved. Apple and the Apple logo are registered trademarks and iMac is a trademark of Apple Computer, Inc.™. Monthly payments of $29.99 based on a three-year amount of $1,079.64 including 7 months interest-waived retail price of $1,049.00 over including all taxes, shipping and full price plus a one-time origination fee of 9%. First payment will be due approximately 120 days after loan disbursement. The monthly variable rate equals the prime rate published in The Wall Street Journal on the first business day of each month plus 1.90%. Rate is, as of November 1, 1998, the rate is 11.90% (9.00% prime rate plus 1.90%). 11.9% APR subject to monthly increase or decrease. Any changes to the rate will take effect on the fifth business day of each calendar month and will affect the dollar amount of your monthly payments. $29.99 per month subject to credit approval. No down payment required. *No prepayment penalty.

Welcome back... NOW GO AWAY!

Cheap hotels. Great advice. Nice people.

Travel accessories and backpacks sold here! European railpasses and international student ID cards issued on the spot!

Council Travel
CIEE, Council on International Educational Exchange

44 Main St., Amherst
(413) 256-1261
www.councilltravel.com

American Heart Association. Fighting Heart Disease and Stroke

You're looking at a center for the prevention of heart disease.

Heart health can start on the playground. It shouldn't end there. Stay active through life. Thirty minutes of physical activity 3-4 days a week can help cut your risk of heart disease. For information, call 1-800-AHA-USA1, or online at http://www.amhrt.org

This space provided as a public service. ©1996, American Heart Association

STUDENT AFFAIRS SPECIAL SERVICES
STUDENT SPEAKER
UNDERGRADUATE COMMENCEMENT

Is there something you would like to say before graduating? If so, you are invited to submit a proposal for consideration as the Student Commencement Speaker.

Who Is Eligible:	Graduating Amherst campus senior (Class of 1999).
Subject Matter:	Your proposed speech should be of general interest to graduating seniors as well as to parents and other guests, and address your impressions and experience(s) both academic and extracurricular.
Format:	Submit approximately three word-processed/typewritten pages, double-spaced, or the equivalent of 3-5 minutes speaking time. Speeches exceeding this limit will not be considered.
Selection Process:	Author's' names will be deleted (by a non-voting staff person) after which a committee of students (majority), staff, and faculty will review the proposals. 3-5 individuals will be invited to "audition" before the committee (in March), after which the speaker will be selected.
Deadline:	Wednesday, February 10, 1999, 4:30 p.m.
Submit Proposals To:	Paul R. Appleby, Chair, Student Speaker Selection committee, 305 Whitmore (545-3464).

GRADUATE WOMAN'S NETWORK

Invites graduate students to an

Informal Gathering of Graduate Women

to meet other women
to speak on issues of here in UMass.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10
International Human Rights Day

7 - 9 P.M., GRADUATE LOUNGE, CAMPUS CENTER

Buffet Dinner & Refreshments will be served

For more information call Yanti at 545-5316
GWN is a project of the Graduate Student Senate. * 919 Campus Center

STACY COHEN/COLLEGIAN

Rub a dub dub

Stephanie Smith and Charlotte Huse in front of Ryan Keen's controversial piece with the inscription, "Rub a dub dub two kids in a tub and what do you think they did?"

Supreme Court rules in favor of privacy

By Laurie Asseo
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — In a rare win for privacy rights, the Supreme Court ruled yesterday that police cannot search people and their cars after merely ticketing them for routine traffic violations. Such a search — without suspicion of other wrongdoing — is unreasonable and unconstitutional, the court ruled unanimously in an Iowa case.

The justices said police unlawfully searched an Iowa man's car after he was stopped for speeding. The search found marijuana and a pipe in Patrick Knowles' car.

The decision amounted to "a pretty resounding no" to police, said Knowles' lawyer, Paul Rosenberg. Allowing the search would have created a "very big category of permissible searches," he said.

"Which of us has not at some point gone over the speed limit or made an illegal left turn?" added Brooklyn Law professor Susan Herman, who signed a friend-of-the-court brief on Knowles' behalf. Even Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, who wrote the court's opinion, was ticketed in 1986 for driving 41 mph in a 30 mph zone in his hometown of Arlington, Va.

During arguments in the case last month, Iowa's lawyer acknowledged that the state law would even let police search someone stopped for jaywalking.

The ruling disappointed the National Association of Police Organizations. Traffic stops are "one of the least predictable and most dangerous duties of a law enforcement officer," said Robert Scully, the group's executive director.

The Supreme Court ruled in 1973 that police can search people after arresting them, citing a need to disarm suspects and preserve evidence.

But Rehnquist wrote for the court yesterday that those needs are not as great when someone is simply being given a traffic citation. Concern for officer safety may justify ordering a driver and passengers out of the car but "does not by itself justify the often considerably greater intrusion attending a full field-type search," Rehnquist said.

Police already have the authority to perform a patdown search of motorists if the officer has reason to suspect they may be armed, the chief justice noted. He also discounted prosecutors' argument that officers needed to search Knowles' car to preserve evidence. "No further evidence of excessive speed was going to be found either on the person of the offender or in the passenger compartment of the car," Rehnquist said.

Journalist speaking on poverty in India

By Laura Forster
Collegian Staff

After spending a year and a half traveling the 10 poorest districts in India, journalist and author P. Sainath will be coming to the University of Massachusetts to discuss the issues of poverty and oppression in India.

In a lecture entitled, "Press and Poverty: Life in the Times of Market Fundamentalism," Sainath will address the relationship between rural poverty and the press.

His 1996 book "Everybody loves a good drought: Stories from India's poorest districts," describes life in India's underdeveloped areas. In addition, the book points out the failure of numerous development initiatives directed at the causes of poverty and oppression in rural India.

According to Vamsee Juluri, a graduate communications student coordinating the event, Sainath is currently working on a series with Indian paper, The Hindu, called Daltis, 1990-2000 writing about the poor, oppressed population of India who call themselves "daltis."

"[Sainath] is talking about stuff not in mainstream media. He's really the person getting into the media," said Juluri.

Sainath has lectured around the world and is currently a visiting scholar at the University of Iowa's South Asian Studies program as well as doing freelance writing. Sainath has won 13 awards for his book "Everybody loves a good drought" and is a recipient of the 1998-2000 Jawaharlal Nehru Fellowship. This fellowship is one of India's most prestigious awards for leaders of public service works.

This event will be sponsored by the Communication, Journalism, and Economics Departments as well as the Graduate Student Senate, the UMass Anti-Racism Coalition, the Center for the Study of Communication and the Media Education Foundation.

"Press and Poverty: Life in the Times of Market Fundamentalism" will be held in Campus Center 904-8 at 12:15 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 11.

Fallin's bodyguard resigns

By Ron Jenkins
Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY — One of Lt. Gov. Mary Fallin's Highway Patrol bodyguards resigned after being accused of having an affair with her.

The accusation, which has not been confirmed, was made by her husband's lawyer during divorce proceedings last week.

Fallin, 43, a Republican, was elected to a second term in November and has been touted as a possible GOP candidate for governor.

Rumors surfaced in early September about her and a member of her security detail, Public Safety Commissioner Bob Ricks said. The trooper, whose name was not released, first denied the allegations, but after questioning again in November, he "admitted to unprofessional conduct and was permitted to resign," Ricks said in a statement Monday. "His admission did not indicate that sexual activity was involved."

Ricks didn't elaborate on the nature of the unprofessional conduct, and his office said he was out of town yesterday.

Fallin filed for divorce from her husband, dentist Joe Fallin, and has told a judge that he used drugs and physically abused her. The couple have two children, ages 11 and 8.

Fallin has denied his wife's accusations. He said he hired a private investigator to follow her, and at a hearing last week his lawyer described her relationship with the trooper as "an affair."

District Judge Jerry Bass prevented Fallin's attorney from pursuing questions about the matter.

Mrs. Fallin's lawyer, Lana Tyree, said her client would not comment. In court, Fallin said the rumors about her and one of her bodyguards were started by her husband.

"It's an agonizing personal tragedy for her and her family," the Republican Gov. Frank Keating said yesterday. "There will be a lot of pyrotechnics, accusations and charges as there always is in a messy, nasty divorce proceeding."

Happy Holidays from the Tuesday night staff!!

Textbook Annex - Textbook Buyback - December 1998

Beware of buyers in your dorm!

The Textbook Annex buyback is not associated with people who buy textbooks inside your dorms. You will not get the best prices possible from them. They do not buy any books at 50% of the Publisher's Retail Price. The Annex does. In fact, some of these people bring your books to the buyback to sell them at the higher price even though they have paid you a lower price.

Maximize your return by coming to the authorized locations in the Campus Center Room 162, Hampden in Southwest and the Textbook Annex.

How are buyback prices determined?

Buyback prices are determined by whether or not an instructor has submitted a book list for the next semester.

The Textbook Annex staff spends a lot of time trying to get this information because we know that the best source of those books are from those of you who are already using them. Around mid-terms our staff begins to encourage faculty to place their next orders through a variety of methods including a personal visit to each academic department, letters, flyers and phone calls. We want to give our customers the money that we would otherwise pay a used book wholesaler for used books. To maximize the half price list, we enter faculty's book orders into the buyback data base on the day we receive them.

If we know what books are needed, then the Textbook Annex will pay 50% of the Publisher's List Price, even if the book was purchased used. You will receive the wholesaler's predetermined current market price (wholesale price) if we do not have an order at the time you try to sell your book. You will receive wholesale prices because the Textbook Annex is not trying to add that book to our inventory. The prices they pay depend primarily on the national demand for the book. Wholesale buyback prices can range from 0 to 35%.

Ask Questions!

You should always take a minute to ask the buyers if your book is being purchase for the Annex to reuse or if you are being offered a wholesale price. You may nc like the wholesale price but at least you'll understand what you are being offere

Fall 1998 Ending Buyback - Textbook Annex
Location	Operating Hours
Monday December 14 - Friday December 18, 1998
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Campus Center	9am - 5pm
Hampden in Southwest	9am - 5pm
Saturday, December 19
Campus Center	11am - 5pm
Hampden	12pm - 5pm
Monday & Tuesday, December 21& 22
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Hampden	9am - 7pm
Campus Center	9am - 7pm
Wednesday December 23 (Last final ends 12:30pm)
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Campus Center	9am - 5pm
Hampden	9am - 3pm
Thursday, December 24 (no exams, snow day)
Textbook Annex (only)	9am - 4pm
Monday, December 28
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm

UNIVERSITY STORE'S Textbook Annex UMASS AMHERST

The University Store's Textbook Annex is owned and operated by the University of Massachusetts. For more buyback information visit our web site at: http://www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex/

EDITORIAL / OPINION

... The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian ...

Uncle Sam wants you

Here's the deal: the United States Army and Post Office do not need to advertise on television. Everyone knows what they do and why they are there; television ads will have no effect on anyone who is going to join the army or send a post card to their aunt Mildred in Oklahoma.

The post office really gets me because they make it sound like they are in a battle to the death with UPS (Utterly Poor Service) and Federal Express, and maybe Fed Ex and UPS do a better job and are getting more business. I think the post office should spend more money on anger management classes for their workers and worry less about the competition. The other indisputable fact is that the post office carries every other piece of mail that moves in and out of the country.

"Even McDonalds doesn't advertise on TV for employees."

Brian Lohnes

The post office is a private business. The government disowned it a while ago and the weirdness has begun from there. My idea is to combine the United States Army and the U.S. post system into one elite unit. It seems to me that postal employees could use more of the Army training, and it would definitely increase their efficiency.

In the past, postal workers have used high powered automatic weapons to assault defenseless office workers. The Army uses these same skills, but they choose to invade smaller, weaker and easily overwhelmed countries. The Army is full of efficient, highly trained soldiers who are in good physical shape and would make perfect postal workers.

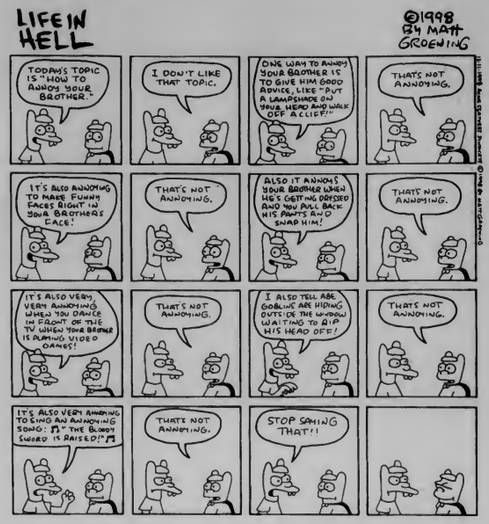
If we used the Army's proven tactics of mental and physical toughness we could have the most kick–butt post office in the world. How cool would it be to invade Canada with a covert mission involving bus loads of unsuspecting postal workers? It would be just like the Trojan Horse!

Another side benefit of a good efficient post office and Army combination would be a significant decrease in the number of letters that get, "Lost in the mail." That phrase always makes me think: the only way for things to get, "Lost in the mail" is if they are "Lost in someone's pocket," or if the article of mail is sent to the wrong location. I assume that the post office doesn't hire illiterate employees, and if the employee can read, directing the mail to the proper location shouldn't be that hard of a task.

If a highly trained Army officer was in charge of the operation and such an error occurred, military law would dictate that they should be shot. Since mail is an integral part of our society, if the system went down there would be chaos. The world's beer reserves would dwindle to very low amounts due to the number of out of work employees, and the anger levels of the workless people would reach dizzying heights. If the Army ran the show we could have the highly trained postal workers keep Marshall Law all over the country. The benefits of this plan or totally obvious... to me anyway.

Enough about the post office. The Army is another organization that seems to be blowing money hand over fist. The Army are full of flashy graphics and television ads for neat special effects. The ads for the Marines are even better: they have knights in armor and huge labyrinths. Last time I checked, the only knights left were at those lame medieval theme fairs.

For a reasonable guy like me to be subjected to these crappy ads is insulting. Even McDonalds doesn't advertise on TV for employees, and no one dies there on a regular basis. I would love to know if anyone joined the Army or Marines because of a television ad. If I ever found that one guy who did, I would have some of my highly trained postal worker buddies with me. My companions would have some performance enhancing Budweiser in their system, and they would promptly beat that guy's.



I'm not suggesting that we turn our society into a totally militant one, but it would be cool to be able to mail a letter and have it delivered on the same day. Also, it would improve the image of the post office to keep the killings down to a bare minimum... unless you like that danger element in your job. In this world of constant change and improvement it would be good to take a step back to the days of guns, force and order. Ah yes, fond memories of the past: our forefathers built this country not on rock and roll but with guns and order.

If the post office should compete with anything, it should be e-mail. If e-mail keeps growing like it is the post office will be history in a few decades. The only thing that will need to exist is a package delivery company, and there UPS and Fed Ex will ultimately triumph in the end. For the post office to survive, it will take a lot of work to get its act together.

I may be a little "off" when it comes to inventive ideas, but where's the fun in life if your mind can't wander and get a little weird sometimes? New ideas keep our country going, and I'm just trying to do my part.

Brian Lohnes is a U Mass student.

LIFE IN HELL ©1998 BY MATT GROENING

Rethinking the Gulf

The recent heightening of tensions between the U.S. and Iraq has engendered not only another massive American military build–up in the Gulf but also another impassioned, jingoistic round of what noted peace activist Coleman McCarthy has called "the media war whoops."

Much as it did during the Gulf Slaughter of 1990–91, the mainstream media and State Department propaganda machine is inspiring misguided, ill–informed popular support for U.S. intervention in the Gulf.

Objectivity in the mainstream media is lost. Evening news reporters serve simply as mouthpieces for the government line, serving up spin — "Reporting live from the Pentagon."

Tom Brokaw reports on Iraq from a studio paid for by NBC's owner, General Electric, the largest military contractor in the U.S. Is accuracy in reporting possible here?

The public, largely lacking any alternative forms of dialogue (particularly since the Telecommunications Act of 1996, which swung open the door to monopoly of media ownership, and to singularity of political thought), and hungry for some sort of scapegoat on which to unleash their pent–up frustration from working harder and longer for less and less pay, buys the line.

The clamor rings out. "Stop Hussein! Stop Hussein!"

But wait.

Let's look beyond the myths, and into the truth.

Why is the U.S. really involved in Iraq?

To shed more light on the situation, some questions, and some answers:

Didn't Saddam Hussein gas his own people?

Yes, he did. During the 1980s, Hussein gassed to death large numbers of Iraq's Kurdish population. The State Department knew full well of these atrocities, yet continued to arm and to support Saddam Hussein. It was not until the fall of 1990, when Iraq threatened to monopolize oil control and disrupt "stability" in the region that the Pentagon publicly vilified him for these actions.

Hasn't Saddam Hussein used chemical weapons? What if he has them now?

Hussein used chemical weapons over the course of the Iran–Iraq war, from 1980–88.

In 1982, Iraq was dropped from the State Department's list of terrorist states. This allowed the Reagan and Bush administrations to supply Iraq with large quantities of weapons and essentially to pursue friendly relations with a dictator who they knew used chemical weapons. Again, it was not until the fall of 1990 that the Pentagon brought this atrocity to light, as war with Iraq was beginning to seem like a good idea. The Cold War had ended, the military needed an enemy to justify continued spending. Bush was going to lose the election – suddenly, Hussein is evil; he used chemical weapons.

What if he has them now? We have them too, don't we? Chemical weaponry is frightening, and all chemical and nuclear weapons should be abolished. But for the U.S. to condemn and perhaps bomb Iraq for maybe having them while we definitely do is hypocritical and wrong.

Saddam Hussein is another Hitler!

Saddam Hussein is not another Hitler. If anyone could be considered another Hitler, there are other, far more comparable candidates. The brutal Somoza regime of Nicaragua; Pol Pot, who directed the killing of over a million Cambodians; or the Suharto regime of Indonesia, which in 1965 slaughtered over one million Indonesians, and in 1972–75, invaded East Timor, wiping out over a third of the population of 800,000. The U.S. failed to intervene in any of these horrors — in fact, it supported them.

Michael Hinkley

This sentiment is a prime example of the power of the mainstream media/propaganda machine. Saddam Hussein is not another Hitler, bent on world domination. Saddam Hussein was likened to "another Hitler" by George Bush, in an effort to sell the war to the American people, who polls convincingly showed would not support a war over oil.

The strategy worked.

"Our own freedom is threatened if oil supplies fall into the hands of that one man, Saddam Hussein."

"The war is not about oil, it is about naked aggression."
— Former President Bush, Sept 6, 1990

"We're dealing with Hitler revisited."
— Former President Bush, Oct 23, 1990

In August 1990, 55 percent of Americans say the war is over oil.

On January 15, 1991, 29 percent of Americans say the war is over oil.

On January 17, 1991 war begins, and less than 20 percent of Americans say the war is over oil.

The purpose of this column is not to justify the horrible crimes against humanity that Saddam Hussein has committed; far from it.

Rather, its purpose is to raise questions concerning the true nature of U.S. intervention in Iraq, as well as the role of the media in supporting it. Do not blindly accept what Tom Brokaw tells you. Avoid "the media war whoops."

The purpose of raising these questions is that we might pause and reconsider our myth–based support for a mission that, if anything like the last, will result in the horrific deaths of hundreds of thousands of Iraqi innocents — men, women, and children.

Pause. Reconsider.

Michael Hinkley is a UMass student.

Batman Forever

It's a little sad, but I didn't even know who Bob Kane was until he died. I read his obituaries in various places though, and by the time I was done I felt that not only I, but all of America, owe Bob Kane a debt of gratitude. Bob Kane invented Batman.

In the 1930s, Kane suddenly had an epiphany. It occurred to him that one of Leonardo da Vinci's sketches looked a little like a bat, and thus the Dark Knight was born. (Of course, he wasn't the Dark Knight then but more on that later.) Batman made his debut in DC's Detective Comics in May of 1939, and the rest, as they sometimes say, is history.

"Batman was always more than just a semi–believable superhero, though — he was sort of a measuring device for the whole country."

Rob Schultze

Batman is a special character in comic books and indeed, in American history. He's the one superhero to whom anyone can relate. The other characters, they have superpowers, they are aliens, they're genetic mutants, or what have you. Or maybe they have magic rings or something.

But not Batman; the only thing special about him is the fact that he's rich, and what American doesn't aspire to be that someday? One day he decided that enough was enough and that he would do something about it. Putting aside the whole costume thing (the rationale for the costume was that it would scare the criminals of Gotham, who were widely known to be superstitious, although I have yet to hear of a superstition which involves a fear of bats) anyone could decide to do what Bruce Wayne did. But you probably couldn't wake up tomorrow morning and decide to be a native of Krypton or go inject yourself with Super Soldier Serum or anything like that. However, you could go beat up some thugs if you really wanted to, and if you were more built than you happen to currently be.

Batman was always more than just a semi–believable superhero, though — he was sort of a measuring device for the whole country. In his early years he wore blue and drove a wacky little stretch car called the Batmobile and stopped bank heists and things like that — common, everyday '50s entertainment. In the '60s he was paired with Robin and became totally kitschy, as reflected in the infamous TV show from that period, on which Bob Kane was an advisor. The era of love was almost as harmless as the villains he fought, who were rarely violent or even large–scale in their crimes. (Oh no! Mr. Freeze has stolen the crown jewels!)

Batman stayed like this until the '80s, when the old Dynamic Duo with their pastel uniforms no longer fit in. Then, in a country racked with drug problems, homelessness, and a rising crime rate, the Batman was reborn again to reflect the times. These were the origins of the modern Dark Knight: tortured, conflicted, and ominous, he had changed from the caped crimefighter to a brooding vigilante — and he was cool again.

The other characters changed as well. The Joker went from the Clown Prince of Crime to a homicidal maniac, and Robin was killed. In addition, the Batmobile became a flame–powered black missile of destruction. In the nineties, despite the blockbuster movies (which Bob Kane also had a hand in, at a very ripe old age), Batman was unpopular. He was supplanted by cooler, more violent heroes like Wolverine and Lobo, men with Stone Cold Steve Austin complexes — they didn't care about the law, they just wanted to kick some butt. In a time of cynicism and apathy, Bruce Wayne was paralyzed by Bane, and DC gave the people what they wanted, a new Batman who cut people up and broke the law... and the people hated it. Then the real Batman came back, questioning his morals and more than a little helpless to change the times, and he's still trying, as are we all.

Bob Kane, the man who gave us all this, never owned Batman. He never made a red cent off of any of the TV shows, movies, video games, or anything. He stayed with DC for 20 years before moving on to other things, but that doesn't even matter. On Nov. 3, of this year the world lost a man who provided America with one of its symbols, with something by which it could define itself, and with something which, above all, makes for really cool entertainment. Generations of Americans grew up with Batman, and most of them (like myself) never even heard of Bob Kane, but we all knew his idea, which may well turn out to be immortal.

Rob Schultze is a UMass student.

Write for ed/op!!!

Doonesbury BY GARRY TRUDEAU

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545-3500 • Fax (413) 545-1592 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor–in–Chief Position Vacant Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Laura Forster Developing Nations Editor
Mike Messarce Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elena Premack Co-Jewish Affairs Editor

Morgan Tobor Co-Jewish Affairs Editor
Heather Lei Guzzetta Multicultural Affairs Editor
Jill Carroll News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Sports Editor
Allana E. Todman Women's Issues Editor

Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Presnes Distribution Manager
Feisal Ahmad Marketing Manager

Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life, became the College Signal in 1901, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1956. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1994. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

The Master Race

Warning: your building may be taken over at any time by a Master Race of highly Intelligent, superhuman, unusually white, uncommonly bright students.

The price tag for this great privilege is only $10.8 million. In fact, increasing funds for the Master Race has been the way that many people spend their time here at UMass, using pseudoscience to falsely justify this expenditure for the presupposed "high achievers" of the Honors Program.

Let's face it, the Commonwealth College represents blatant fascist tendencies at the University. It excludes large populations of minority students (otherwise qualified to be enrolled) as it systematically seeks to prevent students from taking part in the decision–making process. Those of you in attendance at the "Informational Session" in Orchard Hill last week have gathered as much. Perhaps you've begun to realize the nefarious plot: to breed a Master Race of Honors students, to be contained in a laboratory–like setting, removed from the general student body. It can only be hypothesized that the end result of this plot will be to create a super–human student.

& Seth Diamond

And some of you will lose your home and your community as a sacrifice.

Let's look at the evidence. Residentially, the Commonwealth College seeks to "encourage but not require" freshmen to live on homogeneous hallways. What is left unstated is that those average clods who want to live in the nicest, most technologically advanced residence halls (after the renovations are completed) will be completely excluded. Standards of living must go up, they argue, obviously because the Master Race demands only the best.

But, the proposal is for "freshmen only" residence halls, which puts a special emphasis on the recruitment practices and admissions standards of the Commonwealth College. After all, just who are the few, the proud, the elite? Who will be "assisted to spread the culture of learning communities across campus"? More importantly, who will suffer because of this?

The proven reality of the situation is that SAT scores, one of the thresholds of admission into the Commonwealth College for graduating seniors from high school, have been time and time again proven to be racially and socio–economically biased. If you don't believe the studies, then check out the Honors Program's own data: only 9.2 percent of the freshman class of Honors students are AL/ANA students, and there is only a 35 percent participation rate in the Honors Program amongst eligible minority students.

However, SAT scores do not at all predict collegiate performance. The Master Race justifies its existence on the principle that it proclaims to work harder. In reality, what it does is use biased tests to judge performance. Then, it develops a "culture of learning" around those students falsely determined to be most worthy. Pseudoscience at its best, fair readers, do not be fooled.

The administration basically says Honors students exclusively deserve better living standards. They do not say this in words, of course, for that would implicate themselves on many moral and ethical grounds. No, instead they proclaim these truths, which they apparently hold as self–evident, by virtue of deeds. Orchard Hill, under the Commonwealth College proposal, is the only living area slated for complete renovation. When non–honors students dare to ask "Hey, guys, why not us?" we are told, "It's not our fault. The state legislature gave us the money for a Commonwealth College."

This much is true: the all–powerful state legislature did allocate the money specifically to build a Commonwealth College here at UMass. But do "average" students need to be sacrificed for the Master Race mentality that appears here?

The details of the proposal are the problem, and it is not even too late to fix them. The state definitely did not say that the average student should be displaced to make way for the Master Race.

What the hell is actually going on here? We wonder as the evidence accumulates. The skeptics out there will wonder just who this Master Race is, and where they got the idea they are so much more deserving than everyone else. A justified question, but in the end, the truth of the matter is that the Master Race proponents wouldn't be caught dead saying that they want to "breed a special race" of Honors students. And many Honors students themselves would feel repulsed by the notion. How has this been allowed to continue?

Point Counterpoint

Do not be fooled: students have had at best limited participation in the process of developing the details of the Commonwealth College. Don't second guess yourself: they definitely did not ask you what you thought, and they definitely don't care.

Of course, Honors students may react violently to the ideas presented in this column. This much is to be expected. The Master Race mentality: is strong, cunning, and often completely unnoticed on the part of those who believe the lies. But the truth is in the act, not in thoughts or intentions. People will suffer because of this "Commonwealth College."

Bron Tamulis and Seth Diamond are UMass students.

Don't knock it

Having attended the recent information session on the new Commonwealth College, we realized the large amount of bitterness and hostility that people have toward the idea. So, being capable and responsible residents of Field Residence Hall, we decided that it was our duty to defend the forthcoming institution.

Let us start by saying that we are honors students like many, but not all of the people living in Orchard Hill. Trust us, honors students are just like everyone else. We're just here going to classes, suffering through dining hall meals, and hanging out in the meantime. Putting many honors students together is not going to make them some sort of exclusive elitist group. This is not a Mount Olympus setup as some people claimed during the meeting; we don't feign to be or even want to be gods looking down on the rest of the student body as lowly peons.

Honors students are not sitting in their dorms, twisting their moustaches and hatching evil plans to take over the University. We don't want to take over the University; we just want to get a good education and the Commonwealth Honors College affords everyone an opportunity to do this. After all, that's why we're all here in the first place.

Let us now discuss how the Honors College will improve general education for everyone at the University.

Approximately 50 new honors courses will be offered by the new Commonwealth College while the size of the total student body will remain constant, and people not even in the program can take honors courses without restriction. Our extensive background in multi–variable calculus tells us that this means fewer people per class. Decreased class sizes and a better student to teacher ratio lead to better education for all students, to say nothing of the benefits of more extensive and more challenging courses.

Secondly, the new college will grant research scholarships to sophomores, juniors and seniors so they can do academic work rather than working part–time jobs. Such an opportunity not only enriches their education here at UMass but also provides valuable preparation for entry into the job market or into graduate school.

Lastly, the College will be funded entirely by money specifically allocated to the University by the generous Commonwealth of Massachusetts. No current university funds will be diverted away from other UMass resources to cover Honors College expenses.

& Ryan McCully

The matter of diversity or the supposed lack thereof in relation to the Honors College can also easily be put to rest. The University will still accept the same people as they do now; it's just that a certain number of these new students will have an honors distinction. Furthermore, putting honors students together does not decrease the overall diversity of the University or even the diversity of Orchard Hill. In fact, 11 percent of all honors students belong to AL/ANA; the percentage of AL/ANA students in the student body at large is only nine percent, as noted at the meeting by Art Keene, an Anthropology professor and member of the Commonwealth College administration. That is, the current Honors Program is actually more diverse than the rest of the University, not less. If these numbers still seem low to you — and we agree — then the problem should be taken up with the University Admissions policies and not pawned off as some evil of the Commonwealth College.

The last issue, which we feel is the most petty, but about which people feel the most adamant, is that of student relocation. The simple fact is that nobody will be forced out of Orchard Hill. Likewise, nobody will be forced to live in Orchard Hill. Incoming freshmen honors students will merely be encouraged to live in Orchard Hill, but they are free to live elsewhere.

Despite this fact, students who currently live in Orchard Hill are terrified that they might be forced to leave their current room assignments, and they view this as a fate worse than death. They argue that forcing people to live on any exclusive floor, such as an all honors floor or an all science floor et cetera, will limit the number of people they will meet. Of course, these are the same people who then turn around and say that they don't want to move and be forced to make new friends elsewhere because they already have many friends. Our question is: Do they want to meet new people or not?

Regardless of the answer, let us just say that you can't go through life never meeting another person again just because you already have friends. We hate to be the bearer of such bad news, but everyone is going to have to meet new people eventually, so get used to it.

In conclusion, we are reminded of the first thing that we saw upon our return from the havoc filled meeting. To silence any Joey Potter–like critics out there who might ask, "Why change something that already works?" We answer with the simple brilliance of Dawson from "Dawson's Creek": "Because it might work better."

Please, be open–minded and give the New Commonwealth College a chance. Don't condemn its ills without first reaping its fruits.

Adam Martignetti and Ryan McCully are UMass students.

Thoughts on anxiety

From time to time everyone experiences that nervousness and apprehension that we call anxiety. Sometimes it's very brief, but sometimes it lasts longer than we feel comfortable with. This kind of anxiety usually occurs after a crisis, be it an interpersonal or a familial crisis. Anxiety also occurs before an uncomfortable situation such as a test, a new intimate relationship or even an examination. Feelings of anxiety often occur during an acute period of stress such as a tragic circumstance. They can also occur during an argument.

Anxiety is generally a warn ng to ourselves that there is some danger, or some perceived danger, to our situation, but there are some positive aspects to anxiety. That warning to be on alert when it is appropriate is a good one, and most often feelings of anxiety are just a transient experience.

When anxiety lasts for more than a few weeks, it is perhaps more of a serious concern. Too much anxiety can lead to decreased concentration and increased irritability. It can lead to sleep onset delay problems or non–restorative sleep, as well as insomnia. In some situations, it has been known to affect and create stressful dreams which then affect our body, energy level and moods. Prolonged anxiety can exacerbate mild to strong preoccupation with things.

"The first and easiest thing to do is talk with others about your thoughts. This decreases your anxiety and sense of isolation."

Edward Bruce Bynum

Anxiety can cause increased concern about medical or physical health issues. It can also lead to an exaggeration of usually mild or vague social or family concerns. In some cases anxiety can lead to depressed appetite and weight loss or an excess weight gain due to excessive eating in an attempt to modulate your mood.

In a certain percentage of cases, anxiety can lead to serious depression. Symptoms include a loss of motivation and lethargy among other signs. Anxiety has been well known to lead to the avoidance of certain situations, interpersonal or social in nature. Eventually, isolation can result from extensive anxiety.

The causes or origins of anxiety are many. It is a largely medical condition. Thyroid difficulties, be they hyperthyroidism or hypothyroidism, are two of the more well–known medical reasons. However, acute stress reactions to actual events can also lead to persistent anxiety, even after the initial frightening episode. In addition, dysfunctional coping styles can also exacerbate anxiety: the well–known "fight or flight" response will sometimes be exaggerated and extended far beyond the normal response.

Many of you are well aware that in high school or at other times when there was a great deal of pressure and anxiety, athletics and other physical activities were outlets for this anxiety. However, as college students become involved with serious academic work without being physically active, anxiety and emotional tension may increase because they have no outlet. This is a rather common phenomenon on college campuses.

Also, on–going psychological conflicts with one's self or others can lead to prolonged instances of anxiety. Here the dynamics of anger and resentment — and sometimes shame and trauma — are at work. In some individuals there is a pervasive what we call "free floating anxiety," associated with one's personality. You may have heard this in the context of the type "A" personality. In some cases a poor diet and lack of regulated life patterns that are crucial can lead to prolonged anxiety. Certain situations where there is an excessive use of certain medications or drugs such as caffeine, nicotine, alcohol, or some mixture of these can also lead to persistent and pervasive anxiety.

It is important to know what to do under these circumstances. The first and easiest thing to do is talk with others about your thoughts. This decreases your anxiety and sense of isolation. Also it is extremely helpful to regulate your diet, get moderate exercise, and get a good amount of healthy sleep. Mini relaxations during the day are extremely helpful in staving off pervasive and unwanted anxiety. The use of meditation, prayer, and simply sitting quietly are exceedingly helpful in modulating most normal anxiety.

There are certain circumstances, in which anxiety, be it pervasive, persistent or sometimes extremely acute, warrant a consultation with a professional. The following are are twelve such occasions:

1) When anxiety interrupts your concentration for a week or more.

2) When sleep and appetite are disturbed for more than a week.

3) When physical illness or somatic preoccupation significantly decreases work, study, and interpersonal relationships.

4) When you are aware of an increased isolation from others, as well as increased irritability and a sense of depression.

5) When your mood seems to swing from one extreme to the other, although this may not be an indication of a psychiatric condition and may warrant a brief consultation.

6) When you have noticed an increased fear of going outside or traveling.

7) When an unshakable and prolonged depression arises, lasting two or more months.

8) When there is obsessive preoccupation with ideas or behaviors which are difficult to get rid of or dismiss.

9) When anxiety or panic attack occurs at least two or three times.

10) When bulimia or anorexia are present.

11) When persistent and/or recurrent thoughts of suicide or homicide occur with strong emotional force. Often images of self destruction occur.

When any of the above occur, a simple phone call to University Health Services or another counseling agency is warranted. At that point you should talk to a mental health professional who may consult with you or refer you directly to a physician or therapist for a more appropriate exploration of the situation.

Edward Bruce Bynum, Ph.D., is the Director of Behavioral Medicine at University Health Services.

Notes from the C.C. basement

I've had too much free time on my hands this week.

* * *

Let's talk about this character Jay–Z for a minute. "Can I get a what, what?" Did he forget the rest of the lyrics? I can see this turning into some sort of hip–hop Abbot and Costello routine.

"Can I get a what, what?"
"What?"
"No, what, what!"
"What, what?"
"That's right."
"What?"

Elsa Allen

* * *

My roommate Jenn thinks that they should make Kraft Macaroni and Cheese in character shapes that will appeal to the college market. She suggested the characters from 90210 but I think that this raises too many questions. Would it be the original cast? Should Scott Scanlon be included even though he offed himself in the second season? What about Nat?

As you can see, it would never work. Besides, it scares me to think of what Jason Priestly's hair would look like in pasta.

* * *

My roommate Julie has gone to see Dave Matthews two nights in a row. Jenn, being jealous at not having a ticket at all, said "Dave Matthews sucks anyway, I'd rather see Vanilla Ice."

He has a new album you know.

* * *

All this impeachment talk is beginning to drive me a little wacky. The man got a blow job; is it really necessary to spend countless hours and millions of dollars exposing the sordid nature of this "crime"? I know people that would give reports of equal caliber in five minutes for a 12–pack.

* * *

'Tis the season. The wreaths went up in the stores the day after Halloween, I've already seen all of the animated Christmas specials and my mother is polishing the menorah as we speak. I, however, am finding it rather difficult to get into the holiday spirit. I don't like crowded malls, I don't like fruitcake and elves give me the creeps. Ever notice how there's just something not quite right about elves? Maybe it's the curly shoes, maybe it's the hats, I just don't know.

* * *

I want to apologize to any seniors who have been reading my past columns. There are many positive things that I have learned here, skills I will be proud to bring with me out into the real world. Let me list a few.

I can now make macaroni and cheese without using milk or butter, and you would never know the difference.

I can tap a keg.

I have finally mastered the pre–registration phone system (I'm not quite sure how that will help me in the future, but I'm damn proud of it.)

I know all the words to every song

When you're feeling down, just make up a simple list like I have done, I'll bet you have more skills than you think.

* * *

I find it amusing when the campus police issue a composite sketch or a description of a suspect.

"The suspect, a Caucasian male, approximately 5'9", short brown hair, was last seen in the Southwest Residential Area wearing a white baseball cap, plaid shirt and khaki pants. If you can identify the suspect, please notify the department."

If you can identify him, it means you probably leave the house once in a while and catch a glimpse of the student body on this campus. Let's just hope no girls become suspects any time soon, It would be difficult to specify which type of flared leg jeans she was actually wearing.

* * *

I hope everyone has an enjoyable last week of classes, and a fabulous Holiday season. Be safe, be smart, and watch out for those elves. I hear they're pretty vicious.

Elsa Allen is a Collegian columnist.

"Descartes said: "I think therefore I am, but I wish I could write for Ed Op."

Jewel's Spirit, animated soundtracks and Method Man

COURTESY MATTHEW ROLSTEN

Jewel breaks out with some soul-searching on her new album Spirit.

SPIRIT
Jewel
Atlantic

Prior to the appearance of Pieces of You on Feb. 28, 1994, Jewel's record company put out a promotional-only disc featuring a track titled "God's Gift To Women." The song is a grunge-pop tune featuring Jewel on electric guitar and her skakoy and nasal vocal delivery.

After the eventual mega-success of the Pieces of You debut, which continued to spawn hit singles until fall of last year, the above mentioned song remains a gem. Would the raunchy and raw side of Jewel surface on her new album?

The powers that be and Jewel herself choose to let the sap flow freely on Spirit. She has a lot to say. Her book of poetry became a best-seller. This album presents 13 more pieces of poetry set to music produced by one-time Madonna collaborator Patrick Leonard. No mirror-ball moments on this one though.

Jewel does not take any chances on this release. It is an extremely safe and polished return to the spotlight. "Hands" is the song all over the radio right now. It is the album's most pleasant moment and in no way reveals the depths to which Jewel goes on this album. Spirit will no doubt catapult her further into the stratosphere of commercial success.

Basically self-indulgent mediocrity. One of the album tracks is about a fat boy and the secret bonut track is sung by Jewel's mother. Yikes. C- (Matthew Nixon)

Trax On Trax Off

DESIRE
Gene Loves Jezebel
Cleopatra

Gene Loves Jezebel has the right idea here. How do you get your fans who already have most of your songs to buy a greatest hits compilation? Remix them all.

Gene Loves Jezebel, the darkwave '80s rock group that found success alongside such contemporaries as Siouxie and the Banshees and The Cult, scored their biggest hit with "Desire." Desire: Greatest Hits Remixed presents us with two remixes of the top 40 hit, and other remixes of their best tunes by artists of today such as Mission UK ("Heartache"), Razed In Black ("Always a Flame"), Leather Strip ("Always a Flame), Rosetta Stone ("Josephina") and Love and Rockets' Kevin Haskins ("Killer Hurts"). Absolutely essential to both fans and newcomers to the band. A (Kevin Monahan)

ORGAZMO
Original Motion Picture Soundtrack
Nickelbag

CHEF AID
The South Park Album
American/Columbia

Before you think the "South Park" craze has gone too far (it went too far a long time ago, it's just starting to die down), take a listen to these albums that are hilarious in their own right. Well, they'll at least get some type of laugh out of you.

Trey Parker's zero-budget, pre-"South Park" film Orgazmo has a very eccelctic mix of artists contributing to it's Dust Brothers produced soundtrack. Cogasm's "A Sign From God" sounds like a cross between INXS and The Cure featuring Robert Smith on vocals. KRS-One's "Check it Out" is also featured, as is Wreck'N'Effect's "RumpShaker," but the best tracks are from Smashmouth (yes, Smashmouth) with "Sorry About Your Penis," Atari Teenage Riot's "Sex Law Penetration" and the contribution from Trey Parker and Matt Stone's band, DVDA (you don't want to know what it stands for!) "Now You're a Man."

Chef Aid supplies more laughs than the Orgazmo soundtrack, but there is only so much "South Park" that one can take. "Come Sail Away" performed by Eric Cartman and "Feel Like Making Love" performed are twisted but funny, and the tracks from Chef provide a few chuckles, but the best track on Chef Aid is definitely "Hot Lava" performed by DVDA with Perry Farrell on vocals.

Orgazmo: B, Chef Aid, B. (K.M.)

THE YELLOW ALBUM
The Simpsons
Geffen

This is not necessary. The show is funny. This album isn't. Makes a good holiday gift for your little cousin who still listens to "Do the Bartman." D (K.M.)

BLACK DATE
The Voluptuous Horror of Karen Black
Cleopatra

Gimmicky shock-rock, not much more. Much along the lines of Nashville Pussy. The Voluptuous Horror of Karen Black takes its white-trash rock to the masses. There's a topless photo of lead singer Kembra Inside, to hopefully make teenage boys buy it... Marilyn Manson's music is of higher quality. C- (K.M.)

PLEASANTVILLE
Music From the Motion Picture
Clean Slate/Work/Sony Music Soundtrax

The soundtrack to the movie Pleasantville is much like the movie itself: warm, pretty, but maybe just a shade too pleasant. The soundtrack is built mostly of old, restrained rock and roll such as Elvis Presley's "(Let Me Be Your Teddy Bear)" and Gene Vincent's "Be-bop-a-lula." The only new songs are two covers performed by Fiona Apple, "Please Send Me Someone To Love," which is rather warm, and "Across the Universe," which is such a wonderful song it is almost incapable of being ruined. Fiona Apple's soulful, detached delivery suits the song, although the surrounding production is mechanical and distant. And Fiona doesn't gain anything from being placed on the same album with

Turn to TRAX, page 7

ATTENTION: SCIENCE & ENGINEERING STUDENTS!

Thinking of an MBA?

Think Again...and Consider...
Thayer School of Engineering's

Master of Engineering Management Program

- Combine business management with engineering practice
- One year program (no thesis) for holders of B.S./B.E. degree
- Courses offered by the Thayer School of Engineering, the Amos Tuck School of Business and the Vermont Law School
- Design projects and industrial internships provided by high tech companies

The job market is strong for MEM graduates!

- 100% placement rate with leading national and international firms
- Starting salaries in the mid-sixties (range of $45,000-$100,000)

Financial aid and fellowships available

For More Information Contact:
Graduate Admissions Office
Thayer School of Engineering
Dartmouth College
8000 Cummings Hall
Hanover, NH 03755-8000
tel: (603) 646-2606
email: master-of-engineering-management@mac.dartmouth.edu
http//engineering.dartmouth.edu

THAYER SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING
DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

COURTESY FINE ARTS CENTER

Dr. Willie L. Hill Jr. has been named director of the Fine Arts Center at the University of Massachusetts and appointed to a faculty position in the department of music and dance. Cora B. Marrett, vice-chancellor for academic affairs and provost, lauded Hill's selection. She said: "His leadership skills and his national and international prominence will help the Fine Arts Center to build upon its current achievements and success."

■ trax

continued from page 6

more experienced, fuller voiced singers like Etta James.

The albums highlights are two famous, laid-back jazz numbers, Dave Brubeck's "Take Five" and Miles Davis' "So What" and Randy Newman's lush, nostalgic "Suite From Pleasantville."

The soundtrack is stuffed with good music, but there's nothing here that risks breaking your heart. It's a little too pleasant. B (Rob Roensch)

RZA AS BOBBY DIGITAL
RZA
Gee Street

The most complicated aspect of this album is the man who made it. Since Prince Rakeem and his comrades resurrected hip-hop in 1993, Wu-Tang's founding father of funk-induced electronic fusion and multi-versatile deity of sound has been somewhat of a behind-the-scenes warlord. Although the RZA is Wu's acknowledged heart and backbone, lyrically he tends to save himself and let his brethren shine. Once in awhile he'll bless us with fantastic solo joints like "The Chase" from the Bulworth Soundtrack or "Tragedy" from Rhyme and Reason and when he does, we are usually left with an eerie craving for more. More grimy, speech-impaired slang, more dark, twisted thoughts... more! However, on his latest release Bobby Digital, we are left wanting less. Although his production is still some of the most revolutionary material in all of music, his vocal prowess throughout is unbalanced and at times awkward. Despite the raunchy, explicit nature of his rhymes, he rarely paints a profound concept or draws from the scientific dungeons of his Rzarector/Gravediggaz persona. Many verses and choruses alike are stumbled upon with an awkwardness that was once inconceivable for him. "Domestic Violence" is a prime example, where RZA looses his throbbing style of rhythm and begins screaming into the mic with sporadic rhymes. In "Kiss of the Black Widow" the memorizing beat is lost by guest star ODB and Bobby's uneven flow. Many songs are similar. The albums finest moments are on "Holocaust" where the sonic, melodic track glows with uninhibited luster and "Hand Writing on the Wall" where Rats Kass ferociously flips an acapella-like verse with a sweet piano background. Overall, the portions of brilliance are far out-weighed by the cumbersome vocals and unpolished effort... and for Wu-Tang, that is inexcusable. C+ (David Katzoff)

TICAL:2000 JUDGEMENT
Method Man
Def Jam

When T2: Judgement Day was scheduled to drop, I rushed to Strawberries in Hadley to get an early copy. Much to my chagrin, it was pushed back. Two years later, Strawberries doesn't even exist and Method Man finally got around to releasing his sophomore album, now called Tical 2000. I guess his philosophy was... put 27 tracks on the CD and people will forgive. Hardly. So when you listen, bring a thick filter for your ears. If you can sift out the nonsensical garbage that clings to the disk, then this is a quite an enjoyable piece of rap music. The Tical Stallion calls on nine different producers and 16 guest stars to compile the songs and the result is often spellbinding. "Perfect World" is the kick-off joint with an evil RZA rhythm and a dark theme. "Dangerous Grounds" is a complete and fist-pounding adventure produced by True Master. "Sweet Love" is delightfully pornographic and drenched with a dope background. The albums finest and most disappointing moment is on "Shoalin What?" which is a sonic and complex melody produced by 4th Descriptile. The only problem is that it is far too short.

Meth's writing ability and lyrical delivery is at its prime right now and he is operating at a pinnacle level of potency. On "Torture" he flexs his confidence and inadvertently stakes his claim of being hip-hops top emcee. An additional treat is the re-emergence of Street Life who proves that he can flex his vocals as well as any of the Wu's background henchmen. Street appears on the majority of the tracks such as "Grid Iron Rap," where he and Meth pass the mic like quarterbacks and "Play IV Keeps," which features Mobb Deep and Inspectah Deck. (Prodigy delivers one of his most poignant verses ever.) "Party Crasher" is an ill club-scene/story for the '90s, with a horn-driven beat that swells the temple. Despite the constant overkill of "Johnny Blaze" talk, the weak links like "Retro Godfather", "Judgement Day" and many annoying skits, this album was in fact worth the wait. On the whole, Shaolin's most infamous character has returned with a stellar work of merit. A- (D.K.)

COURTESY BOB MEYER

The soundtrack to Orgazmo, a film from the creators of "South Park," is sure to provide some comic relief.

Do you like jazz or blues?

The Arts & Living desk is currently looking for a writer to continue a JAZZ/BLUES WEEKLY column. No writing experience is necessary, but is preferred.

We are also looking for 1–2 more column ideas for next semester, as well as new writers to cover music, film, fine arts, books and more.

For more information, come down to 113 Campus Center, or call 545-1361 and ask for Bryan or Kevin.

PART TIME TELLER POSITION

Florence Savings Bank is currently seeking candidates for a part-time teller position. The successful candidate will be responsible for operating a teller window to handle a wide variety of customer transactions in a courteous, professional manner, while adhering to Bank policies and procedures.

Applicants should possess a high school diploma or the equivalent, customer service experience, prior cash handling experience, strong communication and interpersonal skills, and computer experience.

Florence Savings Bank offers a competive salary and outstanding benefit package. A sampling of benefits includes:
* Medical Insurance
* Dental Insurance
* Life Insurance
* 401(k) Plan
* Pension Plan
* Profit Sharing
* Paid Vacation

If you are interested in becoming part of the FSB team, please forward your resume, or apply in person to: Human Resources Assistant, Human Resources Department, Florence Savings Bank, 85 Main Street, P.O. Box 60700, Florence, MA 01062-0700. Florence Savings Bank is an Equal opportunity Employer and encourages diverse candidates to apply for this position. No phone calls, please.

Wednesday Night
Steve & Greg Asadoorian
"UMass' Greatest Acoustic Duo Playing your Favorite Tunes From the 60's & 70's today"
"UB2B"
10-12 PM.
Win tickets to Patriots game vs. San Fransisco on Dec. 20th. Compete at Foxboro for Superbowl Tickets!!!
NO COVER BEFORE 10PM
Boodsuckers
THE PUB
amherst
Over 40 Hand Crafted Beers
15 East Pleasant Street • Amherst

Collegian Graphics DAY NIGHT

NOW HIRING

No experience necessary WE WILL TRAIN YOU.

We use QuarkXPress and Photoshop come down to the Campus Center Basement and fill out an application. any questions call 545-1864 and ask for joe

NOW HIRING

Experience is preferred for this design oriented job.

Knowledge of QuarkXPress, Adobe Photoshop and Illustrator is preferred.

come down to the Campus Center Basement and fill out an application.

any questions call 545-1864 and ask for dave parmenter

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS COURTESY UCONN MEDIA RELATIONS

Let's get ready to rumble

UMass' Lari Ketner [left] and UConn's Jake Voskhul [right] will go head to head tonight in the paint when the No. 1 ranked Huskies visit the Mullins Center.

An inside look at the UMass/UConn game

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Massachusetts and its fans are fretting and feeling thankful, by turns, over the prospect of playing No. 1 Connecticut tonight.

For the slumping Minutemen, the basketball game holds the hope of quick resurrection — or the danger of a deeper, especially mortifying fall from grace at the hands of their biggest regional rival.

Connecticut must worry a bit too. It will be playing what Husky coach Jim Calhoun calls "a wounded tiger" potentially spurred by envy of its neighbor's good fortunes this season.

"I'm a New England guy," Calhoun said yesterday. "To ignore the fact that the border war did exist would be foolish on our part."

Shorn of its No. 23 ranking, Massachusetts has lost to three unranked teams in a row since its opening victory. Most of all, it needs to duck any major embarrassment against the fleet, high-pressure lineup of Connecticut [6-0].

"As a coach, you want to schedule as many wins as possible, but we've always had a reputation of playing anyone, anytime, anywhere," said Massachusetts coach Bruiser Flint, sounding wary.

An upset, of course, would be doubly satisfying. It would catapult Massachusetts back into prominence and earn the team more respect as a serious regional rival to Connecticut.

For the first time since their suspended rivalry resumed three seasons ago as the "U-Game," Connecticut is visiting the Minutemen's home turf.

For the Huskies, a victory here would nicely rankle partisans who insist unaccountably that the unranked Minutemen remain a national force and face tougher conference competition.

The history of the direct rivalry gives Connecticut the edge. Since 1904, it holds a 62-58 lead. The Minutemen last won 15 years ago.

"I don't think UConn fans look at it as a rivalry so much as a chance to quiet the UMass fans down," said Michael Dreimiller, a former UConn student who now runs a Web site on Husky sports. He said the two teams "missed the bubble" when they went their own ways during the top 10 days of Massachusetts under coach John Calipari.

But in that era, the Minutemen first established themselves as a major force when they trounced another No. 1 team, Arkansas, in 1994. The memory elevates hopes for today.

Massachusetts guard Monty Mack said he intends to play "like it's the last game of the season."

"I love to play against the best," he said.

Flint says his team must execute crisply and rebound aggressively on offense. He wants to play measured, half-court basketball.

Calhoun says Massachusetts is more physical. He hopes to turn the game into "a track meet" and avoid "an arm-wrestling contest."

Voicing due respect before the game, he predicted that the Minutemen will return to the rankings later this season.

But he could not resist a tweak when asked if he regretted missing competition with Massachusetts when the team was at its peak in the Calipari era.

"We still are," Calhoun said. "We've been good for the past decade."

BEAT UCONN!!

GOT GIFTS?

Need Help?
Look for these handy signs to get some great ideas!
Only at UStore!

WE GIVE 100% to the UMass fund profits to support University programs

SEVEN GREAT SHOPS ONE GREAT STORE
In the UMass Campus Center
Open 9 to 5 M-F
11 to 4 Sat.
413 - 545 - 2619

What Are Your Plans This Summer?

- Breaking your back for a low wage?
- Being locked into a monotonous schedule?

Are you ready to take your adventurous spirit, hard work ethic, and natural leadership skill to the next level?

Would you like to run your own business someday?

University Painters is not just a painting business. Our managers create a business plan, develop and implement a marketing campaign, lead a group of twelve employees, and manage all financial functions. These are skills that you could have on your resume along with making $7000 - $10,000 this summer.

University Painters is now recruiting student managers for Massachusetts and Connecticut. We will be conducting 1st interviews at UMass tomorrow and Friday, December 10th and 11th. For more information see www.univpaint.com or www.jobtrak.com listing # 353094

Don't Let Another Summer Slip By.
Call Today to Schedule an Appointment 1-800-390-4848 ext. 100

Age means little to the Arizona Diamondbacks

PHOENIX (AP) — The Arizona baseball franchise is young. The team isn't.

After their $118.9 million free-agent splurge over the past month, the Diamondbacks are loaded with 30-somethings.

The projected starting lineup on opening day has five players over 32 and an average age of 30 years, 2 1/2 months. The only youngsters are first baseman Travis Lee, 23 and shortstop Tony Batista, 25.

Then there's the pitching rotation. Randy Johnson is 35, Todd Stottlemyre turns 34 next May 20, Armando Reynoso will be 33 on May 1, Andy Benes is 31, Reliever Greg Swindell, another free agent acquisition, will be 34 on Jan 2.

Some would call them old. The Diamondbacks prefer the term mature.

"I look at them as mature, veteran players who have been around the track and bring leadership and maturity to a young franchise," team owner Jerry Colangelo said.

In baseball, players can stay in the game longer, said Colangelo, who also owns the NBA's Phoenix Suns.

"When you look at the age of baseball players in their 30s, it's really a lot different than NBA players in their 30s," he said. "Longevity is much more of a factor in baseball than it is in the NBA, where the time span is really cut short."

Many of the older Arizona players are signed to long-term contracts. The Diamondbacks are taking a calculated risk these players can win big over the next four years, until youngsters in the team's minor league system will be ready to take over.

"If you were going to look in the sky and say how does this play out," Colangelo said. "You take a run over the next four years, and by that time the pipeline should be ready to really come with your minor league players."

The minor league supply should be bolstered next year, when Arizona has three of the top 40 picks in the amateur draft. Those players might be ready for the big leagues in 2002 or 2003. Even before the free agent binge, the Diamondbacks had several older players.

Third baseman Matt Williams is 33. Second baseman Jay Bell turns 33 this week. Left fielder Bernard Gilkey is 32.

All had sub-par years last season. Williams had a bunch of nagging injuries. Bell was under the pressure of a big contract. Gilkey had eyesight problems since corrected by laser surgery. Past their prime? All three say no.

So does center fielder Steve Finley, who signed a $21.5 million, four-year deal this week and will be the oldest man in the Diamondbacks outfield at 34.

He blamed his season-low .249 average with San Diego this year on foot surgery after the 1997 season. He's fine now, he said, and ready to return to his old form.

Players who stay in the game into their 30s know what it takes, Finley said.

DiMaggio back in better condition

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Joe DiMaggio made a dramatic turnaround from a serious lung infection just after doctors told his family and friends to prepare for the worst.

"We called the family because, frankly, we thought we were getting down to the last road," Dr. Earl Barron said yesterday in an interview with The Associated Press. "Today, there's a little more hope."

DiMaggio, recovering from lung cancer surgery, fought off a 102-degree fever, pneumonia in his good lung and an intestinal infection that developed during the weekend.

His condition was so grim at that time that doctors gathered DiMaggio's family, including his brother, Dom, and even discussed signing a "do not resuscitate" form for the 84-year-old Hall of Famer.

"We talked about that, but they did not feel comfortable with that," Barron said.

The former New York Yankees center fielder has shown a remarkable ability to fight back from several serious setbacks since the cancerous tumor was removed from his right lung on Oct. 14.

"He's going to be here a lot longer," Barron said. But he also cautioned: "Don't walk out of here and say 'Joe DiMaggio's in great shape.' Everything is relative. You and I are in good shape. He's hanging in there."

His improvement began after doctors inserted a tube into DiMaggio's trachea on Monday to suction the infected material.

"He perked up immediately," Barron said.

Barron denied a broadcast report that DiMaggio had lapsed into a coma.

"His level of consciousness has been down because he was sedated. But he is not in a coma. He is up and moving and opening his eyes," he said.

DiMaggio entered Memorial Regional Hospital Oct. 12, with Barron heading a team of six doctors treating him.

Since his surgery, he has suffered recurring pneumonia in his left lung. Besides treatment with three antibiotics, he also has had fluid drained from his lungs several times. His blood pressure dropped so rapidly on Nov. 16 that a Catholic priest was summoned to administer last rites.

The past weekend was particularly frightening.

"I thought he was near death," said friend and attorney Morris Engelberg. "We're playing this day-by day. Today is good. Tomorrow, who knows?"

Even if DiMaggio is eventually discharged from the hospital, he will never have the same quality of life, Engelberg said.

"Machines are keeping him alive. He's been in the ICU for 58 days. He's got every hookup known to man. He's being fed through tubes," Engelberg said. "If he recovers, he won't be the same. He'll never have the quality of life he did."

Barron refused to speculate on whether DiMaggio would ever leave the hospital.

"He could go sour in five minutes and he could walk out of the hospital six weeks from now. I would certainly not want to predict," he said.

Doctors anticipate other problems and must treat any complications as they occur, Barron said.

"They've done a sensational job with him. I don't think he could have gotten better care," Barron said. "The proof of it is when he walks out of the hospital, God willing."

Barron, who has treated DiMaggio for five years, is keenly aware of why so many people admire his patient.

"He's an icon. He's an amazing person. He's the greatest player that ever played," Barron said, sitting in an office filled with baseball, football, hockey and basketball memorabilia.

"He may not have hit 70 home runs, but he did just about everything else," he said. "I lose an awful lot of sleep. I'm constantly thinking about it and discussing it with my peers."

No All-Star Game hurts Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When the NBA abandoned its Feb. 14 All-Star game yesterday, the cost to Philadelphia was an estimated $35 million.

NBA commissioner David Stern notified May Edward Rendell of the decision, leaving hotels, restaurants and other businesses scrambling to recoup lost revenue.

"We certainly hope to make up the business, but there's no guarantee," said Wendy Reismen of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in downtown Philadelphia. "Obviously, we were counting on this revenue."

This is the first year since 1951 the showcase game will not be held. The announcement was expected given that the lockout threatens to wipe out the entire season, and in the event of a sudden settlement the players would need weeks to practice.

A hint of the cancellation came with the earlier decision to scrap the NBA Jam Session, a four-day interactive fan event scheduled for the Pennsylvania Convention Center on Feb. 11. Stern promised to return the All-Star game to Philadelphia as soon as possible, which would be 2002.

About 5,500 rooms were booked leading to the game at First Union Center. That alone was expected to bring in about $3 million, said J. Mickey Rowley, executive director of the Greater Philadelphia Hotel Association.

"And you can probably double that amount when you include associated revenue, such as meals," Rowley said.

The Ritz-Carlton was one of 18 area hotels with contracts with the league. Reismen said her hotel lost "hundreds of thousands" since about 80 percent of their 290 rooms had been booked.

About 175 of the 193 rooms at the Sheraton Rittenhouse Square were reserved from Friday to Sunday of All-Star Weekend for media members, said the hotel's director of sales, Bruce Hamlin.

"We will be a bit luckier than most other hotels," Hamlin said. "We had TV and radio crews staying here who canceled weeks ago because they knew this would happen."

In anticipation of the cancellation, tourism officials began working on a marketing blitz weeks ago. Meryl Levitz, president of the Greater Philadelphia Tourism Marketing Corp, said the ads will try to lure couples to the area for Valentine's Day weekend.

Fans had already been turned off at sporting goods stores by the lockout. Many retailers in the Philadelphia area said they never bothered to order All-Star game paraphernalia.

"We would have booked some shirts, but with the impending lockout, we didn't," said Dan Newell, manager of Wayne Sporting Goods Co. in nearby Delaware County.

Newell said NBA items are usually popular during the Christmas season, "but we hardly get any request for it right now."

Patriots fans rally behind their team

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — They came about 600 strong, some wearing New England Patriots caps and jerseys, nearly all shouting the cheers of die-hard sports fans anxious for a team to move to Connecticut.

But hours before the whoops and chants at a Hartford Civic Center rally yesterday, Gov. John G. Rowland was putting a positive spin on a poll that shows much more tempered support for the state's offer to build the Patriots a $375 million stadium. And on the eve of a day-long public hearing to discuss the deal to move the team from suburban Boston, lawmakers said they were fielding calls from taxpayers opposed to the deal.

The pros and cons may clash head-on at today's hearing, which comes a week before the General Assembly votes on the plan. Slightly more than half of the Connecticut residents surveyed in a Quinnipiac College poll released Monday said they want the Patriots in their state. But many say the deal is too sweet for the team.

The poll found the deal supported by 51 percent of respondents, while 39 percent were opposed. Twenty-eight percent of people surveyed said they strongly favor the plan, and 23 percent were somewhat in favor of it.

But pollsters also found that many people believe the proposal gives too much away to Patriots owner Robert Kraft. Forty-nine percent of people polled said the deal was too generous, while 51 percent disagreed. Twenty percent were undecided.

Happy Holidays

BUCCI HAIRCUTS always $10.
25 n pleasant st amherst 256.0733
145 main st northampton 586.0155

Buy your railpass before 99 and save!
Cheap tickets. Great advice. Nice people.
Think Spring Break! Book now and save!
70% OFF great gear!
Eurailpasses issued on the spot!
Council Travel
CIEE: Council on International Educational Exchange
44 Main Street, Amherst [413]-256-1261

CAREER OPPORTUNITY
DUE TO OUR RAPID GROWTH, EXPANSION AND PROMOTIONS, WE CURRENTLY HAVE THE FOLLOWING OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE:
PROFESSIONAL VEHICLE SALES CONSULTANT
Compensation: Salary plus commission & bonus
Candidates must:
- Be able to operate a normally equipped vehicle;
- Have a valid drivers license, accept able driving record;
- Be able to read and write English (at or above high school level);
- Be honorable
- Prior sales experience desireable.
We offer top compensation and a strong benefit package that includes:
- Medical and Dental Insurance Available
- Paid Holidays, Vacation, and Sick Leave
- Training and Advancement Opportunities
- Excellent Working Conditions
- Full Two Week Training!
- Recognition for a Job Well Done!
- Split shifts - 40 hour work week
A management team committed to excellence, growth and client satisfaction.
For more information or to submit an application, please visit 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays or send your resume or letter of application to:
Bill Richard, Gen. Sales Manager
(NO PHONE CALLS PLEASE)
NORTHAMPTON TOYOTA

Party.
ZANNA
downtown Amherst

SHOPPING FOR PRICE?
YANKEE
- DISCOUNT OIL -
NORTHAMPTON / HOLYOKE
584-4112 • 535-1888
• SAME DAY DELIVERY •

American Heart Association.
Fighting Heart Disease and Stroke
Start to Finish Heart Disease
©1995, American Heart Association

ATTENTION COLLEGE STUDENTS:
Earn college credits during your winter break!
Wintersession:
- January 4-15
- One & Two week courses
- Classes guaranteed to run
- Classes available days and evenings
Art, Biology, Criminal Justice, Education, English, Geography & Regional Planning, Management, Movement Science, Music, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Women's Studies, Credit-Free Computer Courses
Call (413) 572-5224 for registration information
Westfield STATE COLLEGE
www.dgce.wsc.mass.edu
DIVISION OF GRADUATE AND CONTINUING EDUCATION
WESTERN AVENUE • WESTFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS

OOPS!
• Free Estimates
• Lifetime Warranty
• Auto Glass Replacement
• Car & Truck Rental
North Amherst Motors
Collision Repair Center (On bus route - one mile from UMass)
78 Sunderland Road, North Amherst, MA 549-2880

amc
Hampshire 8 - 584-7550
Hampshire Mall
Mt. Farms 6 - 586-9133
Mt. Farms Mall
HOME FRIES (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:20 @ 52.50) 8:20
BABE: PIG IN THE CITY (G) Today at (5:30 @ 52.50) 8:10
MEET JOE BLACK (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (4:30 @ 52.50) 8:00
ENEMY OF THE STATE (R) Today-Thurs at (5:00 @ 52.50) 8:10
WATERBOY (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:50 @ 52.50) 8:30
RUGRATS (G) Today-Thurs at (6:00 @ 52.50) 8:40
BUG'S LIFE (G) Today-Thurs at (5:50 @ 52.50) 8:20
PLEASANTVILLE (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:20 @ 52.50)
I STILL KNOW WHAT YOU DID LAST SUMMER (R) Today-Thurs at (5:40 @ 52.50) 8:20
PSYCHO (R) *Today-Thurs at (5:30 @ 52.50) 8:10
THE SIEGE (R) Today-Thurs at 8:00

FREE GIFT
Champion
I.D. KEY RING
(EMBOSSED LEATHER)
BUY $40.00 WORTH OF CHAMPION™ WOMEN'S APPAREL AND HOPEFULLY NEVER LOSE YOUR KEYS AGAIN.
GET YOURS TODAY!
COLLEGIATE Castals™
UMass Clothing for Everyone™
*Offer good while current supplies last.
A division of University Store
In the UMass Campus Center
9 to 5 Mon. - Fri.
11 to 4 Saturday
413-545-2910

Collegian Classifieds

113 Campus Center — University of Massachusetts • Phone: (413)545-3500 Fax: (413)545-1592

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Take Over My Lease 1 bedroom, Puffton Village. Nicely furnished. Available Feb 1. $570. Call 549-0316.

Take Over Our Lease One bedroom apartment on bus line. Rent is $450 - Starting Jan 1. Call Tim 256-8852.

2 Bedroom Puffton Village. Renovated. Starting Jan 1. 549-7105.

WinterSession: Huge 2 bedroom, 5 miles away, Sunderland. $550. 546-5072 or 546-2793.

Take Over My Lease Amherst Town Studio. Hot water. $440. 253-1708.

1 bedroom apt on Main St. $475. Utilities included. Call 253-7328.

Take Over My Lease Dec 25. 2 bedroom in Puffton. Call 549-2873.

New Puffton Village- Rent starting at $570. Includes heat, hot water, and cooking gas. DSS satellite and cable ready. On-site parking and laundry. Near UMass. On bus line. One, two, and three bedrooms. Call 549-0145 now.

Brandywine Apartments 1 and 2 bedroom apartments available. 1/4 mile from campus. Dec or Jan 1. Call 549-0600.

Lantern Court (Sunderland)- 2 bedroom. Close to bus stop. $550. Call 665-6705.

AUTO FOR SALE

VW Jetta 88 Blue, 5 speed, tinted glass, runs and looks good. $1800 or B/O. Must sell! Call Will 549-6659.

92 Subaru Loyale Wagon 103K, 4WD, air, tape deck, many new parts. $4495/BO. Must sell. 259-1750.

Toyota Camry 88 Standard. $1700 or B/O. 549-8773.

AUTO FOR SALE

Honda Accord 83 Good condition. 177K miles. Needs rear brake work. Asking $1000. Call 549-3878.

88 Ford Taurus V6, 93K, automatic, station wagon, power steering, cruise, A/C, power windows, new tires, tune-up. $2200 or B/O. martin.reeker@ps.ge.com or (518)385-0196 9a.m.-4p.m.

Great Winter Car 4x4 1990 Tracker. Excellent condition. New tires. $3399. 256-0509.

WANTED: Toyotas, Novas, Prizms, Sentras. Any condition. Cash paid everyday. 1-800-649-4795.

EMPLOYMENT

Cashiers PT/FT, All Shifts. Full-Time Benefits include 401K, Health, Dental, and Vacation. Please apply in person. Dairy Mart, 259 Triangle St., Amherst, MA.

Best Winter Break Job In The Valley! Get paid to make a difference! Earn $300+ a week fighting air and water pollution. Leadership development seminars offered free to staff. CLEAN WATER ACTION 584-9830.

SUMMER MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITY
Where are you working during the SUMMER OF '99?
College Pro, a $25 million company, seeks highly motivated college students from New England to manage a service business. Summer earnings average $8-10K+ per manager. Internship credit possible. If you are a goal-oriented leader searching for the right opportunity, call for an application and information to be sent by mail. Leave your name, school address, and phone # on the automated voicemail system at: (617)576-6833 ext 124.

EMPLOYMENT

CAREER OPPORTUNITY

DUE TO OUR RAPID GROWTH, EXPANSION, AND PROMOTIONS, WE CURRENTLY HAVE THE FOLLOWING OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE:

PROFESSIONAL VEHICLE SALES CONSULTANT

Compensation:
Salary plus commission & bonus

Candidates must:
- Be able to operate a normally equipped vehicle.
- Have a valid drivers license, accept able driving record.
- Be able to read and write English (at or above high school level).
- Be honorable
- Prior sales experience desirable.

We offer top compensation and a strong benefit package that includes:
- Medical and Dental Insurance Available
- Paid Holidays, Vacation, and Sick Leave
- Training and Advancement Opportunities
- Excellent Working Conditions
- Full Two Week Training!
- Recognition for a Job Well Done!
- Split shifts: 40 hour work week

A management team committed to excellence, growth and client satisfaction

For more information or to submit an application, please visit 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays or send your resume or letter of application to:

Bill Richard, Gen. Sales Manager
(NO PHONE CALLS PLEASE)

NORTHAMPTON TOYOTA LINCOLN MERCURY
200 King St. (Rte. 5) Northampton
Equal Opportunity Employer

Summer Job/Internship- Mass. Firm seeking FRESH, SOPH, or JR. Earn $8,500 for the summer. Seeking aggressive go-getter with strong history of past work experience. For information & prelim. interview on campus with student who worked in the position last summer, call 1-800-658-3841 ext 100.

TUTORS
Bilingual Tutors for part-time, paid assistance to students speaking Amharic, Chinese, Khmer, Portuguese, Serbo Croatian, Vietnamese. Contact ESL/Bilingual Office at 413-549-9857. Amherst Public Schools An Affirmative Action/ Equal Opportunity Employer.

EMPLOYMENT

WINTER BREAK JOBS
Abt Associates can offer you a position as a RESEARCH INTERVIEWER. We require a minimum of 20 hours per week, including 1 weekend shift and offer flexible scheduling options. We start our interviewers at $6.25/hr and pay an additional 10% for weekend work. If you can meet our requirements and want to know more, call Paul Bebo (413)587-1605 or, see our Recruiting Coordinator at our table in the Campus Center Concourse on Dec. 10, 1998 from 9am.-1pm.

FOR SALE

Full-Size Bed $150, Bureau $20, Oesk $10. Call Steve 585-8259.

Nintendo 64 3 controllers, 7 games + memory pack. $200. Call Brian 253-6627.

27" Samsung Stereo TV with universal remote. 2 years old, perfect condition, hardly used. Cost $375 new, $200. 549-5979.

Silence Snowboard- 152cm., never used. $150/BO. Call Adam 253-9776.

GREEK AFFAIRS

Sigma Delta Tau would like to congratulate its newest sisters: NaEema, Jackie, Jennifer, Brooke, Amy G., Ryanne, Ali, Kate, Courtney, Stacy, Shushanna, Morgan, Amy S., & Amy T.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Holiday Party
When: 12/10 from 6-7:30
Where: 32 Nutting Ave.
Any questions?
Call Julie at 549-2646.
All Freshmen and Sophomore Women are Welcome!

Congratulations to our NEW SISTERS: Jana, Allyson, Erica, Liberte, Anna, Holly, Julie A., Jen, Kendrah, Julie R., and Alana. Love The Sisters of Delta Zeta

GREEK AFFAIRS

Congratulations to our NEW SISTERS: Jana, Allyson, Erica, Liberte, Anna, Holly, Julie A., Jen, Kendrah, Julie R., and Alana. Love The Sisters of Delta Zeta

HEALTH & BEAUTY

We're here to pump... YOU UP! Creatine Monohydrate, Creatine Surge, DHEA, Whey Protein and more from Fitness Workshop delivered right to your door. 1-877-FIT-WORK. www.fitnessworkshop.com

HOUSE FOR RENT

Summer Rentals Cape Cod Group Summer Rentals. Some waterfront houses, some with swimming pools. Falmouth area. Call Diamond Real Estate 1-508-477-1900.

INSTUCTION

Keep Busy During Break Work off holiday pounds and have fun taking KICKBOXING LESSONS. One-on-One training with a U.S.K.B.A. licensed kickboxer. Call Joe @ 548-8979.

CARDIO KICKBOXING Amherst Athletic Club. Train with the pros! 256-0080.

MISCELLANEOUS

Need a unique holiday gift? Try a handmade teddy bear! Call Kelly 253-2654.

PETS FOR SALE

Rabbit Rescue has a lovely selection of bunnies. Many colors and types as well as a selection of cages and hutches. We can also help with any bunnies you can no longer care for. Call Ellen at 367-0105.

ROOM FOR RENT

Looking for female for one room in house. Close to campus. Jan or Feb 1 to May 31. $250 a month. 549-1192.

3 bedrooms for rent on Main St. $375, all inclusive. At bus stop. Recently renovated. Call Jesse at 256-1928.

ROOM FOR RENT

Lambda Chi Alpha, located at 374 North Pleasant Street, has rooms available for rent over WinterSession. Call 549-7759 for more information.

Live In Brandywine
1 room available in two bedroom apt. On bus route. Utilities included. Call Melissa ASAP at 549-7851.

Nutting Ave.
1 minute walk to campus. I need to rent my room in 6 bedroom house for Spring. 549-8742.

Salem Place- 1 bedroom in 2 floor condo. 2 1/2 baths, fully furnished, carpeted, deck, basement storage. On bus route. Late Dec/Spring. Call John 256-0842.

Near Campus on Nutting Ave. Available Jan 1st. Call 549-9135.

Take Over My Lease! Jan-July '98. Moving to California in two weeks & need to find someone. 1 bedroom in 2 bedroom apt. Furnished, spacious, & clean. $345, all inclusive + electric= @$15 per month. Awesome place, awesome roommate staying. Bus drops you off four doors from your own. Call Lori or Daniel @ 665-4149 till 11:30 at night.

North Amherst 3 bedroom apt. On bus route across from Town Houses. Space can be shared. Two cool roommates are easy-going. Starting Jan 1st. Call Joe at 549-5596.

One nice room available in a four bedroom Alpine Commons apartment. Move in Jan 1 or possibly earlier. Two full bathrooms. On bus line. Great roommates! Apartment is fully furnished with the exception of the bedroom. $314.50/month. ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED! Please call Jenny at 253-2050 ASAP.

ROOM FOR RENT

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom. Brandywine. For Spring/late December. Call Jeremy 549-6955.

Quiet Setting Kitchen privileges, laundry, parking, non-smoking. $335. 549-4853.

ROOMMATE WANTED

$180 a month for room in a cozy 4 bedroom house. 2nd bedroom available for $250. Seeking friendly mature roommates. Woodsy location. Deck overlooking large back yard. 2 dogs. Close to bike trail and bus route. 5 miles from Amherst. Call Amy or Sheldon 253-4826.

Female to share 2 bedroom apt in NoHo. Available 1/1. $275/month. 1st/last/security. Call Rachel 586-4426. No pets.

Grad woman needs roommate (Grad woman or mature Undergrad) for Spring Semester to share modern/luxury 3 level townhouse condo on bus line less than one mile from campus. Totally furnished; two large bedrooms; deck; laundry in unit; basement storage! Much more! Only $300/month + utilities. Call Monica (413)549-4808.

Three rooms opening ASAP in large 5 bedroom house in Hadley. On bus line. Spacious, close to NoHo and Amherst. Pre-paid heat. $270/month. Craig or Jon 587-9319.

SERVICES

Legal Questions? The Student Legal Services Office offers free legal assistance to fee-paying students. Contact us at 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

Pregnant? Need help? Call Birthright of Amherst Area for free testing and assistance. 549-1906.

TICKETS

Rolling Stones Fleet Center, Boston, Mar 22. Extra tickets, Must sell! 665-0241.

TO SUBLET

On Bus Route Really spacious. Accomodates 2 to 4 people. Can start either 1/1 or 2/1. One mile from campus. Call 253-1892.

Feb 1st / Spring Semester 2 bedroom apt. On bus line to campus. $700 a month. Call 253-4621.

Nice furnished room available for Winter Session. $215/month + 1/5 utilities. One mile from campus. 549-5863 Jordan.

At Puffton One room in a three bedroom apt. Starting 12/23. Stay all Spring Semester. $216, heat included. Call 549-5842.

TRAVEL

SPRING BREAK '99
Student Travel Services is America's #1 Student Tour Operator.
Don't book with anyone else until you talk to us!!!
Cancun from $399.
Jamaica from $399.
Panama City from $119.
Daytona Beach from $139.
Student Travel Services
1-800-648-4849
www.ststravel.com
On Campus Contact:
Erich @ 413-549-5287
Jonah @ 413-549-8867
Dan @ 413-253-1341
George @ 413-546-4223

A #1 SPRING BREAK...
HOURS & HOURS OF FREE DRINKS!
Earn 2 FREE Trips & $$$$$!
Cancun, Jamaica, Florida, Barbados, Bahamas.
Lowest Prices/Best Meal Plan
1-800-426-7710
www.sunsplashtours.com

WANTED TO RENT

1 room single occupancy apartment ASAP. Call Ty at 546-4214.

Five College Community Calendar

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 9

Communication — Mini-Mall '98 will be held in the Student Union Ballroom from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. with 50 tables of vendors. The event is sponsored by Hillel/BSL.

Concert — There will be a Faculty Concert with guest performances and alumni choreographers at 8 p.m. in the Studio Theatre at Mount Holyoke College.

Performance — There will be student loan exit interviews for all graduating seniors interested in applying for repayment of loans after graduation. Information sessions run about one half hour and will be held between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. in room 1085, Lederle Graduate Research Tower, Mount Holyoke College.

Lecture — A lecture entitled "Growing the Java Programming Language" will be given at 4 p.m. at Morrill I North, room 329. The lecture is part of the Distinguished Lecturer Series and will be given by the Computer Science Department.

Recital — Smith College Gamelan Ensemble will give a recital from 8-8:30 p.m. in Earle Recital Hall, Sage Hall at Smith College.

Theater — Not Ready for Bedtime Players, the sex education improv group, will perform in the James/Emerson classroom, room 112, at 8 p.m.

Workshop — There will be a workshop on contraception and safer sex at 7 p.m. in room 302 of University Health Services.

THURSDAY, DEC. 10

Auditions — Smith College will hold a "Concerto Competition" from 7:45-10 p.m. in Sweeney Concert Hall, in Sage Hall. Winners will perform with the Smith College orchestra in Spring Concert. Contest rules and entry forms are available outside Sage Hall, room 1.

Community — Mini Mall '98 will be held in the Student Union Ballroom from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. with 50 tables of vendors. The event is sponsored by Hillel/BSL.

Concert — There will be a Mount Holyoke Faculty Concert in the Studio Theatre at Mount Holyoke College at 8 p.m.

Discussion — Michael Waxman and Oscar Jones, contributors to a new book Out on Fraternity Row, will discuss issues presented in the book at 12:30 p.m. in room 804 of the Campus Center as part of the GLBT Lecture Series.

Lecture — A lecture entitled "Between Vengeance and Forgiveness: Responses to Mass violence" will be given at 4:30 p.m. in the Wright Hall common room at Smith College.

Performance — Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance presents "Performance Project" in Amherst College Theater and Dance 62, Performance Studio at 8 p.m. Reservations are suggested, and admission is free.

Workshop — A workshop on contraception and safer sex will be held in room 302 of University Health Services at 3 p.m.

NOTICES

Community — The Spring portion of federal work-study will be available for students to begin using after Jan. 3.

Community — The 1999 Yearbooks are now on sale in room 304 of the Student Union. Call 545-0848 to order one.

Community — The Teacher Education Coordinating Council and the School of Education's Office of Teacher Education have information on the Mass Educator Certification Tests in room 123 of Furcolo Hall. Contact Michael Schwartz at 545-2701 for more information.

Scholarship — Juniors and Seniors interested in the Elie Wiesel Prize, based upon an ethics essay, should contact Professor James Young at 545-5872. The deadline is Dec. 10.

Submissions — Submissions are being accepted for the Spectrum Literary Magazine. The deadline is Feb. 12. Also searching for the 1998-99 cover contest winner. Deadline is the end of December. Call 5-4220 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed to train and facilitate workshops on contraception and sexually transmitted disease prevention during Spring semester 1999. Men and women needed. Contact Karen or Day at 577-5188 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed for the Massachusetts Substance Abuse Information and Education HELPLINE. For more information call (617) 536-0501 ext. 201 for more details.

PI's are public service announcements printed daily. To submit an PI!, please send a press release containing all pertinent information, including the name and phone number of the contact person to the Collegian, c/o the Managing Editor by noon the previous day.

WE GIVE 100% to the arts
Bookworks
Everyday Discounts of 10% OFF! on More!
On nearly every book in stock!
*Not valid for textbooks
Bookworks is a division of Hooked on Books

Put the FUN back in fun reading!

WEDNESDAY EVENING — C - Campus — DECEMBER 9, 1998

	C	6:00	6:30	7:00	7:30	8:00	8:30	9:00	9:30	10:00	10:30	11:00	11:30
WEOH	12	Wishbone	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer		Monica Mancini...	on Record (In Stereo)			Bobby Darin: Beyond the Song (In Stereo)		People-Here
WFSB	3	News	CBS News	Inside Edition	Hollywood Sq.	Nanny (R)	Maggie	To Have & to Hold (In Stereo)		Chicago Hope (In Stereo)	News	Late Show
WBZ	4	News	CBS News	Hollywood Sq.	Ent. Tonight	Nanny (R)	Maggie	To Have & to Hold (In Stereo)		Chicago Hope (In Stereo)	News	Late Show
WCVB	5	News	ABC News	Inside Edition	Chronicle	Dharma-Greg	Two Guys-Girl	Drew Carey	Whose Line?	20/20	News	Nightline
WLVI	56	Sister, Sister	Fresh Prince	Nanny	Friends	Dawson's Creek "Crossroads"		Charmed (R) (In Stereo)		News	Friends	Nanny
WHDH	7	News	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy!	Dateline (In Stereo)		3rd Rock-Sun	Newsradio	Law & Order "True North"	News	Tonight Show
WTXX	8	Home Imp.	Judge-Brown	Judge Judy	Judge Judy	7 Days "Come Again?" (R)		Star Trek: Voyager (In Stereo)		Newsradio	Newsradio	Married...With
WVIT	10	News	NBC News	Ent. Tonight	Hard Copy	Dateline (In Stereo)		3rd Rock-Sun	Newsradio	Law & Order "True North"	News	Tonight Show
WTIC	11	Simpsons	Friends	Seinfeld	Frasier	Revany Hills, 90210 (In Stereo)		Party of Five "Gifts" (In Stereo)		News	Friends	Mad Abt. You
WWLP	22	News	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy!	Dateline (In Stereo)		3rd Rock-Sun	Newsradio	Law & Order "True North"	News	Tonight Show
WGBY	6	Creaturas	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer		Christmas Glory With Kirt Ye Kauwens			Celtic Harpestry (In Stereo)		Charlie Rose (In Stereo)
WGGB	20	News	ABC News	Seinfeld	Frasier	Dharma-Greg	Two Guys-Girl	Drew Carey	Whose Line?	20/20	News	Nightline
WSBK	38	Judge Judy	Judge Judy	Seinfeld	Frasier	7 Days "Come Again?" (R)		Star Trek: Voyager (In Stereo)		Mad Abt. You	Mad Abt. You	Frasier	Cheers
WTBS	72	Family Matters	Family Matters	Roseanne	Roseanne	★★★ "Edward Let Me" (1973, Adventure) Roger Moore, Jane Seymour				★★★½ "From Russia With Love" (1963)
A&E	63	Northern Exposure		Law & Order		Biography: J.W. Marriott		American Justice (R)		Touch of Frost "Deep Waters"		Law & Order
CNN	29	Worldview	Moneyline	Newshour		Crossfire		World Today		Larry King Live	Newsnight	Fortune
COM	36	Saturday Night Live		Deep Show (R)	Stein's Money	Sinbad: Brain Damaged (R)		Paula Poundstone		South Park (R)	Upright Citizen Brigade	Daily Show	Stein's Money
DISC	52	New House	Fix-It-Line (R)	Gimme Shelter (R)		Aliens: Are We Alone? (R)				Rockarashings (R)		Justice Files	Moneyline
ESPN	40	Up Close	Sportscenter		College Basketball	Florida at Duke (Live)			College Basketball	Connecticut at Massachusetts (Live)		Sportscenter
LIFE	45	Ellen	Ellen	Very Kate Christmas		Chicago Hope (In Stereo)		"On the Second Day of Christmas" (1997) Mary Stuart Masterson.			New Attitudes	Golden Girls
MTV	53	Countdown	Cut (In Stereo)	Celebrity	Twisted Toons	Eye Spy Video	Say What?	Total Request Live (In Stereo)		True Life (R)	Celebrity	Cut (In Stereo)	Loveline
NICK	46	Figure It Out	Secret-of Alex	Doug	Rugrats	Hey Arnold!	Allen Strange	Brady Bunch	Wonder Years	I Love Lucy	I Love Lucy	I Love Lucy	I Love Lucy
SCIFI	59	Quantum Leap	In Stereo)	Sightings	Star Trek "Whom Gods Destroy"			Invasion Earth (Part 2 of 3)			★★½ Nothing Sacred	Sightings	Star Trek
TLC	28	Home Again	Home Again	Trauma Center		Extreme Machines (R)				A Wing and a Prayer (R)		Extreme Machines
TNT	42	Babylon 5 "Voices of Authority"		ER "One More for the Road"		"Houdini" (1998, Biography) Johnathon Schaech. (In Stereo)				Babylon 5 (R) (In Stereo)		★★½ "The Fury" (1978)
USA	30	Hercules: Legendary Journ.		Xena: Warrior Princess (R)		Walker, Texas Ranger		"Scandalous Me: The Jacqueline Susann Story" (1998, Biography)				"Jacqueline Susann's Cole"
HBO	8	★★½ "Adventures in Babysitting" (1987) Elisabeth Shue. PG-13				★½ "Excess Baggage" (1997) Alicia Silverstone.			"You've Got	Oz "Family Business" (In Stereo)		★★★ "Gattaca" (1997) PG-13
MAX	9	★★ "Star Trek: First Contact" (1996) Patrick Stewart. PG-13				★½ "Project Shadowchaser III" (1995) Sam Bottoms. R				★★ "A Life Less Ordinary" (1997) Ewan McGregor. R
SHOW	37	★½ "3 Ninjas Knuckle Up" (1995, Comedy) Victor Wong. PG-13				★★ "Seven Years in Tibet" (1997, Drama) Brad Pitt. PG-13				Greenspan		★★★ "Pump Up the Volume" (1990, Drama) Ch. 3

2	HSCN Bulletin Board	16	The Learning Channel
3	CBS/3 Hartford	17	UVC-TV19
4	CBS/4 Boston	20	ABC/40 Springfield
5	AJC/5 Boston	21	Gavel to Gavel
6	PBS/57 Springfield	22	NBC/22 Springfield
7	HSCN Mavis Ch.	23	Syndicance
8	UPN/20 Hartford	24	Bloomberg Financial
9	Weather Channel	25	CNN
10	NBC/30 New Britain	27	TBS
11	Fox/61 Hartford	28	BET
12	PBS/24 Hartford	29	TV Land
13	WOCH & HSCN	30	Univision
14	International	31	Comedy Central
15	UMass Academic TV	32	Cartoon
16	WB/New Haven	33	Much Music
17	HSCN Programming

HSCN Hampshire Northwest Cable Network

Cathy By Cathy Guisewite

Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Rose Is Rose By Pat Brady

Non Sequitur By Wiley

Cathy By Cathy Guisewite

Rose Is Rose By Pat Brady

Foxtrot By Bill Ammend

Foxtrot By Bill Ammend

Kampus Kids By Adam Souliere

Liberty Meadows By Frank Cho

Horoscopes

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — You can afford to be more expressive and affectionate when it comes to friends and family members. Don't hide your feelings today!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — You're in no mood to let others dictate what you can and cannot do. However, you are aware that it may be necessary to compromise on one or two points.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — You can strike an agreement today with a Cancer or Capricorn native. There is more than friendship at stake, so don't be rash or impulsive.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — You'll have more interaction than expected today with a Sagittarius native. Take care that thoughts and feelings are in careful balance.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — He or she who chooses to cross you today had better be ready for a fight, for you're not about to turn your back when challenged in any way.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — There is more to life than appearances today. You are advised to look beneath the surface whenever you have reason to doubt what you see.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You're in no mood to be entertained by others today. You may have more than one invitation to consider. Remember that fun may be your own requirement.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Your standard approach may not be enough today. You're going to have to apply more energy to a current dilemma if you wish to resolve it by day's end.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — You're after more than a business agreement today. Your feelings are already on the line, so why not just go for it? Raise the stakes!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — You can learn from watching others today. Keep a keen eye on actions that do not seem to pay off, and you'll see what it is you mustn't do.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You may be growing tired of being "in charge" today. You'll have a chance to see what it's like to be in a position of subservience.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — You may be overlooking a major opportunity without knowing it today. Timing is everything right now, and you must be ready for anything.

Quote of the Day

"And in Iowa, I know by know the children are crying in the land where they let the children cry."

–On The Road

Close to Home By John McPherson

Biology teacher Frank Bortman's dark secret

Today's D.C. Menu

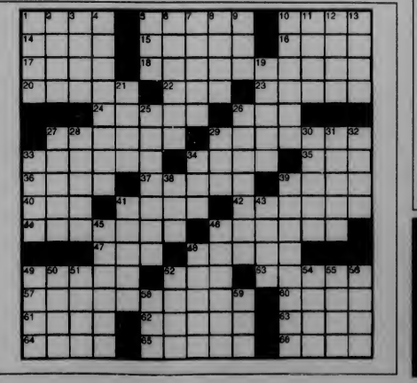
Call 545-2626 for more information.

Franklin
LUNCH
Grilled Chicken Sandwich
Hot Pastrami on Rye
Ravioli w/ Tomato Sauce
Vegan Ravioli w/ Tomato Sauce

Worcester
LUNCH
Grilled Chicken Sandwich
Spinach Noodle Casserole
Lentil Chili

Hampshire
LUNCH
Hamburger on a Roll
Chicken Cutlet Sandwich
Macaroni & Cheese
Grilled Cheese Sandwich

Berkshire
LUNCH
Chicken Cutlet Sandwich
American Chop Suey
Portabella Mushrooms



DINNER
WINTER SOLSTICE
Hot Mulled Cider
Chicken Breast Mignon
Pork with Mustard Glaze
Horseradish Sauce
Apple Chutney
Barbecued Salmon
Sour Cream Mashed Potatoes
Baby Whole Carrots
Green Beans Almondine
Basics
Acorn Squash Stuffed w/ Quinoa
Chocolate Whipped Cream Cake
White Roll
Garden Vegetable bread
Sundried Tomato Bread

Night Editor — Lorraine Kennedy
Photo Technician — Stacy Cohen
Copy Editor — Joseph D. Savitch
Production Supervisor — Joylyn Lombard
Production Staff — Sokly Am, Lisa Metcalf

ACROSS
1 Attired
5 Disturb
10 Standard
14 Hearty's partner
15 Degree holders
16 Diva's song
17 Piece of news
18 Show compassion for 20 Blush's target
22 Over there
23 Threescore
24 Kitchen tool
26 An Asian
27 Popeye, e.g.
29 Slight variations
33 Underside
34 Nursery item
35 — Dawn Chong
36 Baseball calls
37 Actress Streep
39 "Pretty Woman" star
40 "Do — say"
41 Pier
42 Not on the coast
44 Tell
46 Sly ones
47 Fish eggs
48 Reason
49 Winter forecast
52 Fairy
53 Tropical vine
57 Deadline
60 Spinted
61 European capital
62 Inlended
63 Drizzle
64 Reporter's question
65 Has on
66 Bam's neighbor

DOWN
1 Stylish
2 Slat
3 Away from the wind
4 Bad marks
5 "Yuck!"
6 Fervent request
7 Relish
8 Eve's garden
9 Cook's meas.
10 Brazil or Canada
11 Gemstock
12 Uprising
13 Lots
19 Violinist Stern
21 About 2.2 pounds
25 Collective farm
26 Soothing
27 Dunk
28 Top story?
29 Vote against
30 Spooky noise
31 Brings in, as salary
32 Bird food
33 Razorback
34 Sample
38 Erode
39 Ice masses
41 Cite
43 Singer Diamond
45 Portland's state
46 Gentler
48 Peruvian
49 Stash
50 Whip
51 — Stanley Gardner
52 Adams or Brickell
54 Jai —
55 Carpentry item
56 Part of A.D.
58 Playing marble
59 Sullivan and McMahon

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

Not a lot of giving for some NHL goalies

'Tis the holiday season but don't tell Byron Dafoe, Jimmy Waite or Nikolai Khabibulin. Neither goaltender seems to be in a giving mood as of late. All three are having breakthrough seasons this year, while Waite's campaign could be considered a semi-resurgence since he has been around for the better part of the past decade.

James Murphy on The NHL

Dafoe, the Bruins netminder has been simply: "En Fuego." The former unknown, Jim Carey backup [Carey backed-up Dafoe in Washington, when Carey could actually be called "Ace"], has made a name for himself and quite possibly could be playing in his first All-Star game in Tampa Bay come January.

"Lord Byron," whom I regrettedly suggested be traded for Felix Potvin in a previous column, currently sits second in NHL goaltending stats. He is 8–5–6 with an amazing 1.72 goals against average. His .940 save percentage is second only to Waite's .945 percent.

Waite, however has played only seven games, while Dafoe has played in 19. He has helped his team go 5–0–1 in their last six games and pull to within four points of division and conference leader Toronto.

• Now to the current front-runners for the lennings trophy [given to the best goaltending tandem in the league]. Khabibulin and Waite have helped the Phoenix Coyotes become the biggest surprise of this young season.

The Coyotes lead the NHL with 33 points. Of course Jeremy Roenick's resurgence has a lot to do with their success, but Khabibulin and Waite have been the strength of the Coyotes howl. As of yesterday, Waite was 5–0–2 with a 1.40 G.A.A. while Khabibulin posted a 10–3–1 record and a 1.77 G.A.A.

The two leaders of the pack, are only letting in an average of 1.7 goals per game, lowest in the league. Amazingly they were both, along with Dafoe, ahead of Dominik Hasek in goaltending statistics.

• "The Legion of Doom" reunited? That's the latest news to come out of the league rumor mill. Following a game between the Canadiens and the Maple Leafs this past Saturday, disgruntled Toronto goaltender Potvin announced that he would never play another game for the Leafs.

Since the Leafs pre-season acquisition of Curtis Joseph, who has been a key factor in Toronto's climb to the top of the Eastern Conference, Potvin has been rumored to be going everywhere. It seems that he has been involved in every trade rumor this season, yet somehow he remained stuck in Toronto.

Well, according to an ESPN website, Potvin may be moving to the Sunshine State soon. The Total Sports Network is reporting that a three–way trade between Philly, Toronto and Tampa Bay is in the works. If the proposed deal goes through, Potvin would go to Tampa, Chris Gratton would go from Philly to Toronto and Mikhael Renberg would rejoin the infamous "Legion of Doom" line [Eric Lindros–John LeClair–and Renberg] leaving Tampa for Philly.

• Sergei Samsonov is as the Hockey News put it "Samsonational." If there was an award for second year player of the year, he would have already won by a landslide.

Recently, my grandfather, who probably attended every game Bobby Orr played at the "Gahden," said that "Samsonov skates just like Orr." Orr is still recognized as one of the most graceful skaters the league has seen.

However, I'm sure opposing players described Orr's skating style with words such as "scary" or "wow" and asked "how did he do that?"

Well, Samsonov is drawing the same responses and he's still only 19. Let's just hope that the opponents don't back away at his knees and shorten his career like they did to Orr.

• Speaking of Mr. Orr, I've been saving a great story I heard on him for the holiday season. About two months ago, the UMass hockey team was playing Concordia at the Mullins Center In a preseason exhibition, and Orr was in attendance. During the second period, a Concordia player went down with a torn anterior cruciate ligament. According to sources close to the UMass team, the injury seemed to be season–ending and quite possibly career–ending. The player was told this and just laid there in the corridor behind the visitors bench depleted and shocked. As he looked up, Orr walked by.

According to the trainer, Orr stayed and talked with the injured player for the rest of the game, bringing an "unforgettable smile" to his face. What a class act!

James Murphy is a Collegian columnist

The rivalry continues: UMass/UConn

No. 1 ranked Huskies set to invade the Mullins Center

By Seth Koenig
Collegian Staff

It doesn't get any bigger than this.

The rivalry between Massachusetts and Connecticut in men's basketball goes back all the way to 1908. Year after year, whenever the loathed Huskies come to Amherst, or vice versa, it stands as one of the most important games of the season for both squads.

The game is important for record–sake, of course, as defeating a ranked team, as both squads often are, will improve respective standings, and, of course, for morale.

This one is perhaps most important, though, because New England bragging rights are on the line.

Thickening the plot line this time out is the fact that UConn will jog onto the William D. Mullins Center floor ranked first in the nation, while the hometown Minutemen have lost their preseason No. 23 mark over the course of a somewhat sloppy opening stretch for which they have only a 1–3 record to show.

MEN'S HOOP
UMASS VS UCONN
WEDNESDAY, 9:30 P.M.
81.1 FM-WMUA
MATT PERRAULT-PLAY
MIKE COREY-COLOR
WEEKEND PREVIEW

On Saturday, UMass dropped their third straight to Marshall in West Virginia by a surprisingly high 22 point margin.

"We got out a lot of the things we needed to get out against Marshall," UMass Coach Bruiser Flint said. "A lot of it was mental.

"I found out a lot of things after Marshall. I found out that the guys really care. There were a lot of tears in the locker room."

With such an inauspicious lead–in, few people will expect a good game between the two seemingly unevenly matched teams, but the students know how big this game is, as the UMass sports management club will be selling special Mullins Maniac fan bags for this occasion.

What might go unnoticed, however, are the numerous variables that will influence the outcome.

First, the Minutemen have little to lose and everything to gain in this matchup. With three uncompetitive losses directly behind them, the game is expected by many to be a rout in favor of the Huskies. By winning, though, UMass will most likely jettison themselves back into the top 25 and on the winning track.

Connecticut, on the other hand, can sustain a serious blemish on their record by losing to an unranked team.

Leading the charge for the top–ranked Huskies will be point guard Khalid El–Amin, who scored 16 points a contest in that role last season, and swing man Richard Hamilton, who dropped in 21.5 points an outing last year. Intimidatingly enough, all five of the starters from last year's 32–5 team are back again.

"I'm just going try and contain and contest," UMass guard Monty Mack said of his impending job of covering El– Amin. Mack also leads the Minutemen in scoring as well. "I'm just going to try and stay in front of him and make him take bad shots."

Small forward Mike Babul will have the responsibility of keeping Hamilton under wraps. Babul was named to the All–Atlantic 10 defensive team last year as a sophomore, while Lindy's College Basketball Preview called Hamilton the best off–guard in the country.

"I told (Babul) that he did a good job on everybody but Richard Hamilton last year," said Flint jokingly of last season's matchup between the two. In the Huskies' 72–55 victory a year ago, Hamilton scored 21.

Another key one–on–one will be UMass' All–America candidate Lari Ketner against Jake Voskuhl at center. Ketner comes in highly–touted, but has struggled as of late.

Despite their status as underdog on paper, Flint feels that the Minutemen match up well.

"We just half to play well," Flint said. "If we can play well, we can win. They're No. 1 in the nation, so they're very good.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT/ COLLEGIAN

Charlton Clarke and the Massachusetts men's basketball game will host No. 1 ranked Connecticut tonight at 9:30 p.m. at the Mullins Center.

Minutewomen rally back to defeat Holy Cross

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts women's basketball team continued the reaffirmation process for itself and its followers with a 55–53 triumph over Holy Cross last night at the Mullins Center.

The inter–state Minutewomen win improved the team's mark to 4–6, and left Massachusetts coach Joanie O'Brien both enthused and exhausted.

"It's great to win any game you compete in," O'Brien said. "There is something extra on the line when you are playing against another team from Massachusetts, so this was a big win."

While Kathy Coyner posted 13 points, followed by Tez Kraft with 11, offense was clearly not the factor in this UMass victory.

The Minutewomen shot 38 percent for the night, slightly better than the Crusaders' 31 percent showing from the field.

UMass compensated for their lack of shooting accuracy with another huge edge on the boards, out–rebounding Holy Cross 47–33 overall.

Lucia Madajova and guard Tonia Thomas grabbed seven boards apiece to tie for the team lead.

UMass grabbed an early 13–7 edge, as Caroline Nehls converted on a three point play, after following her own miss under the hoop, and drawing a foul.

Crusaders star Amy O'Brien was a major factor early on, as she tallied the first seven points for her team. She entered the game with a scoring average of 25.4, a mark she fell short of with 18 last night.

UMass established themselves with 3:49 in the half, grabbing a 25–20 advantage thanks to team unselfishness, as Yolanda Rayside scored uncontested courtesy of two timely touch passes by Alison MacFarland and Kraft, who found Rayside alone under the basket.

Holy Cross assembled a 7–2 run to close the half, and tied the game at 27–27 heading into the lockeroom.

The enthused UMass bench became quiet in the opening frame, as freshman center Nekole Smith [eight points] who has been coming on strong of late, slightly twisted her ankle and sat out a few minutes.

"It was a minor injury," Smith said. "I knew it would not keep me out for long, and I felt comfortable to relax and play my game when I got back in there."

The Crusaders went for the kill during a one minute and fifty–one second stretch, in which they outscored UMass 7–0, to seize a 40–31 grip on the lead.

The Minutewomen refused to let this game slip away, and eventually regained the lead with 9:36 to play, on an open three pointer from Coyner right of the key.

As she did toward the end of Sunday's win over Colgate, Rayside came down with several key defensive rebounds down the stretch.

With just over two minutes remaining, Rayside grabbed a board in crowd of Crusaders, and was able to get the ball to Madajova, who was subsequently fouled.

"You don't want any one else to touch that ball," Rayside said. "I am going after that ball with everything I've got to help win that game."

Madajova calmly nailed both shots, for a 53–50 lead that they would never relinquish.

The Crusaders were able to tie the game at 53–53 on an open jumper by Summer Ivan, forcing a UMass timeout.

The Minutewomen did not walk away victors easily, as Coyner connected on the back end of two free throws for a 54–53 edge that was shakier than a San Francisco quake.

UMass made the defensive stop they needed when Madajova retrieved an Anne Kinne airball, and fed the ball to MacFarland.

MacFarland nailed the first of two free throws, which gave Holy Cross the option of playing to tie or win on their final possession with eight seconds to play.

Neither option was attempted, as Coyner forced a traveling violation on Kinne to earn the grueling but satisfying win for the gritty Minutewomen.

It's a familiar story again for UM hoops

By Jackie Leroux
Collegian Staff

If anyone knows how to overcome adversity, it has got to be the Massachusetts women's basketball team. Coach Joanie O'Brien and her crew continued on their fight for survival by pulling out a close game over Holy Cross last night.

The Minutewomen are facing the unthinkable this season, as they are trying to overcome the loss of four players in the span of month. They have gone from 13 healthy, talented players to just nine. The Minutewomen are refusing to let it stop them.

After losing guards Kelly Van Huisen and Jaywana Bradley in the Hawaiian Regent Classic UMass slid, dropping four straight. Since then UMass has gone 3–1, with the one loss at the hands of Texas A&M, and by a mere point.

The Minutewomen have done all of this before. Last season Van Huisen also went down with a knee injury. The Minutewomen went back to the drawing board, and came roaring back with an all–around team effort.

UMass is drawing on last year's experience to pick themselves up again this year. As in Sunday's game against Colgate all but one player saw action, and every one who played scored.

Sophomore guard Kathy Coyner scored a team–high 13 points followed by senior forward Tez Kraft who had 11. Kraft would probably have scored more, but her shooting was off last night, as she went 4–of–16 from the field.

However, Kraft pulled out a big three for UMass with 15:37 remaining in the game, igniting a 14–3 Minutewomen run that brought them back from a nine–point deficit. Coyner also had three assists and six rebounds for UMass.

"This is what we have to do, we are in a situation where we have people like Tez who is a really good shooter, but she struggled a little tonight," O'Brien said. "Everyone has to take what's coming to them. Maybe one night, Kathy will have a big scoring night, and the next night Nekole [Smith] will have a big night. It's going to change every game."

Rounding out the scoring for UMass was freshman forward/center Nekole Smith with eight points and senior forward Lucia Madajova with six. Freshman center Caroline Nehls, senior center Yolanda Rayside and junior guard Alison MacFarland all added five, and freshman guard Tonia Thomas with two.

Smith, Madajova and Nehls have been welcomed improvements for the Minutewomen. Smith has been seeing her minutes increase, as she has begun to prove herself a viable force in the paint. Her eight points last night were a career–high, and she complemented it with three rebounds, one assist and two blocks.

Madajova has earned herself a starting job on the team, thanks to her hard work and improvement in practice. Madajova had spent most of her three prior seasons at UMass on the bench, but she has responded to the starting position well this year, averaging 7.6 points and 9.3 rebounds. Last night she tied Thomas for the team–high in rebounds with seven.

"It feels very good to be a part of the team in terms of playing, and contributing and knowing that I am helping the team a lot," Madajova said.

Nehls, who first began to impress in UMass' win over St. John's, has been averaging 4.2 points and 5.4 rebounds. With such strong play from the post players, the Minutewomen have been out–rebounding their opponents 42.9 per game to 29.3.

"Did we anticipate having the situation that we are in right now? No. But you deal with what's in front of you," O'Brien said. "Right now we have eight kids that are going to play."

The Minutewomen are also awaiting the return of Jaywana Bradley, who is anticipated to return to the lineup before Christmas, and possibly as early as this coming Tuesday. Should she be healthy for Tuesday, Bradley's return would come at just the right time. The Minutewomen face Rhode Island on that day, and kick off their all–important conference play.

Jordan quietly gets the job done for UM football squad

By Brett Mauser
Collegian Staff

When Massachusetts quarterback Todd Bankhead was reflecting back during the Thanksgiving festivities in Beaumont, Tex., prior to the Massachusetts football team's 21–19 victory over McNeese State, there was one special person that he paid homage to: Matt Jordan.

Thirty–two touchdown passes doesn't go without saying, with only a few blemishes to complain about.

Marcel Shipp, for sure, before scooping up a healthy serving of stuffing, recognized his ol' buddy Matt Jordan.

Compiling over 2,000 yards on the ground, good for third in the nation, isn't too too shabby. After all, it often seems like there's nothing in front of the tailback but a field of grass and six points.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Matt Jordan

That's probably because, sometimes, it's the truth.

Fullback, receiver out of the backfield, bodyguard, call him what you want, because whenever Jordan finds somebody, he hits them. Middle linebackers hesitate in taking on the challenge the next time around.

More importantly, life is more peaceful in the UMass backfield. No one's going to deny that.

"He's a major reason why we're sitting here in the final four," UMass football coach Mark Whipple said. "He inspires guys on the sidelines by the way he plays and how physical he is."

Though stat sheets don't do the running back justice, Jordan's role in the Minutemen offense has been under the microscope, since the team's escalation to national prominence.

"I really consider Matt our MVP because of the things he does that people don't see. It's just incredible," Bankhead said. "The guy just absolutely destroys people on the field."

Looking across the line, Jordan is the one who finds the hole, and then turns that hole into a bigger hole. As a result, Shipp has been able to find the defensive backfield. With only one touchdown to his record, the man lost in the record runs and spectacular catches, returns to the sidelines and gets a pat on the back, because he just made the block that turned a 5–yard gain into an end zone celebration.

"I love the man. He's the reason for my yards," Shipp said. "Whenever I get the ball, I just run behind him. He makes my job easy."

In the first round against McNeese State, Kevin Quinlan, Shipp's replacement, did exactly the same, picking up 147 yards and a touchdown. His ability to step in for Shipp helped the Minutemen move onto the second round, with much due praise for Jordan.

Settling behind Shipp as the part–time tailback and the full–time fullback, this year, Jordan has gained a modest 192 yards on 42 carries, and caught 43 passes for 475 yards, which ranks third on the team.

After injuries to both of his hamstrings in the previous two season, a healthy season for Jordan has unveiled a brand new backfield. Shipp went from 756 yards to 1,949. The team climbed to 8–3 after a woeful 2–9 season. The end of Jordan's career could not have come at a better time.

"This is the way you want to go out," Jordan said. "After a couple of disappointing seasons, now, I'm healthy and contributing to the success of the team.

At Pinkerton Academy in Derry, NH, Jordan ran for 4,099 yards and a New Hampshire state record 76 career touchdowns. In his senior season, he was featured in Sports Illustrated's "Faces in the Crowd" after registering 1,610 yards on 155 rushes, while tabulating 38 TDs. Pinkerton's Class I. rival, Nashua, graduated current UMass linebacker Kole Ayi.

"We still go back and forth about it to this day," Jordan said. "Right now, he's somebody great to have on your team rather than to have to play against."

The glory has gone elsewhere, yet Jordan just keeps on chugging. If playing professional football doesn't work out, the senior plans on graduating and working his way into sports marketing.

As far as his career goes, one Matt Jordan, along with the rest of the seniors, can only look as far as the next weekend, as UMass' next loss is the Derry native's last stand in Amherst. Down the road isn't an issue.

"We went down to McNeese and came out with a 'W' and it was just a great feeling," Jordan said. "That's what I'm definitely expecting to do this week."

"This is everything you work for. All the hours, all the sweat. Two more victories and we're the national champions."

The Massachusetts
DAILY COLLEGIAN

Volume CIV Issue 57 — New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 — Thursday, December 10, 1998

King Richard holds court

Richard Hamilton and the No. 1 ranked UConn Huskies came to Amherst to take on the Minutemen last night (see Sports, page 16).

The end of the year as we know it

Who was the artist of the year? The best album? The greatest movie? The Collegian looks at who was the best around in 98' (See Arts & Living, page 5).

WORLD

Iraqi officials stop weapons search

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraqi officials blocked U.N. arms monitors from holding a surprise inspection yesterday at the Baghdad headquarters of the ruling Baath Party, a key site in Saddam Hussein's government. U.N. officials immediately denounced the move.

The inspectors withdrew after an Iraqi official demanded that they first provide a written declaration of what they were looking for, the official Iraqi News Agency said.

"This was an absolutely legal, no-notice inspection and they blocked us," Richard Butler, head of the U.N. Special Commission that oversees inspections, told The Associated Press in New York. Later yesterday, however, an Iraqi official suggested the standoff occurred because of a mistake by an Iraqi escort in declaring the site sensitive.

The incident — which has the potential to blow up into another U.N.–Iraq crisis — came two days after Butler announced that he was ordering the resumption of surprise inspections. On Tuesday, the inspectors visited 32 sites and yesterday, 10 more.

NATION

Kevorkian will stand trial for murder

WATERFORD, Mich. (AP) — Dr. Jack Kevorkian was ordered yesterday to stand trial on murder charges based largely on a video he supplied to "60 Minutes" that appears to show him giving a terminally ill man a lethal injection.

"The intent to kill was premeditated and thought out beforehand," District Judge Phyllis McMillen ruled after a preliminary hearing on the charges. She also ordered Kevorkian to stand trial on charges of assisted suicide and delivering a controlled substance.

No trial date was set.

It will be the first time Kevorkian actually stands trial on murder charges. He has twice been charged with murder, but those charges were thrown out. He has been acquitted in three assisted suicide trials involving five deaths.

Kevorkian, 70, had dared prosecutors to charge him after he produced the video of Thomas Youk, a 52-year-old man who suffered from Lou Gehrig's disease.

The first-degree murder charge carries a mandatory life sentence. The assisted suicide charge is punishable by up to five years, the controlled substance charge by up to seven.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Friday	Saturday
HIGH: 45 LOW: 32	HIGH: 38 LOW: 26	HIGH: 43 LOW: 28

INSIDE

Arts & Living.....page 5
Classifieds .....page 12
Comics .....page 13
Crossword .....page 13
Editorial .....page 4
FYI .....page 12
News .....page 1
Sports .....page 14

ON THE INTERNET

www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Rhode Island student paper challenges 1st Amendment

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

Until late last night, student protesters at the University of Rhode Island had effectively shut down the campus newspaper, The Good 5–Cent Cigar, in retaliation to a racially charged political cartoon published last week.

The Executive Committee of the student senate met last night to discuss the fate of the Cigar, eventually deciding to lift a temporary freeze of the newspaper's budget intended to shut down its operation.

Senate member Jeffrey Resch presented a resolution to the executive committee to override Senate Finance Chairman Denis Guay's original decision to freeze funds.

"I hope you do not forget the First Amendment in this matter," he said. "I believe the budget freeze was a violation of… the constitution. I urge you to vote no because I feel that the student government should not tell a newspaper what to do."

"I really believe in the First Amendment," he later commented. "I just can't compromise… I'm going to fight tooth and nail for this."

His resolution was met, but not without a fight. The publication of the cartoon had created an uproar on the URI campus during the past week. According to a Sept. 5 article in The Providence Journal–Bulletin, about 200 students confronted administrators last Friday, calling for the abolishment of the Cigar and the resignation of the top three editors.

The students were led by a newly formed campus group, Brothers Unified for Action, described by the Journal– Bulletin as "a group that favors military–style commands." Protestors marched to the newspaper office and confronted editorial staff members, who defended their decision to publish the cartoon. Dissatisfied with that response, the protestors then marched to the office of URI President Robert Carothers.

"We need to protect the First Amendment of the University of Rhode Island," he responded, as quoted in the Journal–Bulletin. "What I will not protect is irresponsible or hateful."

The controversial cartoon depicted an African–American student entering a classroom at the University of Texas Law School wherein he was addressed by a professor who said, "If you're the janitor, please wait until after class to empty the trash… If you're one of our minority students, welcome!" The African–American student is wide–eyed with surprise while a bunch of white students look around, confused.

According to The Providence Journal–Bulletin, the syndicated cartoon was originally published a year ago in The San Antonio Express. It was sketched in reference to a federal court ruling that decided the Law School had violated the constitutional rights of white applicants by giving preference to African and Mexican–Americans in affirmative action admissions procedures.

However, many students were unaware of the context in which the cartoon was originally printed, and the Cigar printed no editorial comment to clarify meaning.

The Cigar's editors later told The Journal–Bulletin they were surprised at negative response and racist accusations, since the cartoon's message is essentially anti–racist. They refused to apologize for the cartoon, and Editor–in–Chief Timothy Ryan defended his decision to publish it.

"We didn't do anything wrong from a journalistic standpoint," he told a Journal–Bulletin reporter. "We can't apologize for what we do in terms of editorial cartoons or what we write… We hope that meaning and political statement is understood. We hope [readers] will generally know what the subject is. If they don't, we can't neces–

Turn to CIGAR, page 3

Double trouble

KELLY FITZPATRICK / COLLEGIAN

Identical twins Jay and Nate Mutti are having a snack together in the Northeast Residential Area.

SGA meeting ends early; loss of quorum 3rd in a row

By Julie Fialkow
Collegian Staff

For the third meeting in a row, the University of Massachusetts Student Government Association (SGA) Senate meeting last night had to be cancelled, due to lost quorum.

Only one motion was passed at the meeting and 22 senators were remaining at the end of the meeting. One half of the senate body is needed to maintain quorum.

The motion passed was to appoint Matt Saradijian to the Student Judiciary. The senate also heard from Senator Jennifer Worcester (Orchard Hill at–large), who spoke about a proposed motion to issue purple stickers with regard to the specific lot in the owner's residential area.

After each senator voted out loud, Associate Speaker of the Senate Jodi Bailey announced that quorum was lost, and the votes weren't official.

Worcester said many purple lots are filled to capacity while others remain under used.

"The lots would have numbers and then only people from that specific area, like Central and Southwest, would park there," she said.

Also, the re–organization of the lots would help parking services see where the overcrowding problems exist, said Worcester.

Senator Phil Milson (McNamara) asked Worcester whether or not there was a real problem with parking availability.

"I have a purple sticker up in Sylvan and I've never had a problem. Is it matter of walking a few extra feet?" he said.

Worcester said during the day she has to circle around the parking lot several times trying to find a spot.

"It's not walking, I don't mind that," she said, "I'm trying to find out if there is a need for this. I think that there is."

Lisa Cook, speaker of the senate, said she spoke with Mike Brennan, Director of Parking Services about the issue.

"He said people with purple stickers are forced to park in yellow lots now and that's a huge problem," she said.

Senator Paul Ferro (commuter area) argued against passing the motion.

"Under the current parking system they over–sell stickers, acknowledging that people will not have their cars in the lots at all times," he said.

Ferro said parking services needs to look at oversubscription of stickers to lots and that Worcester's motion would take away student choice.

Also at the meeting was Governor Mo Reza (Orchard Hill), who passed out a letter from Deputy Provost Norman Aitken and Director of the Honors College Linda Nolan about the new Commonwealth college.

The letter, which was given out to all Orchard Hill residents stated:

"As a response to student concerns, we are writing all Orchard

Turn to SGA, page 2

Student Affairs focuses on change

By Christie Vincent
Collegian Staff

Now working to prepare it's draft report, the University's of Massachusetts Committee to Review Student Affairs (CRSA) was formed to review and study the current structure of the Student Affairs Office. The committee is to see if changes are needed, and if so, what kinds of changes.

"Student Affairs is a much bigger organization than when I was vice chancellor," said Bill Bromery, former chancellor and adviser to the CRSA. "It was much smaller."

Two open community meetings were held this fall allowing the campus community to ask questions, raise concerns, or to offer suggestions to the committee.

In a memorandum sent to the campus community, Chancellor David K. Scott announced he was forming the committee last summer based on advice he received after Vice Chancellor Tom Robinson's departure.

Bromery and Dr. Bill Field, former dean of students, gave the committee insight from their experiences with student affairs back in the 1970s and, as committee member Vachel Miller stated, "the orgins of current organizational configurations."

"If the vice chancellor and chancellor today were to evolve a policy, they would have to go through several people. When I was chancellor, we never had to go through more than two people," Bromery explained.

"There was also a stronger presence of faculty after classes [in the residential halls]. The faculty was more involved with the students," he said.

Chairperson of the Committee and Professor of Eduation Margaret (Peggy) Jablonski explained that the final report will be specific as to what the Committee found.

"The report will show where we did have student input, and where we did not," she said.

Jablonski also said that aspects of student affairs not throughly studied by the committee, because of the short time period, will be noted.

"We can also say to the chancellor that we are not making a specific recomendation [in a certain area] because there was not enough time," she said.

Jablonski also said the committee is still hoping to give the report to Chancellor Scott at the end of January. From there, the chancellor will send a copy of the recomendations to the Student Government Association (SGA) Graduate Senate, and Faculty Senate.

Resa Singleton, student member of the committee and part of the sub–group for academic support and related affinity groups, said her group created focus groups with students who go to academic support groups on campus. About 15 students were interviewed.

"Some students were chosen randomly, some because of their cultural affinity on campus," she said.

Singleton said the focus groups were helpful.

"They [the groups] have the sub–committee a better understanding of the different perspectives we might not have known [about]," she said.

According to Judi Bailey, SGA member and part of the sub–comittee for campus life, said graduate student Kim Marcello has been looking at services for graduate students on campus.

"There aren't many services for them," Bailey said. She further said that part of the charge from the chancellor was to recommend establishing services that are not existing but may be needed.

Elly Court, student trustee, said that her sub–committee on enrollment services has found a large gap between faculty and admissions.

"There's no connection between the two. The faculty doesn't know who's enrolling [into what]."

Court explained that what she means with an example used by one of the faculty members in her group: "Say there's a lot more students enrolling who plan on studying biology. If admissions told the faculty about this ahead of time, they could better prepare for it, by having more teacher assistants."

Greek members, faculty discuss history, diversity in traditional frat life

By Jake Lilien
Collegian Staff

The Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity held a "Racism and Diversity Workshop" yesterday in the Campus Center Auditorium.

The workshop, a panel discussion on the history and current status of minorities within Greek organizations, was intended to increase awareness of diversity issues.

Dr. Bill Cross, the chair of the department of student development and pupil personnel service, as well as a psychologist and an expert on African–American identities, was the first of three panelists. He spoke about his experiences at Denver University in the early 1960s, where he was a member of a ground–breaking fraternity with 21 pledges: seven black, seven Jewish and seven Protestant.

"We got over the issue of race," he said. "We didn't solve it, but we got over it. There were no taboos for us."

He served as president of the fraternity, but when he returned several years after his graduation, the chapter had reverted to its previous all–white status.

Johnny Carranza, a senior hotel, restaurant, travel administration (HRTA) major, was the second speaker. He is currently the Alumni Relations Chairman for Pi Kappa Alpha, and the Vice–President of Rush for the Intra– Fraternity Council. He spoke about the growing emergence of minority fraternities and the role of race in American society.

Michael Wiseman, the director of Greek affairs at UMass, was the final speaker. He said that while attending Indiana State University, he was surprised to see a black friend's hesitance at pledging a white fraternity. His friend explained that his family had disowned one of his relatives for joining such a fraternity.

He also discussed the local history of Greek diversity, particularly a post–World War II incident involving Amherst College, which he said was primarily responsible for the decline of Amherst's Greek system.

After a fraternity accepted a black pledge, it was warned by its national chapter that such integration was

Turn to RACE, page 2

KELLY FITZPATRICK / COLLEGIAN

Plant propagation

Emily Robertson, a plant and soil science major, prepares plants to give as holiday gifts.

■ SGA

continued from page 1

Hill residents to inform you of the changes that Commonwealth College will bring to Orchard Hill, but also to assure you that these changes will be small and will have little impact on the current living situation in Orchard Hill."

The letter included a page of answers to questions that were asked at a Dec. 2 meeting addressing Orchard Hill residents.

There is a follow-up meeting scheduled for Dec. 14 at 6 p.m. in Field Main Lounge, to answer additional student concerns about the new program.

■ race

continued from page 1

unacceptable. In response, Amherst College created an anti- discrimination policy by which all fraternities involved with the college must comply. Many fraternities dissolved their ties with Amherst College, rather than admit blacks.

Hernan Picalomino, the president of Sigma Phi Epsilon and an organizer of the event, said, "We want to bring up important issues, and provide people with information about diversity and racism."

The Greek Affairs Leadership Conference will be held on Jan. 30, and Picalomino stated that yesterday's workshop will be incorporated.

Shoppers break bank with holiday spending

By Vivian Marino
Associated Press

NEW YORK — While canvassing the shopping malls in search of those perfect holiday gifts, consider this not-so-merry thought: About half of us will spend too much and go into debt, and about a quarter of the debtors will still be paying off the bills come next Christmas. (At least that's what some polls are predicting.)

American households are expected to shell out about 5 percent more on gifts this season, or around $800 apiece, bringing total consumer spending to nearly $174 billion, more than the gross national product of Egypt.

At the same time, American businesses are hard at work making sure that happens — credit-card issuers alone plan to spend more than $150 million on holiday advertising and promotions.

The pictures they all paint — of bug-eyed youngsters tearing into beautifully wrapped packages, wives and girlfriends gasping at diamond jewelry, or gathered families toasting with expensive wines — leave a lasting impression on the shopping public.

Yet many people would just as soon avoid the expense and hassle of trying to attain these costly dreams.

"They feel pressure to keep up these practices, and they're not happy," said Betsy Taylor, executive director of the Center for a New American Dream, a fledgling consumer group whose stated mission is to help families spend more responsibly.

"The image about the holidays is renewal and joy, but the reality for most Americans is debt and exhaustion, waking up on Dec. 26 kind of empty and wondering if that's all there is."

KELLY FITZPATRICK / COLLEGIAN

Hot shots
Jim and his buddies play a game of basketball after classes yesterday.

KELLY FITZPATRICK / COLLEGIAN

Soup for the soul
Tara Atwood, a freshman, warms herself with a cup of soup.

Clinton finds bipartisan ally in Weld

By Leslie Miller
Associated Press

BOSTON — Former Gov. William F. Weld came to the defense of President Clinton this morning before the House Judiciary Committee, saying the president's offenses were not impeachable. But he also called for stricter sanctions than censure of the president.

"They're not offenses against our system of government," said Weld, referring to Clinton's misdeeds. "They don't imperil our system of government."

Weld said the U.S. Constitution clearly intended impeachment as way to save the government, to "get the worm out of the apple." Weld, who had been asked to testify by the White House to show bipartisan support for the president, recommended four sanctions against Clinton in addition to censure: a grand jury report on its findings, a written acknowledgment by Clinton that he had committed wrongdoing, a fine, and a possible prosecution after he leaves office.

"I think the dignity of Congress and the dignity of the country demand something more than censure," Weld said.

"If the objection is that the spectacle of a former president being prosecuted would be tawdry and degrading, it really couldn't be much more tawdry and degrading than what we've already been subjected to through the constant daily reports of the Lewinsky affair."

His promise to speak in President Clinton's defense doesn't mark the first time he has stepped over party lines to help the first family.

Weld has been a friend of Clinton since working with Hillary Rodham Clinton on the House Watergate investigation in 1974. He broke ranks with his fellow Republicans two years ago to issue a warm, personal endorsement of Mrs. Clinton, while she was plummeting in public opinion polls during the Whitewater investigation.

The former U.S. attorney spoke as part of a panel of former prosecutors asked by the House Judiciary Committee whether the perjury case against Clinton is the kind of case they would have pursued as prosecutors.

Weld believes strongly Clinton should not be impeached, according to his successor, acting Gov. Paul Cellucci.

Having spoken to Weld, Cellucci said he's not surprised he agreed to testify.

"I know he has strong views on this," said Cellucci. "He just thinks this is not good for the country."

The news that Weld would testify was welcomed by members of Massachusetts' Democratic Congressional delegation.

"He's highly regarded and respected as a prosecutor," U.S. Rep. William Delahunt told the Boston Herald. "It's important to hear from someone who's a Republican and can shed some light on these constitutional issues."

Textbook Annex - Textbook Buyback - December 1998

Beware of buyers in your dorm!

The Textbook Annex buyback is not associated with people who buy textbooks inside your dorms. You will not get the best prices possible from them. They do not buy any books at 50% of the Publisher's Retail Price. The Annex does. In fact, some of these people bring your books to the buyback to sell them at the higher price even though they have paid you a lower price.

Maximize your return by coming to the authorized locations in the Campus Center Room 162, Hampden in Southwest and the Textbook Annex.

How are buyback prices determined?

Buyback prices are determined by whether or not an instructor has submitted a book list for the next semester.

The Textbook Annex staff spends a lot of time trying to get this information because we know that the best source of those books are from those of you who are already using them. Around mid-terms our staff begins to encourage faculty to place their next orders through a variety of methods including a personal visit to each academic department, letters, flyers and phone calls. We want to give our customers the money that we would otherwise pay a used book wholesaler for used books. To maximize the half price list, we enter faculty's book orders into the buyback data base on the day we receive them.

If we know what books are needed, then the Textbook Annex will pay 50% of the Publisher's List Price, even if the book was purchased used. You will receive the wholesaler's predetermined current market price (wholesale price) if we do not have an order at the time you try to sell your book. You will receive wholesale prices because the Textbook Annex is not trying to add that book to our inventory. The prices they pay depend primarily on the national demand for the book. Wholesale buyback prices can range from 0 to 35%.

Ask Questions!

You should always take a minute to ask the buyers if your book is being purchased for the Annex to reuse or if you are being offered a wholesale price. You may not like the wholesale price but at least you'll understand what you are being offered.

Fall 1998 Ending Buyback - Textbook Annex
Location	Operating Hours
Monday December 14 - Friday December 18, 1998
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Campus Center	9am - 5pm
Hampden in Southwest	9am - 5pm
Saturday, December 19
Campus Center	11am - 5pm
Hampden	12pm - 5pm
Monday & Tuesday, December 21& 22
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Hampden	9am - 7pm
Campus Center	9am - 7pm
Wednesday December 23 (Last final ends 12:30pm)
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Campus Center	9am - 5pm
Hampden	9am - 3pm
Thursday, December 24 (no exams, snow day)
Textbook Annex (only)	9am - 4pm
Monday, December 28
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm

UNIVERSITY STORE'S Textbook Annex UMASS AMHERST

The University Store's Textbook Annex is owned and operated by the University of Massachusetts.
For more buyback information visit our web site at: http://www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex/

GOP cites obstruction of justice as impeachable offense

By David Espo
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — In a historic drama played out in the shadow of the Capitol, House Judiciary Committee Republicans drew up four proposed articles of impeachment against President Clinton on yesterday. All cited his sexual relationship with Monica Lewinsky and the long campaign to cover it up.

Republicans cited Clinton on two counts of perjury, one count of obstruction of justice and one of abuse of power — all adding up to "high crimes and misdemeanors," the draft articles said. Rep. Henry Hyde (R-Ill.) the panel's chairman, vowed to press for a vote by week's end.

Committee approval would set the stage for a vote in the House next week, thus making Clinton only the second president in American history to suffer the humiliation of an impeachment roll call in Congress.

President Andrew Johnson was impeached in the House, then acquitted in a Senate trial by a single vote in 1868. A third president, Richard Nixon, resigned in 1974 rather than submit to an impeachment vote in the House.

Democrats countered the Republican articles with a draft proposal to censure Clinton, citing him for "reprehensible conduct with a subordinate," Lewinsky, and demanding his signature on the instrument of his censure.

"No person is above the law and the president remains subject to criminal and civil penalties for this conduct," the Democratic proposal reads. It does not accuse Clinton of perjury, nor does it demand he pay a fine.

The rapid-fire developments came as the nation's long-running impeachment drama moved into a new phase.

Beginning late today, the Republican-controlled committee will begin formal debate on the articles of impeachment.

Approval of at least one count seems assured — the one dealing with allegations of perjury before Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr's grand jury.

A House vote would occur the following week, and increasingly, officials on both sides of the issue were focusing their energy on the expected showdown there.

Republicans acted as the White House was wrapping up its final, two-day appeal to avoid votes on impeachment. White House Counsel Charles F.C. Ruff was still in the witness chair, fielding pointed questions from skeptical Republican lawmakers, when committee aides circulated the draft proposals.

Short of impeachment, "we are open to any reasonable suggestion from any side as a way of finding an end to this," he told the panel in one of several officially-sanctioned comments inviting a lesser punishment.

But Republicans swiftly brushed that thought aside.

The first article says Clinton "willfully provided perjurious, false and misleading testimony" to Starr's grand jury.

The second says Clinton "willfully provided perjurious, false and misleading testimony" in a deposition under oath before a federal judge in the Paula Jones lawsuit.

The third alleges Clinton obstructed justice by allegedly encouraging Lewinsky to submit a false affidavit; by encouraging her to testify falsely in court and several other actions.

The fourth alleges Clinton "frivolously and corruptly" asserted executive privilege in battling Starr's investigation, and thereby abused his official power.

Hyde urged wavering Republican lawmakers to "keep their powder dry until they have all the facts in the case against the president.

At the same time, Hyde promised Democrats he would give them a vote on the lesser punishment of censure before the committee concludes its historic impeachment probe later this week.

He made his remarks as one moderate Republican climbed aboard the drive for censure rather than impeachment.

In several hours before the committee, Ruff made one grudging concession.

Asked by Rep. James Sensenbrenner (R-Wis.) whether Clinton had lied, Ruff said, "Reasonable people... could determine that he crossed over that line and that what for him was truthful but misleading or non-responsive and misleading or evasive was, in fact, false.

"But in his mind — and that's the heart and soul of perjury — he thought and he believed that what he was doing was being evasive but truthful."

Ruff was unyielding on his underlying point.

"He has suffered privately and publicly... He recognizes that like any citizen, he is and will be subject to the rule of law," said Ruff, who first came to national prominence a quarter-century ago as the last Watergate special prosecutor.

Clinton's "conduct, although morally reprehensible, does not warrant impeachment, does not warrant overturning the mandate of the American electorate," Ruff said.

Lawmakers, even Republicans virtually certain to support impeachment, listened intently as Ruff sought to counter Starr's allegations on by now familiar issues such as gifts the president exchanged with Lewinsky, Clinton's alleged coaching of his secretary on his contact with Lewinsky, and his alleged perjury in denying a sexual relationship with the former White House intern.

There were surprise developments all around.

White House deputy counsel Bruce Lindsey, the president's closest aide and a man who battled to keep Clinton's secrets throughout Starr's investigation, was present in the committee room for Ruff's defense.

Republicans, for their part, laid plans for possible 11th-hour airing of never-before-shown videotape of Clinton answering questions about Lewinsky during his deposition in the Paula Jones sexual harassment lawsuit.

Hyde's promise of censure vote in the committee instantly prompted Democrats to renew their demand for a similar vote on the House floor next week. "Fairness dictates that the American people not be muzzled on the all-important issue of censure," said Rep. John Conyers (D-Mich.) the senior Democrat on the impeachment panel.

In comments to reporters a few paces away from the hearing room, Hyde said he would attempt to meet with fellow Republicans in the intervening days, but not to urge them to support impeachment.

"The only lobbying I'll do is for people to withhold making a commitment until they have all the facts," he said.

KELLY FITZPATRICK / COLLEGIAN

And stretch...
These students are participating in their last ballet class in Totman Gym.

Loud music could be addictive say some doctors

BOSTON (AP) — It's a condition you don't want your next-door neighbor to have.

Lending weight to the suspicions of generations of disgruntled neighbors, roommates and parents, researchers at Northeastern University have published a study suggesting some people might have addictions to loud music.

"One of the hallmarks of addictions is continued use, despite physical harm. These people couldn't stop listening," said Mary Florentine, one of the authors of the study published Tuesday in Ear and Hearing: The Official Journal of the American Auditory Society.

Ninety people were recruited for the study, and given a questionnaire similar to those used to identify alcoholics.

For example, they translated the question, "Do you feel you are a normal drinker?" to "Do you feel you listen to music at normal levels?"

Other questions asked respondents if they had ever lost hearing or been in trouble with the law because of loud music.

Like alcohol, heroin and nicotine, the study argues music "has the capacity to induce rapid and potent changes in mood and level of arousal, the ability to reduce negative states, and the tendency to elicit the experience of craving."

■ Cigar

continued from page 1

sarily be held accountable."

Although the Cigar was able to continue publication through private donations, including an $800 donation from journalism professor and faculty advisor of the Cigar, Linda Levin, the Senate's original decision plunged the campus, and the surrounding community, into a heated debate about freedom of the press.

University of Massachusetts journalism Professor Karen List responded to the debate sparked by the cartoon and the subsequent racist accusations.

"They certainly should not have done that," she said. "But to shut the paper down serves no one's interest."

She also said the implications of shutting down a newspaper as a form of censorship are very scary. She referred to a 1988 Supreme Court case, Hazelwood v. Kuhlmeier, which mandated that a principal may censor a high school paper "if the contents interfere with the school's educational mission."

List said the ruling of that case was a "disaster," but even more disturbing are recent efforts to apply the Hazelwood ruling to university papers. In a 1997 federal district court ruling, Kinkaid v. Gibson, the judge applied the Hazelwood case to a Kentucky State University yearbook, which had been censored by administration because of satirical cartoons criticizing the administrators.

Newspapers around the nation have also been taking notice and responding to the Cigar's situation. A Boston Globe editorial printed yesterday praised the actions of the Cigar editorial staff "for principled refusal to apologize" for the cartoon.

"Here is a case where a student paper is being charged with racism and threatened with sanctions for publishing an anti-racist cartoon," the editorial said. "If the URI campus allowed those threats to prevail, then we would surely step through a racial and academic looking-glass that satire would be hard pressed to capture."

University of Massachusetts
SOMETHING EVERY FRIDAY
presents
Comedian
Reggie McFadden

December 11, 1998
Student Union Ballroom
8pm
FREE

Student Opener:
CHRIS WALSH

The movie "Smoke Signals will be shown following the performance. "Smoke Signals" will also be shown on Sunday, December 13, 1998 at 8:00pm in the Campus Center Auditorium.

For more info, please call 545-3600 or visit our website. http://www.umass.edu/events/calendar.htm

Reggie, a Brooklyn native, has had guest starring roles on COACH, MARTIN and MOESHA. He has also appeared on the FOX series GETTING PERSONAL and became a regular performer on the LATE SHOW WITH DAVID LETTERMAN and CONAN O'BRIEN

SOMETHING EVERY FRIDAY presents a Hurricane Relief Fundraiser:
"There's Something About Mary"
Monday, December 14th 1998
Campus Center Auditorium
5pm, 7pm, 9pm, & 11pm
Admission: 5pm show - $1
7, 9 & 11pm show - $2

One of the Best Films of the Year!
"Two Big Thumbs Up!"

Smoke Signals
PG-13

This series is made possible through a grant from Auxiliary Services and the office of the Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs.

THEATER UMASS and New WORLD Theater presents

Thurs-Sat, December 3-5
Tues- Sat, December 8-12
8pm, Rand Theater
additional 2pm matinee on Dec 12

General Admission $7 Students and Low Income Patrons, $4
Call FAC Box Office, 545-2511

--- The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian ---

Long Horn Christmas

Part two of a two-part travel guide to Texas.

For all of you out there who didn't read last week's column, at the beginning of which I described how I went to Texas for Thanksgiving to watch the University of Massachusetts football team play in the first round of the playoffs against McNeese State (a game which the boys in maroon won, obviously), shame on you.

For a brief review, though, you learned that my fellow sportswriter, Brett, and I wandered around a town named Beaumont and mayhem then ensued. It was a quaint little story. Check the Collegian archives for specifics; I can't be repeating myself here. You're just going to have to keep up, okay?

On the Friday after Turkey Day, Brett and I were rescued by a valiant fellow named Matt. Now Matt is a "real" sportswriter, so he got this nifty rental car, and thus, Brett and I were no longer forced to walk around Eastern Texas.

With Matt, Brett and I took a trip to nearby Houston under the assumption that there would be something other than gas stations and car dealerships there.

Of course, there were. But the fun came on the one hour ride from Beaumont to the home of the Astros — in the form of billboards and random signs.

Yeah, that's right, we're easily amused. You might be surprised, though. Here's a sampling:

To get out of jail, dial FREEDOM!

At least these folks make it difficult for their criminals to get back on the streets. I'd hate to have murderers stay behind bars for any length of time after they made their one phone call.

Who's Daddy? 1-800-DNA-TEST

Apparently telephones are the cure for every problem.

Hello, who's my father?
-Who's your mother?

Billy Sue.
-Well, it's either Bobby Joe, Billy Bob, Gary Gene, John Boy, Tommy Joe...

We sell boxes!

Great.

We buy houses — any condition!

I admit it, I'll go through my CDs to see which ones I don't listen to anymore so that I can sell them back to places like Mystery Train records or Bull Mouse Music to pick up some extra bucks. Houses? Any condition? That's going a bit far, don't you think?

By the way, does anyone want a room in Gorman Hall? It's in mint condition when clean ("when" being the key word there) and almost half of the utilities sometimes work. Call me at 1-800-IN-A-CELL.

Seth Koenig

Dizzy? Tingly? Sweaty Palms? If it's not love, it could be your heart.

Theoretically. But it could also be that you've been walking in Beaumont for an hour and a half looking for a pool hall.

The Smile Store.

Based on the folks we saw, this place must have been really expensive — only the rich people managed to get them.

Gunfighter Homes.

Oh, this is good.

"You just aren't living unless you're in a Gunfight!"

It's all about guns with these people. Stop the violence.

GLASS

See "We sell boxes."

Pappa Truck Stop: Deli, Food, Bar, Adult Movies

You can't flog the dolphin on an empty stomach, I suppose.

Live Alligators: RV Park

Otherwise known as "Texas population control" or "A dramatic oversight," depending on how you look at it.

Here we get by with brutally murdering a woman.

Yeah, just dial FREEDOM, right? This is either a tourist attraction for the mentally unstable or a sick, sick inside joke. Either way, it was an attention-getter.

I swear to God this was actually on a billboard — I wouldn't make something like this up.

Log Beds

That sounds comfortable. UMass might shop at this place, now that I think about it.

Old River, right under which is a sign that reads: Lost River

River: "Gosh darn it, where'd I leave my ding spectacles? Where am I? What 'n the hell are them kids wearing? In my day, rivers would cause major problems for people — travelling West, were they. Nowadays, them rivers don't got any guts. People just build new-fangled futuristic thing-a-ma-jigs they call bridges. Huh. Nobody ever built a bridge over me. Where am I, anyhow?"

Now Hiring Demolition Personnel

Matt, Brett, and I finally found our calling. Writing really isn't it, I think.

Microsurgical Vasectomy Reversal — Money Back Guarantee

So, if you still can't, you know, reach the promised land, you get all 25 bucks back to put towards things like Pappa Truck Stop movies... oh, wait... never mind.

That was Thanksgiving. There's no telling what Christmas break will bring for Matt, Brett, and me; the amigos three. To be honest, I might be doing a little travelling with the UMass basketball team. Yeah, they're going to Texas.

Seth Koenig is a Collegian columnist.

Tough questions

Don't get me wrong, I am not against the Honors College, but I am against the fact that much of its development has been carried out without much input from the students. I think the Honors College will help the University more than it will hurt and it's similar to many other honors colleges across country, such as Penn State, Arizona State, and Michigan State University.

> "Many students across campus have concerns about Orchard Hill becoming an exclusive academic elite living area."
>
> Mohammed Reza

I think an extra $1.75 million for the University never hurts, but the fact remains that the Honors College should have been brought to the attention of all students much earlier into the semester.

From the meeting last Wednesday with the head of the Honors Department and the Deputy Provost, I have formed a much clearer picture of what the Honors College means to us as Orchard Hill residents and as University of Massachusetts students. The Honors College is like any other college in the University, with the exception that it will provide a living area for students.

Those students who want a competitive academic area of living can choose to live there, or not. For the students of UMass, the Honors College means 50 new honors courses and a residential area, which is designated as honors living, which is nothing new.

I am also surprised and thankful for the immediate response by the Deputy Provost office and the Honors Program for providing students with answers to questions and concerns brought up last Wednesday in Orchard Hill.

Many of the questions brought up last Wednesday had to do with the required living area for all entering honors students. The answer from the Honors Program and the Deputy Provost is, "No! Entering honors students will be able to choose to live in any of the residential areas on campus."

Most students were concerned that Orchard Hill residents would be evicted from their living area to make room for the incoming honors students. The answer to this was also, "No! Existing residents of Orchard Hill will not be evicted from either the residential area or their current residence hall to accommodate for incoming Commonwealth College students."

Many students across campus have concerns about Orchard Hill becoming an exclusive academic elite living area over time but the answer to this by the Deputy Provost and the Honors Program is once again, "No. 34 percent of the current Orchard Hill residents are honors students. We anticipate that there will be a small increase in the percentage of honors students, but it would remain less than 50 percent."

I am glad to see students' questions are being answered but there are many other concerns to be addressed by students and faculty, such as the 50 new honors courses that are being added into the University without increasing the size of the faculty. How will high academic standards be maintained? What will happen to the incoming freshman honors students who decide to live in Orchard Hill after their freshmen year. Will they be allowed to live in Orchard Hill or will they face the same problems current Orchard Hill residents are facing at this moment?

These and many other questions are to be answered next Monday at 6 p.m. in Orchard Hill where the head of Housing, Michael Gilbert, will be present along with Linda Nolan, head of the Honors Department, and the Deputy Provost, Norm Aitken.

Overall, I believe the Honors Program is not all bad but up until now the students have not had much of a say in the development of the Honors College, which has a direct effect on all students of UMass. I believe students along with faculty should have equal voice in the developments of the Honors College before further advancements are made by the University regarding it.

Mohammed Reza is a UMass student.

Some things I know

During my 20 years, three months and four days that I have lived on this planet I've noticed a few things. Some of these things have pleased me and others haven't. I figured that since this is the last time that I'll be writing before semester break that I could give you some different ideas to ponder during the longest winter break in collegiate history. The following are some very conservative opinions.

Footwear: Let's start with footwear. Now, I don't have a problem with footwear itself, but with the entire footwear industry. I wear a size 16, and my friend Dave wears a size 16, and even though his foot is twice the size of mine Dave doesn't even have to pay a dime more than me. Let's apply this "logic" to real estate.

Now let's say that you go to see a realtor and you point out a house that you really like. Then you say, "Ya know, I really want that house. Only I want each room to be double the size and I want to pay the same amount that the owners of that house paid." They would be the laughing stock of Century 21.

Normally people with big feet are taller than the people with small feet. These people usually have a better chance of making the basketball team, they can always see better at concerts and they never have to worry about their girlfriend being taller when she wears high heels. You would think that these perks are enough, but for some reason the footwear hierarchy caters to the people with the big feet.

Pub Cheez: I really love the pub cheese at People's Market. It is like cream cheese, but creamier and it has a little zip to it. You should all get it and put it on your bagels.

Stupid People: I am not a big fan of stupid people. They only serve two purposes. The first is that they slow society down. The other purpose is making the people who are not stupid think that they are smarter than they actually are.

I we should have some kind of review board to give tests and certify citizens as competent or stupid. Some things that would constitute "stupid" would be not being able to function with any independence once they are over 18, believing that Nebraska has a coastline and having South Park characters on their car. The people deemed stupid by the review board would have a big "S" tattooed on their chest and then they would be shipped out to Omaha, Neb.

Dan Viens

I chose Omaha because I saw on "60 Minutes" that it is home to one of the fastest-growing economies in the country. Hopefully in all of the bustle and bustle they would be able to find a job and gain some level of competence.

Tattoos: I've noticed that tattoos have become extremely popular as of late. Many of my friends have gotten one or more in the last couple of years. I've been trying to think of one that would look cool on me and that I would not regret having in 25 years. For every good one I see there are hundreds of bad ones.

Finally I came to my answer. What I plan to do is really let myself go for a few years. I am going to eat everything in sight and do nothing but play Atari until my gut is so big that I can't see my feet. Then I am going to get a tattoo of a washboard stomach. This way when I take my shirt off all the honeys will think that I am buff, but I'll know that I'm a fat tub of lard and I can eat whatever I want and still get plenty of action.

Thievery: Once in a while, in conversation, my friends and I discuss robbing a bank or a store. Everyone gives their opinions about which place they would rob and how they would do it. I think that I've come up with the best place to rob. The best place is not a bank. Sure banks have a lot of money, but there are cameras and secret alarms everywhere. It would take a lot of research to rob a bank and if you get caught it would be months down the drain.

The best place to rob isn't even a liquor or convenience store. Places like this don't even have much money and you have to worry about the person behind the counter pulling out some secret shotgun. And no, the best place to rob isn't a restaurant. Quentin Tarantino showed this in Pulp Fiction.

The best place to rob is a movie theater on the opening night of some blockbuster movie. Take Independence Day for example. Let's say on opening night it is playing at 5, 7, 9 and 11 p.m. If you go to a huge theater that has 3,000 seats for each show and it is playing in more than one theater you are looking at a ton of money. If there is a cop there then it might be tough. However, with a couple of friends and a halfway decent plan, robbing a movie theater could prove to be a good time.

Thanks for taking a few minutes to go on a little tour of my mind. I hope that you enjoyed it and I hope that I gave you something to ponder while you're shoveling the driveway that you never thought you would have to shovel again once you came to college.

Dan Viens is a Collegian columnist.

Virtual insanity

It's the year 2010 and I am a cog in some bureaucratic corporation. My life is defined more by what I don't do than by what I do. I don't play a sport or cook or do anything remotely creative. I don't have time to read the paper every day. I'm busy with important things, like my career, and anyway, what's the point?

Every now and then I take a vacation, and when I do I choose a comprehensive tour package so I don't have the headache of deciding what I want to do or planning it. One year I went on the "Highlights of Paris" tour and with a group of camera-toting singles I saw the Eiffel Tower, Notre Dame and the Louvre, complete with a running educational commentary (one needs fodder for virtual chat).

We all ate in a real French bistro, chatting in that witty, detached, expatriate sort of way. Thank goodness the tour leader arranged the meal so we wouldn't have to order in French, or pay with Eurodollars or eat something vile — which would have made the vacation most unenjoyable. Between these annual vacations I sometimes get a bit bored, if you want the truth. I live alone with my virtual pet.

Tanya Mannes

It sounds like I am rather lonely, I suppose. But then again, I have a lot of fulfilling relationships. My personal advisor at Virgin Music sends me e-mail when the artists of my choice release a new album. I'm in the Preferred Reader's club at Waldenbooks so my friends there know I like a good Ngaio Marsh-type mystery to read in front of the "fireplace setting" on the wall unit.

And when I stay at a Marriott I know I will be greeted by name, because I am an Honored Guest. Their database contains a picture of me and a file of my likes and dislikes, triggered when I walk into the lobby. At least that is what I have heard. I prefer to believe that the front desk staff recognize me — it's not impossible. Service has just gotten better and better.

Besides my time-consuming spending habits, I also try to keep up with current events. For instance People magazine online just had the funniest article about some of the scrapes Lara Croft has been getting into. That girl never ages — I wonder what her secret is...

Just kidding. I know Lara is a virtual celebrity! What do you think I am, out-of-touch? If there's one thing I know, it's pop culture. (I think of myself as very post-post-modern, even though I don't actually know what "post-modern" or "modern" really means.) In the late '90s, virtual celebrities came into vogue. They were less temperamental than drag queens or starlets, and they also had a longer shelf life.

It is admittedly reassuring that such celebs will never die in a car crash, or get wrinkles — unless they're syndicated for Ensure ads. I remember Douglas Coupland gave the new virtual celebrity a salivating endorsement.

And William Gibson published Idoru in 1996, around the same time Lara appeared on the scene. It's about Rei Toei, an entirely virtual Japanese media star who gets a marriage proposal from a man who loves her for what she is, and what she is not. He sees things in her eyes that he has never seen before. It's so beautiful.

While I would, in fact, like to get married, as I have said my relationships and shopping decisions take up a lot of my time, and for some reason I have not yet met "the one." In the meantime I keep up with Tia, Robert, Anna and the rest. Whenever I see them in a Calvin Klein ad or hear them on the radio, I get a warm feeling.

Back in 1998 they started appearing in ads as "characters" with e-mail addresses. Part soap opera, part relationship, the campaign began with a lot of hype. If you e-mailed them, they would e-mail you back intermittently — just like a real e-mail correspondence. I am one of the many people who really got into it, and Calvin Klein added more and more of the characters as the years passed. The great thing is, we never fight, and they will never show up teary-eyed and crash on my couch. I look forward to e-mails from them every day now, and of course I write back. It's become quite an institution.

See, the trick is to suspend your disbelief. I can't even imagine how lonely our world must have been before technology made it possible to have so many "friends." Everything is easier than it once was. For some reason I feel safer, more in control now than ever before, with all of my relationships — call them what you will. Some would say information is power, and if so my favorite companies have more power over me than I care to admit. But it doesn't feel that way. They know what I like.

How does the old song go? You wanna go where everybody knows your name... As long as I am an American consumer I can be on a first-name basis with wherever I spend my cash.

Tanya Mannes is a Collegian columnist.

There will be a meeting today, Thursday, Dec. 10th at 7 p.m. in the Collegian office for all current and interested Ed/Op writers. An Editorial Associate position is open for next semester. All interested candidates should attend the meeting as well. Questions? Call Mike, Tanya or Alexis at 545-1491.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545-3500 • Fax (413) 545-1592 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor-in-Chief Position Vacant Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Laura Forster Developing Nations Editor
Mike Menaros Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Co-Jewish Affairs Editor

Morgan Tobor Co-Jewish Affairs Editor
Heather Lei Guzzetta Multicultural Affairs Editor
Jill Carroll News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Sports Editor
Allana E. Todman Women's Issues Editor

Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Prester Distribution Manager
Feisal Ahmad Marketing Manager

Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life, became the College Signal in 1901, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1936. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1994. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

The Collegian's annual

Collegian Artists of the year

It was a stroke of genius for the Barenaked Ladies to throw a free concert in Boston on a steamy day in July this summer. The Canadian band attracted thousands of devoted fans, but more importantly, brought their music to a whole new crowd of college-aged non-sleepers, romantic misfits and beer-drinkers. They were the biggest overnight success of 1998, as well a unique musical creation in their own right.

As usual with overnight successes, the band has actually been around for nearly a decade, starting with Gordon and continuing with Born on a Pirate Ship. But their biggest recording success was the live compilation Rock

Bryan McAllister

Spectacle, a spectacular collage of BNL ditties, from the folksy "Straw Hat and Old Dirty Hank" to the catchy "If I Had a Million Dollars" to the romantic "Life, in a Nutshell".

The Ladies are nothing if not whimsical and witty. Perhaps their greatest popularity and, yes, artistry lies in their live concert performances. Even if you're not a fan of the band, it's impossible not to be tamed by their improvisational charm.

This was their year. The best thing at the H.O.R.D.E. Festival this year and a welcome addition to late-night talk shows, BNL also released one of summer's most-anticipated albums, Stunt. Sure, "One Week" was much too overplayed, but that's hardly their fault. One hopes that "I'll Be That Girl," the best song on the album, will get just as much playing time in the future.

With wit and charm to spare, one only hopes that such a future is unlimited for the Barenaked Ladies. Only cynics can stop them. Unfortunately, there's plenty of those.

The Barenaked Ladies are the Collegian's 1998 Artists of the Year.

Honorable Mentions: Massive Attack. The Beastie Boys, REM, Lauryn Hill, Cameron Diaz.

Bryan McAllister is a Collegian staff member.

Albums of the year

1. Massive Attack — Mezzanine

I cannot list, in the limited space I have, the hundreds of reasons that this is the best album of the year. Taut, focused, and intricately beautiful, there is no reason that everyone who claims to be a casual fan of music should not own this album. Easily the most important album released this decade since... well, since Massive Attack's Blue Lines.

2. Curve — Come Clean

The most underrated album of the year. Curve makes the five years since Cuckoo worth the wait. A lot of dark drum and bass at primal tempos. The singles "Chinese Burn" and "Coming Up Roses" are excellent as are all the other tracks on the album, especially "Sweetback."

3. Air — Moon Safari

The release of Moon Safari from French band Air early this year did not exactly catch on like wildfire, but managed to raise quite a few eyebrows. Spacey and soothing.

4. Legendary Pink Dots — Nemesis Online

LPD's latest is, debatably, one of their best. A clever release from the eccentric band.

5. Tori Amos — From the Choirgirl Hotel

Not as complex as Boys for Pele, Tori combines the melodic qualities of Little Earthquakes, the funkiness of Under the Pink and some of the anger from Pele, to create what is not, by far, her best album (which, I believe is held by Under the Pink), but still a gripping piece of work that only Ms. Amos can deliver.

Kevin Monahan - Music Editor

6. Love and Rockets — Lift

Constantly mutating, Daniel Ash, David J., and Kevin Haskins have returned to release an unrelenting album that has more of a dance-house ambiance than anything else they have ever done.

7. Pitchshifter — www.pitchshifter.com

Hardcore industrial thrashings polished up a bit. Highly enjoyable.

8. Combustible Edison — The Impossible World

Sure, it has its cheesy moments. But it's fun to throw this album on,

Turn to MUSIC, page 8

Best of film in '98

Rob Roensch - Film Editor

Layout & Design by Sharon Kubo

Campus Perspectives

Compiled by Bryan McAllister • Photos by Brian McDermott

Who do you think should be artist of the year and why?

"Well, no one's gonna like this, but Terrell Davis for sports. And the Broncos team as a whole."

Mark Zraunig
Junior
Resource Economics

"Janet Jackson. The way she evolved from little girl to woman. I like her style."

Shareefah Mapp
Junior
Apparel Marketing

"Usher. He's got a lot of new music. It touches on what everyone is going through right now."

Jen Fahnestock
Senior
French

"Jimmy Durham, because he addresses pertinent political issues and ethnic issues of the day."

Katherine Woltz
Teaching Assistant
Art History

"Tupac. Because he's dead and he still has new records."

Mike Renwick
Sophomore
Engineering

"Ben Affleck and Matt Damon. They showed that they're artists and a lot of people gained respect for them."

Lisa Shell
Sophomore
Psychology

From depths of human despair to transcendence

By Emily Trask
Collegian Staff

DE PROFUNDIS
Bowker Auditorium
Dec. 8

Shut up in a jail cell, all but devoid of light, is where Oscar Wilde spent some of the last few years of his life. The sentiments of Wilde's experience were portrayed with brutal honesty in De Profundis a one-man performance by Corin Redgrave, Tuesday evening. The atmosphere in Bowker Auditorium was transformed back in time and place to Reading Gaol (jail) in England. Audiences were permitted to experience Wilde's frustration and torment, as he experienced it nearly 100 years ago.

De Profundis is and example of Wilde's "life and artwork beautifully combined," said Donald T. Sanders, in his opening remarks. Sanders is the executive artistic director for the Massachusetts International Festival of the Arts.

Wilde fashioned De Profundis as an apologia to Lord Alfred Douglas, while he was in jail. Wilde was imprisoned for "homosexual offenses" in 1895. As an introduction to the performance, Merlin Holland, Wilde's grandson, contended that his grandfather was put in jail for being a rebel, and he said that through his life and work, Wilde questioned the hypocrisy that he saw in British society.

"He was the most dangerous kind of rebel: he painted a rainbow of forbidden colors," said Holland. Holland has spent the past 20 years researching his grandfather's life and works, and now lectures, broadcasts and writes regularly on Wilde.

During most of Wilde's imprisonment, which lasted for two years, "He was deprived of pen, paper, words and the colors of the outside world," a most harsh punishment, Holland explained. De Profundis, originally a letter, was written in the spring of 1897 because of a sympathetic prison guard. "If the prison authorities had played by the rules this never would've been written," said Holland.

De Profundis is overflowing with contradictory emotions and, most of all, truth. "This is the closest we will ever come to hearing the Wilde's great voice. De Profundis is full of anger and remorse, arrogance and humility. There is no mask, and we can see him for the first time," said his grandson. "It is Wilde looking at his life from prison — his past, present, and future, all at once."

In his compelling performance, Redgrave succeeded in capturing Wilde's conflicting passions. He conveyed Wilde's sorrow, anger and strength. Although Wilde is believed to have lost his Irish accent at Oxford, Redgrave gave his character a trace of a brogue. This restoration gave Regrave's portrayal of Wilde a certain poignant honesty. The hint of an accent demonstrated that Wilde's high-brow education could not repress his true self.

"De Profundis is the greatest of all spiritual odysseys since Pilgrim's Progress, risks sounding florid and affected if we listen to it with ears steeped in received English pronunciation," Redgrave said. "And that conversely Wilde's prose stands up to its full towering height when it is read or heard within a Celtic frame or reference."

Though Wilde's words and Redgrave's performance conveyed a strong sense of melancholy, Wilde's statement was also victorious. Although Douglas was the cause most of his life's pain, Wilde forgave him. "I rid myself of bitterness against you [Douglas]," said Wilde. Through his imprisonment, Wilde realized "nothing is meaningless, suffering least of all."

Through the writing of De Profundis, Wilde vindicated himself. He discovered his "humility" which he recognized as "the last and best thing in me."

Towards the end of the play, Wilde seemed to turn to nature for solace because he said, "society has no place to offer me." With courageous strength Wilde ends by telling Douglas not to be "afraid of the past, because the past, present and future are only one moment in the sight of God."

After Wilde's death, Douglas received the letter and destroyed it after reading two paragraphs, said Holland. Luckily, a friend of Wilde made copies of the letter and sent one to the British Museum where it was sealed for 50 years. It was not seen in its entirety until 1962.

So while Wilde's apologia never reached its intended destination, he, along with the assistance of his grandson and Redgrave, has managed to reveal the human frailty and uncommon strength of Oscar Wilde — releasing him from his bondage forever.

COURTESY MOVING THEATER

Corin Redgrave starred in Oscar Wilde's De Profundis this past Tuesday night

Vince Vaughn plays Norman Bates. He likes birds, knives, mothers and people who write for Arts. So make Norman happy and come down to the Collegian and get involved.

The Arts & Living desk is currently looking for new writers for next semester. No experience necessary. We're also looking for a writer to write a JAZZ/BLUES WEEKLY column for next semester. As well as 1–2 column ideas on any subject.

If you're interested, come down to our offices or call 545– 1361 and ask for Bryan or Kevin.

Get Jiggle with it tonight at SUB

Music invades the heart of the University of Massachusetts campus tonight when Boston's explosive jam-band, Jiggle the Handle, looks to dazzle their audience with the band's renowned improvisations.

Touring for their forthcoming release due out early next year, the band has been gaining an extremely loyal fan base since their debut effort.

Aiding them as a premier New England act was their opening spots on this past summer's H.O.R.D.E. tour with Barenaked Ladies and Blues Traveler.

Gary Backstrom, Jiggle the Handle's lead guitarist, stated that the H.O.R.D.E. tour offered the band to "believe in ourselves and look at ourselves in a different way." Further, the tour "teaches you how to perform and how to put on shows."

Backstrom, a former Amherst resident, looks forward to tonight's show as a chance "to make a lot of new friends and see many old faces." He hopes to "reconnect with the area," as he sees it as a "place to go back to regularly."

Jiggle the Handle's freeform jams will be a delight to listen to at the first concert this semester that is located in the Campus Center/Student Union Complex.

The Opposable Digits will set the show off at 9:30 p.m. Tickets are only $5 when purchased in advance from Tix Unlimited in the Student Union, or $6 at the door.

— Tom Sadlowski

Film explores gay life in China

By Will Thomson
Collegian Correspondent

Banned in its own country, the first mainland Chinese film to deal directly with gay themes was recently shown at the University of Massachusetts.

East Palace, West Palace, a debut film from director Zhang Yuan, was screened as part of a program of Chinese films that highlighted the work of Jimmy Tan, a Hong Kong–based movie producer.

East Palace, West Palace highlights some of the problems of being gay in China and it touches more broadly on the problems of living under a repressive government.

The movie is set in a public park behind Beijing's Forbidden City. Police sweep the park one night, and briefly question the men they find cruising there. One particular cop, Xiao Shi (played by Hu Jun) picks up A-Lan (played by Si Han) but decides to let him walk.

The officer later arrives at work to find he has been mailed a long handwritten book of writing, with "To My Lover" inscribed inside. The officer quickly slams the cover closed and the next time he comes across A-Lan in the bushes of the park, he drags him down to a little park police station to interrogate him.

We learn that A-Lan writes pulp romances for a living — unable to tell the story he really wants to tell — his own. He jumps at the opportunity to talk, but his poetic sensibility and meandering narrative angers the cop, who insists he wants only to know the facts. But he too is being drawn into the story and as the night goes on, he is slowly being seduced by the young writer.

A-Lan's story is not comforting. His life is lonely, and in the flashbacks, his lovers' faces are always concealed. In his memory they have become anonymous. A-Lan has come to enjoy the abuse he suffered and he also provokes the policeman.

"I can be whatever I want. You, though, you might as well be dead," A-Lan says in one scene.

The tension builds as the policeman lets his defenses down. A-Lan's story is spliced with scenes from a Chinese opera story of a jail keeper and his captive. A princess falls in love with her guard, and though she is beaten and kept locked up, she cannot help herself.

"The captive loves her jail keeper, we love you," A-Lan whispers to the sleeping cop. "What other choice do we have?"

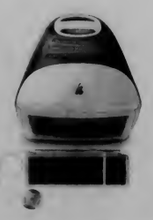
As China embraces liberalization and openness, the government's treatment of its artists and thinkers is increasingly conflicted. It too finds them at once dangerous and seductive, and what once was a hard-line has become significantly more flexible.

Tan conceded that the film was unlikely ever to be shown in China, but said that he considers the global market when deciding to invest in a film. Moreover, he said that he simply liked the film and that it was a good story. Tan invests primarily in mainland Chinese films, and says he focuses on what he likes rather than on what he knows will pull in the highest profit.

Filmmaker Zhou Xiaowen also visited UMass and said that he and other filmmakers in China rely on people like Tan to invest in their work now that the government has stopped funding all but a fraction of the films made in China.

The last day of Finals is Dec. 23...

GOT GIFTS?



We have thousands.
Don't wait until it's too late...
Buy Now, Play Later!

WE GIVE 100%
University Store
In the UMass Campus Center
Open 9 to 5 M-F, 11 to 4 Sat.
413 - 545 - 2619

Welcome to our paper, feel free to write for us

Some People Want to Change the World
We Just Want to Change Your Oil!
Lube
10% Off Full Service Oil To All Students and Employees (not valid w/ other offers)
Mention This Ad & Receive a Free Phone Card While Supplies Last
Look for $5 off Coupons on Register Receipts at Stop & Shop, Big Y, Victory Markets

The only thing better than an iMac: An iMac for less than $29.99/mo.

Apple® Computer couldn't make iMac™ any easier to set up or use. So they made it easier to buy. Now, if you're a student, you can get an iMac for less than $29.99 per month* with the first payment not due for 120 days. For about what you'd spend on a few pizzas, you can have a super-fast computer that can get you onto the internet in 10 minutes right out of the box. You also get a coupon book worth $2,000 in possible additional savings, for software, games and accessories. Come try an iMac for yourself at

Computers Etc. — A division of University Store — In the UMass Campus Center 9 to 5 Mon.–Fri. 11 to 4 Saturday 413-545-2619

http://www.apple.com/education/store

Authorized Reseller

© 1998 Apple Computer Inc. All rights reserved. Apple, and the Apple logo are registered trademarks and iMac is a trademark of Apple Computer Inc. *Monthly payments of $29.99 based on a term and amount of $1,439 consisting of Nebraska factory suggested retail price of $1,299.00 including all taxes, shipping and handling plus a one-time acquisition fee of $139.99. Five payments will be due approximately 30 days after loan disbursement. The monthly payment amount is the prime rate published in The Wall Street Journal on the first business day of each month plus 9.99% (9.99% is the rate in effect on November 1, 1998, the rate is 11.98%, 10.49% prime rate plus 1.49%). APR subject to monthly change in prime rate. Any changes in the loan will take effect on the first business day of the following month and will affect the dollar amount of your monthly payments. Loan is subject to credit approval. No down payment required. No prepayment penalty.

"Rudolph," "Frosty" on TV

The holiday season is upon us, even though it feels like it was only last week that we were moving all of our belongings into the dorms and area apartments. Over the past half-century, the holidays and the television have become so closely related that the matchmaker in Yentl is complaining that they aren't married.

Every year, the TV industry floods the viewing public with holiday treats to keep us glued to the set, with a hidden message to go to the store and buy more gifts. The biggest gift of all, is the check that the companies hand to TV stations that is usually enough to buy a million furby dolls.

However, it does seem that every year, people can't wait to see their favorite holiday specials and movies, regardless of all of the propaganda that goes along with it. So here is a preview of all the holiday programming that will be coming to a TV near you.

Unfortunately, some TV stations have chosen to show some of the specials a little bit early. The day after Thanksgiving, CBS ran an updated, all new version of "Rudolf the Red Nosed Reindeer." Last Wednesday, it showed the holiday classic, "A Charlie Brown Christmas." Nonetheless, there are still tons of shows that have not been on the air yet that will be seen in the next few weeks.

With the weather being in the 70s around here, it doesn't seem like snow is something that we could all be in a frame of mind about. However, tomorrow night at 8 p.m., CBS is having its white Christmas night by showing "Frosty the Snowman," and "Frosty Returns."

Immediately following these two shows, CBS will be airing "Kathie Lee Christmas." The special is an annual event, and will involve Christmas carols being sung by Kathie Lee, as well as special performances by her son Cody, and the pop group N'Sync.

This Sunday night, there is a repeat of "The Simpsons" that involves Bart burning down his own Christmas tree, and losing all of the family's presents. In order to make enough money to buy more, Marge decides to go on "Jeopardy," and there is a guest appearance by Alex Trebek.

Of course, there are tons of movies this holiday season. It seems like when I was young, everyone used to be saying that you could see It's a Wonderful Life all of the time, on every station from the day after Thanksgiving until Dec. 25.

Now things are different, because NBC bought the exclusive rights to the classic film, and have vowed that they will only show it once. The time slot that they chose to give to it is actually on Christmas Day, and was originally slated to show NBA basketball. It's nice to know that while all of the players are kicking back in their $25 million homes, and complaining about all the money they're losing because of the lockout, they're ruining another classic family tradition in so many other's.

Tube Notes with Ryan Benharris

Basketball on Christmas is just like football on New Year's Day. However, it looks like because of a bunch of $100 million egos, mixed with some heartless owners, that tradition is out the window.

So if It's a Wonderful Life is only going to be shown once this year, what is the movie that you'll see so much that you just can't stand after a while. In recent years, Disney has had a strong pulling for overplayed movies. A Muppet Christmas Carol and The Nightmare Before Christmas seem to be popping up on TV more than ever before, but there is definitely one classic movie that seems to be on way too much.

How many times have you seen A Christmas Story this year? I can honestly say that I've seen it twice already, and even though I am extremely sick of it, for some reason I feel like I can't turn it off once it's on.

I guess that I have some sort of loyalty to the movie, and I've made a secret oath that whenever I see it, I'll watch it all the way through. I finally came to this realization when I was watching it for the second time this year. The pathetic thing is that I was watching it at Media Play in the mall. They had it on, and I was strolling by, and I swear that I stayed there for a solid hour, and watched the rest of that movie. I didn't care that I had seen it about four hundred times before, the minute that I looked at a TV set, and saw Ralphie, I was stuck, and had to watch it again.

I think that I'm going to request having that movie tested for subliminal messages, because all I need to do is get one glance at it, and my brain says, "Oh come on, just stop and watch for a few minutes." Then maybe a few more. Well, there's only about an hour left, might as well finish watching. To me, this is something that I look forward to watching during the holiday season, but after I've seen it the first time every year I've gotten sick of it.

It really does seem to pop up everywhere, and maybe it's just a matter of time before NBC buys the rights to it, and vows to only show it once. Who knows, maybe the Grinch will go on strike, and they'll have to pre-empt his Christmas–stealing spectacular with A Chistmas Story.

Speaking of the Grinch, as always, he'll be around quite a bit this year. It seems like he's on TNT and TBS every day, and kids and adults alike can't get enough of this Dr. Suess masterpiece. The more recent news about the annual special is that there is a full length movie in the works. At first, the rumor was that Jack Nicholson was going to play the notorious anti-Christmas villain, but now it seems like Jim Carrey will be the choice. Regardless, it will probably be a worse butchering of a classic than the new Psycho movie.

As always there will be tons to watch this holiday season. Being a person who doesn't celebrate Christmas, but watches way too much TV, I can honestly say that most of the specials appeal to everyone. I'd just like to thank everyone who read this column this semester, and as always it's been a blast. Have a great break, and I look forward to sharing more Tube Notes with everyone in January.

Ryan Benharris is a Collegian columnist.

COURTESY ATTILA DORY

Caged Heat
Nicolas Cage goes a little crazy in Snake Eyes, the summer movie now out on video.

Has your mind settled in for a long winter's nap?

Wake it up with Dean's 3-week Accelerated Intersession! December 28th-January 15th

Come back from the holidays intellectually exhilarated with Dean College's 3-week Accelerated Intersession! Dean College offers part-time evening, morning, and afternoon classes in Business, Liberal Studies, Computers, English, Economics, Math, and more during this 3-week session. Whether you need transferable credits, an improved grade, or a step closer to your degree, you can earn credits in no time. You can live on Dean's campus while classes run December 28th-January 15th. On-going registration by phone, mail, web-site, or walk-in. Awaken your senses and your mind this winter break with learning that won't put you to sleep!

REGISTER NOW! 1-877-TRY-DEAN

Registration Mon-Thur 8:30AM-6:30PM, Fri 8:30AM-4:00PM

Visit our web-site at www.dean.edu

Dean College — 99 Main Street, Franklin, MA — Located off Rte 495 - Free Parking and Accessible

CALVIN

Theatre and Performing Arts Center

THE CALVIN COMES ALIVE ON NEW YEAR'S EVE!

FIREBIRD
Stravinsky's suite brought to life through the magic of puppets and an incredible light show. Great fun for the whole family!
3:30, 4:30 & 6:30

The Mystical Arts of Tibet sacred music sacred dance for world healing
9 pm

Cry, Cry, Cry
Dar Williams
Lucy Kaplansky
Richard Shindell
Friday, January 1
8 pm

Saturday, January 2 • 8 pm
Noche Flamenca

Wednesday, January 13 • 8 pm
THE kRONOS quartet

PHILIP GLASS & ENSEMBLE
KOYAANISQATSI LIVE
January 14
8 pm

12/18 John McDermott: Christmas Memories
12/31 Firebird (3:30, 4:30 & 6:30 pm)
12/31 Mystical Arts of Tibet (9 pm)
1/1/99 Cry, Cry, Cry: Dar Williams, Richard Shindell & Lucy Kaplansky plus Buddy & Julie Miller
1/2 Noche Flamenca
1/13 The Kronos Quartet
1/14 Philip Glass & Ensemble: Koyaanisqatsi Live
1/23 Charlotte's Web Presented by Theaterworks U.S.A.
2/6 Chick Corea & Gary Burton
2/7 The Northampton Arts Council's Silver Chord Bowl
2/11 Ladysmith Black Mambazo
3/6 Cirque Eloize

Coming soon: Arcadia Players, James Galway, Kai-Ni Chen Dance Company, The Wizard of Oz, Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Co., The Adventures of Courduroy

CALVIN THEATRE - 19 KING STREET, NORTHAMPTON, MA 413-584-0610
Tickets for the Calvin Theatre are available at the Northampton Box Office, Thornes Marketplace in Northampton.
To charge by phone call 586-8686 or 1-800-THE-TICK. Visit www.masslive.com for more information.

all shows all ages! Pearl Street Nightclub

all shows music alone shall live all ages! IRON HORSE MUSIC HALL

Join us for New Year's Eve in Noho!
At Pearl Street 8:30 pm: STASH
At the Iron Horse 7&10:30 pm: LUTHER "GUITAR JUNIOR" JOHNSON PLUS MICHAEL HILL'S BLUES MOB

Billy Bragg & the Blokes
The Mermaid Avenue Tour: Rediscovered songs from Woody Guthrie
SUN. 12/13 • 8:30 PM
PEARL ST. BALLROOM

FRI. DEC. 11 • 7 PM — Acoustic blues trio — SAFFIRE: THE UPPITY BLUES WOMEN
SAT. DEC. 12 • 7 PM — Wise-cracking singer songwriter — DAN BERN plus Chocolate Genius
SAT. DEC. 12 • 10 PM — Amherst's African reggae greats — BLACK REBELS
SUN. DEC. 13 • 7 PM — Son of Loudon and Kate McGarrigle — RUFUS WAINWRIGHT plus PJ Olsson
MON. DEC. 14 • 7 PM — Klezmer meets Knitting Factory — HASIDIC NEW WAVE
THU. DEC. 17 • 8:30 PM — Alternate-tropic blues rock — ELECTRIC BLUE & THE KOZMIK TRUTH plus Schleigho
FRI. DEC. 18 & SAT. DEC. 19 • 7 PM — Smooth voiced pop singer — LIVINGSTON TAYLOR
SUN. DEC. 20 • 7 PM — Poetic lyrics, rich harmony — DAVE MALLETT
SAT. DEC. 26 • 7 & 10 PM — Party band #1 — NRBQ
SUN. DEC. 27 • 7 PM — In heaven there is no beer — CLEAN LIVING
MON. DEC. 28 • 7 PM — A folk rock classic — POUSETTE-DART TRIO
TUE. DEC. 29 • 7 PM — Youthful chamber quartet — STRING BEAM
WED. DEC. 30 • 7 PM — The psychedelic cowboy rides again — COMMANDER COOY & HIS LOST PLANET AIRMEN
THU. DEC. 31 • 7 & 10:30 PM — New Year's Eve Blues Bash! — LUTHER "GUITAR JUNIOR" JOHNSON plus Michael Hill's Blues Mob

FRI. DEC. 11 • 8:30 PM • CLUBROOM — Acoustic duo — ENTRAIN
SAT. DEC. 12 • 8:30 PM • BALLROOM — STARDUST OVER PEARL STREET: HOLIDAY SWING DANCE with the Jim Shepley Band & DJ Jitterbug Bill Jameson
SAT. DEC. 12 • 8:30 PM • CLUBROOM — Acoustic Celtic rock — SKOIDATS plus Ecked on the Head and Mairi Voyer
SUN. DEC. 13 • 8:30 PM • BALLROOM — Woody Guthrie tribute band — BILLY BRAGG & THE BLOKES THE MERMAID AVENUE TOUR plus Joe Pug
FRI. DEC. 18 • 8:30 PM • CLUBROOM — Acoustic • Spoken word humor — BUFFALO TOM

Visit www.masslive.com for updated listings!

PEARL STREET NIGHTCLUB, 10 PEARL ST., NORTHAMPTON, MA • THE IRON HORSE, 20 CENTER ST., NORTHAMPTON, MA
Tickets for all shows available at the Northampton Box Office, 2nd Floor, Thorne's Marketplace, Northampton 1-800-THE-TICK or 413-586-8686. Tickets for the Iron Horse are available at For The Record in Amherst. Tickets for Pearl St. are available at For The Record, Absent Music in Greenfield and Platterpus Records in Westfield. 24-Hour Concert Info: (413) 584-0610 or visit www.masslive.com

~Year in Reveiw, music~

dress up in a suit and have a martini, make that a few martinis.

9. Belle and Sebastian — The Boy With the Arab Strap
These Weedgies have released a superior album. Which is surprising since their last LP, If You're Feeling Sinister, is a tough act to follow.

10. Arab Strap — Philophobia
It is impossible for an album to be more bitter than this. Maybe a bit too graphic for some. But I admire its brutal honesty.

Mike Messaros — Ed/Op Editor

1. Liz Phair — Whitechocolatespacegg.
Biggest happiest surprise of the year, hands down. Not a mainstream song on the album.

2. Hellbender — Con Limon.
Don't let the name fool you. These guys kick out the jams, Jawbreaker-style, with diary like lyrics and jaw bruising music.

3. R.E.M. — Up.
The band that inspired countless college bands pays homage to Beach Boys, Patti Smith, Pulp and Radiohead to make first album after some guy left.

4. The Afghan Whigs — 1965.
Hmmm. There ain't nothing wrong with a little bump of good Prodi. Afghan Whigs.

5. Lucinda Williams — Car Wheels on a Gravel Road.
Don't like country? You're a chump. This spare, gentle album tells you like a barbituate.

6. Tori Amos — From the Choirgirl Hotel.
For all her talk about faeries and songs wearing dresses and jazz like that, she still knows how to spin a good tune.

7. The Spinanes — Aisles and Arches.
Rebecca Gates, my future wife, expands her sound beautifully. It's so good. I almost don't feel guilty that I stole it.

8. Rocket From the Crypt — RFTC.
This was my summer album. Driving to my crappy temping job, I almost forgot I was doing data entry for an insurance company. Almost.

9. Elliot Smith — XO.
Mmmmh, pretty. Best opening line of the year: "Baby Britain feels the best floating over a sea of vodka." Finally a song about me.

10. Braid — Frame and Canvas.
Emo pretty boys make good. For once.

Honorable Mention: Bruce Springsteen — Tracks.
This four-CD box set is the greatest achievement in the history of man, replacing the old No. 1, the discovery of fire.

Matthew Nixon — Staff Writer

1. Air — Moon Safari
Fun and more fun. Debut release featuring great old-style keyboards and spaced-out dance feel from this French duo.

2. Tori Amos — From the Choirgirl Hotel
Tori mixes up quiet tunes with more experimental pieces on her fourth album. Something for everyone.

3. Madonna — Ray of Light
The material girl's best work in years. She is easy to dismiss as motherhood takes her away from the spotlight. The creative genius of club-guru William Orbit allows for such beauties as "The Power of Goodbye" and "Sky Fits Heaven."

4. Massive Attack — Mezzanine
Moody and atmospheric. Cocteau Twins' Elizabeth Fraser and clever use of a sample from The Cure only add to the magic.

5. Deep Dish — Junk Science
Club music made right here in the U.S.A. Plenty of beats per minute. Pluses are guest vocals from Everything But The Girl's Tracey Thorn and the keyboard talents of BT.

6. R.E.M. — Up
These guys can do no wrong. Like a lizard without its tail, they prove that the band can go on without a founding member.

7. UNKLE — Psyence Fiction
Space-themed concept album featuring a sample from Star Wars. Superb guest vocals from Radiohead's Thom Yorke and borderline mayhem from Mike D of Beastie Boys.

8. P.J. Harvey — Is This Desire?
Love is a wonderful thing, or is it? Polly Jean's best album yet.

9. Belle & Sebastian — The Boy With The Arab Strap
Vivid tales set to refreshingly simple melodies from this group from Scotland.

10. Kent — Isola
Great new Swedish band featuring lots of guitars and a vocalist sounding a bit like Suede's Brett Anderson. Suprisingly overlooked by almost everyone.

Some notable songs of the year: George Michael's "Outside," Propellerheads' "History Repeating," All Saints' "Never Ever" and Fatboy Slim's "Rockefella Skank."

David Katzoff — Staff Writer

1. Gangstarr — Moment of Truth
Almost every song is as good as the last. With the golden touch of DJ Premier and vocals from 'the king of monotone' this album is ridiculously on point. Guru even stepped up his lyrics taboo!

2. Outkast — Aquemini
This musically rich, innovative, eclectic, soulful assembly of songs is riveting and tantalizing. Not only is it a well- conceived album, but it is ridden with gripping, positive messages and comforting Southern sensibility.

3 Lyricist Lounge — Volume I
A double disk is barely enough to contain the raw energy of these underground sounds. From heat-boxed freestyle ciphers, to dynamic, highly polished rhythms, this is hip- hop in its purest form.

4. DJ Shadow — Pre-Emptive Strike
Ambiance is perhaps not the rugged, street-wise sounds that many are attune too, but this is hip-hop nonetheless. Shadow's stunning musical abilities are certainly not too be overlooked by a closed mind.

5. Big Punisher — Capital Punishment
On this heavyweight explosion of lyrics and beats. Pun flexes his muscles and rips through stereo sets. Despite the many trivial elements in this album, on the whole it is a fierce debut from raps largest phenom.

6. Brand Nubian — Foundation
Together again after all these years. Good production, positive concepts, humorous lyrics and witty rhymes, this is certainly one of the years sleepers... not to be slept on.

7. Beastie Boys — Hello Nasty
After loosing considerable hip-hop credibility since the days of Paul's Boutique, they have stormed back with a deep and disciplined effort. Don't front... this was one of the years most welcomed surprises.

8. Black Star — Mos Def & Talib Kweli Are Black Star
Even though this record was somewhat of a let-down, it is still one of the most original outputs of '98. Del and Kweli have unlimited potential and lyrically, they let it shine.

9. Lauryn Hill — The Miseducation of Lauryn Hill
Shhhh. I hate to admit it but this album melts my ice grill. It is intelligent, positive and poignant and completely conceived by L-Boogie herself. I know there is a lot of singing for the hardcore hip-hop heads, but c'mon, it's pure heart-felt soul. Rap music was in desperate need of admirable portrayals of women and Lauren provides it in a big way.

10. Killah Priest — Heavy Mental
This one was rather tough because it is extremly awkward lyrically. However, the stimulating production on this album is so deep it gleams through the smog of his rhymes.

COURTESY CINDY PALMANO

Tori Amos sits serenely; she should — her album From the Choirgirl Hotel is one of the best of the year.

From rock to wreck, picking the best and worst in '98 music

By Kevin Monahan
Collegian Staff

Top 5 singles:

1. "Spark" — Tori Amos
2. "Teardrop" — Massive Attack
3. "Du Hast" — Rammstein
4. "Coming Up Roses" — Curve
5. "Ressurection Hex (KMFDM mix)" — Love and Rockets

Top 5 live shows:

1. Bauhaus — Harborlights, Boston (Sept. 5)
2. Portishead — The Palladium, Worcester (March 14)
3. Radiohead/Spiritualized — Centrum, Worcester (April 15)
4. Curve — Axis, Boston (March 30)
5. They Might Be Giants — Bowery Ballroom, New York (Oct. 16)

BEST LIVE ALBUM:
Portishead — PNYC
The album and video are essential to the Portishead freak.

WORST ALBUM:
Natalie Imbruglia — Left of the Middle
Imbruglia succeeds at nothing but being a no-talent-twit. Her weak voice drains all the emotion out of Ednaswap's "Torn," and, like most popular artists devoid of talent, her biggest hit is a cover. Suzanne Vega is next in line to sue for plagarism after Imbruglia stole the title of her album from Vega's "Left of Center."

BIGGEST DISAPPOINTMENT:
The Smashing Pumpkins — Adore
After releasing three excellent albums, Gish, Siamese Dream, and Mellon Collie and the Infinate Sadness, the Pumpkins followed up with a formulaic album of what should have been b-sides. The first single, "Ava Adore" was excellent, if not overplayed, but "Perfect" left much to be desired. It should have been called "1979 part II."

BEST COVER ART:
The Smashing Pumpkins — Adore
Okay, so the album wasn't all it could be, but the cover photography and the photos inside are beautiful.

MOST ANNOYING SONG
Barenaked Ladies — "One Week."
I hate this damn song. If I hear it one more time, I'm going to walk into a McDonald's with an assault rifle and start strafing.

ANNA FOLEY/COLLEGIAN

Harborlights was the place for one of the best live shows of the year — Bauhaus on Sept. 5.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY

DUE TO OUR RAPID GROWTH, EXPANSION, AND PROMOTIONS, WE CURRENTLY HAVE THE FOLLOWING OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE:

PROFESSIONAL VEHICLE SALES CONSULTANT
Compensation:
Salary plus commission & bonus

Candidates must:
- Be able to operate a normally equipped vehicle;
- Have a valid drivers license, accept able driving record.
- Be able to read and write English (at or above high school level);
- Be honorable
- Prior sales experience desireable.

We offer top compensation and a strong benefit package that includes:
Medical and Dental Insurance Available
Paid Holidays, Vacation, and Sick Leave
Training and Advancement Opportunities
Excellent Working Conditions
Full Two Week Training!
Recognition for a Job Well Done!
Split shifts - 40 hour work week

A management team committed to excellence, growth and client satisfaction.

For more information or to submit an application, please visit 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays or send your resume or letter of application to:
Bill Richard, Gen. Sales Manager
(NO PHONE CALLS PLEASE)

NORTHAMPTON TOYOTA LINCOLN MERCURY
280 King St., (Rte. 5) Northampton
Equal Opportunity Employer

LIQUORS 44's KEG PICKS OF THE WEEK!

1/2 KEGS NATURAL LIGHT $34.99 + DEP.
1/2 KEGS ICEHOUSE, RED DOG, ROLLING ROCK $36.99 + DEP.
1/2 KEGS BUD, BUD LT., BUD ICE $40.99 + DEP.
1/2 KEGS HARPOON I.P.A. & WINTER WARMER $81.99 + DEP.

LIQUORS 44
LOWEST KEG PRICES IN THE VALLEY

LITE & LITE ICE $15.49 + DEP.
Coors Extra Gold $10.99 + DEP.
MOLSON $9.99 + DEP.
SAM ADAMS $9.49 + DEP.
MAGIC HAT $5.99 + DEP.
SIERRA NEVADA $6.49 + DEP.
BASS ALE $9.49 + DEP.
GENESSEE $6.49 + DEP.
ROLLING ROCK $13.49 + DEP.
J.W. DUNDEE $6.99 + DEP.

SMIRNOFF VODKA $15.49
BACARDI RUM $15.49
CANADIAN MIST $9.99
Seagram's 7 $10.99
Kamchatka $12.99
SOUTHERN COMFORT $12.49
JIM BEAM $16.49
The GLENLIVET $22.99
DEWARS $29.49

ABSOLUT VODKA $11.99
BAILEYS IRISH CREAM $14.49
Captain Morgan SPICED RUM $18.49
TANQUERAY GIN $13.99
AMARETTO DI SARONNO $14.99
Canadian Club $11.99
SEAGRAM'S V.O. $14.49
CHIVAS REGAL SCOTCH $21.99
Crown Royal $15.99

Discounts Available on Cases of Wine & Liquor. Ask For Details.

AT THE STOP & SHOP PLAZA
HADLEY 253-9344 NORTHAMPTON 586-3007 HOLYOKE 534-4555

SALE PRICES THURS. 12/10/98 THRU WEDS. 12/16/98
NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

ONE DAY SALE!!!!!
Today Only!
20% OFF all UMass Frames in stock!
UMass Cross Pens 25% OFF
GREAT GIFT IDEA!
Hats by GAME just $9.99 Reg. $12.99
Plus In Store Specials on Computers, Software, and Accessories!
WE GIVE 100%... University Store Not like a mall... Better.
We also do all our profits to support University programs.
SEVEN GREAT SHOPS ONE GREAT STORE
In the UMass Campus Center
Open 9 to 5 M-F
11 to 4 Sat.
413 - 545 - 2619

~Year in Reveiw, films~

6. Beloved
It's a shade heavy-handed and impressed with itself, but Beloved is still an important and beautiful movie. Director Jonathan Demme and his cinematographers capture an enveloping dark, watery light that serves well the movie's exploration of pain and memory. The story is powerful and comes across most firmly not in the body of Oprah, but in the body of Kimberly Elise. It's not a clear, easily watchable movie, but it is a deep movie. It contains multitudes.

7. Smoke Signals
It's not only a good movie because it is about a population we don't see much in movies, Native Americans, but also because of its distinctive sense of humor and its wonderful, looping narrative, which combines real time, storytelling and memory with great skill and confidence.

8. Object of My Affection
This underrated little romantic comedy is sitcom smooth, but it's far from banal. The plot, a straight woman falling in love with a gay man and being firmly refused, is gently subversive to the requirements of the romantic comedy genre. The movie is full of warm performances and characters that Wendy Wasserstein's clever script allows to be selfish and mean but also forgiving. There's more messy, honest emotion here then in a truckload of Meg Ryan movies.

9. The Opposite of Sex
It was the best cynical indie movie of the year, following the adventures of Christina Ricci's teenage vamp as she seduces her half-brother's boyfriend, accidentally kills someone, and has a baby. The twisted plot and Ricci's voice-overs are a rip, but the real treasure is Lisa Kudrow's brave, Oscar-worthy comic performance as the most cynical woman ever.

10. There's Something About Mary
The stupidest movie of the year, but also the funniest, Mary overflows with sight gags and tiny bits of absurdity, all held together by Cameron Diaz's stubbornly sunny performance. There are too many well drawn moments in the movie to dismiss it as moronic. It takes imagination to be that dumb.

Bryan McAllister — Arts & Living Editor

1. The Truman Show
With biting wit and satire, filmmakers Peter Weir and Andrew Nicol conjured up this parable of a fake, controlled world and the struggle to break free from it. Part media satire, part social commentary, part humanistic journey with religious overtones, The Truman Show proved to be so much more than Jim Carrey's first successful serious movie.

2. Saving Private Ryan
The landing on the Normandy beach is already a contemporary classic, and the rest of Steven Spielberg's WWII epic is close to that measure. Mimicking the chaotic, gritty realism of 1940's newsreels, Spielberg and Tom Hanks created a frighteningly powerful war tale with a strong moral core to match it.

3. Love and Death on Long Island
Sadly, too few people saw this delightfully droll tale of an old British scholar transported to a new world of pop-culture and celebrity. John Hurt's musty, endearing performance was one of the best of the year, and Jason Priestley, as Hurt's object of admiration, was deliciously typecast.

4. Pleasantville
Pale comparisons to The Truman Show and holes in logic slightly damper this allegory of the struggle against conformity and emotional deadness, but brilliant use of color and excellent ensemble acting made Gary Ross' directorial debut a thought-provoking, witty success. Part of the fun was just searching for the numerous literary, biblical and film references.

5. The Spanish Prisoner
David Mamet is a god. No one spins a tale of trickery and con-artist mystery better than the playwright-turned-director, who guided Steve Martin and an eccentric cast through the multiple layers of The Spanish Prisoner. The whole movie plays like a game with the audience — shades of Alfred Hitchcock, and a better, broader experiment than his similar 80's film House of Games.

6. Sliding Doors
Imagine what would happen if you had just made it in time to catch that subway. Sliding Doors explored the dynamics of time in its relationship to love, but it was also the most convincing, heart-breaking romantic comedy of the year. Gwenyth Paltrow gave a beautiful performance in a dual role.

7. Without Limits
Another largely unseen epic. The second movie, after last year's Prefontaine, about Olympic runner Steve Prefontaine, Robert "China" Towne's biopic went for a more emotional, character-driven approach and succeeded in strides as big as the runner himself. Dynamic performances from Billy Crudup and Donald Sutherland as coach Bill Bowerman.

8. Primary Colors
OK, we're all tired of Bill Clinton, but Mike Nichol's sprawling comedy-drama-satire-ensemble piece was a one of the most underrated movies of the year. Showing us all angles of the moral question throughout his campaign for presidency, it is no more timely than now. Kathy Bates, as the president's "dust-buster," is a lock for an Academy Award nomination.

9. The Big Lebowski
Could the Coen brothers possibly top Fargo? No, but with The Big Lebowski, they actually made a stranger and funnier movie. There's a little bowling, a little kidnapping, a ferret, an avante-garde nude artist, and a lazy bum named The Dude all rolled together in this crazy farce, as well as some of the best supporting performances of the year — especially from John Goodman.

10. The Wedding Singer
While The Waterboy was a return to the all-stupid, all one-joke movie-making of Adam Sandler's early days, The Wedding Singer was fresh, funny, nostalgic and finally, a complete movie. Drew Barrymore was perky and sugar- sweet, and Sandler stole the film as usual with his mix of sensitivity and temper-tantrums.

Kevin Monahan — Music Editor

1. Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas
Terry Gilliam proved wrong every one who deemed Hunter S. Thompson's book unfilmable. A drug in and of itself, the film assaults us with a story that never stops to catch its breath, dizzying camera work and editing. The acting from Johnny Depp and Benicio Del Toro rocks.

2. The Spanish Prisoner
David Mamet's tribute to Hitchcock works on every level. Gus Van Sant should have been paying attention. Filled with excellent (and profanity free) dialogue, and a plot that twists so much one could suffer literary whiplash.

3. Henry Fool
Hal Hartley's most troubling and hard-hitting film. Poignant and funny, Hartley proves himself a true master of his craft with this film.

4. Pecker
John Waters' best film since 1985's Polyester. Toned down, but still in hilariously dubious taste.

5. Live Flesh
Spain's top filmmaker, Pedro Almodovar tries his hand at an action thriller, and succeeds at creating an exciting and suspenseful film, managing to fill it with his trademark absurdist humor.

6. The Big Lebowski
Joel and Ethan Coen present their latest botched kidnapping film. This one a hilarious study in laziness and nihilism, that starts with a urine stain. Jeff Bridges deserves an Oscar for his portrayal of "The Dude."

7. Dark City
Visually stunning, Australian director Alex Proyas (The Crow) makes us forget about the huge holes in the plot with the films aesthetic noir-like design.

8. Ma Vie En Rose
A cute, unpredictable tale about the innocent crossing of gender lines. Director Alan Berliner makes the film a little too bright for some, though. Bring sunglasses just in case.

9. The Wedding Singer
There are probably many films more deserving of this slot, but I haven't seen them. A great concept for a comedy. One could even consider it a period piece.

10. There's Something About Mary
See above. Pecker was a better film for bad taste, but the Farrelly brothers manage to break a lot of taboos with this immensely popular film.

Adam Martignetti — Staff Writer

1. The Truman Show
Jim Carrey is amazing in a story with which everyone can identify — the quest to discover just what life really is.

2. Saving Private Ryan
This brutal tale of war, devotion and hope is the odds on favorite for this year's Best Picture Academy Award. Come Oscar night, it wouldn't surprise me to see either Mr. Hanks or Mr. Spielberg on the podium.

3. Pleasantville
You knew what was going to happen and even how it was going to happen. The movie was done so exceedingly well though that it was still enjoyable. A story about censorship, individuality and the power of imagination.

4. Rounders
Superb acting and utterly fascinating characters highlight a virtually flawless movie about fate, destiny and taking chances.

5. The Wedding Singer
Adam Sandler takes a serious turn in this movie that was equally hilarious and touching. Far and away the best romantic comedy since Jerry Maguire.

6. Meet Joe Black
This movie about Death serves to enhance the beauty of life, love and the human spirit.

7. There's Something About Mary
The movie made no qualms about what it was a grotesque comedy with deceptively little romance. Of course, never has a movie succeeded so overwhelmingly in making people laugh so hard for so long. Truly the surprise of the year.

8. Return to Paradise
The best movie nobody saw. Unfortunately, this story of friendship, sacrifice and redemption went largely unnoticed.

9. A Bug's Life
With kudos to Antz, the movie highlights the cinematography and charm that made 1998 the year of the animated film.

10. Elizabeth
This great movie is performing exceedingly well at the box office and is garnering large scale recognition for independent films during a year in which there were an abundance of good ones.

Embrace your geekdom.
A message from night graphics.

Goten
Tuesday - Sunday
Tues. Weds. Thurs. Fri.& Sat. 5:00 til close
Sunday 2 til close
OF JAPAN
COOKING AT YOUR TABLE
Two Dinners for $20*
Shrimp and Steak Combination includes salad, soup, vegetable noodle, rice & ice cream
Two Dinners for $20*
Shrimp and Scallop Combination includes salad, soup, vegetable noodle, rice, tea & ice cream
Two Dinners for $17*
Steak and Chicken Combination includes salad, soup, vegetable noodle, rice, tea & ice cream
*SPECIALS ARE AVAILABLE TUES-THURS 5-8 PM, SUN 2-8 PM
SPECIALS ARE NOT AVAILABLE SAT, CLOSED MON
NOW Accepting Reservations for Christmas & New Year's Parties!
Rt. 116 • Sunderland (413) 665-3628
Casual Dress • Call for Reservations • Banquet Facilities for up to 50 People

Slightly to moderately overweight men, ages 18-34, needed for a study of hormones, diet, and body weight. Two 9-day hospital stays are required. No medicine or drugs will be given.
• A full medical exam
• Dietary counseling
• $1500 compensation
If interested, call Dr. Michael Ages at Children's Hospital, (617) 355-6849

AMHERST BREWING COMPANY
We have over 30,000 pints of fresh ales & largers.. WE SHARE!!
Thurs- B3 Blues Band
Fri- Wailin dave & the Bluedogs (Blues)
Sat- Stoney Hill (Rock)
Sun- Johnny Clark Quartet 8:30
• Fully Stocked Bar
• Late Night Menu Till Midnight
24-36 N. Pleasant St. Amherst 253-4400

TWO DAYS ONLY !!!!!!
Sale ends Friday!
25% OFF all Framed Prints in stock!
25% OFF all 1999 Calendars in stock!
25% OFF all Knit Hats, Mittens, & Scarves in stock!
Plus Champion Sleeveless Tees $9.99 Reg. $14.99
WE GIVE 100%... University Store Not like a mall... Better.
We also do all our profits to support University programs.
SEVEN GREAT SHOPS ONE GREAT STORE
In the UMass Campus Center
Open 9 to 5 M-F
11 to 4 Sat.
413 - 545 - 2619

LIQUOR SPECIALS
Castillo Rum white/gold 1L $7.99
Absolut Citron 1L $19.99
Crown Royal 750ML $15.99
DeKuyper Peachtree, Buttershots 1L $7.99
Gran Centenario Tequila 750ML $19.99 (Reposado, Plata)

Spirit Haus

BEER SPECIALS
OLD SPECKLED HEN PUB DRAUGHT
4PK 6 PK BTLS HOLLANDIA $4.99 +DEP
12 PK BTLS MOOSEHEAD $3.99 +DEP
12 PK CANS OLYMPIA $8.99 +DEP $4.49 +DEP

RED DOG
"Fantastic Selection of Kegs"

MICRO BREW SPECIALS
Catamount 12pk btls $9.49 +dep (Pale Ale, Amber, Mixed, X Mas)
OREGON 6pk btls $4.99 +dep (IPA, Nut Brown, Raspberry Wheat)
Red Hook 6pk btls $5.29 +dep (ESB, IPA, Blackhook, Winterhook)
MC Neill's 6pk btls $5.29 +dep (Blond Bombshell, Champ Ale, Firehouse Amber)
Large Selection of Micro Brew Kegs
Special Pete's Wicked Octoberfest $60.00

SPIRIT HAUS ALSO FEATURES A FULL REDEMPTION CENTER!
Open Sundays 12-6 For the Holidays!
BOURNE VINEYARDS CABERNET SAUVIGNON & MERLOT
RICH FRUIT, SOFT TANNINS VARIETALS FROM CHILE
VALUE PRICED $5.49
VALID STUDENTS TWO DISCOUNT WITH ID
PRICES GOOD DEC. 10-16 (NOT IN WINE AREA)
MAJOR CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED OPEN 9am to 11pm
338 COLLEGE ST (RTE 9) 1 MILE EAST OF AMHERST CENTER ON RTE 9
PHONE (413) 253-5384 • FAX 256-8433

The University of Massachusetts Boston presents
JAMAICA today
January 3 - 24, 1999
Experience Jamaica's culture, environment, and language in this special travel/study program which examines the country's economic, political, and social realities. Lectures and readings are supplemented by presentations from local experts and participation in cultural activities and grass roots development projects. Six undergraduate credits are awarded.
For further information, please contact
The Division of Continuing Education
University of Massachusetts Boston
100 Morrissey Blvd.
Boston, MA 02125-3393
617.287.7915
continuing.education@umb.edu
UMASS Boston

■ NFL

continued from page 14

Zach Thomas for this award.

Law has consistently shut down the Pats' best opposing receiver, and has intercepted eight balls so far to show for it. In a defensive backfield that can boast only Lawyer Milloy for consistent help, Law has led a New England squad to an 8–5 record. The Patriots defense is notorious for becoming indestructable as the season winds down, and Ty Law is a big reason for that.

NFL MVP: This might be kind of a surprise for some, but this Koen-Head award will go to Randall Cunningham of Minnesota. Leading the league in touchdown passes and passer efficiency rating after his Thanksgiving day performance, Cunningham is making full use of Moss, Cris Carter and Jake Reed. No doubt, Randall has a good supporting class, but the Vikes have only lost once all year, and the field-general has a lot to say about that.

Cunningham has come out of retirement to become a beautifully intelligent pocket-passer for the first time in his career, and opposing defenses are forced to play him as though they're playing both Joe Montana and Barry Sanders. There's very little way to defend that. If Robert Smith is helping out, he's undefeatable. If the Vikings make it to the Super Bowl this year, it will be only because of Cunningham.

His impact on this team is unmatched this year.

That concludes the first annual Koen-head Awards.

Seth Koenig is a Collegian columnist

Poor officiating contagious

AFC East race could come down to blown calls

Where has the officiating gone? This question has been overheard since that questionable Thanksgiving Day overtime coin toss between the Steelers and the Lions. At the time, this was an isolated incident, but now it has signified the past two Sundays of the NFL season.

Officiating mistakes have seemed to become the norm. These blunders have been inexcusable (even if they did help out the Patriots). I know that NFL officials hold only a part- time position and the spotlight shines on them every week, but they are professionals. These officials are supposed to be the best, but they have not been showing it lately.

Perhaps former 49er Brent Jones, now a pre-game show host for CBS, said it best, "They are the only part-time job that gets full-time criticism." Even still, I've seen high school officials that have made better calls than the ones we've seen these past two weeks.

If you've noticed, all these calls have had serious implications on the AFC playoff picture. Mainly, these botched calls have been concentrated in the AFC East, where the Jets and Dolphins sit atop with identical 9–4 records, with the Patriots and Bills grabbing at their feet with marks of 8–5.

The Steelers-Lions coin toss made it that much harder for Pittsburgh to stay alive in the playoff hunt. I'm not saying that they would have won the game if the coin toss (which they actually won) had gone their way (which it should have), but it could have given them an 8–4 record at the time. They had to settle for 7–5 though.

Bryan Smith

That same week came that faithful drive in Foxboro, when Shawn Jefferson made a catch on the side line — a catch on which he was clearly out of bounds, but was ruled in. That kept the drive alive and set up the most questionable call of all — an end zone interference call on a ball that Terry Glenn should have caught anyway — on the final play of the game, which gave the Patriots another shot because the game can't end on a defensive penalty. Drew Bledsoe then found Ben Coates in the back of the end zone for a Patriots' win, questionable as it was.

This past Sunday another terrible call effected the AFC East race. Vinny Testaverde, of the Jets, scrambled on the final play of the game to the goal line and seemed to be stopped short by the Seahawks, but after a conference between the officials, was ruled in for a touchdown and a Jets' win. Testaverde was a foot short of the goal line, but the officials didn't see it that way. Professionals you ask?

This call sets up an all important game in the AFC East Sunday night between the Dolphins and the Jets for first place and a firm grip on the lead for at least one week. One can only hope that this pivotal game does not come down to the officiating.

With poor performances the past two weeks the game better not be close at the end... who knows what will happen. The officials might give the win to the Colts, the only team in the AFC East that this game does not have meaning for.

Bryan Smith is a Collegian staff member.

Dandy Mandy

Junior Mandy Mosby has been one of the top performers for the UMass women's gymnastics team.

During call, Hunter claims NBA season will be played

By Chris Sheridon
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Don't worry, there will be an NBA season. At least that's what Billy Hunter was saying yesterday. With his constituents growing increasingly nervous that the lockout may indeed force the cancellation of the entire season, Hunter tried to soothe the mood on a conference call with about 80 agents, some of whom were skeptical.

"The union's negotiating team thinks there's another deal that will come rolling in, and I don't see it. There's no reason for confidence," said agent Harold McDonald, who represents Derrick Coleman and Terry Mills.

"The union should not sacrifice the earnings of the present players for the sake of future players," said Norman Blass, who represents Mookie Blaylock, Keith Askins and Derrick McKey. The conference call lasted about 1 1/2 hours, and about 20 questions were posed to Hunter and union attorney Ron Klempner, according to several people who participated in the call.

Among the topics discussed were the details of each side's proposal on how to divide a projected $2 billion in revenue, the owners' rejection of a mediator, the lack of sympathy the players have gotten from the public, the exhibition game next weekend in Atlantic City, and the prospects for forming a new league. As for the biggest question of all — Will there be a season? — Hunter was confident that the answer will be yes.

Here we come, Bayou boys...

With a victory over Northwestern State this Saturday in Louisiana, the UMass football team would advance to the Division I-AA National Championship game.

BOOK SALE
on Campus Center Concourse

WE GIVE 100% — Bookworks — Everyday Consumer at 10% OFF! or More! — Campus Center Store — All profits to support University programs.

Books make a great holiday gift!
25% OFF! Our Everyday Low Prices on Hundreds of Books! PLUS HUNDREDS of specially priced gift books! Price as marked.

VIDEO TO GO
6 University Drive, Amherst (413) 549-8509
- Across from Rafters. On Bus Route
- Inventory of over 16,000 Films
- Everyday Special: Four Catalog Titles, for Four Days for $5 (+tax).

$1 OFF ANY VIDEO RENTAL
(Not to be combined with any other special. One Coupon per Rental) Expires November 30, 1998.

安城中國飯店
AMHERST CHINESE FOOD
we do not use "MSG"
253-7835 or 253-2813
62 Main Street, Amherst

OOPS!
- Free Estimates
- Lifetime Warranty
- Auto Glass Replacement
- Car & Truck Rental

North Amherst Motors
Collision Repair Center (On bus route - one mile from UMass)
78 Sunderland Road, North Amherst, MA 549-2880

amc
Hampshire 6 · 584-7550 · Hampshire Mall
Mt. Farms 8 · 584-9153 · Mt. Farms Mall
HOME FRIES (PG-13) · BABE: PIG IN THE CITY (G) · JACK FROST (PG) · MEET JOE BLACK (PG-13) · ENEMY OF THE STATE (R) · PATCH ADAMS (PG-13) · HALLOWEEN H20 (PG-13) · RUGRATS (G) · BUG'S LIFE (G) · PLEASANTVILLE (PG-13) · STAR TREK: INSURRECTION (PG-13) · I STILL KNOW WHAT YOU DID LAST SUMMER (R) · PSYCHO (R) · THE SIEGE (R)
* Special Engagement, no Passes or Coupons. $2.50 (Twi-Lite) Show Daily

2 DAYS LEFT FOR THE MINI MALL 1998
DON'T MISS OUT ON GREAT HOLIDAY GIFTS!
23... TABLES OF MERCHANDISE RANGING FROM POSTERS TO MUSIC, HANDMADE JEWELRY TO POTTERY, WOODCARVINGS TO CLOTHING, SWEATERS TO GLOVES, AND WINTER ACCESSORIES.
GREAT PRODUCTS AT GREAT PRICES!
FREE ADMISSION FREE
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM DECEMBER 10 & 11 FROM 10AM - 5 PM

Party.
ZAMA downtown Amherst

Spice of life.
India House
dinner nightly
45 State Street
Northampton
586-6344

Proudly announcing the opening of
ALKA TRAVEL
Specializing in travel plans to India, sub-continent, and Europe.
Talk to us about discounted Air Fare.
Call 587-3030 for further information and rates.

Big Mac attack

After helping her team squeak out a win over Holy Cross on Tuesday night, Alison MacFarland hopes the Minutewomen can extend their winning streak to three games.

Boxing legend's health fails, Archie Moore dies at age 84

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Archie Moore, who knocked out more opponents than anyone else in the history of boxing, died yesterday at 84. Moore's son, Billy, said his father was taken to a San Diego hospice about a week ago because of his poor health. The boxer's children had kept vigil at his bedside.

Moore retired at 49 after a career that is considered one of the most amazing examples of longevity in sports. He held the light heavyweight title for 11 of the 27 years he was in the ring, knocking out 141 opponents in 228 bouts.

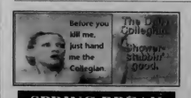
"His nickname is Ageless Archie," his son said. "They named him that because he wouldn't tell people how old he was when he started boxing. Now, I guess it means something else — that he will live on forever."

Moore, whose real name was Archibald Lee Wright, was born in Benoit, Miss., on Dec. 13, 1913. He won his first professional fight 23 years later, with a decision over Murray Allen in Quincy, Ill.

He won the light heavyweight title in 1952 at age 39 with a victory over Joey Maxim. He successfully defended his title nine more times, but along the way lost to heavyweight champions Rocky Marciano, Floyd Patterson and Muhammad Ali. He was the only boxer who fought Marciano and Ali.

Moore had some of his greatest battles with Harold Johnson, who held a portion of the crown. They fought five times from 1949 to 1954 with Moore the winner all but once.

They met only once with the title at stake. Moore won that bout at New York on Aug. 11, 1954, retaining his crown with a 14th-round knockout. His other title defenses came against Bobo Olson, Yolande Pompey, Tony Anthony, Guilio Rinaldi and twice against Yvon Durelle.



BRIAN MCDERMOTT COLLEGIAN

King of the rink

Freshman forward Darcy King looks to help the UMass hockey team notch two victories during a two-game set with New Hampshire this weekend.

SPRING BREAK HEADQUARTERS
Heller Travel
Student Travel Specialists, LOWEST student and faculty discount airfares.
HELLER TRAVEL
You just can't get it anywhere else!!
146 Massachusetts Avenue at Berklee
Boston, MA02115 (800) 843-1544
email: heller@berklee.edu

EMERGENCY MEDICAL TRAINING
By Human Services Training Consultants, Inc.
Part Time Evening Classes start February 8, 1999
Call UMASS, Continuing Education at: 545-0474

BILLIARDS
10A Belchertown Road
Amherst, MA 01002 256-8284
15 Big Screen TV!
"Everyday from 3-7pm $4.00 hour pool"
Thursday Night "Jesse Band"
Live Music Every Thurs. Fri & Sat

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT
Apple Computer will be at the Campus Center on December 10th from 10–3 showing the iMac, Mac OS 8.5, Sherlock and lots of other cool stuff as well as answering your questions about Apple products. Make sure that you stop by!!!

Why wait in line when you can shop online?
Shopping.com Your source for holiday gifts!
Pay No Sales Tax!
Get 50% Off Every Day!
All Top 40 CDs... ONLY $8.97! Every Day!
Shopping.com

GIFTS from GLASS to GOLD
Find that ruby, sapphire, emerald or handmade diamond engagement ring... featuring Lazare® ideal cuts
Watch batteries, full in-house repair service, pearl re-stringing, appraisals and free ear piercing with purchase of studs. Great selection of earrings!
silverscape designs
GOLDSMITHS GEM GALLERY
One King St., Northampton 584-3324 • M-Wed 10-6, Th-Sat 10-9, Sun 12-5
264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst 253-3324 • M-Sat 10-6, Thurs 'til 8, Sun 12-5

EAST HEAVEN HOT TUBS
Best Place for a Hot Tub
30% STUDENT DISCOUNT
W/VALID I.D.
SUNDAYS -THURSDAYS
Holidays Excluded
413-586-6843 • 33 West St. • Northampton
www.eastheaven.com

FSB
PART TIME TELLER POSITION
Florence Savings Bank is currently seeking candidates for a part-time teller position. The successful candidate will be responsible for operating a teller window, handling a wide variety of customer transactions in a courteous, professional manner, while adhering to Bank policies and procedures.

Applicants should possess a high school diploma or the equivalent, customer service experience, prior cash handling experience, strong communication and interpersonal skills, and computer experience.

Florence Savings Bank offers a competive salary and outstanding benefit package. A sampling of benefits includes:
* Medical Insurance
* Dental Insurance
* Life Insurance
* 401(k) Plan
* Pension Plan
* Profit Sharing
* Paid Vacation

If you are interested in becoming part of the FSB team, please forward your resume, or apply in person to: Human Resources Assistant, Human Resources Department, Florence Savings Bank, 85 Main Street, P.O. Box 60700, Florence, MA 01062-0700. Florence Savings Bank is an Equal opportunity Employer and encourages diverse candidates to apply for this position. No phone calls, please.

Collegian Classifieds

113 Campus Center — University of Massachusetts • Phone: (413)545-3500 Fax: (413)545-1592

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Take Over Our Lease 1 months rant free! 2 bedrooms, 2 baths. Excellent condition. Mill Valley Estates. Available Jan 1st. 253-1656

Sugarloaf/Alpine
2 + 4 bedrooms available immediately.
Free heat/hot water, plush carpet, designer bath, fully applianced kitchen.
On PVTA bus line
Call 665-3856
Ask about our great specials.

Take Over My Lease 1 bedroom, Puffton Village. Nicely furnished. Available Feb 1. $570. Call 549-0316

Take Over Our Lease One bedroom apartment on bus line. Rent is $450+. Starting Jan 1. Call Tim 256-8852.

2 Bedroom Puffton Village Renovated. Starting Jan 1. 549-7105.

WinterSession: Huge 2 bedroom, 5 miles away, Sunderland $550. 546-5072 or 546-2793.

Take Over My Lease Amherst Town Studio. Hot water. $440. 253-1708.

New Puffton Village- Rent starting at $570. Includes heat, hot water, and cooking gas. OSS satellite and cable ready. On-site parking and laundry. Near UMass. On bus line. One, two, and three bedrooms. Call 549-0145 now.

Brandywine Apartments
1 and 2 bedroom apartments available
1/4 mile from campus
Oac or Jan 1
Call 549-0600

Lantern Court (Sunderland)- 2 bedroom. Close to bus stop. $550. Call 665-6705.

AUTO FOR SALE

88 Ford Taurus V6, 93K, automatic, station wagon, power steering, cruise, A/C, power windows, new tires, tune-up. $2200 or B/O. martin.reeker@ps.ga.com or (518)385-0196 9a.m.-4p.m.

Great Winter Car 4x4 1990 Tracker. Excellent condition. New tires. $3399. 256-0509.

VW Jetta 88 Blue, 5 speed, tinted glass, runs and looks good. $1800 or B/O. Must sell! Call Will 549-6659

AUTO FOR SALE

92 Subaru Loyale Wagon 103K, 4WD, air, tape deck, many new parts. $4495/BO. Must sell. 259-1750.

Toyota Camry 88 Standard. $1700 or B/O. 549-8773.

WANTED: Toyotas, Novas, Prizms, Sentras. Any condition. Cash paid everyday. 1-800-649-4795.

AUTO PARTS

Hard Top for 1991-96 Jaap Wrangler. Defrost/Wiper. Black. 549-0013

COMPUTERS

Mac PowerBook 520 Microsoft Word 6.0. Carrying case and manuals are included. $495 or B/O. 549-0938.

EMPLOYMENT

The Cape Cod Times, a 50,000-circulation daily based in Hyannis, is seeking a sports intern to start immediately and work through May, with the possibility of continuing through the summer. Journalism major preferred, experience on school or local papers helpful. Duties would include game coverage, high school sport round-ups and some editing. Hours primarily nights and weekends. $315/week. Call Sports Editor Bill Higgins, 508-862-1151, or Managing Editor Alicia Blaisdell-Bannon, 508-862-1192.

Returning to the Greater Boston area this winter break? Want a fun, flexible job working with kids in their homes? Call Parents in a Pinch if you have at least 2 full weekdays free and child-care refs. Earn 9+/hr 617-739-KIDS or email us at Oavidapiap@aol.com Car preferred!

TUTORS
Bilingual Tutors for part-time, paid assistance to students speaking Amharic, Chinese, Khmer, Portuguese, Serbo Croatian, Vietnamese
Contact ESL/Bilingual Office at 413-549-9857
Amherst Public Schools
An Affirmative Action/ Equal Opportunity Employer.

Cashiers PT/FT, All Shifts. Full-Time Benefits include 401K, Health, Dental, and Vacation. Please apply in person: Dairy Mart, 259 Triangle St., Amherst, MA.

EMPLOYMENT

WINTER BREAK JOBS
Abt Associates can offer you a position as a RESEARCH INTERVIEWER. We require a minimum of 20 hours per week, including 1 weekend shift and offer flexible scheduling options. We start our interviewers at $6.25/hr and pay an additional 10% for weekend work. If you can meet our requirements and want to know more, call Paul Bebo (413)587-1605 or, see our Recruiting Coordinator at our table in the Campus Center Concourse on Dec. 10, 1998 from 9am-1pm.

Best Winter Break Job In The Valley! Get paid to make a difference! Earn $300+ a week fighting air and water pollution. Leadership development seminars offered free to staff. CLEAN WATER ACTION 584-9830.

SUMMER MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITY
Where are you working during the SUMMER OF '99?
College Pro, a $25 million company, seeks highly motivated college students from New England to manage a service business. Summer earnings average $8-10K+ per manager. Internship credit possible. If you are a goal-oriented leader searching for the right opportunity, call for an application and information to be sent by mail. Leave your name, school address, and phone # on the automated voicemail system at: (617)576-6833 ext 124

Summer Job/Internship Mass Firm seeking FRESH, SOPH, or JR. Earn $8,500 for the summer. Seeking aggressive go-getter with strong history of past work experience. For information & prelim. interview on campus with student who worked in the position last summer, call 1-800-658-3841 ext 100.

ENTERTAINMENT

SOMETHING EVERY FRIDAY'S Hurricane Relief Movie: "There's Something About Mary" will be showing on Monday, December 14, 1998, in the Campus Center Auditorium. $1 Admission at the 5:00p.m. show and $2 Admission at the 7, 9, and 11p.m. shows.

FOR SALE

Computer Desk with Shelf Top. $45. Call Cathy 549-6026.

FOR SALE

Aggression Red Dog Snowboard Never been used. $225 or B/O. Call Eric 545-2745.

Full-Size Bed $150, Bureau $20, Desk $10. Call Steve 585-8259.

27" Samsung Stereo TV with universal remote 2 years old, perfect condition, hardly used. Cost $375 new, $200. 549-5979.

Silence Snowboard- 152cm., never used. $150/BO. Call Adam 253-9776.

GREEK ANNOUNCEMENTS

Kappa Kappa Gamma Holiday Party
When: 12/10 from 6-7:30 p.m.
Where: 32 Nutting Ave.
Any questions?
Call Julia at 549-2646
All Freshmen and Sophomore Woman are Welcome!

HEALTH & BEAUTY

We're here to pump... YOU UP! Creatine Monohydrate, Creatine Surge, OHEA, Whey Protein and more from Fitness Workshop delivered right to your door. 1-877-FIT-WORK www.fitnessworkshop.com

HOUSE FOR RENT

Summer Rentals
Cape Cod Group Summer Rentals. Some waterfront houses, some with swimming pools. Falmouth area. Call Oamond Rael Estate 1-508-477-1900.

INTRODUCTION

Keep Busy During Break Work off holiday pounds and have fun taking KICKBOXING LESSONS. One-on-One training with a U.S.K.B.A. licensed kickboxer. Call Joe @ 548-8979.

CARDIO KICKBOXING
Amherst Athletic Club. Train with the pros! 256-0080.

MISCELLANEOUS

Need a unique holiday gift? Try a handmeda teddy bear! Call Kelly 253-2654.

PETS FOR SALE

Rabbit Rescue has a lovely selection of bunnias. Many colors and types as well as a selection of cages and hutches. We can also help with any bunnies you can no longer care for. Call Ellen at 367-0105.

ROOM FOR RENT

2 rooms in a 4 room apartment on Main St. Available January 1. $275 or $295. Call Mark 253-1179 or Tim 253-6566.

Northampton 1 room in large Victorian house. 2 minutes bus and Downtown. Available now. Only $265! Call Dan 584-2339.

1 room in 3 bedroom renovated Puffton apt. Available 1/1/99. Ted 549-7374.

Looking for female for one room in house. Close to campus. Jan or Feb 1 to May 31. $250 a month. 549-1152.

Lambda Chi Alpha, located at 374 North Pleasant Street, has rooms available for rent over WinterSession. Call 549-7759 for more information.

Live In Brandywine
1 room available in two bedroom apt. On bus route. Utilities included. Call Melissa ASAP at 549-7851.

Nutting Ave.
1 minute walk to campus. I need to rent my room in 6 badroom house for Spring. 549-8742.

3 bedrooms for rent on Main St. $375, all inclusive. At bus stop. Recently ranovated. 253-9574.

Salem Place- 1 bedroom in 2 floor condo. 2 1/2 baths, fully furnished, carpated, deck, basamant storage. On bus route. Late Dec/Spring. Call John 256-0842.

Near Campus on Nutting Ave. Available Jan 1st. Call 549-9135.

Take Over My Lease! January '98. Moving to California in two weeks & need to find someone. 1 bedroom in 2 bedroom apt. Furnished, spacious, & clean. $345, all inclusive + electrice. @$15 per month. Awesome place, awesome roommate staying. Bus drops you off four doors from your own. Call Lori or Daniel @ 665-4149 till 11:30 at night.

One large bedroom in two badroom apartment. Available Spring Samester. Located in Brandywine. Call Stuart 548-6819.

ROOM FOR RENT

North Amherst 3 bedroom apt. On bus route across from Town Houses. Space can be sharad. Two cool roommates are easy-going. Starting Jan 1st. Call Joa at 549-5596.

One nice room available in a four badroom Alpina Commons apartment. Mova in Jan 1 or possibly aarlier. Two full bathrooms. On bus line. Great roommates! Apartment is fully furnished with tha exception of the bedroom. $314.50/month. ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED! Please call Jenny at 253-2050 ASAP.

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom, Brandywine. For Spring/late Decembar. Call Jeremy 549-6955.

Quiet Setting Kitchen privileges, laundry, parking, non-smoking. $335. 549-4853.

ROOMATE WANTED

$180 a month for room in a cozy 4 badroom house. 2nd bedroom available for $250. Seeking friendly mature roommates. Woodsy location. Deck overlooking large back yard. 2 dogs. Closa to bika trail and bus routa. 5 miles from Amharst. Call Amy or Sheldon 253-4826.

Female to share 2 bedroom apt in NoHo. Available 1/1. $275/month 1st/last/security. Call Rachel 586-4426. No pets.

Gred woman needs roommate (Grad woman or mature Undergrad) for Spring Samester to share modern/luxury 3 leval townhouse condo on bus line less than one mila from campus. Totally furnishad, two large bedrooms, deck, laundry in unit; basament storaga! Much more! Only $300/month + utilities. Call Monica (413)549-4808.

Three rooms opaning ASAP in large 5 bedroom house in Hadley. On bus line. Spacious, close to NoHo and Amherst. Pre-paid heat. $270/month. Craig or Jon 587-9319.

SERVICES

Have a pet? Going away for break? Patsitting for cats or small animals, Amherst araa. Leave message at 253-6685.

SERVICES

Rental Problems? Questions about your lease/security deposit deductions? Questions about subletting/assigning leases? Questions about the condition of your new housa or apartment? Contact Tha Student Legal Servicas Office, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

Pregnant? Need help? Call Birthright of Amherst Area for free testing and assistanca. 549-1906.

TICKETS

Rolling Stones Fleet Center, Boston, Mar 22. Extra tickets, Must sell! 665-0241.

TO SUBLET

On Bus Route Really spacious. Accomodates 2 to 4 people. Can start either 1/1 or 2/1. One mile from campus. Call 253-1892.

Feb 1st 2 bedroom apt. On bus line to campus. $700 a month. Call 253-4621.

Nice furnished room available for Winter Session. $215/month + 1/5 utilities. One mile from campus. 549-5863 Jordan.

TRAVEL

#1 SPRING BREAK Operator!
Check our web-site for the best deals!
www.vagabondtours.com
Cancun, Bahamas, Jamaica, & Florida.
Group organizers EARN FREE TRIPS & CASH...Call today! 800-700-0790.

SPRING BREAK '99
Student Travel Services is America's #1 Student Tour Operator.
Don't book with anyone else until you talk to us!!!
Cancun from $399
Jamaica from $399
Panama City from $119
Daytona Beach from $139
Student Travel Services
1-800-648-4849
www.ststravel.com
On Campus Contact:
Erich @ 413-549-5287
Jonah @ 413-549-8867
Dan @ 413-253-1341
Georga @ 413-546-4223

WANTED TO RENT

1 room single occupancy apartment ASAP. Call Ty at 546-4214.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY

DUE TO OUR RAPID GROWTH, EXPANSION, AND PROMOTIONS, WE CURRENTLY HAVE THE FOLLOWING OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE:

PROFESSIONAL VEHICLE SALES CONSULTANT

Compensation:
Salary plus commission & bonus

Candidates must:
- Be able to operate a normally equipped vehicle.
- Have a valid drivers license, accept able driving record.
- Be able to read and write English (at or above high school level).
- Be honorable
- Prior sales experience desirable.

We offer top compensation and a strong benefit package that includes:
- Medical and Dental Insurance Available
- Paid Holidays, Vacation, and Sick Leave
- Training and Advancement Opportunities
- Excellent Working Conditions
- Full Two Week Training!
- Recognition for a Job Well Done!
- Split shifts - 40 hour work week

A management team committed to excellence, growth and client satisfaction.

For more information or to submit an application, please visit 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays or send your resume or letter of application to:

Bill Richard, Gen. Sales Manager
(NO PHONE CALLS PLEASE)

NORTHAMPTON TOYOTA
700 Easy St. - Rte. 5, North Hampton

find what you're looking for... in the Collegian Classifieds

Five College Community Calendar

THURSDAY, DEC. 10

Auditions — Smith College will hold a "Concerto Competition" from 7:45-10 p.m. in Sweeney Concert Hall in Sage Hall. Winners will perform with the Smith College orchestra in Spring Concert. Contest rules and entry forms are available outside Sage Hall, room 1.

Community — Rape Awareness Day will take place from 2:15-4 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge in the Student Union. There will be an appearance by the 'Not Reads For Bedtime Players', and speakers from the UMC police department, legal services and health services. Resources and information will also be available.

Community — Mini-Mall '98 will be held in the Student Union Ballroom from 10 a.m. 5 p.m. with 30 tables of vendors. The event is sponsored by Hillel/JSU.

Concert — There will be a Mount Holyoke Faculty Concert in the Studio Theater at Mount Holyoke College at 8 p.m.

Discussion — Michael Wiseman and Oscar Jones, contributors to a new book Out on Fraternity Row, will discuss issues presented in the book at 12:30 p.m. in room 804 of the Campus Center as part of the GLBT Lecture Series.

Lecture — A lecture entitled "Between Vengeance and Forgiveness: Responses to Mass violence" will be given at 4:30 p.m. in the Wright Hall common room at Smith College.

Performance — Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance presents "Performance Protest" in Amherst College Theater and Dance 62. Performance Studio at 8 p.m. Reservations are suggested, and admission is free.

Social — The Ballroom Dancing Club will host it's end of the year Social from 5:30-7 p.m. in Totman 101. There will be refreshments, music and dancing. Call Shannon at 546-3008 for details.

Workshop — A workshop on contraception and safer sex will be held in room 302 of University Health Services at 3 p.m.

FRIDAY, DEC. 11

Celebration — The second annual Emily Dickinson birthday celebration will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the New York Room of Mars Woodley Hall at Mount Holyoke College. There will be readings from Emily Dickinson's books and guest speakers at the celebration.

Chorus — The Hampshire College Chorus will perform Ernest Bloch's "Sacred Service" at 8 p.m. at the Grace Church on Amherst Town Common.

Community — Reggie McFadden will perform in the Student Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. as part of the Something Every Friday program series. The flat movie "Smoke Signals" will follow.

Community — Mini Mall '98 will be held in the Student Union Ballroom from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. with thirty tables of vendors. The event is sponsored by Hillel/JSU.

Performance — The University Dancers Improvisational Group will perform in Herter Art Gallery from 3:15-4:30 p.m.

Performance — Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance present "Performance Protest" in Amherst College Theater and Dance 62, Performance Studio at 8 p.m. Reservations are suggested, and admission is free.

Reception — There will be a Shabbat service and free dinner at 6 p.m. in the Hillel House. All are welcome.

NOTICES

Community — The 1999 Yearbooks are now on sale in room 304 of the Student Union. Call 545-0848 to order one.

Community — The Teacher Education Coordinating Council and the School of Education's Office of Teacher Education have information on the Mass. Educator Certification Tests in room 125 of Furcolo Hall. Contact Michael Schwartz at 545-2701 for more information.

Submissions — Submissions are being accepted for the Spectrum Literary Magazine. The deadline is Feb. 12. Also searching for the 1998-99 cover contest winner. Deadline is the end of December. Call 5-4220 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed to train and facilitate workshops on contraception and sexually transmitted disease prevention during spring semester 1999. Men and women needed. Contact Karen or Dia at 527-5188 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed for the Massachusetts Substance Abuse Information and Education HELPLINE. For more information call (617) 536-0501 ext. 201 for more details.

If you think that shopping a college store means having no choices...

Think again.

New Atrium

Not like a mall... Better.

HSCN Hearing Services Cable Network

2	HSCN1 Bulletin Board	16	The Learning Channel
3	CBS/3 Hartford	18	UVC-TV19
4	CBS/4 Boston	20	ABC/40 Springfield
5	ABC/5 Boston	21	Gavel to Gavel
6	PBS/57 Springfield	22	NBC/22 Springfield
7	HSCN2 Movie Ch.	23	Sundance
8	UPN/20 Hartford	24	Bloomberg Financial
9	Weather Channel	26	CTN
10	NBC/30 New Britain	27	TBS
11	Fox/61 Hartford	28	BET
12	PBS/24 Hartford	29	TV Land
13	WOCH & HSCN	30	Univision
14	International	31	Comedy Central
15	UMass Academic TV	32	Cartoon
16	WB/ New Haven	33	Much Music
17	HSCN Programming

THURSDAY EVENING — C - Campus — DECEMBER 10, 1998

	C	6:00	6:30	7:00	7:30	8:00	8:30	9:00	9:30	10:00	10:30	11:00	11:30
WEDH	2	32	Wishbone (C)	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer (C)		Quest for Love (Live)
WFSB	3	3	News (C)	CBS News	Inside Edition	Hollywood Sq.	Story of Santa Claus (R) (C)		Diagnosis Murder (In Stereo) (C)		48 Hours "Modern Royals" (C)	News (C)	Late Show (C)
WBZ	4	4	News	CBS News	Hollywood Sq.	Ent. Tonight	St. Jude's Children's Hospital		Diagnosis Murder (In Stereo)		48 Hours "Modern Royals" (C)	News	Late Show (C)
WCVB	5	5	News (C)	ABC News	Inside Edition	★★★ "White Christmas" (1954, Musical) Bing Crosby, Danny Kaye.					Vengeance Unlimited (C)	News (C)	Nightline (C)
WLVI	6		Sister, Sister	Fresh Prince	Nanny (C)	Friends (C)	Wayans Bros.	Sheila Foxx (C)	Steve Harvey	For Your Love	News	Friends (C)	Nanny (C)
WHDH	7		News	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! (C)	Friends (C)	Jesse (C)	Frasier (C)	Veronica's Cl.	ER "Good Luck Ruth Johnson"	News	Tonight Show
WTXX		8	Moms Imp.	Judge Brown	Judge Judy (C)	Judge Judy (C)	"Them" (1998, Science Fiction) Scott Peterson, (In Stereo) (C)				News	Newsradio (C)	Married...With
WVIT		30	News	NBC News	Ent. Tonight	Nerd Copy (C)	Friends (C)	Jesse (C)	Frasier (C)	Veronica's Cl.	ER "Good Luck Ruth Johnson"	News	Tonight Show
WTIC	8	11	Simpsons (C)	Friends (C)	Seinfeld (C)		Frasier (C)		World's Wildest Police Videos		Fox Files (In Stereo) (C)	News	Med Abt. You
WWLP	9	22	News (C)	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! (C)	Friends (C)	Jesse (C)	Frasier (C)	Veronica's Cl.	ER "Good Luck Ruth Johnson"	News (C)	Med Abt. You
WGBY	10	8	Creature	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer (C)		Members' Choice					Tonight Show
WGGB	40	29	News (C)	ABC News	Seinfeld (C)		Frasier (C)	Vengeance Unlimited (C)		Whole World Wes Watching (In Stereo) (C)		Cherie Rose (In Stereo) (C)
WSBK	38		Judge Judy (C)	Judge Judy (C)	NHL Hockey: boston Bruins at Carolina Hurricanes. (Live)						Med Abt. You	News (C)	Nightline (C)
WTBS	49		Family Matters	Family Matters	Roseanne (C)	Roseanne (C)	WCW Thunder (C)		WCW Thunder (C)		★★★ "Thunderball" (1965, Adventure) Sean Connery.	Frasier (C)	Cheers (C)
A&E	50		Northern Exposure "Up River"		Law & Order "Prisoner of Love"		Biography: Coors		Unexplained "Cannibals" (R)		Touch of Frost "House Calls"	Law & Order "Ritual" (C)
CNN	51	22	Worldview (C)	Moneyline	Newshour (C)	Crossfire (C)	World Today (C)		Larry King Live (C)		Newsstand: Entertainment	Sports	Moneyline (C)
COM	52	36	Saturday Night Live (C)		Daily Show (R)	Stein's Money	★★"The Scout" (1994, Comedy-Drama) Albert Brooks.				Comedy Showcase	Daily Show	Stein's Money
DISC	53		New House	Fix-It-Line (R)	Gemini Shelter (R)		Wild Discovery: Dress-Dinner		Into Unknown	Strange-True	Firehouse: Another Life Saved	Justice Files	"Woman at Risk"
ESPN	54		(4:00) Golf: President's Cup -- First Round. (Live)				Sportscenter		Golf: President's Cup -- First Round. (Live)
LIFE	55		Ellen (C)	Ellen (C)	Party of Five (C)	Runnerfull Life"	Chicago Hope "Life Lines" (C)		"A Different Kind of Christmas" (1996, Drama) Shirley Long. (C)			Late Night	Letterman
MTV	56		Countdown	Cat (In Stereo)	Celebrity	Twisted Toons	Eye Spy Video Say What?		Total Request Live (In Stereo)		Celebrity	Fanatic (R)	Biorhythm (R)	Lovelines
NICK	57		Figure It Out	Secret of Alex	Doug (C)	Rugrats (C)	Thornberrys	Sliewter	Brady Bunch	Wonder Years	I Love Lucy (C)	I Love Lucy (C)	I Love Lucy (C)
SCIFI	58		Quantum Leap (In Stereo) (C)		Sightings (C)	Star Trek: "Let that Be Your Last Battlefield" (C)			Invasion Earth (Part 3 of 3) (C)			Sightings (C)	Star Trek (C)
TLC	59	28	Home Again	Home Again	Trauma: Life	Trauma: Life	Medical Detect (Without Wern.		Creek Detectives (R)		Deedly Weather (R)	Medical Detect	Without Wern.
TNT	60		Babylon 5 "Dust to Dust" (C)		ER "Ambush" (In Stereo) (C)		How Grinch Stole Christmas		"She'ven" (1987, Fantasy) Jack Palance, Rick Schroder.			★★★★ "Clash" (1998)
USA	62		Hercules: Legendary Jrnys		Xena: Warrior Princess (R) (C)		Walker, Texas Ranger (C)		★★★ "The Godfather, Part III" (1990, Drama) Al Pacino. (C)			New York Undercover (C)
HBO	63		★★ "Steel" (1997) Shaquille O'Neal. PG-13 (C)			You've Got	★★★½ "The Full Monty" (1997) Robert Carlyle. (C)		"Renegade Force" (1998) Michael Rooker. (C)			Inside the NFL (C) (Stereo) (C)
MAX	65		★★½ "A New Life" (1988, Comedy-Drama) Alan Alda. PG-13 (C)				★★½ "Body Chit" (1997) Jamie Foxx. (C)		Making-Jingle		★★ "Addicted to Love" (1997) Meg Ryan. R (C)	"Same Time"
SHOW	69		"Ashton Ames: Traitor Within" (1998, Drama) (C)		Ashton Ames		★★★ "The Game" (1997, Suspense) Michael Douglas. (C)				Line's (R) (C)	Rude Awaken.	30-Min. Movie	Dead Man's

Quote of the Day

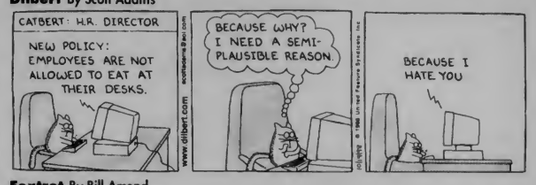
"Janine-
I love you with all my heart.
Will you marry me?"
-Love, Jeff

Cathy By Cathy Guisewite

Fiendish Foglios By Brian D. Moses

Rose is Rose By Pat Brady

Non Sequitur By Wiley



Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Drabble By Jim Meddick

Dilbert By Scott Adams

Foxtrot By Bill Amend

Non-Cents By John Zaccone Jr.

Liberty Meadows By Frank Cho

Close to Home By John McPherson

Horoscopes

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — You're sure to encounter a few challenges today, but relying on what's worked for you in the past will help you prevail.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — You will be able to rely on a friend, and vice versa today. Together, you'll feel as though there's nothing you cannot do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — A quick start today enables you to pull ahead of the competition at least for the time being. However, no lead is a comfortable one.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Take care that you're not more interested in the well-being of strangers today than with those intimately linked to you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Environmental influences cannot be ignored today. You may have to make last-minute adjustments or a change in plans due to the weather.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — A mild situation is likely to get out of control if you do not act quickly to put those around you at ease. Be the voice of reason.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Someone close to you is sure to offer the kind of challenge you're looking for at this time, but you don't want too much of a good thing!

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — When you're not being moody, you are easy to work with. However, it's anyone's guess today how you'll respond to the unexpected.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — You're about to engage in a fight to the finish at this time. You'll want to be sure that you have prepared yourself as well as possible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — It's true that opposites attract, and you can be one part of an equation of opposites that proves to be quite memorable for those involved today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You mustn't rely too heavily on one aspect of a relationship when other aspects are shaky and uncertain at this time. Address what's wrong directly!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — You'll be called upon to convince those who have proven to be difficult to persuade in the past. You have a "trick" up you sleeve, so use it!

Today's D.C. Menu

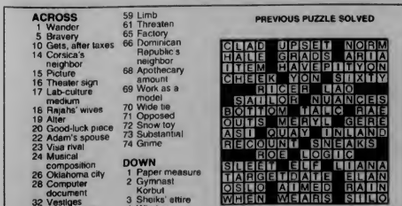
Call 545-2626 for more information.

Franklin
LUNCH
Hot Turkey Sandwich
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Fish Munchies
DINNER
Country Style Ribs
Baked Ziti
Charbroiled Chicken Breast Sandwich

Worcester
LUNCH
Fish Muhcies
Mesquite Chicken Sandwich
Bow Ties/Tomato Sauce
Tri-Bean Casserole
DINNER
Beef Strips w/Snowpeas &Mush.
Fried Shrimp Dinner
Stir Fry Vegetables and Tofu
Half Time Deli

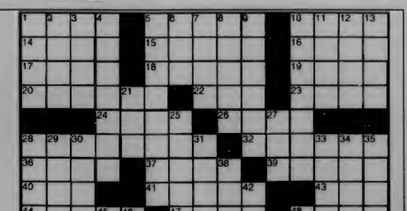
Hampshire
LUNCH
Hamburger on a Bun
Chicken Cutlet Sandwich
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Fish Munchies
DINNER
Lemon Pepper Cod
Beef Strips with Snow Peas & Mushrooms

Berkshire
LUNCH
Fish Munchies
Buffalo Chicken/Honey Wheat Wrap
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Chef's Grilled Cheese
Vegan Ravioli
DINNER
Beef Strips w/Snowpeas & Mush.
Baked Ziti
Stir Fry Vegetables & Tofu
Pastabilities



Today's Staff

Night Editor	Casey Kane
Photo Technician	Kelly FitzPatrick
Copy Editor	Ken Mc Donald
Production Supervisor	Lisa Metcalf
Production Staff	D.J. Carey, Bridet Dolozsar



ACROSS
1 Wander
5 Bravery
10 Gets, after taxes
14 Corsica's neighbor
15 Picture
16 Theater sign
17 Lab-culture medium
18 Rajahs' wives
19 Alter
20 Good-luck piece
22 Adam's spouse
23 Vivaldi
24 Musical composition
26 Oklahoma city
28 Computer document
32 Vestiges
36 Jeans-maker Strauss
37 Army outfit
39 Hill
40 E.T.'s transport
41 Wild shrub
43 Birds — feather at
44 "Thank you, Pierre"
47 Type size
48 Similar
49 Snooping
51 Industrious
53 Cooked just slightly
55 Carry
56 With, to Henri
59 Limb
61 Threaten
65 Factory
66 Dominican Republic's neighbor
68 Apothecary amount
69 Work as a model
70 Wide tie
71 Opposed
72 Snow toy
73 Substantial
74 Gnome

DOWN
1 Paper measure
2 Gymnast Korbut
3 Sheiks' attire
4 Wireless pioneer
5 Pure
6 Doctors' org.
7 Path
8 Pointed arch
9 Take umbrage at 10 Reno resident
11 Toss
12 Lose energy
13 River of Greek myth
21 Choose
25 Dawn
27 Annoy
28 Chubby
29 Make mention of
30 Elephant tusk
31 Fearful and hesitant
33 "Masterpiece Theater" host
34 Fairylike
35 Till
38 Unspoken
42 Sharpshooter — Jane
45 Surrounded
46 — nutshell briefly
48 Programs
50 Type of cracker
52 DDE
54 Clean off
56 Rock-concert sights
57 Stringed instrument
58 Word of choice
60 Isinglass
62 Italian river
63 Roman statesman
64 Radiate
67 Small child

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

12-10-98 © 1998, United Feature Syndicate

SPORTS

Awards given; Cunningham is a Koen-head

Dolphins?	Check.
Bills?	Check.
Steelers?	Check.
Rams?

Yeah, I think so. The Patriots apparently got tired of giving their fans weekly heart attacks and decided maybe it would be better to just kick the bejesus out of Pittsburgh. And let's face it, St. Louis is no Pittsburgh.

With their leading rusher racking up an amazing 53 yards in a 17–14 loss to the hapless Eagles last week, the Rams are no match for a Pats squad that kept Jerome "the Bus" Bettis to 48 yards.

Oh, and how about Drew Bledsoe? Is the league's best young quarterback finally going to get his respect now?

With a broken index finger on his throwing hand, Bledsoe has guided

Seth Koenig on the NFL

New England to three straight must–win victories over three strong playoff contenders. For the longest time, grumpy Bostonians complained that No. 11 couldn't win the big one, or that Drew has no guts. Now, don't even try to avoid this, all of you who belong to this category, because you can lie to your friends and say that you've always had faith, but you know inside that you have a cheating heart.

Try typing a paper with a broken index finger on your useful hand. Try using a fork. Try zipping up your pants. It's not easy, is it? Now try throwing two last–second touchdowns against two of the better defenses in the AFC and then schooling another for 357 yards.

As usual, Robert Edwards was of no use to the Pats.

Now, coming up on Christmas time like we are, I believe that it is high–time to do something seasonal, yet thematic. This is the time of year that awards get handed out, and a handful of NFL stars are going to get special gifts under their trees this year, as they will be honored in the first annual...

Koen–head Awards

NFL Rookie of the Year: This is the easiest choice I've made since deciding whether or not to wear clothes to class today. Randy Moss is a clear–cut winner, with Detroit's Charlie Batch and Jacksonville's Fred Taylor pulling up the rear. The Vikings made three–fourths of the league look stupid when they took the superhumanly talented Moss with a pick in the early 20s.

Moss is quite clearly the fastest, highest jumping, crispest route–running wideout to enter the NFL in years, if not history, and he was repeatedly passed over. Questions on his attitude were raised, and his stock dropped. She dramatically. That happened to Warren Sapp, too, and he turned out to be great in his own right. Lawrence Phillips was put under scrutiny and he was picked high any way, but he turned out to be a complete failure. Moss, with well over 1,000 yards receiving already, has made it two out of three.

Coach of the year: Mike Shanahan of Denver has to take this one. I know what you're all saying: Koenig's just picking him because the Broncos are undefeated. First of all, after 13 games, I'm not so sure that's a bad rationale. However, my main reason for choosing Shanahan is that he did it as the reigning Super Bowl champion, complete with one of the toughest schedules and the overwhelming expectations.

Most incumbents crumble under the weight of being the champ by now, but not Denver. Shanahan has had his hunch ready to win week in and week out, sometimes even without his Hall–of–Fame quarterback John Elway, who, by sitting on the fence on whether or not he was going to retire before the season, was a slight distraction early on in the year.

Offensive Player of the Year: Again from the undefeated Broncos, I choose Terrell Davis. As the workhorse back approaches the great 2,000–yard mark on the season, Davis took so much weight off of the Denver signal–callers, that Elway was barely missed when he missed a couple starts with injuries.

Aside from stats, Davis can be counted on in key situations. When you need yards, No. 30 will always be able to drag that extra defender just a little further, and maybe run just a little faster when someone's on his heels. Davis is the winner without question.

Defensive Player of the Year: This is where a little bit of hometown bias comes into play. I'll choose Ty Law, the Patriots' cornerback, for this slot. Although I'm purposefully pushing him in front of players like Miami's

Turn to NFL, page 10

UConn steals win in Amherst

UM back on track with a close 59–54 loss to No. 1 team

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

UMass forward Ajmal Basit nearly scored a double-double against No. 1 UConn last night at the Mullins Center, recording 12 points and nine rebounds in a 59-54 loss.

By Seth Koenig
Collegian Staff

Some of the fans packing the William D. Mullins Center last night probably thought that the referees handed the MassMutual U–Game between the Massachusetts basketball team and Connecticut to the visiting Huskies.

Others believed that the game was fairly called and that the better team, in this case top–ranked UConn, won by a closer score than was expected, 59–54.

Regardless, all of them wanted to express their opinion at once. And, as a result, none of them could hear the thoughts of the person sitting next to them.

Encapsulated by the most active crowd the Mullins Center has seen in recent history, the Huskies and Minutemen battled it out, tooth and nail until the final buzzer. The buzzer that told the squads that they could not play any more, and that the five–point UConn lead would have to be left on the scoreboard for good.

The UMass fans weren't finished yet, and try as they might, their continuing jeering of the Connecticut players as the visitors accepted post–game awards could not bring any lost points back. The game was over.

UConn star guard Khalid El–Amin just chuckled at the insults hurled at him from the faceless mass that was the Mullins Center faithful, because he knew that his team would still be ranked No. 1 when the sun rose in the morning.

For UMass' Lari Ketner, it will seem like forever until the sun rises. Ketner, victim of a number of calls while dominating the second half under the basket, fouled out with 1:40 to go in the contest and the score at 55–52 in favor of his arch–rivals.

Once Ketner, who totalled 15 points on the evening and 11 in the second half, left the floor the final time, Connecticut dropped in four unanswered points to finish the game off.

Even though Massachusetts entered the game unranked and disrespected due to its meek 1–3 record, this game was never a blow out.

Just over one minute into the contest, Minuteman forward Ajmal Basit turned a feed from a triple–teamed Ketner into a one–handed dunk to start off the scoring. Basit would finish the night with 12 points and nine rebounds.

"[Ketner] did a good job of finding Ajmal, and Ajmal did a good job of taking [Ketner's] missed shots and putting them back in," UMass coach Bruiser Flint said.

Still, early on, UMass seemed a little too excited, as an anxious Charlton Clarke dribbled the ball off his foot while advancing the Minutemen up the court led to a three–point layup by Husky Kevin Freeman.

Once UConn's second shot, an El–Amin three–pointer from the top of the key fell, Massachusetts began doing what Flint had hoped it would do.

The Minutemen went on a 7–0 run, highlighted by a Clarke three–pointer and a Ketner rim–wrecker.

UMass maintained control of the game until Connecticut guard Albert Mouring's basket put the Huskies up 16–15 with 10:40 left in the first half. This shot encited a steady exchange of scores for another five and a half minutes, at which point UConn moved into a 27–21 lead, the biggest of the game yet.

By the half, the No. 1 Huskies had secured a 37–29 advantage. A Monty Mack fall–away buzzer–beater in favor of UMass brought the deficit within 10.

Earlier, the Minutemen's frustration with what the fans considered questionable calls by the officials combined with the already existing tension between the rival schools egged on a small ruckus between Basit and a few Huskies.

That frustration did not disolve in the UMass locker room, but it caused no more problems on the court. Ketner stormed the hard wood in the second frame scoring seven early points, leading the Minutemen to within one, 47–46.

UConn's stars, El–Amin and swingman Richard Hamilton, were kept in check by Massachusetts nearly all game. Hamilton could manage only one of his quiet 11 points in the opening half under the watchful eye of forward Mike Babul.

With a strong performance against the top–ranked team now behind them, the Minutemen look to get back in stride and propell themselves through a solid winter session schedule.

"It was a good effort [on our part], but they're a good team, and I guess there weren't enough bullets in the gun tonight," Flint said. "I told my team, 'Don't hold your head down. We've got to look at this as the next step.'"

Minutemen somehow manage to escape poor shooting in near–win

By Aaron Saykin
Collegian Staff

Somehow, some way, the Massachusetts men's basketball team nearly upset the No. 1 team in the nation without the help of any outside shooting throughout the entire contest.

With no one other than Lari Ketner (15 points) able to assert himself as a scoring threat, one may wonder just how the Minutemen could survive the aggressive Connecticut defense. After enduring a stint of non–existent perimeter play, UMass put together perhaps its finest team performance this season to fight and claw its way back to the realm of respectability.

In an impressive response to the recent adversity surrounding his team, the Minuteman floor general, Charlton Clarke, rallied his team to a near victory over what appeared to be a more talented, but less inspired national power.

"I think you've got to credit UMass without any question. I think Bruiser had them playing hard." UConn coach Jim Calhoun said. "UMass was exactly what I thought they would be. They were tough, they were physical, they were hungry."

There was certainly something remarkable about the way the UMass players seemed to suddenly gel together — something about the way both Clark and Ketner convinced them that they could win — something to compensate for their lack of any shooting touch, and to produce a memorable battle between two regional rivals.

"I told everybody on the team... 'if you're going to do it, you've got to do it with heart,' and that's what we did tonight." said Clarke, who felt that the team's sudden unity and intensity more than made up for its lack–luster perimeter game. "We went out there and played with a lot of heart."

Clarke's tone was greatly indicative of the UMass attitude after the game. Yes, they had lost, but to the players it was a moral victory, having overcome a variety of distractions and skepticism following two straight losses to unranked opponents.

"This is it right here. We sat in that [locker] room after the Marshal game, and talked about what's right, what's wrong, and what's going on," Clarke said. "And we said that we were going to bring it to this game and show improvement. I congratulated all of my guys, and told them, 'you know what, you talked about it, and you went out and done it.' We just came up short."

Despite a meager 3–for–11 shooting displayed from three– point range, the inside passing of Ketner allowed Ajmal Basit to roam free below the hoop, resulting in 12 points for the junior forward.

Defense was also a quick remedy for missed Minutemen shots. After allowing the Huskies to shoot 55 percent from the field in the first half, UMass tightened up on defense, holding them to only 38 percent in the second frame. Among the defensive heroes for the Minutemen was junior forward Mike Babul, who held UConn's most prolific scorer, Richard Hamilton, to a modest nine points on 3–of–11 shooting.

With a roaring capacity crowd largely on its side, UMass stormed back from an eight–point half–time deficit to cut the Husky lead to 39–40 after a three–pointer by Mack. The junior guard then responded with another three–point shot just a minute later — the last three–point shot for UMass the entire game.

"We went [through] times when we just didn't get baskets. We got shots at the basket, but they just didn't fall in," Minutemen coach Bruiser Flint said. "We played tough defense, and rebounded the ball... they're a good team. We just didn't have enough bullets in the gun tonight."

After what turned out to be their most impressive showing of the 1998–99 campaign, the UMass players and their coach feel that the worst is over. Against the top–ranked team in the country, the Minutemen relied on heart and defense instead of accuracy. But now they face the new dilemma of a streaky, at best, outside game — something which Flint will likely address if his team hopes to turn the corner.

Big five keeps defenders from crossing the line

By Seth Koenig
Collegian Staff

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

As members of the UMass offensive line, Mim Hill, Ty Lauback, Deyate Hagood, Mike Wynne and Cliff Bolden have been instrumental in the team's success.

Massachusetts football team members Deyate Hagood, Cliff Bolden, Mike Wynne, Ty Lauback and Mim Hill are among the best offensive players in the Atlantic 10, playing in one of the most complex positions in the sport.

"You have to know so many different defenses, remember the calls and be able to react," Bolden said.

"You really do have to think a lot," Wynne said in agreement. "It's one of the toughest positions out there. There are so many alignments and formations you have to react to on the run."

Those who are not close to the sport might listen to one of the five and believe they are hearing about the difficulties of playing the quarterback position. But none of the group are quarterbacks.

They are, however, Minutemen.

Hagood, Bolden, Wynne, Lauback and Hill are offensive linemen, working as hard or harder than any other athlete every week at a job as tedious and detailed as architecturing or accounting.

From the stands, it appears as though the front five are simple brutes, programmed by coaches to use their physical strength to move opposing players out of the path of the star runner — in this case, UMass' Marcel Shipp.

"It's frustrating at times, but it's part of this job," said Hill. "Once you join the offensive line, you know you won't get the stats that a defensive linemen or a linebacker or a running back might get. We're really the unsung heroes out there."

Said Lauback: "It's understood that O–linemen don't get a lot of press. It's something that comes with the territory. It's tough, too, because there are no statistics that measure how we play."

Shipp has over 2,000 yards, breaking the school rushing record. The sophomore will have that number with him as long as he plays. So will the five guys in front of him.

As the offensive line goes, so goes the offense. Without the burning and churning in the overworked legs of the driving five in front, Shipp would never tote the pigskin past the line of scrimmage — say nothing about the pylons.

Strangely enough, though, four of the current starting linemen started their Minuteman careers as defenders.

"It helps a little, because you know what they're trying to do when they come off the ball," Hagood, one of the former defensive linemen, said. "Sometimes you see how [the defenders'] feet are positioned and how heavy they are leaning on their hand."

That sounds like a lot of Intricate observations for a "simple brute."

Wynne, the only Minuteman to never have played across the line of scrimmage, feels that coming to UMass as an offensive player is perhaps more useful.

"I have an upper hand on them, if anything," Wynne said. "Offensive line's not an easy position to play, and any experience you can get, the better."

If Wynne, a junior All–Academic America candidate with a 3.95 GPA, says that the position of offensive linemen is complex, then people must listen. If not because he's among the most intelligent students on campus, than because he's 6–foot–2 and 285 pounds.

And as the media gets the backs of Shipp, quarterback Todd Bankhead and coach Mark Whipple, Wynne and his comrades stand silently in the shadows, knowing full well that they moved the ball down the gridiron as much as the aforementioned three.

Still, they understand how valuable Shipp and his backfield mates are.

"You want to play a little harder because you know the plays are going to work with such talented skill positions," Laubeck said.

Added Hill: "With teammates like Shipp and Bankhead, the confidence is high. I know in my heart that we're all going to pull together and make it happen. It starts in practice. You see people working hard, and you just want to win."

Winning is just what they've been doing. The Minutemen's 10–3 record to date is the best in the history of the program, and this Saturday's game against Northwestern State in the NCAA Division I–AA playoffs, is perhaps the biggest game ever.

The secret to success? Laubeck looks to offensive line coach Dave Hoover.

"[He's] unbelievable," Laubeck said. "He's the best offensive line coach I've ever had. That guy makes you want to play every day."

When push comes to shove, little can move the unit that is the UMass offensive line.

"I feel that we're brothers," Hill said. "We work so hard on the field. You're around somebody who's constantly doing what you're doing. You relate to them."

The Massachusetts
DAILY COLLEGIAN

1998 College Newspaper of the Year — New England Newspaper Association

Volume CIV Issue 58 — New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 — Friday, December 11, 1998

Sacking in the playoffs

Lance Overby had a sack and an interception in leading the UMass defense to a 21–19 win over McNeese State in the first round of the playoffs (See sports, page 12).

Getting jiggy with the Enemy

Mr. Big Willy Style himself has the title role in the new action movie Enemy of the State. Check out our review (see Arts & Living, page 5).

WORLD

Angry students protest and call for reform

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Angry students pelted Jakarta's police headquarters with stones and bottles yesterday in one of the biggest days of protest against Indonesia's president.

But most protests went peacefully as some 10,000 protesters marched arm–in–arm down the Indonesian capital's main thoroughfare in a show of discontent with the pace of reforms promised by President B.J. Habibie.

"Reform," the flag–waving protesters chanted as they marched past embassies and five–star hotels, drawing cheers from office workers who lined the sidewalks.

The students ignored an appeal to stop their demonstrations from Habibie, who has failed to convince his critics that he is sincere about democratic change.

Habibie has scheduled general elections for June 1999 and allowed political parties to form, but he has ignored key student demands that the military be stripped of its permanent role in politics and that former President Suharto be put on trial.

NATION

Democrats refuse to cross picket line

NEW YORK (AP) — Some Democratic politicians are refusing to cross picket lines at ABC, hampering the network's ability to cover the impeachment story at one of its most critical points.

At the urging of union members locked out of their jobs at ABC since Nov. 3, Democratic members of the House Judiciary Committee have recently refused to appear for interviews on ABC shows like "Nightline," "Good Morning America," and "This Week."

Former White House Chief of Staff Leon Panetta, Sen. Edward Kennedy and House Minority Leader Dick Gephardt also turned down ABC invitations, the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians said.

An ABC News spokeswoman conceded that interviews have been lost, But Eileen Murphy said that Democrats talk to ABC off the air and that the situation has not prevented the network from keeping viewers informed.

"It makes it a little more difficult when you can't get them on the air live, but not that much more difficult," she said. "We don't think our reporting has been compromised at all."

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Saturday	Sunday
HIGH: 40	HIGH: 44	HIGH: 40
LOW: 20	LOW: 27	LOW: 22

INSIDE

Arts & Living.....page 5
Classifieds .....page 10
Comics .....page 11
Crossword .....page 11
Editorial .....page 4
FYI.....page 10
News .....page 1
Sports .....page 12

ON THE INTERNET

www.umass.edu/rso/colegian

SGA to hear motion on pro–student signs

By Julie Fialkow
Collegian Staff

Senator Seth Avakian (commuter area) will present a motion at next semester's University of Massachusetts Student Government Association senate meeting which will aim to improve the service students receive from campus employees.

The bursar's office, all dining commons, housing, parking, and health services are places where students feel they are "getting the short end of the stick," said Avakian.

The motion would ask for signs to be prominently placed in locations on campus where students are provided with some sort of a service.

"A lot of workers here feel they're working for the state not for students. This is a nice way to go about reminding them who they're working here for," he said.

Example of such signs would be: "no students, no jobs," "if it wasn't for students you'd be unemployed now."

Avakian said he hopes workers would see these signs every day and improve their performance.

"Students are human beings, not numbers, and I hope this would help them effectively serve the students," said Avakian.

Avakian also gave a personal anecdote about a negative experience he had with an employee at the dining commons.

"I had to spend five minutes arguing with the lunch lady. She wanted to throw away the scrambled eggs because it was after one, instead of giving me some," he said.

If this happened in a restaurant, said Avakian, the employee would have been fired.

"If they had the signs, they'd be reminded constantly that they're here to serve the students," he said.

Avakian speculated on how his fellow students might react to this motion.

"I think fellow students will be thrilled something is being done to get them treated better," he said.

Workers who are doing their jobs satisfactorily, will have no problem with the motion, said Avakian.

"People on this campus make departments look bad. Good workers will be thrilled that their fellow workers will improve," he said.

"The ones who just care about their paychecks are going to get angry about this. That just reflects their own poor attitude."

Avakian added employees who react poorly to the signs, should be let go by their supervisors.

Jean Russell, the manager of customer service at the Bursar's Office, said that as an alumni of the University, she thinks it's important to promote good customer service.

"I can tell you as a service manager, but also an alumni, that I think it's a wonderful idea to constantly remind everyone why we have jobs," she said.

Avakian said several departments on campus already have quality improvement programs set up, and he encouraged all departments to set up similar programs.

"I think this is definitely a pro–student motion," said Avakian.

"This is just a first step to solving this situation."

UM faculty and administration face off at Fac. Senate meeting

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

A heated debate erupted in the last half hour of the Faculty Senate meeting yesterday as frustrated faculty members challenged Chancellor David K. Scott about the role of faculty in the Chancellor's vision of the University's future.

Scott said he envisioned a future for the University when "professors will be very important, but there will be less of them."

"If the faculty has to be further decreased, it is not necessarily the end," Scott said at the beginning of his address about his Strategic Action Plan. "One can actually have an excellent institution at a smaller size."

He discussed early retirement incentives and stressed that downsizing efforts would be done in a "humane way." Yet he added that some faculty may have to be targeted.

"Post–tenure review is part of that process, as well as new methods of evaluations and rewards," he said.

School of Management professor Marta Calas, reflecting on her knowledge of business, attacked Scott's philosophy on downsizing.

"Downsizing is a failure of management...It's a short term solution to a more dire problem," Calas said.

"I cannot disagree with you," Scott responded. "It's true." He then pointed out that many businesses have been able to successfully generate new revenue by investigating new "revenue streams," and outlined his strategy for doing so at the University of Massachusetts.

"It's very difficult for a University to run a town," he said in conclusion. "Take a look around, that's really what we are — a town. We have an athletic center, a bookstore, cafeterias... We run a whole lot of activities that we don't know how to run that well... We have to solve a whole puzzle. To do that something may have to give."

"I've never heard the mayor of a town say that the solution to its problems is to drive all the people out of town," Bracey retorted. "All you're doing here is confirming my worst fears [about post–tenure review]."

"Have I really torn this place apart in the last five years?" Scott asked Bracey, engaging him in a one–on–one debate.

"No," Bracey responded. "But I'm concerned about the next five years."

Bracey's "fears" and the concerns other faculty members addressed to Chancellor Scott were the culmination of a debate that has been surfacing over the past several weeks. Faculty members aired these concerns publicly for the first time at a meeting last week co–sponsored by the Faculty Senate and the Massachusetts Society of Professors (MSP).

Turn to FACULTY, page 3

ROBERTO DELGADO

Chancellor Scott addresed several issues yesterday at the faculty senate meeting.

ROBERTO DELGADO

And the band played on...

A funky practice from the UMass jazz ensamble.

UMass student group sponsors Rape Awareness Day to educate

By Jake Litten
Collegian Staff

The Feminist Majority sponsored Rape Awareness Day yesterday, and organized a panel of speakers to discuss the legal ramifications and the emotional effects of sexual assault.

"We realized that, due to some articles in the Collegian and other recent incidents on campus, there was a greater awareness of rape on campus," said Gina Hall, the Interim President of the Feminist Majority. "So we decided that we wanted to take the opportunity to have a day where we educate the community about the resources available for men and women that have been affected by rape."

Detective Nicole Gaynor, of University Massachusetts Public Safety, was the first of four speakers. She described the procedure followed by Campus Safety when a student reports a rape. She said many of the rapes that occur on campus go unreported, and often women who file a report claiming sexual assault will refuse to press charges against their attackers.

"We don't push you into going to court," she said. "We won't push you into doing anything you don't want to do." She added that reports of sexual assault are treated differently than all other crimes, and that all reports are completely confidential.

Michele Leaf, of the University Legal Services Center, spoke about the legal options available to rape victims. She said Legal Services cannot involve itself in student–versus– student disputes, they can offer referrals to outside attorneys. She also said that while rape is often difficult to prosecute criminally, victims often choose to settle outside of criminal courts.

Sophmore Patty Piesiur, a double major in Social Thought and Political Economy and Women's Studies, spoke on behalf of the Everywoman's Center, which offers counseling services for rape victims, as well as a 24–hour anonymous rape hotline.

Tara Misra, a junior Psychology major, was the final speaker. She spoke about her own experience with sexual assault, and her later attempts to help educate others about rape awareness.

She said that after a period of silence about her assault, "I got together 25 people, and for 45 minutes straight, I told them what happened. Everyone walked away knowing that teens are not invulnerable."

According to Everywoman's Center statistics, a woman in the United States is raped every 1.3 minutes. In the state of Massachusetts, rape is punishable by a state prison sentence of up to 20 years.

Clinton under fire; new footage bad news

By Sandra Sobieraj
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Clinton, his dark suit a blot against the bare white wall, avoids looking his lawyers in the eye. The judge offers him a second look at the tricky definition. He declines.

"I have never had, um, sexual relations with Monica Lewinsky. I've never had an affair with her," he swears, looking down at the polished stone conference table.

Perhaps the last secret of the Lewinsky affair — the videotape of Clinton's deposition in the Paula Jones lawsuit — was televised for the first time yesterday for the House Judiciary Committee and the nation to judge.

"I'd like you to listen to the president's deceptions for yourself," Republican investigator David Schippers said as he cued an aide at the VCR. More than a dozen snippets showed Clinton hedging, stammering, scratching his head.

He stared straight down, nodding again and again as his lawyer, Robert Bennett, read Ms. Lewinsky's denials of a sexual affair. Asked to vouch for her affidavit, the president leaned forward for emphasis: "That is absolutely true."

He blinked rapidly, his lips tight in silence, as Bennett interpreted the affidavit to mean "there is absolutely no sex of any kind, in any manner, shape or form."

Off–screen, Schippers concluded for the panel: "He's lying."

The video was but one prop in multimedia performances by both sides as the Judiciary Committee heard closing arguments over impeachment from Schippers and the Democrats' chief investigator, Abbe Lowell.

Charts went up on easels. Captions and a picture of a phone accompanied the playing of secretly taped–recorded phone calls between Ms. Lewinsky and Linda Tripp.

With courtroom flourish — "I would like to recall Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr to the stand" — Lowell turned more than a dozen times to the oversized televisions stacked like blocks before the dais.

His first clip, a black–and–white photo from the 1974 debate on impeaching Richard Nixon, opened with the ominous bang of a gavel. A reminder of the day's gravity, Lowell advised.

White House spokesman Joe

Turn to CLINTON, page 3

Student organizations of Amherst band together to help hurricane victims

By Rachel Uranga
Collegian Staff

Salsa rhythms and merengue beats will flood the university this Saturday when Latin performance artists, artisans and craft vendors turn the lower level concourse into a Latin bazaar to aid the hurricane victims in their "long road back home."

Hurricaid, a benefit directed to Nicaraguan and Honduran disaster victims, will feature a rainbow of Latin flavors including local salsa band Jose Gonzales and Banda Criilo, Latin rap artist and UMass student Taino, and Viva Quetzal.

Hurricane Mitch, the deadliest Atlantic storm to hit the area since 1780, left more than 12,000 dead in Central America and 3 million homeless. The United States has promised more than $70 million dollars in relief aid to the agriculturally dependent region. The storm almost completely wiped out crops.

The economic upheavel is yet to come said Renee Gonzales, a student and former president of AHORA, a Latin American student organization on campus.

Gonzalez, will play percussion, accompanying her father Jose Gonzales and Banda Criolla.

"Something like this sets back the economy, not to mention the pain [it brings]. I think this is important [to raise funds] because these are human beings, their lives have been destroyed and they have nothing to back them. I think that as a world we come out and show our support," said Gonzales.

Threats of water contamination and infectious disease spreading has made relief efforts all the more urgent.

Individually, Dean's Beans and the city of Amherst have been gathering funds.

Amherst has also adopted La Paz Centro as a sister city and has already raised $20,000 for the area.

Black Sheep, a coffee house in Amherst, is one of several area businesses helping Amherst gather disaster relief funds for its sister city of La Paz Centro, Nicaragua.

"We have had a really good response. Most people who come in usually ask what it's for and then they give money," said a manager at Black Sheep. So far the group has collected $20,000.

Owner of a Pioneer Valley based coffee roaster, Dean Cycon buys from 16 cooperatives in and around Esteli, which he says have been wrought by economic devastation.

He has been raising money since the disaster hit in Oct. Cycon hopes that the funds raised will compensate for money lost as major U.S. growers, such as Chiquita Brands, pulls out or scales down local crop orders.

Organizers hope to raise $10,000 from the event. All event sponsors and artists volunteered their gift, including the university, which lent out the Campus Center.

Hurricaid runs from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the UMass Campus Center Auditorium.

When: Saturday, Dec. 12, 1998

Where: UMass Campus Center Auditorium

Cost:
Donations —
$15 General
$10 Seniors
$5 Students
$40 Families of 4
Kids under 12 free admission

ROBERTO DELGADO

Heavy machinery

A construction worker repairs one of the lifts used in the remodeling of the Fine arts center.

Paula Jones' former dealer charged in hit

By Samuel Maull
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Abe Hirschfeld, the parking lot tycoon who offered Paula Jones $1 million to settle her sexual harassment suit, was charged with trying to have his former business partner killed.

Prosecutors said Hirschfeld, 79, gave an intermediary $75,000 last year as a down payment for a hit man to kill Stanley Stahl, his real estate investment partner of 40 years.

Stahl, 73, was alerted to the plot and was not hurt, but started riding in a bulletproof car.

Hirschfeld was arrested late Wednesday at his Fifth Avenue home and charged with criminal solicitation, which carries up to seven years in prison.

State Supreme Court Justice Donna Recant set bail at $1 million but released Hirschfeld on his own recognizance until Monday, when he must post bail in cash or go to jail.

Hirschfeld called The Associated Press from the district attorney's office yesterday and said that he was the victim of a frame-up by two other people.

"They told me, 'Abe, we are going to kill Stahl, give us a half-million dollars.' I said, 'I won't pay you five nickels. I don't want Stahl killed,' and I hung up on them," he said.

In Oct., Hirschfeld offered Mrs. Jones $1 million to settle her lawsuit against President Clinton. Hirschfeld withdrew the offer a few weeks later after he said Mrs. Jones attorneys' rebuffed him. Last month, Clinton agreed to pay Mrs. Jones $850,000 to end the case.

Hirschfeld and Stahl had a falling-out after their real estate partnership involving three fancy East Side buildings and a parking lot site went bad. They had been in litigation over the deals, but settled out of court in Feb.

Prosecutors said that there were several attempts to kill Stahl in 1996, and that Hirschfeld provided the intermediary with an envelope containing photos of Stahl and a note, written by Hirschfeld, with Stahl's name, address, telephone number and his car's license plate number.

After the Daily News first reported on the investigation into the murder scheme last year, Hirschfeld — who once briefly owned the New York Post — sued the News for $50 million. The case is pending.

Police Log

Accident/Property Damage
Dec. 8
A two-vehicle accident was reported on Massachusetts Avenue. No injuries were reported.

Alarm – Elevator Telephone
Dec. 8
Two individuals were extricated from an elevator in Du Bois Library.

Annoying Behavior
Dec. 7
An individual received a threatening letter in McNamara Hall.

Disturbance
Dec. 9
A large fight was reported to be in progress near the Mullins Center on Commonwealth Avenue. The group was dispersed.
Dec. 8
Four parties were involved in a fight at Berkshire Dining Hall. The incident was resolved.

Health/Safety Hazard
Dec. 8
Motor oil was spilled from Fearing Street into a parking area on John Adams Road. Environmental Health and Safety covered affected area with speedy dry. The Physical Plant was called to the sand the area.
Dec. 7
EH&S were called to check on smoke reported in the Orchard Hill Area.

Larceny
Dec. 9
A UCard was reported lost from John Adams Hall. Over $75 was taken from the account.
A display telephone, valued over $200, was stolen from an office in Tobin Hall.
A display telephone, valued over $200, was stolen from an office in Thompson Hall.
A multi-line telephone valued over $250, was stolen from an office in Flint Lab.
Dec. 8
An individual reported theft of clothing and personal items, valued over $250, stolen over Thanksgiving weekend from Mary Lyon Hall.
An individual in John Adams Hall reported receiving a bill from a credit card which had never been applied for.
A telephone, valued at $170, was stolen from an office in Bartlett Hall.
Dec. 7
Staff reported the theft of cash from a register in the Campus Center Coffee Shop. The incident is under investigation.

Vandalism
Dec. 8
A staff member reported a beer bottle smashed against her door in Coolidge Hall and a black substance on a document affixed to the door.
Dec. 7
A State vehicle was found damaged in Lot 52 on Butterfield Terrace.
A windshield was smashed on a vehicle in Lot 54 in Southwest Circle.
A second State vehicle was found damaged in Lot 52.
Racial graffiti was written on stalls in a bathroom on the 20th floor of Washington Hall.
Homophobic graffiti was written on a door sign in Brett Hall.
A stall was damaged in a bathroom in Marcus Hall.

Warrant Service
Dec. 9
Derek Braxton, 31, of 170 East Hadley Rod., Amherst, was arrested and charged on a warrant.

ROBERTO DELGADO

Remodeling

A construction worker oversees the lifting of a metal beam from above.

BUB'S BAR-B-Q

VOTED BEST BAR-B-Q AND BEST RIBS FOR THE PAST 14 CONSECUTIVE YEARS BY THE ADVOCATE READERS POLL (413) 548-9630

University of Massachusetts
SOMETHING EVERY FRIDAY
presents a Hurricane Relief Fundraiser
* 4 Shows *
"There's Something About Mary"
Starring Cameron Diaz, Matt Dillon & Brett Favre
Monday, December 14th 1998
Campus Center Auditorium
5pm, 7pm, 9pm & 11pm
Admission: 5pm show - $1
7, 9 & 11pm shows - $2
For more info, please call 545-3600 or visit our website: http://www.umass.edu/events/calendar.htm

school's in session EVERY FRIDAY NIGHT @ THE PUB HOUSE 101

the best in underground house music provided by growroom dj's:
HUSH & BON BONS
21+
info lines: the pub 549.1200 growroom 549.9296

The only thing better than an iMac: An iMac for less than $29.99/mo.

Apple® Computer couldn't make iMac™ any easier to set up or use. So they made it easier to buy. Now, if you're a student, you can get an iMac for less than $29.99 per month* with the first payment not due for 120 days. For about what you'd spend on a few pizzas, you can have a super-fast computer that can get you onto the internet in 10 minutes right out of the box. You also get a coupon book worth $2,000 in possible additional savings, for software, games and accessories. Come try an iMac for yourself at:

Computers E.T.C. A division of University Store
In the UMass Campus Center
8 to 8 Mon. - Fri.
11 to 4 Saturday
413-549-3010

http://www.apple.com/education/store

Authorized Reseller

© 1998 Apple Computer, Inc. All rights reserved. Apple and the Apple logo are registered trademarks and iMac is a trademark of Apple Computer, Inc. *$1.66 monthly payments of $41.14 based on a principal amount of $1,385 (consisting of manufacturer's suggested retail price of $1,249.00 net including all sales, shipping and UC fees) plus a one-time origination fee of 6.0%. First payment will be due approximately 120 days after loan disbursement. The monthly variable rate equals the prime rate published in The Wall Street Journal on the first business day of each month plus 1.95% ("Rate"). As of November 7, 1998, the rate is 11.95% (9.75% prime rate plus 1.95%). 11.7% APR, subject to monthly increase or decrease. Any changes to the Rate will take effect on the fifth business day of each calendar month and will affect the dollar amounts of your monthly payments. Each loan subject to credit approval. No down payment required. No prepayment penalty.

Campus Perspectives

Should a university's administration or student government be allowed to censor the material that goes into the college newspaper?

Compiled by Jason Trenkle • Photos by Roberto Delgado

"I'm against censorship. A newspaper should be allowed to submit its journalists to the rights of the 1st Amendment or freedom of the press."
Makiri Sei
Graduate Student
Organismic and Evolutionary Biology

"In this country, it's a fundamental right to have freedom of the press. The press should be allowed to investigate their interests as long as they don't infringe on the other's rights."
Michael Adams
Junior
Management

"I think it's better off student-run. If the faculty or administration censored it, the paper would lose the ability to attract its readers."
Megan Sullivan
Freshman
Pre-Veterinarian

"The paper should be allowed to cover whatever makes the headlines, regardless of whether it's derogatory or offensive towards the administration. It should all be student-based censorship."
Toby Cole
Senior
Psychology

"I don't think it should be censored. The purpose of a school paper is to allow more diversity and various issues to be put in the open."
Arvin Ganesan
Sophomore
Economics

"I think all college papers should be censored strictly by the student-body. However, it's important to also reflect the faculty's perspectives because students and faculty work together in this system and the news affects them too."
Averi Loring
Junior
International Business

■ Clinton

continued from page 1

Lockhart decried the showing of Clinton's deposition, which had been kept under wraps by a judge's order, as partisan "theatrics." But, in a move to steal the Republicans' thunder, it was Lowell who gave Americans the first peek.

"I thought you and the public should hear how this all first started," Lowell said before airing a scene early in the president's Jan. 17 deposition.

■ faculty

continued from page 1

At that meeting members of the MSP presented their recommendations for a post-tenure review process, or Periodic Multi-Year Review. They packaged the review as a way to enhance "professional development," and not a means for faculty dismissal.

But a letter drafted by the Faculty Senate Rules Committee, circulated before the meeting, criticized the MSP for giving into outside pressure by the Board of Higher Education and Massachusetts legislature and selling the faculty short.

"We categorically reject the assumption that there exists on this campus a sufficient number of our colleagues who are unproductive 'dead wood' to justify the implementation of a vague, ill-defined system of post-tenure review, tied to an equally vague and unfunded system of 'professional development,'" the letter said. "We are suggesting that the faculty discuss the possibility of foregoing our raises... to indicate the depth of our concern."

Iraq's Baath Party refuses U.N. search

By Anthony Shadid
Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq — In a dramatic and direct challenge to U.N. weapons inspectors, an official of Iraq's ruling Baath Party declared yesterday that U.N. teams would be barred from a party office they tried to inspect a day earlier.

If they return, "they won't enter," Latif Nsayyif Jassim, a member of the party's leadership, told a news conference on the steps of the two-story, stucco building in Baghdad.

The U.N. inspectors, who are carrying out an intensive week of searches in Baghdad and elsewhere, insist they have the right under U.N resolutions to examine any site without conditions.

A team of 12 inspectors was turned back Wednesday from the regional office of the party — one of four in the capital. The team was asked for a written declaration of what they sought, said the Iraqi News Agency. They refused and left the premises, it said.

In Washington, Clinton administration officials said yesterday that Iraq's latest rejection of U.N. weapons inspectors "doesn't bode well" and that Iraq should not test American resolve. The United States has threatened to attack Iraq to force compliance.

Defense Secretary William Cohen said Iraq's refusal to allow inspectors access to Baath Party offices creates a "very serious situation" that could prompt a military attack without warning.

He indicated that a military strike does not appear imminent, however. Some 23,900 U.S. troops are in the Persian Gulf region, plus thousands more aboard the aircraft carrier USS Enterprise and its battle group.

The chief U.N. weapons inspector, Richard Butler, condemned Iraq's latest defiance, and a British Foreign Office spokesman called the problem over the inspections "a serious concern."

"Iraq has undertaken to provide full cooperation. Its response so far is not, in our view, consistent with full cooperation," the spokesman said on customary condition of anonymity.

The office in dispute is in a slightly unkempt building behind black gates in the Adhamiya neighborhood near the Tigris River. Its windows are barred with iron grates. No signs are outside, but there is a party emblem above the door and a large portrait of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein near the main entrance.

Jassim, wearing a black beret and olive drab uniform, insisted yesterday that the office was private property and it was his decision whether anyone could enter. He said the party dealt with political matters — and not the weapons of mass destruction U.N. inspectors are seeking.

"My base is protected, and no one can enter except a party member or an Iraqi national," said Jassim, a former information minister who is the Baath Party chief in Baghdad.

If the inspectors try to return, he said, "the answer will be the same."

Jassim said there was "no justification" for a weapons search of the office, where he said inspectors would not find "anything inside that is banned or prohibited."

Jassim's comments were the latest in mixed signals coming out of the leadership in the Iraqi capital.

Just a day earlier, Iraq's oil minister, Lt. Gen. Amer Muhammed Rashid, who has been a top weapons negotiator, said Iraqi escorts were wrong in declaring the site sensitive. That seemed to suggest the U.N. team should not have been barred.

Iraqi newspapers carried the official agency report on the incident Wednesday. But surprisingly, no newspaper mentioned it in editorials, the usual arena for fierce criticism of inspectors.

Neither state-run radio nor the official agency carried any news of Jassim's statement at the Baath Party office.

Earlier yesterday, a full contingent of inspectors resumed searches of suspected weapons sites.

As many as 140 inspectors on regular teams are working in Iraq, as well as teams of experts who have arrived in recent weeks. All together, they number a little less than 200.

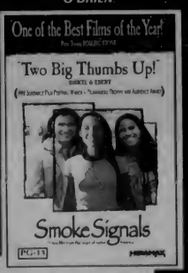
"Everyone's gone out today, attempting to carry on their normal activities," said Caroline Cross, the inspectors' spokeswoman. "We're just carrying on with our scheduled activities."

Cross said the teams had made no changes in their routine. "There is no reason why we should stop," she said.

She declined to say whether U.N. teams would try to re-enter the contentious Baath Party site.

The Iraqi news agency said eight teams made surprise visits to 12 sites yesterday. It said a team headed by Australian Roger Hill visited a site related to national security and a residential home.

Looking for new friends....
A good time...
Well if so, come join the Collegian!!



Applications are Available!
for University Child Care Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program • Spring 1999 university of massachusetts child care at amherst
University Child Care will open a Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program in Room 4, Skinner Hall on January 25, 1999!
The Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program will offer part-day child care programming for preschool age children (2 yrs 9 months through 5 yrs).
Part-day child care services may be purchased in blocks of time:
7:30am - 11:30am
8:30am - 11:30am
11:30am - 2:30pm
2:30pm - 5:30pm
5:30pm - 8:30pm* (Mon - Thurs)
5:30pm - 9:30pm* (Mon - Thurs)
*evening hours are contingent upon staffing
Pick Up an Application Packet at:
University Child Care Office - 112 Berkshire House
GEO Office - 201 Student Union
Commuter Service & Housing Resource Center - 428 Student Union
Dean of Student Office - 227 Whitmore
Or call us at (413) 545-1566 and we will mail one to you.
First enrollment priority is given to undergraduate and graduate families based on financial need. Second enrollment priority is given to University employee families based on financial need. Tuition costs fall on a sliding fee scale, based on family size and household income.
Apply Today!
When enrollment is full a waiting list will be created.

Work During Break
$$Earn Money$$
$400 - $600 PER WEEK
$7.50+PER HR with OVERTIME AVAILABLE
JOIN OUR TEAM TAKING INVENTORY IN YOUR HOMETOWN AREA DAYS AND NIGHTS
RGIS Inventory Specialists
Visit our website rgisinv.com
OR CALL TODAY & SET UP AN INTERVIEW
24 hour Job line — 1-888-231-RGIS
BOSTON 617-484-1788
PLYMOUTH 508-833-1145
SOUTH OF BOSTON 508-821-5891
ROUTE 3 SOUTH 781-340-6355
SEA COAST AND NORTH OF BOSTON 603-926-9813
Come visit us on the concourse 12/1, 12/8, 12/9, 12/15
EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

University of Massachusetts
SOMETHING EVERY FRIDAY
presents
Comedian
Reggie McFadden
December 11, 1998
Student Union Ballroom
8pm
FREE

Student Opener: CHRIS WALSH
The movie "Smoke Signals will be shown following the performance. "Smoke Signals" will also be shown on Sunday, December 13, 1998 at 8:00pm in the Campus Center Auditorium
For more info, please call 545-3600 or visit our website: http://www.umass.edu/events/calendar.htm
Reggie, a Brooklyn native, has had guest starring roles on COACH, MARTIN and MOESHA. He has also appeared on the FOX series GETTING PERSONAL and became a regular performer on the LATE SHOW WITH DAVID LETTERMAN and CONAN O'BRIEN.
SOMETHING EVERY FRIDAY presents a Hurricane Relief Fundraiser:
"There's Something About Mary"
Monday, December 14th 1998
Campus Center Auditorium
5pm, 7pm, 9pm, & 11pm
Admission: 5pm show - $1
7, 9 & 11pm show - $2

This series is made possible through a grant from Auxiliary Services and the office of the Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs.

Spirit of the season

Christmas. The season of good cheer and peace on earth. The only time of the year that features headlines like MOTHER OF THREE TRAMPLED TO DEATH AS PARENTS STAMPEDE DOWN CABBAGE PATCH AISLE. But hey, at least those parents were devoted. My parents are pacifists, so back during that whole Cabbage Patch Kid craze, I was stuck with a Turnip Patch Kid that some guy was selling out of a trailer in Patterson, N.J. (Turnip Patch Kids were kinda like Cabbage Patch Kids, but their heads popped off if you squeezed 'em too hard. This was very traumatizing to me as a child). This year the big craze are these little chattering fluffy things called Furbies (lewd name, isn't it?). As far as I can tell, these toys are designed to look like mutant hybrids of a mogwai and the Antichrist. I'm reasonably sure that every poor bastard kid who finds one of these little devils under the Christmas tree will have to undergo years of therapy.

"Centuries of philanthropy from such a man seems dubious at best. More likely he's going to call some favors in down the road, like Rumplestilskin."

Boomer Pinches

When I was little, every day between December 26th and December 24th of the next year was spent calculating just how many Transformers (or G.I. Joes, or video games) my parents could afford to buy me.

I always knew it was my parents making those poorly–wrapped gifts materialize beneath our plastic Christmas tree because my father told me flat–out that there was no Santa Claus. It was his idea of being open and honest with his son. He also wrote a song for me when I was three called "First Journey," about my trip out of my mother's womb and into the world. He would sing it to me every night, then say "Good night," turn off the lights, and leave me trembling in terror beneath my covers, certain that one night my mother was going to come in and shove me back in there.

Anyway, it's just as well I never believed Santa Claus was real because the whole idea of a jolly, obese Dutchman sneaking around my house at night is really creepy, even if he does come bearing gifts. It doesn't comfort me any more to know that he lives in an igloo up north with a bunch of midget craftsmen and enjoys having very young children sit in his lap for extended periods of time. The man is clearly dangerous and should be locked up. He's like some Nordic ice demon whose fury can only be appeased by milk and cookies. Woe be it to those who do not leave an offering of Oreos.

"But Santa's such a nice guy," you say. Exactly. A little too nice. The dude's got a sled that defies gravity, a team of elves capable of mass production on a scale that would have given Henry Ford wet dreams on a nightly basis. And, judging from how he manages to hit every household in the world in one night, he is clearly a master of time. Centuries of philanthropy from such a man seems dubious at best. More likely he's going to call some favors in down the road, like Rumplestilskin. Thirty years from now, you'll probably find him in your kitchen with his feet up on the table and his hand in the cookie jar.

"Um...Santa?"

"Hey, kid. Remember that rocking horse I gave you back when you were six? Well, it's time to pay the fiddler. I'll take your first–born child and your Weird Al record collection."

"Well...okay, you can have the kid, but Weird Al?"

A malignant twinkle in his eye as he touches the side of his nose. "Don't make me use my Wu Tang style on you."

Of course this is all assuming that Santa isn't just a consumerism icon at this point, a once–innocent creature of folklore exploited by toy companies. This doesn't bother me so much as the fact that they picked a bloated old man as their figurehead. If it were Laetitia Casta or Cameron Diaz slinking down my chimney to bring me a Christmas surprise, I'd be a little more accepting of the holiday.

So, thanks to Dad, I never had to worry about Santa (an anagram for Satan by the way), only the merciless favoritism that runs rampant in my family. My brother and sister were the Good Kids, you see. They got Nintendo, I got Atari. They got kittens, I got a hermit crab. For years I didn't even have my own stocking. My brother and sister had their own stockings. Our dog Gizmo had her own stocking. In fact, my family still hangs Gizmo's stocking up despite the fact that she's been dead for years. There it is, every year, stuffed with squeaky little chew toys. Some of my relatives liked me, but they never got me toys. They got me clothes. Christmas has been around nearly two thousand years and some people still haven't figured out that little boys don't want sweaters for Christmas, they want Optimus Prime and the Millennium Falcon.

I'm 21 now (I look 12 but I really am 21. Really). Christmas isn't as exciting as it once was because now instead of getting toys, I have to sit down and figure out which of my friends are worth $15 gifts and which are worth $5. I have to deal with Christmas albums on perpetual rotation at shopping malls everywhere. I have to fight the urge to shoot those Christmas carolers who always decide it's good idea to caterwaul their off–key rendition of "Silent Night" outside my house. Enough. It's time to take the holiday season back to it's pagan roots. Nothing but booze, sex, and Dionysian revelry from here on in.

Boomer Pinches is a UMass student.

Yeah, baby, yeah!

Have you ever wished that you could go back in time? Well, I have. When I was a little kid, I used to wish that I could go back in time so I could meet T. Rex and all of his pals. Don't laugh at me, I just thought that dinosaurs were cool. I mean, come on… don't you find a huge, cannibalistic lizard with a tiny brain the slightest bit fascinating? Well, maybe I'm just special. I guess I was amused with political figures even at an early age. In any case, I wanted to experience time travel, and this Thanksgiving, the strangest thing happened to me.

After devouring our festive dinner, my family and I sat around my grandfather's table and began performing the Italian version of the dinner scene in "The Nutty Professor." Papa was complaining that he was losing money on the football game, my mother was trying to make everyone gain 100 pounds by shoveling even more lasagna into their faces, and my brother was trying to steal all of the olives out of the antipasto. On the other side of the table, my grandmother was peering into the living room staring hypnotically at the TV as she watched her favorite program: The Weather Channel. I don't know, maybe she likes the music or something.

"I looked around, and everyone was dressed like that. No, it couldn't be! I was here. I was…a hippie!"

Gary Mendese

Also on the "different" side of the table, my aunt was staring at her empty plate, regretting the ill fate of Tom, the recently basted turkey. Sorry, Auntie, but any animal that is dumb enough to look up at the sky during a rain storm and drown doesn't get much sympathy in my book; besides, we all need our protein, don't we? Well, I had about enough of this, so I went into the living room to take a nap (I figured that the Weather Channel song would put me to sleep like a sweet lullaby). I lay down, closed my eyes for a minute, then suddenly got up and decided to get a breath of fresh air.

I went outside, stretched up my arms, breathing in the Peabody smog, when I suddenly noticed a little metal device in the middle of the street. I went over to it, picked it up, and noticed that it had "copyright 1969" written on it. It had a blinking red button on it, and the curiousity was killing me, so I pushed it.

Suddenly, I was floating through what seemed to be space. Everything was flying by me at lightning speed, and it appeared as though I was reaching the end of a sort of tunnel, as I could see a bright light up ahead. I finally approached the blinding light, and then BOOM! I landed flat on my derriere.

I looked around, and I wasn't in space anymore, but I wasn't in Peabody, either. "Where am I? Was there something wrong with that $3.99 bottle of champagne? Did someone slip a Quaalude into my drink? What was wrong with me?" I thought. Before I asked another question, I looked down at myself…were those moccasins? Oh, my god, I was wearing bell–bottoms. And I had on a tie–dye shirt and a laced cravat. I looked around, and everyone was dressed like that. No, it couldn't be! I was here. I was…a hippie!

I was in the place that I always dreamed of. The place of free love, no hostility, and of course, lots of sex (don't worry…I planned on using protection if the opportunity "arose"). To check things out and make sure this wasn't a delusion (probably from the Quaalude in my champagne), I began to walk around the city, which appeared to be Washinton, D.C.

In the five minutes that I walked around, I saw lots of couples making out, scores of teenagers hanging out on the street with smiles on their faces, and I was almost knocked out by the air of happiness and peace that was invading my spirit. I looked to my right, and in front of a large building, who's name I couldn't quite make out, I saw a group of protesters (11 of them, I think) carrying around picket signs stating things like: "Down with DOW!" and "Napalm kills innocent victims!". Now, I knew I was in the sixties. This was DOW Chemical Co.

"I'm really here," I thought. "I'm really alive during a time when marijuana is actually recommended by doctors! A time when everyone really loved everyone else, and a time when you could shag anyone you pleased." At this last notion, I balked. Could I…possibly use the line "Do I make you horny?" and not get smacked in the face? Could I mesmerize a woman with something as stupid as chest hair and not have to be the captain of the football team?

Just then, I saw a beautiful girl walking toward me, giving a look which seemed to yell, "Oh, behave!" right at me. I figured, what the hell…I was going to do it. OK, here goes: "Let me ask you something. And be honest. Do I make you…"

"Gary! Gary! Get up. It's time for dessert," yelled my mother. "Ahh! No!" I yelled. She had ruined it. What an awesome dream this was, and now I had to forget about the shagadellic girl and eat some fattening Thanksgiving treat? Damn!

Oh well, I guess the trend is wrong; the sixties and seventies aren't coming back. There won't be any more Austin Powers' or far out people like him. We're all just stuck here in the 90's with the Weather Channel and of course, pumpkin pie.

Gary Mendese is a Collegian columnist

With honors

Recently, there was a meeting held (in Grayson/Field) about the honors college and plans to make it mandatory for all freshman who enter Commonwealth College to be part of some type of honors housing. This housing, as I was able to understand from the explanation at the meeting, was to take the form of either having the Freshmen enroll and live in a TAP (or similar program) or have them become part of the honors floors to be located in Orchard Hill.

"It's common sense that if you place someone who feels he or she is the best in a situation where he or she is constantly meeting others that think they are the best, fighting to prove who is the best will occur. As anyone who has any experience in a dorm will attest to, whenever there are two people fighting, the entire floor is affected and it leads to even more problems with those who have connections with those involved. Imagine, if by chance, an entire floor was made up of fighting honors students each one trying desperately to outdo the rest, how good of an environment would this be? Would much studying be accomplished?"

Chris Collins

There has been a great deal of fear and misunderstanding about this proposal (for it is currently only a proposal, according to the people leading the meeting). Most of this fear is directed from people who are afraid of losing their housing on the Hill. Me? I like living on the hill, but I would think that the proposal is a terrible idea even if it was a being instituted in a different residence area.

For the most part, the major problem with the plan is that it is sticking all the honors students together, assuming that they will function well together because they all meet the necessary requirements for being part of the honors college. This reasoning is just plain illogical. Placing the best and the brightest together because they are the best and the brightest is simply asking them to develop rivalries and hatred towards each other.

It's common sense that if you place someone who feels he or she is the best in a situation where he or she is constantly meeting others that think they are the best, fighting to prove who is the best will occur. As anyone who has any experience in a dorm will attest to, whenever there are two people fighting, the entire floor is affected and it leads to even more problems with those who have connections with those involved. Imagine, if by chance, an entire floor was made up of fighting honors students each one trying desperately to outdo the rest, how good of an environment would this be? Would much studying be accomplished?

There are even more reasons to oppose the idea of honor's floors. For one thing, isolating honors students in floors can lead the students to become friends with only other honors students. There are those who would argue that since the freshmen would be taking classes with the rest of the school, this is not a possibility. However, as a friend of mine who lives on my floor in Grayson pointed out, "Our whole social lives are here, it would be stupid to go down the hill to hang out only to come up again when you are done." The fact of the matter is that where you live is where you spend most of your leisure time and thus where you make most of your friends. Hence, if you live on an honors only floor, then your friends are more likely than not going to be part of Commonwealth College.

Finally, it seems (this is what I understood from the meeting) that any incoming honors freshman who is not going to be in any type of other program will be forced to move to the Hill. This is a major problem, just because it could ruin the attitude of freshman who are moving in. Consider how one feels when the university tells you that because of space considerations, you can't live in the dorm of your choice.

Now consider how you would feel if the mighty University of Massachusetts said that you can't live in the dorm of your choice because it feels that it would be best if you lived on the Hill. Would you be ready to have a positive productive first year at the University? Would you be ready to make friends with the roommate you had been assigned because the friend you were going to room with can't live on the honor's floor because he or she didn't score that extra ten points on a standardized test?

Overall, the idea of using the Hill to house honors students is a fine one, but in its present isolating form, I don't believe that it is in the best interest of the incoming students.

Chris Collins is a UMass student.

Hooray for Hannukah

When I was five, my mother thought there'd be nothing more adorable than having me pose on Santa's lap. I was confused, but hell, what else did I have to do — I had already cut the hair off all my Barbies.

So I sat down on the big guy's lap and looked at the teenage–elf taking my picture. "Ho, ho, ho — what do you want for Christmas little girl?" he asked.

"I'm Jewish. I know you can't come to my house, it's okay," I told him.

Santa was perplexed. There was no pulling the wool over my eyes — I knew Santa was merely an overly– commercialized figment of American capitalist society. Okay, actually I thought he was Kenny Rogers, but whatever.

Julie Fiackow

"Uh, that's okay," said Santa, "Have a candy–cane, and um, Mazel Tov!"

But I admit, even though I thought Santa spent his vacations on "Islands in the stream" with Dolly Parton, I still wanted to slip him a crisp one–dollar bill with a wink and a nudge.

"I know I'm Jewish, but my parents refuse to buy me an Easy–Bake oven, I live between Jimmy Smith and Karen Jones, both gentiles who happen to be very naughty. If you made a pit stop at my house I'll leave you a plate of hot potato latkes. We can keep it between you, me, and the good carpenter in the sky."

I went to a school where my classmates' parents were named Tad and Evelyn. They all wore a lot of madras and drove Beemers. My parents names are Joyce and Marty. They wear polycotton blends and drive a 1989 Chevy Caprice.

"Yesterday I got a cool pencil case with Hello Kity, then the day before I got lip gloss, and the night before a charm necklace…," I would say.

Then little Heather, Morgan, or Britnay would interject — "I'm getting the deed to my parents house in Vail."

I'd look down at my shoes, and try to say I was really getting eight different ponies. But instead I'd quickly think of something like, "Yeah, well on Christmas I don't have to go to school 'cause I'm Jewish!"

Years went by, and I was still unsure of what Hannukah really was. I knew it was about presents, but I thought maybe there was some fuzzy spiritual message hidden in all the wrapping paper on the floor that I just couldn't find.

I knew all about the miracle of lights and that because of the "miracle" you can spell Hannukah any way you like — Channukah, Hannuka, Hanakkah…

But I saw the postcard image in my mind of what the holidays were supposed to look like, and mine didn't match. There was supposed to be a blazing, crackling fire, little children singing around the piano, and a funny, drunk uncle Bob.

At my house there was my parents and me, a menorrah, and an old, scratchy "children's hannukah songs" record. We might spin the dreidel a few times, even sing a song or two. But after the seventh night, the dreidel just stopped spinning and the candles in the menorrah started to melt. The magic had worn off and after school and work, we'd say happy holidays, and call it a day.

Yes, here it comes. The true meaning of the holiday spiel.

I realize now that what seemingly is a lack of formal traditions in my family, is actually a strong tradition. My parents both teachers, receive gifts on the day before break. We celebrate the day eating homemade fudge and making fun of all the weirdo homemade presents they receive.

"Gee, a crocheted apple ornament with googly eyes. Put it in the pile with the 15 #1 Teacher mugs."

"Don't eat those cookies, that kid has lice."

On Christmas Eve, we inevitably go out for some Chinese food and rent movies. We'll be forced to talk to each other. I'll be asked what I want to do when I graduate. I'll be asked if I'm definitely graduating. "A gangsta rapper. Maybe. Pass the Moo Shu and put on the Garfield Christmas special," I'll answer.

The holidays, don't get me wrong, are certainly about getting presents. And let's face it, I don't mean the presents of peace or love, I mean presents that are shiny and require heavy lifting. The holidays are also about enjoying the eccentricities of life, families, and friends.

This Hannukah, Christmas, or whatever December festivity you might engage in, relish the way your great aunt always asks you about your sex life while your mouth is filled with soup. Take pleasure in the way your grampsy smells like mothballs and whisky, even after showering.

Even going to 7–11 at two o'clock in the morning on Christmas Eve to buy a pack of Virginia Slims for that creepy "family friend," should be respected as a tradition.

These scenarios won't get the Hallmark Holiday Spirit Stamp of approval, but whose holidays really aren't more fenny Jones than Martha Stewart nowadays?

So this Hannukah, I plan to light the menorrah one night and then get lazy and plug in the electric one. But I'll be celebrating my own thing, in my own way. Maybe Santa will accidently drop the new Busta' Rhymes CD down my chimney instead of my neighbors'. La chayim!

Julie Fialkow is a Collegian Columnist.

Doonesbury BY GARRY TRUDEAU

Come down to the Collegian and write for Ed/Op

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545–3500 • Fax (413) 545–1592 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor-in-Chief Position Vacant Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Laura Forster Developing Nations Editor
Mike Mesaros Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Co-Jewish Affairs Editor
Morgan Tobor Co-Jewish Affairs Editor
Heather Lei Guzzetta Multicultural Affairs Editor
Jill Carroll News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Sports Editor
Allana E. Todman Women's Issues Editor
Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Prestes Distribution Manager
Feisal Ahmad Marketing Manager
Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life became the College Signal in 1901, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1956. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1994. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545–3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Smith elevates witty, driven Enemy of the State

COURTESY LINDA R. OHLEN

Will Smith and Gene Hackman stare each other down in this scene from the exciting Enemy of the State.

By Adam Martignetti
Collegian Staff

Enemy of the State
Directed By Tony Scott
with Will Smith, Gene Hackman and Jon Voight
Playing at The Mountain Farms Theaters

Enemy of the State is a rare breed in recent times — it's one of the few solid action films that has both an interesting story and some intellectual matter behind the normal visual excess. Toned–down performances by some of Hollywood's biggest names, including Jerry Bruckheimer and Will Smith, lead to an intriguing blend of suspense, mystery, and action.

After his loud, dizzying performance in Armageddon, the spawn of Hollywood special effects, producer Jerry Bruckheimer restrains himself to but one explosion in Enemy of the State. Thankfully he does not detract from the movie, but rather bolsters an already strong story with some fast–paced, sharp, sleek sequences. The transitions from the satellite tracking through high–tech computer equipment and onto the live action were some of the best filmed in the movie. In fact, I think a remarkably good job was done making a technical movie, which takes place mostly on computer screens, enjoyable to watch and visually pleasing.

After carrying ID4 and Men In Black with his charisma and ability to make almost any scene funny, Will Smith, too, takes a step in a new direction for his latest movie. Sure, he's still the center of attention, but he's not as glamorous as he would be if he were, say, fighting aliens. Smith, appropriately, lets the action come to him and plays the angry victim of a government conspiracy quite well.

Smith plays Robert C. Dean, a well–off lawyer who accidentally receives sensitive materials from an old acquaintance. Unfortunately for him, he doesn't even know that he has them. Even worse, the mysterious tape reveals a nasty criminal act by a high–level government official. When the NSA comes after him to claim the tape, Dean must flee to save his life. Soon, he befriends Brill, an undercover investigator who just happens to be an ex–NSA official. Together they must figure out who's the mastermind behind the scheme, how to expose him, and how to get their lives back all while trying to stay alive. Think, Conspiracy Theory meets The Fugitive. Gene Hackman, who plays Dean's friend and mentor of sorts, matches Smith with a strong performance of his own. Hackman excels at playing hard–nosed characters and this role as a not so paranoid, anti–government, no–name proves to be no different. Hackman sneers and snarls with the best, all the while dealing with the naive, unsuspecting Dean.

This notwithstanding, the movie largely takes place only on the surface. With its large supporting cast, including Lisa Bonet, Jason Lee, Seth Green ("Buffy the Vampire Slayer"), and Gabriel Byrne, I might compare It to The Usual Suspects except the character depth is just not there. The movie is mostly plot driven and we never come to "know" any of the characters intimately. Fortunately, this is not a large problem thanks to the fairly clever and comprehensive screenplay.

The story is remarkably clean, well thought–out, and interwoven nicely. The movie starts out with many interesting but separate threads and slowly moves forward bringing them together into one nice neat package. I especially like how the minor characters were used to draw out the larger story — that is, the government wants more spy technology, which ironically is the same technology being used to hunt down Robert Dean.

One problem with the movie is that it becomes a bit too chase–oriented. Once Dean discovers that he actually does have the tape he encounters one near–miss after another. I found myself more interested in Dean's slowly discovering the evil scheme, what was actually going on, than the constant pursuit and fleeing. Plus, the entire "hunted becomes the hunter" plot device seems all too tired to be believable,

Turn to ENEMY, page 6

Saucy new book says "Let's talk about sex"

By Mike Mesaros
Collegian Staff

THE GUIDE TO GETTING IT ON!
Paul Joannides
(Goofy Foot Press)

Even Kevin Arnold wanted to know about sex. It's only natural. Remember in "The Wonder Years" when Kevin and Paul went into the bookstore, leaving with a copy of Everything You Wanted To Know About Sex (But Were Afraid To Ask) stuffed under his New York Jets jacket? The kid had some questions.

The thought of a serious discussion, a real discussion about sex (meaning one that does not involve exaggerated lengths or conquests), is one that may actually scare the average college student. With so many different views, ideas, misconceptions, fears and apprehensions revolving around the very word sex, it's hard to ask someone else, "Hey, am I weird?"

Well, you might be. Hopefully, we've all learned a little from ma and pa; the basics. My home education went a little like this:

Frank: "So, son, you have any questions about…um, sex?"

Mike: "Uh…no."

Frank: "Very well then. Carry on."

This scene is played out everyday in 11–year–olds' bedrooms across the nation. And as educational and open as that may have been, one may be left with the occasional question, one that may prove a little too "blue" for pop's ears. "Dad, what exactly is the 'air–stream' method?"

The Guide to Getting It On! covers all the bases in its examination of sexuality, from the mundane to the esoteric. Positioning (a–hem) itself as the new sex book for a smarter generation, it's humorous without being overly smarmy, smart without being clinical. It never takes itself too seriously and never judges. Nothing is sacred, thankfully. There is no blushing or knowing glances. It carefully treads that thin line between silly and necessary, casting a knowing glance on everything. And I mean everything.

Chapter titles give you a bit of a clue as to its scope: "Techno' Breasts & Weenie Angst," "When Your System Crashes," and "Nipples, Nipples, Nipples." And while these titles may seem flip, the information contained within is often eye–opening, encased in clear, easy prose, supplemented with some incredible illistrations by Daerick Gross. Often, the information sets one at ease. "Maybe I'm not so weird."

While this book is chock full of

Turn to SEX, page 7

"VOTED BEST DELIVERY PIZZA AT AMHERST" "RAISED UPON STUDENT POLLS' OWN CAMPUS"

OPEN 'TIL 3AM FRIDAY & SATURDAY

PIZZA PAPA JOHN'S
331 Russell Street, Hadley
5 8 6 - 7 2 7 2

Starting at the end of next semester
PAPA JOHN'S will be accepting
OCMP
The Off Campus Meal Plan

NEW HOURS OF OPERATION
Sunday - Thursday 11am - 2am
Friday & Saturday 11am - 3am

Accepting: MasterCard VISA

2 LARGE PIZZA WITH UP TO 3 TOPPINGS
$13.99
Offer expires 12/31/98
•Not Valid with any other offer
•Valid only at participatin locations
• Customer pays all applicable sales tax
•Additional toppings extra

1 LG ONE TOPPING AND 6 PACK OF COCA-COLA
$9.99
Offer expires 12/31/98
•Not Valid with any other offer
•Valid only at participatin locations
• Customer pays all applicable sales tax
•Additional toppings extra

Going Home?
Keep your eyes on Amherst with MassLive's CampusCam
Around-the-Clock Live Web Cam!
• Streaming Video
• 24-hour Archives
• Greatest Hits
mass LIVE
www.masslive.com

Local artists on Papercuts

The Amherst/Northampton area has been a flourishing scene for local musicians to showcase their talent for quite some time. For a sample of some of the music created here in the Valley, pick up one of the Papercuts cassettes.

The newly formed local label "Papercuts" is fronted by local artist Tony Westcott, whose cassette, Are You There Margaret? It's Me, God, is one of the releases on the album. Wescott's material has been performed around the area, most notably at Mission IMPROVable's performances.

The space-rock of Architechtural Metaphor and the punk stylings of The Mitchells are in company with King Radio, Humbert, and Westcott on the Papercuts cassettes.

If you're not familiar with the local music scene, or are interested in any or all of the artists on the label, pick up one or a few of the Papercuts releases.

The Papercuts cassettes are available at Mystery Train in Amherst and B-Side Records in Northampton.

—Kevin Monahan

COURTESY ANTHONY WESTCOTT

Comedian Tony Westcott is only one of many local artists available on Papercuts cassettes.

Good news, sad news and other news from the happy, catty world of soaps

Hi, soap fans. First, I apologize for the vanishing act but the rigors of college demanded that I take a two week sabbatical (translation, I had to catch up on some work). 'Tis the season for exams and 10 page papers. Well, a lot has happened during my absence so let's get down to business.

There's some sad news on the "General Hospital" front. Norma Conolly, who has played the tell-it-like-it-is Aunt Ruby for decades, passed away two weeks ago. We all remember Aunt Ruby as the snappy, patron saint of Port Charles who was always willing to take any lost cause under her wing (Brenda and Liz, just to name a few). The world has lost a great person and actress. She will be missed. No word yet as to how "GH" is going to incorporate her death into the story, but I'll keep you posted.

On a happier note, three weeks ago my roommate Bonnie and I got the chance to spend some quality time with one of "GH"'s biggest heartthrobs, Tyler Christopher (Nik). A mutual friend of ours invited us to a cocktail party in upstate NY where he was slated to make an appearance (for charity). Of course, we jumped at the chance. Rest assured ladies, he looks even better in person (if such a thing is possible). Not only that but he also happens to be one of the sweetest, most down to earth guys in the biz.

Our friend introduced us to him and as usual, neither Bonnie or I could think of anything to say, despite the fact that we had a whole routine planned out. I think we were in a state of shock. Either that or we were just too busy drooling. I'm exaggerating a bit but you know what I mean. Fast forward through a few gin and tonics and the three of us were talking like we were old pals. Bonnie was even lucky enough to dance with him (the boy's got some moves). He was incredibly shy though — which of course, the ladies just ate up.

During our conversation I did get the chance to ask him a few industry-related questions. First I asked him whether or not he'd be renewing his contract with the show come Dec. He said he hadn't made up his mind yet, although he was optimistic about his upcoming romantic liason with Katherine, to which a few of the "GH" fanatics let out a hiss of disapproval. Some idiot replied, "We want you with Emily!" (seemingly unaware of the distinction between reality and fiction).

I feel the need to vent about this particular scenario. Does anyone honestly believe that a romance between Nikolas and Emily would generate any kind of heat? I mean, Emily may be a lot of things but a sexual being isn't one of them.

Speaking of which...this past Monday, Nikolas and Katherine finally made love. Call me crazy but I think the two of them are hot. It's so very taboo. The thing that really makes the scene interesting to watch, though (besides the obvious) is that we still aren't sure of Katherine's initial motives. Is he truly the object of Katherine's affection or just a pawn in her sick game of revenge against Stefan? Love 'em or hate 'em, you have to admit, it makes for one hell of a storyline. Just imagine how ripped Stefan will be when he catches wind of their affair. The scene was played out beautifully as well. Nice use of slow motion.

We could've done without the cheesy porn music though. I have just one question, where did an 18-year-old virgin pick up moves like that?

It's a sad day for "Guiding Light" fans. This week, fan favorite Jenna, is killed by her psychotic ex, Jeffery. Jeffery was apparently released from prison on a technicality and after finding out that Rocky was in fact his child and not Buzz's, he made a bee-line over to Jenna's house to confront her. He threatened to take Jenna and the kids and flee to England so that the four of them could start all over again. Things turned ugly when Jenna resisted and Jeffery ultimately ended up killing her in a jealous rage.

Being such a die-hard Jenna fan, the scene was difficult to watch, but with Fiona Hutchinson (Jenna) leaving, there really wasn't much else the writers could do. It would've been a cop-out to have Jenna leave Buzz and her two kids for whatever reason because, like Lois on "GH," we know that the real Jenna would never have done such a thing.

Maybe it's for the best. I mean, these last few months Jenna has been about as stale and blase as a character can be. She had those kids and bam, she became this walking paragon of virtue. I'm telling you, having a child has always been the kiss of death for vixens. Suddenly, she became this Martha Stewart clone with about as much edge as a bowl. The Jenna I knew and loved would've kicked Jeffery's butt and stolen his wallet afterwards.

This week on "One Life to Live," Rosanna, always the bright one, resorts to drastic measures and locks Will in a freezer to prevent him from telling Clint and Vicky about the true paternity of Jessica's baby. First of all, what's up with this girl? Is she a complete wackjob or what? Just three weeks ago she was all over Cristian, saying that he was the only one for her. Now she's all over Will, following him around like a love-sick puppy. Pssssh, whatever! I guess love is fickle! Don't you just love the Chris/Rosanna/Jess/Will quadrangle though? It's one of the main reasons I watch "OLTL." The thing that's so amazing about this particular quadrangle is that everyone seems to have chemistry with everyone else in vastly different ways. I have to say, the actors have done a fabulous job with this storyline too. I had to laugh at Cristian last week, though (who by the way, has been way too understanding about the fact that his wife-to-be is carrying another man's child!). Christian mentioned to Jess that he was lucky to have such a great girlfriend. This was after he found out that Jess was carrying another man's child mind you. Gee, if only all of us were so lucky as to have a partner who screwed us over.

Good news on the "Sunset Beach" front. After weeks of covering Gabi from afar, Father Antonio, whether he meant to or not, finally makes some progress. By Friday, the two of them end up in each others arms and Gabi starts to have second thoughts about her relationship with Ricardo. I've been waiting to see these two in heat for awhile and now it looks like I may just get my wish. Let the games begin.

A little gossip for the week: Usually I don't delve into the private lives of soap celebs but this week I'm making an exception. I just heard that Billy Warlock (AJ, "GH") and Julie Pinson (Eve, "Port Charles") are engaged. Isn't that such great news? And here I didn't even know that they were dating. I must be losing my touch!

There are several departures to report this week. The biggest involves Clint Riche's departure from "OLTL." After a gazillion years on "OLTL," Clint has bid adieu to the soap. According to confirmed sources he was displeased with both his role on the show (don't blame him) and how his contract negotiations were going.

The other big departures include Wendy Moniz and Frank Grillo (Dinah and Hart, "GL"). I'll have more to say about these two next week but for now, I'll have to say goodbye.

Jacob Fanning is a Collegian columnist. Questions or comments about this column can be emailed to jfanning@student.umass.edu.

■ Enemy

continued from page 5

especially in a movie like this. Other than that, the movie never really lapses and proves to be exciting and interesting right to the very end.

Sure this type of conspiracy action movie has been tried before. As a matter of fact, it's tried almost every week on the X-Files. It may not be shocking to think of these possibilities anymore, but nonetheless it is still fascinating. Enemy of the State explores society's fear of government in a fun, enjoyable, and intelligent way. It's not the greatest movie ever, but it's far from mass-produced Hollywood trash. After all, it's not paranoia, if it's actually happening.

Grade: B

Party.

ZANNA
downtown Amherst

amc
There is a Difference!
Silence is Golden
No child under 6 in any PG-13 or R rated film after 6PM.
Mt. Farms 4-Mt. Farms Mall 584-9153
HOME FRIES (PG-13)
JACK FROST (PG)
MEET JOE BLACK (PG-13)
ENEMY OF THE STATE (R)
PATCH ADAMS (PG-13)
Hampshire 6-Hampshire Mall 584-7550
WATERBOY (PG-13)
RUG RATS (G)
BUG'S LIFE (G)
STAR TREK: INSURRECTION (PG-13)
I STILL KNOW WHAT YOU DID LAST SUMMER (PG-13)
PSYCHO (R)
$2.50 'Twi-lite' Show Daily!
* Special Engagement No Passes or Coupons

SPRING BREAK HEADQUARTERS
Heller Travel
Student Travel Specialists, LOWEST student and faculty discount airfares.
HELLER TRAVEL
You just can't get it anywhere else!!
136 Massachusetts Avenue at Berklee Boston, MA (2115-(800) 843-1544 email: hellerto@berklee.edu

QWHY ARE MEN AND WOMEN WHO DREAM OF ENRICHING JEWISH LIFE ENROLLING IN THE RECONSTRUCTIONIST RABBINICAL COLLEGE?
A: The Reconstructionist Rabbinical College:
- promotes spiritual growth and professional development
- prepares rabbis for congregational pulpits, Hillel, chaplaincy, communal organizations, and Jewish education
- creates a learning community committed to diversity and pluralism
- fosters an informal participatory atmosphere
- applies the vision of Judaism as an evolving religious civilization to studying Jewish thought, history and practice
- unites traditional learning and modern scholarship
- provides innovative programs for Jewish Ethics, Women's and Gender Studies
- combines intensive course learning and practical internships

RRC announces full tuition merit scholarships plus living expenses for two rabbinical students entering the College in the Fall of 1999. Renewable annually for up to five years. Applications must be completed by March 1, 1999. Other scholarships and financial aid also available.

If you want to study in an environment that will support your personal journey and help you prepare to serve the Jewish people, consider RRC. Together we can add vitality to Jewish life. We invite you to come and visit in suburban Philadelphia.

CONTACT:
Rabbi Reena Spicehandler
Dean of Admissions
Reconstructionist Rabbinical College
1299 Church Road
Wyncote PA 19095
(215) 576-0800 ext. 55
E-mail: rrcinfo@rrc.edu

KICK & RUN SPORT SHOP
181 WEST STATE ST. (ROUTE 202)
CHATEAU HARMONY - P.O. BOX 56
GRANBY, MA 01033
"Check out our bargain basement sale!"
HOURS
MON-THUR 11-6
FRIDAY 11-8
SATURDAY 9-4
(413) 467-7200

OOPS!
• Free Estimates
• Lifetime Warranty
• Auto Glass Replacement
• Car & Truck Rental
North Amherst Motors
Collision Repair Center (On bus route - one mile from UMass)
78 Sunderland Road, North Amherst, MA 549-2880

TWO DAY SALE !!!!!
Sale ends Sat.!
20% OFF all Posters in stock!
Prismacolor 48 Pencil Sets $29.99 Reg. $39.99
Champion Black Scout Jkt. $39.99 Reg. $54.99
Prismacolor 72 Pencil Sets $45.99 Reg. $58.99
WE GIVE 100%* University Store
*We turn all of our profits to support University programs.
SEVEN GREAT SHOPS ONE GREAT STORE
In the UMass Campus Center
Open 9 to 5 M-F
11 to 4 Sat.
413 - 545 - 2619

In Living Color alumnus McFadden to hit UMass

Actor-comedian Reggie McFadden, known for his work on "In Living Color" and Jacob's Ladder, arrives at UMass tonight to perform stand-up at the Student Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. as part of Something Every Friday.

Starting at the young age of 17, Reggie began working at such talent-grooming comedy clubs as the Improv and Comic Strip Live. This lead to regular roles on HBO's "Def Comedy Jam" and, in collaboration with such talents as Jim Carrey and Keenan Ivory Wayans, on "In Living Color."

Recently, he's also been featured on "Moesha" and "Getting Personal", and graduated to the silver screen with Jacob's Ladder and the independent film Relationships.

McFadden also continues his stand-up routine, including frequent stops on the late-night talk shows of David Letterman and Conan O'Brien.

Something Every Friday also presents one of the top movies of the year, Smoke Signals, to follow McFadden's performance. Based on the screenplay written by famous Native American poet and writer Sherman Alexie, the movie revolves around two friends' spiritual journey to Phoenix.

Reggie McFadden will perform at the Student Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. Admission is free. The showing of Smoke Signals follows the performance.

—Bryan McAllister

COURTESY REGGIE MCFADDEN

Known for his work on "In Living Color," comedian Reggie McFadden will take the stage on Friday, Dec. 11th at the Student Union Ballroom at 8 p.m.

■ sex

continued from page 5

vital information, it's not for everyone. The illustrations are graphic and frank, and the discussion within the book is unflinching. Puritans beware. I found myself doubled over in pain reading about the possibility of men hurting themselves during intercourse (it involves a popping sound — yee-ouch!). But that's just how deep this discussion goes.

The more one reads the book, the more one feels at ease with the whole subject matter. It's a healthy, multi-faceted tool that includes — wisely — reader feedback and quotes from anonymous "regular folk." The book does not beg for a straight read through, but is instead a great book to thumb through, reading the anecdotes or maybe looking up the answer to that burning question (Just what is the 'air-stream' method?). At 662 pages, this book has more information than you ever knew existed on the subject.

Of course, it may take a little getting used to in order to get over one's fears. If you are too shy to go in to your friendly neighborhood bookseller and ask for the book, you can always call 1-800-310-PLAY to order it. But, come on, you Puritan. It's only natural. I mean, even Kevin Arnold had questions. And you know Winnie was cool with that.

COURTESY JESS EVENS

"The Visitation of Angels" is only one of many works featured in "The Durfee Show," an exhibit by the UMass Sculpture Department located on campus at the Durfee Conservatory. The opening reception is this Friday from 5 to 8p.m., and the exhibit will run from Dec. 11th to 18th.

CONGRATULATIONS to all of you
AND
your coaches
for a fantastic fall season!!!
Good luck on exams!!!
UMass Woman's Tennis

PART TIME TELLER POSITION
Florence Savings Bank is currently seeking candidates for a part-time teller position. The successful candidate will be responsible for operating a teller window to handle a wide variety of customer transactions in a courteous, professional manner, while adhering to Bank policies and procedures.
Applicants should possess a high school diploma or the equivalent, customer service experience, prior cash handling experience, strong communication and interpersonal skills, and computer experience.
Florence Savings Bank offers a competive salary and outstanding benefit package. A sampling of benefits includes:
* Medical Insurance
* Dental Insurance
* Life Insurance
* 401(k) Plan
* Pension Plan
* Profit Sharing
* Paid Vacation
If you are interested in becoming part of the FSB team, please forward your resume, or apply in person to: Human Resources Assistant, Human Resources Department, Florence Savings Bank, 85 Main Street, P.O. Box 60700, Florence, MA 01062-0700. Florence Savings Bank is an Equal opportunity Employer and encourages diverse candidates to apply for this position. No phone calls, please.

Fly home for the holidays.
With cash left for presents.
$19.
PHILLY/WILMINGTON
EACH WAY
7-DAY ADVANCE
$39.
BUFFALO
EACH WAY
14-DAY ADVANCE
By now you've probably heard about Shuttle America. The new hassle-free way to fly from Bradley International.
Friendly people. Easy boarding.
Quiet comfortable aircraft.
And plenty of legroom in comfortable 2x2 leather seats.
NEW SERVICE to Norfolk/Virginia Beach begins December 18.
FEEL GOOD ABOUT FLYING SHUTTLE AMERICA
1-877-AIRSHUTTLE
1-877-247-7488
Tickets are non-refundable and must be purchased at the time of booking. Tickets are exchangeable for a $15.00 per segment fee. Fares subject to change/availability and do not include local airport charges of $3.00-$4.00 each way.

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN

I want to fly like an Eagle

Ronell Blizzard and the Massachusetts men's basketball team will look for their second win of the season tomorrow night against state rival Boston College.

■ minutemen

continued from page 12

surprising the competition with a school mark in solo tackles with 107 this season. He contributes to a linebacking trio that includes All-America candidate Khari Samuel and drive- stopper Matt Dawson. The strongest unit on the UMass defense is completed by the play of Compton Webster off the bench, aptly replacing any of the three standouts.

In the defensive backfield, Jerard White and Brian Smith are responsible for stopping the opposition. White and Smith were tied for the league lead in pass breakups with 13.

Altogether, the Minuteman defense has tightened up to hold opponents to only 329.8 yards of total offense a game over the last five.

Regardless of the outcome, this game will be close, and UMass can no longer be overlooked as a contender.

"We're one of four," Whipple said. "Why not UMass?"

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN

Leaping towards a national title

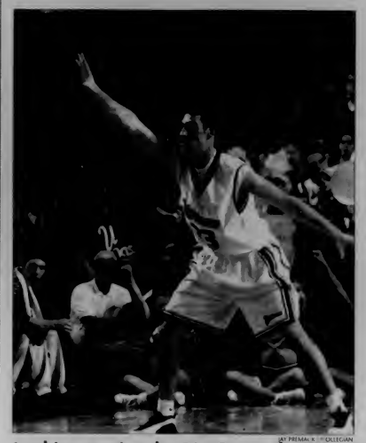
The Massachusetts football team is hoping to dispose of No. 2 ranked Northwestern State tomorrow afternoon and move into the 1-AA national finals.

■ minutewomen

continued from page 12

solid 3-1 home mark, the team will be forced to compete with only eight players for at least another a week.

Reserve forward Rekiya Penton has taken a temporary leave of absence to attend to personal matters, and guard Jayvana Bradley is still in the process of rehabilitating her knee.



"We have players capable of putting together winning efforts," O'Brien said. "We are looking forward to getting back to nine or 10 players, but until then, we will work with the players that are available."

One factor that has been working in the Minutewomen's favor as of late is increased fan support.

Much of the recent buzz concerning the team can be attributed to the efforts of the Sport Management graduate program students, supervised by Dr. William Sutton, who have competed in efforts to market the team.

The competition will conclude tonight with Coca Cola Family Night, featuring various giveaways and contests.

"Our players definitely enjoy and are responding to the support of the fans that have been coming out," O'Brien said. "We needed a boost against Holy Cross, and the excitement level of the crowd really seemed to provide that."

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN

Looking to give the Big Green the Big Hurt

The Massachusetts women's basketball team is hoping to get its fifth win of the year tonight against Dartmouth.

Are you of African American, Asian American, Native American or Latino origin? *

Do you want to go to graduate school but don't have the money?

Do you care about your neighborhood?

If you answered, YES...

Check out the opportunities in COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT!

Minority CREDIT Program

Community and Regional Economic Development Internship and Training

The Minority CREDIT (Community and Regional Economic Development Internship and Training) Program provides you a two-year, full-time, paid internship at a local, non-profit, community development corporation (CDC) and two-years waived tuition towards a Master's Degree in City Planning at MIT.

APPLY NOW! Deadline is January 15, 1999

FOR MORE INFORMATION:

MACDC
Jackie Washington
Phone: (617) 426-0303
Email: jackiew@gbls.org

MIT's Department of Urban Studies and Planning
Paula Anzer
Phone: (617) 253-2024
Email; anzer@mit.edu

Website:
http://web.mit.edu/dusp/www/admissions/minority-credit.html

* Must be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident to participate in the program

Great Gifts
Bags Stocking Stuffers Hats
Jewelry Natural Fiber Scarves
Blouses Skirts Dresses
Earrings Rings Bracelets Sweaters India Print
Candles Chains Toys Bedspreads
Socks Leather Sole Merry X'mas Mugs
Gloves Cards
Chinese Shoes
Sale 20 to 50% off selected Clothing
The Mercantile Weeknights 9PM Dec. 7-22 Sun 12-5 Daily 10-6
Amherst-Carriage Shops Northampton-108Main St.

BUCCI
HAIRCUTS always $10.
25 n. pleasant st. amherst 256.0733
145 main st. northampton 586.0155

UMass Student Legal Services Office
FREE confidential professional legal services for UMass students! 545-1995
CALL TODAY!
922 CAMPUS CENTER

GOT GIFTS?
Need Help?
Look for these handy signs to get some great ideas!
Only at UStore!
WE GIVE 100%
SEVEN GREAT SHOPS ONE GREAT STORE
In the UMass Campus Center
Open 9 to 5 M-F
11 to 4 Sat.
413 - 545 - 2619

Winter meetings begin in Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Welcome back, winter meetings.

Shut for six years, the popular swap shop reopens for business Friday when all of baseball — except for the New York Yankees, that is — gathers at the sprawling Opryland Hotel.

Roger Clemens is available. So is Kevin Brown. Jim Edmonds, Ryan Klesko and even Orel Hershiser could find new homes in the next few days.

Dozens of trades, free-agent signings and rumors on deck. Plus, a sensitive off-the-field subject: a discussion about androstenedione, the over-the-counter supplement used by Mark McGwire.

"To me, there's more chance of secondary type moves being made than any blockbuster coming out of there," Houston Astros general manager Gerry Hunsicker said, "but you never know when you get everybody together."

Judging from the past, something big usually does happen, making the meetings a fan's delight — especially this year with baseball enjoying such an amazing, riveting season.

Remember what happened the last time they held this event, back in December 1992 in Louisville?

Greg Maddux, Barry Bonds and Paul Molitor changed teams. Marge Schott publicly apologized for racial slurs. The Rev. Jesse Jackson showed up to chastise owners. Florida Marlins president Carl Barger collapsed and died.

And the deals kept coming, about three dozen in all. At one point, several teams were stacked up waiting to announce moves when Philadelphia Phillies spokesman Larry Shenk stepped to the podium.

"We've been cleared by air traffic control to go ahead," he said.

More often than not, that's how it's been at the winter meetings, which began in 1901 and led to the term "the hot stove league."

In 1991 at Miami Beach, 51 players switched teams in less than a week. In 1990 in suburban Chicago, then-Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda applauded when Toronto and San Diego announced a huge trade: Joe Carter and Roberto Alomar for Fred McGriff and Tony Fernandez.

In 1989 at the Opryland Hotel, "Trader" Jack McKeon chomped his way through 18 cigars during an all-day blitz that brought Carter, Fred Lynn and Craig Lefferts to the Padres in different deals.

So much action that it brought back memories of the time Chicago White Sox owner Bill Veeck and GM Roland Hemond actually set up an "Open for Business" sign in the lobby of the meetings hotel. Such fun for fans, too, that it seemed unfair when baseball decided to stop holding them after the Louisville session.

The reason? Acting commissioner Bud Selig and other executives felt that agents turned the gathering into gigantic bidding wars — $43.75 million for Bonds, for example — and were scared off. But this year, Selig and friends were convinced to reconvene the meetings. They loved the offseason publicity generated by last winter's expansion draft in Phoenix, particularly the trades of Pedro Martinez, Robb Nen, Travis Fryman and others that followed, and felt safer because owners — and their wallets — were holding separate meetings.

"We thought there would be more positives than negatives," Selig said.

Most everyone else appeared to agree. But the Yankees, perhaps in the best position to trade for Clemens, decided to stay away following their organizational meetings in Tampa, Fla.

That won't prevent the World Series champions from working out a deal with Toronto, however, especially if owner George Steinbrenner decides he wants the five-time Cy Young winner.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Looking to declaw those Wildcats

Kris Wallis and the Massachusetts hockey team will face off with the No. 8 New Hampshire Wildcats this weekend in a home and home series.

Eckersley calls it a career after 24 years in the bigs

BOSTON (AP) — For more than two decades, Dennis Eckersley stood on the mound like a gunslinger, with his flowing hair, droopy mustache and one of the most talented arms in baseball.

After pitching in the most games in major league history — 1,071 — Eckersley said yesterday he had thrown his final fastball. His 24 seasons in the majors were really two careers: 13 years as a starter and then, after a battle with alcohol, a move to the bullpen for 11 years as one of the most dominating relievers the game has ever seen.

"It's hard to walk away," he said, fighting back tears. "It's been a major part of my life since I was 8 years old."

The Eck piled up awards and memories: six All-Star appearances, the AL Most Valuable Player and Cy Young awards in 1992, the AL championship series MVP in 1988. He pitched a no-hitter for Cleveland in 1977, sat in the dugout for the 1978 Yankees-Red Sox playoff, gave up Kirk Gibson's famous World Series home run 1988, and closed out games for the three Bash Brothers pennant winners in Oakland.

"I guess the favorite memories are some of the magic that happened in Oakland," said Eckersley, who was born and raised in the Bay area. "We had some magic that lasted for about five years, those were some of the special times."

Now 44 and third on the career saves list with 390, Eckersley only admitted he had reached the end this week, after the Red Sox refused to offer salary arbitration. This made them ineligible to re-sign him until May 1.

"To be honest with you, somebody had to make the decision for me because I wouldn't have done it," Eckersley said. "I would much rather have left like I've done today than to leave in the middle of the season or getting booed out of the ballpark. I didn't want to taint my career."

In his last appearance on Sept. 26, Eckersley broke a tie with Hoyt Wilhelm by pitching in his 1,071st game. As the Red Sox reliever ran in from the bullpen — a trademark of the Eck — fans at Fenway Park gave him a standing ovation.

Eckersley, who regularly runs in the offseason to keep in shape, said the thought of retirement started creeping into his mind after the playoffs.

"People started saying that I could do it again, and I thought, Well, I guess,' but you know, physically, I did not want to keep it going," he said. "I just started gearing down. Usually I just keep running, but all of the sudden I didn't want to run anymore. That's what happens I guess, that's what happened to me."

The right-hander, who spent seven years with the Red Sox before moving on to the Chicago Cubs, Oakland Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals, had returned to the team last Dec. intending to finish his career in Boston.

He was a 20-game winner with the Red Sox in 1978, the year of that famous collapse and subsequent loss to the New York Yankees in the one-game playoff on Bucky Dent's home run.

Whipple leading UMass to the top of the heap

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — In just one year, the University of Massachusetts football team has gone from a losing record to being national championship contenders.

As the Minutemen prepare to take on Northwestern State [11-2] in the Division I-AA national semifinals in Louisiana on Saturday, the question still lingering is: How did Coach Mark Whipple turn a team with a 2-9 record into a 10-3 record so quickly?

"I don't know what they did here before, we just did what we thought was right," Whipple said. "It worked for me in New Haven and in Brown. That's why I was hired, to not change, but to just be myself and to coach the way we've always coached."

Whipple became coach at UMass this year, after compiling a 24-16 record at Brown from 1994-97. Before that, he had a 48-17 record at the University of New Haven from 1988-93.

More than anything, the team's success comes as a result of the team's new confidence, Whipple said.

"We had a couple of new players, but I just think we changed the attitude," Whipple said. "The kids started believing in our systems and our coaching style, started believing in one another. Offense believed defense would play well, and the defense believed the offense would play well. It made a big difference."

He also said the hard work of the team's co-captains, Kerry Taylor and Khari Samuel, both seniors, had a positive impact on the team.

Despite their strong record, the 11th-seeded Minutemen have had some ups and downs throughout the season, including a heartbreaking 28-27 loss to rival, and ninth-seeded, Connecticut.

"We have to play better than we have played," Whipple said. "We have not played a great game yet where you really feel fulfilled after the game."

Whipple said the team will need to force more turnovers and hang onto the football better in order to beat second-seeded Northwestern State.

"We're trying to find some [of Northwestern State's] weaknesses, but we haven't found any yet," Whipple said. "This game is far and away the biggest challenge of the year. If we are going to win, we have to play our best game of the season."

The winner of Saturday's game will play for the championship Dec. 19 in Chattanooga, Tenn., against the winner of Saturday's game between West Illinois and Georgia Southern.

Flint signs a two-year extension

Third-year coach Bruiser Flint has agreed to a two-year contract extension to lead the Massachusetts basketball team, campus athletic spokesmen said yesterday.

The extension carries him through the year 2002. There were no immediate details on the terms.

Flint signed a $1.4 million four-year contract in Oct. 1996. He had been an assistant under John Calipari, who left to coach the New Jersey Nets in the NBA.

The Minutemen went 40-25 during his first two seasons as head coach and are 1-4 this season.

Next semester, jump on down to the Collegian and write for sports!!!

Slightly to moderately overweight men, ages 18-34, needed for a study of hormones, diet, and body weight. Two 9-day hospital stays are required. No medicine or drugs will be given.

• $1500 compensation

If interested, call Dr. Michael Agus at Children's Hospital, (617) 355-5849

EMERGENCY MEDICAL TRAINING
By Human Services Training Consultants, Inc.
Part Time Evening Classes start February 8, 1999
Call UMASS, Continuing Education at: 545-0474

21+ NIGHT
CASH BAR!
GREAT BILLIARDS & TABLE TENNIS ACTION!
THE PLACE TO BE THIS SATURDAY!
SATURDAY, DEC. 12
7PM TO 11PM
POSITIVE ID REQUIRED AGES 21 AND UP ONLY.
CALL 545-2527 FOR MORE INFO.
Union Billiards
UMass Student Union

The Massachusetts DAILY COLLEGIAN
New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967
DAY GRAPHICS DEPT. is... HIRING!!
STOP BY...ROOM 113 CAMPUS CENTER
ASK FOR DAVE PARMENTER

Night Graphics
Collegain night graphics department is now accepting positions for spring '99.
Anyone with experience with QuarkXPress or Adobe Pagemaker should come down to the Campus Center Basement room 113 and fill out an application.
If you have any questions please call 545-1864 and ask for Dave.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY
DUE TO OUR RAPID GROWTH, EXPANSION, AND PROMOTIONS, WE CURRENTLY HAVE THE FOLLOWING OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE:
PROFESSIONAL VEHICLE SALES CONSULTANT
Compensation: Salary plus commission & bonus
Candidates must:
• Be able to operate a normally equipped vehicle;
• Have a valid drivers license, accept able driving record;
• Be able to read and write English (at or above high school level);
• Be honorable
• Prior sales experience desireable.
We offer top compensation and a strong benefit package that includes:
- Medical and Dental Insurance Available
- Paid Holidays, Vacation, and Sick Leave
- Training and Advancement Opportunities
- Excellent Working Conditions
- Full Two Week Training!
- Recognition for a Job Well Done!
- Split shifts - 40 hour work week
A management team committed to excellence, growth and client satisfaction.
For more information or to submit an application, please visit 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays or send your resume or letter of application to:
Bill Richard, Gen. Sales Manager
(NO PHONE CALLS PLEASE)
NORTHAMPTON TOYOTA

Collegian Classifieds

113 Campus Center University of Massachusetts • Phone: (413)545-3500 Fax: (413)545-1592

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Women's Ice Hockey Team beat MIT 4-0 last Friday. Come see them play Amherst College Saturday at 1p.m. The team would also like to thank the entire UMass Community for its unfailing support. HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

APARTMENT FOR RENT

South Beach/FL Art Deco District Studio. Subtropical Intersession Sublet. Near beach, clubs. Ideal for single or couple. January 2nd through 8th or January 8th through 15th. $350 weekly. References, Security. Call 413-586-7348.

Take Over Our Lease 1 months rent free! 2 bedrooms, 2 baths. Excellent condition Mill Valley Estates. Available Jan 1st. 253-1656.

Take Over My Lease 1 bedroom, Puffton Village. Nicely furnished. Available Feb 1. $570. Call 549-0316.

Take Over Our Lease One bedroom apartment on bus line. Rent is $450+. Starting Jan 1. Call Tim 256-8852.

2 Bedroom Puffton Village. Renovated. Starting Jan 1. 549-7105.

WinterSession: Huge 2 bedroom, 5 miles away, Sunderland. $550. 546-5072 or 546-2793.

Take Over My Lease Amherst Town Studio. Hot water. $440. 253-1708.

New Puffton Village- Rent starting at $570. Includes heat, hot water, and cooking gas. DSS satallite and cable ready. On-site parking and laundry. Near UMass. On bus line. One, two, and three bedrooms. Call 549-0145 now.

Brandywine Apartments
1 and 2 bedroom apartments available.
1/4 mile from campus.
Dec or Jan 1.
Call 549-0600.

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Lantern Court (Sunderland)- 2 bedroom. Close to bus stop. $550. Call 665-6705.

AUTO FOR SALE

1992 Jeep Wrangler Mint condition. $5600 or B/O. Call Katie 527-8284. Must sell before 12/14/98.

Isuzu Trooper 86 Runs well. Rust. 4x4. $1100 or B/O. 256-8467.

88 Ford Taurus V6, 93K, automatic, station wagon, power steering, cruise, A/C, powar windows, new tires, tune-up. $2200 or B / O martin.reeker@ps.ge.com or (518)385-0196 9a.m.-4p.m.

Great Winter Car 4x4 1990 Tracker. Excellent condition. New tires. $3399. 256-0509.

VW Jetta 88 Blue, 5 speed, tinted glass, runs and looks good. $1800 or B/O. Must sell! Call Will 549-6659

Toyota Camry 88 Standard. $1700 or B/O. 549-8773.

WANTED: Toyotas, Novas, Prizms, Sentras. Any condition. Cash paid everyday 1-800-649-4795.

AUTO PARTS

Hard Top for 1991-96 Jeep Wrangler. Defrost/Wiper. Black. 549-0013.

COMPUTERS

Mac PowerBook 520 Microsoft Word 6.0. Carrying case and manuals are included. $495 or B/O. 549-0938.

EMPLOYMENT

The Cape Cod Times, a 50,000-circulation daily based in Hyannis, is seeking a sports intern to start immediately and work through May, with the possibility of continuing through the summer. Journalism major preferred; experience on school or local papers helpful. Duties would include game coverage, high school sport roundups and some editing. Hours primarily nights and weekends. $315/week. Call Sports Editor Bill Higgins, 508-862-1151, or Managing Editor Alicia Blaisdell-Bannon, 508-862-1192.

Returning to the Greater Boston area this winter break? Want a fun, flexible job working with kids in their homes? Call Parents in a Pinch if you have at least 2 full weekdays free and childcare refs. Earn 9+/hr. 617-739-KIDS or email us at Davidapiap@aol.com. Car preferred!

TUTORS
Bilingual Tutors for part-time, paid assistance to students speaking Amharic, Chinese, Khmar, Portuguese, Serbo Croatian, Vietnamese. Contact ESL/Bilingual Office at 413-549-9857. Amherst Public Schools An Affirmative Action/ Equal Opportunity Employer.

Cashiers PT/FT, All Shifts. Full-Time Benefits include 401K, Health, Dantal, and Vacation. Please apply in person. Dairy Mart, 259 Triangle St., Amherst, MA.

Best Winter Break Job In The Valley! Get paid to make a differance! Earn $300+ a week fighting air and water pollution. Leadership development seminars offered free to staff. CLEAN WATER ACTION 584-9830.

SUMMER MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITY
Where are you working during the SUMMER OF '99?
College Pro, a $25 million company, seeks highly motivated college students from New England to manage a service business. Summer earnings average $8-10K+ per manager. Internship credit possible. If you are a goal-oriented leader searching for the right opportunity, call for an application and information to be sent by mail.

EMPLOYMENT

Leave your name, school address, and phone # on the automated voicemail system at: (617)576-6833 ext 124.

ENTERTAINMENT

SOMETHING EVERY FRIDAY'S Hurricane Relief Movie: "There's Something About Mary" will be showing on Monday, December 14, 1998, in the Campus Center Auditorium. $1 Admission at the 5:00p.m. show and $2 Admission at the 7, 9, and 11p.m. shows.

FOR SALE

Mens Mountain Bike Mongoose Hill Topper. 21 speads, new tires, seat. $300 or B/O. 549-0938.

Computer Desk with Shelf Top. $45. Call Cathy 549-6026.

Aggression Red Dog Snowboard Nevar been used. $225 or B/O. Call Eric 546-2745.

Full-Size Bed $150, Bureau $20, Desk $10. Call Steva 585-8259.

HEALTH & BEAUTY

We're here to pump... YOU UP! Creatine Monohydrate, Creatine Surge, DHEA, Whey Protain and more from Fitness Workshop delivered right to your door. 1-877-FIT-WORK. www.fitnessworkshop.com

HOUSE FOR RENT

Summer Rentals
Cape Cod Group Summer Rentals. Some waterfront houses, some with swimming pools. Falmouth area. Call Diamond Real Estate 1-508-477-1900.

INSTRUCTION

Keep Busy During Break Work off holiday pounds and hava fun taking KICK-BOXING LESSONS. One-on-One training with a U.S.K.B.A. licensad kick-boxer. Call Joe @ 548-8979.

CARDIO KICKBOXING Amherst Athletic Club. Train with the prosI 256-0080.

MISCELLANEOUS

Need a unique holiday gift? Try a handmada teddy bear! Call Kelly 253-2654.

PETS FOR SALE

Rabbit Rescue has a lovely selection of bunnies. Many colors and types as well as a salection of cages and hutches. We can also help with any bunnias you can no longer cara for. Call Ellen at 367-0105.

ROOM FOR RENT

Rooms Available To Rent for Intersession. 389 North Pleasant. 1 minute to campus/uptown. Call Mika 549-7033.

2 rooms in a 4 room apartment on Main St. Available January 1. $275 or $295. Call Mark 253-1179 or Tim 253-6566.

Northampton 1 room in large Victorian housa. 2 minutes bus and Downtown. Available now. Only $265! Call Dan 584-2339.

1 room in 3 badroom ranovated Puffton apt. Available 1/1/99. Tad 549-7374.

Looking for female for one room in housa. Closa to campus. Jan or Feb 1 to May 31. $250 a month. 549-1192.

Lambda Chi Alpha, located at 374 North Pleasant Straet, has rooms available for rent over WinterSassion. Call 549-7759 for more information.

Live In Brandywine
1 room available in two bedroom apt. On bus route. Utilities included. Call Malissa ASAP at 549-7851.

Nutting Ave.
1 minute walk to campus. I need to rant my room in 6 bedroom house for Spring. 549-8742.

Salem Place- 1 bedroom in 2 floor condo. 2 1/2 baths, fully furnished, carpatad, deck, basament storage. On bus route. Late Dec/Spring Call John 256-0842.

ROOM FOR RENT

Near Campus on Nutting Ave. Available Jan 1st. Call 549-9135.

Take Over My Lease! Jan-July '98. Moving to California in two weeks & need to find someone. 1 badroom in 2 bedroom apt. Furnished, spacious, & clean. $345, all inclusive + electric= @$15 per month. Awesome place, awesome roommate staying. Bus drops you off four doors from your own. Call Lori or Daniel @ 665-4149 till 11:30 at night.

One large bedroom in two bedroom apartment. Available Spring Semester. Located in Brandywina. Call Stuart 548-6819.

North Amherst 3 bedroom apt. On bus route across from Town Houses. Space can be shared. Two cool roommates are easy-going. Starting Jan 1st. Call Joe at 549-5596.

One nice room available in a four bedroom Alpine Commons apartment. Move in Jan 1 or possibly earlier. Two full bathrooms. On bus line. Graat roommatas! Apartment is fully furnishad with the exception of the bedroom. $314.50/month. ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED! Please call Janny at 253-2050 ASAP.

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom. Brandywina. For Spring/late December. Call Jeremy 549-6955.

Quiet Setting Kitchan privileges, laundry, parking, non-smoking. $335. 549-4853.

ROOMATE WANTED

Sunny room in farmhouse. Route 116. Grad student preferred. Call Dan 548-9379.

ROOMATE WANTED

$180 a month for room in a cozy 4 bedroom housa. 2nd bedroom available for $250. Seeking friandly mature roommates. Woodsy location. Deck overlooking large back yard. 2 dogs. Close to bike trail and bus route. 5 milas from Amherst. Call Amy or Shaldon 253-4826.

Grad woman needs roommate. (Grad woman or mature Undergrad) for Spring Semester to shara modarn/luxury 3 laval townhouse condo on bus line less than one mile from campus. Totally furnishad; two large bedrooms; deck; laundry in unit; basement storage! Much mora! Only $300/month + utilities. Call Monica (413)549-4808.

Three rooms opening ASAP in large 5 bedroom house in Hadley. On bus line. Spacious, close to NoHo and Amherst. Prapaid heat. $270/month. Craig or Jon 587-9319.

SERVICES

Have a pet? Going away for breaK? Patsitting for cats or small animals, Amherst araa. Leave message at 253-6689.

Pregnant? Need help? Call Birthright of Amherst Area for free testing and assistance. 549-1906.

TICKETS

Rolling Stones Fleet Centar, Boston, Mar 22. One loge seat for sala. Great price! 665-0241.

TO SUBLET

On Bus Route Really spacious. Accomodates 2 to 4 people. Can start eithar 1/1 or 2/1. One mile from campus. Call 253-1892.

Feb 1st 2 bedroom apt. On bus line to campus. $700 a month. Call 253-4621.

TRAVEL

ALTERNATIVE SPRING BREAK IN SC! Spand your Spring Break doing home repair for & with paopla of the Gullah cultura. This week long trip is part of a class sponsored by the Inter-Religious Project. For mora info call Emily at 546-4104.

SPRING BREAK '99
Student Travel Services is America's #1 Student Tour Operator.
Don't book with anyona alse until you talk to us!!!
Cancun from $399.
Jamaica from $399.
Panama City from $119.
Daytona Beach from $139.
Student Travel Sarvicas
1-800-648-4849
www.ststravel.com
On Campus Contact:
Erich @ 413-549-5287
Jonah @ 413-549-8867
Dan @ 413-253-1341
George @ 413-546-4223

WANTED TO RENT

1 bedroom single occupancy apartment ASAP. Call Ty at 546-4214.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY

DUE TO OUR RAPID GROWTH, EXPANSION AND PROMOTIONS, WE CURRENTLY HAVE THE FOLLOWING OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE:

PROFESSIONAL VEHICLE SALES CONSULTANT

Compensation:
Salary plus commission & bonus

Candidates must:
• Be able to operate a normally equipped vehicle;
• Have a valid drivers license, acceptable driving record;
• Be able to read and write English (at or above high school level);
• Be honorable
• Prior sales experience desirable

We offer top compensation and a strong benefit package that includes:
Medical and Dental Insurance Available
Paid Holidays, Vacation, and Sick Leave
Training and Advancement Opportunities
Excellent Working Conditions
Full Two Week Training!
Recognition for a Job Well Done!
Split shifts - 40 hour work week

A management team committed to excellence, growth and client satisfaction.

For more information or to apply in person, please call Monday - Friday 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Ask about our referral bonus or refer a friend.

Bill Richard, Gen. Sales Manager
(NO PHONE CALLS PLEASE)

NORTHAMPTON TOYOTA
280 King St. (Rte. 9)
Northampton

Five College Community Calendar

FRIDAY, DEC. 11

Celebration — The second annual Emily Dickinson birthday celebration will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the New York Room of Mary Woolley Hall at Mount Holyoke College. There will be readings from Emily Dickinson's books and guest speakers at the celebration.

Chorus — The Hampshire College Chorus will perform Ernest Bloch's SACRED SERVICE at 8 p.m. at the Grace Church on Amherst Town Common.

Comedy — MISSION IMPROVable, a comedy improv troupe, will perform in room 163 of the Campus Center at 8 p.m. A surprise guest troupe will also perform.

Community — Reggie McFadden will perform in the Student Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. as part of the Something Every Friday program series. The hit movie "Smoke Signals" will follow.

Community — Mini Mall '98 will be held in the Student Union Ballroom from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. with 30 tables of vendors. The event is sponsored by Dancers Improvisational Group will perform in Herter Art Gallery from 3:15-4:30 p.m.

Performance — Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance present "Performance Project" in Amherst College Theater and Dance 62, Performance Studio at 8 p.m. Reservations are suggested, and admission is free.

Service — There will be a Shabbat service and free dinner at 6 p.m. in the Hillel House. All are welcome.

SATURDAY, DEC. 12

Comedy — MISSION IMPROVable, a comedy improv troupe, will perform in room 163 of the Campus Center at 8 p.m. This will be the last show of the semester.

Performance — Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance present "Performance Project" in Amherst College Theater and Dance 62, Performance Studio at 8 p.m. Reservations are suggested, and admission is free.

Community — The 1999 Yearbooks are now on sale in room 304 of the Student Union. Call 545-0848 to order one.

NOTICES

Community — The Teacher Education Coordinating Council and the School of Education's Office of Teacher Education have information on the Mass. Educator Certification Tests in room 125 of Furcolo Hall. Contact Michael Schwartz at 545-2701 for more information.

Community — The Community Service Program, the Anthropology Department, and the Honors Program are offering two courses for the Spring which will address issues of grassroots development in rural Appalachia or the midwest. Each course will be completed with a trip to Appalachia or a mid-western city. Applications are due by Dec. 14, and space is limited. Call Maleah at 545-3368 or Art at 545-2483 for more details.

Put the FUN back in fun reading!

WE GIVE 100%™ Bookworks Everyday Discounts of 10% OFF! or More! On nearly every book in stock! One store for books. We give all of our profits to support University programs.

Bookworks is a division of University Store

HSCN Hampshire Cable Network

2 HSCN Bulletin Board
3 CBS/3 Hartford
4 CBS/4 Boston
5 ABC/5 Boston
6 PBS/57 Springfield
7 HSCN Movie Ch.
8 UPN/20 Hartford
9 Weather Channel
10 NBC/30 New Britain
11 Fox/61 Hartford
12 PBS/24 Hartford
13 WOCH & HSCN
14 International
15 UMass Academic TV
16 WB/New Haven
17 HSCN Programming
18 The Learning Channel
19 UVC—TV19
20 ABC/40 Springfield
21 Gavel to Gavel
22 NBC/22 Springfield
23 Sundance
24 Bloomberg Financial
25 CTN
27 TBS
28 BET
29 TV Land
30 Univision
31 Comedy Central
32 Cartoon
33 Much Music

FRIDAY EVENING — C - Campus — DECEMBER 11, 1998

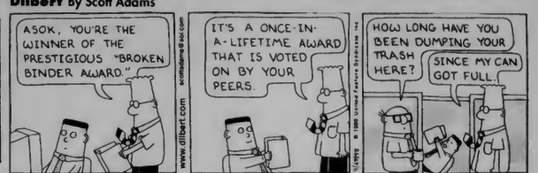
	C	6:00	6:30	7:00	7:30	8:00	8:30	9:00	9:30	10:00	10:30	11:00	11:30
WEDH	2	12 Wishbone .E	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer .E		Wash. Week	Wall St. Week	Andrea Bocelli: Romanza in Concert			Helmut Lotti Goes Classic From Belgium
WFSB	3	3 News .E	CBS News	Inside Edition	Hollywood Sq.	Frosty	Frosty	Figura Skating (In Stereo) .E		Kasha Lee Christmas	News .E	Late Show .E
WBZ	4	4 News	CBS News	Hollywood Sq.	Ent. Tonight	Frosty	Frosty	Figura Skating (In Stereo) .E		Kasha Lee Christmas	News	Late Show .E
WGVB	5	5 News .E	ABC News	Inside Edition	Divorce .E	Two of a Kind	Boy-World	Sabrina-Witch_Brother's Kpr	20/20 .E		News .E	Nightline .E
WLVI	6	Sister, Sister	Fresh Prince	Nanny .E	Friends .E	★★★ "Wild Hearts Can't Be Broken" (1991) Gabrielle Anwar					Friends .E	Nanny .E
WHDH	7	News	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! .E	Dateline (In Stereo) .E		Homicide: Life on the Street .E		Homicide: Life on the Street .E	News	Tonight Show
WTXX	8	Home Imp.	Judge Brown	Judge Judy .E	Judge Judy .E	Legacy "The Big Fix" (In Stereo)		Love Boat: The Next Wave .E		News	Newsradio .E	Married... With
WVIT	10	News	NBC News	Ent. Tonight	Hard Copy .E	Dateline (In Stereo) .E		Homicide: Life on the Street .E		Homicide: Life on the Street .E	News	Tonight Show
WTIC	11	Simpsons .E	Friends .E	Seinfeld .E	Frasier .E	Brimstone "Slayer" (In Stereo)		Millennium "Human Essence"			News	Tonight Show
WWLP	22	News .E	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! .E	Dateline (In Stereo) .E		Homicide: Life on the Street .E		Homicide: Life on the Street .E	News	Friends .E
WGBY	9	Creatures	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer .E		Wash. Week	Wall St. Week	Cecilia Bartoli — Live in Italy (In Stereo) .E			Red Dwarf	Red Dwarf "Stasis Leak"
WGGB	28	News .E	ABC News	Seinfeld .E	Frasier .E	Two of a Kind	Boy-World	Sabrina-Witch_Brother's Kpr	20/20 .E			News .E	Nightline .E
WSBK	38	Judge Judy .E	Judge Judy .E	Seinfeld .E	Frasier .E	Legacy "The Big Fix" (In Stereo)		Love Boat: The Next Wave .E		Mad Abt. You	Mad Abt. You	Frasier .E	Cheers .E
WTBS	42	Family Matters	Family Matters	Roseanne .E	Roseanne .E	★★½ "A Few Dr's Kill" (1985, Adventure) Roger Moore, Christopher Walken						"The Spy Who Loved Me"
AAE	40	Northern Exposure .E		Law & Order "Good Girl" .E		Biography: Colonel Sanders		L.A. Directives			Touch of Frost "House Calls" .E	Law & Order "Rebirth" .E
CNN	23	Worldview .E	Moneyline Newshour .E		Crossfire .E	World Today .E		Larry King Live .E			Cold War (R) .E
COM	26	Saturday Night Live .E		Offenders	Stain's Money	Comedy Showcase		★★ "Three Amigos!" (1986, Comedy) Chevy Chase, Steve Martin,			Sports	Moneyline .E
DISC	48	New House	Fix-It-Line (R)	Gimme Shelter (R)		Wild Discovery: Whales		News	Storm		(In Jupiter (R)	Jurassic Files (R)
ESPN	51	(4:00) Golf: President's Cup — Second Round. (Live)					Sportscenter	Heisman Prev., NFL's Greatest Game				Sportscenter .E
LIFE	49	Elleh .E	Ellen .E	Party of Five "Empty Shoes" .E		Chicago Hope "Leggo My Ego"		★★ "Unlikely Angel" (1996, Drama) Dolly Parton, Roddy McDowall,			New Attitudes	Golden Girls
MTV	53	Countdown	Cut (In Stereo)	Celebrity	News	Fashionably Loud Miami (R)		Fashionably Loudest Artists of All Time (R) (In Stereo)			Cut (In Stereo)	Loveline
NICK	52	Figure It Out	Secret of Alex	Doug .E	Rugrats .E	With Loopy	Animorphs .E	Brady Bunch	Wonder Years .E	I Love Lucy .E	I Love Lucy .E	I Love Lucy .E
SCIFI	50	Monsters	Sci-Fi Extert.	Sightings .E	Star Trek "Mark of Gideon" .E			★★½ "Dead Fiances" (1988, Suspense) Jeramy Irons (In Stereo)				Star Trek .E
TLC	46	28 Home Again	Home Again	48 Hours "Rest Eff. (R)		Egypt's Lost City		Ramses the Great (R)			Ten Pagans of Egypt (R)	Egypt's Lost City (R)
TNT	45	ER "A Miracle Happens Here"		ER "Something New" (In Stereo)		★★ "Wildcats" (1986, Comedy) Goldie Hawn, James Keach.					★★ "Wildcats" (1986, Comedy) Goldie Hawn, James Keach.
USA	47	Hercules: Legendary Jrnys.		Xena: Warrior Princess (R) .E		Walker, Texas Ranger .E					★★★ "The Godfather, Part III" (1990, Drama) Al Pacino .E
HBO	61	(5:15) ★★ "Dennis the Menace"		Inside the NFL (In Stereo) .E		★½ "Double Team" (1997, Adventure) .E		★★ "The Dentist II" (1998) Corbin Bernsen, R .E			Shock Video 6: Turn-On TV .E
MAX	62	(4:45)	★★½ "Beavis and Butt-head Do America" (1996)			★★½ "Grumpy" (1996, Drama) William Petersen, R					★★½ "The Devil's Advocate" (1997, Horror) Keanu Reeves, R .E
SHOW	60	★★ "Life Father, Lies Son" (1967) Dudley Moore. PG-13				★★ "Red Corner" (1997, Drama) Richard Gere. (In Stereo) R .E				Stargate SG-1	Dead Men's Gun (In Stereo) .E	Outer Limits

Cathy By Cathy Guisewite

Drabble By Kevin Fagan

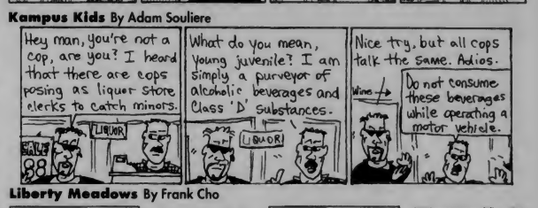
Rose is Rose By Pat Brady

Non Sequitur By Wiley



Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Robotman By Jim Meddick



Dilbert By Scott Adams

Foxtrot By Bill Amend

Kampus Kids By Adam Souliere

Liberty Meadows By Frank Cho

Horoscopes

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — You can expect to have more excitement today than you had planned. You may not be able to prepare yourself for it in any special way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — You are likely to find yourself indebted to someone who has in the past developed a history of asking too much, too often. Deal with it!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — There's no substitute for timely action, and today is no exception. You'll want to do the right thing at the right time, at every turn.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Now is not the time to lurk about in the background. Today, your role will bring you to the forefront, and demand that you dig deep for inspiration.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — An early start today is meant to give you an advantage. Use this time as efficiently as possible, or you may find yourself missing out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — You may want to take things a little less seriously today. Let your sense of humor guide your thoughts, and you'll feel better about a great deal.

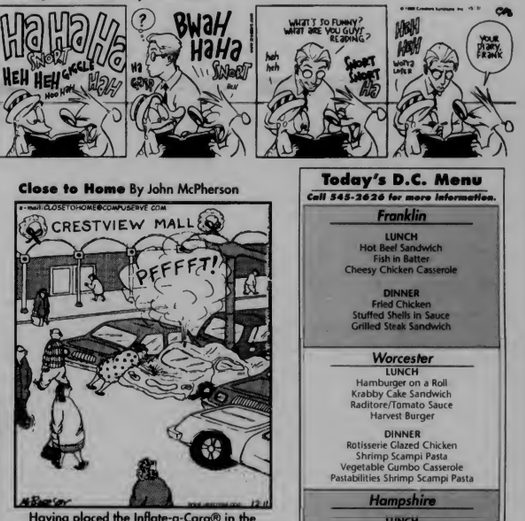
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You may have been rushing about without a care for anyone else but yourself in recent days or weeks. Now is the time to embrace another.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Your romanticism is sure to rise to the surface today. You'll enjoy the opportunity to let your feelings ride roughshod over your intellect.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — You mustn't be afraid of sitting still today. You can benefit greatly from the time you take to do less. Focus on internal rythms at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — You may be coming dangerously close to fooling yourself about something that is more important to you than you know. Hear the wake-up call!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You're in need of more mental stimulation than usual today. If you're not puzzling over a new and tricky problem, you're not going to be satisfied!



SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — No one can say that you've been building castles in the air at this time. Your dreams enjoy a strong and stable foundation in reality.

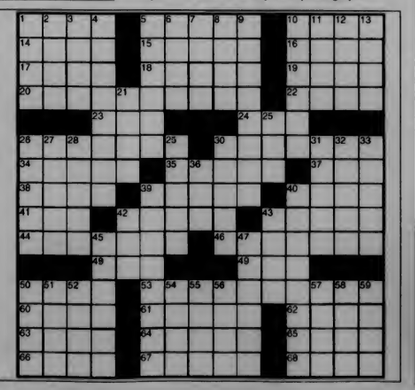
Quote of the Day

"She called me a what... Wildabeast... I'm much better looking than her..."

–Overheard

Close to Home By John McPherson

Having placed the Inflate-a-Cara® in the mall parking lot at 3a.m., Carol had shrewdly reserved herself a primo paking spot.



ACROSS
1 Highland family
5 Light wood
10 Curly
14 Wander
15 Helps a criminal
16 Charles Lamb's pen name
17 S-shaped molding
18 Kind of boom
19 Eve's spouse
20 Old puzzle
22 Chums
23 Baseball's Gehrig
24 Also
26 Prepared to propose
30 Old World finches
34 Scandinavian
35 Respond
37 Illuminated
38 Kimono sashes
39 Churchill —: Derby site
40 "I Remember —"
41 RN's specialty
42 Two-legged creature
43 Horse opera
44 Grouper, e.g.
46 Trays
48 Kennel sound
49 "Golly!"
50 Face part
53 Available to take
60 Concept
61 Bridal-veil material
62 Netster Nastase
63 Watch
64 Wear away
65 Songwriter Porter
66 Halts
67 Designer item
68 Iodine source

DOWN
1 Rooster's sound
2 Company emblem
3 Declare
4 Unnecessary
5 Tight-fitting bodice
6 — Ben Adhem
7 Singer Horne
8 Commotion
9 Self-disciplined ones
10 Sword or rifle
11 TV's Hawkeye
12 Glass bottle
13 Thanksgiving-meal items
21 Part of a foot
25 Toronto's prov
26 Snarls
27 Viscount, e.g.
28 Novelist Jong
29 Lets fall
30 Catches (a fish)
31 Gladden
32 Cook's aid
33 Crusie and DiCaprio
36 Flock member
39 Doubled
40 Ford product
42 Farm sound
43 Designer Cassani
45 Rules
47 Consents
50 Swing music
51 Norse god
52 Unwanted plant
54 Cat's murmur
55 Icy mass
56 Early name in automobiles
57 Soothing plant
58 Journalist Moyers
59 Ooze

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

R	O	A	M		V	A	I	L	O	R		N	E	T
E	L	B	A		I	M	A	G	E		E	X	I	T
A	G	A	R		A	N	T	I	S		V	A	R	Y
M	A	S	C	O	T		E	V	E		A	M	E	X
		O	P	U	S		E	N	D	O
P	R	I	N	T	O	U	T		T	R	I	A	G	E
L	E	V	I		U	N	I	T	Y		K	N	O	L	L
U	F	O		S	U	M	A	C			O	P	A
M	E	R	C	I		P	I	C	A		A	K	I	N
P	R	Y	I	N	G		D	I	L	I	G	E	N	T
			R	A	I	S	E		R	A	I	S	E
A	V	E	C		A	R	M		M	E	N	A	G	E
M	I	L	L		H	A	I	T	I		D	R	A	M
P	O	S	E		A	S	C	O	T		A	N	T	I
S	L	E	D		M	E	A	T	Y		S	O	O	T

12-11-98 © 1998 United Feature Syndicate

Today's D.C. Menu
Call 545-2626 for more information.

Franklin
LUNCH
Hot Beef Sandwich
Fish in Batter
Cheesy Chicken Casserole
DINNER
Fried Chicken
Stuffed Shells in Sauce
Grilled Steak Sandwich

Worcester
LUNCH
Hamburger on a Roll
Krabby Cake Sandwich
Raditore/Tomato Sauce
Harvest Burger
DINNER
Rotisserie Glazed Chicken
Shrimp Scampi Pasta
Vegetable Gumbo Casserole
Pastabilities Shrimp Scampi Pasta

Hampshire
LUNCH
Hamburger on a Roll
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Captain's Catch/Seasame Roll
DINNER
Rotisserie Glazed Chicken
Stuffed Shells in Sauce

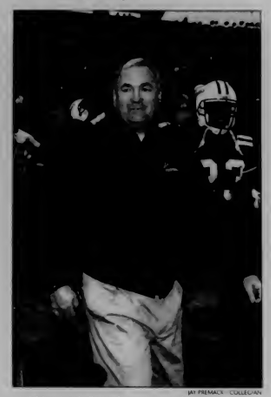
Berkshire
LUNCH
Crabbycake Sandwich
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Chefs Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Ratatouille
DINNER
Rotisserie Glazed Chicken
Pineapple Ham Steak
Vegetable Gumbo Casserole
Pastabilities
Stuffed Shells in Sauce

Night Editor: Dinica Jimenez
Photo Technician: Roberto Delgado
Copy Editor: Laura Sansouvy
Production Supervisor: Matt Wolover
Production Staff: Allen Mackey, Stephen Mackey

SPORTS

Minutemen off to Louisiana to face N'Western St.

UMass ready to tangle with Demons in Division 1–AA national semis



By Seth Koenig
Collegian Staff

Before this season started, the Massachusetts football team was expected to finish fourth in the Atlantic 10 New England Division.

Now, they're the only team in the conference still playing, as they will head to Northwestern St. tomorrow for the NCAA Division 1–AA semifinals.

"[Northwestern St.] is real big and strong — and good," UMass center Deyate Hagood said. "It'll be a great challenge for us."

Fellow A–10 foes Connecticut and Richmond have both been eliminated from NCAA tournament play, but the Minutemen are still going.

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN
UMass football coach Mark Whipple will look to lead his squad into the Division 1–AA finals with a win over Northwestern State on Saturday.

Time after time, UMass was supposed to be stopped. On Oct. 3, when the team travelled to Hofstra to take on the No. 5 Flying Dutchmen, the silent majority claimed that, although the Minutemen had won as many games in their opening three as they had all last season, that the fantasy would end in Hempstead, NY.

Massachusetts came home with a stunning 40–35 victory.

Once UMass made the playoffs, it was all supposed to end quickly. Following a 2–9 year in 1997, the post–season was enough of an accomplish to keep the Minutemen content. The No. 11 Massachusetts team was not supposed to make it any further than Lake Charles, Louisiana, where they played against McNeese St. Again, UMass advanced with a 21–19 win.

A week later, Lehigh entered Amherst sporting a flashy, undefeated, 12–0 record. The honeymoon was supposed to be over. The Minutemen had held off the demons long enough. Apparently, Coach Mark Whipple didn't think so, as the Mountain Hawks were handed their first loss of the year, 27–21.

Now, Northwestern St. is the challenge, and, like many times in the past, the Minutemen are expected to wake up from their "dream." Perhaps, if Massachusetts pulls a win out in this matchup, it won't be a surprise. UMass is No. 12, now, and the hosting Demons are No. 2.

This will be the toughest game yet, in a season that only gets more difficult the rest of the way out.

"They've got an All–American end and a big linebacker that just runs through people," Hagood said.

Hagood is referring to defensive end Robert Daniel, a 6– foot–6, 273 pounder with a 4.8 second 40–yard–dash time, and linebacker Jake Michel, who leads the team with 143 total tackles and six sacks. Not to be forgotten, of course, is Demon cornerback Jermaine Jones, a close runner–up in this year's Buck Buchanan Award, given to the best defender in Division I–AA football.

Jones guided the "Purple Swarm" defense by winning the Southland Conference Player of the Year Award with 11 interceptions and five touchdowns. Those obscene stats will cause problems for a trigger–happy Minuteman offense that relies heavily on All–America candidate quarterback Todd Bankhead. The junior transfer has racked up school single season records in yards, touchdowns, completions, and attempts.

The Demons will most likely use Jones to quiet the top UMass receiver, Jimmy Moore, who has also assaulted the Massachusetts record book this season with 80 catches and over 1,000 yards through the air.

FOOTBALL
UMASS @ N' WESTERN ST.
SATURDAY- 3 P.M.
91.1 FM-WMUA
BRETT MOOSER-PLAY
MATT PERRAULT-COLOR
PREVIEW

If the Minutemen are forced to the ground, Whipple has little need to worry, as Marcel Shipp has exceeded the 100– yard mark in 10 consecutive games. Shipp, having tallied over 2,000 yards rushing to date, has successfully carried the offense when asked to.

When the Demons have the ball, they might find themselves facing an identity crisis. With injuries to their starting running back and quarterback in recent weeks, two younger players have stepped to the forefront.

In the backfield, redshirt freshman Tony Taylor has posted four 100–yard performances while waiting for Ronnie Powell to return from an ankle sprain. Junior Brad Spangler stepped in for signal–caller Warren Patterson and has led the team to five straight wins, including a 344–yard, four touchdown game against Illinois St. Now, the starters are expected to return, possibly causing some confusion in the Demon lineup.

Trying to take advantage of that confusion will be a UMass defense that has been particularly stingy as of late. Defensive end Chris Price has sacked the quarterback five times in two playoff games, igniting a defense that has become known as a stalwart in the post–season.

Linebacker Kole Ayi has emerged as a star as well,

Turn to MINUTEMEN, page B

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN
Marcel Shipp is hoping to reach the century mark for the 11th consecutive 100–yard game tomorrow afternoon when UMass takes on Northwestern State.

UM hoops hoping to rebound vs. BC

By Aaron Saykin
Collegian Staff

Senior captain Charlton Clarke had a simple message for the media after his Massachusetts men's basketball team nearly upset top–ranked UConn Wednesday night.

"Don't let the 1–4 fool you now."

That's his team's record. 1–4. And after four consecutive losses which presumably removed everything bad from their systems, the Minutemen now feel that they will play like a 4–1 team when they travel to the Worcester Centrum tomorrow night for their annual clash with Boston College.

"...I thought we learned something tonight," Clarke continued after the motivating loss. "We learned that with pride, determination and effort, we can go in and compete with anybody."

There's no need to worry, Charlton. The UMass slow start has fooled no one. However, the UMass basketball team needs to keep their heads in the game to continue their progress.

UConn coach Jim Calhoun knew that the Minutemen would be ready to play against his team.

ESPN college basketball guru Dick Vitale predicted a UMass victory, chanting "upset city, baby" before the Huskies game.

But the real question is whether or not the Minutemen will be fooled by the 2–5. That's the record of the Eagles, who have crawled out to a slow start of their own, and are currently in the midst of a three–game losing streak.

When these two once–mighty programs meet tomorrow, both will be looking for a turn–the–corner performance.

Whereas Boston College must rebound from a very disheartening 13–point loss at Miami, the Minutemen are beginning to watch the positives grow, and may now have a bit of wind at their backs after taking the No. 1 ranked team down to the wire.

"I think it's a pattern now. Last year we started off slow, the year before [that] we started off slow," Clarke said. "I think it's a pattern. Once we're tired of losing, and it comes out and everybody knows that we're tired of losing, now it's time to turn it up."

MEN'S HOOP
UMASS @ B.C.
SATURDAY- 7:30 P.M.
91.1 FM-WMUA
MATT FEATO-PLAY
GREGG MATALAS-COLOR
PREVIEW

After dropping its yearly bout with UMass for three consecutive seasons, Boston College enters the contest hungry to avenge the previous defeats.

Despite the recent winless drought, the Eagles have been encouraged by the stellar play of freshman Kenny Walls, who has averaged 15.7 points and 5.3 rebounds per game during that stretch, including a career–high 18 points during a Big East debut loss to St. John's — a team to which the Minutemen have also lost.

Among the positives which can be drawn from the Connecticut defeat is the impressive UMass defense, which held the Huskies to 38 percent field goal shooting and 22– points in the second half.

Junior forward Mike Babul provided the reeling Minutemen with one of his best defensive performances, holding UConn's most dangerous scorer, Richard Hamilton, to a modest nine points on 3–of–11 shooting from the field.

Babul also seemed to be more assertive on the offensive end, as he sliced toward the basket and scored a key hoop during his team's second half run.

Minutemen Notes: The B.C.–UMass rivalry dates all the way back to Dec. 8, 1905, when Mass. State topped the Eagles by a score of 20–15.

Since the inaugural meeting, the teams have played to an even 15–15 mark against one another.

The last B.C. win in the series came during an 82–70 win at the Colonial Classic on Jan. 26, 1979.

Minutemen to play pair vs. UNH

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

After dropping a pair of close games last weekend to Hockey East rival Boston University, the Massachusetts hockey team (4–8–1) will attempt to bounce back this weekend against another incredibly tough opponent in No. 7 New Hampshire.

UNH comes into the home and home series with 9–3–1 and a first place standing in a tight Hockey East Conference.

The Minutemen have several obstacles to overcome, such as a rivalry record 9–49–3, but that goes as far back as their first meeting in 1926. They also will have to overcome the BU losses, as well as their early season loss to UNH, 4–1.

The toughest assignment will be to cover UNH's Hobey Baker candidate Jason Krog, who burnt UMass for two goals in their meeting earlier.

UMass is ready. The one consistency for UMass thus far this season is that they aren't intimidated by anyone in Hockey East. They proved that when they took three out of four points from then No. 4 Maine earlier on this season.

"Anyone can beat anybody in this league on any given night, a couple of good things have happened for us and some bad things, but we have to play UNH hard and just be ready to play," junior alternate captain Jeff Blanchard said. "The morale on this team is up, and it's just a matter of fine tuning our scoring chances. If we weren't getting the chances that would be something to worry about."

One of the toughest tasks will be to overcome the recent one goal losses to BU. The Minutemen are hoping to change their fortunes this weekend against the Wildcats.

"I think based on the way we've been playing, and that we give 100 percent shows this team is ready. We just need to keep persevering and keep pushing," UMass coach Joe Mallen said. "UNH is coming off winning one and losing one to Boston College last weekend, it will be interesting to see how they come out."

One of the major concerns for coach Mallen, goalkeeper Markus Helanen and the UMass defense is All–American Krog. Besides being a big factor in the first meeting, Krog has also lit up the rest of the Division I competition — scoring eight goals and recording 11 assists for 19 points thus far.

"We did a really good job on Krog in the first game. He was tied up most of the time, but he is one of the best players in Hockey East," Mallen said. "He has great vision, and we need to know where he is at all times, because as he has shown he can break out at any time."

The importance of this weekend for UMass is immeasurable, as after dropping two games to BU, they need to bounce back strong this weekend to get back in the thick of things in the conference, and what better way to do that then by beating the first place team in the conference.

"You saw what two wins for BU did for them in the conference and what two losses did for us. If we can get a couple here it would give this team a lot of confidence heading into the second half of the season," Mallen said.

Two things will be a must for UMass to come up victorious this weekend. One will be the continued great playing of Helanen, who brings a goals against average of 2.52 into this weekend's set, and the play of the UMass special teams.

"We'll see how Markus bounces back this weekend, but I can't fault him for BU. He played well enough in each game for us to win," Mallen said. "It's tougher to play special teams in Hockey East. The guys play with a lot more skill and on the penalty kill they rush you faster and we work on the power play everyday in practice."

Minutewomen to host Big Green tonight

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

One of the most commonly occurring mistakes teams make in athletic competition is that they tend to overlook an opponent because the stats do not appear to match up on paper.

Massachusetts women's basketball coach Joanie O'Brien is fully aware of this trend, and will have her troops prepared for battle, as UMass will host Dartmouth College tonight at the Mullins Center.

"Our team is not going to take any opponent lightly," O'Brien said. "We are pretty familiar with Dartmouth, having played them last year, and we do have respect for them as a team."

WOMEN'S B-BALL
UMASS @ DARTMOUTH
FRIDAY- 7 P.M.
91.1 FM-WMUA
MIKE COREY-PLAY
BETH LUTY-COLOR
PREVIEW

Last December 29, in Hanover, New Hampshire, the Minutewomen struggled to pull out a 54–50 win over the feisty Big Green unit.

Alison MacFarland led UMass with 16 points that game, while Yolanda Rayside hauled in nine rebounds.

Dartmouth (1–4), features no scholarship players, as per Ivy League regulations, but O'Brien notes that they play hard and feature an unorthodox style of play.

"They are a balanced team in terms of inside–outside play, and they are certainly one of the favorites in their conference," O'Brien said.

"They are a little chaotic sometimes in regards to their quick passing, and up tempo play, so that is something to look for."

Dartmouth currently has three players averaging in double figures in points per game. Point guard Nicci Rinaldi, a potent floor general, leads the squad with 12.6 points per game, and has passed for three assists per game as well.

Rinaldi will look to wear down UMass playmaker Kathy Coyner who has played nearly every minute of the last five contests.

Up front, Dartmouth will rely on Erin Rewalt for inside production, as she has posted 11.6 points a contest, to go along with a team leading 5.8 rebounds.

Rewalt will likely be shadowed by the Minutewomen's Lucia Madajova, who will start in her fifth straight game at power forward.

While UMass is entering the game with a two game winning streak, and a

Turn to MINUTEWOMEN, page B

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN
Massachusetts women's basketball coach Joanie O'Brien and Minutewomen Kathy Coyner and Alison MacFarland are hoping to creep closer to the .500 mark with a win over Dartmouth tonight.

The Massachusetts
DAILY COLLEGIAN
Volume CIV Issue 59 New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 Monday, December 14, 1998

Boston's Bosses

The Mighty Mighty Bosstones stopped in Boston Thursday night; Jiggle the Handle stirred up the UMass crowd. Check out our reviews (see Arts & Living, page 6).

UMass once again goes to shootout

Senior tri–captain Buddy Hoffman and the Massachusetts Lacross team travel to chestnut Hill to take on the Eagles of Boston College. (See Sports page 10)

WORLD

IOC official: Bribery rampant in Olympics

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The whispers and rumors about Olympic corruption have existed for years. On Saturday, a senior Olympics organizer came forward with sensational bribery allegations that shook the international competition to its core.

The International Olympic Committee's worst nightmare came to pass when Switzerland's Marc Hodler — a longtime member of the organization's ruling inner circle — detailed what he described as systematic buying and selling of the Olympic Games.

"To my knowledge, there has always, always, been a certain part of the vote given to corruption," he said.

It's the biggest ethics scandal in the history of the 104–year–old IOC and could have widespread repercussions for the Olympic movement.

Hodler specifically cited a pattern of bribery and other ethical malpractice in the bidding and selection of at least four Olympic host cities — Atlanta, Nagano, Sydney and Salt Lake City.

NATION

Astronauts complete work on space station

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Spacewalking astronauts completed their construction work on the international space station Saturday, lashing a toolbox to the outside and fixing a jammed antenna.

It was the third and final excursion out into Endeavour's open cargo bay for Jerry Ross and James Newman.

All that remained following the spacewalk was yesterday afternoon's release of the seven–story, 35–ton complex, freshly wired and outfitted by the visiting shuttle crew.

"We've come a long way," commander Robert Cabana observed. Working nearly 250 miles above Earth, Ross and Newman lugged out a 2 foot–by–2–foot bundle containing 50 wrenches, ratchets, clamps, bars, foot loops, tethers and other tools. They attached the package to the top of Unity, the American–made side of the station. The toolbox looked like a picnic cooler.

"I'm hungry, what's in the refrigerator?" joked Newman. "Nothing edible," Ross replied.

The tools will be used by future spacewalkers. The next construction team goes up in May.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Tuesday	Wednesday
HIGH: 36 LOW: 25	HIGH: 51 LOW: 33	HIGH: 48 LOW: 29

INSIDE

Arts & Living.....page 6
Classifieds .....page 14
Comics.....page 15
Crossword .....page 15
Editorial .....page 4
FYI.....page 14
News.....page 1
Sports .....page 16

ON THE INTERNET
www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Grad students affected by welfare reform; emergency funds sought

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

The Graduate Employee Organization (GEO) presented a last–minute motion to the Faculty Senate last Thursday, enlisting the Senate's help in the release $200,000 to aid graduate victims of welfare reform.

The motion resolved "that the Faculty Senate join in requesting that the administration release $200,000 allocated by the GEO contract for recruitment and retention to Dean Charlena Seymour before the end of this year to address the immediate need caused by welfare reform."

Vice–President of the Graduate Student Senate (GSS) Chris DeVries and GEO President Emily LaBarbera–Twarog presented the motion during announcements, requesting that the Faculty Senate suspend the rules to consider the motion.

According to their presentation, the $200,000 was already negotiated in the recent union contract between GEO and the University. However, the contract is still tied up in the legislature, and the University is withholding the funds until it is officially approved.

"The administration claims that the money cannot be released until our wage increase money comes onto campus from the legislature," said LaBarbera–Twarog in a GEO press release. "The contract specifically states that it would be released when our raises are funded in accordance with the Massachusetts labor law. This process is happening already."

She went on to say the money is already available on campus as part of the University's operating budget. "By not releasing the money, the administration is violating the spirit of the contract."

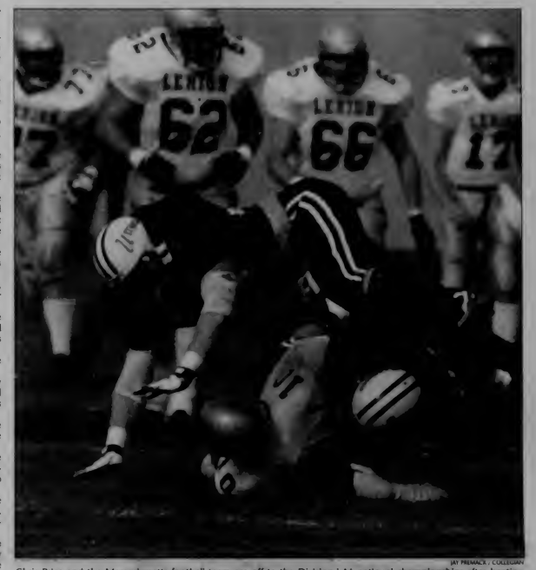
Several members of the administration were present at Thursday's meeting, including Chancellor David K. Scott, Provost Cora Marrett, and Vice Chancellor for Research Frederick W. Byron.

Scott briefly discussed the impact of welfare reform in a presentation at the beginning of the meeting. Based on information gathered between 1995 and Spring 1998, approximately 100 undergraduates and 20 graduate students reported welfare income on AFDC forms.

"The worst possible impact would be if all those [120] students couldn't come back," he said.

In response to the GEO/GSS presentation, he said, "There are a lot of fairly complicated issues embedded in this that need review... I'm not sure about all the details, but I would urge caution [since] it may impact financial aid packets for the students [who receive the GEO funds]."

Faculty members raised concerns of a different nature. Faculty Senate Secretary John Bracey was afraid that undergraduate needs would get lost in the motion, which only addressed graduate students.



He proposed a friendly amendment that read, "And that the Faculty Senate urge the administration to pursue every feasible way — both legally and financially — to address the impact of welfare reform on the 100 undergraduates who may be effected."

However, some undergraduates have been taking their own initiative to ensure that students affected by welfare reform will be able to stay in school this spring. At last week's Student Government Association (SGA) meeting, a motion sponsored by Commuter Senator Seth Diamond appeared on the agenda.

The motion resolved "that the Student Government Association join with the Commuter Area [Government] to strongly urge the Chancellor to immediately create an emergency fund of no less than $50,000 to aid affected undergraduate student parents."

Although the SGA motion was never voted on due to loss of quorum, the Faculty Senate motion passed unanimously. However, the decision to release the funds is still in the hands of the administration.

UM football heading to national championship

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN
Chris Price and the Massachusetts football team are off to the Division I–AA national championships after beating Northwestern State, 41–31, in the semifinals in Natchitoches, La. on Saturday.

Police still without a contract after nearly a year

By Lorraine Kennedy
Collegian Staff

Following the most recent unsuccessful mediation session between members of the University of Massachusetts Police Department's labor union and officials from UMass Labor Relations, the police have been operating for close to a full year without a contract.

"We're no closer than we were 12 months ago," said Brian Narkewicz, president of the International Brotherhood of Police (IBPO) Local 432A unit, the police officer's labor union. "We really are not negotiating with the right people."

Negotiations have been conducted between the University and the IBPO since the police department's contract expired last December. Contract offers have been made by the University, however none of those have been acceptable to the IBPO.

"In a year that plagued the University with deaths, armed robberies, attempted murders, heroin abuse, and other serious crimes, it is especially discouraging to the police officers that have dealt with these problems," IBPO members stated in a Dec. 2 press release prepared by Narkewicz and Thomas O'Donnell, president of the IBPO local 432B sergeant's unit.

"It is certainly disheartening to my fellow officers that all the other University employees in Amherst have settled their contracts, while we have yet to be offered anything of substance," Narkewicz stated in the press release.

The most recent contract package was presented to the police in November. Labor Relations administrator Nick Marshall said Friday, adding that the University is "exploring the possibility of a [new] offer."

Members of Labor Relations declared they "had no authorization" to present a contract package to the police in the Dec. 2 meeting, according to the IBPO's statement. Narkewicz said the University is "in possession of a deal," but is waiting for authorization from the Office of Employee Relations.

Narkewicz said it was "frustrating" to have attended the mediation session only to come up with "nothing."

"Unlike the Nick Marshalls of the world who make $97,000 a year," Narkewicz said he was especially frustrated to have taken time off of work for an unproductive meeting.

The IBPO filed an unfair labor practice suit against the University in November, alleging that the University had bargained "in bad faith." A date for the hearing has not yet been set and no future negotiation dates have been arranged, according to the IBPO's statement.

Marshall released a statement on Dec. 3 saying that the University administration has offered police "a number of packages during the negotiations, which shows we are moving."

Marshall denied accusations that the University engaged in unfair labor practices and said the charges were "not accurate."

"We'll litigate [the charges]," he said. "And I have every reason to believe we'll prevail."

MELINDA NORES / COLLEGIAN
Ice art
Ice sculptor Joseph Almeida from Wooodbridge Tavern sculpts a reindeer for the children of the Vocational Alternative Learning Program this Friday.

Fires put out in dorms; police suspect arson

No one was injured in two fires, being investigated by University of Massachusetts Police, that damaged two kitchens in the Orchard Hill Residential Area Friday morning.

The first fire was reported in the first–floor kitchen area of Grayson Residence Hall at 5:22 a.m. on Friday, according to Police Chief John Luippold.

Then, at approximately 5:27 a.m. a fire alarm went off in the police station, alerting police to a fire in a dormitory. A call came in to the police reporting a second fire which was set on the fourth floor of Field Residence Hall.

"Both fires were of a suspicious origin, and we have determined some material had been left on the stoves with some burners on," Luippold said.

"It is suspicious at this point of time as to whether the fires were an act of arson," said Environmental Health and Safety inspector Ed Mianca.

Police have not released any information on possible suspects, but believe the two fires were started by the same individual or group.

As of Friday afternoon there were no reports of witnesses, but police expect to receive more information about the fires.

— By Jason Trenkle

Police rank complaints to increase campus safety

By Jason Trenkle
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts police have developed an organized way to prioritize and respond to the variety of calls the station receives over a semester.

The University campus is divided into districts, according to Chief John Luippold. A police officer is assigned to cover each of the specific districts and to respond to emergencies within his or her designated area.

When an emergency call comes into the station, the dispatcher will determine which district it is in and will alert the officer of this district to the emergency.

In the instances where there is more than one emergency in the same district, the police will determine which of the two emergencies is more urgently in need of attention.

"The highest priorities are incidents in which there is concern over one's safety or well–being," Chief Luippold said. "This may be on an individual or group basis. Larceny would be less a priority in some instances than sexual assault."

In determining the ranking of priorities, police use a method called the "triage" system in which they allocate treatment to patients and victims to maximize the number of survivors. Based on the extent of the emergency and the need to respond, the police will determine how many officers should be dispatched.

In some cases, as Chief Luippold explained, there may be an immediate need to respond to two incidents occurring simultaneously in the same district. In such a case, a unit from another district may be dispatched to one of the two emergencies.

In other instances, officer and civilian safety is taken into consideration in responding to emergencies of domestic violence, and two or more officers may respond to the incident as backup.

"The system [triage] is almost like the ABC's (airway, breathing, circulation) of CPR," Chief Luippold said. "It needs to be determined who needs attention first and from there what immediate care should be given."

Luippold feels that there is a concern for public safety on campus, and some people may be worried when an officer doesn't respond immediately. Luippold said police respond to the calls in an order to maximize public safety.

Student seeks infection source

By Jason Trenkle
Collegian Staff

A student is determined to prove that a bacterial infection in his foot was caused by Housing Services carpeting in the Coolidge residential dorm. Doctors at the University of Massachusetts Health Services are not sure of the cause of the infection, but have said it is a rare case.

Freshman Josh Butowsky, a Management major, had contracted a common bacterial form of staph infection called Staphylococcus aureus, which is known to cause skin infections of various types. What made Butowsky's case unusual was that doctors couldn't determine how the bacteria had penetrated his tissues, which made his case more severe.

"On my foot was something that looked almost like a bad blister and was full of pussy material," Butowsky said. "I had developed a rash [which] I didn't know how I had gotten it, but it was all over me and itched."

Butowsky discovered the bacterial infection about two months ago as a pain in his left foot. At first, he thought it was a bad case of athlete's foot, but when the pain grew to be unbearable, he learned that it was something more serious.

"Once every night I would walk barefoot on the hallway carpeting in Coolidge," Butowsky said. "[After] a couple days of regular habit, I noticed a pain so uncomfortable I could barely walk."

Upon examination of his foot at University Health Services, family practitioner Warren Morgan concluded Butowsky should be sent to Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton for surgery. The bacterial infection had penetrated into Butowsky's tissues, almost reaching his bones and bloodstream, which would have resulted in amputation of his leg.

After extensive surgical procedures, Butowsky was released from Cooley Dickinson, but still feels University Housing is responsible for the infection.

"Nothing I have done gives me any reason to doubt the infection came from anything besides the carpeting," Butowsky said.

Doctor Morgan, however, feels that there is no possible way to single-out the carpeting as being the source of the infection, but is amazed at the rarity of Butowsky's condition.

"Staph infection could be more evasive if a patient has had problems with the susceptibility of their immune system, but this was not the case with Josh," Morgan said. "It amazes me how the infection was able penetrate his foot without any observable points of entry."

According to Morgan's accounts, there was no record of a cut or wound on Butowsky's foot, and thus no way for the infection to get into his foot. Morgan said staph infections are not uncommon, and inanimate objects left unsterile could carry the bacteria.

The only way, however, for staph to cause an infection is for it to penetrate the skin and enter into the bloodstream or tissue, Morgan said.

"When it gets that far down, it becomes difficult to treat with the common antibiotics," Morgan said. "It's possible he [Butowsky] could have picked it [infection] up from the carpet, but then of course anyone could get it from a new carpet as well."

Chip Ritter, the Residence Director of Coolidge, feels the doctors overlooked a potential factor in determining the source of the infection.

"A doctor can't assume where an infection originated without taking a sample of what he believes to be the source of the infection," Ritter said.

Ritter is upset because the carpeting in the dorm is old and he feels it hasn't been cared for properly. Coolidge House Council submitted a petition to Housing which was signed by most of the residents requesting that the carpeting be changed.

When Housing denied the request because of inadequate funding, Ritter and the students became annoyed.

"I was very upset the petition was denied when the council worked hard to express their concerns," Ritter said. "I hope Butowsky's incident will discern the matter at hand."

As for Butowsky and the residents of Coolidge, Housing has still not granted their request. Housing Services declined any further comment and explained that the issue was under consideration.

Butowsky said he will not forget the incident, and reminds students to be careful where they walk.

"Be careful where you walk barefoot," Butowsky said. "You never know what or whose [bacteria] you may step in next."

Happy Chanukah!
Signs of the holiday season, such as this display on the Amherst town green, reflect the start of the holidays.

Have a safe and happy winter break with love from,
The Daily Collegian

STRENGTH • FLEXIBILITY • CONDITION
CARDIO KICK BOXING
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB • 256-8000
Mon. @ 4:15
Thurs. @ 5:30
Fri. @ 4:15
Sat. @ 2:00
www.amherstathletic.com

Textbook Annex - Textbook Buyback - December 1998

Beware of buyers in your dorm!

The Textbook Annex buyback is not associated with people who buy textbooks inside your dorms. You will not get the best prices possible from them. They do not buy any books at 50% of the Publisher's Retail Price. The Annex does. In fact, some of these people bring your books to the buyback to sell them at the higher price even though they have paid you a lower price.

Maximize your return by coming to the authorized locations in the Campus Center Room 162, Hampden in Southwest and the Textbook Annex.

How are buyback prices determined?

Buyback prices are determined by whether or not an instructor has submitted a book list for the next semester.

The Textbook Annex staff spends a lot of time trying to get this information because we know that the best source of those books are from those of you who are already using them. Around mid-terms our staff begins to encourage faculty to place their next orders through a variety of methods including a personal visit to each academic department, letters, flyers and phone calls. We want to give our customers the money that we would otherwise pay a used book wholesaler for used books. To maximize the half price list, we enter faculty's book orders into the buyback data base on the day we receive them.

If we know what books are needed, then the Textbook Annex will pay 50% of the Publisher's List Price, even if the book was purchased used. You will receive the wholesaler's predetermined current market price (wholesale price) if we do not have an order at the time you try to sell your book. You will receive wholesale prices because the Textbook Annex is not trying to add that book to our inventory. The prices they pay depend primarily on the national demand for the book. Wholesale buyback prices can range from 0 to 35%.

Ask Questions!

You should always take a minute to ask the buyers if your book is being purchased for the Annex to reuse or if you are being offered a wholesale price. You may not like the wholesale price but at least you'll understand what you are being offered.

Fall 1998 Ending Buyback - Textbook Annex
Location	Operating Hours
Monday December 14 - Friday December 18, 1998
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Campus Center	9am - 5pm
Hampden in Southwest	9am - 5pm
Saturday, December 19
Campus Center	11am - 5pm
Hampden	12pm - 5pm
Monday & Tuesday, December 21& 22
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Hampden	9am - 7pm
Campus Center	9am - 7pm
Wednesday December 23 (Last final ends 12:30pm)
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm
Campus Center	9am - 5pm
Hampden	9am - 3pm
Thursday, December 24 (no exams, snow day)
Textbook Annex (only)	9am - 4pm
Monday, December 28
Textbook Annex	9am - 4pm

UNIVERSITY STORE'S Textbook Annex UMASS AMHERST

The University Store's Textbook Annex is owned and operated by the University of Massachusetts.
For more buyback information visit our web site at: http://www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex/

Clinton won't resign in face of impeachment

By Terence Hunt
Associated Press

JERUSALEM — President Clinton, dogged by the impeachment drama at the outset of his Middle East trip, said yesterday that he has "no intention of resigning" in the face of House Judiciary Committee approval of four articles of impeachment.

"It's never crossed my mind," a grim-faced Clinton said in response to a question from an Israeli reporter at a news conference with Israeli Prime Minster Benjamin Netanyahu.

The president, who issued a fresh apology for the Monica Lewinsky affair on Friday, said he would not admit to having committed perjury.

"I did not commit perjury," Clinton asserted. The testimony in which his Republican accusers say he lied was "difficult and ambiguous and unhelpful," the president said, but not perjurious. "I could not admit to doing something that I am quite sure I did not do," Clinton said.

He stressed that four legal experts who testified in his defense before the Judiciary Committee agreed that he had not committed perjury.

The four "went through the law in great detail and explained that it is not a perjury case," Clinton said, and the Republican members of the committee made "no credible argument" to counter that testimony.

Three moderate Republicans, officially undecided, said Clinton's remarks yesterday were not enough.

"It doesn't help us, those of us who are looking for a way to be able to get through this constitutional crisis, really looking to Bill Clinton to help us in this quest," Rep. Brian Bilbray (R-Calif.) said on NBC's "Meet the Press." He said he thought that Clinton should have used the opportunity to admit he lied under oath.

W.J. Tauzin (R-La.) and Scott Klug (R-Wis.), also appearing on NBC, agreed.

Clinton said he would not telephone members of the House to lobby against impeachment but that he would make himself available to those who wanted to discuss the matter with him. Two House Republicans are in a congressional delegation that is traveling with Clinton.

"I think it's important that they be free to make this decision and that they not be put under any undue pressure from any quarter," Clinton said.

Clinton said he was not surprised that the Judiciary Committee voted to send four articles of impeachment to the full House for votes this week.

"I think it's been obvious to anyone who's following it for weeks that that vote was foreordained and now it is up to the members of the House of Representatives to vote their conscience on the Constitution and the law, which I believe are clear," the president said.

KARA STOKES / COLLEGIAN

Merry Christmas!
The Amherst Pelham Boy Scouts Christmas tree sale this weekend was successful and many cars in town displayed the new purchases.

KARA STOKES / COLLEGIAN

Suffering for his art
A local artist bears the cold December weather to sell his paintings and sculptures in Amherst center.

Holiday Love From the Collegian

RELAX
STRENGTH • FLEXIBILITY • CONDITION
YOGA
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB • 256-8000
TU. @ 5:30
SAT. @ 10:30
www.amherstathletic.com

Going Home?
Keep your eyes on Amherst with MassLive's CampusCam

Around-the-Clock Live Web Cam!
• Streaming Video
• 24-hour Archives
• Greatest Hits

mass LIVE
www.masslive.com

University of Massachusetts
SOMETHING EVERY FRIDAY
presents a Hurricane Relief Fundraiser
* 4 Shows *
"There's Something About Mary"
Starring Cameron Diaz, Matt Dillon & Brett Favre
Monday, December 14th 1998
Campus Center Auditorium
5pm, 7pm, 9pm & 11pm
Admission: 5pm show - $1
7, 9 & 11pm shows - $2
For more info, please call 545-3600 or visit our website: http://www.umass.edu/events/calendar.htm

EDITORIAL / OPINION

--- The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian ---

UMass downbound

I'm warning you now: This one isn't funny.

At Thursday's Faculty Senate meeting, Chancellor Scott announced plans to decrease the number of professors at this university. Nowhere in the plan did it call for a reduction in student population.

Now, you don't have to be taking Intro to Logic to fulfill your R2 requirement in order to see that this is dangerous to students and faculty. Classes at this university are already dangerously overfilled, and most departments are disgustingly understaffed. As it is, I know that the English department is losing more teachers than it's hiring and that it's next to impossible for even last-semester Journalism students to get classes within their major. The Humanities department has been left suffering. To actually go further and ignore the problem at hand is ignorant. It hurts the school, it hurts everyone.

Mike Messaros

Chancellor Scott has been working on bringing respect to this university. He talks about raising awareness of the school, promoting whatever prestige we have. He talks highly of the Commonwealth College he worked so hard to bring to this campus. The University of Massachusetts should become an institution that attracts the top students in the state for its merits, not a fall-back school savory only because of cheap in-state tuition.

Unfortunately, this new plan of action flies directly in the face of all that this school has worked towards in regards to respect and prestige. His words speak of a lack of respect for the learning process and take on a tone of bureaucracy. His new plan seems contradictory to everything he has said he wanted for this school. I'm wondering how exactly Scott can reconcile the two disparate halves of his plan. Frankly, his words are disheartening and ridiculous.

Who is going to come to a school where the teachers are overworked, classes are overfilled and students become numbers, lost in lecture hall like Mahar or Bartlett 65? What top student relishes the idea of learning from the back of a crowded room, sitting in the aisle with a backpack for a makeshift seat? On the other hand, what teacher of name is going to want to come here to teach when they have no job security? "No job security and a lecture hall full of kids who don't care? Where's that dotted line?"

I've heard of teachers asking their students to fill out Distinguished Teacher award forms, because this will at the very least prolong their academic careers here. While at first it might seem self-centered, after consideration it's sad. These are people who teach for a living, and out of fear for their jobs must lower themselves to asking students to nominate them for awards. This is what the administration is doing to its teachers.

And while no one can claim that this is not about economics — and I'm realistic enough to realize that it is something that must be taken into account — things that the Chancellor said make me wonder. "We have an athletic center, a bookstore, cafeterias ... We run a whole lot of activities that we don't know how to run that well," he said in Friday's Collegian. "We have to solve a whole puzzle. To do that something may have to give."

So of course that "something" should be the academics. I mean, weren't schools founded on bookstores and athletic centers? Of course I enjoy the luxuries of college, but to say that academics, at a major university, should be the first thing to feel the brunt of economic frugality... well, at the very least, it should cause us to question where our administration's priorities are.

This once again shows how blatantly oblivious the administration is to the needs of its students and faculty. With this announcement, I become more and more disillusioned with how this school is run, something I never thought was possible. It's decisions and pronouncements like this that make one think that maybe we're on a downbound train.

The ignorance of logic in this situation makes me worry for the future of this university. I am graduating come May (knock on wood), and I could easily say that I don't have to care about this. But I do worry.

Those who may have come into this school starry-eyed and idealistic should consider their situation. Rarely is there a decision made by the administration that could have such a noticeable effect on the student body, or an effect so adverse.

In order for this university to realize the potential Chancellor Scott so dreamily speaks of, he must first realize that his own plan of action is flawed and contradictory. The longer it takes for him to finally recognize this problem, the longer this school will be potential rather than real, full of pipe dreams and unrealized ideas.

Mike Messaros is a Collegian columnist.

Financial troubles

Making the poor disappear from campus has become the official policy of the UMass administration. The quest to become an elite institution has become so embedded in UMass policies that the administration has become oblivious to needs of low-income students. The administration has repeatedly failed to acknowledge that students' life issues are closely connected to their ability to continue their education and to excel in their academic work.

Mohmood Ketabchi

Financial hardships not only contribute to the drop-out rate of many low-income student parents from UMass, but also inversely impact the academic work of those who are able to continue their education. As a result, our university becomes more inaccessible to students who lack economic and social resources. Moreover, since low-income students are disproportionately people of color and women, lack of resources will adversely impact diversity on this campus. No wonder the enrollment of African-American graduate students at UMass has declined by 56% over the last two decades! An intersection of racism, sexism, and anti-poor policies is turning our University increasingly into a white, elitist, and male-dominated institution.

Over the last two years, the number of student parents on welfare has dropped by 88% while the university administration, as usual, preferred the keep their blinders on. As of January 1, 1999, because of Massachusetts' punitive welfare policies, hundreds of student parents will hit the two-year time limit, and the state will cut off their meager cash public assistance. As a result, many of these students are seriously at risk of dropping out of school.

Over the last month, the Educational Access Committee of the Graduate Student Senate has worked hard advocating for public assistance recipients and gaining support for their retention at the University. Based on a proposal by Educational Access Committee Graduate Dean, Charlena Seymour, $50,000 from GEO educational access fund will be allocated to housing vouchers for low-income graduate students. The housing voucher will be administered by GSS.

The committee has also proposed the creation of an emergency assistance fund for low-income students, as well as need-based fellowships for some graduate student parents who will lose their cash assistance from the State. Dean Seymour has been receptive to the idea of a need-based fellowship, but has expressed her reservation about the emergency cash assistance fund.

However, neither one of these programs, if agreed upon, can begin, because the university administration has not yet allocated $200,000 from the GEO educational access fund to Dean Seymour.

On Monday, Dec. 7, Associate Chancellor Sue Pearson told GEO that the University would not allocate the money to the Graduate Dean. Even though the money for educational access comes from the university operating budget, Pearson claims that the university cannot allocate the money until GEO's 1998-99 wage increase is approved by the state.

Despite Sue Pearson's assertion, the educational access fund has nothing whatsoever to do with the GEO wage increase, since they come from two entirely separate funds. The university administration, which has often resorted to the same delay tactic in dealing with the Affordable Flexible Childcare Center, finally agreed to establish the child care center beginning next semester. Now the question is: why can't the University do the same for the educational access fund? If they could allot the $200,000, as agreed upon in GEO contract, to the childcare center, then clearly they can transfer the educational access funds to the Graduate Dean.

Although this educational access fund can provide resources to graduate student parents (mostly single mothers who will lose their welfare cash assistance) the university administration continues to pursue its delay tactics. While this university is sitting on tens of millions of dollars, it took GEO two years to force the administration to increase funding for ALANA and poor and working-class graduate students from $340,000 to $640,000 for academic year 1998-99. A semester has passed and still the administration is refusing to release the money.

Withholding the money for educational access is an unconscionable and irresponsible act by the university administration, an indication that the university administration cares nothing for those of us who are most in need of assistance. Thus, once again, the university administrators are showing their lack of concern over student life, and they are turning their backs on poor and low-income students who are struggling through school.

How ironic that Chancellor Scott, as Chair of the United Way Campaign, presents himself as a benevolent person who promises to raise more funds for non-profit and relief organizations. Here in his own back yard, many low-income student parents drop out of school partly because of his administration's anti-poor policies. Apparently, Chancellor Scott wants to help his students after they drop out of school and end up in homeless shelters. It is hard to believe, but this is what is happening. In the absence of real pressure against the administration's current policies, the university will continue to drive the poor off this campus.

Please, email Chancellor Scott and Sue Pearson and urge them to allocate the $200,000 to the Graduate Dean now, so that it can be used now to provide fellowships to student parents who will lose their welfare cash assistance and are at risk of dropping out of school.

Mahmood Ketabchi is a UMass student.

Final tips

Look outside. Yeah, you can tell what time of year it is. Students would rather stay in their rooms all day, and when they venture toward their classes, they begin shaking uncontrollably. The skies look white and hopeless. It's clear what season it is.

Finals season.

The exams in the next couple of weeks can make or break your GPA, and, depending on how you do, can shape your whole outlook going into what is supposed to be the "most wonderful time of the year." Bad grades equal coal in the stocking and no career. Good grades equal that cool deluxe Samurai Salamander action figure and the CEO position at Microsoft.

You can do without that CEO position but a Samurai Salamander? Study hard.

If you're like me, you're stressing over this. Because of my insane devotion to this newspaper, I'm on the fence in most of my classes. Finals and term papers are my judgement. Have I learned anything this semester? If not, can I pretend that I learned anything? Can I stay enrolled at UMass?

Being kind of a veteran of this school, I will try to help all others who are in my situation by making up a neat checklist of things to remember when finishing up your semester.

1.) Bring a writing utensil to your exam. It's amazing how bad a grade you can get when you don't write anything on your paper.

2.) Mark the circle heavily and darkly.

3.) Mark the correct circle heavily and darkly.

4.) When in doubt, the answer is "C." Some law of averages says that "C" is the mark that turns up most often in a random smattering of answers. Note: when working on an essay question, don't write "C" because it will be marked wrong. Unless, of course, you're an idiot, in which case, you deserve to fail (I officially apologize if I've offended any idiots out there).

5.) Crack kills (I had to).

6.) This is a Collegian columnist. This is a Collegian columnist on drugs. Any questions?

7.) Don't get completely obliterated the night before an 8 a.m. final. Hangovers do nothing for your clarity of mind, and answers covered in vomit tend to be marked wrong.

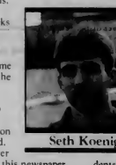
8.) Get completely obliterated the night before an 8 a.m. final. You might fail anyway, so feel good while you're doing it.

9.) Don't talk, I'm not referring to only when your exam is taking place; I'm referring to the entire week. Having stayed up all night studying, all of the usually cheery UMass population will have deprived themselves of sleep to the point of flatlining, and, as a result, will be a tad irritable. "Hello" could be the last thing you say if you aim it at the wrong student heading into their micro-physio-biological science test.

10.) If you're having trouble studying, find a peer. Working in groups helps students stay focused on goals by making them common ones.

Another option here is to shut up and deal with it. Whining won't get you a better grade, and it sure won't help those around you.

Note: if I'm within earshot, please choose the former.



11.) If you're having trouble studying, find a peer. This time, take this sexually. A meaningless session of the horizontal polka can make you forget about grades altogether.

12.) Learn the force. Those Jedi mind tricks will get you good grades left and right — and you can heal Drew Bledsoe's injured throwing finger, too.

13.) Read the Collegian crossword puzzle. Working with this complex academic staple, your vocabulary will rise significantly. Professors will be blown away when you substitute "dude" with "homo sapiens," or "thing-a-ma-jig" with "apparatus." So, when you're done with the column, head over to the crossword... oh, wait. I'm surprised you made it this far in a column before going to that page. Good for you.

14.) Don't forget to buy Christmas presents. Your parents will still love you after you bombed your exams if they have cool stuff under the tree. Samurai Salamanders always do it for me!

Seth Koenig is a Collegian columnist.

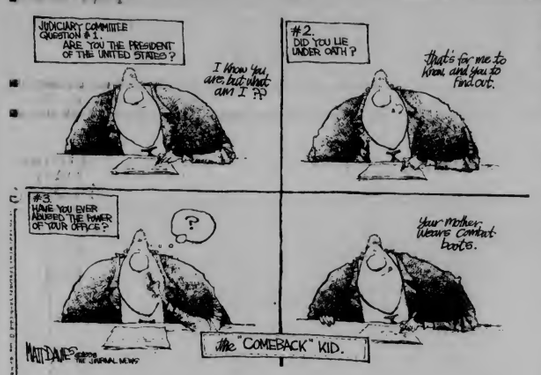
Seth Koenig

"When working on an essay question, don't write "C" because it will be marked wrong."

Doonesbury BY GARRY TRUDEAU



The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545-3500 • Fax (413) 545-1592 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor-in-Chief Position Vacant Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Laura Forster Developing Nations Editor
Mike Messaros Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Co-Jewish Affairs Editor
Morgan Tobor Co-Jewish Affairs Editor
Heather Lei Guzzetta Multicultural Affairs Editor
Bill Carroll News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Sports Editor
Allana E. Todman Women's Issues Editor
Joseph D. Switch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Prestes Distribution Manager
Feisal Ahmad Marketing Manager
Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life, became the College Signal in 1901, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1936. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1994. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Washin' but no dryin'

I am on domestic exchange from Western Washington University in Washington state. Before I came to UMass, I had only been to New England once before. The reason I came out here was to experience something different. I wanted to meet new people, encounter a different area of the country, experience another university, and see the Red Sox. I am glad to say that I am doing all that, and I have thoroughly enjoyed my time here.

As much as I have enjoyed my time over here, I do miss the Northwest. I miss the tall evergreen trees, the 10,000 foot tall mountains, and the microbrew beer. I can't wait to go back to the Northwest and tell them about UMass. I will tell them that the leaves are gorgeous in the fall. I will tell them that the people are kind. I will tell them that Boston is a great city. And I will tell them that they don't have paper towels in the damn residence hall bathrooms.

The first day I was here, like most people I had to go to the bathroom. Like a good, clean boy, I washed my hands afterwards. I was flustered to look all over the place and not find any paper towels. I then asked one of my fellow bathroom neighbors, "Where are the paper towels?" He replied, "There aren't any in the bathrooms."

At first it didn't bother me. I continued to do my business and wash my hands afterwards but not dry them.

Eventually, I went to the maintenance office for the Northeast residential area, and the kind woman there was shocked that there were no paper towels or dispensers in the bathrooms. She told me that she would look into it. Two weeks went by, and I decided to see how things were going. The same woman told me that I had to have a work order filled out by a Resident Assistant or the Residence Director. I talked to some RA's, and they looked into it for me.

I then waited another week. Since I was making a stink about the issue, I talked to the head of maintainers for the Northeast residential area. She told me that there are not going to be paper towels in the private bathrooms on campus. She said that the public ones on campus did have paper towels, though. I asked her why, and she told me that the school would go bankrupt because of the costs involved.

The costs involved? University of Washington, a school of 35,000 students has paper towels for their residence halls. Washington State University, a school the same size as UMass, has paper towels in their residence hall bathrooms as well. The University of Oregon, Oregon State University, The University of Connecticut, The University of Rhode Island, The University of Vermont, The University of California at Berkeley and Los Angeles. The University of San Diego, The University of Colorado, Florida State University, and probably every other university in the entire country, except The University of Massachusetts, Amherst have paper towels or air dryers in their residence hall bathrooms. I could also make a very good bet that none of those schools are going bankrupt, either.

Chris Roselli

As I said earlier, the head of maintainers told me that there are no paper towel dispensers in the private bathrooms, only in the public ones. Private? I don't know how private all of yours are, but I share my bathroom with four other guys!

The public bathrooms have paper towels for two reasons. First, all of the administrators use the public bathrooms, so they get to use paper towels. Second, the public bathrooms have paper towels because they need to be nice for all of the visitors. When you first visited UMass and used a public bathroom, you probably said to yourself, "Wow, what nice bathrooms, and they even have paper towels for us to use to dry our hands." Then once you paid your tuition bill, you realized that you got screwed in the end zone and there aren't any in your "private" bathrooms.

I was also told by the head of maintainers that we are supposed to have our own personal towel to dry our hands with. Is that not the most ridiculous thing you have ever heard? A personal towel? Imagine this situation. You are watching a movie in your room and you are inviting friends from all over campus to come watch this movie. "Hey Bill, I am having a movie night! Good, you can go. Oh, by the way, don't forget to bring your own personal towel to dry your hands after using the bathroom in our residence hall." And I will make sure to have my mother bring her personal towel with her when she comes to visit me from Washington.

I know you are probably reading this and saying to yourself that this is such a petty problem when there are people getting shot on campus, others getting raped, and bricks falling off the library. That is my point. This should not even be a problem because it is so petty. I have heard that this "problem" is discussed and disputed every year on this campus. Why? Put the damn things in our bathrooms and move on to the more serious problems. Why is it that on this campus, everything always seems to wait until something happens that could harm this school's reputation? Are we not going to have paper towels in the bathrooms until we get a hepatitis outbreak?

As I have already stated, the head of maintainers in Northeast told me, "This school would go bankrupt if there were paper towels in all of the residence halls." Bull*! It is very apparent to me that a lot of the administration at this school seems to forget that the whole reason they all have jobs is because of our presence here as students. The students at this university should be treated with the same amount of respect, if not a greater amount of respect, as people else on this campus. Student voices should be the number-one priority, for years in the past, as well as this year, students have made a simple request to have paper towels in their bathrooms just like every other university. Maybe for once this request will be granted.

Chris Roselli is a Western Washington University student on exchange.

Food for thought

Since the holiday season is crashing down upon us, those of us on the meal plan will get a welcome break from the fine cuisine of our campus dining halls. After literally minutes of intense research, I have discovered those special meals that everyone seems to hate.

The holiday season is a time where we should all unite for world peace and the holiday spirit. It seems that the students I talked to have all united under the premise of hating dining hall food. The sheer magnitude of meals that the dining hall serves every day should make us realize that we aren't going to get gourmet food. I have a lot of respect for the workers who toil for hours every day to prepare the (infrequently) scrumptious meals. Actually, there are some meals that fail to be considered edible, in my opinion.

Brian Lohnes

I know everyone has his or her own taste concerning what they like and dislike, but this is what I learned from people:

Captain's Catch: a.k.a. "flipper's friendly fish fillet." This simple square of apparently fried fish is a puzzling one to everybody. The actual fish that composes the mysterious tasting concoction is still in dispute. I am supporting the Carp and Catfish theory, but I am trying to get Oliver Stone involved for more reliable results.

Fiesta Rice: What the hell isn't in this one? There are about 175 different kinds of vegetables, mustard, mayo, creamy stuff and used car parts. I don't know what kind of sadistic culture celebrates a fiesta with this stuff, but check the travel guides so you don't end up there. I have also received word from Ford Motor Company that the used oil, transmission fluid, and anti-freeze from old Ford Fiestas are also incorporated into this one.

Chicken DiCarlo: I knew a kid in high school named Matt Dicarlo. Strangely, I haven't seen him for a while and I suspect fowl play (sorry, I had to). Also, the chicken may have mob ties. I was touring the local chicken coops and I saw many overweight, aging chickens wearing tinted sun glasses and pinstripes, so I'm thinking that there may be some shady dealings here.

Turkey Tenderloin: After consulting with several Animal Science majors, I have come to the stunning realization that Turkeys have no tenderloin. There is no tenderloin on a turkey, and that is a plain and simple fact. My least favorite part about consuming this meal is when I need power towels to cut through the thick layer of spices slathered on top of the loin.

Cod Sub: A cod sub. All I can think of when I eat this is a whole cod fish in a sub roll just staring up at me. Since cod is a pretty common fish in our area I wasn't surprised to see it on the menu. I was surprised to see it on the form of a sub, though. I have never, and will never, see another cod sub. I think this is some kind of warped spin-off of the captain's catch.

Barbecued Salmon: In the weird food hall of shame, this one has its own place. The fact that they want us to believe it is real salmon is just plain humorous. Honestly, I think it is a cleverly disguised tofu creation with plenty of barbecue sauce plopped on it. I was really hoping that there was a typo on the menu the night they served the salmon, mainly because I had never heard of such a creation as "Barbecued Salmon." I have eaten salmon once in my life in a very nice restaurant, and it tasted awful. I can't even begin to think of how many innocent schools of salmon were scooped up by the school and barbecued. What an undignified way to go out.

Call me what you will, but this list was compiled by my fellow students who all banded together to express their personal dining horrors. I will say again that I have a lot of respect for the dining hall staff and all of their hard work. Personally, I enjoy the burgers and fries they serve everyday for lunch a lot more than the above-mentioned meals.

I wish everyone a good holiday season and healthy, hearty, eating. I need to go to lunch now so until the next time... Burp!

Brian Lohnes is a UMass student.

Letters to the Editor

Honors housing goes too far

To the editor:

I, too, do not see why the Honors Program insists upon creating all-honors housing. However, the piece entitled "The Master Race" by Bron Tamulis and Seth Diamond (Wednesday, Dec. 9) raises greater concerns than housing. The term "master race" associates honors students with images of Nazi Germany, slave owners, and the Ku Klux Klan. Their insistence upon that term is just another example of the anti-intellectual atmosphere at UMass.

Honors housing is a selling point to prospective students. When I came here I was disappointed that Grayson and Field Residence Halls were open to non-honors students. Yet I found the mix of non-honors and honors students to be a good thing.

Once I moved to another residential area, I could not get any work done. My neighbors played their stereo so loudly that my posters fell off the wall. This went on until three or four in the morning. I couldn't even talk on the phone because the noise was so loud. Studying during the day was impossible because they'd leave the stereo on when they left in the morning. They liked coming home to the music, and they did not understand why I needed to work anyway. They thought people who got good grades "just cheated."

I don't mean to imply that non-honors students are all like my ridiculous neighbors. Yet at least in Grayson and Field, I knew there was a chance of sleeping and studying in relative peace. I appreciated having this housing option. Furthermore, at a school where so many students actively denounce intellectual endeavors, housing designated for only honors students almost becomes a necessity.

Maybe "honors only" housing goes a little too far. There are lots of non-honors students living in Grayson and Field because it is conducive to studying.

However, at a university where honors students can be equated with a "master race," perhaps the problem isn't special housing. Students should not create reasons for the Honors Program to separate honors students from the rest of the student body.

The column entitled "The Master Race" did just that. Opinions on the housing system should be stated, but honors students should not be associated with Hitler. It is inaccurate and grossly inappropriate.

Catherine M. Burns
Amherst

We're not a Master Race

To the editor:

Honors students are not a "Master Race" or a group of people who want to take over. Many of us joined the Honors Program in order to have small classes with more personal attention from professors. Taking only introductory classes with 300 people and complete anonymity gets old after a while. I went to a small high school where my largest class had 31 people and most of them had around 20 students. I came to UMass, and suddenly I was taking classes the size of my whole high school. It doesn't bother me too much. However, there are times when I miss the small classes and the more personal education that comes along with it.

Maybe you feel the same way. Did you know that you could have the same opportunity? Honors classes are open to everyone.

In the column, "The Master Race" (Wednesday, December 9) Bron Tamulis and Seth Diamond stated that honors students may react strongly to their article, and rightly so. Not only were they harsh and discriminatory, but did they bother to ask how honors students felt about the Commonwealth College? Not all of us are in favor of it!

In my opinion, the Commonwealth College housing plans will not work. It is unreasonable and ineffective to house hundreds of students together with the hope that they will bond together and share their one common interest: the Commonwealth College.

But there is nothing to keep these students together because the Commonwealth College is not enough. Do all these students take classes together like TAP students? Are they going to relate to each other in the classroom, or will their classes be so different that they have nothing in common but the Commonwealth College?

Last year I was in a TAP program with 20 other students. I found it to be very effective. I can't imagine the same degree of effectiveness with even twice as many participating students and never, to any degree, with hundreds.

Why not split up the incoming students and have an honors TAP in several different residential areas? Not only would this increase the efficiency, but it would take away fewer housing options from Orchard Hill residents and give the incoming students some choices in deciding where to live.

Students who are not in the current Honors Program may not listen to those who are and vice versa. However, if each side did take the time to listen to the other, I believe that many people would be surprised at the similarities in opinions, opposition, and desires.

Jennifer Schonvisky
Southwest

Remembering the demonstration

To the editor:

Friday November 20th still sticks out in my mind. I was on my way from a class to the "End the Sanctions on Iraq" rally on the Student Union steps when I saw... American flags.

At first I thought that some members of the Radical Student Union were doing guerrilla theater to counteract the rally; but as I got closer to the rally, I realized that this was not a joke. What was originally intended to be a speak-out had turned into a shouting match over patriotism and the United States' foreign policies.

My initial reaction to the counter demonstration was that of anger and disgust. I can't comprehend how someone can justify the killing of innocent people simply because our government has problems with their government. It seems as though the people who were involved with this counter demonstration (namely members of the UMass Republican Club and some R.O.T.C. members not in uniform) fully support our government's actions, no matter how irrational some of them may be. During the rally-turned-shouting-match, I heard many calls from the counter demonstration of proud Americans for those of us who were discontented with our government's policies to "Love it, or leave this country." Blind nationalism really bothers me, since it gives people a false feeling of pride, based solely on where they live, not on their individual actions.

I stepped up to the microphone on the R.S.U. side, and tried to tell the counter demonstration that my father is a Vietnam vet and a retired colonel in the Army, and by no means does he support a war or killing in any way.

How can these people, the counter demonstrators who will most likely never have to fight for this country, say one thing and live differently? I know that all of my political beliefs are backed up in my day to day life, not just on election day.

I would like to end this letter with a quote that I heard second-hand that was said at the vigil for victims of the Iraqi sanctions at Memorial Hall on that day by some "patriots." They said, "Those towel heads don't deserve to live." Sticks and stones may break my bones, but words can really hurt and show ignorance.

Christopher Dooley
South Hadley

The following is an unscientific tally of this semester's Ed/Op page. Enjoy:

Number of Cabbage Patch Doll references: 2
Number of columns that in some way referred to Bruce Springsteen: 3
Number of columnists who referred to Bruce Springsteen: 1
Number of columns about how the Dining Common food sucks: 1
Number of columns about how bad Housing Services is: 2
Number of columns about how Parking Services did us wrong: 2
Number of columns about the "Crazy Jesus People": 6
Number submitted: 9
Number submitted concerning the horrors of Kosovo: 0
Number submitted concerning impeachment proceedings: 0
Number of photo bendees where someone is holding a dreidel: 1
Number of columns in which the word tummy appeared: 2
Number of columns about nuticles: 1
Number of columns about men's underwear: 1

Colllegian experience valued

When I came to UMass two years ago, I had no idea what I wanted to do with myself. I'd been an English major at my former school, but writing analytical essays on books I'd read, using flowery, wordy language and varying my sentence structure just wasn't coming easy to me. Then, two weeks into my first semester here, I discovered journalism.

In the course of my many journalism classes and Collegian experiences I discovered a new way of writing. I un-learned nearly every rule of English that had been ingrained in me since I'd first picked up a pen. I was no longer supposed to write using complicated language, long sentences and few paragraph breaks. Accuracy, brevity and clarity, I was told, were the characteristics of quality journalism.

Death to the passive voice; the fewer commas the better; and the shorter the paragraph the easier it is for the reader to follow — these were among the writing lessons I was taught in journalism. I learned to write for a reader, not a professor grading me on my use of a thesaurus. My goal instead became to write at the sixth-grade level — the level that most everyone reading a newspaper could understand.

My experience at the Collegian was by far the most helpful in teaching me the basics of journalism. In my first week as a news associate I had to learn how to call strangers out of the blue and harass them with questions that they really didn't care to answer. Because of my shy nature and inexperience, my editor would have to help me prepare a list of questions I should ask. Then I'd make my calls, nervous and stuttering, reading directly from my list of questions and saying "umm" far too much.

One of my first assignments required calling a mother still deeply in denial over the death of her son the year before. I remember cringing as I listened to her recite the graphic details of the medical examiner's report, coldly describing a stab wound and an eight-inch shard of glass while I could hear the sounds of normal household life in the background — dishes clinking, the T.V. blaring and a young boy chatting.

Thanks to you people out there generating all sorts of crime, I've collected a variety of story clips — larceny, rape, death, attempted murder, assault, peeping, bed-wetting.

Lorraine Kennedy

By the end of my first month, I'd reported on two more deaths and a rape. The public safety part of my beat became impossible to cover as I had more than enough crime and bad things in general to write about... and the pace kept up for the rest of the semester. The knowledge I gained in four semesters of journalism classes paled in comparison to what I learned in three short months as a Collegian reporter. I used to only be able to write late at night when there were no distractions. But I had to quickly adapt to the atmosphere of the Collegian newsroom, where reporters scurry around to finish stories, phones ring off the hook and computer keys are incessantly tapping.

It's a funny thing about the Collegian. You swear up and down that you won't get "sucked in," that you won't end up spending all of your free time in the overly air-conditioned, windowless newsroom in the Campus Center basement at the expense of classes, grades and your other friends. Everyone warns you about the "curse" of the Collegian, but you don't believe it until it happens.

Not that it's a bad thing, really. Sure, I may not have put as much effort as I could have into some of my classes, my grades may have slipped a bit, and my roommates may have gotten sick of me arriving home at all hours of the night. But it was all worth it in the end. Thanks to you people out there generating all sorts of crime, I've collected a variety of story clips — larceny, rape, death, attempted murder, assault, peeping, bed-wetting. They've run the gamut. And in the process, I've also found myself a whole new set of best friends. (It wouldn't be a misty-eyed memory column if I didn't go and get all sappy.)

So now that I'm getting ready to graduate in a few short weeks, wrapping everything up at UMass, I can actually say that I'm pretty pleased with how things turned out here. When I transferred here — in serious debt after my expensive two years at UVM — I figured I would just hurry up and finish my credits in as short a time as possible. My first semester on an all-female floor in Van Meter, living with a bunch of miserably unfriendly girls, proved to be an entirely unpleasant experience; and by the end of last spring, everyone I had made friends with had either graduated or dropped out, leaving me all alone again. Looking ahead to my last semester, I was more than anxious to finish up and get the hell out of UMass. Now that I'm almost through, I find myself trying to scam ways to remain in school for just a little bit longer, to hang on to the security that goes along with having student status, and to continue the good times I've had with my newfound Collegian buddies.

Lorraine Kennedy is a Collegian staff member.

ARTS & LIVING

10 films that gave 1998 a bad name

By Bryan McAllister

1998 was a most bizarre year for movies. It was in this year that Jim Carrey turned serious, that Ben Stiller had a problem with "hair gel", and that Hollywood tried to remake its own masterpieces. Along with artistic and commercial successes like Saving Private Ryan and The Truman Show, there was also the rise of the dumb comedy — There's Something About Mary, Rush Hour and The Waterboy stand among Hollywood's biggest moneymakers. Of course, along with the good comes the bad, and the movie industry offered plenty of that. The following are my picks for the 10 worst films of 1998:

10. Snake Eyes

Brian De Palma's conspiracy thriller was superb — for the first 10 minutes, that is. Those minutes were filled with a bravado-tracking camera shot following a wide-eyed Nicolas Cage through an Atlantic City arena. After that, things went all downhill.

9. (tie) Dirty Work, BASEketball and Majia!

For all the dumb comedy success, there were these failures. All suffered from a lack of good ideas and too much basic idiocy. BASEketball was perhaps the best of these, but the "South Park" boys will have to try again if they hope to be true stars.

8. Disturbing Behavior

A great title, a clever idea (the real villains of high school are the preppy kids), Katie Holmes, and a talented screenwriter (local boy Scott Rosenberg) were all wasted in this overdone, ridiculous Scream rip-off.

7. Firestorm

Gotta love the title. It sounds like a sci-fi rip-off, or a big action movie, but this January release was actually a little action movie about a bunch of firemen; and Howie Long starred in it, meaning it had no chance of being good in the first place.

6. Very Bad Things

This is a movie that thinks it's funny simply by showing people bashing each other's heads in. One of Hollywood's most disturbing releases since any Pauly Shore movie, it was "Jerry Springer" on acid, basically — wasting the talents of Cameron Diaz, Christian Slater, and John Favreau.

5. Air Bud 2: Golden Receiver

Both the Air Bud movies have the dubious distinction of being

Turn to WORST, page 7

Tech problems can't undo Bosstones

Dicky Barrett and the Bosstones rouse the Middle East crowd Thursday night.

ANNA FEUER / COLLEGIAN

By Kevin Monahan
Collegian Staff

THE MIGHTY MIGHTY BOSSTONES' HOMETOWN THROWDOWN
The Middle East
Dec. 10

CAMBRIDGE — For five nights last week, The Mighty Mighty Bosstones held their fifth annual Hometown Throwdown at The Middle East nightclub. It is a festival where fans can display their devotion to a band they love, and for the Bosstones to display their loyalty to the city they love. Starting Wednesday night, and continuing on until last evening, the Bosstones packed the small venue that they have been consistently visiting since their start as a band, and brought some friends along with them.

Thursday night's lineup consisted of punk rockers from Richmond, Virginia, Ann Beretta, kickass New York City hardcore group H2O, and finally the Mighty Mighty Bosstones.

Most of the audience did not notice a few of the Bosstones, including Dicky Barrett, Ben Carr, and Tim "Johnny Vegas" Burton, standing in the back of the audience to watch the opening acts.

Ann Baretta played an entertaining set of pure punk, whereas H2O rocked the audience with an ear-shattering cacophony, which included a cover of the Dead Kennedy's "Nazi Punks &!$% Off."

The Bosstones made their entrance through a showering of artificial snow and sparkling Christmas lights taped to the venue's low ceiling. Opening up with "Kinder Words" from their 1995 album, Question the Answers, lead vocalist Dicky Barrett appeared in a leopard-print sport jacket, shaking hands with the front row of the audience. With the front line of the stage taken by Barrett, guitarist Nate Albert and Bosstone Ben Carr, the next song performed is of a rather ambiguous title. (On their first album, Devil's Night Out it appeared under the title "Drunks and Children." A live version appeared on Ska-Core, the Devil and More under the title "Drugs and Kittens." A more refined version titled "Dogs and Chaplains" was featured on Question the Answers, on the recently released Live from the Middle East album, it appears as "Doves and Civilians." For our purposes, we'll call it "Drums and Confessions.") "Hell of a Hat," "Royal Oil," "We Should Talk," and "A Sad Silence" were the next few songs performed.

If the only idea you have of a Bosstones' show is from the movie Clueless, you have a lot to experience. A lot of stage diving, crowd surfing, bruises and broken noses are common. Thankfully, no such injuries were incurred, in part because of the venue's "no crowd surfing" policy. The policy was broken nonetheless, causing Barrett to plead with the staff, "Please don't throw that idiot out." "The Rascal King," "Do Something Crazy," "Numbered Days," and "I Hope I Never Lose My Wallet" came next, before playing the wildly popular and catchy "Where'd You Go?" from their album More Noise and Other Disturbances. The equally catchy tune "Someday I Suppose" from Don't Know How to Party and the Ska-Core, the Devil and More EP, came after "1-2-8." The Bosstones closed their hour-long set with the hit that, as Barrett claims, "Pizza Hut stole from us," "The Impression That I Get," from their most recent studio album, Let's Face It, and the title track from their first LP, "Devil's Night Out."

The Bosstones came back for a short encore, after which Barrett dove into the crowd.

Although the set was plagued with a few technical problems, which included unintentional feedback and a sound level so loud that the vocals were drowned out, the Mighty Mighty Bosstones put on a fun show that was a treat for their longtime fans, and a great reason to visit Boston over the holidays.

OCMP
OFF CAMPUS MEAL PLAN
EATING DURING WINTER SESSION
PASTA E BASTA
PIZZA PAPA JOHN'S
THE PUB
dairy mart
GREENOUGH SUB SHOP
DELANO'S
Amherst DELIVERS Deli
ANTONIO'S E SEMPRE BUONA
Friendly's
SUBWAY
Bueno Y Sano
the hatch
BANANADAMA
BRUEGGER'S Fresh Bagels BAGEL BAKERY
Applebee's Neighborhood Grill & Bar
Bruno's
THE BLACK SHEEP Deli & Bakery
The Ground Round
Charlie's tavern
Rafters SPORTS BAR & RESTAURANT
NEWMAN
THE SUB
Judies
Just in the Valley Bars
Amber Waves
VIDEO To GO
AND MORE TO COME...
CHINESE & JAPANESE RESTAURANT
SAME GREAT PROGRAM,
SAME GREAT RESTAURANTS
(888) 211-6267

Applications are Available!
for Affordable Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program to open January 25th
university of massachusetts child care at 63 amherst
University Child Care will open a Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program in Room 4, Skinner Hall on January 25, 1999!
Pick Up an Application Packet at:
University Child Care Office - 112 Berkshire House
GEO Office - 201 Student Union
GSS Office - 919 Campus Center
Dean of Student Office - 227 Whitmore
Commuter Service & Housing Resource Center - 428 Student Union
Or call UCC at (413) 545-1566 and an application will be mailed to you.
Enrollment priority will be given to undergraduate and graduate student families based on financial need. Second enrollment priority is given to University employee families based on financial need. Tuition costs fall on a sliding fee scale, based on family size and household income. A family earning under $14,500 will receive fully subsidized tuition.

Chinese director talks about his art

By Will Thomson
Collegian Correspondent

A common criticism of modern Chinese filmmakers is that their films feed a Western appetite for romantic stories about the mystical Middle Kingdom. Their silk-robed scholars, scheming dragon ladies, and lightning-fisted kung-fu masters have long defined China for American audiences. Zhou Xiaowen doesn't make these movies.

Zhou's films portray China warts-and-all. Their dark, conflicted — but fundamentally real — characters, profane language, and complex messages are likely to surprise audiences.

Zhou himself seems one of his own characters, at once philosophical and frank — in the same breath discussing the meaning of life, the film making process, rough sex, and rape.

I met Zhou in his Campus Center hotel room. He was a thin man sporting a wispy, unstrimmed beard, hip in his coarse black leather jacket and black jeans. He spoke some English but relied mainly on Mandarin for our discussion.

He said that as a director he was primarily concerned with people..."men and women mostly," he joked. He added, that whenever possible he preferred "ladies first," but many of his films portray a violent and brutal dynamic between men and women.

Women are often the victims of rapes and beatings; male characters are often unsympathetic and misogynist. I wondered what he meant to convey about the relationship between the sexes.

"Men and women are basically the same, they all have a sexual need... this is the basic premise," said Zhou. "So, women, especially Chinese women, they're embarrassed and sometimes what they really want is for someone to come and rape them." This attitude carries over into his films. Ermo, Black Mountain, and The Emperor's Shadow all contain scenes where women first refuse, put up resistance, but in the end fall for their attacker.

In the Emperor's Shadow, the Emperor's crippled daughter is forcibly taken by a musician in a scene that is cliched and clumsy by American standards. The sex is intercut with images of the Emperor's army pounding a battering ram through the gates of an enemy castle. Afterwards, the princess's legs are cured; she can walk again. Subtlety is sacrificed to make this metaphor, but Zhou sees something significant in the analogy of love and war.

Zhou suggested that relationships are better described in the language of contest and struggle than of romance.

"Hypothetically... if a man and a woman are together for one year, in that one year, they may have sex 100 times. And of those 100 times, 99 may be very tender. Very sweet. Maybe only one time is that kind of struggle or conquest. But I think this one time is the essence... it is the desire to control another other person."

He said that every person was a self-contained universe. "One universe cannot come into contact with another, one cannot be contained by another," Zhou said. "If contact is impossible, then mutual understanding is even more impossible." Zhou said. "This one time is not about what they think, but about what they essentially have to do. So it may only be that 1%, but it is the essence."

Zhou describes himself as unhappy, only able to rest in sleep. "I am the kind of person who is always thinking," he said "and so I am in a lot of pain. In this process of thinking, there are few things that make me happy, and many things make me anxious."

"I try to transfer my ideas onto my characters, and maybe by doing this I can placate my worries."

Zhou grew up in the sixties in China. When all the school's were closed as a part of Mao Ze'dong's disastrous Cultural Revolution, Zhou enlisted in the People's Liberation Army at the age of 15. Zhou said that this experience gave him a deep understanding of life in rural China, which he has tried to bring to his films.

"It was a lucky coincidence that got me into film making. When I came back from the army, I happened to be 18 years old, around the house with nothing to do." He said that year the schools were reopening, and he heard that the Beijing Film Academy was looking for students. There was no direction school at that time, so he enrolled in the cinematography department. After graduating in 1973, he worked on every part of the movie set, from cameraman to actor. Eventually, he was able to make his first feature film.

"My first film was banned in China, and to this day, it has not been released." His third film was already showing in the theaters for more than a month when it was recalled, and only after he cut several objectionable parts was the film allowed to be rereleased. His fourth film, Black Mountain, was banned for four years as well, he said, and latest film, Common People, is now slowly making its way through the mainland censors.

Zhou said that when you work in China, you have to consider everything from the script down to every shot, up until the final production. "It is like having a child," said Zhou. "You want to do everything you can so that child will be born alive. If it stillborn, there is nothing that you can do about that."

He said that he has already had to cut out 24 parts out of Common People, a love story about people with cerebral palsy. "Some parts are longer, some are shorter, maybe some parts are even just one sentence," said Zhou. What did they want out? "The sex, of course, had to go. But because there [are] 24 parts, I don't even know. Basically the situation is that if they want you to change it, you just have to. There really is no asking 'why', you just do it."

In it's original form, Common People takes a very realistic look at life of the disabled in China and the callousness of the Chinese medical bureaucracy.

"When I shot my latest film, I had no political message. China has 60 million handicapped people. I wanted to say that they were just normal people. With that many people you should not treat them as special people... Some people find political message here, and there's nothing I can do about that," Zhou said.

Zhou said that working under these censorship restrictions hasn't necessarily hurt his work. Zhou gave the examples of two great Spanish directors. He said that until 1975 their work was great, but after Franco's fascist dictatorship fell, their work lacked feeling. "It's like a game," Zhou said.

Does he have to push and test every time he makes a film? "Of course, every time," Zhou replied. "It's like walking here." Zhou slid his finger along the edge of the table. "Very dangerous, but we must do that." Zhou said that if filmmakers were to do only those things they were supposed to, then they would be making bad films.

Zhou is in America to see the release of his film, The Emperor's Shadow. The film is different from his others in that it is set not in modern China, but in the Qin dynasty, before China was unified. The Emperor's Shadow is one of the most expensive Chinese films ever to be made. He said that he has high expectations for the movie in the US, though he concedes that the subject matter may be less accessible for American audiences than his other work. The Emperor's Shadow is Distributed by Fox Lorber and will be released on Dec. 18, in New York.

worst

continued from page 6

horrible even though I didn't see them. Just the idea of a dog who shoots baskets with his nose and catches footballs is enough to fire all Disney live-action executives.

4. Godzilla

1998's biggest flop. Those boys behind Independence Day will have to go back to the drawing board, and should remember to stop ripping off other movies. Godzilla takes from, among others, Jurassic Park, Jaws, and Aliens. Size matters, yes — especially if you're too big.

3. The Avengers

One of the messiest, incoherent products of the year. It's too bad, considering the creative production design and opportunities for wit and spectacle, but the script had no focus, the director no talent, and Ralph Fiennes and Uma Thurman were thus lost in their roles.

2. Deep Rising

A throw-back to those old B-movies of William Castle and Roger Cormon, although I don't think the filmmakers realized it. Deep Rising was another film that did some ripping-off, and like Godzilla, did it badly. And after his role in The Phantom, Hollywood should have known that Treat Williams is not exactly the kind of actor who inspires posters in college girls' dorm rooms.

1. Lost in Space

A video-gamish, metallic, hyper-edited mess of product-placement and pseudo tongue-in-cheek wit. Nothing in this movie makes sense, including why Matt LeBlanc is actually a working actor. It was the worst commercialization since Batman and Robin — and hey, what do you know, they both were written by the same guy.

Bryan McAllister is a Collegian staff member.

COURTESY NEW LINE CINEMA

Matt LeBlanc stares us down in the inept sci-fi epic, Lost in Space.

Arts and living wishes you a happy holiday

HAMPSHIRE FITNESS CLUB
PLAY HARD TO STAY HARD
The Area's Most Complete Club
256-6446
HAMPSHIRE FITNESS club
90 Gatehouse Road
Off Rt. 9 • 2 Miles East of Town Center
Free HFC T-Shirt
JOIN NOW FOR OUR 15 WEEK WINTER SPECIAL ($169) AND GET A FREE HFC T-SHIRT
VISA MasterCard

Work During Break
$$Earn Money$$
$400 - $600 PER WEEK
$7.50+PER HR with OVERTIME AVAILABLE
JOIN OUR TEAM TAKING INVENTORY IN YOUR HOMETOWN AREA DAYS AND NIGHTS
RGIS Inventory Specialists
Visit our website rgisinv.com
OR CALL TODAY & SET UP AN INTERVIEW
24 hour Job Line — 1-800-[illegible]
BOSTON 617-484-1788 PLYMOUTH 508-833-1145
SOUTH OF BOSTON 508-821-5891 ROUTE 3 SOUTH 781-340-6355
SEA COAST AND NORTH OF BOSTON 603-926-9813
Come visit us on the concourse 12/1, 12/8, 12/9, 12/15
EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

The only thing better than an iMac: An iMac for less than $29.99/mo.

Apple® Computer couldn't make iMac™ any easier to set up or use. So they made it easier to buy. Now, if you're a student, you can get an iMac for less than $29.99 per month* with the first payment not due for 120 days. For about what you'd spend on a few pizzas, you can have a super-fast computer that can get you onto the internet in 10 minutes right out of the box. You also get a coupon book worth $2,000 in possible additional savings, for software, games and accessories. Come try an iMac for yourself at:
Computers E.T.C. A division of University Store
In the UMass Campus Center
9 to 5 Mon.-Fri.
Closed Saturday & Sunday
http://www.apple.com/education/store
Authorized Reseller
© 1998 Apple Computer, Inc. All rights reserved. Apple and the Apple logo are registered trademarks and iMac is a trademark of Apple Computer, Inc. *$0 monthly payments of $29.97 based on a price and APR term of $1,529 consisting of manufacturer's suggested retail price of $1,499.99 (not including all taxes, shipping and fees, plus a one-time origination fee of $29). Final payment will be due approximately 120 days after loan disbursement. The monthly variable rate equals the prime rate published in The Wall Street Journal on the first business day of each month plus 1.90% ("Index"). As of November 1, 1998, the rate is 11.90% (8.00% prime rate plus 1.90%). 14.67% APR, subject to monthly increase or decrease as Index changes; as the Rate will take effect on the fifth business day of each calendar month and will affect the dollar amount of your monthly payments. Subject to credit approval. No down payment required. No prepayment penalty.

UMass Dartmouth announces
Intersession courses offered Monday-Friday, January 4-22
A Great way to focus on a course between semesters!

Course #	Course Title	Time
ACT211 - 81	Principles of Accounting I	9:00 am- noon
ACT212- 81	Principles of Accounting II	1:00- 4:00 pm
ANT351- 81	Readings: Morality and Values in Modern Society	9:00 am- noon
BI0101- 81	General Biology	9:00 am- noon
BIS212- 81	Programming and Problem Solving	1:00- 4:00 pm
BIS315- 81	Information Systems	1:00- 4:00 pm
BIS341- 81	Data Communications & Networking	6:30- 9:30 pm
BIS371- 81	End- User Software Applications	9:00 am- noon
ENL200- 81	Studies: Literature of Nature	9:00 am- noon
ENL202- 81	MajorAmerican Writers	6:30- 9:30 pm
ENL226- 81	Multicultural American Literature	9:00 am- noon
ENL251- 81	Introduction to the Short Story	6:30- 9:30 pm
ENL265- 81	Business Communications	1:00- 4:00 pm
ENL266- 81	Technical Communications	6:30- 9:30 pm
ENL347- 81	Topics: BlackWomen in WhiteAmerica	6:30- 9:30 pm
FIN312- 81	Financial Management	9:00 am- noon
HST356- 81	The Holocaust	9:00 am- noon
MGT210- 81	Business Statistics I	5:30- 8:30 pm
MGT312- 81	Legal Framework of Business	1:00- 4:00 pm
MGT334- 81	Applied Decision Models for Services	1:00- 4:00 pm
PHL101 - 81	Introduction to Philosophy	1:00- 4:00 pm
PHY172- 81	Planet Earth II	9:00 am- noon
PHY182- 81	Introduction to the Weather	6:30- 9:30 pm
PSC210- 81	Politics of Health Care Reform	9:00 am- noon
PSC342- 81	Public Administration	9:00 am- noon
SOC101- 81	Introduction to Sociology	9:00 am- noon
SOC177- 81	Sex, Marriage and Family	1:00- 4:00 pm
SOC312- 81	Deviant Behavior	6:30- 9:30 pm
SOC351- 81	Readings: Morality and Values in Modern Society	9:00 am- noon
SOC353- 81	Readings: Drugs in Society	6:30- 9:30 pm
SPA201- 81	Intermediate Spanish I	1:00- 4:00 pm
TES105- 81	Contemporary Issues in Textile Science	1:00- 4:00 pm
WMS101- 81	Introduction to Women's Studies	9:00 am- noon
WMS347- 81	Topics: BlackWomen inWhiteAmerica	6:30- 9:30 pm

Occasions™
CARD & GIFT SHOP
"The thought that counts"™
25% OFF!
Every Boxed Set of Christmas Cards
in Stock
From now until 1999!

Bookworks™
NY Times Bestsellers
35% OFF Hardcover
25% OFF Paperback
10% OFF Nearly Every
Other Book in Stock!
* See Store for Details.

Party like it's 1999 and SAVE 25%
on all 1999 Calendars
in stock!

COLLEGIATE Casuals™
UMass Clothing for Everyone™

HALF PRICE SALE!!!
BETWEEN NOW AND DEC. 24,
BUY ONE UMASS CLOTHING
ITEM AT REGULAR PRICE AND GET A SECOND ITEM OF EQUAL
OR LESSER VALUE AT 50% OFF!

Watch for Unadvertised
Specials Storewide!

WE GIVE 100%... the University UStore "Not like a mall... Better." We give all of our profits to support University programs.

SEVEN GREAT SHOPS
ONE GREAT STORE
In the UMass
Campus Center
Open 9 to 5 M-F
11 to 4 Sat.
413 - 545 - 2619

Newest Star Trek epic the best since Wrath of Khan

COURTESY ELLIOT MARKS

The cast of Star Trek: Insurrection, led by Patrick Stewart, paddles to safety in the new film.

By Ted Anthony
Associated Press

STAR TREK: INSURRECTION
Directed by Jonathan Frakes
with Patrick Stewart, Jonathan Frakes, Brent Spiner
Playing at Hampshire Six Theatres

"Star Trek" at its best offers a balanced version of the classic sci-fi vision: a futuristic, computerized universe leavened by resonant, believable characters and relevant human themes.

That's the reason it has lasted through three decades, four TV series and nine movies.

But the keepers of Gene Roddenberry's flame, while always good-intentioned, sometimes try too hard. Some "Trek" films have drifted too far into comedy, too far into darkness, even too far into just plain silliness.

Not so the latest installment. Star Trek: Insurrection strikes the difficult balance between action and humanity — the best "Trek" movie since 1982's Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan.

The quality — and the subtlety — is clear from the beginning.

Insurrection begins not in space but on land, in the middle of an idyllic country scene outside a village. This is a planet at peace — but a planet being watched surreptitiously by Starfleet, the military/exploration arm of the United Federation of Planets.

In short order, the scene turns chaotic. The android Data (Brent Spiner, a favorite member of the USS Enterprise crew from the series "Star Trek: The Next Generation"), on assignment with the Starfleet surveillance team, has apparently gone berserk and revealed the observation station to the locals, who call themselves the Ba'ku.

The Enterprise, led by Capt. Jean-Luc Picard (Patrick Stewart), is dispatched to stop Data. Picard finds that Data's actions have a purpose: there is a plot afoot, an agreement between Starfleet and another race, the Son'a, to relocate the Ba'ku to another world so their planet can be exploited for its very rare — and valuable — natural resource: energy that restores youth and vitality.

Picard, appalled by the actions of his Starfleet and enchanted by Anij (Donna Murphy), a Ba'ku woman, decides he must disobey Admiral Dougherty (Anthony Zerbe) and prevent the relocation. His main opponent is a desperate man: the aging, decaying Ru'afo (F. Murray Abraham), desperate to reclaim his vitality.

Picard is joined, in true "Trek" fashion, by his command team from the TV series — First Officer Will Riker (Jonathan Frakes), Klingon Lt. Cmdr. Worf (Michael Dorn), Engineer Geordi LaForge (LeVar Burton), Ship's Counselor Deanna Troi (Marina Sirtis) and Dr. Beverly Crusher (Gates McFadden). Unlike the past two films with the "Next Generation" cast, each crew member matters to the plot and has at least one really good scene.

Stewart, always good at breathing life into Picard, does so especially well this time. While in First Contact he played an Ahab, obsessed with revenge, in Insurrection he is more of a bohemian, a balancing influence and moral compass. He's both gentle and strong, and his is a sad lament in a time of unrest: "Can anyone remember when we used to be explorers?"

Jiggle handles the UMass crowd with ease

By Tom Sadlowski
Collegian Correspondent

JIGGLE THE HANDLE
Campus Center Auditorium
Dec. 10

Boston area favorite jam-band, Jiggle the Handle, welcomed the UMass campus this past Thursday night as the act breathlessly performed unreleased material as well as cuts from their debut, Mrs. White's Party.

Jiggle the Handle got the crowd dancing early with their opener, "Walk Right Out Your Door." The band then went on to play a fun, extended version of "Fly with the Sun."

The music continued to pour from the band's soul as each song flowed into the next.

"Lost and Found" kept the audience moving while "Turn Myself Back Around" was able to further please the spectators.

Even the Grinch Who Stole Christmas was on hand and jamming to the band's favorable beat with a little help from bassist Chris Q.

The band excitedly returned to the stage to play a rendition of "Fearless" that would even put Pink Floyd in awe.

Jiggle the Handle has been building a strong grass roots following and they definitely increased it while at UMass. Their rising popularity in the jam-band circuit is nothing shocking, as Jiggle the Handle presents an all-star lineup of New England musicians. Gary Backstrom's killer vocals and guitar playing are backed by former Hypnotic Clambake bassist Chris Q, ex-Max Creek drummer Greg Vasso, and prior Planet Be keyboardist Paul Wolstencroft.

If you have the pleasure of being in Boston on New Year's Eve, you may want to ring it in Jiggle style, as they are headlining a show at the Middle East. Otherwise look out for their return to the Pioneer Valley next semester.

Cast, mise-en-scene propels 70's tribute Goldmine

By Kevin Monahan
Collegian Staff

VELVET GOLDMINE
Directed by Todd Haynes
with Jonathan Rhys-Meyers, Ewan McGregor, Christian Bale
Playing at Pleasant St. Theater

London in the early '70s must have been an exciting time for pop music. It was here that "Glam-rock" was born, comprised of all the outcasts of the '60s hypocritical "peace and love" movement. It was the time of Iggy Pop, Brian Eno, David Bowie, Ziggy Stardust and the Spiders from Mars, chronicled in Todd Haynes' latest film, Velvet Goldmine. Haynes' semi-biographical story of the rise and fall of Bowie-esque rock star Brian Slade (Jonathan Rhys-Meyers), suffers from a disjointed narrative and unfocused characterization, but is saved by stylistic photography, outlandish costumes, and excellent acting.

The story begins at the home of Oscar Wilde, who Haynes contends as "the original glam-rocker," but rather than focus on this theory, Haynes jolts us to 1974 — the site of a publicity stunt that ended the careers of Brian Slade, and his extra-terrestrial alter-ego, Maxwell Demon. Flash forward to New York, 1984, and here we begin our Citizen Kane-like story structure. We meet a British reporter named Arthur Stuart (Christian Bale), who is assigned to a story on Slade ten years after his vanishing off the face of the earth. The story is told non-chronological order, ill-coded flashbacks, as Stuart searches for his "rosebud" — the whereabouts of Brian Slade.

The most information Stuart gets is from Slade's ex-wife, Mandy (Toni Collette). Here is where things get interesting, as the love affair between Slade and American, Iggy Pop- like badboy Curt Wild (Ewan McGregor) is documented.

The acting is spectacular. Haynes casts British actors in roles that require American accents, with superb results. McGregor pulls his off nicely, and Collette's slips a bit, as expected of an American living in England for quite some time. The make-up and costumes that played such an important role in the glam era are grandly duplicated here, and the music, performed by such contemporary artists as Thom Yorke, Placebo, Thurston Moore, and Mike Watt are pluses. But what is most striking is the overused zooms (constantly in and out on the same frame) by Haynes and cinematographer Maryse Alberti, a device that was, very much so, overused in the '70s. And Haynes does not shy away from the sexuality of the times; the decadent sexual behavior portrayed helps make the film as over the top as the times it portrays. B

Happy Holidays from all the Collegian Staff!!!
Have a "SUPER" Break!!!

KICK & RUN SPORT SHOP
181 WEST STATE ST. (ROUTE 202)
CHATEAU HARMONY - P.O. BOX 56
GRANBY, MA 01033
"Check out our bargain basement sale!"
HOURS
MON-THUR 11-9
FRIDAY 11-8
SATURDAY 9-4
(413) 467-7200

the SUB
Pizza
Subs
Calzones
and more...
Are You Ready For Some Football?
Monday Night Football
Pizza Special
Large Cheese Pizza for only
$5.25
Free delivery
Offer Valid Mondays only 7pm - 11pm
Sept. 7 - Dec 21
Price does not include 5% Mass meals tax
Hours: 11am - 2am
549-5160
member O.C.M.P.

MORE MACHINES
Yoga • Cardio Kickboxing
Reebok Step • Low Impact • Area's Largest Room
BEST PRICES
MAKE '99 FINE
Get in Shape!
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
256-0080
Rt. 116, So. Amherst

OOPS!
• Free Estimates
• Lifetime Warranty
• Auto Glass Replacement
• Car & Truck Rental
North Amherst Motors
Collision Repair Center
(On bus route - one mile from UMass)
78 Sunderland Road, North Amherst, MA 549-2880

Munchie Madness 3-6PM MONDAY-FRIDAY
Nachos Especial 7.75 3.00
Potato Skins Supreme 7.75 3.00
Shrimp Cocktail 5.45 2.98
1/2 PRICE!
Judie's
CMP Welcome Week
51 N. Pleasant Street
253-3491
http://virtual-valley.com/judies

For Fast Easy Delivery Call 256-4110
La Cucina di
PINOCCHIO
of Amherst 30 Boltwood
#1 Delivery in Town
COLLEGE BASKETBALL SPECIALS!!!
(Monday-Thursday Special)
Get 10 Free Wings With The Purchase Of A Large Cheese Pizza
ONLY $8.00/Tax Included
Any 2 Calzones $8.00/Plus Tax
SPICY FRIES NOW AVAILABLE
KEEP ALL THOSE EXTRA POUNDS AWAY THIS SEMESTER
WITH OUR "NEW MENU ITEMS"
VEGGIE BURGER & SPICY BLACK BEAN BURGER
(ONLY 2 GRAMS OF FAT EACH!)
Must Mention Ad When Ordering
Offer Expires 5/31/99
Delivery Only
Not Valid In Restaurant
Also Available:
Diet Veryfine Juices
Apple-Cran
Pink Lemonade
Kiwi Strawberry

amc
Hampshire 6 - 584-7550
Hampshire Mall
Mt. Farms 4 - 584-9193
Mt. Farms Mall
HOME FRIES (PG-13) Today - Thurs at (5:50 @ 52:50) 8:30
BABE: PIG IN THE CITY (G) Today - Thurs at (5:40 @ 52:50) 8:30
JACK FROST (PG) Today-Thurs at (5:30 @ 52:50) 8:20
MEET JOE BLACK (PG-13) Today-Thurs at 8:00
ENEMY OF THE STATE (R) Today-Thurs at (5:20 @ 52:50) 8:10
WATERBOY (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:50 @ 52:50) 8:30
RUGRATS (G) Today-Thurs at (6:00 @ 52:50) 8:40
BUG'S LIFE (G) Today-Thurs at (5:50 @ 52:50) 8:20
STAR TREK: INSURRECTION (PG-13) Today-Thurs at (5:30 @ 52:50) 8:10
I STILL KNOW WHAT YOU DID LAST SUMMER (R) Today-Thurs at (5:40 @ 52:50) 8:20
PSYCHO (R) Today-Thurs at (5:20 @ 52:50) 8:00
Special Engagement no Passes or Coupons
$2.50 (Twi-Lite) Show Daily

GOT GIFTS?
Need Help?
Look for these handy signs to get some great ideas!
Only at UStore!
WE GIVE 100%... the University UStore "Not like a mall... Better." We give all of our profits to support University programs.
SEVEN GREAT SHOPS ONE GREAT STORE
In the UMass Campus Center
Open 9 to 5 M-F
11 to 4 Sat.
413 - 545 2619

A Member Of
PENNZOIL QUAKER STATE
Stop. Go. Pennzoil.™
CARE
A Customer Assistance Program of the Better Business Bureau ®

FREE
Shuttle To Home, Work Or Campus

FREE CREDIT
90 DAYS
SAME AS CASH!
Instant Credit Available

BRAKE KING
Discount
Autoservice Supercenter
Free Towing With Repair

10% STUDENT & FACULTY DISCOUNT ON PARTS

AMERICA'S FAVORITE TUNE-UP SUPERCENTERS
Avoid Dealer's High Costs!

FREE
Brake Inspection & Tire Rotation
No Appointment Necessary

WE DO IT ALL

• Tune-Ups	• A.B.S. Brakes	• Computers	• Ignition	• Gas Tanks	• Fuel Injection
• Oil Leaks	• Power Steering	• Emissions	• Transmissions	• Ball Joints	• Rack & Pinions
• Starters	• Alignments	• Radiators	• Shocks & Struts	• Mufflers	• Fuel Pumps
• Alternators	• Timing Belts	• Front End	• Coil Springs	• Oil Changes	• Clutches
• Batteries	• Water Pumps	• Belts & Hoses	• CV Joints & Axles	• Coolant Service	• Overheating
• Tires	• Air Conditioning			• Electrical	• & More

Foreign & Domestic Auto Supercenters • 4x4 Light Trucks

FREE Winter Safety Inspection
Complete Check of Cooling/Antifreeze System, Charging System, Brakes, Tires, Belts/Hoses, Battery, Exhaust, Shocks/Struts and Car Performance.

TIME TO WINTERIZE YOUR CAR

FREE SNOW TIRE CHANGE-OVER
Bring in your snow tires and we will install them on the vehicle at no charge. Balancing Extra.

WINTER SPECIAL
RADIATOR FLUSH & FILL & LUBE, OIL & FILTER
• Drain & Fill Radiator up to 2 Gallons Antifreeze
• Lube, Oil & Filter • Tire Rotation
• Check Belts, Hoses, Shocks & Tires
• Inspect Water Pump, Thermostat & Gasket
$39.95
MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

Winterize Your Radiator Before It Freezes
ANTI-FREEZE FLUSH & FILL
Up To 2 Gallons Antifreeze
Pressure Test Cooling System, Inspect Belts & Hoses, Check Heating System.
$29.95
MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

WINTERIZE NOW!!!
• Lube, Oil & Filter
• Anti-Freeze Flush & Fill
• New Wiper Blades
• Check Heating System
• Check Belts & Hoses
• Rotate 4 Tires
$59.95
MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

ENGINE TUNE-UP SPECIAL
In most electronic ignition cars we'll install new spark plugs, set timing & adjust idle speed (if applicable). Computer engine analysis, check fuel and emission systems
$35 4 cyl. | $45 6 cyl. | $55 8 cyl.
Transverse V-6 engines and A/C interference extra.

BRAKE SPECIAL
Includes Free Alignment • Lifetime Warranty
2 Front Disc or 2 Rear Drums
• Install Pads or Shoes
• Machine Drums or Rotors
• Test Drive
• Inspect Brake System
• Semi-Metallic Pads Extra
$49.95
MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

SHOCKS & STRUTS
Lifetime Warranty • Free Alignment
50% OFF
Your Second Shock or Strut • Buy One Shock Or Strut At Regular Price And Receive The Second One At Half Price. Plus FREE Four Wheel Alignment.

BRAKE KING MUFFLERS
30% OFF
LIFETIME WARRANTY
We Will Beat Any COMPETITOR'S Best Written Estimate by 10% - Guaranteed!

LUBE, OIL & FILTER
FREE Tire Rotation & Brake Inspection
• Up to 5 Quarts of Oil
• Chassis Lube
• Install New Oil Filter
• Includes Oil Disposal Fee
$12.95
Add $3.00 For Foreign Cars, Light Trucks & Vans

MANAGER'S CAR CARE SERVICE PACKAGE
1. OIL CHANGE & FILTER • Install new filter • refill up to 5 qts. Pennzoil 10W30 oil • Lubricate chassis
2. FOUR TIRE ROTATION
3. ENGINE TUNE-UP
Install new spark plugs • set timing • adjust idle (if applicable)
4. RADIATOR FLUSH & FILL
Up to 2 gallons of Antifreeze
5. BATTERY SERVICE
Load test battery, clean terminals & battery box
6. COMPLETE VISUAL INSPECTION
In-depth visual analysis of major systems
6 Services • 1 Low Price
$59.95 4 cyl.
6 cyl. - $69.95
8 cyl. - $79.95
Most Cars & Light Trucks
Transverse V-6 engine & AC interference extra

Nationwide Battery
5 YEAR WARRANTY
$49.95
1 Year Free Replacement
Most Cars & Light Trucks

COMBO TUNE-UP
Spark Plugs, Oil Change & Filter, Fuel Injection Service
• Set Timing
• Adjust Idle
• Check Fuel & Emission System
• Computer Engine Analysis
• Clean Injectors
4 Cyl. $69.95
6 Cyl. $79.95
8 Cyl. $89.95
Most Cars & Light Trucks

BELTS & HOSES
Don't Press Your Luck!!
90% of roadside breakdowns are due to belt or hose failures
• V-Belts • Fan Belts
• Radiator Hoses
• Heater Hoses
• Bypass Hose
10% OFF Most Cars

TIMING BELT REPLACED
ONLY $149.95 installed
RECOMMENDED AT EVERY 60,000 MILES TO Avoid Costly Breakdowns. Good for most vehicles.

CV JOINT BOOTS
(Outer) Includes inspection of front end, motor mounts & brakes
$59.95 EACH INSTALLED
Most Cars & Light Trucks

COMPLETE AUTO SERVICE
• Idler Arms
• Ball Joints
• Pitman Arms
• Tie Rod Ends
• CV Joints
FLEET ACCOUNTS WELCOME

SUPER SERVICE PACKAGE
MANUFACTURER'S RECOMMENDED 30,000 MILE SERVICE
• Engine Tune-Up, Spark Plugs, Air Filter, Fuel Filter and PCV Valve
• Complete Transmission Service
• Fuel Injection Service
• Oil Change, Lube & Filter
• Complete Antifreeze Flush & Fill • Rotate 4 Tires
Dealers charge $300 or more for same service!
$189.95
MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

FUEL INJECTION SERVICE
• Clean fuel injector deposits & residue build-up
• Restore injector flow pattern
• Clean carbon deposits from upper combustion chamber
• You'll enjoy improved performance, increased gas mileage, and reduced emissions
SAVE GAS! $39.95 Most Cars

SPIN BALANCE & ROTATE
INCREASE THE LIFE OF YOUR TIRES!
$19.95
Complete Spin Balance & Rotation of 4 Tires

COMPUTERIZED ALIGNMENT
Thrust Angle $29.95
4-Wheel Alignment $39.95
Most Cars & Light Trucks

DRIVE AXLE SHAFT
INCLUDES FREE ALIGNMENT
$159.95
INSTALLED FRONT WHEEL
Most Cars & Trucks

TRANSMISSION SERVICE
$49.95 Rear Wheel Drive & $59.95 Front Wheel Drive
Includes filter, fluid, gasket & labor. Applies to most vehicles.

RACK & PINION
INCLUDES FREE ALIGNMENT
$269.95
INSTALLED
Most Cars & Light Trucks

Before You Purchase A Major Brake Job, Shocks And Struts, Mufflers And Exhaust Work, Front End Work, Tune-Ups Or Any Automotive Service, Just Bring Us Our Competition's Best Written Estimates And We'll Beat It By At Least 10% GUARANTEED And Still Give You The Best Warranty In The USA!

Nobody In New England Beats Brake King ... N-O-B-O-D-Y!
5 CONVENIENT FULL-SERVICE LOCATIONS

Find us in the Bell Atlantic Yellow Pages

HOURS: Mon., Tues., Wed. & Fri. 7 a.m.- 6 p.m. • Thurs. 7 a.m.-8 p.m.. • Sat. 7 a.m.-4 p.m.

We Employ MACS Certified Technicians

NORTHAMPTON	WESTFIELD	SPRINGFIELD	SPRINGFIELD	ENFIELD
346 King St.	234 E. Main St., Rte. 20	1107 E. Columbus Ave.	867 Boston Rd.	809 Enfield St., Rte. 5
413-584-4988	413-572-1735	413-747-7133	413-783-3727	860-253-9017

misty

continued from page 12

Amy. A., good luck with you know who... Don't forget getting our picture taken with Santa in Worcestah.

Shout outs: Wassup Big Dugga — I love you! Wassup to Dante, see you in January baby! Good luck and much love to Sunshine and Corey (No my father does not ride a horse to work!) Ray-Ray, I miss you — G-dog, Aya and my whole crew, I love you all... The foamer's out, peace.

Special Teams

Matt Despres — Where to begin? I have to say it's been a fun first semester down here at the Collegian and UMass as a whole. It seems like yesterday that I approached the steps of Big Johnson and was ushered quickly into the collegiate lifestyle. I'd like to thank the Collegian staff for helping me along, showing me the ropes and actually giving me a column. Guys, I'm touched. I would like to especially thank coach Ken O'Brien for always taking time out of his day to help me out.

I would also like to acknowledge coach Yarworth and the entire men's water polo team for having one hell of a season and making the writing of 50-line previews fun.

Congratulations to Mark Whipple and the football team, and to the hockey team, whose two-game homestand against Maine proved to be some of the best college hockey I have ever seen. As for the rest of my time, the few precious hours that weren't spent hunting down press releases, I have to say it was a blur. I am now just recovering from the heavy workload and avant-garde film induced nightmares.

Lastly, I would like to make public what everyone knows anyway — there's a Stanley Cup parade coming to Boston in '99.

Matt Frascella — My journey as a Collegian sports writer began last spring when Aaron Saykin and I used to get into the most heated arguments over anything sports related. For the record, I always won, but this semester he finally wore me down and convinced me to write.

I told Saykin last March that McGwire would shatter the record, Mo. was still the best, and that the Bulls would win the title, but he wouldn't believe me. Told you so Saykin.

I got my first shot covering the men's tennis team, and I'd like to thank coach Judy Dixon and the rest of the team for making my first beat memorable. Thanks to Kobo for making this all possible and for covering our walls with women's soccer paraphernalia.

My fondest memories have to be with the football team. I have to admit that when I came back to school and heard we had already lost a game I thought we were in for a long year. Then I watched a few practices and my mind, as I saw them in every home game and even made a road trip with Koenig and Mauser to UNH. Sitting up there in the press box in hostile territory with the sun glaring in our eyes we witnessed one of the many miracles this year in UMass football. Where would we be if that last second kick by UNH had sailed through the uprights and not wide left?

We haven't looked back since (with the exception of those punks from UConn who seem to beat us in every sport, but I have a little message for you smug losers from Storrs: that trend cannot continue and beware of us in March because that's when the basketball season really matters. Besides, we are on our way to Tennessee and the national championship game and you have already finished playing till next year).

Thanks coach Whipple. You've shown me how much difference a coach can make, and you have rescued our program. More importantly you've led us to victory over IMU, and secured the bragging rights between me and my friend who goes to school there. The games this year have been so much fun to attend (Iust ask Saykin and his roommates from Holyoke about the Rocky soundtrack, the Captain, flag boy, and the Lehigh game), and now it's time to show the nation that UMass football is for real. Did someone say Division 1-A? Bring on the Fighting Irish.

Bryan Smith — One might say I was signed as a free agent late in the season. To those, you are right. I came on late in the semester as a sports writer and although my experiences have been short lived, I think I've added to the team chemistry (maybe chemistry isn't the word for this bunch of journalists).

I would first like to congratulate coach Mark Whipple for being named GTE Regional Coach of the Year and turning a program around in only one year. I would also like to thank my heart surgeon for the successful triple bypass surgery that I had to undergo after a season full of close games. The Patriots added to this as well.

The next order of business would be to thank coach Julie LaFreniere for making my first beat as smooth as it has been so far. Knowing nothing about track and field, she took the time to explain to me some of the finer points, for that I'm grateful.

Oh yeah, one last thing. 101 is the best (not PolSci either). It gave me a trip to Montreal with my roommates Peter Berical and Mattie Cavanaugh (Dan and Libby, what an adventure it was) along with some random females (that are not so random now) that we needed to drive us there. It also gave me a chalk outline on my bathroom floor drawn by night editor Dinice Iiminez and Vanessa Walker. To my best friend in the world and roommate Dan Santella, get down to Collegian and take some pictures, we could sure use your help. All mentioned are my boys for life.

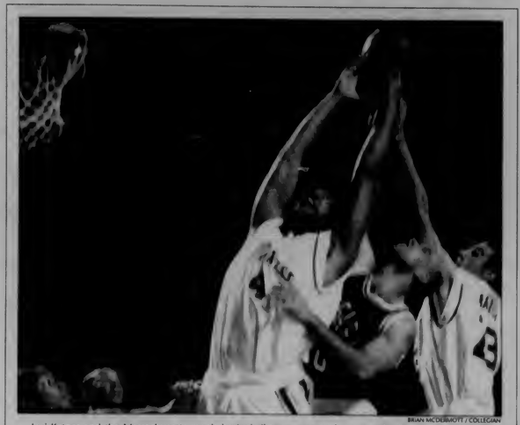
To everyone at the Collegian, have a great holiday season and break, you could use it with all the work you guys put in. I'll see you all next semester where I need to be considered a full time person pick-up anymore. Thanks for the schoolwork and more schoolwork.

Man, it just keeps going on and on, but hey, I am going to be home in a week. Thanks to coaches Dietz and Yarworth for your help. Thanks Kobo and Aaron for bringing me in (really, I meant it!). Thanks whoever I have forgotten. Thank you Collegian for dealing with my poor English. Thank God that the Collegian hasn't been shut down because of me. Thank you UMass for giving me a break. Merry Xmas & Happy New Year to everyone!! See ya'll next semester, and hopefully by then the UMass basketball team will be on its way to the NCAAs.

Alex Wood — Well the clock has finally run down to the last minute of regulation and all that's left to do is mop up a few finals. I entered the semester as a wide eyed rookie freshman and I'm leaving as one too. But as I head back to Newton for the holidays I'll think back to my first experiences as a college freshman writing for the Collegian.

To Haynes, P.J. and the rest thanks for all the "moral support". Thanks for everything Becca. Best wishes to my boys, Tim, thanks for the fridge. And thanks to the frats, for what I can't remember. My thanks and best wishes to the women's cross-country team, whom I wrote my first article on. And my thanks and congratulations to the men's water polo team and coach Russ Yarworth on an excellent season and for giving me the opportunity to cover a strong, winning program as my first Collegian beat.

To the boys on the JV-club lacrosse team and coach Judy Dietel, thanks for all the fun lacrosse and my best wishes to you all, we're a feisty bunch, we band of brothers. I'll see you all in the spring, ready to lax UMass style. To my fellow sports journalists, we're not in this for the money. Keep up the good work. To the Patriots, as long as you win, then I don't care how you do it.



Finally, to my beloved Bruins, keep up the good work. Happy holidays to all.

Gary Mendese — Ah, where do I begin? First off, I'd just like to say that this has been an awesome semester! I've met a lot of people down here at the Collegian who pushed me to become a better writer, and there are a couple of people I'd like to thank.

It wouldn't be right if I didn't say thanks to Seth Koenig, the guy who first spoke to me about Collegian sports and encouraged me to write. I'd also like to thank my partner in men's cross country, Matt Despres, and Kobo, the sports editor, for showing me the ropes. I'd like to give a shout out to coach Ken O'Brien! Without him I don't know how I ever would have been able to write long stories about man's cross country, a sport I don't know much about.

I'd also like to thank the Ed/Op staff for letting me vent about housing and my other favorite things here at UMass. I came down here in the beginning of the semester just to see what the Collegian was all about, and now I can put all of the feelings that I have about the administration on paper.

Thanks again! I hope everyone has an awesome vacation, and I'll see you next semester!

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Lari Ketner and the Massachusetts men's basketball team prepare for a stretch of games in which they hope to return to the .500 mark over the next couple of weeks. For all the action during the break pick up the back-to-school issue of the Collegian.

Jagr, Penguins edge Blues, 4–3

Kentucky stuns No. 2 Maryland in battle of top 10s

ST. LOUIS (Associated Press) — Scoring goals was easy for the Pittsburgh Penguins on Saturday night — defending the lead was more difficult.

"We got a lead so fast and nobody tells you how to play the game after you get ahead like that," Pittsburgh's Jaromir Jagr said after the Penguins' 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Blues. "You don't know whether to keep playing the same way or lay back and play defense."

The Penguins fell behind 1-0, then scored four goals in less than two minutes in the first period to take a 4-1 lead. The Penguins managed only 10 shots the rest of the way and barely held on for the victory.

"Whatever style they were playing, it wasn't good after those four goals," Penguins coach Kevin Constantine said. "You can't win in this league if you don't play better defense then we did."

Alexei Kovalev scored twice and Jagr had a goal and an assist during the scoring barrage in the first period over a span of 1:39. The four goals were scored in the shortest period of time against the Blues, since they gave up four to Edmonton in 1:41 in 1982.

Kovalev scored his first goals since being acquired in a trade with the New York Rangers for Petr Nedved on Nov. 25.

Constantine said he wasn't worried about Kovalev being slow to start scoring for the Penguins.

"It was just a matter of him getting the first one for us, he'll be fine."

Blues coach Joel Quenneville did not fault goaltender Grant Fuhr, who was playing for the first time in 11 games after suffering a strained groin.

"He had a tough stretch, but I thought he responded pretty well," Quenneville said. "He needed the playing time."

Kovalev scored his first goal of the game at 9:05 after some sloppy puckhandling in the Blues' zone.

Jagr scored his ninth at 9:32 on a slap shot from the left circle. Jagr has had four goals and five assists in his last five games.

Stu Barnes scored his 13th on a power play at 10:14, on a shot that bounced off Chris Pronger into the Blues' goal.

Kovalev scored his second goal at 10:44 to give the Penguins a 4-1 lead. Pavol Demitra cut the Penguins' lead to 4-2 when he scored at 14:03.

St. Louis cut the Penguins' lead to 4-3 when he scored on a power play at 7:46 of the third period.

The Blues took an early lead when Pierre Turgeon scored his 14th at the 57-second mark of the first period.

The Blues are 1-4-1 in their last six games. Pittsburgh snapped a three-game winless streak and is 2-1-3 in its last six contests. Penguins goaltender Tom Barrasso stopped 31 shots as the Blues outshot Pittsburgh 34-14.

The attendance of 19,291 was the fifth sellout in 13 home games for the Blues this season.

Kentucky bursts Marlyand's basketball bubble

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Maryland wasn't quite ready for Kentucky's taste of March Madness.

The second-ranked Terrapins came into Rupp Arena full of the swagger of a 10-0 start. In the first 6:20 of Saturday night's game against the fifth-ranked Wildcats, they attempted a trio of alley-oops, plus a tomahawk slam for good measure.

Just one was on target, though, and before the Terps knew what hit them it was the defending national champions who had sauntered off with a 103-91 victory, to the roaring approval of the home fans.

"We've watched them," said Heshimu Evans, who led Kentucky with a career-high 31 points. "We knew they were playing the best basketball in the country. It was a chance to beat a great team." Scott Padgett had 25 points, also a career-high, including 4-of-4 on 3-pointers, and led Kentucky (9-1) with 13 rebounds. Wayne Turner had 17 points and seven assists.

The Wildcats were in control from 6:11 remaining in the first half, when a 5 by Padgett set them on a 21-8 half-ending run. It got a little uneasy when Maryland's Terence Morris hit a 24-footer with 53 seconds left, cutting the Kentucky lead to 93-89.

But Kentucky's three seniors — Padgett, Evans and Turner — shot a combined 8-of-8 from the free throw line the rest of the way, and Maryland never got the ball with a shot at the lead.

For the game, the Wildcats held the Terps to just 42 percent shooting and limited their second shots, outrebounding the Terps 28-18 on the defensive boards.

"It was a good defensive battle," Kentucky coach Tubby Smith said. "Everything was challenged, ... I thought we were really ready for everything they did."

Morris led Maryland with 26 points, while Steve Francis had 25 points and Obinna Ekezie had 19 points and nine rebounds.

"We're 10-1 and I'm proud of what we've done before," Maryland coach Gary Williams said. "We'll just get better the rest of the way, and we've had a tough schedule up until this."

So far this season, it had been Maryland running other teams off the floor — 87-52 over No. 20 Pittsburgh, 92-69 over Wake Forest — and Kentucky plodding through games like a 74-65 win over Miami and Tuesday's 70-61 overtime win over No. 11 Indiana.

Against Maryland, though, the floor show was up and running and the Wildcats cracked the 100-point mark for the first time In Smith's one-plus seasons as coach.

"Even though they are an up-tempo team, they couldn't keep up with us, with our big men running the floor," Turner said. "It was a fun game."

"They ran the ball more than we thought they would," Williams said. "But that's our game, really. We usually welcome that. I thought that they handled the ball well, and their transitions." In one of the highest-profile games of the early season and a rare Rupp Arena visit by a top, non- conference opponent, Morris said the Terps didn't know what direction to go in.

"The first half, I think we didn't know what we wanted to do, if we wanted to run them off the jump or if we wanted to play a patient game," Morris said. "We tried to mix both of those together and it didn't work. We had to do one or the other. "Kentucky's a good team, but it's early in the season," he added. "It's only Dec. 12."

The Wildcats made 30 of 41 free throws, a far cry from the early games of the season, when they hovered around 50 percent. Turner was 9-of-12 from the line, Evans 11-of-14.

Munchie Madness 3-6PM MONDAY-FRIDAY
Fried Cheese & Onion Rings 6.75 3.39
Shrimp Cocktail 5.95 2.98
Sweet Potato Fries 5.25 2.62
1/2 PRICE!
Judie's TGCMP Welcome Here
51 N Pleasant Street 253-3491
http://virtual-valley.com/judies

SPRING BREAK
SALES REPS WANTED EARN CASH & GO FREE
SAVE UP TO $200/ROOM LIMITED OFFER - CALL TODAY
CANCUN #1 SPRING BREAK DESTINATION FREE MEALS, DRINKS & ACTIVITIES
MAZATLAN MEXICO'S NEWEST HOT SPOT NORTH OF ACAPULCO EXCLUSIVE FLIGHTS VIA TWA
LET'S PADRE SOUTH PADRE ISLAND EXCLUSIVE FLIGHTS VIA TWA
JAMAICA MONTEGO BAY & NEGRIL BEST PRICES - BEST PARTIES!
1-800-787-3787
www.studentexpress.com
"BREAK WITH THE BEST"

MANAGEMENT TRAINEES
COLLEGE IS HISTORY.
NOW GET DOWN TO BUSINESS.
We can't think of any better way to put your college degree to work than through an intense experience as an Enterprise Management Trainee. Here you can put into practice some of the concepts you studied, and watch them take shape in a real-life situation. Yes, you will be on the fast-track to running your own branch, then your own area, and then your own region. Where you go from there is up to you—if you demonstrate the desire to succeed and master the skills we'll teach you...our proven methods in key business components such as sales, marketing, customer service and administration.
Bring us your 4-year university degree (preferred) coupled with an enthusiastic character, and we'll get you started with a first year guaranteed salary of $26-528k and excellent benefits. Your hard work will promote you rapidly and our enjoyable environment will add fun to the challenges.
For North Shore & Downtown Boston, please apply directly on-line at enterprisejobs.com. Or call: (781) 938-9916.
For South Shore & Central Massachusetts including Worcester & Cape Cod, please call/fax/e-mail Janet Twohig at: (781) 828-6055 Fax: (781) 830-0225 E-mail: jtwohig@erac.com
For Hartford/Springfield, please call/fax/e-mail Jean Wasilewski at: (860) 683-2232 Fax: (860) 683-1448 E-mail: jwasilewski@erac.com
Enterprise rent-a-car
Equal opportunity employer www.erac.com

GIFTS from GLASS to GOLD
Find that ruby, sapphire, emerald or handmade diamond engagement ring... featuring Lazare® ideal cuts
Watch batteries, full in-house repair service, pearl re-stringing, appraisals and free ear piercing with purchase of studs. Great selection of earrings!
silverscape designs
GOLDSMITHS GEM GALLERY
One King St., Northampton 584-3324 • M-Wed 10-6, Th-Sat 10-9, Sun 12-5
264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst 253-3324 • M-Sat 10-6, Thurs 'till 8, Sun 12-5

Great Gifts
Bags Stocking Stuffers Hats
Jewelry Natural Fiber Scarves
Blouses Skirts Dresses
Earrings Rings Bracelets Sweaters Toys India Print Bedspreads
Candles Chains
Socks Leather Belts Gloves Merry X'mas Cards Chinese Shoes Mugs
Sale 20 to 50% off selected Clothing
The Mercantile Yankeekiddie 9PM Dec. 3-22 Sun 12-5 Daily 10-6
Amherst-Carriage Shops Northampton-108Main St.

■ misty

continued from page 16

one else on the women's soccer team, thanks for dealing with me on all of these trips. I know I had a blast. I'm looking forward to watching the Minutewomen head back to the NCAAs next year.

To Coach Mallen, thanks for helping me, Teves and Murph out with everything. The team is heading back up the Hockey East ladder. Teves and I have visions of Anaheim in early April floating around in our heads.

I can't leave out Kathy, Mike or Ruthie for all of their help down at Media Relations. Hey Cons, I'm doing the P.A. next year. Place has been fired.

Well, one semester down, one to go. Still plenty of trips ahead — Tennessee, Maryland, the big road trip to North Carolina and anywhere else I end up.

Running Backs/Wide Receivers

Paul Teves — It's been a wild and crazy semester. Let me try to explain.

There was the trip to Michigan and Ohio Mike and I took to see the women's soccer team play Dayton and Xavier. In between the those two games, we attended the Michigan St./UMass hockey game in East Lansing.

Besides traveling 15 hours both ways to Ohio, not to mention the five hours both ways to East Lansing from Ohio, we did take some memories with us including UMass hockey captain Dean Stork being a little horrified that we had traveled halfway cross country in a car to see them play. There was also Norwood's Drive–Thru Pony Keg, where you could actually drive thru and buy alcohol. We found that place in Cincinnati.

The third night of our trip, we returned from East Lansing, Mich. to Ohio for the second soccer match. We were forced to stay at the "shady" Econo Lodge in South Dayton. A couple came knocking on our door at 2:30 in the morning and again about an hour later.

This experience was not unlike Casey Kane's and my experience in Philadelphia for the A-10 field hockey tournament, where Mr. Darryl came knocking on our door at 1:30 a.m. while we were watching "I Know What You Did Last Summer."

In our trip to URI and Hockey East media day in Boston, we ran late all day, and only got to North Kingston at 8 p.m. Unfortunately, the UMass women's soccer team had already played the first half of its game. Still, the best part of the trip was afterwards when we went to eat at Candens bowling alley/restaurant, but we decided against eating there. So we went to Casey's Restaurant in Kingston and had Josh the effeminate, as our waiter.

This semester has been infamous for seeing certain athletes at the Pub and McMurphy's when they should be sleeping. Both are favorite hangouts of mine.

As a writer and associate you're an easy target for criticism. This semester two major criticisms have been expressed to me. I would like address both now. First there was Shawn Walsh, the Maine Hockey coach who insists he didn't call our Hockey program a Division III program, but he did. My suggestion to Walshy, is as mom used to say — if you don't have anything nice to say about the only hockey team to beat you this season, then don't say anything at all.

There was also Ryan Gray from the UMass men's water polo team, who didn't like the fact that I put water polo in the same Monday paper with football, hockey, basketball and all the other revenue sports, but if I hadn't put it in, it would have gone in on Tuesday. I promise never to give you any respect again.

I would like to end this misty with the highlights of the semester. Props for coach Whipple and the football team. I'll be the screaming psycho in Tennessee. Props to the hockey team for its win over Maine. Props to the seniors of the women's field hockey team and finally, mad props to ladies on the UMass volleyball team for having a good season and winning a huge match over Temple. (I never thought Bonnie Kenny would throw me a high five. Congrats coach!) Great job ladies.

Seth Koenig — This semester can be summed up best by the opening lines of Dickens' A Tale of Two Cities. "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times."

Just as I've reached what for all intents and purposes is the pinnacle of Collegian sportswriting, traveling around all semester with the football and men's basketball teams, my grades and cash flow have gone far enough down the toilet so that I can truthfully say I've reached kind of a positive/negative equilibrium.

That's such a lie. It's only the end of my third semester, so my grades and cash flow aren't scarred for life. On the other hand, I'll always remember the trip Brett Mauser, Matt Vautour and I took to Texas — that I don't have to go in depth because it constituted two weeks worth of my Ed/Op column. What we saw there — UMass' 21–19 defeat of No. 6 McNeese St. in round one of the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs — marked a new era in Minuteman football.

I am honored to have had, in an insignificant way, a small part of this record-breaking season. I'd like to thank coach Mark Whipple for being a gentleman when dealing with me and a maniac when dealing with his players. That's what makes a downright genius of a coach. Thanks also to the guys on the squad, who, even when becoming the stars of the campus, didn't ignore me outside the press conferences.

The season is young in basketball, but my dealings with coach Bruiser Flint have been pleasant so far.

My big memory from the opening to the hardwood season has got to be the Mass Mutual U. Game, between our beloved Minutemen and the hated Huskies of U.Conn. My partner, Aaron Saykin, won't disagree, I think. Sitting on press row while the crowd thundered over the court, for the first time, I felt as though the Mullins Center was as intimidating as those roaring arenas I had always seen on ESPN. I also saw the guys I usually see on ESPN, Dick Vitale and Mike Tirico.

If I could indulge myself for a few minutes in recollection, I'd like to look back on the six hours I spent walking around Boston College looking for a girl named Teydin, who I know from back home in Maine, while Past Paul Teves and Kobo went to a Boston University/UMass hockey game. Not only did we lose the game on the ice, I only spent about 10 collective minutes catching up on old times with Teydin.

The trip was all worth it, however, as I now know BC like the back of my hand, and Teves and I got to relax high school sports stories for two hours on the trip home. Kobo just drove, albeit jerkingly — he almost force fed my coffee to my crotch there once or twice on the way across the state.

Before I finish, I've just got to recall the trips that Sanford Appell, Saykin and I have taken to New York this semester. The ride has always been a hoot, as we yell at each the entire four hours to the "city that never sleeps." Don't get me wrong, we're never angry at each other, we all just have something to say at all times, and we're all loud. Poor Sanford is a die-hard Jets fan, so Saykin and I have been trying to help him recover.

In all seriousness, this semester has been the most memorable one yet.

Aaron Saykin — As far as the teams I covered are concerned, this fall was, by far, the best semester I have ever had. Let's start with the field hockey team, which won its third consecutive Atlantic 10 Tournament title... can you say dynasty? Not only did the Minutewomen dominate their conference, but they also qualified for the NCAA tournament, where they fought and clawed their way through a 1-0 defeat to Penn State.

Let's just say that the perks which go along with reporting haven't stopped coming my way this semester. Before the men's basketball game against UConn I met Dick Vitale in the media room — yes, Dick Vitale... and he was awesome, baby! The man is walking electricity. I've never met someone so genuinely excited in my life. Can you say Viagra?

By the way, that was an amazing game to me. Everything about it was great. My writing partner Seth Koenig and I sat right on the floor for it, and marveled at the amazing crowd noise as well as the big-hearted performance by the Minutemen, who nearly beat the No. 1 team in the nation, and during the game we couldn't help but laugh our heads off when we spotted Brett Mauser [another Collegian sportswriter... he does football] in the front row of the student section, jumping up and down with that big New Hampshire mop of hair on top of his head. If any of you know Mauser, you'll laugh just thinking about it. The kid is hysterical! But don't take it from me, listen to his radio show at 12 a.m. on Wednesday nights on WMLA. It's a riot!

For all you pessimists, don't you dare count out the men's basketball team. The Minutemen's record right now means nothing. I guarantee you they will win their conference. Yes, that's a promise. Just be patient with them. They're really starting to look like a true team. But Ajmal has to stop sticking his tongue out after he dunks the ball. The man he is supposed to be covering is half–way down the court before he slams down... and I like your game, Aj, but coach Cal would have cut your tongue out by now!

For all of you who have been kind enough to read my articles, I just want to say that you guys who read the Collegian are the greatest... god bless, much love and Merry Christmas!

Offensive Line

Casey Kane — How appropriate that I should write directly beneath my fellow Holyoker and field hockey beat partner Aaron Saykin. What a season we had. Thank you Minutewomen, you know who you are, for making my heart skip several thousand beats when you played UConn. Thank you for giving me my third straight A-10 tourney title as your beat writer. Thanks for the great game against Penn State; you have no idea how much you deserved that game.

Before this semester, the last UMass football game I attended was freshman year during Homecoming (awful monsoon), simply because I was trying to get to field hockey, women's and men's soccer and football all on Homecoming (mission accomplished, by the way). And I had listened to absolutely zero games on the radio.

This season was different: I love UMass football. I'm driving to Chattanooga next weekend with my brother and my sports guys. I'm painting my face. I'm tearing down goalposts. I'm speeding and hydroplaning (just kidding, Mom!).

A few sacred memories: Paulie and our trip to Philly, don't piss me off, Teves. Don't you ever turn the music up on Bread St. like that again and thank god for Louisville Sluggers. Jill and her 21st birthday. I loved partying with A.J., Julie, Sarah, Shauna and whoever I forgot — you girls rock! My radio debut with Mauser and Redman and a little visit with Justin and Tony (all the ballparks, baby!).

I also want to include a little shout out to some of my athletic friends, unprofessional as that may be: Kasselakis, O.C., Sumela, Bill Cooke, Billy Cullinan and Dustin Reid (five this season up, baby!) Also a quick hello to my favorite Rafter's waiter Khalil.

Long live and love McMurphy's on Thursday nights and hanging with my Collegian folks.

Brett Mauser — All right, fine. I'm cold, wearing an inside out American Express t-shirt on a Saturday night that I spent in Louisiana and you're asking for details.

Well, let's see now. List of tour sites and whether to go again: Richmond. No. Orono. Oh, wait, that's next year. How 'bout a one–year pre–game predict–the–future–and–get–a– Twinkie? No. Beaumont. No. Beaumont on Thanksgiving. Um... still no, I guess. Shreveport. Under 21 means no for me.

Well, then who is going to step up and come through for me?

Oh... well, girls reading this, gimme a call at...

1leh, gotcha, gettin' the dildjis ain't that easy.

Here's the story, ladies and gentlemen. Put me in a press box anywhere in the world to watch the Greatest Show on Earth, UMass football, my God, you guys rock. Certain cheerleaders are pretty rad, too. I dig 'em.

Except when wielding my lethal Randall Cunninghan pencil to knock down stupid flies that bounce against walls in press boxes, I've seen every second of the unpaid manicurists. Thanks, guys, and best of luck on Saturday in the title match.

"The Last Show" has been a riot. Whoa, wait, free promo... Wednesday nights on WMUA, midnight to 3, baby.

Patented field hockey moves, chugging championships, Hogan leg drops, Jason T., social dances and Bubba Smith's mom, hey, that's a heck of a semester. Find one better than that.

Ha ha, c'mon guys, stop. Ha ha... you guys are so mean.

I have to leave you guys for a semester, but don't cry for me, Amherst. Fear not, little ones. I will make a return. In fact, the only thing you have to fear is the goalie in Blades of Steel.

Sanford Appell — Nov. 18, 1998: "The Day the Laughter Died," Another Saykin–Koenig–Appell production as the boys headed to St. John's to witness the men's basketball game against the Red Storm. The good times came to a halt when our Minutemen were run off the court in the first few minutes, and we realized we had to drive back to Amherst and would not arrive home until three in the morning.

One bright spot was the Raf injection for nine points and two assists. That McDonalds at 2:15 a.m. on Interstate 95 was a little sketchy but Mauser on WMUA was clutch, especially for spinning up Lita Ford belting out "Kiss Me Deadly."

Believe me guys, my lineup really would work: Basit–Mack–Cruz–Charlton–Rhymer, with Rabul as sixth man, I guarantee it! Throw the push in on the pine and you've got yourself a winner.

A hearty plea to Mark Whipple, the Bill Parcells of Division I–AA football to stick around, and lead our gridironers to the next level. Thanks to the team for providing us with the first two meaningful home games in my four–year stay at UMass.

Attention sport management graduate students: Please continue your efforts to market the women's basketball team. The last three home games were far away the most energetic and entertaining [at least as far as the fans were concerned] that I have witnessed in the last three years.

The Mullins Center was electric for those games, and the team really fed off the fans' enthusiasm, so keep those promotions flowin...

Thanks so much to Coach Jeanie O'Brien for her help thus far in the season, and for always having the team ready to play despite all that has happened this season. An NCAA bid is still in the cards!

Finally to all the boys down in the office as we head to the homestretch, might I add: I-F-T-S, JETS JETS JETS. Don't even think of jinxing us now, Teves!

Jackie Leroux — Sorry I missed men's soccer Sanford. No really, I am, honest. I have to admit though, I missed the old black hole, and it was great to get back down here once women's basketball started. I am still grieving the loss of Yan Huisen. Please God, let me see her play a whole season next year.

Well Sanford, here's hoping you can become just the second writer to make it through a whole season with me! Do you think that BC game could have been dissected just a little more? Coyner, Thomas, Coyner, Thomas... Oh, and please God, let us make it to the A-10s.

Turn to MISTY, page 11

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Senior Amy Caputo and the women's gymnastics team will be in action against Rhode Island on Jan. 16.

■ whips

continued from page 16

As far as turning the corner is concerned, Flint still remains hesitant to admit that his 2–4 team has accomplished anything worthy of erasing its dismal start.

"No, we haven't turned the corner yet, we're still 2–4. We'll turn the corner when we're 5–4. That means that you've got a winning record. So you can't turn the corner and still be losing."

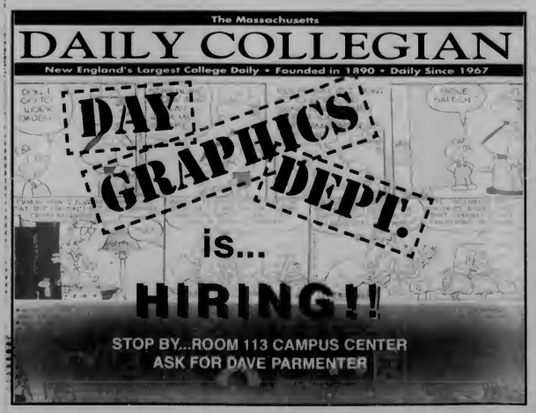
Minuteman Notes: The victory over the Eagles gave the Minutemen a 16–15 edge in the all–time series between the two schools... Flint was pleased with the manner in which Keiner conducted himself during the benching and will start the senior on Tuesday against host Villanova. His presence will be greatly valued against the Wildcats, who boast a front line of players standing at 7–foot–1, 6–foot–10 and 6– foot–8. The Villanova contest will mark the third straight UMass game against a Big East opponent, and it's fourth in the last six games.

■ play

continued from page 16

the Black Bears — circled on their calendar.

"We knew that Markus had great potential when we recruited him, but he's really stepped it up this year," Mallen said.



So what else has gone right for UMass? Helanen has been a rock in the net and the team has bought into a new defensive system that has been one of the primary reasons for the success of this team. The first line of Jeff Blanchard, Bryan Fitzgerald and Nathan Sell has stepped up for the Minutemen, while the rest of the squad has been aiding with a balanced offensive attack.

Some of the problems, however, have been a lack of offensive output as a team as well as a floundering power play. Even with these setbacks so far, UMass has remained competitive and is in good shape for heading to the Hockey East playoffs.

"I'm very optimistic. We're the youngest team in Hockey East, and if we find some scoring then we have a lot to offer," Mallen said.

Michael Kobylanski is a Collegian columnist.

The Massachusetts
DAILY COLLEGIAN
New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967

NiGht Graphics

Collegain hight graphics department is now accepting positions for spring '99.

Anyone with expirence with QuarkXPress or Adobe Pagemaker should come down to the Campus Center Basement room 113 and fill out an application.

If you have any questions please call 545-1864 and ask for Joe or Dave

UMass hockey squad has been a pleasant surprise

DURHAM, N.H. — If there is one thing that the Massachusetts hockey team has proven over the first half of the season, it's that a date on the schedule with the Minutemen isn't a cakewalk anymore.

And if you don't believe me, the hockey teams from Michigan State, Colorado College, Maine and every Hockey East school will confirm what I have already said.

Michael Kobylanski

After being projected to finish dead last in the conference at Hockey East Media Day, UMass (4–9–1, 2–5–1 in the conference) has been one of the biggest surprises so far. With the exception of Saturday night's affair with New Hampshire, the Minutemen have been in every single game so far. The Maroon and White have lost four one–goal games and haven't dropped a game by a margin of more than three goals so far.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Nathan Sell

"We've done very well in the first half. We were projected to finish last in the conference and after tomorrow [Sunday night's game against UNH] we'll have played seven of our first 15 games against ranked opponents," UMass hockey coach Joe Mallen said. "That's a pretty tough schedule."

A challenging schedule was something that Mallen and Massachusetts Athletic Director Bob Marcum tried to piece together in the offseason, and they accomplished that goal. Besides playing in the toughest conference in the nation, UMass has also played road games against Michigan State and Colorado College, both of whom were 1997–98 NCAA tournament participants.

"At least it [the schedule] gives us a chance because we already have two done with Maine, [Boston University] and [New Hampshire]," Mallen said.

Despite the lackluster record, the Minutemen have proven that they aren't a team that can be taken lightly. They took Michigan State and Colorado College down to the wire before giving up late third period goals that sealed those games, and also could've easily swept a pair from BU last weekend if it weren't for some unfortunate bounces.

And we can't forget the magical weekend of Nov. 13 and 14. No. 4 Maine came into the William D. Mullins Center on its high horse looking to sweep two from the Minutemen.

Forty–eight hours later, thanks to the spectacular play of Markus Helanen, UMass came away with a win and a tie over the Black Bears. Those two setbacks are the only blemish on Maine's 10–1–1 record, and I'm sure Shawn Walsh and his bunch have Ian. 17 — the day when UMass heads to Orono, Maine to face the Black Bears — circled on their calendar.

"We knew that Markus had great potential when we recruited him, but he's really stepped it up this year," Mallen said.

So what else has gone right for UMass? Helanen has been a rock in the net and the team has bought into a new defensive system that has been one of the primary reasons for the success of this team. The first line of Jeff Blanchard, Bryan Fitzgerald and Nathan Sell has stepped up for the Minutemen, while the rest of the squad has been aiding with a balanced offensive attack.

Some of the problems, however, have been a lack of offensive output as a team as well as a floundering power play. Even with these setbacks so far, UMass has remained competitive and is in good shape for heading to the Hockey East playoffs.

"I'm very optimistic. We're the youngest team in Hockey East, and if we find some scoring then we have a lot to offer," Mallen said.

Michael Kobylanski is a Collegian columnist.

UMass hoops drops 72–70 decision to Dartmouth; Banghart three's killer

By Jackie Leroux
Collegian Staff

Everything went right for the Massachusetts women's basketball team in Friday night's game against Dartmouth College. Everything, that is, except the final score. The Minutewomen (4–7) lost a tight game to the Big Green (2–4), 72–70.

UMass out–rebounded Dartmouth 44–24, shot 47 percent from the floor, and senior Tez Kraft had a career high 27 points. UMass' demise, however, came at the hands of Dartmouth guard Courtney Banghart.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Tez Kraft

Banghart is a deadly three–point shooter who can hit from anywhere on the floor. On Friday she did just that. Banghart went 8–of–19, seven of those from three–point range.

"We executed fairly well," UMass coach Joanie O'Brien said. "But when push came to shove we just couldn't pull it out."

The game was eventually decided by a questionable offensive foul called on sophomore guard Kathy Coyner with 1:14 to go. The game was tied at 67 when Banghart was able to draw the foul from Coyner. Banghart then hit a three with 1:06 left to give the lead back to the Big Green.

Banghart felt the foul was legitimate, while O'Brien felt otherwise.

"I think it all started when she [Coyner] set a blistering screen on me, with about 1:30 left, and I was so mad," Banghart said. "The refs weren't really calling it, so I had to show them that she was actually fouling me."

"The kid [Banghart] faked it," O'Brien said. "Kathy is not strong enough to knock over somebody like that."

The Minutewomen would tie the game once more before Banghart would win the game for Dartmouth.

A foul by forward Jackie Lippe sent Kraft to the free throw line. She hit one of two shots to pull UMass within two.

Guard Alison MacFarland fouled twice, once intentionally at the 49.1 second mark, and then again with 28 seconds to go and just nine seconds left on Dartmouth's shot clock.

"That wasn't a planned foul," O'Brien said. "She just happened to draw the hand check foul on the penetration."

The foul worked to UMass' advantage, however, as senior guard Nicci Rinaldi missed the first of a one–and–one. Coyner grabbed the rebound, and came back down the court to hit a layup and tie the game at 70, with 16 seconds left.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Nekole Smith

On the preceding Dartmouth possession Banghart hit her only two–point shot of the game, putting her team up 72–70 with just six seconds to go. The Minutewomen were unable to move the ball up the floor fast enough, and the clock expired before they could get another shot off.

"I didn't really have a set play," Banghart said of her last shot. "I was just going to go down and either try to drive and create something for someone else, or drive and try to take a shot."

Banghart finished the game with 23 points, six assists, two rebounds and two steals.

"Courtney is a prolific scorer, she always was a prolific scorer," Dartmouth coach Chris Wielgus said. "She has a knack for scoring. It's just the way she is."

Kraft shot 11–of–18 from the floor, and pulled down seven rebounds. Freshman Nekole Smith had perhaps her best performance thus far this season. She hit five of seven for 10 points in just 10 minutes of play.

Once again every player saw minutes for UMass and everyone scored. Center Lucia Madajova had a game–high 12 rebounds, along with nine points. Coyner, guard Tonia Thomas and forward Yolanda Rayside each had six points, with Rayside pulling down six rebounds.

MacFarland and freshman forward Caroline Nehls both struggled shooting–wise. MacFarland was 2–8 for four points, and Nehls was 1–5 for two points.

For Dartmouth, forward Liz Martin scored 14 points, and had five rebounds. Forward Erin Rewalt had a team–high seven rebounds, along with eight points.

Minutewoman Notes: UMass will start its Atlantic 10 schedule tomorrow with a game in Rhode Island. Over winter break the Minutewomen will play in a tournament in Maryland, and will also play against A–10 foes La Salle, George Washington, St. Joseph's, Temple, Dayton, Xavier and St. Bonaventure... Junior Rekiya Penton has taken a leave of absence from the team for undisclosed personal reasons. She is expected to return when she is personally ready. Penton's temporary departure brings the UMass squad down to just eight players. Junior Jaywana Bradley, is still expected back before Christmas.

413 586-6843 • 33 West St. • Northampton
www.eastheaven.com

CAREER OPPORTUNITY

DUE TO OUR RAPID GROWTH, EXPANSION, AND PROMOTIONS, WE CURRENTLY HAVE THE FOLLOWING OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE:

PROFESSIONAL VEHICLE SALES CONSULTANT

Compensation:
Salary plus commission & bonus

Candidates must:
- Be able to operate a normally equipped vehicle;
- Have a valid drivers license, accept able driving record;
- Be able to read and write English (at or above high school level);
- Be honorable
- Prior sales experience desireable.

We offer top compensation and a strong benefit package that includes:
- Medical and Dental Insurance Available
- Paid Holidays, Vacation, and Sick Leave
- Training and Advancement Opportunities
- Excellent Working Conditions
- Full Two Week Training!
- Recognition for a Job Well Done!
- Split shifts - 40 hour work week

A management team committed to excellence, growth and client satisfaction.

For more information or to submit an application, please visit 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays or send your resume or letter of application to:

Bill Richard, Gen. Sales Manager
(NO PHONE CALLS PLEASE!)

NORTHAMPTON TOYOTA

UM drops tough one to UNH

Wildcats have UMass' number in 5–2 win in Durham

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

DURHAM, N.H. — The one team which has the Minutemen's number this year on the ice is the University of New Hampshire Wildcats, who have buried UMass in their first two contests of the season.

After beating UMass 4–1 in the first meeting at the William D. Mullins Centers, it could be passed off as a one bad game. But after the performance at the Whittemore Center at UNH Saturday night, when UMass was trounced 5–2, it looks like the only team that may have UMass' number is UNH, led by their All–American Hobie Baker candidate Jason Krog.

UNH counted four clutch performances from wingers Darren Hayder, who had two third period goals, and Johnny Rogers, who put UNH in front with two first period goals, center Krog, who was just being Krog with two assists on the night, and finally a great net–minding performance from sophomore Ty Conklin, who made 17 saves en route to upping his record on the season to 6–0 and keeping his outstanding goals against average at 1.00 goal.

"Krog made two great plays tonight against us and it really hurt us. Last year UNH was scarier. This year they're a much more steady team, not as flashy but just as effective, but having two goalies (Conklin and Sean Matile) will help them out a lot," UMass coach Joe Mallen said.

For UMass, the Minutemen were off early when they allowed some odd man rushes which resulted in some early goals. Despite sophomore goalie Markus Helanen's 27–save performance, he still allowed five goals due to some two–on– one rushes and some UNH players being allowed to walk right in on him. The UMass defense struggled against the high–powered UNH offense. Helanen played through the game with UNH with a bug.

"They [UNH] were on. They played a really good game, a well disciplined game, and we were off... we were running around a little bit and spotted them a two goal lead in the first period and that's not a good position to be in, in this rink," Mallen said.

The Minutemen — minus a few exceptions — were unable to get many quality opportunities on Conklin like they were able to get on BU and other Hockey East netminders. But much of that can be attributed to a great defensive performance by the Wildcats, combined with a lack–luster performance by the UMass on offense.

"Tonight wasn't a great effort, but I think that we are playing good hockey in general, but so is UNH right now," Mallen said of the result.

The Minutemen were able to get some late goals in the third period to bring the game close.

They received scoring late when, with 7:51 remaining, Nick Stephens took a UMass turnover from and just popped it through Conklin's legs to make the score 4–1.

After the Wildcats had buried a goal to make it 5–1, and then removed Conklin to give third string sophomore netminder Michael Filardo a shot, UMass buried their second goal when Martin Miljko circled behind the net and then found Bryan Kennedy in front by himself. Kennedy one–timed the puck past Filardo at 19:42 to make the final count 5–2.

The Minutemen played again last night against UNH at the Mullins Center. Results were not available at press time, but for all of the UMass sports action during the break be sure to pick up a copy of the back to school issue of the Collegian.

The Minutemen finished off the first half of their season at 4–9–1 and 2–5–1 in Hockey East, but seven of their first 15 opponents were ranked in the top 10 in the nation.

"We played well in the first half of the season, and we have played seven of our first 15 against top 10 opposition. We will also have two games done against UNH, BU and Maine, so I'm feeling really good about the season thus far," Mallen said.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Dean Stork was the factor in UMass' attempt to stop UNH's elite group of offensive snipers in this weekend's home–and–home.

Low Income Graduate Students!

Then You May Be Eligible For Emergency

Housing Vouchers

The Housing Voucher program pays up to 75% of your monthly rent for Spring Semester 1999.

The funding for Housing Vouchers comes from the Educational Access Fund won by GEO in its last contract negotiations and will be administered through the Graduate Student Senate. (Low-income International graduate students are also eligible to apply)

Applications are available at the Offices of Graduate Student Senate (GSS), Graduate Employee Organization (GEO) or the Graduate School. For more Information contact Nana Mendoza or Mahmood Ketabchi at the GSS office, phone: 545-2896 or e-mail mahmood@cas.umass.edu.

The deadline for submission of application in January 13,1999.

Education Access Committee of the Graduate Student Senate

Collegian Classifieds

113 Campus Center — University of Massachusetts • Phone: (413)545-3500 Fax: (413)545-1592

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Women's Ice Hockey Team beat MIT 4-0 last Friday. Come see them play Amherst College Saturday at 1p.m. The team would also like to thank the entire UMass Community for its unfailing support. HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

APARTMENT FOR RENT

South Beach/FL Art Deco District Studio. Subtropical Intersession Sublet. Near beach, clubs. Ideal for single or couple. January 2nd through 8th or January 8th through 15th. $350 weekly. References, Security. Call 413-586-7348.

Take Over Our Lease 1 months rent free! 2 bedrooms, 2 baths. Excellent condition. Mill Valley Estates. Available Jan 1st. 253-1656.

Take Over My Lease 1 bedroom, Puffton Village. Nicely furnished. Available Feb 1. $570. Call 549-0316.

Take Over Our Lease One bedroom apartment on bus line. Rent is $450+. Starting Jan 1. Call Tim 256-8852.

2 Bedroom Puffton Village. Renovated. Starting Jan 1. 549-7105.

New Puffton Village- Rent starting at $570. Includes heat, hot water, and cooking gas. DSS satellite and cable ready. On-site parking and laundry. Near UMass. On bus line. One, two, and three bedrooms. Call 549-0145 now.

Brandywine Apartments
1 and 2 bedroom apartments available
1/4 mile from campus.
Dec or Jan 1.
Call 549-0600

Lantern Court (Sunderland)- 2 bedroom. Close to bus stop. $550. Call 665-6705.

AUTO FOR SALE

VW Jetta 88 Runs good. 121K miles. $1200 or B/O. Call Kati: 256-1521.

AUTO FOR SALE

1992 Jeep Wrangler Mint condition. $5600 or B/O. Call Katie 527-8284. Must sell before 12/14/98.

Isuzu Trooper 86 Runs well. Rust. 4x4. $1100 or B/O. 256-8467.

88 Ford Taurus V6, 93K, automatic, station wagon, power steering, cruise, A/C, power windows, new tires, tune-up. $2200 or B / O martin.reeker@ps.ge.com or (518)385-0196 9a.m.-4p.m.

WANTED: Toyotas, Novas, Prizms, Sentras. Any condition. Cash paid everyday. 1-800-649-4795.

AUTO PARTS

Hard Top for 1991-96 Jeep Wrangler. Defrost/Wiper. Black. 549-0013.

COMPUTERS

Mac PowerBook 520 Microsoft Word 6.0. Carrying case and manuals are included. $495 or B/O. 549-8938.

EMPLOYMENT

Part-time helper for light housework and personal health assistance for lady recovering from minor surgery. Hours and salary negotiable. References essential. Phone: 549-0844.

Hiring waitstaff for restaurant in downtown Amherst. Morning hours. 7-10a.m. Call II Pirata 256-0140.

General Labor- $7.50 Amherst location needs your help all winter shoveling snow & sanding walkways. Jobs could start as early as 9a.m., depending on the weather. Only available for work one or two days a week? This is a perfect job for you. Call United Personnel Services today to learn more about how snow + work= $$ 800-363-8200.

The Cape Cod Times, a 50,000-circulation daily based in Hyannis, is seeking a sports intern to start immediately and work through May, with the possibility of continuing through the summer. Journalism major preferred; experience on school or local papers helpful. Duties would include game coverage, high school sport roundups and some editing. Hours primarily nights and weekends. $315/week. Call Sports Editor Bill Higgins, 508-862-1151, or Managing Editor Alicia Blaisdell-Bannon, 508-862-1192.

Returning to the Greater Boston area this winter break? Want a fun, flexible job working with kids in their homes? Call Parents in a Pinch if you have at least 2 full weekdays free and childcare refs. Earn 9+/hr. 617-739-KIDS or email us at Davidapiap@aol.com. Car preferred!

TUTORS
Bilingual Tutors for part-time, paid assistance to students speaking Amharic, Chinese, Khmer, Portuguese, Serbo Croatian, Vietnamese. Contact ESL/Bilingual Office at 413-549-9857. Amherst Public Schools An Affirmative Action/ Equal Opportunity Employer.

Cashiers PT/FT, All Shifts. Full-Time Benefits include 401K, Health, Dental, and Vacation. Please apply in person. Dairy Mart, 259 Triangle St., Amherst, MA.

Best Winter Break Job In The Valley! Get paid to make a difference! Earn $300+ a week fighting air and water pollution. Leadership development seminars offered free to staff. CLEAN WATER ACTION 584-9830.

SUMMER MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITY
Where are you working during the SUMMER OF '99?
College Pro, a $25 million company, seeks highly motivated college students from New England to manage a service business. Summer earnings average $8-10K+ per manager.

EMPLOYMENT

Internship credit possible. If you are a goal-oriented leader searching for the right opportunity, call for an application and information to be sent by mail. Leave your name, school address, and phone # on the automated voicemail system at: (617)576-6833 ext 124.

ENTERTAINMENT

SOMETHING EVERY FRIDAY'S Hurricane Relief Movie: "There's Something About Mary" will be showing on Monday, December 14, 1998, in the Campus Center Auditorium. $1 Admission at the 5:00p.m. show and $2 Admission at the 7, 9, and 11p.m. shows.

FOR SALE

Mens Mountain Bike Mongoose Hill Topper. 21 speeds, new tires, seat. $300 or B/O. 549-0938.

Computer Desk with Shelf Top. $45. Call Cathy 549-6026.

Aggression Red Dog Snowboard Never been used. $225 or B/O. Call Eric 546-2745.

HEALTH & BEAUTY

We're here to pump... YOU UP! Monohydrate, Creatine Surge, DHEA, Whey Protein and more from Fitness Workshop delivered right to your door. 1-877-FIT-WDRK. www.fitnessworkshop.com

HOUSE FOR RENT

Summer Rentals
Cape Cod Group Summer Rentals. Some waterfront houses, some with swimming pools. Falmouth area. Call Diamond Real Estate 1-508-477-1900.

INSTRUCTION

Keep Busy During Break Work off holiday pounds and have fun taking KICK-BOXING LESSONS. One-on-One training with a U.S.K.B.A. licensed kickboxer. Call Joe @ 548-8979.

INSTRUCTION

CARDIO KICKBOXING Amherst Athletic Club. Train with the pros! 256-0080.

PERSONALS

Mary-
Happy Anniversary! (Early)
and
Merry Christmas!
Good luck on exams!
Love, James

Dan!!! (The Man)- Wow. I can't believe I'm graduating! I'm going to miss you! We always have a blast when we hang out. I think its because we are both such smart alecks! I'll never forget that I saw my favorite movie with you and you are the only one who has ever gotten me to try sushi (eww). I know you are going to be successful in whatever you do! Love, Your Friend Jen (not your kind of friend).

Laura Laura, I don't know what I would have done this semester without you. You kept me sane! Thanks for always thinking of me and inviting me places. You are the best! I know you are going to find a great job and have so much fun because you deserve it. I'm going to miss you so much. Come visit us in the bachelorette fun pad! Love You, Jen

PETS FOR SALE

Rabbit Rescue has a lovely selection of bunnies. Many colors and types as well as a selection of cages and hutches. We can also help with any bunnies you can no longer care for. Call Ellen at 367-0105.

ROOM FOR RENT

Delta Upsilon Fraternity has a few rooms available for Winter Session. Located right behind Totman Gym. For more information, call Bob at 548-6818.

Rooms Available To Rent for Intersession. 389 North Pleasant. 1 month to campus/uptown. Call Mike 549-7033.

ROOM FOR RENT

2 rooms in a 4 room apartment on Main St. Available January 1. $275 or $295. Call Mark 253-1179 or Tim 253-6566.

Northampton 1 room in large Victorian house. 2 minutes bus and Downtown. Available now. Only $265! Call Dan 584-2339.

1 room in 3 bedroom renovated Puffton apt. Available 1/1/99. Ted 549-7374.

Looking for female for one room in house. Close to campus. Jan or Feb 1 to May 31. $250 a month. 549-1192.

Lambda Chi Alpha, located at 374 North Pleasant Street, has rooms available for rent over Winter Session. Call 549-7759 for more information.

Live In Brandywine
1 room available in two bedroom apt. On bus route. Utilities included. Call Melissa ASAP at 549-7851.

Salem Place- 1 bedroom in 2 floor condo. 2 1/2 baths, fully furnished, carpeted, deck, basement storage. On bus route. Late Dec/Spring. Call John 256-0842.

Near Campus on Nutting Ave. Available Jan 1st. Call 549-9135.

Take Over My Lease! Jan-July '98. Moving to California in two weeks & need to find someone. 1 bedroom in 2 bedroom apt. Furnished, spacious, & clean. $345, all inclusive + electric+ @$15 per month. Awesome place, awesome roommate staying. Bus drops you off four doors from your own. Call Lori or Daniel @ 665-4149 till 11:30 at night.

North Amherst 3 bedroom apt. On bus route across from Town Houses. Space can be shared. Two cool roommates are easy-going. Starting Jan 1st. Call Joe at 549-5596.

ROOM FOR RENT

One nice room available in a four bedroom Alpine Commons apartment. Move in Jan 1 or possibly earlier. Two full bathrooms. On bus line. Great roommates! Apartment is fully furnished with the exception of the bedroom. $314.50/month. ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED! Please call Jenny at 253-2050 ASAP.

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom. Brandywine. For Spring/late December. Call Jeremy 549-6955.

Quiet Setting Kitchen privileges, laundry, parking, non-smoking. $335. 549-4853.

ROOMATE WANTED

Sunny room in farmhouse. Route 116. Grad student preferred. Call Dan 548-9379.

$180 a month for room in a cozy 4 bedroom house. 2nd bedroom available for $250. Seeking friendly mature roommates. Woodsy location. Deck overlooking large back yard. 2 dogs. Close to bike trail and bus route. 5 miles from Amherst. Call Amy or Sheldon 253-4826.

SERVICES

Have a pet? Going away for break? Pets-itting for cats or small animals, Amherst area. Leave message at 253-6689.

Pregnant? Need help? Call Birthright of Amherst Area for free testing and assistance. 549-1906.

TO SUBLET

On Bus Route Really spacious. Accomodates 2 to 4 people. Can start either 1/1 or 2/1. Une mile from campus. Call 253-1892.

Feb 1st 2 bedroom apt. On bus line to campus. $700 a month. Call 253-4621.

TRAVEL

ALTERNATIVE SPRING BREAK IN SC! Spend your Spring Break doing home repair for & with people of the Gullah culture. This week long trip is part of a class sponsored by the Inter-Religious Project. For more info call Emily at 546-4104.

SPRING BREAK '99
Student Travel Services is America's #1 Student Tour Operator.
Don't book with anyone else until you talk to us!!!
Cancun from $399.
Jamaica from $399.
Panama City from $119.
Daytona Beach from $139.
Student Travel Services
1-800-648-4849
www.ststravel.com
On Campus Contact:
Erich @ 413-549-5287
Jonah @ 413-549-8867
Dan @ 413-253-1341
George @ 413-546-4223

WANTED TO RENT

1 bedroom single occupancy apartment ASAP. Call Ty at 546-4214.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY

DUE TO OUR RAPID GROWTH, EXPANSION, AND PROMOTIONS, WE CURRENTLY HAVE THE FOLLOWING OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE:

PROFESSIONAL VEHICLE SALES CONSULTANT

Compensation:
Salary plus commission & bonus

Candidates must:
- Be able to operate a normally equipped vehicle.
- Have a valid drivers license, accept able driving record.
- Be able to read and write English (at or above high school level).
- Be honorable.
- Prior sales experience desirable.

We offer top compensation and a strong benefit package that includes:
- Medical and Dental Insurance Available
- Paid Holidays, Vacation, and Sick Leave
- Training and Advancement Opportunities
- Excellent Working Conditions
- Full Two Week Training!
- Recognition for a Job Well Done!
- Spiffs galore
- 40 hour work week

A management team committed to excitement, growth and client satisfaction

For more information or to submit an application, please visit 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays or send your resume or letter of application to:

Bill Richard, Gen. Sales Manager
(NO PHONE CALLS PLEASE)

NORTHAMPTON TOYOTA

Five College Community Calendar

MONDAY, DEC. 14

Meeting — There will be a general meeting of the Student Labor Action Coalition at 7 p.m. in the Women's Resource Center on the third floor of Davis Hall at Smith College.

Workshop — There will be a workshop on contraception and safer sex in room 302 of University Health Services at 3 p.m.

TUESDAY, DEC. 15

Meeting — The INDEX yearbook will hold a meeting at 6:30 p.m. in room 304 of the Student Union.

Study — There will be a "Stonewall Center Study Break," a chance to hang out, watch a movie, and eat snacks with friends at 7:30 p.m. in the Stonewall Center.

Workshop — There will be a workshop on contraception and safer sex in room 302 of University Health Services at 7 p.m.

Workshop — There will be a workshop on early American Shape-note singing from 7–9 p.m. in the Helen Hills Chapel at Smith College.

Meeting — The Marketing Club will hold its last meeting of the semester at 6:30 p.m. in SOM 102. Resumes will be collected from anyone interested in inclusion in next semester's resume book. Contact Shannon at 546-3008 for more information.

NOTICES

Community — The 1999 yearbooks are now on sale in room 304 of the Student Union. Call 545-0848 to order one.

Community — The Teacher Education Coordinating Council and the School of Education's Office of Teacher Education have information on the Mass. Educator Certification Tests in room 125 of Furcolo Hall. Contact Michael Schwartz at 545-2701 for more information.

Community — The Community Service Program, the Anthropology Department and the Honors Program are offering two courses for the spring which will address issues of grassroots development in rural Appalachia or the Midwest. Each course will be completed with a trip to Appalachia or a Midwestern city. Applications are due by Dec. 14, and space is limited. Call Malesh at 545-3368 or Art at 545-2483 for more details.

Submissions — Submissions are being accepted for the Spectrum Literary Magazine. The deadline is Feb. 12. Also searching for the 1998–99 cover contest winner. Deadline is the end of December. Call 5-4220 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed to train and facilitate workshops on contraception and sexually transmitted disease prevention during Spring semester 1999. Men and women needed. Contact Karen or Day at 577-5188 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed for the Massachusetts Substance Abuse Information and Education HELPLINE. For more information call (617) 536–0501 ext. 201 for more details.

Honors — Present your community service, thesis research, creative work, independent study or study abroad at a state-wide Conference on Undergraduate Research, Scholarly, Creative and Public Service Activities on Friday, April 30 at the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston. Applications, guidelines and information can be obtained at 504 Goodell. Deadline in March 1.

WE GIVE 100%™ Bookworks Everyday Discounts of 10% OFF! or More! On nearly every book in stock. We pass on 10% of our profits to Amherst University programs. Bookworks is a division of Mitzvah

Put the FUN back in fun reading!

MONDAY EVENING — C - Campus — DECEMBER 14, 1998

	C	6:00	6:30	7:00	7:30	8:00	8:30	9:00	9:30	10:00	10:30	11:00	11:30
WEDH	2	12	Wishbone ®	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer ®		Antiques Roadshow (In Stereo)		Legendary Lighthouses ®		ACLU: A History (In Stereo) ®		Globalization-Human Rights
WFSB	3	3	News ®	CBS News	Inside Edition	Hollywood Sq.	Cosby ®	King	Raymond	Becker ®	L.A. Doctors (In Stereo) ®	News ®	Late Show ®
WBZ	4	4	News ®	CBS News	Hollywood Sq.	Ent. Tonight	Cosby ®	King	Raymond	Becker ®	L.A. Doctors (In Stereo) ®	News ®	Late Show ®
WCVB	5	5	News ®	ABC News	Inside Edition	Chronicle ®	NFL Football: Detroit Lions at San Francisco 49ers (In Stereo Live) ®					News	Late Show ®
WLVI	6		Sister, Sister	Fresh Prince	Nanny ®	Friends ®	7th Heaven (In Stereo) ®		Hyperion Bay (R) (In Stereo) ®		News		News ®
WHDH	7		News	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! ®	Sudden-Susan	Caroline	Med Abt. You	Conrad Bloom	Dateline (In Stereo) ®		Nanny ®
WTXX	8	8	Home Imp.	Judge-Brown	Judge Judy ®	Judge Judy ®	Sudden-Susan	Caroline	Med Abt. You	Conrad Bloom	Dateline (In Stereo) ®	News	Tonight Show
WVIT	9	10	News	NBC News	Ent. Tonight	Herd Copy ®	Sudden-Susan	Caroline	Med Abt. You	Conrad Bloom	Dateline (In Stereo) ®	Newsradio ®	Married...With
WTIC	61	11	Simpsons ®	Friends ®	Seinfeld ®	Frasier ®	Melrose Place (In Stereo) ®		Ally McBeal (In Stereo) ®			News	Tonight Show
WWLP	22	22	News ®	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! ®	Sudden-Susan	Caroline	Med Abt. You	Conrad Bloom	Dateline (In Stereo) ®	News	Friends ®
WGBY	57	8	Creatures	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer ®		Helmut Lotti Goes Classic (In Stereo)					News ®	Tonight Show
WGGB	40	20	News ®	ABC News	Seinfeld ®	Frasier ®	NFL Football: Detroit Lions at San Francisco 49ers (In Stereo Live) ®					News ®	Charlie Rose (In Stereo) ®
WSBK	38		Judge Judy ®	Judge Judy ®	Seinfeld ®	Frasier ®	Malcolm-Eddie	Guys Like Us	Malcolm-Eddie	DiResta (R) ®	Med Abt. You	Mad Abt. You	News ®
WTBS	72		Family Matters	Family Matters	Roseanne ®	Roseanne ®	★★★ "Diamonds Are Forever" (1971, Adventure) Sean Connery, Jill St. John.						Frasier ®
A&E	45		Northern Exposure ®		Law & Order: "Family Values" ®		Biography: Montgomery Clift		Investigative Reports "Inside Scientology" ®				Cheers ®
CNN	43	23	Worldview ®	Moneyline Newshour ®		Crossfire ®	World Today ®		Larry King Live ®		Newsstand: Time (R) ®		Law & Order: Dualities ®
COM	35	29	Saturday Night Live ®		Daily Show (R)	Stein's Money	★★ "The Favor" (1994, Comedy)		Hedy Jane Kozak.		Dr. Katz: Pro...	Bob-Margaret	Sports
DISC	49		New House	Fix-It-Line (R)	Gimme Shelter		Incredible Journeys		Space Frontier		Reging Planet: "Forever" (R)		Daily Show
ESPN	51		Sportscenter	Monday Night Countdown			Swimming: World Cup						Justice Files ®
LIFE	69		Ellen ®	Ellen ®	Party of Five "Parent Trap" ®		Chicago Hope (In Stereo) ®		★★½ "Because Mommy Works" (1994, Drama) Anne Archer.		Bay Colony Dog Show		ESPNews
MTV	53		Countdown	Cut "Finale" (R) (In Stereo)			Road Rules	Road Rules	Road Rules	Road Rules	Road Rules	Fanatic	New Attitudes
NICK	46		Figure It Out	Secret of Alex	Doug ®	Rugrats ®	Hey Arnold! ®	Allen Strange	Brady Bunch	Wonder Years	Happy Days	Laverne	House of Style
SCIFI	59		Quantum Leap (In Stereo) ®		Sightings ®	Star Trek: That Which Survives ®			Sliders "Common Ground" ®		Welcome to Paradox (R) ®		I Love Lucy ®
TLC	68	28	Home Again	Home Again	Code 3 "Trapped"		Armageddon (R)		On the Brink... Doomsday (R)				Sightings ®
TNT	48		Babylon 5 "Exogenesis" ®		ER "Friendly Fire" (In Stereo) ®		WCW Monday Nitro (In Stereo Live) ®						Armageddon (R)
USA	62		Hercules: Legendary Jrnys.		Xena: Warrior Princess (R) ®		Walker, Texas Ranger ®		WWF Raw (In Stereo) ®				Mortal Kombat: Conquest ®
HBO	30		★½ "Excess Baggage" (1997) Alicia Silverstone. "PG-13" ®				★★★ "Under Siege" (1992, Adventure) Steven Seagal. "R" ®				WWF War Zone (In Stereo) ®		New York Undercover ®
MAX	67		(4:30)	★★½ "Pulse" (1998) Cliff DeYoung. "PG-13" ®			★½ "One Fine Day" (1996, Comedy) Michelle Pfeiffer. "PG" ®				★★★ "Winchell" (1998, Biography) Stanley Tucci (In Stereo) ®
SHOW	44		★★½ "In His Father's Shoes" (1997) Robert Richard. "PG" ®				★★★ "Grease" (1978, Musical) John Travolta (In Stereo) "PG" ®				Mean Guns" (1997) Christopher Lambert. "R" ®		"Dreammaster"
											★★½ "In the Company of Men" (1997) "R"		Compromising

2	HSCN Bulletin Board	18	The Learning Channel
3	CBS/3 Hartford	19	UVC-TV19
4	CBS/4 Boston	20	ABC/40 Springfield
5	ABC/5 Boston	21	Govel to Govel
6	PBS/57 Springfield	22	NBC/22 Springfield
7	HSCN Mowp Ch.	23	Sundance
8	UPN/20 Hartford	24	Bloomberg Financial
9	Weather Channel	25	CTN
10	NBC/30 New Britain	26	TBS
11	Fox/61 Hartford	28	BET
12	PBS/24 Hartford	29	TV Land
13	WOCH & HSCN	30	Univision
14	International	31	Comedy Central
15	UMass Academic TV	32	Cartoon
16	WB/New Haven	33	Much Music
17	HSCN Programming

Cathy By Cathy Guisewite

Robotman By Jim Meddick

Spunk By Mike LaRiccia

Dilbert By Scott Adams

Rose is Rose By Pat Brady

Foxtrot By Bill Amend

Non Sequitur By Wiley

Kampus Kids By Adam Souliere

Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Liberty Meadows By Frank Cho

Horoscopes

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) — Time is of the essence today. However, this doesn't mean that you have to rush through anything. On the contrary, you can do more at a leisurely pace.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) — Exploring options is what it's all about today. You won't feel truly satisfied until you know that you've tried everything within your reach.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) — It's important that you work well with professional partners today, even if it means setting aside any personal strife in order to do so.

PISCES (Feb. 19–March 20) — You'll be partly responsible for what happens to those around you today. You won't be able to claim that you had "no hand in it!"

ARIES (March 21–April 19) — You should be able to help someone else "see the light" today. The lessons he or she learns can be relearned by you and others at the same time.

TAURUS (April 20–May 20) — There's no reason why you cannot increase your profits at this time. If you look closely, you'll realize that you have many more options.

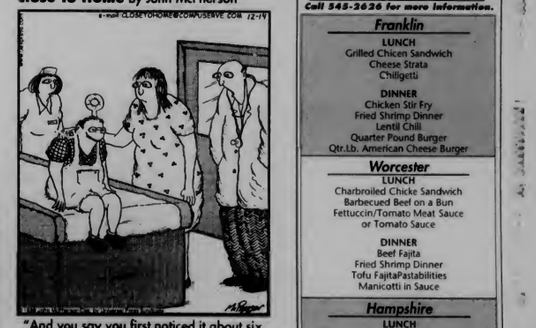
GEMINI (May 21–June 20) — Today, you may want to exercise your right to do absolutely nothing. Take care that you're not trying to dodge a responsibility.

CANCER (June 21–July 22) — Practicality is the key today, particularly when it comes to business decisions. Someone may think you're being harsh, but trust your instincts.

LEO (July 23–Aug. 22) — You don't want others to think that you're all talk and no action today, do you? Get down to business as soon as possible, and don't delay!

VIRGO (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) — As always, organization is the key to success today! You can benefit from putting yourself in someone else's shoes for awhile.

LIBRA (Sept. 23–Oct. 22) — You must be sure to consult those around you today before making any decisions that are likely to affect them as well as yourself. Be considerate.



SCORPIO (Oct. 23–Nov. 21) — A more easy-going, natural approach is exactly what can turn things around for you today. It'll make you feel like the world is your oyster!

Quote of the Day

"This is the way the paper ends, not with a bang, but a whimper..."

–Overheard

Close to Home By John McPherson

"And you say you first noticed it about six weeks ago when he started watching Teletubbies?"

ACROSS
1 — dots
6 Newborn's bed
10 Flog
14 In the midst of
15 Wear the crown
16 Irritate
17 Intolerable
19 What George couldn't tell
20 Mona
21 — -armed bandit
22 Daily
24 Ship's floor
26 Soil
27 Climbs (a rope)
29 Livestock raisers
33 Nasal tone
34 Asian country
35 Singer Damone
36 Golf great Patty
37 Sheds tears
38 Daddy
39 Foot
40 Swimming areas
41 Passenger
42 He and she
44 Baker's unit
45 — Minor constellation
46 Hotel name
47 Squirm
50 Type of bran
51 Shade trees
55 Excited
56 State of financial security
59 Secret language
60 Singer Guthrie
61 Tropical wire
62 Horse gait
63 "— my word!"
64 Milky Way, for one

DOWN
1 Klee or Reiser
2 Prefix for "potent"
3 Some tennis shots
4 Doing a baking chore
5 Turkish official
6 Type of call?
7 Cartoonist Goldberg
8 Wis. neighbor
9 Direct routes
10 Apparition
11 Sword handle
12 Netsider Nastase
13 Equal
18 Mythical birds
23 Killer whale
25 Pt. of ESL
26 Challenges
27 Take an oath
28 Groucho's brother
29 Agitates
30 Avoid cleverly
31 Become mature
32 Blemish
33 Cook's meas.
34 Swedish money unit
37 Undersea explorer Jacques —
38 Pie place
40 Tiny opening
41 Spoil
43 Small lump of gold
44 Telegraph signals
46 Synthetic fabric
47 It's true!
48 Frankenstein's helper
49 Extinct bird
50 Scandinavian city
52 Thin
53 Repair
54 Remain
57 Dada founder
58 RN's specialty

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

C	L	A	N		B	A	L	S	A		W	A	V	Y
R	O	V	E		A	B	E	T	S		E	L	I	A
G	E	E		S	O	N	I	A		A	D	A	M
W	O	R	D	S	Q	U	A	R	E		P	A	L	S
			L	O	U				T	O	O
K	N	E	E	L	E	D		L	I	N	N	E	T	S
N	O	R	S	E		R	E	A	C	T		L	I	T
O	B	I	S		D	O	W	N	S		M	A	M	A
T	L	C		B	I	P	E	D		O	A	T	E	R
S	E	A	B	A	S	S		S	A	L	V	E	R	S
		Y	A	P			G	E	E
J	O	W	L		U	P	F	O	R	G	R	A	B	S
I	D	E	A		T	U	L	L	E		I	L	T	E
V	I	E	W		E	R	O	D	E		C	O	L	E
E	N	D	S		D	R	E	S	S		K	E	L	P

Today's D.C. Menu
Call 545-2626 for more information.

Franklin
LUNCH
Grilled Chicen Sandwich
Cheese Strata
Chiligetti
DINNER
Chicken Stir Fry
Fried Shrimp Dinner
Lentil Chili
Quarter Pound Burger
Qtr.Lb. American Cheese Burger

Worcester
LUNCH
Charbroiled Chicke Sandwich
Barbecued Beef on a Bun
Fettuccin/Tomato Meat Sauce or Tomato Sauce
DINNER
Beef Fajita
Fried Shrimp Dinner
Tofu FajitaPatasabilities
Manicotti in Sauce

Hampshire
LUNCH
Hamburger on a Roll
Chickn Cutlet Sandwich
American Chop Suey
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
DINNER
Beef Fajita
Ravioli with Tomato Sauce

Berkshire
LUNCH
Hamberger on a Roll
Rotini w/Tomato Sauce
Golden Burger
DINNER
Beef Fajita
Fried Shrimp Dinner
Tofu
Fajita
Pasabilities

Night Editor — Casey Kane
Photo Technician — Kara Stokes
Copy Editor — Nicole Racicot
Production Supervisor — Jeremy Brothers
Production Staff — Allen Mackey, Lisa Metcalf

SPORTS weekend

Monday, December 14, 1998

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

UM heads to finals

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Todd Bankhead helped lead UMass to a 41–31 victory over Northwestern State in the NCAA Division I–AA semi– finals.

By Brett Mauser
Collegian Staff

NATCHITOCHES, La. — Move over, Cindy.

The way things are going now for the Massachusetts football team, the real Cinderella may have to do something a little more spectacular, because right now, the college football world is scratching its head and saying, "Wait a minute, what about these UMass guys?"

And the scariest part of all is that they're not even done yet.

No way. Not just yet.

A second–half surge for the ages, scoring 27 points and holding the second–ranked Northwestern State Demons to 10 points, propelled the Minutemen to a 41–31 win and to a date with Georgia Southern in the Division I–AA national championship.

UMass scored touchdowns on three consecutive drives to put the game out of reach, capitalizing on two NSU turnovers.

Down 24–21 with 10:41 left in the third quarter, senior leadership took over. Fifth–year linebacker Khari Samuel picked off a Brad Spangler pass and returned it to the UMass 49–yard–line. On the next play, Todd Bankhead found senior fullback Matt Jordan wide open on the right sideline, for a scoring pass that swayed the momentum in the Minutemen's favor.

"It was a great effort by our guys in the second half," UMass coach Mark Whipple said. "We had great leadership from our senior class. It really came down to determination that the team has given all year."

Jordan's touchdown would be the first before the floodgates would open in the fourth quarter. The Demons turned the ball over on downs on their next possession following the score. The Minutemen, in turn, marched 64 yards on eight rushing plays, capped by a 24–yard touchdown run by Marcel Shipp.

The icing came when the Demons needed two scoring drives in less than three minutes; but on their first play, UMass linebacker Chris Price stripped Tony Taylor at the NSU 10–yard line. Bankhead scored in the final minute with his second rushing touchdown of the afternoon.

"That one made me feel a lot better until they dumped the water on me," Whipple said. "I've been in too many games where crazy things can happen, but we finished it off the way you should."

The Demons would convert on only 2–of–12 third downs, including none in six tries in the second half. They had three possessions in UMass territory in the second frame, and could only muster up a Thomas LaToof 29–yard field goal.

"Somehow we just found a way. The ball bounced right for us in the fourth quarter," Whipple said. "I haven't questioned our effort all year, but I thought we had a perfect half in the second half."

Northwestern State broke a 14–14 tie and took a seven– point lead before halftime when Brian Jacquet finished off a 79–yard drive with a one–yard plunge.

After Bankhead put the Minutemen on the board first with a 1–yard scoring run, the only score of the first quarter, misfortune would hit the UMass sideline. After Marcel Shipp ran 20 yards to the NSU eight, the Minutemen were hit with a 15–yard personal foul, and then tacked on a false start penalty, to back themselves up to the 28–yard line. Consequenily, Jason Cherry missed a 32–yard field goal.

On the next possession, Kenny Wright picked off Bankhead at the UMass 29, which the Demons turned into a touchdown and a 14–7 lead at the 13:13 mark of the second quarter, when Spangler found Eric Granger over the middle.

The UMass defense corralled Spangler seven times, with five coming from Dan Schneider, who had only three other tackles on the afternoon.

"He was just all over the place and created a lot of pressure," Whipple said of Schneider. "It seemed like we had Spangler on the run a lot with just a four–man rush."

Bankhead threw for 237 yards and two scoring passes to go along with his pair of touchdown runs. Spangler threw for two touchdowns also, but was held to 2–for–9 passing in the fourth quarter, with one coming on a 45–yarder to Nathan Black with only eight ticks remaining on the game clock, to close out the scoring column.

Linebacker Kole Ayi, the team's leading tackler in the regular season, left the game after nursing an injury all week. Dan Healey, a running back converted to linebacker and predominantly special teams in this past off–season, spelled Ayi and made five tackles in less than a half of play.

Next weekend, the Minutemen take on Georgia Southern, which defeated Western Illinois, 42–14. UMass goes to its first national championship game since 1978, which it lost, 35–28, to Nevada.

"The guys know that they're good enough," Whipple said. "There's still something left. Today isn't like the euphoria that we'd feel next week."

Men's b–ball whips BC

UMass rolls despite Ketner's benching

By Aaron Saykin
Collegian Staff

WORCESTER — Although the location may have been a bit different, this was a Boston Massacre of sorts... and this time around, it was the Minutemen doing all of the killing.

If anything, we learned two things after the Massachusetts men's basketball team whipped state–rival Boston College 75–45 Saturday night at the Worcester Centrum: that UMass can completely dominate a sub–par opponent, and that the Eagles were, without a doubt, a sub–par opponent at best.

Before the opening tip–off, one could sense that this contest would not be the typical Minuteman affair. To begin with, the members of the team appeared to be much more confident than their 1–4 start indicated after nearly knocking off No. 1 UConn last week. Secondly, UMass (2–4) was without the services of senior center Lari Ketner, who was benched by coach Bruiser Flint for violating team rules.

The end result — a new–look squad whose usually quiet players stole the spotlight in Ketner's absence. Enter Chris Kirkland, who jumped into the starting line–up for Ketner and scored a career–high 14 points and grabbed 11 rebounds en route to arguably his finest performance in a UMass uniform.

"[Ketner didn't play because] he broke team rules. I'm not going to get into that," Flint said of the benching. "He just broke them and he didn't play. The most difficult part of being a coach is letting an 18–20–year–old [player] control your destiny because you don't know what you're doing... what you try to do is help them learn through experiences and help them so they'll be better as they grow. He did something wrong, and he knew he wasn't going to play. That was it."

Left to pick up the slack at the center position, Flint utilized a one–two punch of Ajmal Basit and Kitwana Rhymer. As luck would have it for Rhymer, the fast pace of the game favored the sleek and slender–framed freshman, who thrived in his role off the bench with a career–best seven points, 10 rebounds and two blocks in 17 minutes of action.

"We just saw, with Lari sitting down, that we needed to step up, you know, because Lari is a big factor in the games," Rhymer said. "We just had to push ourselves and play even harder than we normally do."

As for Boston College, the program has fallen upon hard times indeed. Seven minutes into the contest, and trailing by a score of only 6–4, it appeared as though Al Skinner's Eagles would be a formidable opponent, holding the Minuteman offense in check and keeping the game at a controlled pace. But once UMass junior guard Monty Mack scored 10 consecutive points, the massacre had completely begun.

"It's the state rivalry. They've got some hard times now because of what happened in the past," Flint said of BC. "Plus, we've got some Massachusetts guys on the team, so this is big for them... we played well against them, and I hope it continues."

After suffering from poor outside shooting syndrome against the Huskies last Wednesday, Mack missed his first three shots against the Eagles before settling down. He responded strongly, scoring a game–high 21 points on 8–for– 14 shooting from the field and 50 percent accuracy from three–point range.

"I just went out there and took the shots they gave me," said Mack, who believed that the aggressive offensive play of teammate Mike Babul opened up many shots for him. "Mike was penetrating into their zone, and I was getting some good looks."

Turn to WHIPS, page 12

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Mike Babul's defense was key in helping UMass to a 75– 45 win over Boston College at the Worcester Centrum.

Misty–eyed Collegian memories of a semester past

To all our professors, who never saw us this semester, to all our loyal fans and to mom and dad, this is where your tuition money is going: This is what we did this semester.

Quarterback

Michael Kobylanski — With all due respect to Mike Macauley for borrowing his term, this semester was in fact, one word — legendary.

Not for the primary reason that I traveled all across this great land of ours over the past three months. I have enough material that could last me a lifetime, but I'm going to try to condense it as much as possible.

It's almost amazing that my GPA is going to be a 3.0 with everything that's been going on. I figured out quickly that my priorities were a little out of whack on the first day of classes, when I dropped one because I wanted to go to Hockey East Media Day.

But anyway...

Little did I know that my trip to Colorado with the beautiful women's soccer team was just the beginning. I realized that being the sports editor has its advantages right about the time when I was sitting at Tarah's house eating ribs and thinking about all my poor peons who were back in Amherst.

Overall, that was a pretty good trip except for the fact that I lost my Jimmy Buffett 'Beaches' CD. Anyone want to buy me a Christmas present?

Next we move on to the day Teves and I could never catch up on, Oct. 6. By the time we came close, the Minutewomen beat URI and It was three in the morning. If you want the details, read Teves' thoughts.

The biggest journey of them all was next on the list. Somewhere in Colorado I came up with this hair–brained scheme and figured that it would be a good idea to spend a weekend in Ohio and Michigan. And how good of and idea it was — except for all that damn driving.

Fifteen hours to Cincinnati and another five to East Lansing. Norwood's Drive–Thru Pony Keg was definitely the highlight of the trip. At least I'll be 21 the next time I head out there.

I don't think I'll ever forget the atmosphere at Munn Arena at Michigan State, or the sketchiness of the Econo Lodge in South Dayton. At least the car didn't get stolen.

The trip concluded back in Dayton after another four–hour drive in the car. I learned it always rains in Dayton, and that if the Minutewomen didn't come through on that dreary Sunday afternoon, I would've been very pissed off on the way back.

By the way, Kara, I didn't see you waving from the plane on the way home.

The dedication continued when I decided to drive to Olean, N.Y. to see the St. Bonaventure game on the last day of the season. I got one word for you — god–awful.

The fact that I almost ran out of gas on I–16 was reason enough to make me horrified. Rural New York is just atrocious any way you look at it.

Olean is indeed exactly what I was told it was — brown. Just brown. The Castle Inn was definitely a treat. Anyone want to play a round of golf? Watching Cori get pissed when North Carolina lost was pretty funny too. Did I forget to mention UMass won the game?

There haven't been too many road trips so far for hockey other than the MSU excursion, Boston and Durham, N.H. These have been the only other highlights to date. I might be feeling a Kalamazoo run. You never know.

Moving over to the props section of the story, I've got to mention Tim here because I told him I would. No more stupid comments, please. To coach Whipple and the UMass football team, I learned miracles can and do happen. See you in Chattanooga and bring home the title.

Now it's time for all the thanks. To coach Rudy, Rachel, Jorma and every–

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

B–Ballers and Shot Callers

The sports editors, from left to right, Seth Koenig, Aaron Saykin, Michael Kobylanski and Paul Teves do their part in rooting on UMass as the team heads to the NCAA finals.

Turn to MISTY, page 12

UMass hockey squad has been a pleasant surprise

DURHAM, N.H. — If there is one thing that the Massachusetts hockey team has proven over the first half of the season, it's that a date on the schedule with the Minutemen isn't a cakewalk anymore.

And if you don't believe me, the hockey teams from Michigan State, Colorado College, Maine and every Hockey East school will confirm what I have already said.

After being projected to finish dead last in the conference at Hockey East Media Day, UMass (4–9–1, 2–5–1 in the conference) has been one of the biggest surprises so far. With the exception of Saturday night's affair with New Hampshire, the Minutemen have been in every single game so far. The Maroon and White have lost four one–goal games and haven't dropped a game by a margin of more than three goals so far.

"We've done very well in the first half. We were projected to finish last in the conference and after tomorrow [Sunday night's game against UNH] we'll have played seven of our first 15 games against ranked opponents," UMass hockey coach Joe Mallen said. "That's a pretty tough schedule."

A challenging schedule was something that Mallen and Massachusetts Athletic Director Bob Marcum tried to piece together in the offseason, and they accomplished that goal. Besides playing in the toughest conference in the nation, UMass has also played road games against Michigan State and Colorado College, both of whom were 1997–98 NCAA tournament participants.

"At least it [the schedule] gives us a chance because we already have two done with Maine, [Boston University] and [New Hampshire]," Mallen said.

Depsite the lackluster record, the Minutemen have proven that they aren't a team that can be taken lightly. They took Michigan State and Colorado College down to the wire before giving up late third period goals that sealed those games, and also could've easily swept a pair from BU last weekend if it weren't for some unfortunate bounces.

And we can't forget the magical weekend of Nov. 13 and 14, No. 4 Maine came into the William D. Mullins Center on its high horse looking to sweep two from the Minutemen.

Forty–eight hours later, thanks to the spectacular play of Markus Helanen, UMass came away with a win and a tie over the Black Bears. Those two setbacks are the only blemish on Maine's 10–1–1 record, and I'm sure Shawn Walsh and his bunch have Jan. 17 — the day when UMass heads to Orono, Maine to face

Turn to PLAY, page 12

The Massachusetts

DAILY COLLEGIAN

Volume CV Issue 1 | New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 | Tuesday, January 26, 1999

Scott revokes vouchers

GEO, students scramble for funds

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

In a surprising turn of events, Chancellor David K. Scott has revoked an emergency housing voucher program he approved in December and rejected a student request to provide emergency funding for undergraduate students cut off from welfare this month.

Members of the Graduate Employee Organization (GEO), the Graduate Student Senate, and Undergraduates United for Educational Opportunities met with Scott on Dec. 30 to ask that he provide $225,000 in housing vouchers for the estimated 100 undergraduates whose welfare benefits are due to end this year, and an additional $50,000 in emergency cash assistance.

Scott originally agreed to consider the request, but later refused to fund the program on the grounds that the University cannot spend state money to circumvent welfare legislation. He also revoked a previously approved $50,000 housing voucher program negotiated by graduate students for the same reason.

"One plan that had been under consideration was for an emergency housing voucher program. This will not be implemented as proposed," Scott wrote in a Jan. 6 letter addressed to the University Community.

Chris DeVries, vice president of the Graduate Student Senate, said he is "upset, outraged, and confused" by the Chancellor's decision.

"The mission of this University should be to educate all members of the public, regardless of how much they make," he said.

In the Jan. 6 letter, Scott assured the University community that, "While the University cannot resolve the loss of welfare benefits or solve all of the financial emergencies of its students, we are committed to do everything possible to help students stay in school and keep pursuing their educational goals."

In a recent phone interview Scott added, "I am very concerned and I think my policies and actions as Chancellor have shown my concern."

Scott also said he understands the situation of low income students. "I could not have gone to the university without financial aid."

As an alternative to the proposed emergency funds and voucher program, Scott in his letter encouraged "all students with emergency financial needs... to go to the financial aid office for individual assessment and advice."

But according to Jennifer Fasulo, a member of the Educational Access Committee of the Graduate Student Senate, "This suggestion is completely impractical for students with children who already have maximum-need financial aid packages and higher loan debts than the average student."

"We're sensitive to this situation and therefore wanted to expediate the process to see if there is anything possible we could do," said Interim Director of Financial Aid Kenneth W. Burnham. "We will be reviewing each application on a case by case basis. But generally I would say that students who have been affected [by welfare cut offs] have been given a financial aid package which... would be considered one our best packages. There's not much wiggle room.

"It's very difficult for people in financial aid who want to help but have their hands tied," he added. "There's not much we can do, as much as we want to. At least we'll extend the effort to try our best."

At the end of last semester, GEO urged the administration to immediately release $200,000 negotiated in

Turn to WELFARE, page A3

Benefit cuts hurt many

Yomara Velez was one of the estimated 100 undergraduate students who were supposed to get cut off from welfare benefits in December. But she was able to extend the cut-off date for a few extra months by getting off assistance during the summer while doing an internship in New York, and working until November.

"The months that I was cut off it was hard to survive," she said, "and once I went back on assistance they cut down my food stamps. It's horrible. The time limit is really putting a time restriction on higher education.

"It's really impossible for a single parent to go to school full time, work full-time, and take care of their children," she added. "Welfare reform is limiting their opportunities to get an education. Why should their opportunities be limited?"

Velez also lost childcare vouchers as a result of welfare reform, and almost dropped out of school. She was living in family housing and had no one to look after her four-year- old son, Keanu.

Luckily, Velez became part of a loose network of parents willing to look after each other's children, and was able to continue her education. In fact, she has managed to complete her degree in four years, graduating this May

Turn to CUTS, page A3

COURTESY J. ANTHONY ROBERTS

National Champions!

Seniors on the UMass Football team celebrate their National Championship victory. For full coverage, see Sports, section C.

Freshman dies after accident

Jesse C. Caulfield, 21, of South Salem, N.Y., died unexpectedly on Wednesday, Dec. 23 as a result of internal injuries sustained during a car accident.

Caulfield was a first year student at the University of Massachusetts. He lived in Cashin Hall, and studied arboriculture and park management in the Stockbridge School of Agriculture.

According to Trooper Harrison of the South Salem Police Department, Caulfield was travelling south on New York State Rt 124 in South Salem at approximately 1 a.m. when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel, and crossed onto the other side of the road. Harrison says he believes Caulfield then woke up and was attempting to regain control of the car when it struck a tree sideways, impacting the driver-side door.

He was flown by helicopter to North Westchester Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

The case is still under investigation, but according to Harrison there is no indication that drugs or alcohol were involved in the accident.

Funeral arrangements have not been released but Stockbridge School of Agriculture Dean Nancy Garrabrants said that a memorial tree will be planted in Caulfield's memory this spring.

Chaplains and other resources are available to students, faculty, and staff through the Dean of Students office in Whitmore at 545-2684.

— Stacey Shackford

Trial for President: Is he all but gone?

By Laura Forster
Collegian Staff

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The uncertainty which resonated throughout the Capitol Building in the first week of the trial still lingers as the House Counsel presents its defense to the charges of perjury and obstruction of justice brought against 42nd President William Jefferson Clinton.

Coming onto the third week, trial proceedings have experienced biting arguments as the 13 Republican House Managers made their case appealing to the founding fathers framework and past cases of perjury by judges and officials, in response to the prosecution, the House Counsel defense has worked to show Clinton's actions do not carry the weight of removal from office.

The most pressing debate, primarily divided on party lines, asks about the definition of "sexual relations" and a determination of whether the President's allegations constitute "high crimes and misdemeanors."

University of Massachusetts political science professor Jerome M. Mileur says what constitutes a 'high crime and misdemeanor' is not an easy question to answer.

"It is intended to set very high standards that would suggest the President would be a threat to the Constitution and continued good health of the nation," said Mileur. "In the end, it's really a political decision."

A Democrat, Mileur feels perjury does not fit into the definition of "high crimes and misdemeanors," although he says it's also not a case where a certain crime can fit into the definition, but a decision the Senate and Congress must make.

So far, Mileur feels the Republicans have based a large part of their testimony on assertions, which the House Counsel has been using against them.

"I thought all along the crimes or acts [alleged against Clinton] did not rise to the standard of impeachment. At the same time, a President who lies to the people, Congress and Supreme Court should honorably resign," said Mileur.

According to Mileur, if found guilty of one or both of the perjury and obstruction of justice charges, the President will be immediately removed from office. However, indictment is another possibility, in which the President would be called

Turn to TRIAL, page A10

Smoke still settling

Bar owners headed to court over ban

By Jill Carroll
Collegian Staff

The dispute between the Town of Amherst and local bar owners over a smoking ban implemented last July may have to be settled in the courts.

Owners of D-lano's, The Spoke and the Old Amherst Ale House have jury trials set for this spring for refusing to pay tickets issued for violations of the smoking ban.

Seperate trials will be held for each ticket issued that was not paid in 21 days. The fees for the tickets range from $100 for a first offense to $300 for three or more offenses.

According to a pre-trial conference report, Marielana Dinatale, owner of Mike's Westview, had a jury trial yesterday for a non-criminal, smoking ban violation ticket issued July 17, 1998. The verdict of the trial was not available at the time of print.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Because of a smoking ban in Amherst bars, patrons must smoke outside.

Dinatale will be arraigned Feb. 19 for more two tickets issued last fall.

Douglas LeBlanc, owner of The Spoke, will also be arraigned Feb. 19 for two unpaid tickets.

According to court documents, LeBlanc will have four jury trials in April. Pre-trial conference reports stated that the fees of three of the four tickets were reduced but none of the four were paid in 21 days.

The owner of the Old Amherst Ale House, Eugene O'Neil, is going to be heading into the courtroom this spring also, with two jury trials in April.

"None of these bars have had or currently have any problems with the town before the smoking ban. These are not outlaw bars," Winniman said.

None of the bars are in danger of having their food licenses revoked as some bars did last fall over a weekend.

"I would like to think someone in the town of Amherst thinks it's ridiculous to shut down a bar because a patron smoked," said Steven Winniman, the attorney representing the four bars.

Winniman also represents Amherst bars that have not been issued tickets but are fighting the ban in the legal system.

"There is pending litigation between bars not issued tickets and the town," Winniman said.

But a verdict is not the only way to solve the dispute Winniman said.

"Maybe a realistic discussion will open up and there wouldn't be a need for trial," he said. "The bars have tried many times."

While no new tickets have been issued according to Marlene Leach, tobacco control coordinator, the Board of Health has stepped up efforts to enforce the ban.

Two individuals were hired recently to randomly enter bars and check for smokers.

Leach wouldn't give specific times or locations where the two would be but said they can appear at any bar at any time. She said the observers will be issuing a report of their findings to the Board of Health.

"[There is] still not supposed to be smoking. Nobody's being threatened with having [food service] permits suspended," Leach said. "I think some people are really trying. Some are being more successful than others."

Since the smoking ban was meant to keep bars' patrons and staff from breathing cigarette smoke, alternate health-friendly ideas have been proposed that would still allow patrons to keep lighting up.

Last December a proposal was brought before the Board to allow smoking if a proper air filtering system was

Turn to SMOKE, page A9

Hacker hits campus over break

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

Police officials anticipate that court action will be sought against at least one individual for allegedly hacking into a female student's computer account and uploading pornographic photographs onto her computer screen.

Although the case is still under investigation and charges have yet to be filed, UMass Chief of Police John Luippold was able to release limited information about the case.

According to Luippold, the incident took place shortly before the beginning of the January break. A female student filed a complaint with the UMass Police Department, alleging that someone had accessed her account from a remote computer while she was online, uploaded pornographic materials, and manipulated the CD-ROM drive of her computer, making it open and close continuously.

The police investigated the incident, assisted by the Office of Information Technologies (OIT) and the State Police.

"By focusing on the technical aspects and looking at her computer, we were able to determine that someone had tampered with her account," Luippold said.

At that point, the UMass Police Department contacted the State Police and worked with OIT to trace the IP number, or computer address, of the suspect's computer. The police then obtained a search warrant, and confiscated computer equipment from the suspect's room on campus.

The incident raises many questions about the ability of students to unlawfully access other accounts online and the role of OIT to warn network users about potential risks — and to prevent further incidents from taking place.

"We want our system to be an accessible, flexible, open environ-

Turn to OIT, page A3

Student Jeffrey Lyle dies

Jeffrey K. Lyle, 39, of 28 Garfield Rd., Easthampton, died Wednesday, Dec. 23 in the Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton. The cause of death is unknown.

A University Without Walls student, he graduated from Bunker Hill Community College in Boston, and had been attending the University of Massachusetts for three years. He was a U.S. Air Force veteran and served as a medical material specialist for four years. He was also a nuclear medical technician in radiology, and was involved in the work program at the Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Leeds.

He is survived by a daughter, Elysia Lyle of Milford, his parents, John K. and Patricia (Willard) Lyle of Statesville, N.C., two brothers, four sisters and numerous nieces and nephews.

— Stacey Shackford

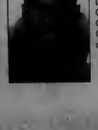
EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Wednesday	Thursday
HIGH: 37 LOW: 22	HIGH: 40 LOW: 25	HIGH: 42 LOW: 27

Cutting off the short cut

Hadley town officials are considering making part of the back-road short cut from Northampton to Amherst into one-way streets, which could affect thousands of commuters each day.

NEWS PAGE A2



Worth the wait

This year promises to be a year of long-anticipated arrivals: the new Star Wars, the Austin Powers sequel, new albums from Nine Inch Nails and The Fugees, and more. Check out our preview.

ARTS PAGE B1

We are the champions

Khari Samuel and the Massachusetts football team captured the Division I-AA National Championship in Chattanooga, Tenn. Check out the game coverage.

SPORTS PAGE A1

Arts & Living B1
Editorial A4
News A2
Sports C1

ON THE INTERNET
www.dailycollegian.com

Zoning Board and Pruddy's bar at odds concerning private club

By Jill Carroll
Collegian Staff

It could be "members only" from now on at Pruddy's restaurant and bar as the space is planned to be used for a private club.

The One and All Society of International Souls (OASIS) Club is a non-profit, social, as well as socially active club, that will be opening this winter if the Town of Amherst approves the club's use of the space and member cards are printed.

The name OASIS stands for the all-inclusive atmosphere that the club will have.

"This club doesn't care if you're a student or what color you are," said Prudencio Gomez Sr., public relation liaison for OASIS and treasurer of Matchete Corporation, which owns Pruddy's. "We're thinking of having a youth center for minority kids in this town."

To become a member an individual needs to pay a $15 fee and have a relative who was not born in the United States like a grandfather or great–grandfather. The fee would fund things like the youth center or a scholarship fund for college students.

Having a private club would mean laws that restrict public establishments would not apply to the OASIS Club. There would be no restriction on hours of operation or what activities took place within the club.

"It's part of a corporation where public laws don't apply," Gomez said.

The club could spell the end of Pruddy's or at least a change in who enters its doors.

According to Gomez, the restaurant's space and equipment will either be sold to the OASIS Club or Pruddy's will stay in existence and the club will use the restaurant's space.

Serving alcohol caused Pruddy's trouble last summer when the restaurant was shut down for serving minors. The OASIS Club isn't currently thinking about serving alcohol. But Gomez said members of the club can bring in what they want.

"That's not in the picture," Gomez said. "Maybe later on we'll ask for a liquor license."

Gomez said the OASIS Club is legally a corporation filed through the Secretary of State. The only thing left to do before the OASIS Club can open is to get Pruddy's approved for use by a private club by the Town of Amherst.

"We want to start clean with the town," he said.

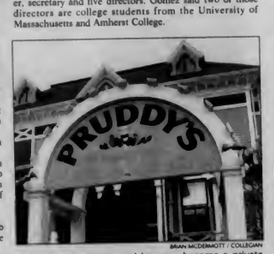
Gomez said even if the town does not approve the club to use the space, Pruddy's will lease the space to the OASIS Club.

"We don't have to go before the Zoning Board to approve us... If they don't approve it I can lease it to them [the OASIS Club]," Gomez said. "We want the town to approve the place. We want to give them a chance to say OK."

However Amherst Planning Director Bob Mitchell, said that is not so.

"No, He can't... It's the change that needs approval," Mitchell said.

Pruddy's is currently operating while its zoning permit is under appeal.



"[Pruddy's is] operating under a zoning permit that has expired. They tried to renew and the zoning board denied it. Pruddy's appealed. They can serve food within the permitted hours. That's it," said Amherst Building Commissioner William Starr.

The permit was denied, Starr said, because the establishment "didn't fit in with the community" it was in, citing the nearby Clark House which provides housing for the elderly.

The club is designed, Gomez said, to provide a place for "underserved" individuals in Amherst to meet.

"For us the underserved people are the students, smokers, old people, minority people, women... having a group of people that are going to have some clout. When Pruddy talks, nobody listens, but when you get 200 people talking people listen," Gomez said.

If the OASIS Club forms, Belinda Castro, Gomez's wife, will be the president. It will also be governed by a treasurer, secretary and five directors. Gomez said two of those directors are college students from the University of Massachusetts and Amherst College.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Pruddy's restaurant and bar may become a private club.

Popular short cut seen as hazard; one–way streets may be solution

By Jill Carroll
Collegian Staff

Thousands of motorists going to Northampton may have to start battling traffic on Route 9 as a proposal goes before the Hadley Select Board designed to stop commuters from using local backroads through Hadley.

"Commuters drive down the roads and residents observed they are going faster than the posted speed limit," said Robin Crosbie, a Hadley town administrator. "It's not a highway, but people are treating it like it is. That's why we have [expanded] Route 9. That's why we have 116."

Hadley Selectman Alan Jacque will bring a proposal to the Hadley Selectboard at one of the next two meetings to make one of the local backroads used in the short cut one–way to reduce the heavy flow of traffic through the residential and rural area.

The short cut which encompasses North Lane, West Street, Cemetery Road and Crosspath Road is used by thousands of commuters each day trying to avoid Route 9 congestion when heading to and from Northampton.

The Selectman said he is making the proposal because the roads weren't meant to handle the large volume of traffic and speeding motorists.

Jacque is proposing to make Crosspath, the final road in the short cut heading toward Northampton, one–way to cut down on the traffic.

"Something has to be done. The town has to do something," Jacque said.

Residents living on the streets used in the short–cut would be in support of reducing the traffic.

"That would be good. Our cat got hit by a car," said Ryen Bridge, who has lived on Cemetery Road for 10 months. "They go way too fast. It's pretty annoying."

One individual, Chris Keller, who often visits friends on West Street, has also seen problems caused by motorists on the road.

"She got hit by a car," said Keller motioning to the dog at his side. "It is such a problem."

While Jacque is using his power to try and stop the traffic, he feels the situation could be solved by removing a stoplight.

"If they eliminate that stoplight [after the Coolidge bridge heading toward Northampton] it would be fine. But we can't do anything about it," Jacque said.

The traffic light is under the authority of the state and Jacque said the "jugheads in Boston" have dragged their feet in addressing the traffic problem.

Jacque said a many of the motorists are students but the majority are individuals commuting to work.

Other ideas have been introduced to the Hadley Select Board to curb the flow but were rejected.

"It's come before the board two times the board rejected both proposals," Crosbie said.

She said the proposals were rejected because they would inhibit the travel of local farm vehicles and emergency equipment.

A study was done by the Pioneer Valley Planning Commission (PVPC) in September 1998 that counted the traffic on the roads.

It showed that far more cars drove on the short cut in the direction heading towards Northampton than in the other direction.

Amir Kouzehkanani, a senior transportation planner for the PVPC, said the report found that on West Street for example, 2,630 cars use the short–cut heading toward Northampton while 1,162 use it going the other direction in an average day.

He also said on Cemetery Road, which leads to Crosspath Road, 2,575 cars head toward Northampton and 1,440 travel toward Amherst.

"Take the numbers on Cemetery and it's pretty much what you see on Crosspath," Kouzehkanani said.

During a football game on a weekend the study found 1,866 cars traveling towards Northampton. There were 1,436 traveling in the opposite direction towards Amherst on North Lane.

The speed limits on the roads range from 15 miles per hour to 40 mph.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Crosspath Road may become a one–way road to reduce commuter traffic.

STRENGTH • FLEXIBILITY • CONDITIONING
CARDIO KICKBOXING
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB • 256-0000
Mon @ 5:30
Thurs @ 4:45
Fri @ 4:15
Sat @ 2:00
www.amherstathletic.com

There is still plenty of time left. Come down and write for news. Contact Laura Forester at 545-1762. It could change your life.

The Massachusetts DAILY COLLEGIAN
New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967
is hiring for the Spring Semester

If you are looking for a campus job, look no further. The Collegian has many opportunities in diverse fields.

Stop by our office in the Campus Center and inquire about jobs in the News, Business, or Graphics departments.

Advertising Sales, Business Management, Classifieds Sales, Computer Graphics, Finance, Human Resources, Marketing, News Reporting, Diversity Coverage, Photography, Web Design

The Collegian is an Equal Opportunity Employer

new improved editions– makes learnin' 120% faster!
textbooks to go!
free delivery
buy online • new and used • save up to 40%
big words
www.bigwords.com

■ welfare

continued from page A1

the GEO contract for recruitment and retention of low income students to assist approximately 20 graduate students in danger of losing their welfare benefits. But the contract was tied up in the state legislature and the administration refused to grant the amount until the entire contract was approved.

"The administration claims that the money cannot be released until our wage increase money comes onto campus from the legislature," GEO President Emily LaBarbera– Twarog stated in a December press release. She argued that legislative approval was "a sure thing," and that "the contract specifically states that it would be released when our raises are funded in accordance with the Massachusetts labor law." However, according to Amherst State Representative Ellen Story, a Dec. 17 article about the $200,000 recruitment and retention funds printed in the Springfield Union News sparked controversy in the state legislature and temporarily blocked approval of the contract. Several members of the Republican leadership felt the University was superseding the state's 1996 welfare law (which limits benefits to two years) by providing additional funds to welfare students, she said.

"At first, they wanted to cut the entire $200,000 out of the contract as punishment," Story said. "But there was a lot of misinformation."

In response, Story and two UMass administrators had a meeting with the Republican leaders of the House to explain that the $200,000 allocated by the GEO contract was not earmarked specifically for welfare, but rather to foster diversity, as stated in the contract.

After the meeting, the Republican leaders agreed to approve the GEO contract but withheld $20,000 — an arbitrary amount, according to GEO Vice President Donna Krup.

"In a sense, the $20,000 was blood money," she said. "They had to take something back; it was pure politics, an inside game. We were told it was to teach grad students a lesson."

In addition, Krup says that when legislators voted to pass the GEO contract, they were led to believe the University would cover the $20,000 difference. Story verified this statement, saying she understood that both sides (GEO and the administration) would have to come to the table again and negotiate the $20,000 in another contract.

According to Scott, the administration will be trying to schedule meetings with GEO in the near future.

Krup says she believes the Chancellor caved in to pressure from the legislature when he revoked the $50,000 housing voucher program. She also says it is no mere coincidence that Scott cancelled the program the day after Governor Paul Cellucci and University President William Bulger officially announced they were seeking joint approval of $15 million funding for the Honors College.

"I feel confident that there was a connection — a political trade–off," she said. "The legislature was pissed off [by the publicity surrounding the use of the $200,000 of GEO contract money to aid welfare students], and the University needed to comply in order to be in a better position to get the Honors College.

Scott firmly denied such connections, however, and said his decision to revoke the housing voucher program had nothing to do with the Honors College and "was totally disconnected to anything going on with the legislature."

"[The housing voucher program] was put out and perceived as being connected with welfare issues," he said. He then went on to say that it seemed easier to cut the program and explore other means of helping students than deal with the misconception that he was superseding the welfare law and replacing lost welfare benefits.

■ cuts

continued from page A1

with a double major in journalism and social thought and political economy (STPEC), and a minor in Spanish.

"A lot of the parents I've met are excellent students," she said. "Everyone thinks they're lazy, but they're not. It's important to start dismantling this stereotype."

Velez would like to see the University establish a networking system for student parents. She says it is important that students work to help themselves, but that the University as an institution must also contribute some resources.

Velez says she feels lucky to finish her education before welfare reform forced her to drop out. But she works at the Graduate Student Senate (GSS), and is exposed to the plights of other women whose futures are not as certain.

"I've been taking calls from women who are about to get evicted and are calling to check on the status of their housing voucher applications," she said. "How do you tell people like that the program is cancelled?

"It's sad," she added. "You know, I was so happy that the University was finally taking a step forward on this, and now it's taking a step back again."

■ OIT

continued from page A1

ment," said Randy Sailer, Director of Telecommunications. "We try not to impose too many rules for our users, but we're concerned when people do things that impact the entire system or violate state or federal law."

According to the OIT Acceptable Use Policy, "OIT will take any action necessary, including unannounced inspection of a client's files, jobs, and terminal sessions, denial of access privileges, and instigation of formal University disciplinary procedures, in order to protect the reliability of the services and the security of information.

"OIT makes every effort to ensure that the information in its systems is secure," the policy continues. "By secure we mean that the information stored in the computer will be safe from unauthorized access... It is important to realize that OIT cannot make these guarantees absolute. Clients have a variety of levels of security available, and must choose the level appropriate for their own information."

However, OIT gives new users little security information (see sidebar), mainly advising students to choose an "uncrackable" password to prevent others from using the account. And OIT does not warn users at all about possible damage to files and computer systems if a hacker gains access to the hard drive through file transfer and other methods.

"Generally people are trying to break into University computers, and not individually owned systems," Sailer explained. "I'm not aware that this has been a big problem but obviously we'll pay more attention to it in the future and we'll take whatever actions are necessary. We're trying to keep a very open and safe computer environment here."

Yet a document posted on the OIT web page titled "OIT Host Account Security" notes, "We handle several cases a year where there is potential criminal liability due to inappropriate activity on our systems."

Art Gaylord, coordinating director of OIT, admitted that he suspects some hacking activity takes place at the University, and says it is important that students realize that computer hacking can have serious ramifications.

"People may be tempted to hack into someone's computer as a joke," he said. "But it is difficult to know when it is just a joke and when you can get in trouble. This kind of hacking is illegal."

Yet he also said he doesn't want people to be afraid to use their computers. "Fortunately, this type of hacking is quite rare as far as we know," he said.

He suggested that students use common sense and follow OIT guidelines.

"But if you suspect something is wrong, it probably makes sense to shut your machine down quickly," he said. "It should also be reported to us, especially if it happened while using our facilities."

Gaylord also advised everyone to do frequent back–ups of important files on floppy disk, not only to avoid destruction of malicious intent, but as a way to defend against accidental deletions and other computer mishaps.

Sailer had one additional piece of advice. "Turning your computer off is a good thing," he said.

Simple security tips from OIT

1. Never leave your terminal or computer logged on unattended, even for a minute.
2. Always log off when you are done. Quit any running programs. Then type "lo" (logout) — without the quotes.
3. Choose an "uncrackable" password. A word with one or more numbers inserted in the middle (not on the ends) is the best choice for a password.
4. Never tell anyone your password for any reason. Don't write down your password.
5. Never send a password through the network. E–mail, chat, IRC and talk are all equally unsafe. Also, never send credit card information through the net.

— compiled from www.oit.umass.edu

we're back

back
Welcome Back
welcome back back welcome

Sidewalk
SALE
(Indoors, of course)

Winter Shoes Clothing & Accessories
Wednesday January 27th thru Sunday January 31st
ZANA
downtown Amherst

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS NEEDED
THE SPRINGFIELD PUBLIC SCHOOLS HAS PART TIME OPENINGS AVAILABLE FOR DAY TO DAY SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS FOR REGULAR, BILINGUAL, VOCATIONAL AND SPECIAL EDUCATION

- ✓ PARENTS WITH SCHOOL AGED CHILDREN
- ✓ COLLEGE STUDENTS
- ✓ RETIREES
- ✓ OTHER PROFESSIONALS WITH A DESIRE TO PROMOTE QUALITY EDUCATION IN THE SPRINGFIELD PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM
- ✓ ELEMENTARY, MIDDLE AND HIGH SCHOOLS
- ✓ ALTERNATIVE EDUCATION PROGRAMS
- ✓ $50.00 PER DAY
- ✓ B.A. DEGREE PREFERRED
- ✓ AT LEAST SIXTY (60) COLLEGE CREDITS
- ✓ WORK ONE TO FIVE DAYS PER WEEK
- ✓ SIX HOURS PER DAY

INTERESTED AND QUALIFIED APPLICANTS SHOULD CONTACT:
CLARETHA B. COLEMAN
195 STATE STREET, P.O. BOX 1410
SPRINGFIELD, MA 01102-1410
AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY / AFFIRMATIVE ACTION EMPLOYER

Big Y WORLD CLASS MARKET
University Drive
Now Accepting OCMP
at our Food Court
We've Got It All!™

Does your calculus class demand electronic countermeasures?
...just infiltrate the software section of your campus bookstore.

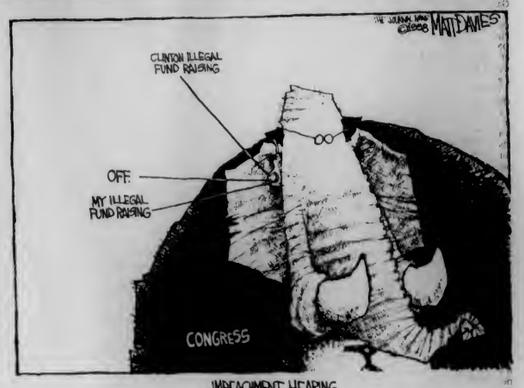
www.wizpower.com

... The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian ...

Letter from the editor

Welcome back. I would like to start by thanking all of the regular and sometime contributors to this page during the fall semester. I value your work. In a school this size, making your face and writing style familiar to the student body is a daunting task, a brave one. But when a stranger responds to one of your pieces, you feel as though the campus has suddenly gotten smaller.

The first semester of an academic year is like all new things. You get through it with a minimum of slip-ups, you make connections, you temper your expectations with reality. The second semester is a time to roll up your sleeves and really get involved with something.



To everyone who has never written, one outlet for your new-found wisdom is this very page. For years, it has provided a forum for political opinions, humor, debate on campus issues and the indubitable Doonesbury. There is room on the Editorial/Opinion page for your thoughts. If you disagree (and I know you will) with an opinion, by all means show your side in a pointed letter. Or, even better, write an editorial yourself. You have no excuse — the Millennium is coming.

This semester, I am looking for new voices. In addition, I would like to see pieces from professors and Five College students, for a different perspective. Also, I am hungry for fresh editorial cartoons. You need not be an art major — STPEC or HRTA will do just fine. For the first time, I have prepared some forms for your cartoons, so that they will be the proper size. They are on the Ed/Op desk in the Collegian office. All you need to do is fill in the box with something witty and current.

Don't be a stranger. We're less than a year away from a new age, after all. Soon, if the Y2K computer glitch is as bad as Pat Robertson has predicted, we will be banding together in small hunter–gatherer groups, using gasoline and clean drinking water for currency. Get to know us now by visiting us at 113 Campus Center Basement. Our phone number is 545–1491. Letters can be sent via email at "letters@collvms.oit.umass.edu" or by regular mail to Ed/Op Editor, Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, UMass, Amherst MA 01003.

New Year's Resolution: Make yourself heard, starting this semester.

Tanya Mannes
Ed/Op Editor

What a tangled web...

Let's say one day you decide to do a search for your own name on the internet. To your surprise, you find it cross– listed with a very specific website, called the "Nuremberg Files." Wondering why you would be listed with trials that involved Nazis and crimes against humanity, you immediately check the site. To your horror, you realize this is a site published by antiabortion extremists, and your name is listed on their hit list.

As reported in the Saturday, Jan. 16, 1999 issue of the Boston Globe, this is approximately what happened to four doctors. The site lists more than 200 doctors, called "baby butchers" instead. It gives many home addresses, relatives, phone numbers and even license plates of doctors. Worst of all, it has the names of murdered abortion doctors crossed off and those wounded in gray. The four doctors, along with other groups, are now suing to have the site removed because they feel it threatens their lives.

Jason Wiesenbach

However, there were no direct threats against anyone on the list, argue the site providers' lawyers. Our rights under the First Amendment's free speech clause allow Americans to speak their opinions, even if they may be offensive. The question becomes, then, when does an opinion cross the line to a threat of violence? Even the ACLU tells us that "finding the line between the two is not easy."

This case in Portland, Ore., is not about the legality of abortion. Instead, it highlights the eternal dilemma that a country with tolerance for all opinions must face. Within such tolerant laws, there is a place for differing philosophies, including racism, sexism and hatred.

Propaganda itself, which is legal, can exist without such negative emotions, even if it does have intolerant beliefs underlying its message. There is no reason someone cannot say that abortion should become illegal again, just as there is no reason someone cannot say that war should be made illegal. These types of propaganda only try to assert that the present legal system or country's practices need to be questioned and may not be in the best interest of the people.

However, propaganda is not the only word that can be applied when specifics about a person are given and capital crimes are threatened against that person. Can you think of any positive, productive reason why a group that calls abortion doctors "baby butchers" and "murderers" would need to publish a their license plate numbers of their cars?

Under the conditions of the website, it is apparent to anyone that it is only meant for negative purposes. And even if the site providers only wanted people to go talk to them and try to convince them that they should not abort fetuses, such a strategy can border on harassment.

Besides the lack of positive reasons for displaying someone's plate number and address, mainstream anti– abortion groups do not respect or support what these anti–abortion extremists published on the net. Most of them do not respect the use of extreme violence, like most Americans. The president of Operation Rescue Boston says that "there is no free–speech right to incite murder."

However, many judges, as well as anti–abortion activists, worry that turning this kind of website into a crime could lead to many more lawsuits. Many wonder if this could make protesters' signs reading "murderers" illegal as well.

I believe that the distinction should be made between a general threat or intent compared to a specific, individualized threat or intent of murder. Besides allowing anti–abortion protesters their full freedom to use signs and promote their opinions to try to change the laws, this would also protect the safety of people who conduct legal activities in this country.

As an example, this would mean that I could call all abortion doctors "murderers," but could not say that "I am going to kill Jane Doe the next time she aborts another fetus." I feel that having a specific reference to a name easily creates fear in the person's mind, while having a generalized term like saying "I wish I could kill them all" is not as threatening because it is so detached.

I'm not saying this idea is the solution to the argument by any means. But I do believe it would help criminalize comments that do make people feel directly threatened. The proof that the website's creators were purposely setting up a hit list comes from a comment that one of the defendants made during questioning.

Andrew Burnett "explained that killing an abortion provider to save an unborn life might be justified." He also said that a poster called the "Dirty Dozen" that was printed in conjunction with the website would make him "afraid" if he were an abortion doctor. As you can see by words like this, the intentions of this site were to threaten and scare the doctors.

Whether or not abortion should remain legal in its present terms is unimportant in a case like this. While the free speech of all should be protected, I feel that the individual rights to privacy and a life without fear of injury should be respected just as highly, and even more so in a time when privacy of individuals continues to shrink with each new year and technology.

Furthermore, changes in legal systems do not have to be done in such violent, extreme ways, as most anti–abortion groups realize. Propaganda that makes people question abortion's morality can be freely spread without threatening anyone. Offensive violence to bring about change does not improve a cause, but instead hurts all of those involved, for guilt by association is a powerful thing in this country.

Jason Wiesenbach is a Collegian columnist.

A white trash Christmas

Santa Claus: The man. The legend. The jolly old elf.

Dressed in what for all intents and purposes are a set of red pajamas that are three sizes too small, this lovably obese gentleman soars around the world in some archaic sleigh powered by eight tiny reindeer... or so adults would have children believe.

Seth Koenig

This year, I set out to finally disprove this myth once and for all.

I was all but sure that there was no such thing as Santa Claus when I was five. That year I asked the big man, via a crumpled–up, crayon–written letter, for a pony. I figured if anybody could grant such a wish, it would be Claus.

Hold on. Scratch that: if I'm going to blatantly lie about my childhood, I'm at least going to try and salvage some level of testosterone.

I was all but sure that there was no such thing as Santa Claus when I was five. That year I asked the big man, via a crumpled–up, crayon–written letter, for a rabid wolverine. I figured if anybody could grant such a wish, it would be Claus. There. That's better.

"Right around 1 a.m., I heard something on the roof — it was Santa Claus stepping onto my rooftop from his flying 1999 Dodge Durango."

In the morning, I looked under the tree to find my salivating killer beast, and all I got were action figures — which were useless when threatening the lives of school yard bullies.

Still, the charade continued. What did Santa bring? Curiously, Santa had similar handwriting to my parents, and even though I had always seen him on television building toys from blocks of wood with his helpers in a quaint workshop, all my presents seemed to come from the mall. Peculiar.

This year, I would unmask this fraud once and for all. Down with the Claus!

Everything was set. My parents unknowingly helped set the stage by decorating the house with Christmas lights and decorations. They even put a red bow on the collar of the family dog, Tom. (Tom viewed this addition to his limited wardrobe as some sort of food supplement, as this perplexing thing did not fall into either of his other two categories of distinction: humans and things to pee on.)

Living in Maine, my parents kept the thermostat at a brisk 42 degrees, forcing my air conditioning unit to work hard keeping the indoors colder than out. This logic was all reinforced by the scientific law that it would put hair on my chest, apparently a feature of utmost importance in life. This also reinforced the logic that I should shovel the patio and eat baked beans.

Another scientific truth that my parents often called upon to support their theories, was that I would be like Joe Montana if I accepted whatever it was that they told me. The great 49ers quarterback, of course, spent his youth eating baked beans and freezing his gonads off shoveling his living room out because his relatives didn't believe in comfort.

Anyway, Santa would feel right at home, if he existed, in my arctically–temperatured house. Having spent three semesters at UMass, I was especially trained for stakeouts like the one I was about to partake in. That's right, I could stay up all night.

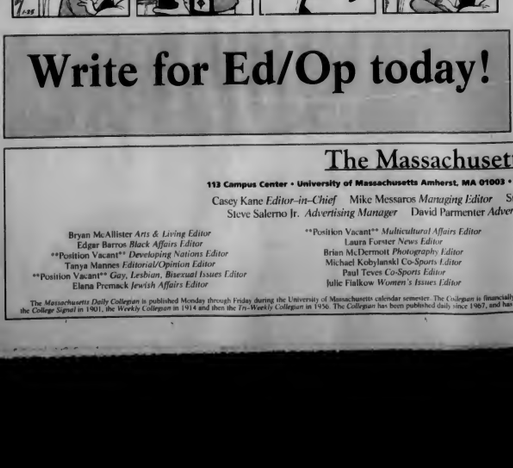
With security cameras pointing at every possible nook and cranny in my humble abode, the frequent–flying fatty would never make it inside, and likewise, whoever put the presents under the tree would be captured on film forever.

Time ticked by, and I waited patiently...

Right around 1 a.m., I heard something on the roof, but it certainly wasn't the sound of hooves slowing to a halt, or the howling laughter of a chubby elf. I raced out the front door and turned to see what was infiltrating laser security sector 8:3.

It was Santa Claus... stepping onto my rooftop from his flying 1999 Dodge Durango. "That'll be all, Jeeves," said Santa to his driver with a chuckle. "Let it idle for a moment while I take care of some 8,236,194."

Just like that, the jolly one hoisted the bag of gifts over his shoulder and magically descended to my front door, where he mumbled something that rhymed with "spit" as he struggled with the knob. With a glance up at the traditional entrance–the chimney, the resourceful Father Christmas seemingly determined never to enter a house through a foot– squared tunnel that led directly to a fire again, pulled from his legendary sack a lock–picking kit.



Once inside the premises, Santa went straight to work, spending not a second to recognize my presence. He tediously filled each stocking without setting off any of my trip wires, and then headed to the living room, where we kept our tree. Hearing his cellular phone go off, Claus quickly answered, whispering, "What the hell is it? I'm in their living room!"

"If the right headlight is out," Santa said to what must have been reindeer, "get Rudolph. I know he's vacationing in Bermuda, but he signed a contract."

Santa let out a simple, "Damn, this place is cold," before he turned to me, smiled as well as he could with a frozen beard, and finished his job. Hurrying to get outside, where it was warmer, he patted me on the shoulder and looked at me as if to say, "Aren't you a bit old for this?"

No, Santa. No one is too old for the truth. Next up: the Easter Bunny.

Seth Koenig is a Collegian columnist.

Write for Ed/Op today!

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545-3500 • Fax (413) 545-1592 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor–in–Chief Mike Messaros Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Position Vacant Developing Nations Editor
Tanya Mannes Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Jewish Affairs Editor

Position Vacant Multicultural Affairs Editor
Laura Forster News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Co-Sports Editor
Paul Teves Co-Sports Editor
Julie Fialkow Women's Issues Editor

Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Prestes Distribution Manager
Laura Keller Promotions Manager

Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life, became the College Signal in 1901, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1956. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1998. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Designer genes

I was taking a genetics class when the movie Gattaca was playing in theaters. One day I had one of those classroom epiphanies — not the kind where you finally understand what the professor is talking about — but one where you finally understand something not related to the class such as, "Cherry Garcia, Jerry Garcia — I get it!"

My epiphany for that day was that all the letters in the word "Gattaca" represent the nucleotides of DNA. Please close your eyes and snore while I explain that DNA is made up of guanine (G), adenine (A), thyamine (T) and cytosine (C). Without these molecules there would be no people and hence no Phish Food ice cream, a great loss to the universe.

Because I had a lot of work that semester, I had no chance to see the movie. However, this winter break as I convalesced with strep throat, I had a chance to rent it. The movie was set some time in the near future and was about DNA and genetic engineering. It was also about people whose shoes clicked a lot — apparently some time in the near future there will be no carpets.

Alexis Pushkar

In the not-too-distant future, the movie proclaimed, we would soon be genetically engineering people who have certain IQs and personality traits, to have little or no genetic predisposition to certain illnesses, and to look a certain way.

However, the point of the movie was to prove that the human spirit cannot be genetically engineered, and less–than– perfect people, genetically speaking, could sometimes be better than people with perfect genes, if the genetically inferior tried hard enough and faked perfection well enough.

At first I thought that the movie was shoddy science. How could you genetically engineer a person's behavior so that they would definitely become Ben or Jerry even if his parents were violently opposed to the consumption of dairy products and denied the very existence of cows?

In other words, would complex traits like an aptitude for business or a high IQ be found to have an entirely genetic component, and would we be able to plan the IQ or aptitudes of an offspring, no matter how the child is raised or who he or she is raised by? Doubtful, I thought.

But then I started reading the Jan. 11, 1999 issue of Time Magazine, which was a special issue devoted to the future of medicine. According to the magazine, the only future that medicine has is genetic engineering.

One of the articles focused on designing babies, a central theme in Gattaca. "Baby design technology" came about to screen for debilitating genetic diseases and to prevent the birth of children with them. This kind of screening is wiping out Tay-Sachs disease among American Jews of Eastern European heritage.

Technology has also led to screening for sex-linked disorders. One example of a sex-linked disorder is hemophilia, and as is the case for most sex-linked disorders, males are far more likely to have it than females. Families can prevent their sons from having the problem by not having sons.

However, now technology can allow parents to choose the gender of their children for the heck of it. That's right, if mom and dad accidentally buy 700 yards of hideous, non-returnable pink wall-paper for those extra bedrooms upstairs, they can custom-make a family of only girls.

Within a few years, the location and function of all of humanity's genes will be understood. If traits like IQ and susceptibility to violent behavior are mainly inherited, as opposed to learned, will people be genetically screened like people are screened for hemophilia? Will some runaway scientist offer to design the perfect baby? What is the perfect baby? What is the perfect society?

Obviously, even if we had the technology right now, designing a baby really is beyond our moral and intellectual grasp. Perhaps this new-fangled genetic engineering thing is beyond us.

Or perhaps not. Actually, we have always been genetic engineers. Once we settled down and started that whole agriculture thing, we became genetic engineers. Originally, corn cobs were about the length of your thumb nail and now they're bigger than your hand. At the end of the next millennium, they will be the size of baseball bats, and we will be beating each other up with them.

As humans we like to mate good things together to make more good things. We did it with corn. We did it with cows — originally cows produced warm, nasty-tasting milk. Now they produce Chunky Monkey ice cream when mated with chimpanzees.

In the future we will let technology do artificially what we would do naturally. We let dishwashers do our dishes. We let television tell our stories. We might as well let machines synthesize our children. Heck, they should probably have sex for us. They could probably do it better.

Yes, I am a little worried about the future of humankind. Genetic technology does seem to be moving quickly in directions that our minds do not fully grasp. But we're not doing anything differently now from what we have been doing for 10,000 years.

The people who started agriculture did not know where the future of corn was going, and they didn't foresee that farming would cause them to have bigger families and that in turn would lead to a population explosion which would eventually lead to New York City and New York Superfudge Chunk ice cream.

Maybe the hunters and gatherers had a better way of life than we do and maybe not. The point is that humanity survived all that change and despite the fact that the world is riddled with problems, there are more of us now than ever and there are many people who are doing pretty darn well.

Be wary of technology and think critically about it, but have faith in humanity to work successfully with this new technology. And remember there's no problem that a good bowl of ice cream can't fix.

Alexis Pushkar is a Collegian columnist.

Letters to the Editor

Minutemen seize the moment

To the editor:

After watching the University of Massachusetts Minutemen win their first Division I–AA National Championship, I could not have been more proud of the University I attended and played for.

Watching UMass charge up and down the field at will against a Georgia Southern team which was 14–0 and had never had to use the two–minute drill all year really was a sight to behold.

In addition, listening to the on–field commentator talk about the Power and Class of New England, the Minuteman Marching Band, which recently received the Sudler Trophy, I have to admit that I started getting goose bumps, similar to the ones I got when the Minutemen went to the Final Four in men's basketball in 1996.

Some might say, "How is this possible?" The answer is simple — Mark Whipple! Whipple is a football genius and UMass has him. I first caught wind of Whipple when he was at New Haven; people would tell me how advanced his offense was at the time and how they had never seen anyone with his football savvy. Then he went to his alma mater, Brown University, and turned that program around in less than four years.

Now Whipple has taken his football prowess to Amherst, where he took a 2–9 Minuteman team and turned them into national champions.

University officials are talking about building UMass into a world–renowned institution. If that is the case, they must seize the moment and take UMass football to the level it belongs on, and that is I–A. If you want to compete with schools like the University of Michigan, UCLA, Stanford, etc. you must be in the upper echelon not only in academics, but in athletics, too. We all saw how generous the state legislature became after UMass' trip to the Final Four.

At this point, we have all the right pieces in place: a fine academic institution on the move, the finest marching band in America, a record surplus in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and last but not least, we have the coach to take us to the next level.

Seize the moment, Minutemen. It may never come again!

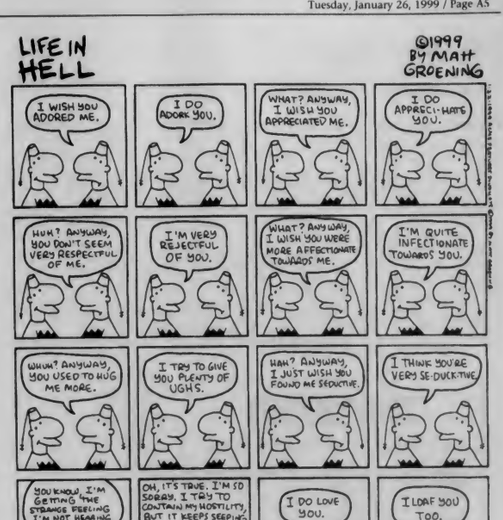
Nicholas J. Salmon
captain, 1988 UMass football team

Innocent houses are being shot

To the editor:

They shoot houses, don't they? Massachusetts homes are apparently becoming a favored target of shotgunners. Consecutive deer hunting seasons have come to rest punctuated by shotgun slugs thudding through our homes. Potentially lethal incidents have involved occupied suburban homes.

Why is it our Division of Fisheries and Wildlife deems acceptable the shooting of deer within 500 feet of our homes? A likely reason for this risk of public health and safety is that 500–foot home buffers create 18 acres of deer sanctuary — an unpalatable allowance to our pro–hunting DFW board.



Core to this issue is the conflict of interest that occurs as DFW and hunter are generally one and the same. Their group, 3 percent of the population, is whom our DFW has sworn to serve and protect. It is why we, the other 97 percent, are forced to post our land against unsafe guidelines and chronic trespassing, too.

Imagine our countryside free of ugly "No Trespassing" signs, save a rare "Hunters Welcome," and regulations requiring a safe and respectful buffer zone around our homes. Demand safety and equal representation for all citizens in DFW decision–making by contacting your state senator to urge they sign onto "the act for the better regulation of the Division of Fisheries and Wildlife" in Senator Fred Berry's office, room 109B.

This act will force our DFW to answer to an oversight committee as all other state agencies do, and is long overdue. Additionally, request they resist current attempts by the DFW to weaken Question One, the Wildlife Protection Act. Do this today and bimonthly during the upcoming legislative session to ensure success reigning in this renegade state agency.

Scott Plantier
Pittsfield

Valley of the dulls

Let me be the first to welcome everyone back from their month–long vacation. For those of you who were somewhere else during wintersession, I'd like to pose a question: "Do you have any idea how desolate it is here in January?!"

I'm a native New Yorker, used to fairly mild winters, late night happenings and people. But it's my senior year, and I've come to realize that I'll miss the Happy Valley, so I thought I might stay here for the month of January, take a couple classes and just kick back. I could use the quiet time to work on my looming thesis and do culturally rewarding things such as visit Emily Dickinson's grave, Emily Dickinson's house, Emily Dickinson's pirate radio station, etc.

Jennifer-Lynn Jennings

I now know how foolhardy it is to spend the winter in New England. First of all, I don't have a car. I don't even have a license (laugh if you must, but I never get stuck being the designated driver). I was at the mercy of the PVTA, which is risky at even the best of times. During January, when Amherst is the "Land Where Time Stands Still," catching a bus is like getting through a labyrinth.

First, you have to time everything perfectly, as the buses only come down Belchertown Road once an hour. Then, you risk your life climbing snow banks, standing on ice patches and gradually sliding to the sidewalk (I swear, the ground moves under my feet), only to find that once you get to the bus stop, a temporary stop has been set up somewhere else, as the road was too icy for the bus to come down.

So you must repeat the whole process an hour later, only this time you have to venture further into the tundra to get to campus.

There have actually been days when I actually walked to campus, because I thought I'd miss my bus.

And, oh yeah, unless you're going to Northampton, there are no buses on weekends. So if you live off campus, and you want to go to the mall or Noho, you either walk to town or walk to Haigis Mall. Get the picture?

Secondly, there are so few people around, that you get starved for company. I have three housemates, but only one was up here for wintersession, and she had just moved in at the end of last semester. I was essentially meeting her for the first time when I returned after the holidays, which is never easy, but when no one else is around, it can be incredibly tense.

I was lucky: my new roommate is fantastic, and right from the start, we got along, but that didn't stop me from worrying about getting off on the wrong foot. And I only knew a handful of other people here. Even the swan vacated the premises.

Thirdly and finally, the storm. The storm that kept me cooped up in my house for four days, after I tried to take a walk and nearly broke my leg. The storm, which kept everyone I knew away from my house because they were afraid to get into their cars. The same storm which made me order food every day, just so I'd have someone new to talk to.

Okay, the truth is, I was just too sluggish from the bad weather to stop watching "Teen Idols on VH1" to make dinner. I mean, either make a chicken pot pie, or miss "Behind the Music: Leif Garrett!" Trust me, all ice and no sunshine makes Jenny a mildly insane girl.

So, I have come to the conclusion that we should all follow the example of the swan and the elderly: go south for the winter. I'm sure Amherst is pretty isolated in the summer as well, but damn... at least it's warm. That's been the most beautiful thing about my years at UMass: even when I'm out of class, I'm learning a valuable lesson.

Jennifer–Lynn Jennings is a UMass studen.

Another postal reform?

A lot has happened since winter break began, but there is only one event that truly stands out as the most earth– shattering, mind–blowing, really, really big change in our world. That's right folks, there is a new type of M&M out on the market.

Oh wait, sorry... that was only a continent–shattering, mind–boggling, almost really, really big change. The really big change is the fact that the U.S. Postal Service increased its stamp prices by one cent.

That's right folks, it will now take one extra penny to send that letter home to your parents, assuring them that 1) you are still alive, and 2) yes, they should send large amounts of money to you. Of course, at this point you are saying, "Why is this idiot complaining about a lousy penny increase in the cost of sending a letter?"

Chris Collins

Well in fact, I'm not. I'm happy to say that I have no problem sending my letters out with the extra penny's postage. In fact, what I hope is that all the people who waste their money sending mail to me that is nothing more than utterly useless junk, will decide that the extra penny makes it too expensive to send me my share.

For example, I received my selective service mailing recently. Now let me first say that I have no problem with the military, and that I was more than willing to sign up for the draft. At least I was until I received the letter. Then I decided I didn't want anything to do with the people who send this particular useless government form out to me.

To begin, they mailed me a postcard that told me to put my permanent address on it and return. This seemed a little silly to me, as the mailing arrived at this address and my reply was obviously telling them something that they already knew. Now, I realize that people move, so I decided that I would let this little problem slide. After all, it is the government that I was dealing with, so why bother trying to use logic on them, right?

Of course, that thought was pushed to the test with another section which asked for the sex of whomever was told to fill out the card. Now, selective service is only something that the young men of our country are required to enroll themselves in. So, why would the form need to have these boxes? It's as if the government knows that it is going to screw up enough of its mailings to make the boxes a necessary tool. The concept that the government is a bunch of screw-ups is not a particularly surprising one, but when combined with the fact that they are openly admitting to it is a tad disheartening.

Don't worry though; that wasn't the silliest part of the story. The worst part was my attempt to fill in my zip code. There were only four boxes for it. You know, five numbers in a zip code wouldn't fit into four boxes no matter how hard it tried. Then, it occurred to me that it was a small post card, but I thought that it was more than acceptable to ask, no demand, that the government realize how many numbers are in the zip code that it invented.

None of this would have mattered to me, if it wasn't for the fact that the document proclaimed that if I didn't register, I could face up to five years in jail. Well, I was not at all pleased with going to jail because some government clerk didn't know that the U.S. Post Office uses five numbers in their system for mail delivery! So, I went down to the post office and asked them if they had any extra forms; perhaps ones that contained the correct number of boxes for a zip code. Surprisingly, they did have some, and I don't have to worry about any G-men descending upon me for avoiding the draft.

Now, perhaps one might see why I think that the postal increase is going to help limit the junk that comes in and out of my mail box.

Hopefully that extra penny means that the American Association for Retired Persons will stop sending me letters that say, "You need not be retired to join our organization." Or, in an ideal world, the IRS will stop sending those letters that begin, "You only need to have taken a breath this year to have to deal with our organization." Of course, in a truly ideal world, the IRS would send me a book of one cent stamps and a bag of the new M&Ms. Too bad we don't live in an ideal world, huh?

Chris Collins is a Collegian columnist.

Police Log

Accident/Personal Injury
Dec. 15
A two-vehicle rear-end collision on Commonwealth Avenue resulted in injuries to three individuals. Two were treated at the scene. Sarah Poland, 2, of Crystal Springs, Bainbridge, Wash., was treated for neck and back injuries, and taken to Cooley Dickinson Hospital by ambulance.

Alarm — Fire
Jan. 11
An alarm was triggered by moisture on the second floor of Lincoln Apartments Building 10.
Jan. 2
A sprinkler head was activated in the Conte Polymer Research Center, causing flooding. The Amherst Fire Department and Environmental Health and Safety were on the scene to reset the system.
Dec. 30
A smoke detector malfunctioned in Patterson Residence Hall. EH&S was notified.
Burnt food set off an alarm in the third-floor kitchen at Brett Residence Hall.

Animal Complaint
Jan. 7
A complaint was filed of a dog chasing vehicles near the Day Care Center.

Annoying Behavior
Jan. 9
Three individuals were reported as involved in an argument and possible fight outside Health Services. The matter was resolved.
Dec. 29
Snowballs were reported being thrown at Patterson Residence Hall.
Dec. 20
A swastika was found in a binder in the Thatcher Residence Hall cluster office.

Assist Agency
Jan. 10
Housing was notified to check on foul odor in a room in Thatcher Residence Hall.
Physical Plant was notified of an abnormal amount of steam coming from mechanical room of Gunness Laboratory.
Dec. 20
Campus police assisted Amherst police in attempting to locate individuals who caused damage to a fraternity on North Pleasant Street.

Assault & Battery
Dec. 22
A dispute between individuals in Mary Lyon Residence Hall was resolved. One of the individuals involved later filed a report.
Dec. 18
A delivery driver was assaulted by two individuals at Moore Residence Hall. The incident is under investigation.

B&E/Burglary
Dec. 31
A vehicle in Lot 11, north of Alumni Stadium was broken into. Extensive damage to dashboard was reported, and a stereo, valued at more than $250, was stolen.
Dec. 21
A vehicle was broken into in Lot 13 on Authority Way.
Dec. 20
Fifteen vehicles were broken into in Lot 13 on Authority Way. Police are awaiting inventory from the owners, and the case is under investigation.
A vehicle was broken into in Lot 49 on Windmill Lane.
Dec. 19
An individual reported illegal entry into room at Brown Residence Hall. Items were moved but nothing was stolen.
Dec. 17
A mailbox was broken into at John Quincy Adams Residence Hall. Mail was removed and then put back in the box.
An individual reported a wallet and laptop computer stolen from a room in Wheeler Residence Hall. The wallet was later found in the laundry area.

Disorderly Conduct
Dec. 21
Marc P. Forgione, 20, of 8 Front St., Oxford, was arrested at Health Services and charged with malicious destruction of property under $250, and disorderly conduct.
David A. Lang, 22, of 29 Upper River Rd., Ipswich, was arrested at Health Services and charged with disorderly conduct.

Disturbance
Dec. 22
Two individuals were involved in an argument at Melville Residence Hall.
Individuals were reported to be causing a disturbance on the 13th floor of Washington Residence Hall.
Dec. 20
Individuals at Alumni Stadium attempted to remove goalposts from the area.
Staff requested assistance with unruly individuals at Kennedy Residence Hall.
Individuals were reported breaking glass and kicking a resident's door on the fourteenth floor of Coolidge Residence Hall. Police referred to staff for appropriate action.

Drug Law Offenses
Dec. 15
Edward P. Vale, 18, of 3 Bantry Ct., Huntington, N.Y., was arrested at Brooks Residence Hall and charged with possession of a Class D drug, and possession to distribute a Class D drug.

Health/Safety Hazard
Dec. 23
Environmental Health and Safety was called to check on smoke in a hallway in Thatcher Residence Hall.
Dec. 22
Gas was reported leaking from a refrigerator in John Quincy Adams Residence Hall.
Dec. 21
Staff reported finding a hypodermic needle in a hallway of McNamara Residence Hall.
A steam leak was reported in Lot 42.

Intoxicated Person
Dec. 15
Justin Cardullo, 20, of 50 Highland St., Concord, was arrested at Coolidge Residence Hall and charged with disorderly conduct.

Larceny
Jan. 7
Staff reported two saws and an electric drill, valued at $500, stolen from the Fine Arts Center.
Jan. 4
Audio visual items were reported stolen from Boyden Gymnasium on Dec. 2, with a list of property to be filed with police.
Dec. 29
A laptop computer, valued at more than $2,000, was reported stolen from Washington Residence Hall on Dec. 23.
Dec. 23
An individual reported a parking decal, valued at more than $70, stolen from Lot 71, near Whitmore.
Staff reported a telephone valued at $100 stolen from an office of New Africa House.
Staff reported a VCR valued at $129 stolen from Hamlin Residence Hall.
Dec. 22
An individual reported his stereo, valued at more than $100, stolen from the common area of Greenough Residence Hall.
An individual reported an estimated $100 cash stolen from mail in Crabtree Residence Hall.
Dec. 21
An individual reported a wallet stolen from a backpack in the Campus Center.
Roommates, returning to their room in Coolidge Residence Hall, observed a man and a woman fleeing with their telephone. Court complaints will be sought.
Dec. 20
An individual reported three textbooks, valued at $200, stolen from Coolidge Residence Hall.
An individual reported a laptop computer, valued at $3,300, stolen from Coolidge Residence Hall.
Dec. 19
Parking lights were stolen from a vehicle in Lot 44, on Sylvan Drive.
An individual reported his jacket, containing car keys, stolen.
Dec. 18
Two fog lights, valued at $300, were stolen from a vehicle in Lot 44, on Sylvan Drive.
An individual in John Quincy Adams Residence Hall reported two credit cards stolen.
Dec. 17
A printer, valued at $325, was reported stolen at the School of Management.
Dec. 16
Police received a past report of CDs stolen from a vehicle in Lot 11 on Stadium Drive.
Dec. 15
Police received a report of a telephone, valued at $95, stolen within the last week at Stockbridge Hall.
Dec. 14
Police received a past report of a wallet which was lost or stolen at Washington Residence Hall.
A key was reported lost or stolen at the Engineering Lab.
A multi-line phone valued at over $200 was reported stolen from an office at Health Services.
Staff reported a tree, valued at $200, had been cut down and stolen from Durfee Conservatory.

Lost/Found Property
Dec. 24
University street signs were found in a room in Moore Residence Hall.

Suspicious Person/Activity
Jan. 10
Two individuals in the Campus Center Hotel were reported to be acting in a suspicious manner. They fled the building and were later located.
Dec. 24
A peeping tom was reported looking into windows at North Village Apartments.
Dec. 20
Individuals attempted to remove line markers from Alumni Stadium.
Dec. 17
Matthew F. Haramut, 37, of 12 Squire Village, Sunderland, was arrested in the Campus Center and charged with indecent exposure and open and gross lewdness.

Vandalism
Dec. 20
An individual reported three tires punctured on her vehicle on Clark Hill Road. The damage was estimated at $300.
A toilet was ripped from the wall of a fourth floor bathroom in Pierpont Residence Hall.
An individual was reported on top of a vehicle, causing damage. Court complaints will be sought.
Individuals overturned a vehicle in Lot 11 on Stadium Drive. Court complaints will be sought.

Wheelock College
Improving the Lives of Children & Families

Master's Degree Programs
• Child Development
• Child Life & Family Centered Care
• Early Intervention
• Family Studies
• Human Development
• Infant & Toddler Studies
• Leadership & Policy in Early Care
• MSW/MEd
• Early Childhood Education
• Elementary Education
• Language and Literacy Education
• School Principal/Director
• Special Needs
• Urban Teaching
INFORMATION SESSIONS
Wheelock College Alumni Room
• February 16, 1999, 4:30 - 6:30 PM
• March 16, 1999, 4:30 - 6:30 PM
Call (617) 734-5200 x 2195 to r.s.v.p. or visit our web site at www.wheelock.edu
Wheelock GRADUATE SCHOOL
WHEELOCK COLLEGE 200 THE RIVERWAY BOSTON MA 02215

AEROBICS
• Area's Largest Room — STEP
• Certified Instructors — LOW IMPACT
• Classes Daily — YOGA
• Shock-absorbing Floor — CARDIO KICK BOXING
• Walk-ins Welcome — HI/LOW
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0300 SO. AMHERST

Winter break news briefs

Theater shuts down for construction

Construction on the Hampshire Six Theatres will mean moviegoers will be getting more bang for their buck next fall.

The Hampshire Six Theatres will be demolished by the end of this week to make room for a new 16-screen stadium, seating movie complex.

Nadine Salem, general manager of the Hampshire Mall, said the steel should be arriving in March for the new building which will be in the same location as the old six theaters.

There will be bidding for construction of the complex and Salem expects the theaters to be operational by October.

While the number and quality of the theaters is going up the price is not.

"No. There shouldn't be [a price increase]," said Joe Bombicinio, market manager for the eastern division for AMC Theaters."We went into Chicago as a $6.75 ticket and lowered it to a $5.75 ticket."

While the theaters are under construction Hampshire Six movie-goers will have to find a new venue. But one local theater doesn't expect to see a rush due to the construction.

"I'm going to wait and see. I don't think our audiences are the same and with problems concerning the bridge they're even less the same," said Richard Pini, owner of the Pleasant Street Theatre in Northampton.

Pini also did not expect to see a drop in sales after the new theaters are operational.

The Amherst Cinema and Mountain Farms Theatres could not be reached for comment.

Amherst parking not so free anymore

Free parking will only be available on Monopoly boards in Amherst now as parking meters, a parking garage and parking permit system are implemented.

The parking commission is hammering out the details of a parking permit system in the business district of Amherst.

"In that area, first priority [for permits] are people residing in those streets and business. There will be a fee which is not determined at this point," said Soreen Derin a member of the parking commission.

The system is means to prevent cars from taking up parking spaces for long periods of time when shoppers could be using them.

"We felt there should be a limit on how long a car can occupy some areas. Cars are being parked and left the whole day," Derin said.

The most recent change to limit free parking in Amherst has been the installation of approximately 100 parking meters.

Meters were added to part of Main Street, Boltwood Walk and some were installed on North Pleasant Street near Triangle Street.

The meters cost $250–$300 for the meterhead, said Jonathan Tucker, senior planner in the Amherst planning department. There are additional costs with the posts and labor to install the meters.

The largest parking project in town, the parking garage, may soon have a shape and price.

"The parking garage committee is going to a special town meeting in February or March to request more money and present the town meeting with two options for a garage design," Tucker said.

One design will cost approximately $4 million while the other may cost more but have more spaces. The garage will have at least 205 spaces and Tucker said construction is expected to begin in spring of 2000.

Town looking for place for water tank

Where to put a water storage tank in Amherst has some residents' heads swimming.

"[We're] forming a citizens advisory committee... to look at all locations to build the tank. We're not sure of where and size," said Bob Pariseau, director of water resources.

The tank can only be in certain places.

"You have to have the right ground elevation. You can't have it anywhere. I think were [looking at] six or eight sites. You have to have a ground elevation 470 feet above sea level," Pariseau said.

The tank will be used daily but will be a back up in emergencies.

"You like to have enough storage in case of an emergency, just in case you had a fire in Amherst," Pariseau said.

Cultural Center may be on horizon

If it's economically feasible and structurally sound, the Amherst Cinema Center Board plans on turning part of Amherst into a cultural district.

An engineer is being sought to assess the Amherst Cinema located on Amity Street to see if the building can be renovated into a non-profit cultural center at an affordable price. The Board would like to turn the building into a place where a variety of artists from the area could meet and work.

"Our hope is it to be a real multi-disciplinary center [with] performing arts, cinema, visual arts, studio space," said Anne Teschner, president of the Board.

The building had been up for sale last year but was taken off the market to give the Board time to raise money and asses the feasibility of renovating it.

"The need is very profound. There are so many artists out there looking for a venue. There are no community art spaces," Teschner said.

Raising money would be the next step if the building is sound and the projected price reasonable. Teschner said the Board believes the price will fall somewhere between $2–5 million.

"We all sort of looked at [the price] and took a deep breath and said, OK, OK. Nobody's fainted yet," Teschner said.

If the Cinema becomes a cultural center it would be open to all artists in the area.

"We would like to see it open to as many artists as we can stand," Teschner said.

One group of artists that may take advantage it is the New World Theater at the University of Massachusetts.

"We would be very eager to participate in that in some way," said Dennis Conway, managing director of the New World Theater and a Board member. "I think there are restrictions on our ability to rent space."

But the only restriction would be finances.

"We have been exploring the option to use the Amherst Cinema," said Beth Dennis, Director of Space Management. "How much it costs, a matter of finding a venue that... fits the type of performance the New World Theater puts on."

"How can you not be interested?" said Conway. "It would add to the quality of life that someone living in the Valley would have."

— compiled by Jill Carroll

Town of Amherst & Chancellor seeking to expand alcohol policy

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

Off-campus students who get caught with unregistered kegs by the Amherst police may soon have to face more than just hefty fines. They may also face penalties from the University of Massachusetts if the town has anything to do with it.

No decisions have yet been made, but the Town of Amherst's Problem Solving Partnership, the group responsible for the elimination of the Hobart (Lane) Hoe-Down, a popular spring event, met on Jan. 13 to discuss the possibility of enforcing the UMass student code of conduct off campus.

"[The University] is apparently on the cusp of applying the student code of conduct to off-campus behavior in certain cases," said Amherst Select Board member Hill Buss.

Town Manager Barry Del Castillho said he and Amherst Police Chief Donald Maia met with UMass administrators during the January break to address the issue of the University taking some responsibility and levying some sanctions for the behavior of off-campus students.

According to Del Castillho, Chancellor David K. Scott added his support when questioned about the possibility of enforcing the student code of conduct to alcohol related off- campus offenses.

"I think we'll get where we want to go by next September," Del Castillho said. "The philosophical problem is solved. The Chancellor would like to see this happen. The question is when and how."

But interviews with several campus officials and student leaders suggest that the town has been misled in believing that any specific off-campus alcohol policy will be in effect anytime soon.

Assistant Dean of Students Paul Vasconcellos in particular was surprised to hear that Amherst town officials expect a policy to be in place by next September.

"That's news to me," he said. "There has been a lot of discussion, but there has been no decision made. In principle, sure we agree. Do we want students being disruptive? Of course not... but it's not such a clear-cut issue."

Section 1C of the Student Code of Conduct says that the regulations specified in the code apply to violations that occur at the University or on the grounds of the other colleges in the Five-College area. In addition, the code may applied off campus in instances of "serious violations or misconduct where the behavior distinctly and directly effects the University community."

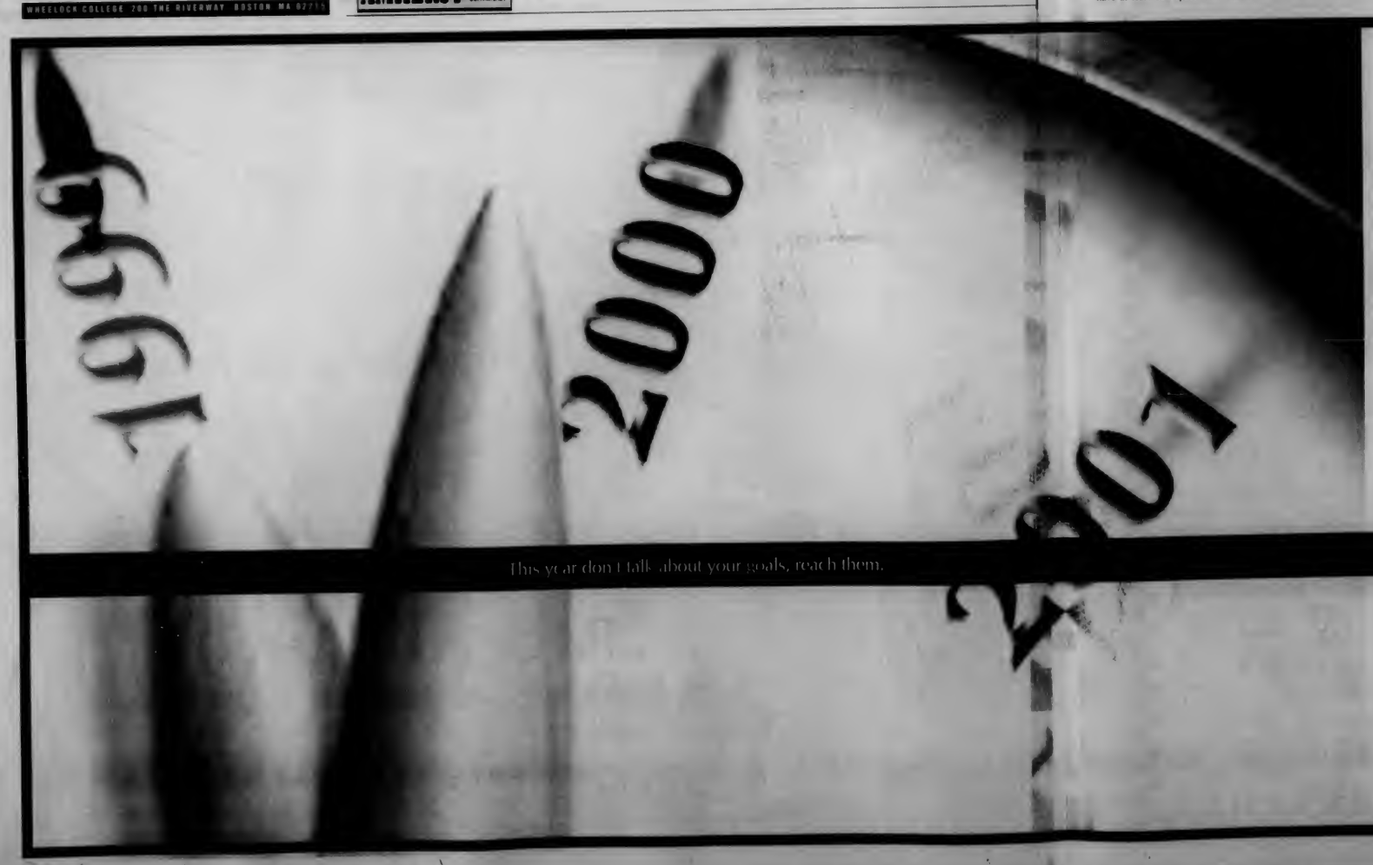
Vasconcellos explained that the code of conduct is currently looked at off-campus only in extreme cases and violations of the law, such as assault and battery. It may also be implemented if, for instance, students on a University- sponsored field trip to New York City commit a serious violation or behavioral misconduct.

He said that many questions would have to be addressed before the Student Code of Conduct could be applied to off-campus alcohol offenses. However, although he said off- campus enforcement is not likely in the near future, he did not deny the possibility that it could happen one day.

Most of the town discussion has centered around the possession of kegs, which are required, by a town by-law, to be registered with the town. Members of the Problem- Solving Partnership say they are most concerned about kegs because kegs tend to have a plethora of other community disrupting actions associated with them.

Keg possession is also being targeted because it may be the only alcohol-related offense that the Student Code of Conduct can be legally applied to. Michele L. Leaf, an attorney from Student Legal Services, explained the legal issues involved in enforcing the Student Code of Conduct off campus.

"If a violation is determined to be serious, then the code is applicable," she said. "But obviously this involves a judgement call and that's where it gets political.



"The authority is arguably there," she added. "But my sense is that the Dean of Students is reluctant to expand the Code of Conduct off-campus, and discussions are taking place only because of pressure from the town."

Leaf said that if the policy is applied off-campus, it will probably only be applied in very specific instances. It would also require specifically worded definitions, agreed upon by both town and University, of what constitutes a serious violation. She said she is concerned that students be notified in advance that their off-campus conduct could have academic ramifications.

"When you live in town, you're a citizen of the town," said Salwa Shamapande, president of the Student Government Association. "You shouldn't have to be governed by the University too.

"I don't think logistically it would fly," he added. "But the fact that the Chancellor even agrees in principle means that students have to get involved."

Taipei & Tokyo
DINE-IN OR TAKE-OUT
Chinese & Japanese Restaurant
GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE
(413) 582-1888
Open 7 Days
18 Main Street
Northampton, MA 01060

www.pwcglobal.com
Careers For The Millennium
PRICEWATERHOUSECOOPERS
ASSURANCE AND BUSINESS ADVISORY SERVICES
FINANCIAL ADVISORY SERVICES
MANAGEMENT CONSULTING SERVICES
KWASHA HR SOLUTIONS
TAX & LEGAL SERVICES
PricewaterhouseCoopers is an Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Employer.
© 1999 PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP. PricewaterhouseCoopers refers to the U.S. firm of PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP and other members of the worldwide PricewaterhouseCoopers organization.

A Member Of
PENNZOIL Stop. Go. Pennzoil.™
A Customer Assistance Program of the Better Business Bureau ®

FREE
Shuttle To Home, Work Or Campus

FREE CREDIT
90 DAYS
SAME AS CASH!
Instant Credit Available

BRAKE KING
Discount
Autoservice Supercenter

Free Towing With Repair

10% STUDENT & FACULTY DISCOUNT ON PARTS

AMERICA'S FAVORITE TUNE-UP SUPERCENTERS
Avoid Dealer's High Costs!

FREE
Brake Inspection & Tire Rotation
No Appointment Necessary

WE DO IT ALL

• Tune-Ups	• A.B.S. Brakes	• Computers	• Ignition	• Gas Tanks	• Fuel injection
• Oil Leaks	• Power Steering	• Emissions	• Transmissions	• Ball Joints	• Rack & Pinions
• Starters	• Alignments	• Radiators	• Shocks & Struts	• Mufflers	• Fuel Pumps
• Alternators	• Timing Belts	• Front End	• Coil Springs	• Oil Changes	• Clutches
• Batteries	• Water Pumps	• Belts & Hoses	• CV Joints & Axles	• Coolant Service	• Overheating
• Tires	• Air Conditioning			• Electrical	• & More

Foreign & Domestic Auto Supercenters • 4x4 Light Trucks

FREE Winter Safety Inspection
Complete Check of Cooling/Antifreeze System, Charging System, Brakes, Tires, Belts/Hoses, Battery, Exhaust, Shocks/Struts and Car Performance.

TIME TO WINTERIZE YOUR CAR

FREE SNOW TIRE CHANGE-OVER
Bring in your snow tires and we will install them on the vehicle at no charge. Balancing Extra.

WINTER SPECIAL
RADIATOR FLUSH & FILL & LUBE, OIL & FILTER
• Drain & Fill Radiator up to 2 Gallons Antifreeze
• Lube, Oil & Filter • Tire Rotation
• Check Belts, Hoses, Shocks & Tires
• Inspect Water Pump, Thermostat & Gasket
MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS $39.95

Winterize Your Radiator Before It Freezes
ANTI-FREEZE FLUSH & FILL
Up To 2 Gallons Antifreeze
Pressure Test Cooling System, Inspect Belts & Hoses, Check Heating System.
MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS $29.95

WINTERIZE NOW!!!
• Lube, Oil & Filter
• Anti-Freeze Flush & Fill
• New Wiper Blades
• Check Heating System
• Check Belts & Hoses
• Rotate 4 Tires
$59.95 MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

ENGINE TUNE-UP SPECIAL
In most electronic ignition cars we'll install new spark plugs, set timing & adjust idle speed (if applicable). Computer engine analysis, check fuel and emission systems $35 4 cyl. $45 6 cyl. $55 8 cyl.
Transverse V-6 engines and A/C interference extra.

BRAKE SPECIAL
Includes Free Alignment • Lifetime Warranty
2 Front Disc or 2 Rear Drums
• Install Pads or Shoes
• Machine Drums or Rotors
• Test Drive
• Inspect Brake System
• Semi-Metallic Pads Extra
$49.95 MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

SHOCKS & STRUTS
Lifetime Warranty • Free Alignment
50% OFF
Your Second Shock or Strut • Buy One Shock Or Strut At Regular Price And Receive The Second One At Half Price; Plus FREE Four Wheel Alignment.

BRAKE KING MUFFLERS
30% OFF
LIFETIME WARRANTY
We Will Beat Any COMPETITOR'S Best Written Estimate by 10% - Guaranteed!

LUBE, OIL & FILTER
FREE Tire Rotation & Brake Inspection
• Up to 5 Quarts of Oil
• Chassis Lube
• Install New Oil Filter
• Includes Oil Disposal Fee
$12.95 Add $3.00 For Foreign Cars, Light Trucks & Vans

MANAGER'S CAR CARE SERVICE PACKAGE
1. OIL CHANGE & FILTER • Install new filter • refill up to 5 qts. Pennzoil 10W30 oil • Lubricate chassis
2. FOUR TIRE ROTATION
3. ENGINE TUNE-UP Install new spark plugs • set timing • adjust idle (if applicable)
4. RADIATOR FLUSH & FILL Up to 2 gallons of Antifreeze
5. BATTERY SERVICE Load test battery, clean terminals & battery box
6. COMPLETE VISUAL INSPECTION In-depth visual analysis of major systems
6 Services • 1 Low Price
$59.95 4 cyt.
6 cyt. - $69.95
8 CYL. - $79.95
Most Cars & Light Trucks
Transverse V-6 engine & AC interference extra

Nationwide Battery
5 YEAR WARRANTY
$49.95
1 Year Free Replacement
Most Cars & Light Trucks

COMBO TUNE-UP
Spark Plugs, Oil Change & Filter, Fuel Injection Service
• Set Timing
• Adjust Idle
• Check Fuel & Emission System
• Computer Engine Analysis
• Clean Injectors
4 Cyl. $69.95
6 Cyl. $79.95
8 Cyl. $89.95
Most Cars & Light Trucks

BELTS & HOSES
Don't Press Your Luck!!
90% of roadside breakdowns are due to belt or hose failures
• V-Belts • Fan Belts
• Radiator Hoses
• Heater Hoses
• Bypass Hose
10% OFF Most Cars

TIMING BELT REPLACED
ONLY $149.95 Installed
recommences every 60,000 miles to Avoid Costly Breakdowns. Good for most vehicles.

CV JOINT BOOTS
(Outer) Includes inspection of front end, motor mounts & brakes
$59.95 EACH INSTALLED
Most Cars & Light Trucks

COMPLETE AUTO SERVICE
• Idler Arms
• Ball Joints
• Pitman Arms
• Tie Rod Ends
• CV Joints
FLEET ACCOUNTS WELCOME

SUPER SERVICE PACKAGE
MANUFACTURER'S RECOMMENDED 30,000 MILE SERVICE
• Engine Tune-Up, Spark Plugs, Air Filter, Fuel Filter and PCV Valve
• Complete Transmission Service
• Fuel Injection Service
• Oil Change, Lube & Filter
• Complete Antifreeze Flush & Fill • Rotate 4 Tires
Dealers charge $300 or more for same service!
$189.95 MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

FUEL INJECTION SERVICE
• Clean fuel injector deposits & restore build-up
• Restore injector flow pattern
• Clean carbon deposits from upper combustion chamber
• You'll enjoy improved performance, increased gas mileage, and reduced emissions
SAVE GAS! $39.95 Most Cars

SPIN BALANCE & ROTATE
INCREASE THE LIFE OF YOUR TIRES!
$19.95
Complete Spin Balance & Rotation of 4 Tires

COMPUTERIZED ALIGNMENT
Thrust Angle $29.95
4-Wheel Alignment $39.95
Most Cars & Light Trucks

DRIVE AXLE SHAFT
INCLUDES FREE ALIGNMENT
$159.95
INSTALLED FRONT WHEEL
Most Cars & Trucks

TRANSMISSION SERVICE
$49.95 Rear Wheel Drive & $59.95 Front Wheel Drive
Includes filter, fluid, gasket & labor. Applies to most vehicles.

RACK & PINION
INCLUDES FREE ALIGNMENT
$269.95
INSTALLED
Most Cars & Light Trucks

Before You Purchase A Major Brake Job, Shocks And Struts, Mufflers And Exhaust Work, Front End Work, Tune-Ups Or Any Automotive Service, Just Bring Us Our Competition's Best Written Estimates And We'll Beat It By At Least 10% GUARANTEED And Still Give You The Best Warranty In The USA!

Nobody In New England Beats Brake King ... N-O-B-O-D-Y!
5 CONVENIENT FULL-SERVICE LOCATIONS

Find us in the Bell Atlantic Yellow Pages

HOURS: Mon., Tues., Wed. & Fri. 7 a.m.- 6 p.m. • Thurs. 7 a.m.-8 p.m. • Sat. 7 a.m.-4 p.m.

We Employ MACS Certified Technicians

NORTHAMPTON	WESTFIELD	SPRINGFIELD	SPRINGFIELD	ENFIELD
346 King St.	234 E. Main St.,	1107	867 Boston Rd.	809 Enfield St.,
413-584-4988	Rte. 20	E. Columbus Ave.	413-783-3727	Rte. 5
	413-572-1735	413-747-7133		860-253-9017

Student issues crucial to Board candidates

By Julie Fialkow
Collegian Staff

Only one nomination has been filed so far for the March 30 Amherst Select Board elections.

The nomination is for Carl Seppala, a member of Town Meeting (Precinct 7) and the redevelopment authority. He said he is aware of ongoing "town-gown" issues.

"It is important that the University and town have a good working relationship. I think sometimes there is an impulse for people to generally think the trouble is with the students, without really viewing it from both sides," he said.

According to Sandra Burgess, the assistant town clerk in Amherst, six other people have picked up nomination papers, but haven't turned them in. Nominations aren't due until Feb. 9.

Included in the six potential candidates is Prudencio Gomez, who is the treasurer for the Machete Corporation, which owns Pruddy's Tropical Bar and Grill at 30 Boltwood Walk in Amherst. Gomez was the focus of recent controversy when his club was shut down for serving alcohol to minors last summer.

"If I get enough signatures I will definitely run. I know a lot of people that work here, but they don't live in Amherst because the cost is too high," he said.

"If I can't run this year I will run next year. It's not 'if,' it's when."

Gomez said he will be an asset to the Board because he represents segments of the town's community who have traditionally gone unheard.

"I have a different view than the people that have been there. They are all in the same social status," he said.

"They forget the other part of the community. Like the smoking ban, we have to see the smoker's side of the problems. We need to see the students' side of the problem. We have to look at all sides, see?"

Gomez addressed the noise concerns that many Amherst residents have in regard to student parties.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN
Prudencio Gomez Sr. is running for the Amherst Select Board.

"When you realize the majority of the town is students, you see that they have a need for parties. You see, you don't ignore the necessity for these things," he said. "The majority of students are under 21 and they have to have fun too."

He added that the police are more reactive, when instead they should be proactive.

"The town keeps saying 'no' like a father. We have to compromise. It's stupid, they have 200-500 students in the center of town when the bars let out, and they have no way to get back to their dorm. Of course there is going to be a lot of noise," he said.

Students, said Gomez, are not organized enough so their voices remain silenced by town officials.

"They don't vote. I would hope they would vote for me because I have proven I am on their side. Pruddy's [nightclub] has shown students can behave when given a chance," he said.

Potential Board members like Gomez and Seppala have the opportunity to make major changes in the town of Amherst that would affect all students, such as noise control, rental agreements, and alcohol violations.

The residence halls make up five separate precincts in the town. Approximately 118 elected town officials represent on-campus students alone.

According to a Nov. 4 Collegian article, in the Southwest voting population, only 12.7 percent of registered voters voted in the town's Nov. 3 elections.

"The elections are also for Town Meeting. There are eight three-year seats in each precinct available. There are also partial terms, when, say, somebody resigns," said Burgess.

Select Board candidate Seppala said he wold like to see more students not only voting, but also getting involved themselves in Town Meeting.

"I'm about to turn 36 and I'm a rarity. As far as being representative of the town, we're not doing a good job; especially representing students," said Seppala.

He added that running for a seat is not difficult.

"First off, they should register to vote in town," he said, "It's very easy to be on the ballot now — you only need one signature I think. They should also learn the issues by reading a daily newspaper."

Nomination papers for both town meeting and Select Board can be picked up at the Town Clerk's office at 70 Boltwood Walk in Amherst.

■ smoke

continued from page A1

installed. The Board voted down the proposal 2-1 but members of the Select Board disagree with that decision.

"The Board of Health is not being nearly flexible enough. Bars should be allowed to put in filtration systems," said Amherst Selectman, Hill Boss. We are not supporting any effort to totally remove the ban... [but] they [the Board of Health] are going to pay a heavy penalty in terms of a complete loss of public confidence."

Bosa said the filtration systems should be allowed because while they don't eliminate 100 percent of air pollutants, they reduce them to outside levels.

However the Board has the final say on the parameters of the ban.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN
Getting ready for school
Nathan Sullivan, a sophomore journalism major, counts new books coming into the Textbook Annex.

Fairfield University brings you the world
Summer '99 Programs

Florence, Italy -
May 26 - June 26 June 30 - July 30
Wide variety of courses, earn 6 credits. CEU's available

Hyderabad, India - May 24 - June 19
Internship opportunity, prestigious Indian faculty, exciting excursions. All-inclusive program. Earn 6 credits.

Germany and The Netherlands -
May 30 - June 19
2 weeks in Rotterdam, 1 week in Münster. Package includes site visits and day trips Earn 6 International Business credits.

St. Petersburg, Russia - June 6 - July 4
Enjoy the "White Nights" of summer. Many cultural events and guided tours. Excursion to Moscow. 6 credits available.

Participants receive Fairfield University undergraduate credits. All program costs include complete travel and lodging packages. For more information about our programs call Christine Bowers, Study Abroad Coordinator, toll-free 888-354-3566, or e-mail her at cbbowers@mail.fairfield.edu.

Fairfield UNIVERSITY
School of Continuing Education

Best Thai Food at Thai Corner
31 Boltwood Walk
Amherst, MA
Featuring
• appetizers • flavorful entrees
• rice and noodles • real Thai food
• Best Pad Thai in town.
for..
Dine in or Take-Out Menu
call
Phone: 253-1639
Monday - Saturday
11.30am - 11:00pm
Sunday
12:00pm - 9:00pm

STRENGTH • FLEXIBILITY • COORDINATION
CARDIO KICK BOXING
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB • 256-0000
Mon @5:30
Thurs @4:45
Fri @4:15
Sat @2:00
www.amherstathletic.com

Regency Hairstylists
189 N. Pleasant St.
253-9526

Healthy Choice! Healthy Choice! Healthy Choice!
ICHIBAN いちばん
OPEN 7 DAYS
Delivery Available
Authentic Japanese Restaurant
1 Roundhouse Plaza, Northampton, MA
(413) 585-1185
(Behind City Hall, Off Main St.)
What is the Difference?
#1 Sushi
Lively fresh raw fish over sushi rice. Stay healthy & live longer! That is what everyone falls in love with!
#2 Tatami Room
•Cozy and private •Parties available up to 25 people
SPECIAL CATEGORY
Exceptional Catering Service
Sushi chef works at your party
Lunch Specials $4.95 and up
Reserve for Karaoke

DUNKIN'DONUTS
MULLINS CENTER PRACTICE ICE RINK introduces the
OMWICH™
Try our Bacon & Cheddar, Veggie or 3-Cheese Omelet Sandwich on a Bagel, Croissant or English Muffin.

breakfast like you've never tasted before.
Available at Palmer, Ware, Monson, Granby and UMass Locations

New WORLD Theater Spring Season 1999
20 years
Sanango by azanda, directed by Judyie Al-Bilali. Thursday - Saturday, February 25-27 & Tuesday - Saturday, March 2 - 6, 1999, Curtain Theater. An original co-production with the UMass Department of Theater. General Admission: $7 Students and Low Income Patrons: $4
Special Anniversary Event! Junebug Jack by Junebug Productions and Roadside Theater. Tuesday, March 23, 1999, Bowker Auditorium, 8PM. Reserved Seats: $15 ; Students and Low Income Patrons: $8
Special Anniversary Event! Things Fall Apart adapted by Bhyl Bandele from novel by Chinua Achebe. Tuesday - Thursday, March 2 - 4, 1999 Bowker Auditorium, 8PM Reserved Seats: $15 ; Students and Low Income Patrons: $8
The Wedding March, adapted by Rosalba Rolón from Judith Ortiz Cofer's book Silent Dancing: A Partial Remembrance of Growing Up Puerto Rican, Friday & Saturday, April 23 & 24, Rand Theater, 8 PM. General Admission: $10; Students and Low Income Patrons: $8
For tickets call 413-545-2511 or 1-800-999-UMAS.

COUSINS MARKET
Next door to "The Pub"
Beer + Wine
Grocery and Deli
Grinders • Sandwiches
Fresh Fruit • Vegetables
Dairy • Natural Foods
Specialty Tobacco
Telephone Cards
Great Rates Worldwide!

■ trial

continued from page A1

on to testify as a private citizen facing charges.

So far the court has not moved for a civil action.

In front of the same assembly judging his future, the President delivered a State of Union address last Tuesday night, boasting some of the nation's greatest achievements in years. The strongest of these being a balanced budget for the first time in three decades. Using strong rhetoric, Clinton assured "the state of our Union is strong."

However, this strength is what many question as continuing bipartisan disagreement looms constant just as it did the first week of the trial when the 106th Senate began voting up and down on how to approach trial procedures. The confusion of handling a trial of such unprecedented magnitude was reflected from initial calls of postponement for agreement to the misspelled engravings ("The Unied States of America") on the pens given to the 100 senators.

The handling of a trial by a jury with invested interests and easy access to "loopholes" causes many to question the Constitution's framework and the validity of the trial's proceedings.

Making history minute by minute, an unprecedented trial of the President could possibly challenge the future role of a balance of powers, bipartisan politics and the commander-in chief.

Kerry and Kennedy don't think removal of Clinton is justified

By Laura Forster
Collegian Staff

WASHINGTON D.C. — Smothered in a snow storm crippling the District of Columbia, the first days of President Clinton's impeachment trial got off to a rough start.

In the surrounding suburbia primarily made up of residents who work in the city, grocery stores and gas stations swelled while maintenance crews loaded up with salt.

Despite the weather, a fluctuating number of local residents, as well as tourists from as far as Australia, tried their luck at watching 15 minutes of the trial inside the Senate courtroom.

The outside weather went unnoticed for senators working tirelessly to come to an agreement despite primarily bipartisan disagreements.

Among them, were Senator John F. Kerry (D–Mass.) and Senator Edward M. Kennedy, (D–Mass.) who both feel the charges against the President do not rise to the necessity of impeachment.

Kerry's suggestion for the President has been for "a possible censure of some kind," as he stated in an interview on "Meet the Press."

Kennedy's press secretary, Jim Manley, speaking on behalf of the senator, said "there was powerful presence in the White House's defense...but [we] refuse to deal with hypotheticals [concerning how Kennedy plans to vote.]"

The definition of sexual relations has been a key issue of debate and focus. Polls show college students feel the President did not engage in such with Monica Lewinsky, according to Washington Post polling director Richard Morin in an interview on the "Washington Journal."

In local government opinion, Bron Tamulis, secretary of public policy and relations of the Student Government Association (SGA), says he doesn't vote because he has never had enough confidence in the candidates to cast his vote for them.

In looking at the ways the trial has proceeded Tamulis said, "In a lot of ways it mirrors the situation the SGA finds itself in... a lot of times, unproductive bipartisanship."

A registered independent voter, Tamulis said, "I'd be surprised if in the next few weeks they accomplish anything.

"I think it's important in terms of the Presidency, that legal definitions are held to and the legislative definition seems to imply sexual relations did not occur," said Tamulis.

In an opposing view, Jessie Burchfield, attorney general of the SGA, also a registered independent voter, favors impeachment.

"I believe there is no separation of public and private actions... It's scary how the public is willing to accept that [there isn't], it's like the emperor's new clothes," Burchfield said.

Proper definitions

Definition of Sexual Relations (from the Paula Jones deposition):

For the purposes of this deposition, a person engages in "sexual relations" when the person knowingly engages in or causes:

1) contact with the genitalia, anus, groin, breast, inner thigh or buttocks of any person with an intent to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of any person;

2) contact between any part of the person's body or an object and the genitals or anus of another person; or

3) contact between the genitals or anus of the person and any part of another person's body.

"Contact" means intentional touching, either directly or through clothing.

— courtesy of the office of Senator Edward M. Kennedy (D.–Mass.)

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Chip off the old block

UMass employee Steve Glaszcz chips ice from the sidewalk in front of the Fine Arts Center.

we're BACK

NEW AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO-KICKBOXING • YOGA
• Classes Daily
• Certified Instructors
• Suspended Wood Floor
• Area's Largest Room
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst 256-0060

1/2 PRICE Appetizers
• Buffalo Chicken Wings
• Mozzarella Sticks
• Chicken or Beef Nachos
Applebee's Neighborhood Grill & Bar

DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM DAILYCOLLEGIAN.COM

new improved editions-
makes learnin' 120% faster!
textbooks to go!
free delivery
buy online • new and used • save up to 40%
big words
www.bigwords.com

BUB'S BAR-B-Q
'Pig Out In Style'
VOTED BEST BARBQ AND BEST RIBS FOR THE PAST 14 CONSECUTIVE YEARS
BY THE ADVOCATE - (413) 548-9630

5 Barbers
Unisex Hair Styling
Amherst Barbers
Tel. 253-1722
40 Main Street Amherst, MA
(Next to Newbury Comics)
Hours: Mon-Fri. 8-5:15 Sat 8-3:45
Proprietors Jim Reed and Terri Loncrini
$9 and up
Appointments Not Necessary

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Taking the train home...

Anne Perez and Marlon Cush, both students at Amherst College, greet each other at the Amherst train station.

Changes coming to DCs

By Jason Trenkle
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts Dining Services has announced a complete change in its menu and food preparation techniques, in response to feedback from students and extensive planning by Auxiliary Services.

Instead of "batch" cooking, in which large quantities of food are prepared at once, the preferred method will be "just–in–time" cooking, Auxiliary Services President Ashoke Ganguli said.

"We used to cook hamburgers at 10 a.m. so they'd be ready to serve at 11:30 a.m.," Ganguli said. "This did not meet the student's feedback on food quality and freshness.

"Now, hamburgers will be cooked in small batches and ready to eat as you walk in," he said. "We want to try to create a restaurant environment."

These kinds of efforts toward improvement have included extensive food preparation training over the winter session. Chefs from top Canadian institutions joined UMass chefs in the culinary arts.

"We need to be competitive, like Marriott corporations and other food providers," Ganguli said.

Auxiliary Services has also implemented a change in its menu. In keeping with the budget restraints of the past, dieticians determined the type of ingredients and quality of food that would be served to the students. But now, chefs will control the menu on a daily basis in accordance with their budget and in the interests provided by feedback from the students.

"This is a huge change in traditional institutional dining," Ganguli said. "Chefs will be able to change the recipes and adapt them to what customers want."

In an effort to get student feedback, Ganguli and Dining Services have set up a food committee for each dining hall that will have students actively participating and working with food service managers.

"This is a big change for some of the employees, but we are getting tremendous support from the union," he said.

In the future, Ganguli said he hopes that will be able to extend the hours of operation and keep the dining halls more accessible to students.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Kathy Boze, an assistant chef at the Worcester dining commons, demonstrates "just–in–time cooking."

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is looking for a few good men and women – to write for the paper's diversity desks, which highlight a broad spectrum of the campus' news and views.

We are currently looking for: Developing Nations Editor; Multicultural Affairs Editor, and Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Affairs Editor. We also need writers for these desks, as well as the Black Affairs, Jewish Affairs and Women's Issues desks.

Contact Managing Editor Mike Messaros at 545 1809 or in 113 Campus Center Basement for more information.

HEY! NEED A JOB?
WHY NOT BE A BARTENDER!

➢ Only professional school in Western Mass
➢ Hands-on training in a real bar/club setting
➢ National certification in alcohol awareness - FREE!
➢ Lifetime refresher courses • Photo ID Card • Resume
➢ Special UMASS Student discount
➢ We have many excellent positions available
➢ Over 80 affiliate schools across the USA
➢ Conveniently located in West Springfield, MA
CALL TODAY! (413) 747-9888

MORE MACHINES! BEST PRICES!
Yoga • Cardi Kickboxing
Reebok Step • Low Impact • Area's Largest Room
MAKE '99 FINE
Get in Shape!
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0060 Rt. 116, So. Amherst

SHOPPING FOR PRICE?
YANKEE
- DISCOUNT OIL -
NORTHAMPTON HOLYOKE
584-4112 • 535-1888
• SAME DAY DELIVERY •

Spice of life.
India House
dinner nightly
45 State Street
Northampton
586-6344
Proudly announcing the opening of
ALKA TRAVEL
Specializing in travel plans to India, sub-continent, and Europe.
Talk to us about discounted Air Fare.
Call 587-3030 for further information and rates.

for all your holiday shopping
GIFTS from GLASS to GOLD
starting under $20.00

silverscape designs
GOLDSMITHS GEM GALLERY
One King St., Northampton 584-3334 • M-Wed 10-6, Th-Sat 10-9, Sun 12-5
264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst 253-3334 • M-Sat 10-6, Thurs till 8, Sun 12-5

"What a Great Experience!"

Learning the language. Meeting people. Coming face to face with history, art and architecture, culture, food and fun.

UNIVERSITY STUDIES ABROAD CONSORTIUM...
Small classes. Personal attention. Fully accredited — receive university credit.
We provide great classes in intensive, language, history, anthropology, art, business, economics, political science...

University Studies Abroad Consortium
University of Nevada Library / 323 Reno, Nevada 89557
(775) 784-6569
E-mail: usac@admin.unr.edu
http://www.scs.unr.edu/~usac

AUSTRALIA • BASQUE COUNTRY • CHILE • CHINA • COSTA RICA • DENMARK • ENGLAND • FRANCE
GERMANY • ISRAEL • ITALY • MALTA • NEW ZEALAND • SCOTLAND • SPAIN • THAILAND

COMPLETE AUTO BODY REPAIRS
ALL MAKES AND MODELS
DANA AUTOMOTIVE
"THE AFFORDABLE TRANSPORTATION PLACE"
COLLISION REPAIR • GLASS INSTALLATION
Authorized GM/VW Body Shop
Frame & Unibody Straightening
24 HR. HOTLINE 586-7250
FREE LOANERS
968 Bridge Road NORTHAMPTON

sporty, yet practical

textbooks to go!

free delivery

buy online • new and used • save up to 40%

big words

www.bigwords.com

HAMPSHIRE FITNESS CLUB

HAMPSHIRE FITNESS club

PLAY HARD TO STAY HARD

The Area's Most Complete Club 256-6446

90 Gatehouse Road Off Rt. 9 • 2 Miles East of Town Center

Free HFC T-Shirt

JOIN NOW FOR OUR 15 WEEK WINTER SPECIAL ($169) & GET A FREE HFC T-SHIRT

VISA MasterCard

Campus Career Network

University of Massachusetts Amherst

We're Here for You!

Engineering

Food & Natural Resources

Natural Science & Mathematics

Public Health & Health Sciences, Education and Nursing

Social & Behavioral Sciences

Network Central

Arts & Humanities

Management

WELCOME BACK!

Have you visited your network office? Find out what's there for YOU!

FEBRUARY

Employment Options
Career Library & Career Central Office
37 Mather Drive
545-2224

Ginger Goldsbury, Asst. Director Career Planning Food and Natural Resources Stockbridge 111A

Cori Ashworth, Asst. Director Field Experience Management School of Management 208C 577-0418

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
			11-2pm • Volunteer Fair CC Auditorium			11am-1:30pm Graduate and professional schools in greater New England for the summer $3000 CC room 911/3
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
Clark Edwards, Associate Director Career Planning Engineering Marston 119 545-6251		Susan Hammond, Asst. Director Career Planning Bartlett 266 545-6255	Tommie Joyner, Asst. Director Career Planning Social & Behavioral Sci. South College 105 577-0417		David Carroll, Asst. Director Career Planning Natural Sci. & Math 545-6264
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
			10-3pm • Career Fair CC Auditorium • ALANA Fair CC Auditorium	10-3pm Co-op Fair CC Auditorium
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
Dianna Dunn, Field Experience Arts and Humanities 264 Bartlett 545-6266		Jeff Silver, Field Experience Social & Behavioral Sci. Marston 119 545-6251	10-1pm Health and Wellness Fair CC Room 101		Gloria DiFulvio, Field Experience PublicHealth/Education/Nursing Marston 119 545-6251

RuthCarey, Asst. Director Career Planning PublicHealth/Education/Nursing Totman 150 545-6252

Check the bulletin boards in your academic deparment for more events.

VISIT OUR WEB PAGE @ http://www-ccn.acad.umass.edu

ARTS & LIVING

Joining the work force, temporarily

"Good afternoon, BJ's Sales and Audit," has now been branded into my brain right next to "Shovel the driveway, Bryan!" and "No, I will not go out with you." Certain phrases become ingrained in your psyche and are either uttered or heard automatically. And after working for months at my temp job this winter, and answering the phone more times than a sweet-16 cheerleader, "Good afternoon, BJ's Sales and Audit" became equatable to breathing, walking and not sharing any of my cool toys.

Okay, fine, I only worked for a week and I didn't even have a cubicle, nevermind a phone.

But this is besides the point.

The temp job is a necessary evil that all college students must, at one point or another, endure. Winter break is the hardest time for such a task, too: Part of you knows you need the money, and part of you wishes you could just stay home and play with all your cool toys.

Bryan McAllister

But alas, such idleness cannot last. The temp agency calls and you are sent into the world of "the morning commuse," water coolers, and more Shania Twain on the radio than you could ever normally handle. And even after slaving all last summer at the office, and working for this single week (and one day, mind you — so you don't think I'm lazy) at "BJ's Sales and Audit," the temp job remains a mystery to me.

Nowhere else is one hired with the understanding that what you do will have no real value for the company whatsoever, that you will leave in a couple weeks, and that you will be paid large sums of money to surf the Internet and play "Minesweeper."

Not only this, but as a temp, it will probably take you the entire duration of your stay to actually figure out what the company does. For months I thought I was working at a medical company, only to find out we sold low-quality snow tubes. And when you do actually work, your hours are spent calculating numbers using those always-handy second grade math skills.

At my temp job this winter, there was an extra special benefit included. I was hired "day-by-day," which basically meant that at 5 p.m. every day, my working fate would be decided by a guy with an overabundance of wool sweaters. This puts quite an extra amount of pressure on your shoulders, especially if you wanted to return the next day.

I felt like Wesley in The Princess Bride, captured by the Dread Pirate Roberts. "Good job, Wesley, get some sleep, I'll most likely kill you in the morning." Except he had no mask and I no true love, unless you count Parmesan cheese as a true love. It also meant I could make no plans whatsoever. "Tuesday? No I can't. I might be working."

Another problem with the temp job is the drastic difference in age between you and your co-workers. While there may be other similarly-aged kids nearby, the majority of your associates are people who could be friends with your parents, if your parents had friends.

These people include:

- Bette, the quiet, cold conservative woman whose highlight in life is a nice salad.
- Ron, the Jamaican guy no one understands. "Morning, Bryan. Hkhsdiwqorhy, kjdfoh, ierj?" "Sure, Ron. Sure."
- Janet, the plump, goofy Avon lady who thinks the Internet is a new way to basket-weave.
- and Gloria, a "side-talker." You know, the type that even though you're sitting right at the same table with her, asks the person next to her what you have for lunch.

"What does Bryan have for lunch today, Bette?" "I'm right here, you can ask me, you freak..."

For all these reasons and mysteries, I've compiled a couple of tips on how to survive that temp job come this summer. Call it "Temping 101," if you will; just don't call it "McDonalds," because then you'll get sued for copyright infringements.

1. The first key aspect of the temp job is making everything seem Very Important, and that you are Very Busy. George had this down in "Seinfeld" — but a look of scowl and frustration may only get you so far. Surfing the Internet and writing e-mail is always a popular choice, but then you start getting angry at the news websites when they don't update their news every hour. Sleeping while putting your hand over your eyes and bobbing your

Turn to WORK, page B2

Hampshire Theatres closes doors

Brian McCORMOTT / COLLEGIAN

The Hampshire Six Theatres closes its doors this semester to make room for a state-of-the-art theater.

By Bryan McAllister
Collegian Staff

Finding a movie to see around Amherst this semester will be harder than usual. Due to "renovations," the Hampshire Six Theatres has closed until the fall. In fact, it will be demolished and replaced with a 16-screen, advanced-sound theater to open around Thanksgiving time.

The Hampshire Six Theatres was the closest and cheapest outlet for mainstream Hollywood movies in the area, along with the still-remaining Mountain Farms cinema nearby. However, Mountain Farms only has four screens, as opposed to the 10 that the two theaters offered combined.

"We've never had just four screens before," said Mountain Farms manager Bill Jenkins. "[It's] a little bit of a hardship on the community, but a lot of good in return... They're building a state-of-the-art theater."

Depending on attendance, Mountain Farms will be able to show more than four movies by varying screentimes. As of press time, they are playing A Civil Action, The Thin Red Line, You've Got Mail, A Bug's Life, Patch Adams and Stepmom.

"If the public comes, we'll show more movies," said Jenkins. But, "it's a learning process at this time."

The closing of the Hampshire Six Theatres is still bound to have a large effect, however. Students will probably be more apt to try out the other, smaller theaters in the area: The Pleasant St. Theater and Academy of Music in Northampton, and the Amherst Cinema, which also may be closed soon. All three offer independent, art-house films at cheap prices.

In fact, the Amherst/Northampton area is probably one of the few places you'll find Oscar-caliber films such as The Thin Red Line (Mountain Farms), Life is Beautiful (Pleasant St.), The Celebration (Pleasant St.), and Shakespeare in Love (Academy of Music). Woody Allen's hilarious look at New York high-life, Celebrity, is also currently playing at the Amherst Cinema in downtown Amherst, as of press time.

The Thin Red Line is director Terrence Malick's return to the helm after a 20-year absence. The J.D. Salinger of movies last made Days of Heaven in 1978, and uses the same poetic/dreamlike approach he employed in his early films to tell this story of World War II.

Shakespeare in Love is the Golden Globe-nominated romantic comedy that Miramax is pushing to be this year's Good Will Hunting — a small film with a big heart. The movie stars Joseph Fiennes as the Bard and Gwyneth Paltrow as his muse, and concerns the writing of Romeo and Juliet. Like Good Will Hunting, Shakespeare should get nominated and may win the best original screenplay trophy, and could rack up a best picture nomination as well.

Italian filmmaker Robert Benigni's Life is Beautiful is a devastating comedy/drama about life in a WWII concentration camp, while The Celebration is a unconventional and equally staggering account of a birthday celebration that goes awry.

The nearest megaplex theaters are the Springfield Theater and the Showcase Cinemas in West Springfield.

1999's most anticipated events

The downside to trends is that Prince's "1999" was a pretty good song until it actually became 1999. Now, you will hear it more times than the Spice Girls, Hanson and the Backstreet Boys combined, and it's lost all its luster. But luckily, there is much more to hear and see this year. In the following, the Arts staff looks at some of the most anticipated UMass events, albums, movies, books and shows in the upcoming year.

UMass hosts Morissette, Phair (Kevin Monahan & Bryan McAllister)

For concerts, look to the William D. Mullins Center for Alanis Morissette and Liz Phair coming Feb. 11. Morissette touring in support of her new album Supposed Former Infatuation Junkie, takes the billing above Phair quite unjustly, as Phair's latest, whitechocolatespaceegg, was simply one of the best albums of last year. Tickets went on sale last Saturday, so hurry up. You can get them at the Mullins Center box office, or through Ticketmaster.

At Pearl Street, Burlington, Vt. groove rockers Strangefolk will play Feb. 3. Their improvisational skills, and Grateful Dead-like sound have won them a huge fanbase in the local hippie-crunchy community. The Pat McGee Band, Boston ska band Bim Skala Bim, and Lee "Scratch" Perry with Mad Professor have dates to be announced at Pearl Street. The Slip and Jiggle the Handle will be playing Thursday at the Iron Horse, and mark your calendars for The Wizard of Oz (Mar. 28) and Cassandra Wilson (Apr. 16) at the Calvin.

Tickets for all Pearl Street, Iron Horse, and Calvin shows are available at the Northampton Box Office (Second floor, Thornes marketplace). Tickets for Pearl Street and the Iron Horse are available at For the Record in Amherst.

Also, let's hope, look for that '99 Spring Concert with a yet-to-be-named artist. But don't hold your breath.

At the Fine Arts Center, Rodgers and Hammerstein's Broadway smash The King and I comes to town on April 9. Also anticipated are Things Fall Apart, based on the acclaimed novel by Chinua Achebe, and Tango Buenos Aires, a celebration of the history of tango, on March 4.

Finally, for all those people who can't get enough of ice skating (you know who you are), Discover Stars on Ice does a double toe loop thing, or whatever they do, into the Mullins Center on March 5. The program features really cute people with lots of money like Tara Lipinski, Kristi Yamaguchi and Scott Hamilton.

Curing your listening needs (Kevin Monahan, Music Editor)

"South Park" gave us one of the best moments in television last year, when little Kyle Broslowski shouted to Robert Smith after he defeated the evil "Mecha-Streisand," "Disintegration is the best album ever!" The boy has wisdom beyond his years.

Much to the delight of fans all over the world, Robert Smith and the rest of The Cure have decided not to call it quits after the release of 1997's singles collection Galore, record one more album, and embark on one more world tour.

The new album, now being mixed in London, has no definite release date or title as of yet, but expect it in stores around mid-late semester. The sound of the new album is looking good, judging from the recent singles "Wrong Number," recorded for Galore, and "More Than This," featured on the X-Files soundtrack.

From their beginning as the Easy Cure, the band has seen members come and go with great frequency, Smith being the only member of the band appearing on every album. From the release of their debut album, 1979's Three Imaginary Boys, the band has fluctuated from trio, to quartet, to quintet, with current bassist Simon Gallup being almost, but not quite, a constant member. Even Smith has considered The Cure to be a part-time gig at one point, when he was acting as guitarist for Siouxsie and the Banshees (this was around "The Love Cats"-era Cure, and "Dear Prudence"-era Siouxsie).

The Cure scored early minor hits in the U.S. with "Boys Don't Cry" and the Camus-referencing "Killing an Arab," which became very controversial, drawing criticism from countless illiterates. The albums Seventeen Seconds

COURTESY COMEDY CENTRAL

"South Park" makes a hero out of Cure frontman Robert Smith, set to make a new album. Also look for the "South Park" movie, out this summer.

Turn to EVENTS, page B2

Winter movies score hits, misses

A CIVIL ACTION
Directed by Steven Zaillian with John Travolta, Robert Duvall, William H. Macy

Based on Jonauhen Harr's bestseller, the story of Boston personal injury attorney Jan Schlichtmann taking on two large corporations translates well to film. Director-screenwriter Steven Zaillian (Searching For Bobby Fischer, Schindler's List) keeps the film taut, and tense. Terrific performances are given by Travolta, Duvall, Macy and Kathleen Quinlan.

It would be difficult to make the plight of the Woburn families affected by the loss of their children more heart-wrenching, as it is difficult to walk away from this film unaffected. The great photography by Conrad L. Hall is a plus. One of the most well crafted films to come out of Hollywood in a while. A- (Kevin Monahan)

PATCH ADAMS
Directed by Tom Shaydac with Robin Williams, Monica Porter, Peter Coyote

Patch Adams overcomes its seemingly melodramatic story line and would-be label of a dramedy to be a movie that is equally funny and warm-hearted. Patch is a middle-aged man with a passion for helping people and a dream to become a doctor. His uncanny ability to make people laugh and fulfill their fantasies endears him to everyone around. Unfortunately, this zeal causes him conflict with the strict dean at medical school. Patch fights to break medical convention and spread his unique hope and inspiration to all people.

Usually, it takes an amazing acting performance to make single character films like this work so well; witness Tom Hanks in Forrest Gump, Tom Cruise in Jerry Maguire, and Matt Damon in Good Will Hunting. Well, Robin Williams fills these large shoes, in this case clown shoes, quite well. Williams shines as the charismatic doctor who is boyish and timid at times, and magnanimous and courageous at others. Williams carries the movie and reaches out to audiences in much the same way that his character, Patch, reached out to his patients. Dare I say, this may be the feel good movie of the year. B+ (Adam Martignetti)

Turn to MOVIES, page B7

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

Trax B3
Calendar of Events B4
Varsity Blues Review .. B4

5 College News and Events

- SMITH COLLEGE RECEIVES $24 MILLION IN GIFTS TO EXPAND FINE ARTS CENTER

NORTHAMPTON — Believed to be the largest gift ever received by a "Seven Sister" school, Smith College inherited gifts of $14 million and $10 million from alumnae in order to expand its Fine Arts Center. The Center includes Smith's Department of Art, Hillyer Art Library and the already superb Museum of Art.

- UMASS' HAMPDEN GALLERY HOME TO TIBETAN EXHIBIT

Jan. 28–Feb. 26 — Kathmandu: The Black Mahakala Room, a modular temple about Tibetan culture and deities, will be on display at Hampden from now until Feb. 26. There is a closing reception on the last day from 4 p.m.–7 p.m. in the South Side Theater.

- VIOLINIST AND PIANIST TO TEAM UP AT SMITH'S SAGE HALL

Jan. 29 — Acclaimed Russian violinist Oleh Krysa will join Russian pianist Tatiana Tchekina to play the works of Beethoven, Brahms, Ravel and others at Sage Hall at Smith College on January 29 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $6 for students with an I.D., $18 for general admission, and are available through Northampton Box office, (413) 586-8686 or 800-THE-TICK, and at the door.

- UMASS, SMITH HOST ART-WORK

Feb. 9–March 5 — Stuart Copan's work is on display at the Wheeler Gallery.

Jan. 25–Feb. 5 — "Staff Visions," an annual display of arts and crafts created by Smith College staff, will be held in the Gallery (20 Elm St.) from now till February 5. Exhibit hours are Monday–Friday, 8 a.m.–8 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m.–8 p.m; Sunday, noon–8 p.m.

- AMHERST COLLEGE'S DEPARTMENT OF THEATER AND DANCE HOSTS TWO PLAYS

Jan. 28–31 — Party Booby Trap, written and directed by Katie Rubin, will be showing at 8 p.m. at Webster Studio Three at Amherst College on Jan. 28, 29 and 30. The play is "a fast-paced comedic ride through satire and chaos." Admission is free, reservations are suggested (542–2277).

Tofu and Potatoes, created and directed by Mabel I. Lajes, shows for one performance only on Jan. 31 at 8 p.m. at the Experimental Theater at Amherst College. Created in collaboration with students from a class at the Pioneer Valley Charter High School, Tofu and Potatoes examines life from the eyes of teenagers. Admission is free, seating is limited. Contact 542–2411 for more information.

— compiled by Bryan McAllister

■ events

continued from page B1

(1980) and Faith (1981) yielded a few hit singles ("Play For Today," "Other Voices"), but it was 1982's Pornography that landed The Cure a large following, with their unique brand of goth-pop.

The only single from Pornography, "The Hanging Garden," an extremely dark, drum-driven tune, proved to be an inspiration on James O'Barr during the writing of The Crow. In 1983, their mini-LP Japanese Whispers was an instant success, producing three smash hits, "Let's Go to Bed," "The Love Cats" and "The Walk." Japanese Whispers also began their collaboration with video director Tim Pope (The Crow: City of Angels).

The Cure in their prime started with 1985's The Head On the Door album. The singles "Close to Me" and "A Night Like This" were instant classics. Kiss Me, Kiss Me, Kiss Me, in 1987, gave us one of their biggest hits, "Just Like Heaven." But their masterpiece was yet to come.

It came in the form of a gloomy collection of songs entitled Disintegration (1989). The singles from this album are nothing short of superb. The enchanting "Lovesong," the spooky "Lullaby," the moody "Fascination Street," and the heartbreaking "Pictures of You" are undoubtedly the songs The Cure will be best known for. Disintegration is arguably the most depressing album ever recorded. Unfortunately, it all went downhill from there.

Mixed Up (1990) was the last decent release from The Cure. The album consisted mostly of remixes of their past singles. "Never Enough" and "Close to Me (Closer Mix)" managed to be hits. But their next singles were Grade A cheese. "High" and "Friday I'm In Love" from 1992's Wish were so saccharine sweet they bordered on nauseating. The dismal follow up to Wish, 1996's Wild Mood Swings, is unanimously agreed upon by fans as The Cure's worst album.

Smith and the band say that this, the new album, will hark back to Pornography and Disintegration with a modern edge, much like "Wrong Number" and "More Than This" do. If that is the case, we are awaiting what will probably be one of the best albums of 1999.

Now let's move on to another album we're waiting for with bated breath. Not too long ago I received a postcard from Nothing records with the words "Ninety–Nine" printed on it in plain orange font on a black background. The n's were backwards.

In their first album since 1994's The Downward Spiral, Nine Inch Nails is planning on releasing a new LP. Yes, it's about time. NIN's recent works — Trent Reznor's production of the soundtracks to Oliver Stone's Natural Born Killers and David Lynch's Lost Highway, giving us the singles "Burn" and the mediocre "The Perfect Drug" respectively, and the Closure video — served as nothing more than attempts to distract fans from the fact that there hasn't been a new album in six years. We don't quite know which direction Trent and company will take with the new album, but they never fail to be interesting.

Nine Inch Nails established themselves as one of the early industrial bands in 1989, drawing influences from Ministry, Front 242 and Skinny Puppy. After leaving his band 10,000 Homo DJ's, lead vocalist Reznor recorded the band's first album, Pretty Hate Machine almost completely on his own, receiving help from Richard Patrick (now of Filter) among others.

"Head Like a Hole" and "Down In It" became popular, as did the poppy single "Sin." After a bitter contract dispute with his label, TVT, Reznor signed to Interscope and formed his own label, Nothing. TVT still has their hold on Reznor, though; everything released under the name Nine Inch Nails owes royalties to TVT.

The masterpiece in self-loathing that became the 1992 EP Broken, was a far cry from the dark, synthetic pop of Pretty Hate Machine. Broken gave us eight tracks of guitar driven noise that came perilously close to unlistenable. Reznor's anger, directed at himself and TVT, manifested itself in the song "Happiness in Slavery." The video for the song featuring a naked man being pulled apart by an elaborate torture device, sealed the fate of the band, in critics eyes, as an act that will never find a wide audience.

However, due to NIN's slightly lighter material (compared to that of other industrial acts at the time), the sex appeal of Reznor, a gig at Woodstock '94 (a performance that caught the attention of David Letterman, of all people) and a MTV hit with "Closer," Nine Inch Nails succeeded at bringing industrial into the mainstream. Their album The Downward Spiral went platinum, and Reznor's fledgling acts on the Nothing label, such as Marilyn Manson, gained more notoriety.

The new album is untitled as of yet. And yes, there will be a tour.

Other artists with upcoming releases to be on the lookout for this year include: Dead Can Dance, Sebadoh, Rage Against the Machine, No Doubt, The Wallflowers, The Fugees and Fiona Apple.

Star Wars, Austin, Kubrick return
(Rob Roensch, Film Editor)

This year will be remembered as year of movies we waited years to see. Leading the list, of course, is the new Star Wars, not to mention Stanley Kubrick's long delayed latest.

First, forget Y2K. 1999 will be remembered as the Year of The New Star Wars movie. The prequel, called The Phantom Menace, starring Liam Neeson, Ewan McGregor and Natalie Portman is out this summer and has already been hyped up to a ridiculous degree. The new movie centers on the early life of Anakin Skywalker, Luke's father, and includes appearances from old friends Yoda, a skinless C3PO and Obi-Wan Kenobi (McGregor). It could probably sell out the Astrodome. The profits will be there, the magic is another story.

After the new Star Wars, the movie people are most waiting for is Stanley Kubrick's Eyes Wide Shut. The famously perfectionist director kept Nicole Kidman and Tom Cruise locked into London for more than a year. The film, based on the obscure twisted Freudian novel Traumnovelle is set to open July 16, at the height of the dumb–movie season. If that doesn't arouse your curiosity, nothing will.

Another piece of literature hits the theaters this year as The Legend of Sleepy Hollow gets the Tim Burton treatment in a new adaption starring Burton–favorite Johnny Depp and spooky it–girl Christina Ricci. Washington Irving's classic American ghost story seems like the perfect vehicle for Burton's talents, and Johnny Depp could play weirdo Ichabod Crane with his eyes closed.

A weirdo of a different sort, comedian Mike Myer's surprising success Austin Powers gets the sequel treatment this summer in Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me, co-starring Heather Graham. The plot concerns Powers traveling back in time to the year 1969 in search of the thief of his considerable mojo, Dr. Evil. Expect more Mr. Bigglesworth, swanky "birds" and dentistry humor.

A more adult movie and one of the most anticipated small– scale movies of the year has to be The Talented Mr. Ripley, a passion/betrayal/triangle sort of movie set in Italy, starring a hot group of actors including Gwyneth Paltrow, Matt Damon, Jude Law and Cate Blanchett. As if that wasn't enough, the movie is directed by English Patient director Anthony Minghella.

Besides these big guns, 1999 promises a slew of interesting risks including Kevin Smith's religious drama Dogma; Ang Lee's Civil War drama with Jewel, Ride With the Devil, Jim Carrey as Andy Kaufman in Man on the Moon, Boogie Nights' director Paul Thomas Anderson's mysterious Magnolia and Tom

COURTESY NOTHING RECORDS

Trent Reznor, front and center, the lead singer of Nine Inch Nails, plans a new album for 1999.

■ work

continued from page B1

pen up and down is a practicable art.

2. Spread out your work all across your desk. This is the reverse of the ever–popular "spreading your peas" tactic you did so often as a kid, and then realized it never worked. I apologize to any budding vegetarians who spread their steak instead.

3. Take a walk and get lost in the building. If anyone asks, you're "trying to find a bathroom." This also works at hotels and brothels.

4. Organize your paper clips. Then mess them up and do it again.

5. Select a Very Important Client and fax over some Monopoly bills. Write "The money we owe you" at the top, and under it, "P.S. We've got hotels on Boardwalk and Park Place. Watch out!"

6. Go on trips for more supplies every hour. Stuff them in your bag, get more supplies, and stuff those in too. Then cry, "I'm out of supplies!" and get some more. You'll never need pens for class again, and you get cool double–sided tape.

7. Actually learn how to play "Minesweeper" instead of just randomly clicking buttons and hoping for no mines, as commonly believed is the point of the game.

After all, if there's no point to what you're doing, why actually do it? No one cares if anything is actually accomplished. It will all be filed in "the back room," never to be seen again, except by another temp who will indeed cherish a Very Big Project to waste time on.

Bryan McAllister is a Collegian staff member.

Letter from the Editor

Welcome back, everybody, and I hope your winter break was as filled with pure, unbridled laziness as mine was.

However, as the new semester starts, I'm sure at least part of you is wanting to return to the rigors of school life. Part of that life, hopefully, includes the incredible amount of music, theater, film, dance and art happening around UMass this spring. As usual, Amherst and Northampton will have something to offer for just about everyone this semester, and it's our job to tell you what's going on, what to see and what not to see.

Because of the diversity of opinions about art and living styles, it's imperative that our staff have an equal amount of diversity, and then we bring you the news in the most enjoyable way possible. If you've thoughts about writing before but never got the chance to try it, or even if you've never written a word about music or film, the Arts & Living desk is looking for your voice.

I can say personally that this is the best and easiest way to get involved in something on campus. More events are happening than we can cover, and I'd like to reverse that fact. And if you don't like what you read in this section, this is your chance to change it.

If you're interested, come down to the Collegian offices in the basement of the Campus Center or call me at 545–1361. There will also be a meeting for new and returning writers sometime next week, and that date will be posted in the Collegian. Also, if you have any ideas on how to make your Arts & Living section better, or have any questions or comments, please feel free to e–mail me at bryanm@student.umass.edu.

Thanks, and have a great semester.

Bryan McAllister
Arts & Living Editor

THE BIGGEST BACK TO SCHOOL POSTER SALE

1000's of Choices

Where:
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
When:
Mon. Jan. 25 thru Fri. Jan. 29
Time:
9 AM - 4:30 PM
Sponsor:
WMUA 91.1 FM

Incredible Selection

CHECK OUT OUR GREAT POSTERS AND PRICES!!

MOST IMAGES
ONLY $6, $7 AND $8

Treadmills
PrecoreEFX cross-trainers
Exercise Bikes
Stair machines
Aerobics
Free weights
Circuit Weights
Basketball
Volleyball
Soccer on our full-sized Sport Court

Looking for a place to work out where you can be yourself?

Kinetics ADULT FITNESS at NORTHAMPTON

586-0633
317 Russell St. (Rt.9) Hadley

Classroom Operation

call us at 545-1611

will be hiring 100+ UMass Students for consultant, clerical, technical, and programming positions for Fall '98

APPLICATIONS AND INTERVIEWS
Jan. 25th, 26th, and 27th

Room 738
W.E.B Du Bois Library for further information

Ani flies high; Beck mutates; Goo Goo Dolls rock

COURTESY ALBERT SANCHEZ

Righteous Babe Ani DiFranco adds another success to her repertoire.

UP UP UP UP UP UP
Ani DiFranco
Righteous Babe

As opposed to R.E.M.'s just plain Up? DiFranco has shed the goofy clown–like image that adorned her last release, Little Plastic Castle, and adopted an image that resembles Sporty Spice. What Ani accomplishes here is proof that an artist steeped in punk rock sensibilities, and a "Do It Yourself" attitude can maintain popularity without selling out. While keeping her politics in the right place, and keeping everything she releases on her own label, Ani has established herself to be a sort of feminist Jello Biafra.

Up Up Up Up Up Up sounds more like a release from a full band, rather than the acoustic folk with minimal accompaniment that characterized DiFranco's earlier works (Dilate, Not a Pretty Girl). Melodic has hardly been a word to describe DiFranco's music, but powerful and provocative have, and this album is no exception. Ani's voice lacks the necessary emotion that her lyrics demand In some places, for instance the first track "'Tis of Thee," but she makes up for it with tracks like "Everett."

Overall Ani's latest is not by any means her best. But it is a decent release, and an important step in her ever–increasing musical creativity. B+
(Kevin Monahan)

MUTATIONS
Beck
DGC/Geffen

The influences here are all over the map. From country, to folk, to world music Beck draws from it all. The lyrics are more focused than the free association on Mellow Gold or Odelay, and pop conventions are made of more use.

"Nobody's Fault But My Own" and "Tropicalia" are excellent tracks that prove that the title of this album is more than appropriate. A– (K.M.)

DIZZY UP THE GIRL
Goo Goo Dolls
Warner Brothers

The Goo Goo Dolls are the type of made–for–radio band that you have that love/hate relationship with. You might not be able to get "Slide" out of your head, but that's not always a good thing. One perk, though, is that the band tries to conquer the common Everything Sounds the Same problem by varying the lead vocals between John Rzeznik and Robby Takac. Somehow, though, everything still sounds the same.

But at least it's consistent, and Dizzy Up the Girl is a consistently solid album. Starting with "Dizzy," which has a rocky feel that marks the album, the Dolls match the oversentimentality of songs like "Iris" with bouncier fair like "January Friend" and "Bullet Proof."

And even oversentimentality works on "Black Balloon" and the seemingly "Iris"–like "Acoustic #3." The second–best song on the album, "Amigone," is short on lyrical deepness but high on edginess, something these type of listener– friendly bands sorely lack.

And while after "All Eyes on Me" Everything starts to Sound the Same, and "Iris" makes you dash for the "skip" button, Dizzy Up the Girl is still a predictable treat. Enjoyable, but nothing new. B– (Bryan McAllister)

NUKLEOPATRA
Dead or Alive
Cleopatra

80's New Wave lives! Dead or Alive's compilation/remix album is a necessity for everyone seeking an alternative to Culture Club. With two remixes of the hit "You Spin Me Round (Like a Record)," this is a CD needed for every retro party you throw. Loads of fun. A (K.M.)

UNFINISHED MONKEY BUSINESS
Ian Brown
Mercury/The Enclave

What's the point, really? This appeared in England in 1997 and finally surfaces here in the States. Brown's claim to fame is as vocalist for Stone Roses, whose debut disc from 1989 is one of the great pop records of all time.

After such success, what is a band to do? They tried with Second Coming in 1994 and failed miserably. The band soon split up. One member went on to form the dull Seahorses and Brown has taken this long to give us his solo debut.

Tracks such as "Can't See Me" and "What Happened To You" are pure Stone Roses and are most welcome amongst the more experimental pieces. This one got lott amongst all of last year's releases and there is nothing here to make it worth picking up.

Brown is unable to promote this at the moment as he is serving a four–month prison sentence for abusive and threatening behavior on a British Airways flight. This one is destined for oblivion. Pick up the Stone Roses debut instead. C (Matthew Nixon)

BEAT NOIR
Spahn Ranch
Cleopatra

Electronic–darkwave has seen better faces. Even with Love and Rockets' Kevin Haskins helping out on one track, Beat Noir cannot transcend mediocrity. The synthetic beats here just don't click, and there's not much to keep you listening after boredom sets in. C– (K.M.)

VIRGIN VOICES
A Tribute to Madonna
Cleopatra

What a great idea this was. Everyone associated with this album will insist that they're not poking fun at Madonna, that they're actually paying homage to her. But when you have bands like KMFDM and Information Society doing covers of "Material Girl" and "Express Yourself," that's kind of hard to believe.

Let's face it, Madonna is a corporate puppet and deserves to be a figure of fun. Hopping on a new bandwagon whenever it passes has helped Madonna keep her image "fresh." But each time she re–invents herself, I, for one get the sneaking suspicion that it is an attempt to distract the public from how much her last album sucked.

So I take great pleasure in hearing KMFDM butcher "Material Girl" and the Voluptuous Horror of Karen Black rip apart "Burning Up." Front Line Assembly's "Justify My Love" is a thousand times better than the original could ever be. Heaven 17's "Holiday" is a lot of fun too.

Bi–God 20 did a better cover of "Like a Prayer" than Lolleatta Holloway, but you can't have everything. Look for a Virgin Voices Vol. II later this year, featuring A Flock of Seagulls, Switchblade Symphony and Skinny Puppy's Ogre covering "Borderline." A (K.M.)

COURTESY DAMIEN LOEDS

Mutations finds Beck both drawing from his roots and changing his style.

NEW AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO–KICKBOXING • YOGA
* Classes Daily
* Certified Instructors
* Suspended Wood Floor
* Area's Largest Room
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst. 256-0080

February, 1999

ARTS ON CAMPUS...

A monthly calendar brought to you by the UMass Arts Council.

Events

Thursday, February 4
■DANCE: Royel Winnipeg Ballet All–Tchaikovsky evening by a company known for its artistic excellence and beauty. 8 p.m. in the Concert Hall. $ 545–2511.
Friday, February 5
✖DANCE: Magic Triangle Jazz Series Reggie Workman Ensemble. 8 p.m. at Bowker Auditorium. $ 545–2511.
DESIGN CONTEST: Book Cover Design for Dr. Frederick C. Tills' book of poetry entitled Seasons, Symbols, and Stones. Theme should include stones and an atmosphere of mystery. Submissions to: Julie Fifield, Fine Arts Center Director's Office, 129 Herter Hall by 5 pm. 545–3517.
Saturday, February 6
THEATER: Mission Improvable Improvisational comedic theater. 8–10:30 pm In 163 Campus Center. 545–3600. Also will be held on Feb. 13, 20, 27.
Tuesday, February 9
■MUSIC: London City Opera Johann Strauss, Jr.'s Die Fledermaus (The Bat)—the greatest operetta ever written! 8 p.m. at the Concert Hall. $ 545–2511.
Thursday, February 11
■MUSIC: Kol Simcha: Europe's Klezmer Band Kol Simcha a unique sound adds a modern flair to klezmer's traditional Eastern European folk origins. 8 p.m. at Bowker Auditorium. $ 545–2511.
Tuesday, February 16
FILM: Too Close to Heaven: The History of Gospel with introductory remarks by UMass professor Dr. Horace Clarence Boyer. 7 p.m. at Augusta Savage Gallery. 545–5177.
Thursday, February 18
■THEATER: Hazelle A college of risky, sassy, and hilarious Brooklyn residents, created and performed by Trinidad–born, Brooklyn–raised Hazelle Goodman. 8 p.m. at Bowker Auditorium. $ 545–2511.
Friday, February 19
■THEATER: Jails, Hospitals, and Hip–Hop Obie Award–winner Danny Hoch reveals the depths and heights of urban life with unflinching accuracy. 8 p.m. at Bowker Auditorium. $ 545–2511.
Tuesday, February 23
MUSIC: A Night of Acapella Music Three acappella groups including The Amherst Regional High School Chorale and The Bear Necessities from Brown University. 8 p.m. at Bezanson. 545–3600.
Wednesday, February 24
READING Corey Cokes A reading by African American poet and National Poetry Slam champion. 7 p.m. in Augusta Savage Gallery. 545–5177.
Thursday, February 25
■MUSIC: Awadagin Pratt Pianist Awadegin Pratt is acclaimed for his musical insight and intensely involving performances. 8 p.m. at Bowker Auditorium. $ 545–2511.
✖DRAMA: Senengo A surreal, poetic drama of self–exploration, co–produced with the Dept. of Theater. Feb. 25–27 and Mar. 2–6. 8 p.m. at the Curtain Theater with a 2pm matinee on Mar. 6. $ 545–2511.
Friday, February 26
CULTURAL NIGHT: Dominican Night Music, food and more. 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. In Student Union Ballroom. $ 545–0054.

$5 College students can attend any Fine Arts Center event for only $5–9!
✖ funded in part by a grant from the UMass Arts Council

Exhibits

✖AUGUSTA SAVAGE GALLERY
545–5177
Impermanence
by Leslie Kenneth Price
Feb. 8–Mar. 12
Reception: Feb. 8, 5–7 pm

✖HAMPDEN GALLERY
545–0580
Kathmandu Project
Jan. 28– Feb. 26
Reception: Feb. 26, 4–7 pm in the South Side Theater

✖HERTER ART GALLERY
545–0976
Fred Becker: Prints 1939–90
By Fred Becker
Feb. 4–28
Reception: Feb. 4, 4–6 pm

✖STUDENT UNION VISUAL & PERFORMING ARTS SPACE
545–0792
The Mid–Wey Show
By UMass MFA candidates
Feb. 1–12
Reception: Feb. 3, 4–6 pm

Repurpose
A group show of emerging New York artists Alyson Shotz, Cornelia van den Broeke, Timothy Murdoch, Geraldine Erman. Curated by Francis Merrigan and Mari Spirito.
Feb. 18–Mar. 10
Reception: Feb. 22, 4–6 pm

✖UNIVERSITY GALLERY
Watch for the upcoming exhibition Alumni IV, April 10–June 5

✖WHEELER GALLERY
545–0580
New Work
By Stuart Copans
Feb. 9–Mar. 5
Reception: Feb. 9, 4–7 pm

ARTS COUNCIL INFORMATION:

Plan Your Spring Events NOW!

Apply for funding from the Arts Council to support your art event. The Council awards grants to UMass organizations. This year's remaining Single Projects/Events deadlines are: February 4 & March 11.
CALL US ABOUT THE ARTS COUNCIL'S NEW MINI–GRANT PROGRAM—DUE ON MARCH 8 and APRIL 12th!

2/99

UMass Arts Council, 101 Hasbrouck Lab, 545–0202

PUT THE CAMPUS in your pocket!

UCard Debit Account

The convenient & easy way to buy at Umass

No more...
• Checks,
• Cash
• or Change

Accepted at over 50 retail, food and ticket locations, on campus, as well as DVC vending machines on campus.

OPEN AN ACCOUNT TODAY,
OR ADD $$ TO YOUR EXISTING ACCOUNT!
Cash, Check or Credit Card
Accepted

Opening week only
Campus Center Concourse
10 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
Tuesday - Thursday
Jan. 26 - 28

Year round
UCard Offce,
Frankin Dining Hall
8:30 a.m. - 7 p.m. Tues. - Thurs., Opening Week
8:30 - 5:00 p.m., M-F
academic year schedule

For more info. call 545-0197

~Calendar of Events~

JANUARY–FEBRUARY

Jan. 30 — 10th Annual Fine Arts Center Gala
A festive evening of dinner, entertainment and fund–raising. Log Cabin, Holyoke, 7:30 p.m.–11:30 p.m.

Feb. 4 — Royal Winnipeg Ballet
An all–Tchaikovsky night of ballet. Fine Arts Concert Hall, 8 p.m.

Feb. 5 — Magic Triangle Jazz Series
Reggie Workman Ensemble
Bowker Auditorium, 8 p.m.

Feb. 8–March 12 — Impermanence
Recent drawings by African–American artist Leslie Price. Augusta Savage Gallery.

Feb. 9 — London City Opera
Johann Strauss, Jr.'s Die Fledermaus (The Bat). Fine Arts Center Concert Hall, 8 p.m.

Feb. 11 — Kol Simcha: Europe's Klezmer Band
Presented by the Fine Arts Center and WFCR's Jazz A La Mode. Bowker Auditorium, 8 p.m.

Feb. 16 — Too Close to Heaven: The History of Gospel
A film screening with introductory remarks by UMass professor Horace Boyer. Augusta Savage Gallery, 7 p.m.

Feb. 17–20 — fag/hag
Sleeveless Theatre's Kate Nugent and Joe Salvatore explore the relationships between gay men and straight women in funny, poignant monologues and vignettes. Thornes Market, Northampton, 3rd floor, 8 p.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday matinee.

Feb. 18 — Hazelle
Hazelle Goodman's collage of Brooklyn residents. Bowker Auditorium, 8 p.m.

Feb. 19 — Jails, Hospitals and Hip–Hop
Obie Award–winner Danny Hoch explores urban life. Bowker Auditorium, 8 p.m.

Feb. 22 — Paul Robeson, All–American
Ossie Davis' biography of the athlete–entertainer. Concert Hall, 10:30 a.m.

Feb. 24 — Corey Cokes
A reading by the African American poet and National Poetry Slam champion. Augusta Savage Gallery, 7 p.m.

Feb. 25 — Awadagin Pratt
Pianist. Bowker Auditorium, 10:30 a.m. and 8 p.m.

— compiled by Bryan McAllister

Candy from a baby: Ex–Mickey Mouse Clubber Britney Spears

By Bryan McAllister
Collegian Staff

...BABY ONE MORE TIME
Britney Spears
Jive

Back in the late 80's/early 90's, there were Tiffany, Debbie, Janet, Paula and Madonna. A last name was not important, and nor will one be important for a hometown Kansas girl named Britney, a Mickey Mouse club veteran, which says it all right there.

Like Janet and Paula, 17–year–old Britney is as much a "dancer" as she is a "singer," as much a commercial product as she is an artist.

Because after the success of the Backstreet Boys and (I hate to even mention them in a review) N'Sync, this type of thing was inevitable. Produced and engineered by the guys behind those damn Backstreet Boys, ...Baby One More Time is the pre–teen girly answer to all that pseudo romantic masculinity. Witness song titles like "Soda Pop" and "Email My Heart."

All the elements for equal success are present: Pretty face? Check. Special Britney Spears merchandise including tank tops and key chains? Check. Super–catchy radio song with a super–sexy video? Check. The only question is whether 14–year–old boys will brave all the whiny emotions to get the free poster included with the album, and whether 14–year– old girls will get jealous of her perfect figure.

But in all fairness, ...Baby One More Time draws its influences more from real singers like Janet, Madonna, Whitney and Mariah. The single we've all heard by now, "...Baby One More Time," is already a well–deserved hit. It's fun, it's spunky, and that schoolgirl video beats the Spice Girls anyday.

"(You Drive Me) Crazy" and "Sometimes" are sugar–sweet and smooth, and "Born to Make You Happy" has an amiable tune. Unfortunately, the rest of the album falls surprisingly short, and I'm not even counting musical talent here. It's just not that catchy or re–playable. Spears is seriously held back by all the in–studio tinkering, her back–up singers, and the fact that since she didn't write these lyrics. She doesn't seem too convinced.

"I Will Be There" and "I Will Still Love You" are much too slow and serious for such a perky teen.

But still, all the strings have been pulled, so since when did the actual music matter? If you like this type of guilty pleasure, I recommend the CD single for "...Baby One More Time," which includes what should have been on this album, a song called "Autumn Goodbye." It's also an enhanced CD, which means you get a free video, interview, and Britney Spears trading card! Man, the fun never stops. Full CD: C. Enhanced CD Single: B

Van Der Beek, Voight struggle to the end zone in Varsity Blues

The stars of MTV's Varsity Blues, led by James Van Der Beek, in a not–so–candid publicity shot.

COURTESY J. CAMP

By Rob Roensch
Collegian Staff

VARSITY BLUES
Directed by Brian Robbins with James Van Der Beek, Jon Voight, Paul Walker
Playing at Showcase Cinemas

For the residents of West Canaan, Texas, high–school football is more than a sport, more than a way of life, it is a religion. Through football, the town's people dream themselves into something large, mysterious and important. They arrive hours early for games and the coach and starting quarterback are revered like prophets.

In America, our fierce love of spectator sports allows us to imagine ourselves as part of a great battle. When Michael Jordan retired, we felt like we had lost something. We weren't sad for him, we were sad for ourselves; we loved him with such intensity that his victories became ours.

At first, Varsity Blues seems like a Hoosiers–style atmospheric evocation of one town's religious absorption in a sport. Where Hoosiers used bleak, cold Indiana cornfields and rickety gyms to great effect, Varsity Blues uses the wide, hot sky, locker rooms and the light under the bleachers.

But the love of sport isn't so uncomplicated in Varsity Blues. Sadistic head coach Bud Kilmer (played with great scenery–devouring intensity by Jon Voight) forces star quarterback Lance Harbor to play injured, a decision that results in the quarterback tearing all the ligaments in his knee. In steps back–up John Moxon ("Dawson's Creek" star James Van Der Beek), who tangles with coach Kilmer about play–calling, and, ultimately, about Kilmer's attitude that treasures a win more than a player's health.

Varsity Blues is a movie that, for better or worse, spreads itself in many different directions. There is the wonderful evocation of a small–town's use of a sport to transcend itself that is complicated by the town's trust in the evil, overlord coach and Moxon's somewhat pretentious distaste for the whole system.

There are some well–developed male characters, but also some very thinly written female characters. There is beautiful photography and a surprisingly solid, sympathetic performance from Van Der Beek, but there is also a wildly unnecessary, overlong strip–club scene and other badly– judged bits of sexist humor, such as a football player singing "She broke my heart/ so I broke her jaw."

The movie is always unsure whether it wants to be a detailed record of a place and time, an inspirational sports story, or a crappy MTV sex comedy. In the end, it is a little bit of all three.

But despite its failings, the ending of Varsity Blues can't help but be moving. When the final half hits, all the stupid sex stuff floats away and the battle against authority is forgotten. Even the anti–authority Moxon loses himself in the game, in the motion and effort, the lights and the grass and the whole town on their feet, shaking the bleachers.

What is most convincing and memorable about Varsity Blues isn't the battle against oppressive adults, or the genius of Moxon's play calling, or even the girl in the whipped cream bikini; it is the way everyone, in the end, disappears into the game, becomes part of it.

Varsity Blues starts strong, gets confused, and finally limps across the goal line, hampered by stupid clichés and stereotypes, but in the end zone, something in it is too strong and true to be denied. B

ATKINS FARMS Country Market
Rte. 116 & Bay Rd.
South Amherst, MA
(413)253-9528 (800) 594-9537

STUDENT SPECIAL CARE PACKAGES

Birthday Cakes
8" Round (12-18 servings) $12.00
10" Round (18-25 servings) $15.00
1/4 Sheet Cake (15-20 servings) $13.00
(other sizes available)
Candles, Plate, Forks, Napkins $2.00
Bouquet of 3 latex Balloons $3.50

Get Well Pak
Homemade chicken soup (frozen) in microwave container, crackers, Ricola herb cough drops, orange juice, Bigelow Camomile tea, yogurt, apple, bananas, large Atkins Healthfood Cookie, Cocoa Amore, Hersheys Kisses, packet of tissues, and a stuffed Teddy Bear (food arranged in sturdy box) $19.50

Snack Pak
Four Fruits (apple, banana, pear & grapes), 1/2 lb. Cabot Cheddar Cheese & crackers, trail mix, chocolate chip or oatmeal cookies (6), Atkins popular cider donuts, Ghirardelli candy bar and two individual paks of Cocoa Amore, arranged in a gift box $15.95

All Natural Crunchy Snack Pak
Healthy snacks for one or more including humas, Flat Bread, Ginsing tea, Atkins Healthfood cookie, sunflower seeds, five fruits, Atkins fresh ground peanut butter and no sugar added fruit spreads, also your choice of either an Atkins Eight Grain or Cracked Wheat Bread, two 3/4 oz. Cabot Cheddar Cheese. Packed in a gift box. $26.50

Nacho Pak
Nacho chips, salsa, Monterey Jack cheese, sliced Jalepeno peppers, black olives, and bean dip in a basket . $18.95

We deliver every day (except Sunday) to area colleges.
To order call Monday - Friday, 8 AM-5 PM (413)253-9528

HAVE FUN
and learn something, too

Performing Arts Division (PAD)
the community's music school
Music, Theater, and Dance Instruction
for students of all ages and levels of ability
acting, ballet, Irish Step dancing, belly dancing, modern/jazz dance, tap, voice, vocal improv, rock and roll choir, bagpipe, drumming, piano, chamber music, guitar, blues jam, sight reading, composition, clowning
featuring faculty from the Five Colleges and area professionals
credit option available; classes start the week of February 8
for more information, call 545-0519 or e-mail ttarr@admin.umass.edu

Lifelong Learning Workshops
Expand your skills, advance your career, improve your personal life, learn something new flexible formats, short time commitment, and low cost
art and photography, astrology, business and financial planning, career and personal development, computers, dance, English as a Second Language, family and life skills, food and drink, health and fitness, home and garden, languages, music, personal awareness, religion and spirituality, study skills and test taking, writing, literature, and drama, cultural trips and tours.
workshops start the week of February 8
for more information, call 545-0474 or e-mail sfaili@admin.umass.edu

Division of Continuing Education
University of Massachusetts Amherst
excellence within your reach

Why are men and women who dream of enriching Jewish life enrolling in the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College?

A: The Reconstructionist Rabbinical College:

- promotes spiritual growth and professional development
- prepares rabbis for congregational pulpits, Hillel chaplaincy, communal organizations, and Jewish education
- creates a learning community committed to diversity and pluralism
- fosters an informal participatory atmosphere
- applies the vision of Judaism as an evolving religious civilization to studying Jewish thought, history and practice
- unites traditional learning and modern scholarship
- provides innovative programs for Jewish Ethics, Women's and Gender Studies
- combines intensive course learning and practical internships

RRC announces full tuition merit scholarships plus living expenses for two rabbinical students entering the College in the Fall of 1999. Renewable annually for up to five years. Applications must be completed by March 1, 1999. Other scholarships and financial aid also available.

If you want to study in an environment that will support your personal journey and help you prepare to serve the Jewish people, consider RRC. Together we can add vitality to Jewish life. We invite you to come and visit us suburban Philadelphia

CONTACT:
Rabbi Brent Spiegelhandler
Dean of Admissions
Reconstructionist Rabbinical College
1299 Church Road
Wyncote PA 19095
(215) 576-0800 ext. 55
E-mail: rrcinfo@rrc.edu

AEROBICS
• Area's Largest Room — STEP
• Certified Instructors — LOW IMPACT
• Classes Daily — YOGA
• Shock-absorbing Floor — CARDIO KICK BOXING
• Walk-ins Welcome — HI/LOW
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 SO. AMHERST

Hampshire Mall
Route 9, Hadley, MA
(413) 586-5700
For Great eats, treats, and entertainment...
Check us out!
J.C.Penney ~ Big Kmart ~ Media Play
Interskate 91 ~ Eastern Mountain Sports
Cherry & Webb ~ Bath & Body Works
Don't Miss out on Student Tuesday Discounts!
Every Tuesday Students can Shop and Save!
See Customer Service for Details
Mall Hours ~ ~ Mon.- Sat. 10am - 9pm, Sun 11am - 5pm

MTV loses its luster; VH1 steps up to bat

Tube Notes with Ryan Benharris

The one thing that I absolutely look forward to when I'm home, that one thing that UMass just can't offer, is the option to sit down in front of the TV with some sort of empty calorie food and gain weight while searching through 90 different channels of viewing goodness.

It's such a great feeling to be engrossed in something so simple, something that does not require worrying about classes. And it can be used as hard evidence that you really have the freedom to do whatever you want (or in my case, the freedom to do nothing at all) without any important responsibilities.

When I was young, I swore I would never use the phrase, "When I was young," but I just can't help it. The changes over the years have been astonishing, and I can't help wondering when everything became so different. The easiest revolution to notice is the multi–billion dollar sell–out known as MTV. I couldn't count the number of times that I couldn't help but wonder, "Does MTV even play videos anymore?"

Not only do they avoid playing videos, but the stuff they do air is pure and utter crap. There really is no need to have a marathon involving 16 straight hours of "Road Rules." I'm still trying to find one person who actually watches "Road Rules" on a regular basis.

Now, as I've stated in the past, I'm the king of bad TV. I love to watch the stuff that has no value in society and will probably make me dumber just by watching it. But MTV's shows are so despicable that I can't even tolerate watching them. What's even worse about MTV is that "Road Rules" is probably their best show.

I've never understood why anyone would like "The Real World," which can be summed up in a quote from Dennis Miller: "The Real World"? As opposed to what, the fake world? The fake world can be tough. Wear a cup!" I've never watched enough of this show to understand what people find appealing about it, but I just know that one glance was enough for me to hate it.

As for the future of MTV, It doesn't look bright. One of their new series is "Fanatic," which allows the dregs of society (in other words, psychotic stalkers) to meet the celebrities that they have spent their lives obsessing about.

But MTV's worst concept is also the worst show on TV — "Celebrity Deathmatch." This horrible excuse for entertainment takes clay figures of celebrities (of course without consent or knowledge of the actual celebrities) and pits them against each other in a wrestling ring for a fight to the death. However, this show is hitting hard with its target audience, infantile 15–year–old boys with no liver.

The saddest part of what has happened to MTV is the fact that there is almost no music anymore, and when they do play a rare video, the music is usually bad, and directed toward an audience of 13–year–old girls who wait for hours to see the new Hanson or Backstreet Boys song.

This past year, one of the greatest bands around, Pearl Jam, made their first video since 1991's "Jeremy," which is arguably one of the greatest videos ever made. I think MTV played the new video, "Do the Evolution," twice, which is small compared to the four million times they aired "MMMbop." MTV assumes that we all want "Jerry Springer"–like material, and thus they have sunk below their once great level.

With bad change, there is always good change. MTV has gotten worse, but VH1 has gotten much better. They have revolutionized themselves from the adult–contemporary subordinate to MTV, adding a variety of quality music programs, blended together with equally good music. One of the best new hits of the season is "Behind the Music." This series takes an in–depth look at the lives of the stars of the music world, and how they live their lives on and off stage. It is all together interesting, and much better than anything MTV has to offer.

Another great program that has not gotten a lot of publicity for VH1 is something called "Rock of Ages." This is a brilliant series that takes two very different groups of people, at different ages, and gets their opinions on the world of music. In one case, a group of men and women in an elderly home were shown Marilyn Manson's "Sweet Dreams," and a group of 10–year–old boy scouts were shown "Tony Bennett: Live and Unplugged." The responses given by the groups were hilarious.

Series' such as "Rock of Ages" have given VH1 an edge over MTV, and despite the enormous ratings that MTV holds over VH1, the smaller station is showing the better programming, and it seems like the producers at MTV have no idea why.

One of the most anticipated changes in the cable TV world was the passing of the torch from Craig Kilborn to Jon Stewart on Comedy Central's "The Daily Show." Someone needs to tell Stewart that the torch has burned out, and he will not ever be able to live up to the excellent job that was done by Kilborn. The series took a hit when Stewart announced on his first show that they will not be doing "Five Questions," a concept designed by Kilborn. If nothing else, you can say you heard it here first: Jon Stewart will crash and burn, and "The Daily Show" is done.

Change has been the key word in the television world over the past month. We've moved into a new year that will be overshadowed by a yearning for a new millennium, and television is searching desperately for new ideas to push out the old ones.

Ryan Benharris is a Collegian columnist. "Tube Notes" normally runs every Thursday throughout the semester.

Falling in Love with Shakespeare

COURTESY MIRAMAX

Will Shakespeare (Joseph Fiennes) leads Lady Viola (Gwyneth Paltrow) in the charming Shakespeare in Love.

By Bryan McAllister
Collegian Staff

SHAKESPEARE IN LOVE
Directed b y John Madden with Joseph Fiennes, Gwyneth Paltrow, Geoffrey Rush

Art and life have had a chaotic history, alternatively inspiring and frustrating each other. William Shakespeare, or Will, as he is called in Shakespeare in Love, is certainly frustrated when he can find no words to write. He tries everything. A shrink, who times his sessions with an hourglass, questions how long his "quill has been broken." His producer insists that writing is easy — all you need is "love and a bit with a dug." But Shakespeare wants to capture true love, and he's tired of dogs.

Such is the dilemma and the world of this amazingly clever, quick–witted, and surprisingly moving romantic comedy, as imagined by co–scripters Tom Stoppard and Marc Norman. Instead of those stuffy English frock–fests we usually see, Shakespeare depicts Elizabethan England as a time not far from our own. Boatmen, like New York cabbies, pitch their scripts to customers; waiters announce a daily special at the local pub; and Will's

Turn to SHAKESPEARE, page B6

Malick's vision makes for a confusing Thin Red Line

By Adam Martignetti
Collegian Staff

THE THIN RED LINE
Directed by Terrence Malick
with Sean Penn, Nick Nolte, John Cusack
Playing at Mountain Farms Four Theaters

Maybe it was the imposing two–hour–and–forty–five–minute running time, or the rumor that the movie had to be cut down from its original six–hour length, but my apprehensions were high going into The Thin Red Line. Unfortunately, all my fears were confirmed an hour into the movie, when it became painfully obvious that director Terrence Malick hadn't made a movie in over 20 years.

The filmmaking was archaic, obtuse and virtually inaccessible. The story was segmented and disjointed to the point of being nonexistent. Malick managed to use 20 years, an entire war and one of the more impressive ensemble casts ever assembled in order to make a film about nothing.

Of course, the ad campaign did a great job selling the movie with all the big names attached, but it failed to mention that you barely see any of them. It's difficult to critique or praise any of the acting when there really is none. John Travolta appears for all of three minutes, while John Cusack doubles that total. Woody Harrelson survives maybe 10 minutes and has a grand total of one line.

The aging, fuming general, played by Nick Nolte, has about an hour of screen time. Sean Penn, whom the ads sell as the main character, is not, and even he floats in and out of the story. The best deception, though, belongs to George Clooney, who logs a grand total of two minutes in the movie.

In the end, the audience has no one with which to identify. There's an overwhelming number of people with no faces and characters with no personalities, and sequences with no connections. The film takes the shape of a large formless mass.

What little plot there is focuses on a battalion of soldiers and their extended ventures against the Japanese during World War II. The story is fragmented often by brief and unsatisfactory glimpses into the personal lives of these men, but the audience doesn't truly "know" any of them. There's a mission here and there, then a quick personal scene, but the two are unrelated and mutually exclusive. There's no beginning, no conflict, no resolution. For all its intents and purposes, The Thin Red Line could have been a silent film with its muddled collection of images.

Malick was obviously going for an impersonal movie that examines the hardships of war and its effects on man and nature. Through some intricate symbolism, Malick tries to impart the transcendental idea that all man has one nature and that war essentially tears people from each other and their own nature. He brings in ideas of individualism and spirituality to try and support this idea, but ultimately the whole thing is completely unworkable. Wanting to examine war, not just people, is understandable, but war does not exist without people.

Without having any real characters, the audience can never see any "effects" on the characters. In fact, we never see the outcome of anything. Sure, like any war, people are killed, but who are they? By the time the movie even hints at the disillusionment of the soldiers with the war, the audience is already far past disillusionment with the movie.

Perhaps the most absurd device used by Malick was letting the audience hear the character's stream of consciousness in favor of actual dialogue, of which there is very little. There is no problem with this technique, but some of the random ramblings that the soldiers "express" are downright indecipherable.

In order to fully understand what Malick is attempting, one would have to sit down and analyze these lines like a poem or some other work of literature. Expecting an audience to understand such thoughts and piece them together to the larger story in such a short frame of time is ludicrous and poor decision making.

In addition, it is almost unthinkable that any soldier would be thinking about "the cruel nature that has separated" or "the faint glimmer of light" in the middle of a war. Malick seems to have created a movie and characters that serve only as vehicles for his personal thoughts on anything and everything.

After seeing the triumph of Saving Private Ryan last year, The Thin Red Line is painful to watch. The fact that the two were once compared is injustice. Nobody who saw this movie could possibly fully understand it and even if they could, they didn't care. Whatever Malick's intentions were, he fails in every conceivable way to relate them to his audience. This movie could have been the most poetic, powerful statement about spirituality, war, and human nature ever made, but The Thin Red Line is exactly that — thin. D+

Big Guy Liquors
Big on Friendly Service
Come visit our expanded wine selection
295 Amherst Rd Rte. 116, Sunderland
Squire Village Shopping Center
665-5030
Also visit our second location
Montague Rd Rte. 65, N. Amherst
Next to Cumberland Farms
549-3555

University Health Services
Mental Health Groups Spring '99

MONDAY

Coed Self Exploration Group
(for Undergraduate Students)
In this group members will be able to address their relationships such as: friendship; intimacy; family issues; work and school, etc. MEMBERS MAY JOIN THIS GROUP AT ANY POINT IN THE SCHOOL YEAR (as space permits).
Monday, 1:00 - 2:30 p.m.

Supporting Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Identities
Exploring such issues as coming out, building community, dating relationships, family of origin and stress management.
Monday, 3:45 - 5:00 p.m.

MORE GROUPS BEGINNING IN THE FALL

TUESDAY

Time Limited Therapy Group
(for Undergraduate Students)
This semester-long group will provide a safe environment for looking at relationships. There will be opportunities to learn ways to make changes in interpersonal patterns.
Tuesday, 3:30 - 4:50 p.m.

Groups are conducted by Mental Health Division staff. Group sessions are covered under UHS Basic Health Plan and Kaiser pre-paid plan. Groups require an initial screening which can be arranged by calling 545-2337 or by stopping by at 127 Hills North Mon. - Fri. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.
For further information refer to the Mental Health web site at www.umass.edu/uhs/mentalhe.sth

THURSDAY

Women's Self-Exploration Group
(For older undergraduates, graduate students, student dependents and Kaiser members.)
This group provides as opportunity for women to explore personal relationships, work, studies, family of origin, health, acculturation and other relevant concerns.
THIS GROUP IS ONGOING WITH MEMBERS ADDED AS SPACE PERMITS.
Thursday, 9:00 - 10:30 a.m.

Coed Self-Exploration Groups
(For older undergraduates, graduate students, student dependents and Kaiser members.)
This group provides an opportunity for men and women to explore their interpersonal relationships. THIS GROUP IS ONGOING WITH MEMBERS ADDED AS SPACE PERMITS.
Thursday, 3:30 - 5:00 p.m.

Food Matters
This group will provide a safe and confidential environment for women who want to work towards changing unhealthy eating and exercise habits, and creating a positive self concept. Self-esteem enhancement and alternatives to emotional eating will also be addressed.
Thursday, 3:30 - 4:50 p.m.

CALL 545-2337

A great place to study • Delicious food • Affordable prices • Free Live Music for Saturday Brunch 10-12:30 • Convenient Drive-thru • Call in for take-out and Pick-up at Drive-thru anytime
Give us a Call (413) 655-2335
Coupon
Buy 1 Any Medium Beverage, Get 1 FREE SMALL ONE

Breakfast Sandwiches • Bagels • Fresh In House Pastries • Baked Daily • Sandwiches • Wraps • Smoothies • Kurt's K&K Cookies • Soups • Salads • Jorgensen's Roast Gourmet Coffee and Espresso Drinks

DRIVE THRU
The JAVA HUT
GOURMET COFFEE AND ESPRESSO DRINKS
BAGELS • PASTRIES • SANDWICHES
BEST OF LUCK TO THE UMASS BASKETBALL TEAM!!

MORE MACHINES! Yoga • Cardio Kickboxing • Reebok Step • Low Impact • Area's Largest Room BEST PRICES!
MAKE '99 FINE
Get in Shape!
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 Rt. 116, So. Amherst

HEY! NEED A JOB?
WHY NOT BE A BARTENDER!

- Only professional school in Western Mass
- Hands-on training In a real bar/club setting
- National certification in alcohol awareness - FREE!
- Lifetime refresher courses • Photo ID Card • Resume
- Special UMASS Student discount
- We have many excellent positions available
- Over 80 affiliate schools across the USA
- Conveniently located in West Springfield, MA

CALL TODAY! (413) 747-9888

■ Shakespeare

continued from page B5

friends tell him to "talk in prose."

Missing, of course, are asteroids, dinosaurs, volcanoes and/or explosions. It's amazing that a film as brilliantly scripted as this even got made. If Shakespeare in Love accomplishes anything, it makes language sexy again. But since it accomplishes more than that, it also makes you want to go read Shakespeare over and over and this time, ignore the Cliffs Notes.

As a comedic romp about the creation of Romeo and Juliet, it's also a busy and wonderful love story, and one of the better backstage comedies ever made. The only question is whether or not it has a message and meaning half as deep as the plays of Shakespeare themselves, a question that will matter come Oscar time.

This withstanding, it's great fun. Starting slowly but feverishly directed by John Madden, we first meet young Will (Joseph Fiennes) in his home. He has writer's block, so instead of working on his new play (tentatively titled "Romeo and Ethel, the Pirate's Daughter"), he is practicing his signature. Desperately, he searches for a muse to inspire him, so that his plays can attain the popularity of his rival, Christopher Marlowe (Rupert Everett, in a rich, small role).

Luckily, there is one person who already does prefer them. She is Viola De Lessups (Gwyneth Paltrow), a rich man's daughter who wants nothing more than to be on stage, and secretly disguises herself and tries out for a part in Will's new, tand yet unwritten play. She's superb and they fall in love immediately, but there are two problems. Women are not allowed to act, and she's engaged to a big materialistic dork.

They have a love affair anyway, one that is quick, star crossed and very erotic, and surrounded by the writing of the plays and the competition between two theater houses. As Will falls in love with Viola, his writing flows, and the screenplay includes huge chunks of Shakespearean dialogue and language from Romeo and Juliet and the sonnets, even though Viola is hardly a dark lady. It's also the genius of the film to include a backer who really wants to act, even Ben Affleck as a big- headed star actor whom Shakespeare convinces to play Mercutio by saying the name of his play is "Mercutio." The always incredible Judi Dench outdoes even herself here as the powerful and definitive Elizabeth I, and she has the best lines, like this one, about Viola. "She has been plucked since I last saw her. It takes a woman to know it."

COURTESY MIRAMAX

Ben Affleck, looking serious, but playing it all for laughs in Shakespeare in Love.

Viola, meanwhile, is played with illuminating spirit by Paltrow. Previously, Paltrow only had two ways of acting: cold and sad (A Perfect Murder, Great Expectations) or incomparably plucky (Emma). Here, she is all of those and more. Fiennes, despite the task of playing the most famous writer ever, is appropriately energetic, passionate and a little off-beat, even if he surprisingly underplays his role as Romeo on-stage.

As the film sweeps into a rollicking second act, all the pieces for high comedy and drama are in place. Will and Viola's love affair must end, but how will this affect the play and the performance? The philosophical question at the heart of Shakespeare in Love (and most English poetry) is whether or not art can capture real life's most stunning achievement: love. At the end of the film, Shakespeare learns that real life indeed has a deep connection with art.

But because Shakespeare in Love is a farce, a tribute and an anthology, it cannot be anything more than that. For all the witty use of language, there is no room for intellectualism or deepness. Instead, we must settle for wit, romance and enchantment. What a punishment. A

TOTAL FITNESS
Without Waiting In Line
$139 4 months
STUDENT SPECIAL
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
Rte. 116
So. Amherst • 256-0060

McBride defies clichés in Color

By Tanya Mannes
Collegian Staff

THE COLOR OF WATER
James McBride
Riverhead

Granted, James McBride has quite a story of his own to tell. He grew up in the sixties, a time when black power was in style. "Public buildings, statues, monuments, even trees, met the evening in their original bland colors and reemerged the next morning painted in the sparkling 'liberation' colors of red, black and green."

His memoir is all about color, about being raised in a mixed-race household in Brooklyn with 11 siblings. But what distinguishes The Color of Water from all the other "growing up black in America" autobiographies is the addition of another voice — that of McBride's Jewish mother. His story is interspersed with meaty passages told in her voice, about her life.

It is a pleasant surprise to find that his "eccentric" mother, Rachel McBride-Jordan, is portrayed not as a martyr for the cause of racial equality, but as a complex woman who got a lot of joy from her husband and children. She raised her brood with the "experience of her own Jewish family, which despite the seeming flaws... represented the best and worst of the immigrant mentality: hard work, no nonsense, quest for excellence, distrust of authority figures, and a deep belief in God and education." The anecdotal evidence suggests that her method of child-rearing was quite effective.

The passages in Jordan's matter-of-fact voice give a sometimes painful look at her life in a Jewish family. Her father had a way of "getting into bed with me at night and doing things to me sexually..." He also had a way of hating black people, making fun of them as they frequented his store, calling them "shvartses."

Jordan's story is not sugarcoated, even when she describes the abortion she had when she was just a teenager, and her black boyfriend could not marry her. "The doctor used no anesthesia. Afterwards, I was in so much pain I couldn't walk... even through my tears I was apologizing to [my aunt] because I was ashamed." Her experiences make it all the more remarkable that she could transcend her upbringing to form lasting, loving relationships with two black husbands.

While McBride disclaims any real "kinetic relationship to Jews," he submits his mother's experiences as a Jewish girl to the reader's judgement, drawing an unnistakable parallel to his own fond memories of family life. McBride uses the context of his upbringing to comment on current Jewish- black relations. He "recognized Jews as slightly different from other white folk." Yet, he views himself a "black man with something of a Jewish soul."

Fence-straddling aside, he declares "black leaders' talking about Jewish slave owners," who are "no better than their Jewish counterparts who spin statistics in marvelous ways to make African-Americans look like sayages, criminals..." He seems to favor a certain "color-blindness," in which God is the "the color of water." As McBride says, "I belong to the world of one God, one people."

While the memoir's theme that we are all, in his mother's words, "human beans," regardless of color, is repeated until it hurts, it is balanced by the richness of very readable anecdotes. For instance, Reverend Owen's Baptist church is the site of many a laugh. His sermons "started like a tiny choo-choo train and ended up like a roaring locomotive." Add to this the hair-raising tales of living in a huge family, and there is plenty of action to keep the memoir from being heavy-handed. Now that it is out in paperback, there is no excuse to miss The Color of Water, two unique perspectives in one, that shed light on race relations with spirit and humor. A-

New Shakespeare book explores our past

By Emily Trask
Collegian Staff

A fusion of his lifetime of reading, writing and teaching Shakespeare, Harold Bloom's latest work of literary criticism, Shakespeare: The Invention of the Human, is a necessary guide for any student of the Bard.

Despite the fact that he has been teaching Shakespeare for nearly 20 years, he says that he is still in awe of Shakespeare's work, a position which we should all find ourselves in, Bloom explains.

In this ground-breaking book, Bloom claims that before the writings of Shakespeare, the concept of "literary character" remained relatively unchanged. People were previously represented in physical terms of aging and dying, "but not as changing because of their relationships to themselves." This kind of "self-overhearing," as Bloom calls it, is the "royal road to individuation."

Bloom contends that Shakespeare created new modes of consciousness never before seen in literature. "The plays remain the outward limit of human achievement; aesthetically, cognitively, in certain ways morally, even spiritually."

According to this argument, the characterization of Falstaff of Henry V, I and Hamlet from Hamlet are the inauguration of personality as we know it.

Bloom tells us that the idea of "the self" as a moral agent comes from many sources, such as Homer, Plato, Aristotle and The Bible, to name a few, but he claims personality is a Shakespearian invention. Through his characters, like Hamlet and Falstaff, "the self" is portrayed in many ways such as "an abyss," "as the chaos of virtual nothingness," and "as everything."

Shakespeare's works have become the most pervasive force in western culture. Bloom claims that Shakespeare's Hamlet is the only secular rival to the Yahweh of the J writer (earliest author of "Genesis," "Exodus," "Numbers"), the Jesus of The Gospel of Mark, and the Allah of The Koran. Like these other figures, Shakespeare's characters seem to be more than literary or dramatic characters. Bloom tells us that after Jesus, Hamlet is the most cited figure in western consciousness.

Shakespeare: The Invention of the Human is a comprehensive interpretation of all Shakespeare's plays, and it is an invaluable handbook for anyone who is planning to see or read a Shakespearean play. And Bloom insists, "Shakespeare will go on explaining us, in part because he invented us."

dailycollegian.com dailycollegian.com dailycollegian.com dailycollegian.com

THE BOULDERS
✗ Large 2 Bedroom Apartments
✗ State of the Art Exercise Facility
• Stairmaster • Lifecycle • Nautilus
■ Free Heat & Hot Water
■ Professional Maintenance Staff on Site
■ On Site Laundry Facility
■ Limited Access Entry System
■ 5 College Bus Stop on Property

256-8534
Office Hours Mon-Fri 8:30 - 5:30 Sat. 10:00 - 5:00
Sun. 12:00 - 5:00
156A Brittany Manor Drive, Amherst, MA

CLIFFSIDE APARTMENTS
■ 1,2 & 3 Bedroom Garden Style Units
(Also Townhouse Style for 2 Bedroom)
■ All Utilities Included
■ Convenient to Amherst, UMass & Interstate 91
■ Scenic Hiking Trails on 28 Wooded Acres
■ Olympic Size Pool
■ Tennis, Volleyball and Basketball
■ Free Public Transportation
■ 24 Hour Maintenance

■ movies

continued from page B1

THE FACULTY
Directed by Robert Rodriguez with Elijah Wood, Usher, Famke Janssen

What at first seems to be another of writer Kevin Williamson's self-reflexive snot-horror festivals turns out be a sharp, fairly straight-forward sci-fi/chase movie. Williamson tones down the endless pop-culture assault (except for one unnecessary slip-up hallway through) and instead gives a wonderfully ridiculous "misfits versus authority" set-up complete with possessed teachers and misunderstood nerds.

Then director Rodriguez takes over, lending the movie a well-crafted rush. Williamson's script is snappy and unpredictable, and for once his character's aren't mind- numbingly annoying and self-obsessed but actually seem, for the most part, kinda nice. The Faculty is a B-movie, but it is also a good movie. B+ (Rob Roenich)

ELIZABETH
Directed by Shekhar Kapur with Cate Blanchett, Geoffrey Rush, Christopher Eccleston

It does not matter that the history is not entirely correct in Elizabeth, Indian director Shekhar Kapur's English debut. The film is instead for atmosphere and power, owing much to The Godfather, and succeeds because of the acting and bravura mise-en-scene.

Dark and bloody, shot with stark lighting and directed with sumptuous finesse, Elizabeth begins slowly, focusing on the young queen (Cate Blanchett), wild and romantic, naive and timid. She has a lover and friends but soon gives these up to become queen, but doesn't realize the task at hand. Compared to English political problems, Bill Clinton has it easy. Scandals, conspiracies and treason all face the queen. One advisor insists that they "inspect her sheets" every morning. And as a woman, she is all but forced to marry.

An incredible supporting cast, led by the fiercely ruthless Geoffrey Rush as her lead advisor Lord Walsingham, sets this film apart from usual English costume dramas; the twirling, angled camera work from Kapur is a visual treat as well. But it is the pale-faced, chameleon-eyed Blanchett, transforming herself from frail to iron-strong, who impresses the most, and molds the movie like the queen herself: slow at first, but ultimately very powerful. B+ (Bryan McAllister)

COURTESY BOB AKESTER

Trey Parker, sans long hair, in his bizarre feature Orgazmo.

YOU'VE GOT MAIL
Directed by Nora Ephron with Tom Hanks, Meg Ryan, Greg Kinnear

"Cute" is the inevitable word associated with You've Got Mail, a remake of the Jimmy Stewart comedy The Shop Around the Corner, and a rehash of Nora Ephron's Sleepless in Seattle, itself inspired by An Affair to Remember.

Get all that? Despite its unoriginal origins, Ephron, reteaming with Tom Hanks and Meg Ryan, deserves credit for being the first to fully realize the e-mail revolution, after dozens of sketchy movies like Hackers and The Net.

The familiar America Online is here, as welcome as Starbucks and the rest of Manhattan, which is made to look even more beautiful and fun than usual. In the film, Hanks plays Joe Fox, the owner of a wealthy Barnes and Noble-type book chain, famous for their coffee selling and cheap prices, but not high on personality. That trait belongs to Meg Ryan's Shop Around the Corner, a children's book store that faces strong competition from Fox Books.

Hanks and Ryan, per formula, are of course made out to hate each other (while unknowingly e-mailing sweet nothings), and this is where the film is most fun, with a surprisingly witty and timely screenplay, and winning performances from supporting players like Greg Kinnear and a hyper Parker Posey, who "would make coffee nervous."

You've Got Mail also delights in Hanks' return to the type of sarcastic comedy that highlighted his early career. And Ryan, of course, like Mail's ending, is predictably cute. B (B.M.)

THE PRINCE OF EGYPT
Directed by Brenda Chapman with the voices of Val Kilmer, Ralph Fiennes, Michaelle Pfeiffer

The crown to the Disney animation throne received its greatest threat this winter from The Prince of Egypt, a Biblical epic from DreamWorks featuring spectacular angular animation inspired from movies like The Ten Commandments and the work of David Lean, as well as the art of Monet.

And stunning is this animation, most notably in a stirring parting of the Red Sea, as walls of water shoot up to make a path for Moses and his followers; but also in smaller, quieter moments, like the sea of colors in the river Moses is sent down in.

COURTESY BRIAN HAMILL

You've Got Mail reunites Tom Hanks and Meg Ryan in its story of Internet love.

The Prince of Egypt stays mostly faithful to the Bible, sneaking in some Disney sidekicks and a few Disney musical numbers. But the rest is a giant history lesson; someone called it "the most expensive Sunday School film strip ever made." True, but it's still worth the money, if not only to hear Val Kilmer as the voice of both Moses and God (since he played Elvis once too, and Jim Morrison, he only needs to play Jesus to officially become divine). B- (B.M.)

HAPPINESS
Directed by Todd Soldanz with Lara Flynn Boyle, Philip Seymour Hoffman

Todd Soldonz's pitch-black, family-falling-apart "comedy" is the feel good movie of the year for Americans who like being told how awful they are. There are scenes of shocking intensity and great originality laced throughout the movie, but Soldonz's dark vision finally seems more ridiculous than realistic.

Happiness lacks even a trace of goodness or forgiveness to throw the isolation and weakness into relief. Its family is just as one-note as a Disney family. The pessimism here should be appreciated as an antidote to mindless "Ozzie and Harriet"-style representations of family bliss, but it should also not be mistaken for anything deeper than a puddle. It might be acid rain, but it's still just a puddle. B- (R.R.)

STEPMOM
Directed by Chris Columbus with Julia Roberts, Susan Sarandon, Ed Harris

Perhaps it is bad to give away a basic "surprise" element of a movie plot in its review, but I feel it is essential that potentially sensitive viewers be warned in advance about a highly charged emotional film like this one. The previews led me to believe that the bulk of this somewhat comic movie focused on the dynamic relationship between the characters of Julia Roberts as stepmom and Susan Sarandon as mother vying for the attention of one adorable little boy and one somewhat bratty pre-teen daughter.

But then one of the characters (I don't want to give away everything after all) goes and gets cancer and the movie goes downhill from there. During almost the entire last half of the movie, the theater broke down into sniffles and sobs and I regretted not bringing tissues. Worse of all, there was no happy ending during which one could wipe away tears and come to some peaceful conclusion about life. Instead, everyone sat in the darkness watching the credits roll by, trying to compose themselves before the lights came on.

It was an absolutely depressing movie-watching experience, and was disappointing in that I was completely unprepared for the emotional trauma with which I left the theater. I suppose that if you're prepared for Steel Magnolias, you might be satisfied, but I wasn't. C+ (Stacey Shackford)

ORGAZMO
Directed by Trey Parker

With Orgazmo, "South Park" co-creator Trey Parker brings us yet another big screen investigation of the role of Mormons in the porn industry. The movie is stuffed full of easy, disgusting jokes, several genuinely funny touches (such as the ancient martial art of the hamster), and a dump truck load of irresponsible stereotypes. In other words, its pretty much South Park on the big screen. C (R.R.)

STRENGTH • FLEXIBILITY • COORDINATION
CARDIO KICK BOXING
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB • 256-0060
Mon @ 5:30
Thurs @ 4:45
Fri @ 4:15
Sat @ 2:00
www.amherstathletic.com

DESIGN SUPPLY
ART STUDIO SUPPLIES
AT THE TOWN COMMON
65 SO. PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST, MA 01002
FREE DISCOUNT CARD WITH THIS COUPON
413-253-5592

SPRING BREAK
SALES REPS WANTED
EARN CASH & GO FREE
SAVE UP TO $200/ROOM
LIMITED OFFER - CALL TODAY
CANCUN
#1 SPRING BREAK DESTINATION
FREE MEALS, DRINKS & ACTIVITIES
MAZATLAN
MEXICO'S NEWEST HOT SPOT
NORTH OF ACAPULCO
EXCLUSIVE FLIGHTS VIA TWA
LET'S PADRE
SOUTH PADRE ISLAND
EXCLUSIVE FLIGHTS VIA TWA
JAMAICA
MONTEGO BAY & NEGRIL
BEST PRICES - BEST PARTIES!
1-800-787-3787
www.studentexpress.com
"BREAK WITH THE BEST"

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE AUP.
American.
International.
Paris.
yours.
AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF PARIS
Paris: 31, avenue Bosquet, 75343 Paris cedex 07, France • (33) (1) 40.62.07.20
New York: 60 East 42nd Street, New York, NY 10017 • (212) 983-1414
www.aup.edu • aulinscom@aup.edu • nyoffice@aup.edu

Top 10 Reasons to use UHS Eye Care Services
1. A great place to get contacts lenses.
2. Free sample start-up contact lens solutions
3. Optometrist on staff for Eye Examinations
4. Same day replacement of disposable contact lenses, in many cases.
5. We take great pride in being able to fit many people who have had difficulty in the past wearing contact lenses.
6. Emergency Eye Care Delivery at UHS, is a covered benefit if you are a student plan member
7. Contact Lens Specialist and Skilled, Licensed Opticias on Staff.
8. FREE eyeglass adjustments and one year warranty on frames.
9. Savings on eyeglasses from the new on-site Optical Service at UHS.
10. Convenient hours and location.
Frederick H.Bloom, O.D. Director, UHS Eye Care Services
University Health Services
For appointments or questions, Call 577-5244

"I remember one of my first impressions very well. It was during my interview. I was sitting across the table from an Assistant Vice President. He looked straight at me, put my resume aside, and said, "I'd like to just talk."
When he said he wanted to know about me as a person,
I couldn't believe it. When I left that office I knew one thing — this was definitely the company for me!"
TJX
As Jane will tell you, we're not just your average employer. We're The TJX Companies, Inc. — a $7.4 billion, off-price retail industry leader, parent company to T.J. Maxx, Marshalls, HomeGoods, A.J. Wright, Winner's Apparel Ltd. in Canada and T.K. Maxx in Europe — and a great place to take your career. Come find out about our Corporate Merchandise Training Program where you'll begin on a well-defined corporate career path that will prepare you to become a Merchandise Planning Manager and Buyer.
We will be conducting on-campus interviews on
Thursday, February 4
For more information, visit the School of Management.
If unable to attend, candidates should forward their resumes to: College Recruiter, The TJX Companies, Inc., Dept: SOM99, 770 Cochituate Road, Framingham, MA 01701. Fax: (508) 390-2606. E-mail: jobs@TJX.com Visit our website at: www.TJX.com
TJ MAXX Marshalls. HomeGoods A.J. Wright.
©The TJX Companies, Inc. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to workforce diversity.

Now Open....The Area's Best Fitness & Health Club
UltimateFitness
THE HEALTH AND FITNESS CENTER
Featuring the latest in Fitness Training & Equipment
"Everything You Need in a Gym and More!"
• Certified Personal Trainers
• Fitness Testing & Programming
• Nutritional Consultation
• Tanning
• Sauna
• Juice Bar & Supplements
• Full Aerobics Programs including:
-Cardio Kickboxing
-Sports Step
-Boot Camp
and many more
Cardiovascular Equipment
• Stairmasters
• Precor Treadmills
• Lifecycle Recumbent Bikes
• Lifecycle Upright Bikes
• Precor Crosstrainers
State-of-the-Art Strength Training Equipment
• Bodymasters & Icarian Free Weights
• Cybex Circuit Training Equipment
Located in the Campus Plaza next to Liquors 44.
For more information call 253-7571

UMASS

LOOK WHAT'S C
DINING SERVIC

- Extended hours of Operation
  - Basics at Worcester Dining Hall, 11:30AM- 9:00
  - Hampden Athletic Hall, 5:00-9:00PM, Mon.- Wed
- New and Updated Menu
  - More choices, greater variety and guaranteed freshness.
- Major Themes Specials Monthly
  - Such as Super Bowl Special and March Madness, to name a few.
- Better Burgers and Tasty Sauce
  - You will notice a difference in quality and new recipies.
- More Display Cooking and Chef Choices
  - Pasta Pronto, Mongolian Wok and Chinese Stir-Fry are exam
  - Chef Choices are up to the Chef
- More Service and More Fun
  - We'll gladly serve you a hot entree every night.

urs. & Fri.

y Cooking

At Dining Services, things are really cooking now!

WELCOMING BACK STUDENTS

RETURN YOUR TEXTBOOKS WITH YOUR RECEIPT FOR A "NO QUESTIONS ASKED" REFUND THROUGH MONDAY FEBRUARY 8TH, 1999.

Beginning [illegible] returned with the receipt for a full refund.

UNIVERSITY ST

Textbook Annex

AMHERST

www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex

www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex

University Store • Textbook Annex

SAVE YOUR RECEIPT

Our Refund Policy

If you purchase an incorrect title, you may return it for a refund within 7 calendar days of the first day of classes. Thereafter, incorrect titles may be returned within 48 hours of purchase providing the book is new and unmarked.

1. Textbooks from dropped courses may be returned during the month of September. Present your sales receipt and a copy of your updated course schedule obtained from the Registrar. Any new books must be unmarked.

2. Keep your receipt(s). Refunds on textbooks cannot be made unless the sales receipt(s) accompanies the book.

3. Always have your current I.D. available. This is required for any refund transactions.

The return of unsold books to the publisher begins seven weeks after the beginning of the semester. After the seventh week you might not be able to purchase the books you need.

textbook annex

Spring '99 Schedule

We accept cash, personal check, Ucard, Visa, MasterCard as forms of payment.

We begin to return unsold books to the publishers in the middle of the semester. Students are encouraged to get the books they need for the semester as soon as possible after official enrollment in a course.

buyback

FIRST WEEK - January 25-30
Tues.-Fri. 9am - 5pm
Friday 9am - 5pm

SECOND WEEK - February 24
Monday-Wednesday 9am - 5pm

Thereafter, Monday-Friday 9am-4pm at the Textbook Annex, beginning February 8, 1999

annex rush

Spring 1999 Book Rush Hours
Tuesday, January 26 9am - 8pm
Wednesday, January 27 9am- 8pm
Thursday, January 28 9am - 8pm
Friday, January 29 9am - 8pm
Saturday, January 30 11am- 5pm

Monday, Feb. 1 -Friday, Feb. 5 9am - 6pm

Thereafter - Monday - Friday 9am - 4pm

SPORTS back to school

Tuesday, January 26, 1999 The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

UMass football takes home national championship

Minutemen get off to quick start, hold on to defeat Georgia Southern

By Seth Berenzweig
Collegian Staff

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — They had been here before. For what seemed like the hundredth time of the 1998 football season, a supposedly insurmountable lead favoring Massachusetts had been amazingly surmounted. It had happened enough before in coach Mark Whipple's miraculous first season so that it just wasn't amazing anymore.

With the Minutemen holding a 38–14 lead with just over four minutes remaining before halftime in the Division I-AA National Championship game between the 11th-ranked Minutemen and the top-ranked, undefeated Eagles of Georgia Southern University, the fun was just beginning.

They, too, had been here before. The proud history of the Georgia Southern football program includes four national championships, and even if no coaches or players remained from those titles, it seemed as though the Eagles were destined to capture the prize once again.

The 1998 GSU team rumbled through the season with very little consequence. The 14–0 record reminded everyone at Finley Stadium that, unlike UMass, the Eagles' supremacy had never been comprimised.

When Southern, using its famed option–offense that boasted a 2,000–yard rushing fullback and a 1,000–yard rushing quarterback, scored three unanswered touchdowns at the end of the second quarter and beginning of the third, the game got interesting.

All–American Eagle runner Adrian Peterson's two scores followed by signal–caller Greg Hill's two–yard dash made the score 38–33 in favor of UMass.

"All I knew about this game, and I said it to a bunch of people, was that [the score] wasn't going to be 10–9," Whipple said. "After about five minutes, I think everybody knew that."

Now all the Georgia radio stations and newspapers that had unhesitatingly promised a victory would be justified. The Minutemen's 2–9 1997 mark was only a distant memory to those in Western Massachusetts; to the rest of the nation, it was proof that the UMass squad had little business competing for a title.

Now, with the real character of the Maroon and White perhaps shining through, the UMass faithful feared the game would tip into a landslide on the behalf of the mighty Eagles, and a sense of normalcy would return to the world of college football.

Matt Jordan didn't think so. Seeing the game change from a blow–out to a shoot–out, the UMass fullback got angry. With his defensive teammates trotting off the field after suffering the third unanswered GSU shot in the end zone, Jordan was seen by fans feverishly screaming at his offensive squad. The senior had endured enough tragedy over the course of his college career, and he wasn't going to let the national championship escape his grasp. Not after being so close and coming from so far away.

Following the lead–blocking of Jordan, Minuteman tailback Marcel Shipp reeled off three carries for a total of 67 yards to bring the football to the Eagle five–yard line the next time the Massachusetts offense took the field.

From there the sophomore tailback was spelled by freshman Kevin Quinlan, whose scoring plunge from two yards away two plays later brought the game back into UMass' control.

"I really felt we had the momentum turned when we scored to make it 38–33," GSU coach Paul Johnson said. "We kicked off to them, and give them credit, they put together a drive and ran the ball right down our throat to take the momentum back. If we go out there and stop them and get the ball back, we've got everything going our way when we were down only five points. But it didn't happen."

The defense then followed suit, forcing and recovering its sixth Georgia Southern fumble of the afternoon, as defensive back Brian Smith pounced on the loose ball at the GSU 42–yard line after only one play.

COURTESY | ANTHONY ROBERTS

UMass football players Jeremy Robinson (No. 23) and Khari Samuel (No. 26) celebrate a fumble recovery in the Division I–AA National Championship game against Georgia Southern Again, Shipp carried the load, this time all the way into the end zone for his third touchdown of the game. The sophomore standout would tally a championship game–record 244 yards before the final whistle, edging out Hill, who ran for 228.

A field goal by UMass kicker Jason Cherry, who was among the record–breakers as well with seven extra points in the contest, finished the Massachusetts scoring off at 55 — the most points ever scored against the Eagles. In the end, the highest total the Georgia squad could muster was 43, including a final–minute touchdown when the outcome was a forgone conclusion.

Aside from Shipp, the Eagles' worst enemy was Minuteman linebacker Kole Ayi. Ayi shut down the highly– toured GSU triple option during the first half by repeatedly disrupting the pitch from Hill to Peterson on the outside.

Ayi recovered three fumbles and brought one into the end zone from nine yards out with 8:29 to go in the first quarter to make the score 14–0.

"Their tackle was arching, he wasn't coming out for me," Ayi said. "They wanted to option off me and read off me so they left me alone. The first [fumble recovery] I've got to thank the quarterback for, I mean, he just put that right in front of me. That was probably one of the easiest plays I've ever made. He just dropped it right in front of me and I got to pick it up and run in the end zone."

Fellow linebacking mate and All–American Khari Samuel also made his presence known by tenaciously tearing the ball out of the grasp of the Eagle ball carriers in addition to his 10 tackles.

The seven turnovers forced by the Minutemen included an interception by Jerard White, who led a group of hungry defensive backs who feasted on the one–dimensional running offense of Georgia Southern.

UMass field general Todd Bankhead, however, neglected to throw the ball into the arms of the defense, despite facing Eagle stars like Arkee Thompson. Massachusetts wideouts Jimmy Moore and Adrian Zullo kept the ball away from their opponents with six and two receptions respectively.

Zullo caught the only UM touchdown pass of the game, a juggled halfback pass from Jamie Holston with 5:04 to go in the first quarter. Tight end Kerry Taylor also hauled in four balls for a total of 22 yards.

"They were able to block out all the other things and focus on the game, and I was really proud of them that way," Whipple said of his team.

Once the sun set over the 1998 NCAA Division I–AA football season, it was known that only one team would be welcomed home with a celebration. There is only one trophy, and now it's in Amherst.

Success immediate for football coach

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — Within a span of only 12 months, Massachusetts football coach Mark Whipple has already staked his claim as one of the legends of the storied Minuteman gridiron program.

In December of 1997 the former skipper at Brown University and the University of New Haven arrived on the scene in Amherst looking to resurrect the once–dominant program. From a fan's point of view, the change figured to bring an improvement, and possibly a winning season.

To Whipple, however, the goals were much higher up the ladder. When he was officially introduced at his press conference, he claimed that he wanted UMass to win a national championship.

It seemed unheard of at the time, but now look who at who had the last laugh.

"I said the same thing at my press conference 11 years ago when I was named at [New Haven]. It just goes back to my upbringing, and is kind of natural to me," Whipple said. "It wasn't like I was trying to make a statement. I couldn't tell you that we'd do it this year, but I thought that we'd be here down the road."

The 1998 GTE Division I–AA Coach of the Year brought a new sense of optimism to the Minutemen along with some new talent. Whipple brought in junior college standout Todd Bankhead to call the plays under center, wide receiver Jimmy Moore from Division I–A Southern Methodist University and freshman speedster Adrian Zullo. Aside from those additions, the nucleus of the Maroon and White was still in tact.

Senior co–captains and All–Americans Khari Samuel and Kerry Taylor anchored both the defensive and offensive units, respectively. Sophomore tailback Marcel Shipp emerged as one of the most talented runners in the nation, while senior fullback Matt Jordan and sophomore linebacker Kole Ayi each had breakthrough campaigns.

The pieces of the puzzle were there, and it was up to Whipple to put them together. And in the end, the result was magical.

"This year coach Whipple set so many goals for us. He knew that we had the talent, and it was just a matter of getting the confidence back in the program," Samuel said.

According to Georgia Southern coach Paul Johnson, who edged out Whipple for the Eddie Robinson Award: "Coach Whipple has done a great job. He should be the Coach of the Year and should have won that award."

Things started out slow for the Minutemen. A heartbreaking season–opening loss to Delaware was a step in the right direction, primarily in the sense that it gave UMass the vision that it had the potential to become a good football team.

"After the Richmond game [a win over the Spiders the following week in Richmond] I knew [that we had a chance to be a good team]. I liked the way that the kids bounced back after Delaware," Whipple said. "I thought that if the young guys go' better and kept working and the upperclassmen played together, then we could win the Atlantic 10 and get a home playoff game. And, if we worked hard and stayed focused then we'd have a shot at the national championship, but we didn't talk about it since then."

From there they responded by becoming not only a good football team, but the greatest in UMass history. A 12–3 final mark set the record for most single–season wins by a Minutemen squad. The national championship was the team's first, and only the second ever team title in the history of the University in any sport.

"This is a great day for the University of Massachusetts," Whipple said. "I'm so happy for our seniors. We heard a lot of talk that we didn't have a chance, and I think that that helped us. The kids did a good job of focusing on the task at hand.

"We just wanted it more then they [Georgia Southern] did, and that's why we're the No. 1 team in the country."

And for all those who still are in shock, the Minutemen have the national championship trophy to prove it.

UMass suprises 15th-ranked Kansas

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

For at least one afternoon, the Massachusetts men's basketball team returned to glory, as it knocked off No. 15 University of Kansas 64–60 before an enthralled crowd at the William D. Mullins Center on Jan. 16.

"That is the way I expect this team to play all the time," Massachusetts coach Bruiser Flint said. "We were not flawless today, but we played through our mistakes, and never put our heads down."

The four–point triumph over the Jayhawks was UMass' most impressive win of the season, and it marked the first win over a nationally ranked team since it beat Xavier 73–62 on Feb. 8, 1998 at Cincinnati Gardens.

The Minutemen were paced by an all–around superior effort by their starting five. Monty Mack led the squad with 20 points, Lari Ketner dropped in 15 points, while Mike Babul contributed nicely by hauling in 12 points and adding his trademark stifling defensive style of play.

The Minutemen, who fared well in narrowly falling to No. 1 Connecticut 59–54 earlier this season, were once again prepared for a national powerhouse from the opening tap.

After Ketner dropped a six–footer in the paint for his second basket, the Minutemen found themselves leading 15–8 just five minutes into the game.

This early surge made believers of the capacity crowd on hand, and their enthusiasm would not wane for the remainder of the affair.

"The crowd support for this team has been excellent," Flint said. "It means a lot to the guys that they stand behind us, and they certainly gave us a boost today."

Ketner continued his trend of early foul trouble, as he was whistled for his second infraction with 7:22 to play in the first half. From there Flint called upon Ajmal Basit to maintain order down on the blocks, while Ketner was forced to look on from the bench.

Basit subsequently missed the front end of a pair of one– and–one free throw shooting situations, but did provide stellar interior defense and rebounding.

"Ajmal knew he would have to be ready to step in and contribute today," Flint said. "He started off a little slow, but made a solid impact on the boards, which was good to see." A late 7–2 Kansas run gave the Jayhawks a 33–30 edge heading into the locker room which seemed to be unsettling to the Minutemen considering they had played one of their best halves of the season.

The Jayhawks opened up what would be their biggest advantage of the game, as freshman guard Jeff Boschee (16 points, four assists) nailed an open three–pointer from the top of the key for a 38–32 bulge.

The Minutemen responded with a dominating 4–30 of basketball as they recaptured the game's momentum with 12 unanswered points for a 44–38 lead.

The run was culminated by a sequence which began when Charlton Clarke regained the ball at the top of the key after missing a pair of free throws. The Bronx native then fired a pass to Monty Mack in the right corner for an open three which he missed, leading Clarke to race into the paint and grab another rebound. He then hit a one–hander in the lane while getting fouled by Ryan Robertson, before completing the three–point play at the line.

Unfortunately for UMass, a television timeout forced a break in the action when it appeared the Minutemen were about to run Kansas out of the building.

The experienced Jayhawks (12–4 overall), fought ferociously to recapture their squandered lead, a feat they would never accomplish, although they did knot the game at 58–58 with 3:35 to go.

Boschee had connected on consecutive three–pointers, and UMass appeared to be reeling in their pursuit to guard him on the outside. However, after a Kansas miss, Ketner served as a calming influence, as he sank a pair of clutch free throws on the next possession to put UMass in control for good.

Babul came up with one of the Turn to KANSAS, page C6

BRIAN MCDERMOTT | COLLEGIAN

Thanks in part to the defense of Mike Babul, the Minutemen defeated the then–No. 15 Kansas Jayhawks on Jan. 16.

UMass has a roller coaster ride over break

By Seth Koenig
Collegian Staff

Overall, it was a topsy-turvy month for the Massachusetts men's basketball team. There were plenty of highs and lows along the way, and the Minutemen once again find themselves in a familiar predicament. A late season surge will be a necessity if UMass wants to reach the NCAA tournament for the eighth consecutive year.

Here's a recap of the games for the Minutemen from over the winter break.

Villanova 66, UMass 55
Dec. 15, 1998

Coming off a 30-point blowout over Boston College a few days earlier, UMass was eager to knock off its second Big East foe in as many games. However, the Minutemen fell behind early, and the upstart Wildcats pulled away late.

Villanova held UMass in check in the second half, never really allowing the Minutemen to tap into a double-digit advantage.

Monty Mack led UMass with 14 points, while Lari Ketner added a double-double with 12 points and 11 rebounds.

UMass 59, Detroit 46
Dec. 19, 1998

Entering the game at 2-5, the Minutemen had their backs to the wall earlier in the season than they had hoped. The University of Detroit Mercy, which had advanced past the opening round of the NCAA tournaments a year ago, would be no easy win for the slumping UMass squad.

Charlton Clarke led Massachusetts with 19 points, followed by Mack with 15. Detroit's Rashad Phillips put on a show in opposition, putting 20 points on the scoreboard in addition to his four rebounds and three assists, but he alone could not muster enough of an output to overcome the Minutemen on this day.

UMass shot an encouraging 48 percent from the floor, but continued to struggle from the free-throw line, shooting only 6-for-11 in the second half of the win. Although a solid victory, the weaknesses of Massachusetts were apparent in the contest, and would prove crucial as the season pressed onward.

Davidson 75, UMass 66
Dec. 29, 1998

The Minutemen, after easily handling their opponent in the first half by outscoring them 42-27, fell into a lull in the final frame, allowing the surprising Davidson team to pull even with them at the end of regulation.

Four Davidson players scored 11 or more points, including Ben Ebong, who led the way with 17. Mack poured in 24 and Ketner recorded one of his best all-around performances of what has been regarded by many as a disappointing opening stretch of the 1998-99 season. He had 14 points and 11 rebounds in the loss.

In overtime, like in the second half, Massachusetts got outplayed to the tune of an 11-2 deficit and dropped perhaps their most heartbreaking game of the year up to that point. UMass had a 3-6 record after the loss, while Davidson improved to 5-5.

UMass 55, Virginia Tech 40
Jan. 2, 1999

Sporting a deceivingly decent 5-4 record entering the William D. Mullins Center, the Hokies proceed to tie a record by scoring the fewest points ever by a UMass opponent there. Kitwana Rhymer, coming off the bench to spell an ineffective Ketner, scored six first half points, fewer by only one than team-leader Clarke, who would finish the game with 18.

In what was admittedly an ugly victory, Flint seemed to view the win as bittersweet. Flint was justifiably harsh on his Minutemen after the Davidson loss, and he didn't appear completely convinced that his team had returned to form after this contest, although he did note that many Atlantic 10 games were low-scoring this season.

Iona 77, UMass 58
Jan. 5, 1999

In an embarrassing loss after a 15-point win, the Massachusetts basketball team again showed great inconsistency. Completely unable to control Iona College forward Kashif Hameed, who lit up the Mullins Center with 27 points and seven rebounds, the Minutemen were outscored in both halves while shooting a disparaging 27 percent from the free-throw line.

Mack once again scored the most points for UMass, this time with 16. Ketner continued to struggle, fouling out after having played less than 20 minutes and scoring only four points.

Guard Rafael Cruz saw more action than normal in the blowout, and made use of it by putting up eight points, while starter Clarke and number-one backup Jonathan DePina could only manage 10 points between them in what was well more than twice the playing time.

UMass 65, Fordham 63
Jan. 7, 1999

Poor free-throw shooting almost did the Minutemen in again on this evening in the Bronx. UMass was only 8-of-18 from the charity stripe in the game, but still managed to escape with a two-point win over the Rams.

The Minutemen held a 36-30 lead at the intermission, but the Rams made a second-half surge before falling short of the upset.

Ketner had his best game of the season for UMass with 21 points and 14 rebounds. Clarke was the only other Minutemen to reach double figures, as he poured in 12 points.

St. Bonaventure 53, UMass 50
Jan. 9, 1999

Just when we thought they were done, they got pulled back in.

After a close victory over Fordham, it appeared as though the Minutemen were back on track, but they did the same thing that they've done now for the past three seasons — play poorly in Olean, N.Y.

Holding a 10-point advantage at the break, UMass watched its lead slowly dwindle as Clarke left the game with a knee injury. Without the clutch shooting from their senior captain, the Minutemen were unable to connect on a game-tying shot before the buzzer.

Despite the loss, junior power forward Chris Kirkland excelled in his new starting role with a double-double of 14 points and 11 rebounds.

The defeat dropped UMass to three games below .500 for the fifth time this season.

UMass 69, Duquesne 55
Jan. 13, 1999

Mack may have been the team's leading scorer, but sophomore guard Cruz stole the show with a career-high 16 points in a game that was never close.

With Clarke's minutes limited from a knee injury suffered during the defeat at St. Bonaventure, Cruz stepped into the lineup and connected on all four of his three-point attempts to spark his team off the bench.

Kirkland grabbed a team-high seven rebounds, and scored in double figures for the second straight game.

Hot three-point shooting contributed to the overwhelming margin of victory for UMass. Mack paced the offense with 19 points on 7-of-12 shooting from the field, including 3-of- 6 from behind the arc.

The victory improved the Minutemen to 6-8.

Collegian staff members Michael Kobylanski and Aaron Suykin contributed to this story.

COURTESY | ANTHONY ROBERTS

Flyin' High
Punter Andy Maclay (No. 4) and placekicker Jason Cherry celebrate UMass' Division I-AA National Championship.

Babul & Kirkland key in Minuteman victory

By Aaron Suykin
Collegian Staff

Lari Ketner finally looked like the first-round NBA pick he is supposed to be.

Monty Mack continued to assert himself as one of the most prolific scorers in his conference.

Even Charlton Clarke had his moments in the second half.

But none of the accomplishments could hold a candle to those of junior forwards Mike Babul and Chris Kirkland, who gave the most inspiring and clutch performances of their three-year collegiate careers.

Remember the old UMass front-court punch of Donte Bright and Dana Dingle from three years ago? Having a hard time, are you? Well that's because the members of this new three-four tandem are the new "bookends," so to speak.

After Bruiser Flint inserted Kirkland into the starting lineup at the beginning of January, it was official. In what has turned out to be one of his best decisions during the 1998-99 season, Flint jump started his anemic squad and created a dynamic duo which proved to be too much for the No. 15 Kansas Jayhawks.

Keeping in mind the reputation these two athletes have for hustling, take a look at their stats from UMass' upset over the highly-touted Jayhawks. Kirkland had 10 points, eight rebounds and three steals, while Babul added six points, 12 rebounds, two blocks and one steal.

Just when it seemed as though Kansas coach Roy Williams had found an way to stop Mack, Ketner and Clarke from scoring, the two UMass forwards sent him back to the drawing board frustrated by their remarkable effort — an effort which left the capacity William D. Mullins Center crowd with a new excitement and optimism surrounding the men's basketball season.

Kirkland finally offered us a glimpse of his scoring ability. Whether he was burying a 12-foot jump shot or slashing to the hoop, he gave the Minutemen a fourth scoring threat on the floor. During previous losses to St. Bonaventure and Iona, UMass struggled to find two bona fide scorers. But now, with Kirkland having expanded his offensive game, it seems as though the team is ready to turn the corner... or at least admit it's close to doing so.

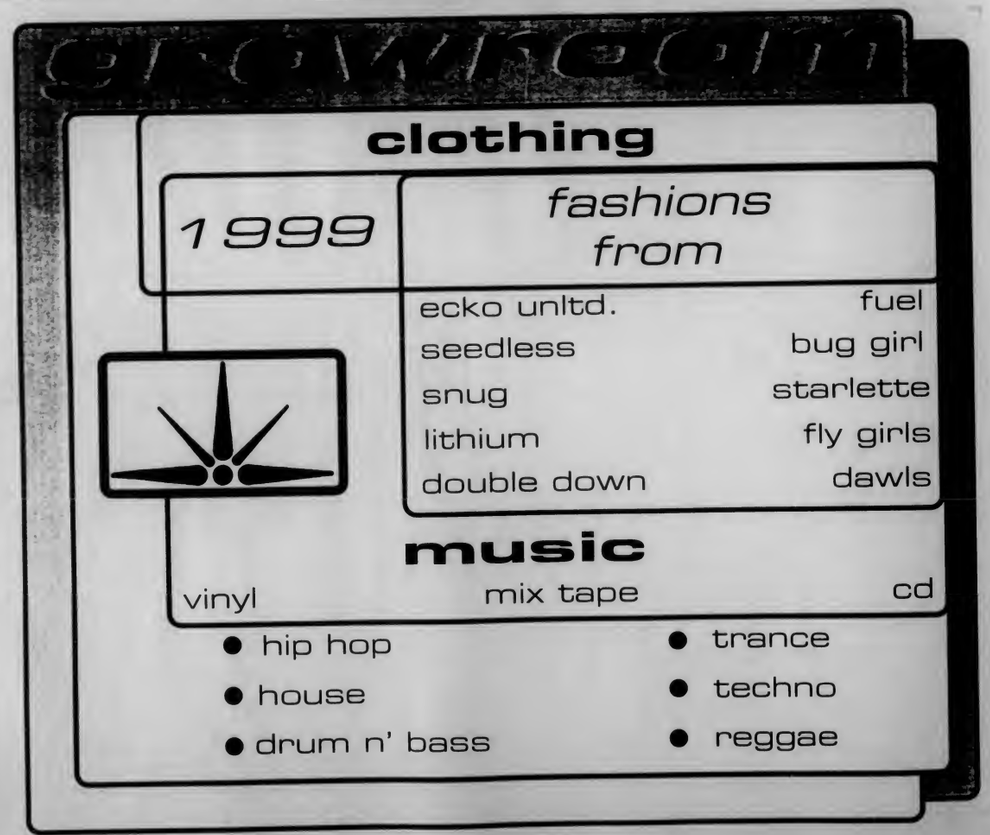
"Kirkland made some huge, huge baskets today," Flint said. "He's been playing great. He's playing with a lot of confidence and really working hard."

Babul somehow managed to come up with every loose ball in the second half, none of which were more important than his recovery of a Kirkland strip from Kansas guard Jeff Boschee with only 30 seconds remaining.

"Watching the tapes [of Boschee], I could see that he liked to cross over and pull up for a shot," Kirkland said of the game-sealing strip. "I just tried to prepare for that and I just got a piece of the ball."

After the game Babul modestly admitted that the loose ball from Kirkland's strip more or less rolled directly to him. But it was no accident. Babul seemed to be in perfect position for many of his rebounds and recoveries the entire game.

At the beginning of the season, Flint admitted that some of Babul's playing time may be shared with forward Winston Smith, whom he felt had an uncanny knack of recovering loose balls.



Now, however, it seems as though Babul has developed into the active, alert player that Flint had hoped he could be. Perhaps it was fitting that it was Babul who lunged at Boschee's three-point shot before the final buzzer, causing the freshman guard to launch an air ball. Based on his entire performance, ask yourselves whether or not it was just a coincidence that Babul came up with the late-game recovery?

Not likely.

He also grabbed nine rebounds during the closing frame, and contributed offensively by feeding the ball into a suddenly hungry Ketner, and by breaking down Kansas's defense with an alley-oop dunk and a pull-up jumpshot.

As UMass fans coronate Babul and Kirkland the new "bookends" of Minutemen basketball, some puzzling questions still linger. Can these two provide a happy ending to their 1998-99 story? As "bookends," can they hold together the team's epic novel, which has taken more abrupt turns than a New York City cab driver?

At any rate, their performances against Kansas could not have been better scripted. It was daytime drama at it's best. But like any other story, we must wait and see if its characters are worthy of a sequel.

UMass gets back on right track

By Sanford Appell and Jackie Leroux
Collegian Staff

Attempting to reverse its fortunes, the Massachusetts women's basketball team won four of seven games over the winter break to improve to 8-10 overall, and 3-2 in the Atlantic 10 as of press time.

The Minutewomen also began their all-important Atlantic 10 grid with a road win at Rhode Island on Dec. 15. In addition, UMass defeated A-10 foes La Salle and Temple, while dropping games to rival George Washington, as well as St. Joseph's.

Tez Kraft added two more accomplishments to her heralded resume over the break.

First the senior forward earned a place on the All-Tournament team at the Terrapin Classic in Maryland, and on Jan. 16, Kraft notched her 1,000th career point in a 71- 43 win over Temple.

The Minutewomen took third place in the Maryland Tournament, losing to Richmond in the opening round and defeating Coppin State in the consolation game.

UMass won decisively over Rhode Island, 62-38, to start the break. Freshman Nekole Smith had the best game of her brief college career. She scored a game-high 22 points on near perfect 10-for-15 shooting.

Kraft earned a double-double in the game. She finished with 12 points, along with a game-high 15 rebounds. She also dished out a game-high seven assists and snatched a game-high five steals.

Tez Kraft

Two keys to the Minutewoman victory were shooting consistency and domination on the boards. UMass shot 47- percent from the field, while holding URI to just 22 percent from the field. UMass also outrebounded the Rams, 47-32.

UMass cruised against La Salle on Jan. 2, winning by a score of 68-49. Junior guard Alison MacFarland had her best game of the season, finishing with 18 points. She shot 8-for- 10 from the field, including a perfect two-of-two from three- point range. MacFarland scored seven points in a second- half 11-0 run that sealed the game for the Minutewomen.

Kraft had yet another balanced game for UMass, with 14 points, six rebounds and seven assists. She had 10 of those points in the first half, as the Minutewomen went into halftime leading 37-27.

Senior forward Lucia Madajova continued her solid play, scoring 12 points and pulling in seven rebounds. Senior center Yolanda Rayside had 11 points and seven rebounds. Smith came of the bench to shoot 4-for-4 and score eight points, along with eight rebounds. UMass outrebounded La Salle 40-25 in the game.

On Jan. 7, the Minutewomen traveled to George Washington to take on the Colonials. UMass fell to their long-time rival 82-54. The Minutewomen could only manage a 37-percent effort from the field, while the Colonials shot 55 percent.

UMass was again led by MacFarland, who shot 5-for-10, including 2-of-3 from three-point range, for 14 points. George Washington was led by senior Noella Gomez, who scored a game-high 21 points. Sophomore Elisa Aguilar had 18 points, along with four assists and three steals.

For the first seven minutes of the game, UMass managed to stay close to the Colonials. The game was tied three separate times, and there were four lead changes. MacFarland had a three at the 14:03 mark, to put UMass up 12-9. That would be UMass' last lead however, as Aguilar followed with a three of her own to tie the game.

George Washington went on a 15-5 run later in the half to put itself up, 37-22. In the second half the Colonials went on another run, this one 11-0, building a 48-24 lead. With Kraft on the bench due to foul trouble, George Washington pulled ahead by as many as 28 with 3:15 left in the game.

On Jan. 14 UMass returned home to host St. Joseph's, with the Hawks entering the contest with a spotless 4-0 conference record. Spurred by a 19-8 run in the second half, St. Joseph's grabbed its biggest lead of the game, 48-37.

Freshman guard Tonia Thomas hit three three-pointers that fueled a 13-4 UMass run. The Minutewomen managed to trim the deficit to 52-50, but St. Joe's shot 7-of-10 from the free throw line to secure the victory for the Hawks in the waning minutes.

Kraft had 18 points in the game, and Thomas finished with 11. Sophomore guard Kathy Coyner scored 11 points, to go along with eight assists and six rebounds.

Kraft had one of the biggest games of her career on Jan. 16. She scored 21 points in a 71-43 UMass win over Temple, putting her at the career 1,000-point mark. A layup off a terrific feed from Coyner with 6:39 left was the clinching basket.

Thirteen of Kraft's 21 points came during a 26-6 Minutewomen run that began at the start of the second half, and put UMass ahead 60-29. After putting together a 2-for- 10 shooting performance in the first half, Kraft came out blazing in the second frame, connecting for a perfect 7-of-7.

In a balanced team effort, Smith totaled 19 points for UMass, as well as nine rebounds. Coyner had 14 points, five assists and four steals. Thomas, who has come on strong as of late, had nine points, and Madajova also pulled down nine boards.

Games on the schedule for UMass after press time included a rematch at home against Rhode Island, and away games at Dayton and Xavier.

UMass splits a pair in Maryland

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The Massachusetts women's basketball team claimed its second consolation prize of the season at Cole Field House, as they defeated Coppin State College, 82-57, on Dec. 29.

The win placed UMass (6-8 overall) third at the 1998 Terrapin Classic, after they had finished in the same position at the Big Apple Classic earlier in the month.

Before picking up their sixth victory, the Minutewomen were upset by Richmond (2-6 overall), 84-70, the previous afternoon before a sparse crowd.

In defeating UMass, the Spiders connected on an unprecedented 17 three-pointers, a Cole Field House record.

Heather Alsehire led the way for Richmond with 21 points, including 5-of-10 shooting from three-point land. Travese Turner chipped in with 16 points, as she shot 4-of-6 from behind the arc.

"We were in the right spots to defend for most of the game," Massachusetts coach Joanie O'Brien said. "We were just a little late on getting to some of those three-point attempts, and that hurt us badly."

In the losing effort, UMass did feature a balanced scoring attack, led by Kathy Coyner, who posted 17 points to complement her eight assists.

Tez Kraft netted 11 points while grabbing a game high 14 rebounds and Jaywana Bradley and Nekole Smith were strong bench contributors with 10 points apiece.

The Minutewomen followed up this disappointing showing by decisively disposing of the Eagles, as they led the game from start to finish.

UMass was able to establish itself early thanks in grant part to outstanding play from senior center Yolanda Rayside, who finished with 16 points and nine rebounds.

The Minutewomen opened up an 18-5 lead after Rayside contributed with eight points in the paint, to go along with five hard-earned defensive rebounds.

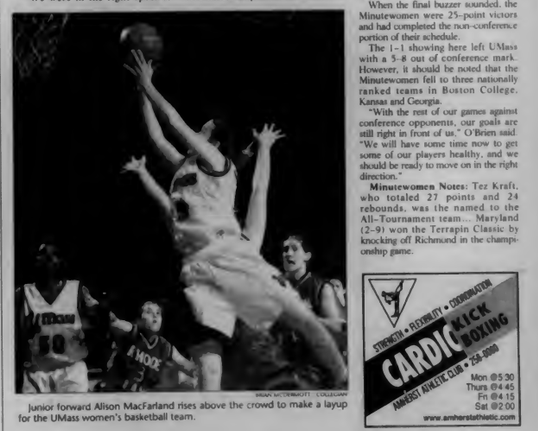
"We wanted to leave here on a positive note," Rayside said. "I knew I needed to do my job to help ensure we picked up this victory."

However, the Eagles were able to frustrate Coyner, who picked up her third foul with 11:53 remaining in the first half.

Tonia Thomas spelled the UMass starting point guard and performed admirably in her place, scoring four points and dishing out two assists, allowing UMass to carry a 36- 27 lead into the break.

"I just wanted to play under control and help point the team in the right direction," Thomas said. "The team was counting on me for leadership when Kathy sat down, and I tried to provide that."

After Coppin State closed its deficit to 38-32 on a 16-foot jumper by Tricia Allen early in the second half, UMass went on a 16-6 run that effectively erased any doubts the Minutewomen would prevail.



The contest was never close after that spurt, as the Minutewomen opened up a 20-point stronghold when Lucia Madajova buried an eight-footer to put UMass ahead 62-42 with 6:38 to play.

When the final buzzer sounded, the Minutewomen were 25-point victors and had completed the non-conference portion of their schedule.

The 1-1 showing here left UMass with a 5-8 out of conference mark. However, it should be noted that the Minutewomen fell to three nationally ranked teams in Boston College, Kansas and Georgia.

"With the rest of our games against conference opponents, our goals are still right in front of us," O'Brien said. "We will have some time now to get some of our players healthy, and we should be ready to move on in the right direction."

Minutewomen Notes: Tez Kraft, who totaled 27 points and 24 rebounds, was the named to the All-Tournament team... Maryland (2-9) won the Terrapin Classic by knocking off Richmond in the championship game.

BRIAN MCCORMICK | COLLEGIAN

Junior forward Alison MacFarland rises above the crowd to make a layup for the UMass women's basketball team.

CARDIO KICK-BOXING
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB • 256-0000
STRENGTH • FLEXIBILITY • COORDINATION
Mon @ 5:30
Thurs @ 4:45
Fri @ 4:15
Sat @ 2:00
www.amherstathletic.com

PREREQUISITE: ADRENALINE

Drive. Intensity. Those aren't words you're likely to see in many course requirements. Then again Army ROTC is unlike any other elective. It's hands-on excitement. ROTC will challenge you mentally and physically through intense leadership training. Training that builds your character, confidence and decision-making skills. Again, words other courses seldom use. But they're the credits you need to succeed in life. ROTC is open to freshmen and sophomores without obligation and requires about five hours per week. Register this term for Army ROTC.

ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE

MS113 – Introduction to Military Science, 1 credit per semester
Contact Captain Patrick Maloney
545-2321

OCMP
THE OFF CAMPUS MEAL PLAN IS NOW OPERATING DURING WINTER SESSION
PASTA E BASTA
PAPA JOHN'S PIZZA
Friendly's
THE PUB
GREENSKEEPER SUB SHOP
dairy mart
Amherst DELIVERS Deli
ANTONIO'S
E' SEMPRE BUONA
Sylvan Snack Bar
Bueno Y Sano
CHICAGO PIZZARIA
SUBWAY
the hatch
BANANADAMA
BRUEGGER'S Fresh Bagels BAGEL BAKERY
d'angelo sandwich shops
Big Y
THE BLACK SHEEP Deli & Bakery
Applebee's Neighborhood Grill & Bar
Bruno's
BLUEWALL
The Ground Round
Charlie's tavern
Rafters SPORTS BAR & RESTAURANT
NEWMAN
THE SUB
Judie's
Bart's
DP Dough
Xavier Xaves
VIDEO To Go
SAME GREAT PROGRAM, SAME GREAT RESTAURANTS
(888) 211-6267

Hockey team has rough winter break

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

The hope for the Massachusetts hockey team over the winter break was to utilize a two-week layoff to rest up before confronting the remainder of its Hockey East schedule.

Instead, the Minutemen (5-14-1, 2-9-1 in Hockey East) found themselves even more banged up at the conclusion of the wintersession, and managed only one win over the break, that coming over Western Michigan.

Here's a wrap-up of the slate that UMass played through during the past month.

Western Michigan 4, UMass 3

After a two-week layoff the Minutemen headed to Kalamazoo, Mich. for a pair with WMU. The hosts entered the series with only one win, but doubled that total with a 4–3 victory over UMass.

The visitors tied the game late in the third period, but WMU scored the game-winner in the final minutes to escape with the one-goal victory.

Junior captain Dean Stork led the Minutemen with a pair of goals from his backline position, but it wasn't enough in the losing effort.

"We really played well against Western Michigan. The first night we were a little rusty early but came back and tied it late," Massachusetts coach Joe Mallen said.

UMass 1, Western Michigan 0

Freshman goaltender Mike Johnson was the story the next night against WMU. The Excelsior, Minn. native made 27 saves against the Broncos in his first collegiate start to help propel the Minutemen to victory.

Stork was once again an offensive presence for UMass on this night. His third goal of the series, all of which came on the power play, was all that Johnson and the rest of the Minutemen would need for this victory.

"We knew after the first night that we had to go out and get the next one," Mallen said. "After we came off the ice [the first night] Mike knew that he was starting the next night and said that he was going to shut them out. Sure enough he did and we got a great effort from the team."

Northeastern 8, UMass 2

Both teams entered the Jan. 5 matchup in Boston tied with five points apiece in Hockey East. The Minutemen made a game of it early, but were victimized by some poor officiating before NU put it away late.

Jeff Blanchard and Toni Soderholm had the goals for UMass in the defeat.

"We had a lot of questionable calls go against us. It should have been a 4–2 game," Mallen said. "We had a goal called back and the tide kind of went the other way after that."

Maine 5, UMass 0

The offensive woes continued for the Minutemen when they traveled up to Orono, Maine on Jan. 17. Still reeling from an 8–1 loss to Providence two nights before, the Black Bears got their revenge on UMass in a five-goal triumph.

The Minutemen had defeated and tied Maine back in mid-November, and the Black Bears had been unbeaten up to that point. However, the No. 2 ranked team in the nation pulled away this time around and disposed of the Minutemen.

TOTAL FITNESS
Without Waiting In Line
$139 3 months
STUDENT SPECIAL
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
Rte. 116
So. Amherst • 256-0080

Minutemen fall to Providence

Friars use early outburst to down UMass

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

PROVIDENCE — Things went from bad to worse for the Massachusetts hockey team when it visited Schneider Arena on the campus of Providence College for a Hockey East matchup with the Friars on Jan. 15.

Already short four of their eight defensemen because of injuries, the Minutemen found themselves in need of a victory despite the fact they were shorthanded. Northeastern had been on a roll and had leaped over UMass into eighth place in the conference thanks to an 8–2 thumping of the Maroon and White on Jan. 5.

Instead, it turned out to be a very long night for the Minutemen. Providence erupted for three first-period goals and pulled away with a four-goal second period in an 8–1 trouncing of UMass.

"We were severely undermanned tonight. Most teams dress eight defensemen, but we were down to four tonight, putting us in a very tough situation," Massachusetts coach Joe Mallen said. "I've been around coaching a lot of years and I can't ever remember a time being down to only four defensemen. We had some great chances early, but we also had some key turnovers and [PC] converted."

If there was a sign that it was going to be a tough night for the Minutemen, it came just 2:40 into the opening frame, when senior alternate captain Bryan Fitzgerald was whistled for a five-minute major for hitting from behind. The Friars struck quickly on the power play, as Mike Omicioli it the lamp only eight seconds into the man advantage.

Although the Minutemen successfully killed off the rest of the penalty, goals by Jerry Keefe and Josh MacNevin padded the PC lead to 3-0 after the first period. Then, early in the second period, freshman netminder Mike Johnson fired out an errant clearing attempt that ended up right on the stick of Nick Lent, and the Friars winger buried the disc into the empty net.

From there, Johnson was pulled in favor of Markus Helanen, but the sophomore didn't fare much better the rest of the way.

"We've been trying to bring Mike along slowly. I can't fault him for those first few goals tonight, but we were going to pull him for Markus anyway if he gave up that fourth goal," Mallen said.

Trailing 7-0 early in the third period, the Minutemen got their only bright spot of the evening on a goal by Jay Shaw. It was the first career goal for the Rhode Island native who was playing in front of family and friends at Schneider.

UMass played Northeastern and Boston University after press time in another key set of Hockey East games.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Jeff Blanchard and the UMass hockey team continue to struggle through their tough Hockey East schedule.

Mosby, UMass win a nailbiter over URI Rams

By Kathleen Ralls
Collegian Staff

Mandy Mosby looks to be a national contender on the collegiate women's gymnastics circuit once again, as she led the Massachusetts women's gymnastics team to a narrow 186.500–185.725 victory over the University of Rhode Island on Saturday, Jan. 16 at Boyden Gymnasium.

The junior, last year's Atlantic 10 Gymnast of the Year, staked the all-around with a score of 37.775, while nabbing second place in the floor event (9.650) and third place on the bars with a score of 9.425.

Senior tri-captain Michelle LoPresti took first on the vault (9.6251, and earned a 9.400 on the floor to finish the all- around with a 37.075. Senior tri-captain Jennifer Pokrana won the uneven bars with a score of 9.825. Sophomore Mary Moore reached an impressive all-around total of 36.950 by scoring a 9.400 on bars. Another sophomore, Jodi Goldberg, also performed well, notching a 9.350 on the floor.

The Rams produced some fine showings as well. Kim Baker finished first of the beam with a score of 9.825. Teammate Kelly Labowitz bested the floor competition (9.700). Rena Ranieri and Cristina Marsicovetere had all- around scores of 37.400 and 36.050, respectively.

UMass claimed first in every event including a three-way tie between Jill Fisher, Mosby and Moore. Fisher also won the floor and vault events, while Pokrana rounded out the sweep with first place on the uneven bars.

Fisher earned first team All-America honors at the NCAA National Championships in Los Angeles, placing fourth on the floor exercise with a 9.900. Mosby, a native of Georgia, concluded her season taking 65th on the balance beam with a 9.550. This year's NCAA championships will be held at Salt Lake City, Utah on Apr. 22-24.

Coach Dave Kuzara is now two wins away from becoming the second all-time winningest coach in UMass history with a 63-32 record in five seasons.

Massachusetts hosted the Michigan Wolverines on Sunday, Jan. 24. Results were not available at press time. They head off to face the Wildcats of New Hampshire this weekend.

More or Less

Which will it say on your office door?

You've worked hard in college. When you start a career, will you be equally challenged and rewarded? Or will you be stuck with something less than your ambition deserves – something short of your career goals?

CIGNA offers an alternative to "just another job." And it can be found here at one of the world's leading diversified financial services companies. We've built our success on hiring bright, creative individuals from all major backgrounds and helping them build careers filled with meaningful work that brings out their best. The result is more productive lives that benefit us as well as our employees.

People working at CIGNA are genuinely richer for the experience. And we're not just talking about salary and benefits. One example: our Leadership Development Program gives promising graduates the chance to explore various job rotation alternatives before settling on a final choice. We are also well known in the business community for an environment that fosters people's aspirations on and off the job.

There's a spot waiting for you at CIGNA. Learn more by visiting our Web site or speaking with an on-campus representative.

Welcome back to school and have a great semester.

One CIGNA: Many Opportunities.

We're an equal opportunity employer. M/F/D/V. "CIGNA" refers to CIGNA Corporation and/or one or more of its subsidiaries. Most employees are employed by subsidiaries of CIGNA Corporation, which provide insurance and related products.

www.cigna.com

Fax resumes to: 860.726.1537

CIGNA
A Business of Caring.

After slow start, UM awakes

By Aaron Saykin
Collegian Staff

Semester break for the Massachusetts men's basketball team was like a Charles Dickens novel... a tale of two teams to say the least.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times. But lately, coach Bruiser Flint's squad has given us signs of hope that the best of times may last for at least a little while.

Home loses to Davidson and Iona, as well as a defeat at the hands of host St. Bonaventure, certainly account for the worst of times.

The resurgence of Lari Ketner in key Minutemen wins over Kansas and Fordham accounts for the best of times this season.

Despite the hopeful atmosphere surrounding the program, it sadly seems as though Ketner and company will need to win the Atlantic 10 tournament to qualify for the NCAA tournament, unless the team does something extraordinary in its conference during the regular season.

At the midway point of the 1998-99 campaign, the Minutemen stood at 6-8, but began the second half of the season by knocking off the No. 15 Jayhawks — one of the program's biggest wins within the confines of the William D. Mullins Center.

• And then there's Chris Kirkland, who seems to fit the starting lineup like a glove. With extended minutes, the 6-foot-6 junior power forward scored 10 points and grabbed eight boards in a win over No. 15 Kansas.

• Something woke the UMass sleeping giant. After a poor showing during the loss to Iona, TV cameras did not hesitate to zoom in on Ketner, who had hid his face in his jersey as he succumbed to tears.

Two days later he had his best showing of the year at Fordham and played extremely well against the Jayhawks, showing a bit of the old fire and muscle which made him a potential NBA lottery pick.

But, in his defense, he has faced triple teams in the post all season long. He has had little room to maneuver in the paint, and it's not completely his fault. Charlton Clarke and Monty Mack have been inconsistent from the perimeter. As a result, Minuteman opponents are taking the sensible approach, i.e. they blanket Ketner until the guards prove that they can shoot.

• Aside from some streaky shooting, Mack (18 points per game) has developed into one of the premier scorers in the conference. Before the season even began, Flint admitted that Mack would have an opportunity to take a significant number of shots per game based on the nature of the UMass offense, which usually features scoring from the center and shooting guard.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

UMass fanatics were in rare form as their men's basketball team beat Kansas on Jan. 16 at the William D. Mullins Center.

Turn to BASKETBALL, page C6

■ Kansas

continued from page C1

biggest rebounds of the season on the next trip down the court, as he cradled the ball with both arms, after four players had tipped the ball in the paint.

After Chris Kirkland (10 points, eight rebounds), and Robertson both drained open jumpers, the latter at the 2:12 mark, the score remained 62-60.

Neither team was able to establish themselves offensively, and Kansas was left with a last shot opportunity as it took the ball upcourt with the shot clock turned off.

However, the defensive stalwarts for UMass came through again, as Kirkland and Babul combined to force the ball off Boschee's hands, allowing the Minutemen to preserve the upset.

"I knew that was a tough matchup for Chris [guarding Boschee off a switch], so I came in to help out," Babul said. "We had him trapped in a corner and we were able to come up with a big stop."

Clarke was sent to the line to ice the game, but he missed the front end of a one-and-one. However, he then subsequently sealed the contest by grabbing yet another key rebound off a wild Boschee three attempt, and then nailed a pair from the charity stripe.

After all was said and done, and the court had been cleared of the ecstatic Minuteman faithful who stormed the playing surface in jubilation, Clarke put the game into perspective.

"We have to play everybody from here on out with the same fear to lose that we have against the best teams," he said. "If we do, we are capable of beating anybody."

Role players helping UMass

Minutewomen still hoping for NCAAs

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Although most of the time the spotlight will fall onto Tez Kraft, Kathy Coyner and Alison MacFarland, it has been the role players on the Massachusetts women's basketball team who have provided a spark for the Minutewomen over the winter break.

There are some teams which are at their peak level when faced with adversity and the Minutewomen seem to fit that mold. Once again, they were faced with the same predicament this season as they were last year — losing Kelly Van Huisen to a season-ending knee injury, and having to find a way to overcome that hardship.

Sitting at 2-6 after a loss to Texas A&M back in early December, UMass has been hot since then, winning six of 10 contests. The Minutewomen have received steady contributions night in and night out from their marquee players, but it has been the emergence of players like Lucia Madajova, Yolanda Rayside, Tonia Thomas and Nekole Smith that has helped the Maroon and White head back in the right direction.

Nowhere was this more evident then in the consolation game of the Maryland Terrapin Classic. With Coyner in early foul trouble against Coppin State, Thomas came in off the bench to pump in 10 points and four assists.

Overall, UMass coach Joanie O'Brien got exactly what she needed from her team on that given night — a total team effort from every player on her squad. Kraft, Rayside, Madajova, Smith and Thomas all reached double digits on the evening to lead a balanced offensive attack.

"Sometimes we struggle scoring, so anytime you get that many people scoring it's a definite bonus," she said. "Anytime you get balanced scoring it makes it tough. It was good to see and made everybody's life a little easier."

Thomas and Smith have been two players who have seemed to find a comfort zone in the past month. Thomas has emerged as a solid floor leader and Smith has been a consistent force off the bench down on the blocks for the Minutewomen.

Currently at 8-10 after winning six of their last 10, the Minutewomen are still in the hunt for a post-season berth. A return trip to the NCAAs is not out of the question, but it will take a steady run over the final month of the season as well as an impressive showing in the A-10 tourney to earn a bid.

O'Brien and the rest of the squad know that they still control their own destiny and are hoping for a strong second half of the season.

"You use your pre-season games to get reads for the conference," she said. "We have to realize that if we want to capture our goals, they are still right in front of us. We just have to go and get them. Last year's team waited until the end of January to get started, but hopefully this year's team will start a little sooner."

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Freshman point guard Tonia Thomas gets into the thick of things in this past week's victory over Rhode Island.

Right Here Right Now!

We're Ames. One of the dominant discount store chains in America, with $4 billion in sales and more than 400 stores in 19 states. Currently, we're looking for dynamic, creative, success-oriented college graduates with excellent communication, analytical, and planning skills.

Corporate Office Training Program

Buying • Finance • Information Systems

Because discount retailing has developed into a complex, dynamic field where farsightedness and strategic planning are essential for success, we've created a formal, 10-week training program for you that couples comprehensive classroom seminars and on-the-job training.

Through all phases of your training, you'll work with a mentor, Buyers, Managers, Directors, and Senior Management to gain the skills and knowledge you'll need to begin your career in Buying, Finance, or Information Systems.

Upon successful completion of the 10-week program, you will be placed in a regular assignment in the Ames Corporate Office. Whether your interest is in Buying, Finance, or Information Systems, Ames has a training and development program in place for you to begin your career.

Our success begins and ends with our people — the company's most valuable asset. Because of this, we are committed to your professional development through ongoing training and support.

We'll be at UMASS at Amherst on the following days:

Information Session
Campus Center
Room 905-909
Wednesday, February 24th
7:00pm - 8:30pm

On Campus Interviews
Thursday, February 25th

Sign up for an interview at your Career Placement Office!

To schedule an interview or for more detailed information, contact your Career Placement Office, or Michele Schena from Ames at: (860) 257-2248. Or FAX your resume to Michele at (860) 257-2198.

Ames
Department Stores, Inc., Rocky Hill, CT
Ames is an equal opportunity employer M/F/D/V.

The Body

Special

Hey!!

Spring Break is Coming so

Pay Only $55 for FULL & UNLIMITED Spring Semester Membership

Work Every Muscle in Your Body

Kirkland a steady force for UM

By Seth Koenig
Collegian Staff

WORCESTER — The clock reads 20:00; the entire amount of the half, and the Massachusetts men's basketball team is ready to take the court at the Centrum in Worcester against Boston College in the Commonwealth Classic on Dec. 12, 1998.

UMass' star center Lari Ketner has broken team rules and will not play this game. Because of that absence, power forward Ajmal Basit is to start at the five spot. Coach Bruiser Flint informs forward Chris Kirkland that he will begin the contest in Basit's place just minutes before the team jogs out onto the hardwood.

At 18:29, Kirkland goes high for an offensive rebound, lands, plants his feet, and goes back up for a close two– pointer to tie the score 2–2 early. Instead of Basit, Kirkland controls the inside in the opening minutes of the game.

A junior forward, Kirkland is not typically a starter, so his domination is not necessarily expected.

At 11:47, Kirkland buries a jumper from the left baseline to push the UMass lead to four points at 8–4. The forward now has six of the team's eight, and has not slowed down one step since entering the game as a starter.

At 11:44, Ronnell Blizzard checks into the game for Kirkland.

At 6:19, rested, Kirkland returns to the lineup. A minute and a half after he takes the court, the junior drives to the hole and draws a foul on a reverse hand lay–up attempt. Kirkland hits both foul shots for the first two points the Minutemen have scored since his arrival on the hardwood.

At 2:33, UMass has complete control of the game, leading 26–14. Kirkland takes a quick pass, pulls up at the foul line and banks in a jump shot to add two more to the Massachusetts score. The predominantly pro–Minuteman crowd has long–since begun to notice the inspired play of the junior, who is used to playing sporadic minutes.

At 0:03, UMass guard Monty Mack drills a three–pointer from the right baseline, extending the Minuteman lead to 37–18.

Kirkland ends the first half with 10 points and six rebounds, coming out of obscurity to far outplay nearly every one on the floor. Other than Mack, who scored 18 in the opening frame, no player from either team hit double digits. Kirkland also gets credited with at least twice as many boards as any one of his teammates.

Second Half

At 19:18, only 42 seconds have passed in the second half before the junior makes his presence known once again. BC's Michael Cotton recovers Eagle Willie Deane's missed free throw and turns around to put the ball back up for two.

Not this time. Kirkland extends his right hand and places it forcefully on the ball, completely stopping Cotton's upward momentum while barely leaving the ground. The blocked shot bounces harmlessly out of bounds.

At 16:11, Kirkland, who has played the beginning of the second period patiently on the offensive side of the ball, finally sees an opportunity to strike. The forward takes control of the ball and bobs in and around three BC defenders to roll a finesse shot into the hoop from about four feet to the right of the basket.

At 14:53, Blizzard enters the line-up for Kirkland with the score 44–28 in favor of UMass.

At 9:52, Kirkland returns to the floor for the final time and continues to stand out. A little over two minutes into his arrival, the junior scores on a lay–up, finishing off his production at a career–high 14 points.

At 5:35, Kirkland tenaciously chases a rebound after Minuteman Anthony Oates misses a free throw. The junior acquires the ball, scratching and clawing even though the game is already over for all intents and purposes, the Minutemen up, 65–33.

On the next defensive stint, Kirkland crashes to the floor in pursuit of a loose ball, eventually knocking the rock out of bounds off of an Eagle, returning possession to UMass.

At 4:38, Chris Kirkland leaves the game in favor of Blizzard for the duration of the game. The Minuteman lead is 67–33, and Kirkland sits down with a double–double: 14 points and 11 rebounds. He also has three assists, a block and a steal to complete his all–around performance.

Flint realizes he designated the right man for the job when starting Kirkland on this night. In a little over two weeks from this game, Kirkland would join the starting lineup for good.

Chris Kirkland is finally coming into his own this season for the UMass men's basketball team.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Women's swim team stays atop A–10

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts women's swimming and diving team continued to stake its claim as one of the best squads in New England with a couple of stellar outings over the winter break.

Coming into the –wintersession as the only team in the Atlantic 10 to have an undefeated record in dual meets at 5– 0, the Minutewomen started things off with a trip to Sacred Heart University in San Juan, Puerto Rico for the SHU Invitational in a non–team scored meet.

After arriving back in Amherst, UMass made the trip to Kingston, R.I. a few days later for the Rhode Island Invitational. The Minutewomen once again put on a show, easily disposing of URI and La Salle to capture the two–day event.

UMass won the meet with a team score of 371 points. The Explorers were second with a 278 mark, while the Rams finished last with a score of 231.

Junior Elizabeth Risotto paced the Minutewomen with two individual victories. The Setauket, N.Y. product took first in the 100–yard backstroke (59.54) and the 200–yard backstroke (2:06.70).

Other UMass swimmers who took home first place finishes were junior Andrea Spencer in the 200–yard individual medley (2:12.86), sophomore Julie Dragon in the 100 breaststroke (1:09.93), senior Lia Lansky in the 100–yard butterfly (2:12.36) and freshman Andrea Kazanjian in the 100 butterfly (59.62).

The Minutewomen also got a strong boost in the relay events in the victory. The 400–yard medley relay team won their event in a time of 4:02.06, while the 400–yard free relay team also earned a first–place win.

At this point UMass is not only atop the A–10 as a team, but several individual swimmers have some of the top times in the conference.

Risotto has the top times in the league in both the 100 (58.43) and 200 back (2:04.87), both of which are new school records. Kazanjian has the second fastest time in the 100–yard fly (58.35), which is also the third fastest time ever by a Minutewoman.

Fellow classmate Anne Detloff ranks third in the conference in the 500 free with a time of 5:03.50, while Dragon holds the fifth fastest time in the conference in the 50 free (24.87).

The Minutewomen went back to dual meet action after press time with affairs against state rival Boston College and a road date at Connecticut.

With their sights set on an Atlantic 10 crown, the Minutewomen will head back into action on Jan. 30 at 1 p.m. against Rutgers in what will be Senior Day at Joseph R. Rogers Pool.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Anne Detloff and the Massachusetts women's swimming and diving team measured up against tough opponents Rhode Island and Boston College over break.

Men's swim team has a quiet break

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

It was a relatively quiet winter break for the Massachusetts men's swimming and diving team.

The Minutemen competed in only two meets while school was not in session. First, the squad competed in the Sacred Heart University Invitational in San Juan, Puerto Rico on Jan 9 in a non–team scored meet.

Then, upon arrival back on the mainland, the Minutemen took second at the Rhode Island Invitational on Jan. 15 and 16.

La Salle won the meet with a score of 322, while UMass garnered a mark 286 points. Following the Minutemen were Dartmouth, which scored a 151, and the host Rams, who finished with a 150.

Senior Brian Wisnewski led the Maroon and White with three first–place finishes. He won the 200–yard backstroke with a time of 1:53.54, the 100 back in 52.20, and the 200 individual medley in 1:55.84.

Other key performers for the Minutemen were sophomores Billy Brown and Chris Arsenault. Brown, a Fullerton, Calif. native, captured the 200–yard breaststroke in a time of 2:07.50 and the 400 IM with a mark of 4:10.19. Arsenault, who hails from Peabody, took the 100 free in 47.91.

This trio has been a few of the most consistent swimmers for the Minutemen this season. Together they are not only among the best on their team, but in the Atlantic 10 conference.

Brown holds the fastest mark in the conference in the 200 breast (2:05.62) and is also the third fastest in the 100 breast (58.67). Wisnewski holds the second fastest time in the 200 free (1:42.06), the third fastest time in the 100 back (51.90) and the fifth fastest time in the 200 IM (1:56.80).

In addition, Arsenault has the fifth best time in the conference for the 100 back (52.60) and the 100 free (47.30), while junior diver Ed Hefferon holds the second best point total in the one–meter dive (304.60) and the third best total in the three–meter dive with a score of 291.05.

Although the Minutemen have fallen a bit since last year's perfect season, the hope is that they will regroup in the season's second half and make a run at another A–10 championship. Currently the UMass squad holds a 3–2 mark.

The Minutemen faced Connecticut after press time on Jan. 23 and will next dive into action on Jan. 30 when they host Rutgers for a 1 p.m. affair at Joseph R. Rogers Pool. The meet against the Scarlet Knights will also be Senior Day, giving the UMass seniors one final chance to perform in front of the home faithful.

■ basketball

continued from page C5

The South Boston native set the tone early against Kansas, scoring nine of his team's first 19 points, en route to another 20–point performance.

• Kitvana Rhymer seems to have taken over the role of sixth–man for the Minutemen. The sleek sophomore center has played tremely well in relief of the foul–plagued Ketner.

• Since the first pre–season game, junior forward Mike Babul has been the most consistent player for the Minutemen. The North Attleboro native has shut down some of the nation's top scorers in St. John's Ron Artest, UConn's Richard Hamilton and Kansas's Kenny Gregory. He has also appeared more comfortable on the offensive end, particularly with his rebounding and second–chance points.

• Let's not forget the new household name from the UMass backcourt, Rafael "The Rifleman" Cruz, who erupted for 16 points against Duquesne, shooting 5–of–6 from the field, including 4–for–4 from three–point range.

While Clarke was nursing a knee injury, the Minutemen found a reliable guard off the bench... one who can shoot the lights out.

"You always get frustrated when you don't play. Everyone wants to play," Cruz said after the game. "I just accepted my role. I knew my time was going to come sometime, and I just have to be patient."

Aaron Saykin is a Collegian columnist.

NEW AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO–KICKBOXING • YOGA
* Classes Daily
* Certified Instructors
* Suspended Wood Floor
* Area's Largest Room
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst 256-0080

R&P (RT 116) 253-9742
250 SELECTIONS OF FINE WINES
(including UMass Old Chapel Wines)
just 2 miles south of Amherst College on the right.
GREAT SELECTION OF BEERS AND 30–PACK SPECIALS!

YOU'RE IN COLLEGE. DO SOMETHING SMART.
Smart move #1
Get 50% off with your valid college ID when you ski and ride Stratton, Monday through Friday. Plus, get $5 off weekends and holidays.* For more special college discounts, visit our website.
Smart move #2
Lifts & Lodging $49–99. Two– to five–night/day packages available Sunday through Thursday, non–holiday from 1/3/99–3/25/99, and every day of the week from 3/28/99 through closing.
Smart move #3
Surf the slopes during these cool events: U.S. Open Snowboarding Championships – March 15–21; Stratton Beach Party – March 29–April 11. www.stratton.com
www.ridestratton.com
1–800–STRATTON
STRATTON Vermont's Mountain Resort
*Offers not valid with any other discounts or promotions. Per person, per day, based upon double occupancy. Two–night minimum stay required. Tax and service charge excluded.

UMass INTRAMURAL SPORTS
STILL TIME TO ENTER:
Basketball M/W/C).....A.S.A.P.
Ice Hockey (M/W).....A.S.A.P.
GET THOSE FORMS IN BY
Wallyball (M/W/C).....2/1
Wrestling (M/W).....2/1
More Info: 215 Boyden, 5-2693
Don't Miss The ACTION
For entry forms and info
545-2693
545-0022
LATE ENTRANTS SHOULD CHECK FOR EXTENSIONS IN BOYDEN 215
On the Web: http//ww.umass.edu/umim

WIR SPRECHEN VOLKSWAGEN
The Valley's largest VW inventory!
Whether it's a simple tune–up of a full blown restoration project; from engine valves and bearings to door handles or gas caps, we have the parts for just about any model VW ever made! Plus a full inventory for Japanese and Korean cars and trucks.
WE SPEAK VOLKSWAGEN!
It All Starts With Parts...
PELHAM AUTO PARTS
Route 9
Amherst/Belchertown Line
256-0457
M–F 8:30 & Sat 9:00

Men's gym team off in the right direction

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

While most of the student body was loafing around over the past few weeks, the Massachusetts men's gymnastics team was hard at work as it kicked off its 1998–99 season.

After opening up the year back on Dec. 5 in the UMass Open, the Minutemen rang in the new year at the West Point Open on Jan. 8–9. Overall, the squad took second place out of nine teams at the meet, trailing only Penn State University.

The Nittany Lions won the contest with a score of 222.300. UMass was next closest with a team composite of 213.650, with Army and Navy right on their heels.

The University of California–Santa Barbara, James Madison University, Springfield College, Southern Connecticut State University and Temple University rounded out the scoring in the meet.

Junior Jeff LaVallee and senior Stephen Pryor were two key performers for the Minutemen in the meet. LaVallee, a native of Stafford Springs, Conn. finished tied for fourth in the all–around competition. Pryor, who hails from Clifton Park, N.Y., captured ninth place.

LaVallee paced UMass with a 54.350 score. He also qualified for three individual event finals by finishing in the top eight on the first day of competition. The junior was second on the rings with a 9.650, fifth on the vault with a 9.350, and seventh on the parallel bars with an 8.700.

Pryor, on the other hand, finished with an all–around score of 52.400 and qualified for the finals on the pommel horse. There he took an eighth place finish with a score of 9.400.

Others who had strong outings for the Minutemen were sophomores Bryan McNulty and J.J. Hershey, as well as senior Dan Young. McNulty scored a 9.000 on the floor exercises, while Hershey earned a 9.300 on the horse. Young also competed on the vault, where he scored an 8.900 after qualifying with a 9.300.

Following the West Point matchup, UMass got a chance for redemption when the Nittany Lions visited Amherst. However, the Minutemen fell 223.650–225.675 in a tightly–contested meet.

LaVallee was once again a force for the Minutemen, taking first place in the floor exercises with a score of 9.600 and on the high bar with a mark of 9.700. Pryor once again was also a top performer for UMass in the defeat.

The Maroon and White traveled to Navy after press time to face off with the Midshipmen. These teams are familiar with each other as well, having gone up against each other at the West Point Invitational.

The Minutemen will next be in action on Jan. 30 when they head to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to face the Engineers and the University of Vermont.

UMass men's indoor track team rebounds nicely from long layoff

By Kathleen Ralls
Collegian Staff

Following a six–week layoff, the Massachusetts men's track and field team recovered nicely with a third place at the New England Challenge Cup Preliminaries on Jan. 16 at Orono, Maine.

Dartmouth and Maine captured first and second place with 148 and 81 points, respectively. The Minutemen compiled 65 points, one ahead of New Hampshire (62).

Senior Andre Roach headed up UMass with a first place finish in the triple jump in a leap of 45.25 feet. Ben Baraldi, a men's Atlantic 10 Performer of the Week, was the other blue ribbon taker in the 60–yard hurdles with a time of 7.77 seconds.

Ben Baraldi

In other field events, senior Eugene LaFlamme performed double duty, taking third place in the long jump (20.50 feet), and rounding out the triple jump competition with a leap of 42.75 feet, good enough for third place as well.

Neil Concepcion

Senior Matt Ely ran well enough for second place in the 1,000m in a time of 2:33.88, while finishing sixth in the mile (4:25.93). Other notables include sophomore Hugh Reid's second–place finish in the 400 (50.79).

The Minutemen had nabbed first place at their first meet of the year at Boston University. In a seven–way meet against BU, Bentley, Maine, New Hampshire, Yale and Central Connecticut State, Massachusetts amassed 125.5 points compared to the Terrier's distant second place total of 78.99. Yale placed third with 72 points.

With Roach leading, UMass swept the triple jump. LaFlamme captured second and freshman Paul Berberian took third. Freshman Wesley Shaw finished first in the pole vault, which qualified him for the New England Championships which will be held on February 26–27 in Boston.

Junior Patrick Beith also qualified for New Englands with a sixth place finish in the 200m in a time of 22.83. Sophomore Andrew Nowicki will join teammates Shaw and Beith as he placed second in the 800 (1:56.54).

Next up for the Minutemen was the New England Challenge Cup on Jan. 22, in Boston. Results were not available at press time.

COURTESY | ANTHONY ROBERTS

Running over the competition

Marcell Shipp breaks away on a drive dunng the Division I–AA National Championship game in Chattanooga, Tenn.

UM earns first–place finish

By Kathleen Ralls
Collegian Staff

After two meets in which team score was not accounted for, the Massachusetts women's indoor track and field team opened up with a powering victory with 128 points over Dartmouth and Maine.

The Big Green took second with 110 points with the Black Bears closing out the field with 89 combined points.

Shelanda Irish led the Minutewomen with two first–place finishes. The senior won the 200m in a time of 25.77 seconds while stretching to 18 feet in the long jump.

Rose Bryan took the 60–yard hurdles in 8.29 seconds, while chasing Irish for second place in the 200m (25.88). Raquiel Shelton and Melanie Bell ruled the 60–yard dash, placing first and second, respectively. Joining her fellow seniors, Nicole Way won the mile in a time of 5:09.26 and held on for second in the 800m (2:20.08).

Not to be outdone by their track teammates, the field athletes also made a more than respectable showing. Freshman Rhianne DaCruz, a women's Atlantic 10 Performer of the Week, became the first UMass student– athlete to capture the pole vault with a height of 8.6 feet. Another freshman, Taneka Miller, qualified for the New England Championships with a jump of 5.3 feet in the high jump. Junior Melissa Ward placed first in the triple jump.

Previously at the Brown Invitational, Andrea Comeau set two school records on her way to winning the University of Rhode Island Pentathlon. Totaling 3,658 points, the junior set a new indoor high jump record (5.925 feet). Comeau's total points topped the former UMass record by 196 points.

The distance runners proved strong with sweeps in both the mile and the 5,000m. The A–10 cross country champion, freshman Kristin Ciesowski, won the mile in a time of 5:12.60. Senior Tracey Meagher grabbed the blue ribbon in the 5,000m while junior Sally Hirsch beat sophomore Melissa Henderson (10:18.32) in the 3,000m with a time of 10:17.24.

Bryan and Irish also performed well, combining to finish in the top three of six events. Irish placed second in the long jump and third in both the 55m dash (7.35) and 200m dash (26.21). Bryan was tops in long jump (38.7 feet) and in the 55m hurdles (8.12).

UMass was back in action at the New England Challenge Cup Finals that were held in Providence, R.I. on Jan. 23. Results were not available at press time. This weekend the Minutewomen will continue their grueling schedule as they head to the Terrier Classic in Boston.

Men's and women's ski teams off to slow start

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts men's and women's ski teams opened up their 1998–99 season over the break at the UMass Winter Carnival.

The Minutemen placed fourth in the slalom and the giant slalom in the event held in Charlemont, while the Minutewomen were fourth in the slalom.

Senior Thomas Holden and freshman Ken Thomas paced the Minutemen on the afternoon. Holden, an All–American, was second in the slalom, while the newcomer was right behind him in third place.

Plymouth State won the slalom with a score of 380.54. Boston College took second place, while Colby/Sawyer finished third.

PSC also won the giant slalom and was followed by Colby/Sawyer. BC and UMass

Other contributors to the efforts of the Maroon and White were freshman Chris Pompray, sophomore Jordan Kingdon and junior Christian Guertin, in the giant slalom sophomores Jay Chetrosnick and Mike Hadden and freshman Rich Granger also got into the mix for the Minutemen.

On the women's side of things in the slalom, freshman Lauren Brodey was the top UMass finisher in 20th place. Sophomore Margaret LaBombard and freshman Ericka Olson also had solid showings for the Minutewomen in the slalom. Brodey was once again the leader of the pack for UMass in the giant slalom, taking 11th place. Senior Katie Keance came in 16th, while LaBombard and junior Lacey Perlenfein also aided the UMass cause.

Boston College won the women's slalom and was followed by Plymouth State and Colby/Sawyer. The giant slalom took the same form, with UMass capturing fourth place in the event.

Both teams hit the slopes after press time in the Plymouth State Tournament in Waterville Valley, N.H.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

The Stork delivers

Minuteman Dean Stork makes a clean pass to a teammate in recent action. The UMass hockey team is set to play at Boston College tonight.

UMass INTRAMURAL SPORTS
PAID OFFICIALS NEEDED:
Basketball, Ice Hockey & Wrestling
Clinic Dates:
Basketball (Intramural officials) Jan 26 @ 6pm (Totman Gym)
Basketball (Intramural officials) Jan. 27 @ 6pm (Boyden 249)
Basketball (Intramural officials) Jan. 28 or 29 @ 7pm (Totman Gym)
(You must attend both clinics)
Ice Hockey: Jan. 29 @ 5pm (Boyden 233)
Wrestling: Feb. 8 @ 6pm (Boyden 233)
Still Time To Enter: Basketball & Ice Hockey
More Info: 215 Boyden, 5-2693
Don't Miss The ACTION
For entry forms and info
545-2693
545-0022
call for times and locations
LATE ENTRANTS SHOULD CHECK FOR EXTENSIONS IN BOYDEN 215
On the Web: http://www.umass.edu/umim/

PIZZA RAMA
356 College Street
253-3808
"25th Anniversary"
(Next to Spirit Haus Liquors)
Call Delivery Express – 599-0077
BYOB

MORE MACHINES Yoga • Cardio Kickboxing Reebok Step • Low Impact • Area's Largest Room BEST PRICES
MAKE '99 FINE
Get in Shape!
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 Rt. 116, So. Amherst

AMHERST BREWING COMPANY
Welcome Back UMass!
We have over 30,000 pints of fresh ales & largers.
WE SHARE!!
Live Entertainment!
Thursday, Friday and Saturday.
Sunday Night Jazz 8:30
• Fully Stocked Bar
• Late Night Menu Till Midnight
"Try one of our growlers to go!"
24-36 N. Pleasant St. Amherst 253-4400

CASTAWAY LOUNGE
1997 1998
Adult Entertainment
proudly announces new hours
NOW OPEN ON MONDAYS AT 4PM
6 Beautiful Entertainers
TUESDAY – SATURDAY 12NOON – 1AM
46 Beautiful Entertainers
Coming on Mondays: AMATEUR NIGHT
1st Prize $200.00
2nd Prize $100.00
3rd Prize $50.00
Starts Monday, Feb. 15
Ladies must apply in person
1997 1998

Get in SHAPE!
TRY OUR
• Fat Burners
• Andro
• Creatine
• Protein Powder
• Bars, vitamins & herbs
• and more...
IN SHAPE NUTRITION

PIZZA
PAPA JOHN'S
331 Russell Street, Hadley
586-7272
OPEN 'TIL 3AM FRIDAY & SATURDAY
Welcome Back UMASS
PAPA JOHN'S
is now accepting
OCMP
The Off Campus Meal Plan
HOURS OF OPERATION
Sunday - Thursday 11am - 2am
Friday & Saturday 11am - 3am
Accepting:
MasterCard
VISA
2 LARGE PIZZA WITH 2 TOPPINGS
$14.99
Offer expires 2/14/99
•Not Valid with any other offer
•Valid only at participatin locations
• Customer pays all applicable sales tax
•Additional toppings extra
1 LG ONE TOPPING AND 6 PACK OF COCA-COLA
$9.99
Offer expires 2/14/99
•Not Valid with any other offer
•Valid only at participatin locations
• Customer pays all applicable sales tax
•Additional toppings extra

The Massachusetts
DAILY COLLEGIAN
Volume CV Issue 2 New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 Wednesday, January 27, 1999

Debating the ban; television taping answers questions

by Jill Carroll
Collegian Staff

The Amherst Board of Health attempted to clear the air last night about the smoking ban that has left some bar owners fired up and patrons still lighting up.

Members from the Boards of Health of Amherst and Belchertown and a University of Massachusetts graduate student studying public health answered questions about the smoking ban during the taping of a television show that will be aired on Channel 10 Feb. 2 from 9 p.m.–10 p.m. and Feb. 3 from 2 p.m.–3 p.m.

Audience members were able to submit questions to the panel ahead of time as well as live questioning.

"Two things are crystal clear concerning this issue," said Amherst Selectman Hill Boss to the panel. The first being that the Board is committed to the ban. "[And] what is equally clear to me is some bars in town are as committed to doing anything possible to prevent your regulation from being effective," said Boss.

A majority of the one-hour discussion was spent surrounding the issue of ventilation systems in bars.

Last December the Board failed a proposal asking that smoking be allowed in bars if the establishments install specialized air filtering systems.

Boss asked the panel to discuss why bars could not allow smoking if they installed "state of the art, affordable filtration systems," and other smoke-reducing measures.

"We looked at ventilation systems. We found from the information we had," said Board Chairperson Valerie Steinberg, "[they] were not as good as not smoking."

She also said the systems would be too expensive for bar owners to install.

Board member Orlando Sola-Gomez said the filtration systems would remove the particles in the air but not vapors. He said a filtration system that would rid the air of smoking vapors would "make it comparable to a wind tunnel."

While the goal of the ban is to create a healthier atmosphere in bars and restaurants, one audience member asked if the ban was healthy for local bar owner's pocketbooks.

Steinberg said according to reports about smoke-free restaurants in California, they did not lose money after a ban went into effect.

"In restaurants they looked at those that have enacted smoking regulations and those who haven't. What they found was those that prohibited smoking improved economically, [but] it was close," Steinberg said.

"We have 1,200 deaths a year from [cigarette smoke]. I look at these before I look at cost effectiveness," Sola- Gomez said. "We are not just talking about finances here. We're talking about human health."

But isn't alcohol, which is served in bars, bad for people's health too?, said one question.

"I maybe affected by your drinking," said Belchertown Board of Health Chairman Len Belisle, if someone gets drunk and loses control. "[But] I'm not inhaling your drink. In second–hand smoke there are hundreds of agents I am inhaling... [A patron] has no choice to inhale."

The representatives from Belchertown were enlisted in the discussion for their experience in dealing with the ban in their town.

Gail Gramarossa, a member of the Belchertown Board of Health, said despite some opposition, in particular from bar owners, the town supports the measure.

"We have significant support from our community... We have very good compliance with not smoking tobacco," Gramarossa said.

Gramarossa also said no tickets have been issued yet to Belchertown bars but warnings were given.

BETH KRASCHMAN / COLLEGIAN

Study break
Rachael Ouellet, a senior environmental science major, studies outside the Campus Center yesterday afternoon.

Welfare cuts elicit action from groups

By Jason Trenkle
Collegian Staff

In a recent attempt to protest the revoked Emergency Housing Voucher Program, low–income graduate student families and welfare activists, hoping to find the necessary means to afford their rent, have launched a Student Parent Survival Campaign.

The Graduate Employee Organization (GEO), Undergraduates United for Educational Opportunity (UUEO), and the Educational Access Committee (EAC) have been actively involved in the advocation for welfare reform.

When Republican legislatulon cut GEO funding by $20,000, Chancellor David K. Scott revoked the housing voucher funds to ensure the University was not circumventing the welfare legislation. In addition, the University refused funds for the retainment of over 100 undergraduate single parents, according to a GEO press release.

UUEO member Amanda Genao feels that without the welfare support, she could loose her education.

"A person like me, who has to work and can only stay on welfare for two years, basically I'm almost being forced out of school," Genao said. "If I can't work, how am I going to survive?"

The purpose of the campaign is to raise funds for needy students at immediate risk of dropping out of the University for financial reasons. For every donation sent to the campaign, GEO has agreed to send a letter of protest to Chancellor Scott.

GEO President Emily LaBarbera–Twarog feels the need to protest against the Chancellor's actions is a form of showing the support of the community on issues of welfare.

"It's a protest donation," LaBarbera–Twarog said. "It's a

Turn to WELFARE page 3

Senators at odds over number of witnesses in trial

By David Espo
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — House prosecutors pleaded with the Senate yesterday to issue subpoenas for "a pitiful three" impeachment trial witnesses — Monica Lewinsky and two others — and to request that President Clinton answer questions under oath.

As the Senate went behind closed doors to debate the witness issue, the White House said Clinton has no intention of submitting to questioning, even if the Senate votes to request it. "It's time to wrap this up," presidential spokesman Joe Lockhart said of the trial, in its third week.

Clinton's lawyers, joined by Senate Democrats, also warned that the issuance of any subpoenas for witness depositions would raise the possibility of long delays in the proceedings.

Turn to WITNESSES, page 3

Meet me in St. Louis: Pope visits city

By Julia Lieblich
Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Pope John Paul II paid a visit yesterday to America's heartland, where he decried teen suicide and hopelessness and likened the legal battle over abortion and euthanasia to the clash over slavery on the eve of the Civil War.

"There is something terribly wrong when so many people are overcome by hopelessness to the point of taking their own lives," the pope said at a youth rally at the Kiel Center, where his somber message stood in stark contrast to the rock-star welcome he got from the jubilant crowd of 20,000.

He added: "Remember: Christ is calling you; the Church needs you; the pope believes in you and he expects great things of you."

John Paul, making his fifth trip to the U.S. mainland, arrived in St. Louis for a 30-hour stay after a triumphant, five-day visit to Mexico City. President Clinton and the first

Turn to POPE, page 3

Differing views on alcohol violations

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

A recent report released by the Dean of Students Office indicates that the number of alcohol violations on campus has dramatically decreased.

University officials say the reductions are a result of stricter University Alcohol Policy sanctions. But some students say the administration's interpretation of the data is misleading.

According to the report, the number of alcohol violations for Fall 1997 was 705. This number decreased to 334 violations in Fall 1998, the same semester the sanctions changes were implemented.

"The results are quite encouraging," said Chancellor David K. Scott in a recent telephone interview. "It's a dramatic decrease. I hope some of that decrease is due to different sanctions."

According to a resident assistant (RA) in Southwest residence hall, the sanctions may be strictly enforced once they are documented, but an RA does not necessarily document every case.

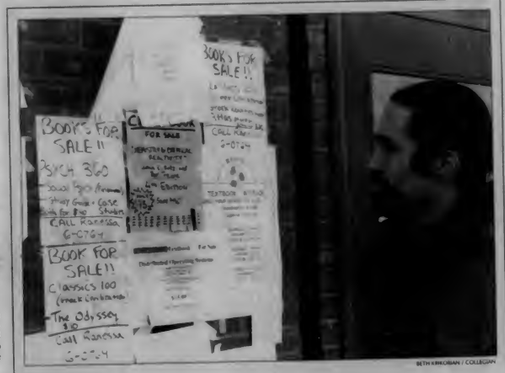
"When I go on rounds I deal with cases on a situation by situation basis," he said. "Sometimes getting them to stop [what they are doing] is just as good as documenting it. As much as an RD [resident director] says it's important to document a violation... to counsel and educate them, I don't think telling them they did something wrong is always the answer."

The RA also said they think the amount of alcohol policy violations has not changed since implementation of the new sanctions. The only thing that has changed is the way people drink, the RA said. "The stricter the policies, the more kids find ways around them."

According to an informational pamphlet published by the Dean of Students Office, the sanctioning changes were implemented in the fall of 1998, partly in reaction to "some severe and unfortunate incidents involving the misuse of alcohol in our community."

According to the Chancellor, a task force established to examine alcohol use on campus concluded that the University's existing alcohol policy was adequate. Instead of changing the policy, he said, the administration implemented stricter enforcements and sanctions changes.

Penalties under the new sanctions range from housing probation to suspension from the University for one year. In addition, each student violating the alcohol policy is required to attend an Alcohol Education Workshop. According to the pamphlet, "The workshop provides the opportunity for students to examine University alcohol policy and Massachusetts Law, as well as to re–evaluate their personal choices with regards to alcohol use."



Second time offenders and students facing violations for possession of large volumes of alcohol or dispensing alcohol to minors, are also referred to a substance abuse intervention program called the Residential Education Alcohol Program (REAP).

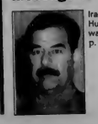
"The effectiveness of the [new alcohol policy sanctions] program is its strong educational approach with sanctions that are easily understood," said Paul Vasconcellas, assistant Dean of Students. "We're happy with the results. There's been a dramatic difference."

Student Government Association (SGA) President Salwa Shamapande said he believes the stress on education is a strong part of the new sanctions program. He did acknowledge that the reason for the decrease still needs to be explored. But, he added, "Either way, it's good the numbers went down."

"I think we have a problem [with alcohol] on this campus," he said. "We've always had a problem."

Shamapande says part of the problem is a lack of on-campus events, and admits that the closing of the Hampshire Six Theaters and Northampton Coolidge Bridge construction may further contribute to the problem.

BETH KRASCHMAN / COLLEGIAN



Bargain hunting
Junior geosciences major Marc Guillaume checks out the used books for sale outside the Textbook Annex yesterday.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Thursday	Friday
HIGH: 38 LOW: 20	HIGH: 36 LOW: 27	HIGH: 37 LOW: 33

SOURCE: CNN.COM

Saddam sends firm message to U.S.

Iraqi president Saddam Hussein threathens U.S. war planes. (See story, p. 2).

NEWS PAGE 2

Queen of the Globes

Cate Blanchett took home the best dramatic actress prize at the 56th annual Golden Globes Sunday night. Look inside for a recap and list of winners. (See Arts, p. 7).

ARTS PAGE 5

Another shiny trophy

Lari Keiner joined the 1,000 point club last night though the men's basketball team fell 66–60 to Fordham (See Sports, p. 12).

SPORTS PAGE 12

Arts & Living 5
Comics 11
Crossword 11
Editorial 4
News 3
Sports 12

ON THE INTERNET
www.dailycollegian.com

Iraq promises retaliation

By Vijay Joshi
Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Vowing that his people's blood "will not be shed in vain," President Saddam Hussein threatened yesterday to retaliate against the United States. American aircraft attacked Iraq yet again, trying to knock out more air defense sites. Three U.S. warplanes fired missiles and precision-guided bombs near the northern city of Mosul, a day after Iraq said errant U.S. missiles killed 11 people and injured 59 in and around the southern city of Basra.

Yesterday's strikes by a Marine Corps EA-6B Prowler and an F-15E strike aircraft patrolling the northern "no-fly" zone were to neutralize threats by Iraqi radar or anti-aircraft defenses, the U.S. military said.

The Pentagon acknowledged yesterday that one of the U.S. missiles fired Monday over the no-fly zone in southern Iraq had gone astray and hit a neighborhood in Basra. In Washington, spokesman Kenneth Bacon said U.S. officials had "no independent confirmation" that it killed any Iraqis.

"We regret any civilian casualties," Bacon added.

National Security Adviser Sandy Berger said President Clinton has told the U.S. military to respond more aggressively to Iraqi challenges in the "no-fly" zones, set up to protect Iraqi rebels from Saddam's forces.

Saddam, meanwhile, stepped up his defiance.

"Your blood will not be shed in vain," he said in a speech yesterday to commiserate with those affected by Monday's missile strikes.

The developments further raised tensions in Iraq, already high since the Dec. 16-19 airstrikes by U.S. and British forces. That bombardment targeted military and communications sites following Saddam's refusal to cooperate with the U.N. commission set up to oversee the elimination of Iraq's weapons of mass destruction. Until the commission completes its job, the United Nations will not lift economic sanctions imposed after Iraq's 1990 invasion of Kuwait, which triggered the 1991 Gulf War.

Saddam, in his speech, invoked the sacrifices of Basra's residents, who were on the front line in the Gulf War as well as Iraq's 1980-88 war with Iran. The speech was carried by the official Iraqi News Agency.

"Be patient, our beloved and brothers. Victory will be with those who are patient," Saddam urged the 1 million people of Basra, a city 340 miles southeast of Baghdad.

"Your blood will bloss... in the tree of freedom, resistance and victory," Saddam said. He did not specify what action he might take in response to the Basra attack.

One of the U.S. missiles fell Monday on Basra's working-class neighborhood of al-Jumhuriya, where officials said five people were killed and 42 were injured. Another missile hit the village of Abu Falous outside Basra, where six people reportedly died and 17 were injured. Three other missiles fell around Basra but caused no casualties, Iraqi officials said.

In the Jan. 26 issue of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, the article "Kerry and Kennedy don't think removal of Clinton is justified" was not designated as a news analysis.

The Collegian regrets the error.

Police Log

Alarm/Fire
Jan. 24
The Amherst Fire Department and Environmental Health and Safety responded to an alarm caused by burnt food in a toaster oven on the third floor of Van Meter Residence Hall.
Jan. 17
Environmental Health and Safety reported a problem at the Conte Polymer Research Center caused by a ground fault.

Animal Complaint
Jan. 14
An individual reported being bitten by a dog while emptying trash at Morrill South Road.

Assist Agency/Citizen
Jan. 17
Physical Plant was notified of water entering Tobin Hall from roof.
Jan. 12
A speeding vehicle was reported nearly striking several pedestrians in Lot 71, west of Whitmore.

Disturbance
Jan. 22
An individual in Cashin Residence Hall reported receiving threatening e-mail.

Health/Safety Hazard
Jan. 23
Environmental Health and Safety was called to check on an unusual odor in the laundry area of the Campus Center Hotel.
The Physical Plant was called to check on an unusual amount of steam emerging from Paige Laboratory.
A technician was called in for an individual stuck in an elevator in Lederle Graduate Research Center.
Jan. 22
An individual was extricated from an elevator in the Conte Polymer Research Center by a technician.

Larceny
Jan. 25
An individual in James Residence Hall reported a credit card stolen with illegal charges having been made.
An individual reported a parking decal had been stolen from vehicle in Lot 21, west of University Drive.
A television, valued at $700, was reported stolen from the Campus Center.
Jan. 22
An operator left the Campus Center Garage without paying the fee. The operator was contacted and will return to the garage.
Jan. 13
Two wet/dry vacuums and a floor buffer, valued at more than $1000, were reported stolen from Thompson Hall.

Noise Complaint
Jan. 13
On-going noise and disruptive behavior at Lincoln Apartments Building 11 was referred to management.

Motor Vehicle Theft
Jan. 25
A report of a vehicle stolen from Lot 33, west of University Drive, was unfounded. The vehicle was located in Lot 71, west of Whitmore.

Suspicious Person/Activity
Jan. 16
Individuals were reported on the roof of Marston Hall.
Jan. 15
An individual was reported kicking and pounding on apartment door at Lincoln Apartments.

Traffic Stop
Jan. 23
Tahon T. Ross, 22, of 90 King St., Springfield, was arrested on Infirmary Way and charged with operating a motor vehicle with suspended license and no inspection sticker.

Vandalism
Jan. 25
A vehicle was reported damaged in Lot 11, north of Alumni Stadium.
Jan. 24
An individual reported a convertible top cut open in Lot 71, west of Whitmore. Nothing was stolen.
Jan. 16
Two vehicles in the Campus Center Garage were found vandalized.
Four individuals were observed writing graffiti on a desk in the Campus Center. They were issued trespass notices.

SPRING BREAK
SALES REPS WANTED EARN CASH & GO FREE
SAVE UP TO $200/ROOM
LIMITED OFFER - CALL TODAY
#1 SPRING BREAK DESTINATION
FREE MEALS, DRINKS, & ACTIVITIES
CANCUN
MAZATLAN
MEXICO'S NEWEST HOT SPOT
NORTH OF ACAPULCO
EXCLUSIVE FLIGHTS VIA TWA
LET'S PADRE
SOUTH PADRE ISLAND
EXCLUSIVE FLIGHTS VIA TWA
JAMAICA
MONTEGO BAY & NEGRIL
BEST PRICES - BEST PARTIES!
1-800-787-3787
www.studentexpress.com
"BREAK WITH THE BEST"

Do Your Math Homework FASTER & SMARTER!
With the ProSolv® Symbolic Calculator for Win 95/98, your study time will be more efficient and productive.
It shows all the steps in your problem.
*Special student price: $28
Now available at The University Store
(800) 755-2150 www.prosolv.com

AEROBICS
• Area's Largest Room — STEP
• Certified Instructors — LOW IMPACT
• Classes Daily — YOGA
• Shock-absorbing Floor — CARDIO KICK BOXING
• Walk-ins Welcome — HI/LOW
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 Rt. 116, So. AMHERST

The Collegian is Hiring!! Come down to the Campus Center basement to apply.

TOTAL FITNESS
Without Waiting In Line
$139 3 months
STUDENT SPECIAL
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
Rte. 116 So. Amherst • 256-0080

NEW AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO-KICKBOXING • YOGA
• Classes Daily
• Certified Instructors
• Suspended Wood Floor
• Area's Largest Room
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst, 256-0080

MORE 2 MACHINES
Yoga • Cardio Kickboxing
Reebok Step • Low Impact • Area's Largest Room
BEST PRICES
MAKE '99 FINE
Get in Shape!
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 Rt. 116, So. Amherst

new improved editions- makes learnin' 120% faster!
textbooks to go!
free delivery
buy online • new and used • save up to 40%
big words
www.bigwords.com

PREREQUISITE: ADRENALINE

Drive. Intensity. Those aren't words you're likely to see in many course requirements. Then again Army ROTC is unlike any other elective. It's hands-on excitement. ROTC will challenge you mentally and physically through intense leadership training. Training that builds your character, confidence and decision-making skills. Again, words other courses seldom use. But they're the credits you need to succeed in life. ROTC is open to freshmen and sophomores without obligation and requires about five hours per week. Register this term for Army ROTC

ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE
MS113 – Introduction to Military Science, 1 credit per semester
Contact Captain Patrick Maloney
545-2321

welfare

continued from page 1

means of saying this need is here and you [Scott] are not doing anything about it."

The UMass administration has justified their refusal to retain low-income student parents on the grounds that they cannot spend state money to circumvent welfare legislation. However, it is the University's stated mission and obligation as a public institution to recruit and retain low-income students. The argument arising from the legislature surrounds the idea that the University shouldn't be circumventing welfare legislation and should therefore revoke other forms of assistance, including housing vouchers.

Javier Cevallos, Interim Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs feels with over 10,000 students in need of financial aid, the funds need to be allocated fairly.

"There are guidelines as to how to allocate aid to students," Cevallos said. "We need to ensure aid distributed on campus is fairly allocated among all the students."

EAC member John Zibbell spoke out in a recent press release on his concerns over the matter of poor income students.

"It is even more outrageous when you realize that the administration is willing to spend $15 million for an Honors College facility, but not a half million to retain poor students," Zibbell said.

In an official statement, the UMass administration has advised low-income students to seek individual counseling and advice from the financial aid office.

"They do not want to end up helping anyone losing welfare benefits," LaBarbera-Twarog said. "They've ended up cutting everything and sending everyone to the financial aid office."

State Representative Ellen Story (D- Amherst) will be discussing the issues of welfare raised in legislature tonight at 6 p.m. in Campus Center room 163C.

witnesses

continued from page 1

Ms. Lewinsky, summoned to Washington over the weekend to be interviewed by the House prosecutors, checked out of her hotel and flew home to California. Her lawyer said she would return if ordered to answer further questions.

The prosecutors said they had trimmed their list to pass Senate muster. "A pitiful three, and I would think you would want to proceed with that minimum testimony," said Rep. Henry Hyde, the lead prosecutor.

Democratic leader Tom Daschle conceded that the Republicans, with a 55-45 majority, were likely to prevail when the roll is called on today, forcing approval of subpoenas for Ms. Lewinsky, presidential friend Vernon Jordan and White House aide Sidney Blumenthal. "I think it's going to be virtually a party-line vote, unfortunately," he said.

All witnesses would be questioned under oath at private depositions about the facts concerning allegations of perjury and obstruction of justice by the president in connection with his efforts to conceal a sexual relationship with Ms. Lewinsky.

Guidelines for the questioning remain to be worked out.

Yesterday's closed-door Senate session was the second in as many nights. As was the case on Monday, a request by Democratic Sens. Tom Harkin of Iowa and Paul Wellstone of Minnesota to open the doors was rejected.

The winnowed list of three witnesses marked a concession by the House prosecutors, who were fearful that a more extensive request would cost them the support of wavering.

"We're down from thinking we ought to have 10, 12, maybe 15 witnesses, to three," Rep. Bill McCollum of Florida said during a four-hour legal argument on the Senate floor during yesterday afternoon.

Said Hyde: "We have a good case, we have an excellent case without the witnesses, but the witnesses help you."

The president's lawyers and Democratic allies reacted with a mixture of scorn and warnings, knowing that public opinion polls favor a swift end to the trial and that Clinton's acquittal on charges of perjury and obstruction of justice is virtually assured.

"The time to end the trial is now, and the correct number of witnesses is zero," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts told reporters in an interview off the Senate floor.

Pope

continued from page 1

lady joined 500 families at a sheltering National Guard hangar at Lambert Airport to welcome the pope.

The pontiff later met privately with the president.

"For 20 years you have challenged us to think of life not in terms of what we acquire for ourselves but what we give of ourselves," the president told John Paul at the airport ceremony. "We honor you for standing for human dignity and human rights."

The 78-year-old pope's arm shook as he held the lectern, his body stooped over his text. Still, his voice was firm.

He reminded Americans of the Dred Scott case, tried in St. Louis. Scott, a slave bought in 1833 by an Army surgeon stationed near St. Louis, sued for his freedom. Living in a free state, he said, made him a free man.

In 1857, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled, in effect, that slaves were property and not citizens — a decision, the pope said, that declared "an entire class of human beings — people of African descent — outside the boundaries of the national community and the Constitution's protection."

"Today," the pope went on, "the conflict is between a culture that affirms, cherishes, and celebrates the gift of life, and a culture that seeks to declare entire groups of human beings — the unborn, the terminally ill, the handicapped, and others considered 'unuseful' — to be outside the boundaries of legal protection."

Today, John Paul is scheduled to celebrate Mass before 104,000 people at the Trans World Dome. Altogether, as many as 600,000 people are expected to turn out to see the pope in St. Louis. More than 530,000 Roman Catholics live in and around the city, which was founded by French Catholics in 1764. John Paul came to town at the invitation of Archbishop Justin Rigali, a longtime friend.

At the youth rally, he was showered with adulation from young people weeping, squealing, jumping up and down and waving handkerchiefs.

Join the fun!! Work for the Collegian.

SPECIAL HOURS!
Tues., Weds., Thurs. - This Week Only!
8:30am to 7pm!

UMass Student Legal Services Office
FREE confidential professional legal services for UMass students!
545-1995 CALL TODAY!
922 CAMPUS CENTER

New Years Resolution:
You've got to get away!
Cheap tickets. Great advice. Nice people.
Boston/Nairobi $955 r/t
Boston/London $206 r/t
Boston/San Jose, CR $452 r/t
Boston/Tokyo $716 r/t
Council Travel
Council on International Educational Exchange
44 Main Street
Amherst, MA 01002
Phone: 413-256-1261

GET IN SHAPE IN SHAPE NUTRITION
•Fat Burners •Creatine •Protein Powders
20%-50% Off Retail Prices Everyday
•Andro •Vitamins/Herbs •Food Bars and more...
65 University Dr. Amherst 541-7434

Just another way that WE GIVE 100%
We give all of our profits to support University Programs
NEW Student Store
Not like a mall... Better.

Paid advertisement

"If you take any reasonably smart person and tell them to spend a year researching an industry, they can become an expert if they work at it." Christy Haubegger

The Secret Success Series
brings you information designed to help you achieve your personal and career goals. Watch for the rest of this series in future issues of your school newspaper.

Name: Christy Haubegger
Age: 30
Career: Entrepreneur-Founder & Publisher Latina Magazine

For someone who is only 30 years old, magazine magnate Christy Haubegger has already put together a pretty impressive resume. She's won an award from the Ms. Foundation (also given to Oprah Winfrey and Madeleine Albright), and Tom Brokaw named her one of the "most influential people of the year" in 1996.

So how did she end up in company like that? Turns out it all started with one simple question. "I took a few business classes in school with some great professors, and they always talked about the search for that mythical big idea," she recalls. "As a Mexican-American, I'd always wondered why no one had ever produced a magazine for Latina women. Then I wondered if I could do it myself."

Christy graduated from the University of Texas in 1989 with a philosophy degree and immediately headed off to Stanford University Law School. But as law school graduation approached, she couldn't shake the magazine idea from her head, so she decided to devote a year to chasing her dream. "My friends thought I was crazy," she recalls. "But I figured the worst thing that could happen would be that the business wouldn't fly and I'd end up being a lawyer after all."

As President of her class at law school, Christy already possessed the leadership skills that entrepreneurs need. Her publishing experience, however, was limited to editing the Stanford Law Review. Still, she figured she could learn what she needed to know pretty quickly. "If you take any reasonably smart person and tell them to spend a year researching an industry, they can become an expert if they work at it," she says. "All the data I needed was in the public library. Census data, information about the magazine industry, books on how to write a business plan, it was all there." In the meantime, she lived on the cheap in San Francisco's Mission District and did legal research to pay the bills.

Once Christy's business plan was done, she started to show it to people who might be willing to invest the millions of dollars she would need to launch a glossy publication. "192 people told me no. I counted," she says. "But most of them didn't slam the door in my face, and I was able to learn a lot by asking them how I could improve my business pitch."

Eventually, some good old-fashioned networking led her to her first big investor. "If you don't believe that stuff about using all of your contacts, you should," she says. Turns out that Christy's classmate's aunt's neighbor (follow that?) knew the editor of Essence, a women's magazine aimed at African-Americans. Christy convinced the magazine's president to meet with her, and his company agreed to help fund her start-up. Christy launched Latina magazine in 1996, and it was an immediate hit. Today, it has an impressive circulation of almost 200,000, but it wasn't easy getting there. One of the hardest things about being a young entrepreneur is simply the fact that you are young. Potential business partners often assume you are inexperienced. "Nobody saw me walk into a meeting and thought they were looking at a magazine publisher. But I persevered. You have to be prepared to get over your pride and fake your confidence when you need to."

While there is a certain glamour associated with being the publisher of a major magazine, Christy still relishes the role of underdog. "Each milestone means so much more when you're a start-up," she says. "A major retailer just advertised with us for the first time. To a larger publication, it wouldn't be such a big deal. But when they agreed to be in our magazine, we jumped up and down and cried and hugged. Then, "she laughs, "we ate ice cream."

As an owner of a growing company and Publisher of Latina, Christy has continued to nurture her dream magazine into a leading lifestyle publication, read by thousands of dynamic, educated young women just like herself. She says that she hopes to inspire other young women to pursue their dreams as well.

Secret
"Strong enough for a Man But Made for a Woman"

— The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian —

The year in review

Paul Teves

Last year was the year in which politicians proved that politics can sometimes be as shady as people think that it is. Most of this sentiment was due to Monica Lewinsky and President Bill Clinton's sex scandal. Amazingly enough, this scandal sparked a renewed national interest in politics. Oddly enough, it also sparked a better turnout during the 1998 election year.

It all began in 1998 with the State of the Union Address. President Clinton told the world of the economic good fortune of the United States: there was a surplus in the budget for the first time in over thirty years.

But with this good fortune, came the first of many problems. Both parties wanted to take credit for this occurrence. Before that political debate could heat up however, news of the Lewinsky/Clinton sex scandal broke.

Lewinsky easily became the most famous White House intern in the history of our nation because Lewinsky and Clinton had "sexual relations." What the term means is still uncertain to this day. Smoking a good Cuban cigar will never be the same, either.

Lewinsky, the woman who never spoke, became quite vocal when we, as a nation, heard the Linda Tripp tapes. These tapes discussed the President's relationship in great detail. Tripp, who claimed to be Lewinsky's friend, taped all their telephone conversations in an attempt to help Kenneth Starr nail the President. Maybe the two of them will continue their collaboration and sign their book and movie deals together as well.

Starr has proven to be a vindictive person, investigating the President for his entire tenure in the White House. He has tried Travel-Gate, Whitewater and now Monica, but this time it seems he might have succeeded in finding evidence of Clinton's wrongdoing. At times even an educated lawyer can become a puppet for the GOP.

The blue dress, which was saved by Lewinsky with some incriminating DNA on it, is one of the most interesting details of the case, but again the source of this idea has to go to Tripp, who has continuously surprised the country with her antics during this so-called friendship with Lewinsky.

What were the results of the President's infidelities?

The Republicans to this day claim his action set a bad example for the nation's children, but yet they put the descriptive Starr report on the Internet and released it to every paper, with the hopes of embarrassing the President into resigning. If they really cared for the children of the nation they wouldn't have put that garbage on the Internet where any child can read it.

The President did acknowledge the situation by making a speech to the American people on Aug. 17, stating that he misled the public but that it was a private matter that he wanted to be between himself and his family. Senator Orrin Hatch (R-Utah) told everyone before the speech that if Clinton told the truth, we would be able to move on as a nation, but literally minutes after the speech he was calling for Clinton's resignation because apparently he didn't like the tone of the speech. Liar!

The Republicans voted for an impeachment inquiry to start after the November elections figuring they would pick up seats in a midterm election, but they had no gains in the Senate and lost five seats in the House of Representatives, when the public showed its disgust of the handling of the impeachment process at the polls.

From there the "lame duck" House Judiciary Committee drew up four Articles of Impeachment, only two of which passed the Judiciary Committee. Perjury and obstruction of justice survived. The House voted to impeach Clinton on a party-line vote, which increased Clinton's approval rating to an all-time, non-wartime high after his impeachment, showing the public's further disgust with the continuation of a process they clearly want to see ended.

The Senate is now faced with the tough responsibility of cleaning up the House's mess and will do so. Even Sen. Hatch (R-Utah) has recently talked of bringing the trial to a close.

The 1998 political awards are bipartisan, unlike any other proceeding that goes on in Washington.

The "Scapegoat of the Year" goes to Newt Gingrich. Gingrich was the Speaker of the House, and I believe he was unfairly blamed for other Republican's mistakes and cost the GOP seats in the November elections.

The "Comment of the Year" goes to a hometown hero from the Fall River district, Barney Frank. He won the award hands down when he thanked House Judiciary Chairman Henry Hyde for giving him his five minutes to strike the last wank. By saying "I would like to thank the chairman for swinging my way."

Senator Joseph Liebermann (D-Conn.) receives the "Traitor of the Year" award for trashing his so-called friend Bill Clinton on the floor of the U.S. Senate earlier this summer.

But Bob Livingston (R-Miss.) is the big winner, receiving two awards. Livingston, you remember, was the guy who was going to replace Gingrich but resigned after two weeks because of sexual misconduct. With that in mind I would like to bestow him with the "Bonehead of the Year" and "Hypocrite of the Year" awards. The bonehead award is for resigning his post for something which had nothing to do with his job, and the second is for being one of the biggest hypocrites alive.

And according to Larry Flynt, publisher of Hustler Magazine, there are many other hypocrites.

A new year usually would start with a clean slate but that doesn't look like the case for 1999, as the Senate will be tied up with the ongoing soap opera from the White House. Thank goodness Al Gore doesn't have any baggage in 2000. Well?

Paul Teves is a Collegian staff member.

"TOUCHDOWN."

Isn't it ironic?

Gary Mendes

Good bye, 1998... hello, 1999! New Year's Eve this year was out of control as people celebrated the last year of the millennium. The year of Armageddon is rapidly approaching, and everyone seems to be looking forward to flying cars, floating skateboards, and Terminator-like computers. Yes, we are all looking forward to the day when Intel releases its Pentium 10,000 processor and scientists find a cure for virtually every disease.

This year, Prince (that's right, I called him Prince) will be making millions of dollars, as his famous "1999" plays incessantly on every radio station. But before we continue this borderline hallucination, I just want to refresh your memory with the most ludicrous and pointless "crisis" that occurred in this country last year and is still plaguing us today.

Although there were many "interesting" situations this past year, two words stand out in my mind: Bill Clinton. As I'm sure most of you know, President William Jefferson Clinton is in rough shape as the Senate holds the fate of his presidency in its greedy, slippery hands. This in and of itself is a strange situation, because in order for the impeachment process to reach the Senate, the House has to vote in favor of impeachment, and subsequently, the deed is passed on.

To me, this is ironic because according to the laws of a democratic society (which we supposedly have), the decisions made by a "representative" are supposed to reflect upon the views and opinions of the people in his or her district.

Hmm... at the beginning of this whole fiasco, the poles showed that the people were in favor of Clinton, and against impeachment. Well, with this in mind, will someone please explain to me how the House vote was for impeachment? How can representatives vote for impeachment when their people want the complete opposite? I know, I know — it's the U.S. government, so why make sense of it, right?

In any case, the Senate now decides whether or not Bill Clinton will remain our president. This big ordeal has been going on since last year, and two more words come to my mind that make this whole impeachment situation more ironic than Mike Tyson's return to boxing. Saddam Hussein.

Yes, I'm sure you know that the U.S. has been trying to destroy the sinister Saddam Hussein for years, and after Hussein decided to violate the laws of the United Nations, we decided to bomb Iraq last December. That's right, since we were mad at Saddam, we decided that we were going to bomb and destroy many innocent lives in Iraq in order to show Hussein that we meant business! Yeah, right! He doesn't even care about his people and he's going to do whatever he wants. I'm sure that his suddenly submissive compliance with U.S. demands is just a preview of things to come.

You might think that I'm digressing, but there is a reason to my mention of Iraq. There is a relationship between the impeachment situation and our furry friend Saddam Hussein. You see, despite the fact that we bombed the "sovereign" nation of Iraq, we proceeded with the impeachment of Clinton the very next day! Come on, I know that the Republicans want to get rid of Clinton because less of the tax payers' money is going to the richest one percent, but isn't this a bit much?

"How can we come so close to World War III and still impeach the Commander-in-Chief?"

How can we come so close to World War III and still impeach the Commander-in-Chief? Although the House of Representatives has a major say in a declaration of war, the president holds the most important position in our government. He calls the shots. Plain and simple.

How can we burden the president in a situation like that? And don't give me any legal mumbo jumbo, either. I know that no one is above the law, and all crimes should be dealt with in an orderly fashion, but when the entire population of the United States is at risk, don't you think an exception is in order? Actually, we freed O.J. Simpson, so I guess that an exception has already been made.

OK, I know that there is no point to whining about it, because what's done is done. I'm just pointing out a crucial element to all the new millennium celebrators out there. With all of this Clinton controversy floating around and "bombs bursting in air," the new millennium is far from the front of my mind.

History has taught us that it usually takes about one year after war threats are exchanged between countries before war is actually declared. Well, we bombed Iraq in December of 1998 — are you really looking forward to 2000, now?

Again, I don't mean to be frightening or morbid, but I just want you to put things into perspective. Whether or not Clinton remains president is irrelevant. The damage to the integrity of this country is already done. My advice to you is to focus on today and fix the problems at hand. Besides, the new millennium doesn't officially start until 2001, anyway.

Gary Mendese is a Collegian columnist.

Wrestling with politics

Matt Frascella

In case you haven't noticed, our country is in the midst of the impeachment process and I have put together a list of what I have learned by the whole episode.

1. Americans care more about professional wrestling than the Impeachment. It is true. No one seems to care about the fact that the president of our nation may lose his job. An impeachment trial has happened only one other time in American history, yet still no one cares. Apparently, fake wrestling is better. It beats the impeachment trial in television ratings. In fact, wrestlers have even begun to dabble in the political realm. Wrestlers are natural politicians. They talk the talk.

Jesse "the Body" Ventura body-slammed his way into the governor's office in Minnesota. Now, I hear that Hulk Hogan and his 21-inch pythons are gunning for president. Does anyone else find this disturbing? That is just what I want: some steroid-inflated hulk running this country, but come to think of it, it wouldn't be the first time we had an actor playing the role of President. Ronald Reagan should have at least received a nomination for an Oscar for his role as President from 1980 to 1988.

Maybe Hogan can pick up another wrestler as his running mate and they can tag-team the world. (X-Pac comes to mind because he's the only wrestler that's actually smaller than I am). They could open up a can of "whoop-ass" and put the sleeper hold on Saddam and we could all watch it for $39.99 on pay-per-view. There is nothing wrong with wrestling as entertainment, but politics is more important. Who am I kidding? For the 49 percent of Americans out there who actually vote, be sure to vote for wrestling.

2. Politicians are bigger hypocrites than anyone ever envisioned. I know that this revelation is startling, but it is the truth. Out of nowhere, Larry Flynt, "the King of Smut," has become our conscience. How bad is it that he can see what politicians cannot? Hypocrisy angers me more than hearing the Backstreet Boys attempt to sing.

I once heard a motto stating, "people in glass houses should not throw stones." Well, the entire Anderson glass family is in Congress and they are using backhoes to excavate boulders to drop on the White House. Be careful, Flynt will find you. Politicians are amazing, though. They are greasier than the pool of sludge that the DC serves you hamburgers from.

One senator had an affair with a girl who he helped get an abortion while at the same time running on a pro-life platform. When confronted by Flint about the affair, the senator pleaded the fifth. So essentially it is OK to have an affair, you just can't lie about it. Sadly, this is one of the people that Americans have elected to govern the nation.

3. When you get in trouble, people call you by your full name. I thought that this was only true when you are a little kid and your mom discovers you have decided to turn the backyard into a mud pit in your brand new clothes. "Matthew Robert Frascella!" she would scream and instantly I knew I was in trouble (only later on in life did I learn that you don't have to tear up your own back yard to play in the mud. There is an entire state that is just one big mud pit: New Jersey. Garden State? Yeah, right). Bill Clinton is now "William Jefferson Clinton."

4. Lying is more serious than cheating on a smart man can be stupid. I opted for the Rocky and Bullwinkle title here to make a point: Our entire judicial system is based on the truth. If we betray that, then everything falls apart. Even though our society is rapidly losing touch, as our lives are dictated by technology instead of personal interaction, we must trust each other to a certain extent. How can we trust each other if we can't even trust our president?

Bill, err... I mean William Jefferson Clinton, I know that you are a Rhodes Scholar and that you are a political genius, but why are you such a moron? First of all, she was an intern. It is extremely unethical to have an affair with an intern. That is not only cradle robbery, but she was barely older than your daughter. Having an affair with an intern is like seeing old people at the beach: it just makes my stomach turn. Why did you lie? Just admit it. We all have flaws. I happen to still enjoy playing Nintendo even though I am almost 20 years old. You have a problem with sex. Admit it. Chances are, Americans would understand. After all, we do live in a nation where one of the top selling movies on home video for 1998 was the Pamela Anderson and Tommy Lee "sessions" on home video stolen from their house.

5. The Clinton scandal has made work easier for late night comedy shows. I may have been mistaken when I said no one cares about the trial of the President. Dave Letterman and Jay Leno do. At home over the break, I had time to kill at night as my college body had difficulty adjusting to going to bed before midnight. For those five weeks that every other school had already started and I was still waiting for classes to begin, I would watch waiting to hear all the vital and fascinating news like "which new boy-toy Gwyneth Paltrow is running around with."

Every night for the past year, Conan and the rest of the crew has stood up in their monologue and cracked Clinton jokes, Monica jokes, intern jokes, Hillary jokes and closed it up with, you guessed it: a Clinton joke. I think Letterman may actually realize the absurdity of it, but Clinton is such an easy target. On the eve of Michael Jordan's retirement, he had a list of other people who should retire. Clinton was on there, and so was Dave Letterman. Dave, you should send Bill a big thank you note for keeping your career alive.

There you have it, five observations about the impeachment trial. Now that I think about it, I realize that at least wrestlers aren't hypocrites, but who cares... it is just an impeachment trial.

Matthew Robert Frascella is a Collegian staff member.

Doonesbury BY GARRY TRUDEAU

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545-3500 • Fax (413) 545-1592 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor-in-Chief Mike Messaros Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Position Vacant Developing Nations Editor
Tanya Mannes Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Jewish Affairs Editor
Position Vacant Multicultural Affairs Editor
Laura Forster News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Co-Sports Editor
Paul Teves Co-Sports Editor
Julie Flatkow Women's Issues Editor
Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Presties Distribution Manager
Laura Keller Promotions Manager
Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life, became the College Signal in 1903, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1936. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1994. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Superchunk provides a thrill ride

Wild McCaughan & Co. connect with Middle East crowd

By Mike Messaros
Collegian Staff

SUPERCHUNK
Middle East
Jan. 24

BOSTON — In Superchunk's "Song For Marion Brown," a tribute to an experimental musician, singer Mac McCaughan offers an abstract vision where "the box sets are moving the mall." McCaughan's voice contains just a hint of exasperation: "They're charging admission now! For your baby tooth/ And a lock of hair," he sings during the chorus.

The joy of music comes from a band or artist making a connection between themselves and the audience. Good pop music can create an undeniable thrill in the listener. All too often, in the current music environment, this connection is removed by one-hit wonders, fake emotion (ahem, Celine Dion) and the ever-changing face of music. But that's a whole 'nother column. Chapel Hill, N.C.'s Superchunk has held on to a dedicated fan base that comes out repeatedly to see their melodic, poppy music that offers fans sometimes challenging, always entertaining music.

Turn to SUPER, page 7

COURTESY MERGE RECORDS

Superchunk offered a turbulent mix of pop and rock Sunday night at the Middle East.

Ryan, Spielberg capture Globes

By Bryan McAllister
Collegian Staff

Steven Spielberg, Jim Carrey, David E. Kelley and British people all had a big night Sunday, Jan. 24, at the 56th annual Golden Globe awards, the light-hearted stepchild of the Oscars. The awards featured a few big surprises, the biggest being Carrey's victory for best dramatic actor in The Truman Show, beating out Oscar favorites Tom Hanks, Ian McKellan and Nick Nolte.

What was expected were references to last year's Globe shenanigans, like Christine Lahti getting stuck in the bathroom and Ving Rhames' moving delivery of his award to Jack Lemmon. At one point, Lahti walked on-stage with toilet paper attached to her shoe, and backstage host Dick Clark even took us into the women's bathroom.

This year's Golden Globes were smooth, accessible and at times, even very emotional. Gwyneth Paltrow, winning the best comedic actress award for Shakespeare in Love, was brought to tears while thanking her mom, dad, and "friend Ben Affleck." Angelina Jolie, taking home the best actress in a miniseries award for Gia, was also visibly moved. And Michael J. Fox, just diagnosed with Parkinson's disease, gave a heartwarming speech, thanking the doctor "who actually opened my brain."

Jack Nicholson, decked out in his trademark sunglasses, gave the longest speech of the night, one that reeked of nostalgia, as he was presented with the Cecille B. DeMille award for lifetime achievement by his friend Warren Beatty.

Luckily, It was the British who proved they are best at comic relief. Michael Caine, snatching the best comedy actor award for Little Voice, commented, "My career must be slipping. This is the first time I've been available to pick up an award."

Shakespeare in Love co-scripter Tom Stoppard, a long- time British resident and playwright, quickly made his speech while joking, "In England, when they say 'wrap it up,' it means your fly is down."

Spielberg, expectedly, took home the awards for best director for Saving Private Ryan, and as producer when Ryan won best dramatic picture. Following Spielberg was a

Turn to GLOBE, page 7

If reading the Collegian is cool consider me Miles Davis!

Glacier National Park
Where do you see yourself this summer?

A. Commuting in bumper to bumper traffic?
B. Sharing a trail with a mountain goat as you hike through snow capped glacier peaks?
A. Spending the summer with the same old crowd?
B. Meeting your new best friend under the "Big Sky" of Montana
A. Spending hot and humid summer nights next to an air conditioner
B. Watching millions of stars & the northern lights on a clear, cool August night

If you answered "B" to any of the above, choose a summer in the "Last Best Place".
St. Mary Lodge & Resort
(Glacier Park's finest)
We will be on campus February 3 interviewing for our 1999 summer season
Call (800) 368-3689 to schedule an interview

Reason №4 why you should take HyperMCAT
Materials
4 15 full-length MCATs, hundreds more MCAT passages in workbooks, and over 4000 pages make up the most extensive set of MCAT preparation materials in existence
800-2-REVIEW www.review.com
Courses held on the UMASS campus! South Mt. Holyoke and WWEC as well
THE PRINCETON REVIEW

Applications are Available!
for Affordable Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program to open January 25th

university of massachusetts child care at amherst

University Child Care will open a Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program in Room 4, Skinner Hall on January 25, 1999!

Pick Up an Application Packet at:

University Child Care Office -	112 Berkshire House
GEO Office -	201 Student Union
GSS Office -	919 Campus Center
Dean of Student Office -	227 Whitmore
Commuter Service & Housing Resource Center -	428 Student Union

Or call UCC at (413) 545-1566 and an application will be mailed to you.

Enrollment priority will be given to undergraduate and graduate student families based on financial need. Second enrollment priority is given to University employee families based on financial need. Tuition costs fall on a sliding fee scale, based on family size and household income. A family earning under $14,500 will receive fully subsidized tuition.

The Massachusetts DAILY COLLEGIAN
New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967
is hiring for the Spring Semester

If you are looking for a campus job, look no further. The Collegian has many opportunities in diverse fields.

Stop by our office in the Campus Center and inquire about jobs in the News, Business, or Graphics departments.

Advertising Sales, Business Management, Classifieds Sales, Computer Graphics, Finance, Human Resources, Marketing, News Reporting, News Writing, Photography, Web Design

The Collegian is an Equal Opportunity Employer

What is ?

http://estore.aux.umass.edu

UNIVERSITY STORE'S Textbook Annex UMASS AMHERST

* It is your online bookstore. Browse and buy your textbooks by academic department and course number. Every book for every course that's ordered at the Textbook Annex can now be purchased online.

* You can order your books for convenient on-campus pick-up at one of three locations at the start of school:

- Franklin Dining Commons
- Hampden Dining Commons
- University Store at the Campus Center

* Or have your books delivered to your home by UPS. [Sorry, UPS is not available on-campus.]

* Textbooks bought online can be returned or sold at the buy-back the same way as purchases made at the Textbook Annex. You can find our return policy at the web site.

* Your credit card number and personal information are kept confidential, and your purchases are supported by our on-campus staff here at the University of Massachusetts.

Your online textbook store.
Web Convenience/In-store Service

~ Golden Globe Winners ~

A partial list of winners at the 56th annual Golden Globes, determined by the Hollywood Foreign Press.

Best Picture, Drama: Saving Private Ryan
Best Picture, Musical or Comedy: Shakespeare in Love
Best Director: Steven Spielberg, Saving Private Ryan
Best Actress, Drama: Cate Blanchett, Elizabeth
Best Actor, Drama: Jim Carrey, The Truman Show
Best Actress, Musical/Comedy: Gwyneth Paltrow, Shakespeare in Love
Best Actor, Musical/Comedy: Michael Caine, Little Voice
Best Foreign Language Film: Central Station
Best Supporting Actress: Lynn Redgrave, Gods and Monsters
Best Supporting Actor: Ed Harris, The Truman Show
Best Screenplay: Marc Norman and Tom Stoppard, Shakespeare in Love
Best Drama Series: "The Practice"
Best Musical or Comedy Series: "Ally McBeal"
Best Actor, Drama Series: Dylan McDermott, "The Practice"
Best Actress, Drama Series: Keri Russell, "Felicity"
Best Actor, Musical/Comedy Series: Michael J. Fox, "Spin City" Best Actress, Musical/Comedy Series: Jenna Elfman, "Dharma and Greg"
TV Miniseries/Movie: "From the Earth to the Moon"

COURTESY LAURIE SPARHAM

Joseph Fiennes takes a moment to reflect on Shakespeare in Love's win for best picture in the musical or comedy category.

■ super

continued from page 5

Superchunk's show Sunday at the Middle East was an example of their skill, trading on emotion and instinct, lyrical ingenuity and instrumental thrust. The all-too-short set rewarded long-time fans as the band reached deep into their musical past, bringig out old songs like "How Do I," "Cool" and "Seed Toss" to compliment newer, unreleased songs like the set opener "Smarter Hearts" and the off-kilter "Cursed Mirror." All of the new songs were greeted enthusiastically by the audience. "White Noise" (it's title "for now," said McCaughan,) especially sounded great.

In between, many of the songs off of the albums that form the middle part of their career were largely ignored. But songs like "United" (a strange song to partially represent their excellent On the Mouth) and the aptly-titled "Hyper Enough" barely allowed the band to catch their breath, as their music barrelled along.

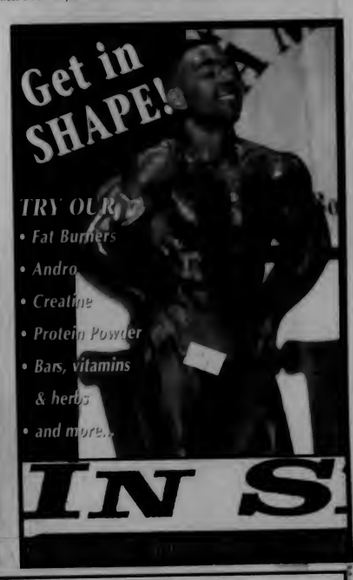
The musicians seemed jubilantly out of control, as bassist Laura Ballance and guitarist Jim Wilbur careened around the stage, bouncing into each oth-. Even McCaughan, when he wasn't singing, was bouncing into amps, creating textures of sound. Drummer Jon Wurster held everything together with his propulsive, inventive drumming.

The noisy "Nu Bruises," one of three songs played off of their most-recent release Indoor Living, was just as bristling as the album version, as McCaughan sang "New bruises on old bruises." It was just another example of a song becoming a delirious, swirling experience, something that seemed to come at every turn.

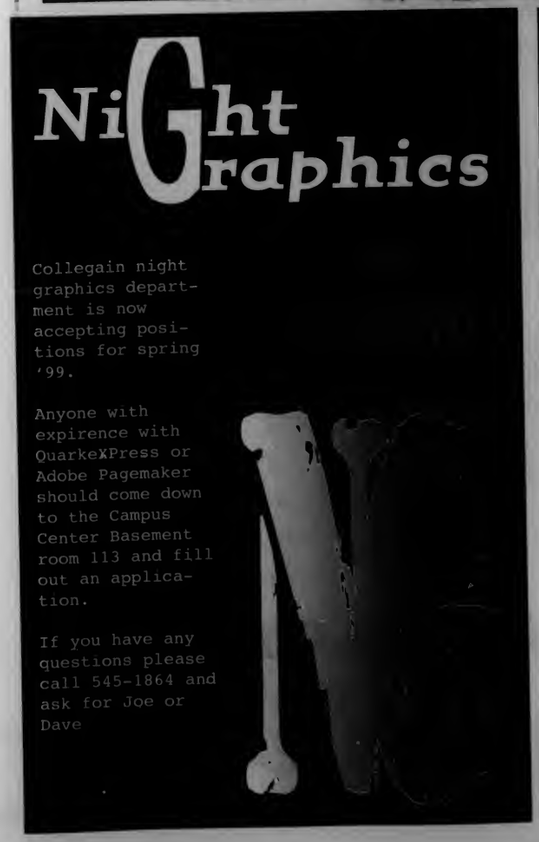
To end their set, they brought out Mark Robinson of opening band Flin Flon, for a cover of Robinson's former band Unrest's "Dinko Magic." After that, they faded into a noisy version of the popular favorite "Precision Auto," their other offering off of On the Mouth. The appreciative audience pogoed along with the beat, creating a human wave that threatened to crash the stage. The band, wild and barely in control, pulled every last strand of noise out of their amplifiers, letting it descend into pure noise before breaking back into the song.

For one last gasp before being kicked out, they broke out a song they had screwed up the night before in New York, a cover of Sebadoh's "Brand New Love." The night ended on with a feeling of indescribable manic pop thrill. Even if it didn't last long enough.

■ globe



continued from page 5



hard job, and David E. Kelley, whose shows "Ally McBeal" and "The Practice" won top awards, noted that he wouldn't even try to attach as much meaning to "Ally" as Spielberg did to Saving Private Ryan.

Another surprise winner was Keri Russell for "Felicity," a freshman debut show from the WB.

Up to 40% Off New Textbooks

- Only $4.95 shipping ... no matter how many books ordered
- Guaranteed 30-day, no-hassle return policy
- Fully secured transactions

varsitybooks.com
your online college bookstore

BC hockey deals Minutemen a devastating Hockey East loss

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. — Brian Gionta and Blake Bellefeuille each scored their 100th career points en route to defeating UMass 7–1 in the first of three meetings over the next two weeks.

Gionta, a sophomore, scored his 47th goal of his career to go along with 53 assists for a total of 100 points. Gionta's first came with 11:47 to play in the second period when he batted home a high rebound off a shot by Jeff Farkas. The goal was also assisted by Kevin Caulifield.

Gionta would pick up his 18th goal of the season and second of the period with 4:10 remaining to give BC a four goal advantage (4–0) on the rebound off a great save by Markus Helanen.

"He's a terrific player, very complete, and plays good offense and defense. He has a great work ethic like all great players do," BC coach Jerry York said.

Bellefeuille eventually scored his 100th point of his career with 12:30 remaining in the first period when UMass committed a turnover three feet in front of Helanen and Bellefeuille tucked the puck past an outstretched Helanen.

"That's a lot of points. That's a hard mark to reach but they were able to do it by also playing defense," York said.

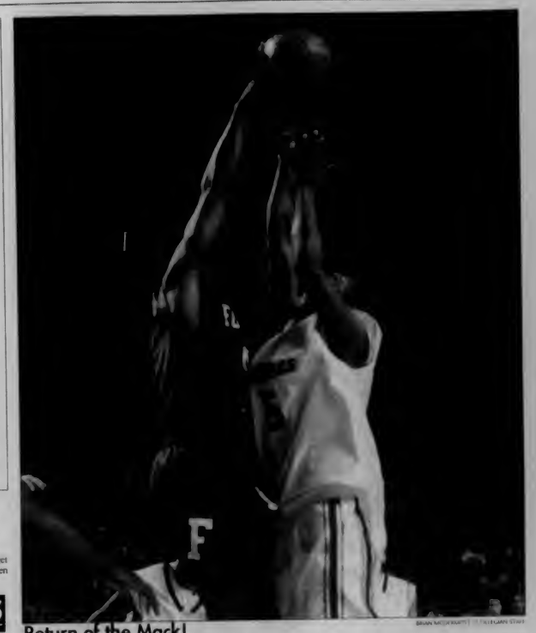
The other deciding factor in the BC win was the play of sophomore goaltender Scott Clemmenson. Clemmenson made key saves following Gionta's first goal before the Eagles were able to blow the game wide open. He made key stops on both a Jeff Turner breakaway and Bryan Kennedy's bid which was picked out of the air with a glove stop.

"He's [Clemmenson] solid, he's a workhorse and plays a lot of games for us. He's been on top of his game for the last three or four weeks," York said. "He's been on a great roll and he made some key saves when we needed him most."

Chris Masters and Caulified provided the remainder of the scoring in the second period, netting the third and fifth goals of the game, respectively, which gave BC a 5–0 lead at the second intermission. Farkas also contributed with two assists in the period.

The Minutemen were able to salvage some of what was left of their pride when R.J. Gates scored on a turnaround which beat Clemmenson's short side. But Bellefeuille and Gionta capped off their great night together at the 11:28 mark of the third period when Gionta found Bellefeuille for his second goal of the night.

Gionta individually capped off his four point night by tacking on his second assist with 4:38 remaining when he slid a pass across to Andy Powers, who rounded out the scoring at 7–1.



"I thought it was a game where we were standing around a lot in the first period. They came out in a 1–4 zone and it paid off for them with a lot of turnovers. We hadn't faced that kind of defense all season and we were trying to be too fancy in the first period," York said.

"In the second and third period, we just dumped pucks in their zone and tried to create some offense."

In the losing effort, besides Gates second goal of the season, Jeff Turner and Toni Soderholm each picked up an assist on UMass' lone goal.

In a platoon effort Helanen made 20 saves in the first forty minutes while freshman goalkeeper Mike Johnson made 16 saves in the final frame for UMass.

The Minutemen are scheduled to face Boston College again this Friday night at the William D. Mullins Center at 7 p.m.

Return of the Mack!

Junior Monty Mack gets his shot rejected by two Fordham players in action last night.

Special day causes Raptor riot

TORONTO (AP) — Several people were hurt as thousands of fans — taking advantage of free admission — tried to enter through a single gate at SkyDome for the Toronto Raptors' exhibition game yesterday night with the Boston Celtics.

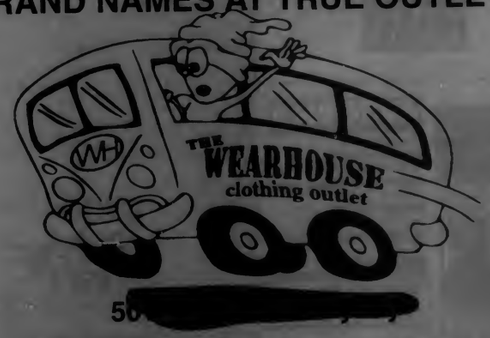
The surge of fans created a ministampede that left dozens of women and children in tears as well as four smashed doors and some broken turnstiles. No serious injuries were reported.

"I was just trying to get in and my head was pushed up against the door and it just shattered," said Daniel Segon, 16, of Toronto. "It was too rough for me."

Segon suffered several deep cuts in his right hand while protecting his head during the melee. Ambulance attendants called to the entrance of the upper deck wrapped his hand in gauze and examined several others.

"I knew someone was going to get hurt, I just didn't think it would happen to me." Segon said.

AEROBICS
• Area's Largest Room — STEP
• Certified Instructors — LOW IMPACT
• Classes Daily — YOGA
• Shock-absorbing Floor — CARDIO KICK BOXING
• Walk-ins Welcome — HI/LOW
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 Rt. 116, So. Amherst



MORE MACHINES · BEST PRICES
Yoga • Cardio Kickboxing
Reebok Step • Low Impact • Area's Largest Room
MAKE '99 FINE
Get in Shape!
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 Rt. 116, So. Amherst

TOTAL FITNESS
Without Waiting In Line
$139 4 months
STUDENT SPECIAL
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
Rte. 116 So. Amherst • 256-0080

NEW AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO-KICKBOXING • YOGA
• Classes Daily
• Certified Instructors
• Suspended Wood Floor
• Area's Largest Room
www.amh-arastathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst, 256-0080

The Collegian Loves You!

THE WEARHOUSE
Clothing Outlet
GREAT BRAND NAMES AT TRUE OUTLET PRICES!

WINTER CLEARANCE
TAKE AN ADDITIONAL 40% off everything!
We're making room for all new inventory.
Hampshire Mall
Hadley
(413) 587-9288

UM hoops falls

UMass men's b–ball collapses in its Philly rival's temple of doom

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

PHILADELPHIA — Last Saturday, it was showtime at the Apollo of Temple as the Massachusetts men's basketball team succumbed to archrival Temple 65-57.

Although the Owls (13–6 overall, 7–0 A-10) were able to pull away at the end, the contest was a hard fought affair that was clearly up for grabs for the first 36 minutes of play. The win distanced Temple from the rest of the pack in the Atlantic 10 East, and effectively ended a three–game Minuteman winning streak.

"The team effort was excellent today," Massachusetts coach Bruiser Flint said. "We executed just as we had planned for much of the game, particularly against their match-up zone."

Temple's defensive efforts stifled UMass last season, as the Owls outscored the Minutemen by a combined twenty– two points in their two meetings.

UMass (8–9 overall, 4–2 A-10), was slow out of the gate on Saturday, falling behind 11–4 before reeling off eleven straight points including two three–pointers from Charlton Clarke, and five points courtesy of Monty Mack.

Mack would continue to have the hot hand all afternoon, as he ended up with a game–high 27 points including 6–of–9 from long range.

"Coming into the game, we knew we had to contain their shooters," Temple guard Quincy Wadley said. "We did a good job staying with Charlton and Rafael Cruz, but Mack got too many open looks throughout the game."

After establishing a 26–21 advantage after another Mack trey, Temple went on a 5–0 run of their own to even the contest at 26 heading into halftime.

With Temple leading 37–34, UMass was dealt a heavy blow, as their top defender Mike Babul was charged with both his third and fourth fouls in a twenty second span.

The Minutemen held down the fort in Babul's three– minute absence, trailing only 46–42 when he returned at the 8:59 mark.

Babul made his presence felt immediately, driving the left baseline for a layup in heavy traffic to cut the deficit to two.

However, the forward out of North Attleboro was whistled for his fatal fifth foul as he bodied Mark Karcher (21 points) under the hoop, who subsequently hit a layup and the ensuing free throw for a 51–46 lead.

After a hearty chorus of "Hit the Road, Jack" from the Temple faithful, Chris Kirkland moved to Babul's spot with mostly positive results.

Kirkland contributed with his usual all–out hustle by diving after every loose ball, and generally sacrificed his body on every occasion possible.

Partly as a result of his reckless embusiasm, Kirkland required six stitches after the game, as he cut his hand heading toward the floor near the UMass bench late in the game.

"I knew I had to step up my play another notch when Mike fouled out," Kirkland said. "There was a lot at stake during this game, and unfortunately we fell short of what we needed to do."

After Kitwana Rhymer hit one of two free throws cutting the Temple advantage to 54–50 with 3:27 remaining, things got ugly for UMass.

First Rasheed Brokenborough buried an open jumper off a screen for a 56–50 edge. Then Kirkland committed a foul and then a turnover on consecutive possessions leading to a Kevin Lyde free throw and a driving lay–up by Wadley.

The Minutemen attempted in vain to recapture the momentum they had held up until that point, but the game became a foul–fest as UMass tried desperately to stop the clock.

The Owls opened up a 65–52 stronghold, before Mack netted five more points to complete one of his best efforts of the season.

Temple coach John Chaney, one of the centerpieces in the UMass–Temple rivalry took extreme gratification in the win, particularly because he was without the services of guard Pepe Sanchez.

"This is a huge win for this team," Chaney said. "We had no business winning today without Sanchez, none at all."

This statement came despite the fact that Temple had defeated UMass 61–47 last year at the Williams D. Mullins Center without their leading playmaker Sanchez in action.

■ hockey

continued from page 12

minder Scott Clemmenson all the support you would need in the middle period.

Brian Gionta increased the BC lead to 2-0 with a power play goal midway through the second frame. Senior Chris Masters and Gionta then tallied a pair of goals within a span of 50 seconds later in the period to put the game away. Eagles winger Kevin Caulifield finally rounded out the second period scoring with another tally at 19:05 of the frame.

"In the first period they played a 1–4 zone and it caused a lot of turnovers for us. We haven't faced that kind of defense all season," Boston College coach Jerry York said. "In the second and third period we just dumped pucks into the zone and tried to create some offense."

Another goal from Bellefuille and one from Andy Powers were sandwiched around a UMass goal from R.J. Gates in the third period. Sophomore Jeff Turner and freshman Toni Soderholm assisted on the Plainville, Conn. product's second goal of the year.

Johnson also had a solid 20 minutes of work. Despite allowing a pair of goals, he made 16 saves in the final frame.

Last night's game was the first of three in a row against BC, which will visit Amherst on Friday night in a 7 p.m. matchup.

"That's the good news [having to play BC three in a row, thus heading into an easier part of the schedule]," Mallen said. "Now we get to play them at home [at the Mullins Center], which has been good to us. We beat BU and Maine there and now we have to see if we can get back up in the saddle to play BC."

Can you top this?

BRIAN MCGRIMOTT / COLLEGIAN STAFF

The Massachusetts women's gymnastics team lost a heartbreaker this weekend. The Minutewomen fall to 1–1 this weekend.

■ basketball

continued from page 12

their high school days in the Bronx.

While Clarke was a sparkplug for the Minuteman as he notched 18 points, it was Robin who was able to savor the last laugh this time around.

"Playing against Charlton is always a motivating factor," Robin said. "He is a guy I have remained close with, and we always get up to play each other."

Robin was particularly effective driving to the hole against whoever was matched up with him, as evidenced by his six trips to the charity stripe.

However, it was a technical foul called on Massachusetts coach Bruiser Flint that set the stage for his biggest attempts of the evening.

"After the technical was called there was no doubt I was sending Bev to the line," Macarchuk said. "He had not missed previously so he was the clear choice."

Robin stepped to the line with 40 seconds remaining and his team clinging to a 59–57 advantage. His shots touched nothing but net, effectively dashing the hopes of the Minutemen who failed to recover.

Robin officially cemented the victory with five seconds remaining as he sank yet another pair of free throws to finalize the score.

"I am here to help build this program," Robin said. "We are taking baby steps, but we are getting there. When we get a couple more solid players here, we will be ready to move up to the next level."

The Minutemen must prepare to regroup and face more A–10 action in the Dayton Flyers on Thursday night at 7 p.m.

■ milestone

continued from page 12

second half, where he scored 13 of his team– high 18 points, two of which extended the Minuteman lead to 50–46. The senior guard also drew a charge before misconnecting with Monty Mack on the turnover which led to the momentum–changing steal and dunk by Johnson.

On a positive note for UMass, senior center Lari Ketner became the 32nd player in school history to reach the 1,000 point plateau. The memorable basket was scored with 5:38 remaining in the first half, after he gracefully sank his patented baby hook. Ketner finished with nine points and five rebounds.

■ puck

continued from page 12

shot and beat Larocque top corner to up UMass' lead to 3–1 after two periods.

In the third period the Minutemen continue to pour it on BU, when Kris Wallis won the face–off and captain Dean Stork skated around his man and rifled a shot past Larocque, which ringed off the far post and in.

"Wallis won the draw and I labeled the shot. The goalie was slow coming out and it beat him," Stork said of his goal.

Then came Turner's controversial goal, which put UMass up 5–1 with only 0:41 remaining. But the Terriers weren't done, they scored three goals on a defense which began to miss their men and goals by Mike Pandolfo, Tommi Degerman and Jack Baker pulled the Terriers to within one. Unfortunately, that was as close as they would get, as the Minutemen held for the 5–4 win.

"The win tonight was a team effort, but I thought we were a little selfish taking stupid penalties late in the game I thought we would have learned from the UMass–Lowell game [a game, earlier in the season, which UMass lost 4–3 late on a penalty], but I guess we haven't. The way we played in the last five minutes doesn't help the team," Stork said.

The win improves the Minutemen's record to 6–14–2 and 3–9–2 in Hockey East, which tied them with UMass–Lowell for that all–important eighth spot in the conference.

Lockout stifled potential deal

By Ken Berger
Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Charles Barkley once called him Allen "Me, Myself and Iverson." His sneakers are called the Question, the Answer and the Answer II.

The Answer III comes in the form of a $70.9 million, six-year contract extension that Iverson was close to signing yesterday with the Philadelphia 76ers.

If not for the lockout, Iverson's deal might have surpassed the mega-contracts signed by players like Kevin Garnett, Shawn Kemp and Antonio McDyess. Instead, the negotiations were reduced to a formality.

Once the contract is signed, Iverson will get the maximum for a player entering his third season in the league, a team source who inked not to be identified told The Associated Press.

Iverson's agent, David Falk, was en route to Philadelphia for an announcement planned yesterday night pending completion of the deal.

"I didn't want to wait until the end of the year and then decide whether to play for a contender," Iverson said. "I never wanted to take the easy way out. I've been here through the bad times. I want to be here through the good. I pretty much knew what time it was."

Iverson's contract is the largest ever guaranteed by the Sixers, hurtling this 23-year-old enigma past the likes of Julius Erving, Wilt Chamberlain and Barkley. But Iverson's chance to strike it super-rich with a $100 million contract was wiped out by the lockout.

According to the NBA's new collective bargaining agreement, a player with up to six years experience can receive as much as 25 percent of his team's salary cap, beginning at a maximum of $9 million. Iverson will get $9 million next season with annual raises of $1.1 million. He will make $14.6 million in the final year of the contract.

His 1998-99 salary of $3.5 million is prorated for a 50-game schedule, reducing it to $2.2 million — a loss of more than $1.3 million due to the lockout.

"I just wanted to make enough money to take care of my family," Iverson said. "The money that's out there for me right now is enough for me to do so. If the Sixers were going to give me $100 million, I would be a fool not to take it. I have a family and I want to know how my future's going to look financially. But it's not all about money all the time."

Iverson is feared for his speed and crossover dribble, yet criticized for ongoing legal problems and judged on his appearance and choice of friends. Along with incredible skill and competitiveness, he brings a street-kid look to the court with his braids, jewelry and tattoos running up and down each arm.

Emblazoned in old English script on his right shoulder are the words, "Hold my own." Critics can say what they want, but Iverson nearly always does that. With Michael Jordan retired, the coming years may prove that the best attraction in the NBA is Iverson.

Sidewalk
SALE
(Indoors, of course)

Winter Shoes Clothing & Accessories
Wednesday January 27th thru Sunday January 31st
ZANNA
downtown Amherst

Contests, Coupons, & Giveaways
AmherstOnline.com
Bookmark It!

AEROBICS
• Area's Largest Room — STEP
• Certified Instructors — LOW IMPACT
• Classes Daily — YOGA
• Shock-absorbing Floor — CARDIO KICK BOXING
• Walk-ins Welcome — HI/LOW
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 SO. AMHERST

MORE MACHINES! BEST PRICES!
Yoga • Cardio Kickboxing
Reebok Step • Low Impact • Area's Largest Room
MAKE '99 FINE
Get in Shape!
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 Rt. 116, So. Amherst

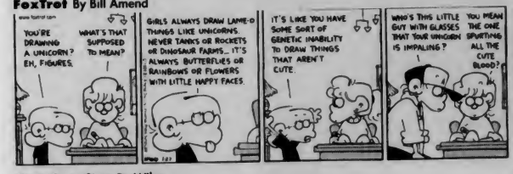
TOTAL FITNESS
Without Waiting In Line
$139 4 months STUDENT SPECIAL
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
Rte. 116 So. Amherst • 256-0080

Collegian Sports Rocks!!!

BEAT THE WINTER CHILLS!
Bookworks CASUALS.
20% OFF All Regularly Priced Wind Pants!
One Stop 20% OFF All In-Stock 1999 Planners and Calendars
One Stop 25% OFF All In-Stock UMASS Spiral Notebooks
Bookworks 25% OFF All 1999 Pictorial Calendars In Stock
RIGHT ON! $2.49
M-F 9 to 5 Sat. 11 to 4 (413) 545 - 2619
NEWniversity

Rose Is Rose By Pat Brady

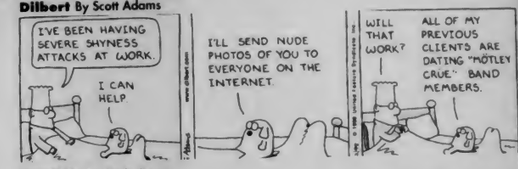
Robotman By Jim Meddick



Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Dilbert By Scott Adams

FoxTrot By Bill Amend



Robotman By Jim Meddick

Non Sequitor By Wiley

Dilbert By Scott Adams

Spunk By Mike LaRiccia

Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Horoscopes

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) — You may pass some people by in your attempts to reach a distant goal today, but some are likely to travel the entire distance with you.

PISCES (Feb. 19–March 20) — You cannot run away from the problem or problems that are currently plaguing you. You must be willing to face the music today.

ARIES (March 21–April 19) — Something you've had simmering on a back burner for quite some time is now ready to receive your direct and constant attention. Give it!

TAURUS (April 20–May 20) — "Relief" is spelled many different ways to you, depending on the circumstances today. You must know the type of remedy you'll really need at any given time.

GEMINI (May 21–June 20) — Creature comforts may be far less important to you than the learning you can enjoy as a result of getting as far from home as possible today.

CANCER (June 21–July 22) — Spending your time with others can be quite enjoyable at this time, but there are some things you can only accomplish on your own. Don't procrastinate!

LEO (July 23–Aug. 22) — Someone close to you is likely to send up a signal that is meant for you, and you alone. Don't turn your back on someone who has gone to that kind of trouble.

VIRGO (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) — Your prospects are good, but make sure that you know how to do what is required of you if you're in the position of making certain key decisions today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23–Oct. 22) — You're going to want to stay on schedule, regardless of the difficulties you may encounter during certain portions of the day. By all means, prioritize!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23–Nov. 21) — Something you observe by accident today is likely to affect you quite strongly, and cause you to rethink a recent decision.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) — You'll want to take part in something that many others are enjoying at this time, but it may involve something of a sacrifice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) — You'll find yourself traveling long-distance today, literally or figuratively. If figuratively, get ready for some intellectual battles!

Quote of the Day

"Hercules, Hercules, Hercules!!"

–Momma from The Nutty Professor

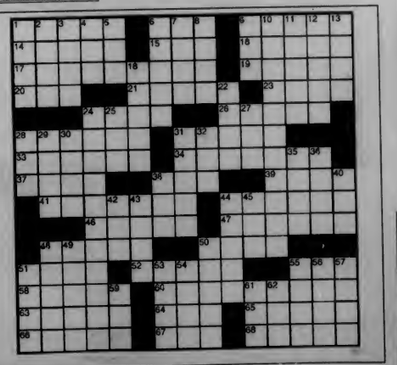
Close to Home By John McPherson

Linda's nine-year racket for getting out of speeding tickets comes crashing to an end.

Today's D.C. Menu
Call 545-2626 for more information.

No Menu For Today

Night Editor — Laura Foster
Photo Technician — Beth Krikorian
Copy Editor — Mike Messaros
Production Supervisor — Joylyn Lombard
Production Staff — 12 Inches of Snow, Teresa Rodrigues



ACROSS
1 Collegian's concern
6 Marah
9 Fastidious
14 Loan-sharking
15 BC's neighbor
16 Sharpshooter Oakley
17 "Get going!"
19 Contempt
20 Barnyard female
21 Good judgment
23 War deity
24 Steam-engine inventor
26 Low-lying areas
28 Musical interval
31 Trance
33 Less wealthy
34 Removals from office
37 Streetcar: Brit.
38 Ewer
39 Unhearing
41 Sticks
44 Social function
46 Superior
47 In an amusing way
48 Behind, on a ship
50 Taller of tales
51 From a distance
52 Seaweeds
55 Hunting dog, for short
58 Scenery
60 Deliberately
63 Bay window
64 Fuel
65 Eagle's home
66 Lacks
67 Have bills to pay
68 King with the golden touch

DOWN
1 Dogsled shout
2 Arthur of the courts
3 San — Capistrano
4 Fictional planet
5 Deli bread
6 — mignon
7 Idyllic spot
8 Harps on
9 Musical notes
10 Not justified
11 Sleeper's noise
12 Fathers
13 Desires
18 Fall flower
22 Nights before
24 Sympathetic
25 Wide at
27 Dist. on a mt.
28 Choose
29 Puppeteer Baird
30 Pond denizen
31 Dunk
32 Type of nose
35 Not fake
36 Go yachting
38 Joe Namath, once
40 Use a skillet
42 Santa's helper
43 Ma. Moreno
44 Pierre's farewell
45 Monk's title
48 In flames
49 Bandleading Count
50 Expire
51 Cosmetics company
53 Company emblem
54 Nibble
55 Parliament member
56 Korea's locale
57 Hive dwellers
59 Pacino and Unser
61 Aries, e.g.
62 Can. province

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

A	C	R	E	S		A	B	H	O	R	C	R
Y	O	U	R	E		C	A	I	R	O		R	U	E
N	O	B	E	L		H	Y	D	R	I	A		A	W	A
				R	E	E	S		D	A	R	E	D
A	D	D	R	E	S	S		P	A	M	P	E	R	S
B	R	I	A	R	S		M	A	M	A	S
B	A	Y	E	R	S		E	M	O	P	E	N	E	R
A	M	A		T	U	N	A	S		E	G	O
M	A	N	I	T	O	B	A	N		L	I	A	R	S
		L	E	W	I	S		D	E	C	R	E	E
O	F	F	E	N	S	E		P	R	I	E	S	T	S
T	R	U	S	I	S			R	A	Y	S
H	O	O		I	D	E	A	L		U	N	T	I	E
E	N	G		O	U	N	C	E		A	T	T	A	H
R	T	E		N	O	S	E	D		E	X	I	S	T

1-8-99 © 1999 United Feature Syndicate

SPORTS

Minutemen suffer tough loss at hands of Fordham

Lari Ketner makes the 1,000 point milestone

Aaron Saykin
Collegian Staff

The haunting ghost of UMass's past visited the Mullins Center last night, and the officials played the part of Scrooge.

Similar to the infamous John Calipari infraction during the loss to Kentucky in the 1992 NCAA Tournament, the referees believed that Massachusetts men's basketball coach Bruiser Flint was outside of the coach's box.

Subsequently, he was whistled for a very questionable technical foul with only 40 seconds remaining. The call was the decisive factor in a 66–60 victory for visiting the Fordham Rams.

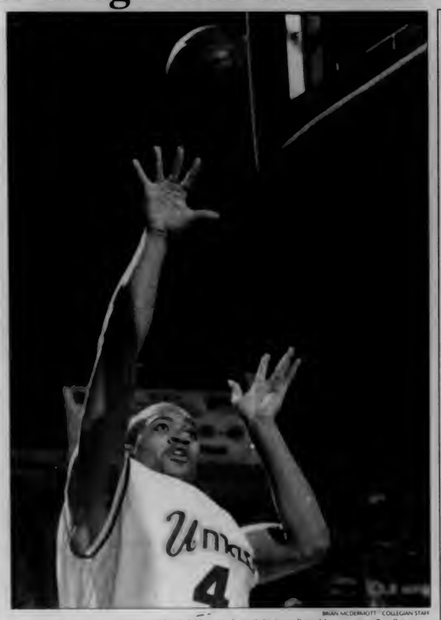
Massachusetts	60
Fordham	66

Trailing by only two points at the time of the technical foul, the Minutemen (8–10, 4–2 A–10) prepared to inbound the ball when they heard the whistle blow. In the moments that followed, the players watched their opportunity to tie the game quickly turn into a six–point advantage for Fordham, after Ram guards Bevon Robin (26 points) and Scott Harmatuk sunk game–clinching free throws.

"I'm out of the [coach's] box every game," Flint said of the technical foul, citing the fact that it is not uncommon for any coach to be outside of the box at that stage in the game. "I've been coaching for three years now, and I'm [often times] out of the box.

The UMass players also began the game in much the same fashion they finished it, spending the opening eight minutes falling into a 12–point ditch from which they never seemed to truly climb out.

"You've got to give them credit," said Flint of Fordham, whose monumental win over the Minutemen was its first conference road victory since joining the A–10. "They made big shots. They did whatever they wanted to do. That's what type of year it's been."



And now it seems as though Gabriel has finally blown his horn on any UMass hopes of an at–large bid into the NCAA Tournament. Despite this step in the wrong direction, Flint refuses to throw in the towel just yet.

"Let's get to that point. Let's get to the Atlantic 10 [Tournament] first," Flint said. "I told my team that we've got 10 games left and we want to go 10–0. The guys have to come with different attitudes."

There is no question the officials had a hand in deciding this game, regardless of whether or not the correct call was made. Nonetheless, UMass was losing by two points at the time of the technical foul after enjoying a four–point advantage with over five minutes remaining in the game. Ram forward Tereman Johnson shifted the momentum after stealing a Charlton Clarke pass and taking it across the court for an easy dunk. The hoop gave Fordham a 55–54 lead — one which they wouldn't relinquish.

Just as he has many times in the past, Clarke carried UMass in the

Turn to MILESTONE, page 10

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN STAFF

Senior center Lari Ketner scored his 1,000 point last night in a dismal loss against Fordham.

UM loss is its first to Fordham

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

On a night when Lari Ketner netted his 1000th career point as a Minuteman, Fordham guard Bevon Robin stole the show in leading Fordham to a 66–60 win over the Massachusetts men's basketball team last night.

The victory was not only the first Ram win over UMass in Atlantic 10 play, but their first A–10 road win outright since joining the league in 1995.

An overjoyed Fordham coach Nick Macarchuk had only the highest of praise for Robin following the contest.

"Bevon is the main guy here right now," Macarchuk said. "He has given this program instant credibility, by taking a chance on a lousy program and we are very thankful for that."

"Rockin' Robin," as he is affectionately known, also provided instant offense on this night, as he poured in 13 points by the half.

The Bronx native connected on three–of–seven field goals before the break, and more impressively on six–of–six from the free throw line.

Robin would match those numbers in the second frame on the way to a game–high 26 points to go along with four rebounds and three assists.

Robin is one of the most obvious reasons Fordham is off to their best start since they joined the Atlantic 10 in 1995.

The Rams currently stand at 8–9 overall, and 2–6 in the A– 10 which may not seem impressive until one considers they finished at 6–21 the past two seasons.

"Last year after all the losing many people were asking me why I chose to play at Fordham," Robin said.

"I made the decision to come here out of loyalty to my family, and to the coaches who were willing to give me an opportunity."

Last night, Robin renewed a long running rivalry with UMass guard Charlton Clarke dating back to

Turn to BASKETBALL, page 10

UM hockey iced 7–1 by BC Eagles

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. — Thoughts of an upset over the No. 7 Boston College hockey team were floating through the mind of the Massachusetts ice contingent when both teams squared off at Kelley Rink last night.

Massachusetts	1
Boston College	7

The Minutemen (6–15–2, 3–10–2 Hockey East) were coming off an impressive weekend in which they tied Northeastern on Friday night in Beantown and defeated Boston University for the first time in seventy–nine years on Saturday night at the William D. Mullins Center.

UMass hung with the Eagles for the first 20 minutes last night, but BC erupted for four second–period goals en route to a 7–1 win over the visiting Minutemen.

"I thought that we played a good first period and we did what we had to do, but they blew it open in the second period," said Massachusetts hockey coach Joe Mallen. "For both teams it was their third game in five nights but they just had more than us."

Defensive lapses were the big problem of the evening for the Minutemen. Sophomore goaltender Markus Helanen made 20 saves in two periods of work, several of which were of the sparkling variety. Freshman goalie Mike Johnson replaced Helanen in the third period, but not before the Bantaa, Finland native kept UMass in the hunt for more than half the game.

"I don't think that goaltending was our problem tonight. I think it was getting the puck out of our own zone," Mallen said.

"In the first period, we got the puck out of our end fine, but we just didn't do that in the second period. You are not going to win games when you are playing with the puck in your own zone."

After a BC short–handed goal by Blake Bellefuille put the Eagles ahead 1–0 at the 7:30 mark of the opening frame, the host gave sophomore net-

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN STAFF

In Hockey East action, the Minutemen were blasted 7–1 by the Eagles.

UM hockey downs BU for first time, 5–4

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts hockey team survived a late surge in the final three minute by the Boston University Terriers to hold on to a 5–4 win in Hockey East action Saturday night at the William D. Mullins Center. The win gives UMass their first win over BU since 1920.

"This is a big win in terms of Hockey East, because this is the only team we had never beaten in the conference. This is a big accomplishment, because despite their trouble this season, they're still a pretty good hockey team," UMass coach Joe Mallen said. "Taking three of four points in Hockey East this week is huge because it keeps us in the playoff hunt."

The Minutemen stunned BU by opening up a big lead midway through the third period (5–1), but the Terriers were not ready to roll over and die as they scored three goals late to make it closer then it actually was.

"We looked like we wanted to self destruct," Mallen said. "Our discipline in the last five minutes was bad. We took some bad penalties and it almost hurt us."

The game was riddled with penalties especially in the third period. The period consisted of 18 penalties, including a game misconduct to BU's goalie Michel Larocque who pushed an official after the fifth goal, which proved to be the game winner.

The Minutemen's Jeff Turner scored the goal on a rebound with 6:41 remaining in the game. The controversy occurred when the net was knocked off its moorings by Larocque, but the goal was counted by official Tim Benadetto. Larocque took exception and shoved the referee while contesting the goal and was ejected.

"It was a legal goal, it definitely crossed the line. Last year he (Larocque) knocked the net off 16 times in a game. The goal should have counted," Mallen said. "In terms of Larocque, you can't take yourself out of a game."

Massachusetts	5
Boston University	4

BU assistant coach, Brian Durocher, filling in for an ailing Jack Parker, had this to say of the incident.

"Ref made a call, he saw the goal and it's a judgement call, and you have to respect the ref's decision," Durocher said.

"Michel was not justified in what he did. We all have to be mentally tough, and he wasn't. I think a lot stems from frustration, and he's had a great season and he's just frustrated, but you can't bump an official."

The Minutemen built up a strong lead on the strength of a total team effort. They jumped out to an early lead when Kevin Poulin rushed down the far wing and slid a centering pass across to a waiting Darcy King who tucked the puck past Larocque to give the Minutemen a 1–0 lead.

After Scott Perry scored an unassisted goal to tie the game in the first period, the Minutemen responded in the second period with two goals. The first goal came 5:15 into the period when Jay Shaw gathered a bouncing rebound off a shot by teammate Bryan Kennedy, and tucked it over Larocque, which gained the lead for the Minutemen.

Nathan Sell tacked on a short–handed goal 1:42 later when he found himself on a two–on–one break with Turner, but Sell opted for the

Turn to PUCK, page 10

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN STAFF

The UMass hockey team suffered a tough defeat from Boston College last night after beating Boston University for the first time in seventy–nine years last week.

UMass women's gym fall shy of No. 12 Michigan

By Matthew Frascella
Collegian Staff

When the University of Michigan or any other elite athletic program brings a team to Amherst, they know they are in for collegiate competition at the highest level. The Michigan Wolverines, perennial powerhouses in a number of different sports, brought their No. 12 women's gymnastic team to Amherst last Sunday for the second time in school history to face the previously undefeated UMass women's gymnastics team.

In the end the Minutewomen were edged out by the score of 190.875 to 194.675 in front of the home crowd at the William D. Mullins Center.

Massachusetts head coach Dave Kuzara knows first–hand just how strong Michigan is in gymnastics.

"This meet was a huge thing," said Kuzara. "I grew up in Michigan, I went to Michigan and I was assistant coach at Michigan. They are very strong and deep and I personally think that they [Michigan] are the favorite to win the National Championship."

Leading the Minutewomen was junior Mandy Mosby, who recorded a season best for Massachusetts in the all– around, posting a score of 38.7. The Georgia native topped her previous season best of 9.5 on the balance beam set against Rhode Island with a solid performance to claim a mark of 9.8. Her score of 9.725 on the uneven bars also led the way for UMass.

Massachusetts	190.875
Michigan	194.675

"Mandy was our top all–arounder," said Kuzara. "She was tremendous. This was one of her top all–arounds. It is really tough against a team of this caliber."

Posting Massachusetts' second–best performance in the all– around was Ishi Goldberg. Goldberg, who did not participate in the all–around competition against the University of Rhode Island, powered the Minutewomen with an all around score of 38.375. The sophomore shined on the floor exercise, notching a score of 9.7 to lead the team. She was equally impressive in the other events with an overall consistent performance.

Contributing to the UMass cause were Tracy Chew, Mary Moore and senior Michelle LoPresti who joined Goldberg and Mosby as the five Minutewomen who competed in the all–around. Competing in every event for only the third time in her career, LoPresti scored a 9.675 on the uneven bars to anchor the Massachusetts team on that apparatus. UMass outscored Michigan by two tenths of a point on the uneven bars, 48 to 47.775.

Early miscues by the Wolverines also played a role as they opened the door for the Minutewomen squad. Michigan showed some early jitters, and after one event UMass trailed by less than half a point to one of the nation's top teams.

"The first event was really exciting," said Kuzara. "Going into the beam less than a point behind against them was exciting. Our kids fought for everything."

In action over the winter break the women's gymnastics team squeaked by Atlantic 10 rival University of Rhode Island at home by a score of 186.500 to 185.725 to begin the season.

"It was a great win for us," said Kuzara. "You have to win the meets you are supposed to win."

The UMass women's gymnastic's team has enjoyed a great deal of success at the top echelon of national competition in recent years and it looks to continue their success again this year.

The Minutewomen now take to the road for five straight meets.

The Massachusetts
DAILY COLLEGIAN
Volume CV Issue 3 New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 Thursday, January 28, 1999

Curbing car crime on campus

Lot cameras a potential option increasing safety

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

In an attempt to curb car burglary and vandalism in University of Massachusetts parking areas, Parking Services is considering installing safety cameras in certain on–campus parking lots.

At a meeting of the Vice Chancellor's Summit on Safety committee on Monday, Parking Control Officer Kim Keegan said Parking Services is currently seeking support for the proposal and hopes to install a safety camera in Lot 11, near Alumni Stadium, as a pilot program in the near future.

According to Keegan, the camera would be in use 24 hours a day as a tool for crime prevention. He assured committee members that parking lot activity would not be monitored, only recorded. He said recording equipment would be located in Parking Services facilities, and would not be reviewed by Public Safety officials except in the event of a crime.

"I think everyone is concerned about being watched and having their actions being recorded by a video camera," said Jodi Bailey, associate speaker of the Student Government Association and student member of the Summit on Safety. "However," she added, "I think some of the lots, especially those farthest from campus, could be dangerous, and that video cameras would protect property and people in case something were to happen."

UMass Police Chief John Luippold suggested signs be posted at the lot to inform people they are being recorded, but not monitored. He said he would not want people to assume a false sense of security because they think a police officer is monitoring the lot and able to respond immediately in case of emergency.

Instead, Luippold emphasized that each parking area have a help phone which can be utilized in case of emergency. He also encourages anyone who witnesses suspicious activities or loitering in the lots to contact the police.

The installation of safety cameras was proposed in response to a mounting concern from University staff and students about the high number of car vandalism, larceny, and breaking and entering incidents this year. In the month of December, for instance, there were approximately 20 incidents of breaking and entering reported, six incidents of larceny and 15 incidents of vandalism.

"Vandalism as a whole is a big problem, both for individual and state property," Luippold said. "And clearly the numbers are high in terms of break–ins."

In response, the police department has utilized plain clothes officers to survey the lots in addition to uniformed officers who are required to spend time in the lots during each shift.

This additional security proved effective on Nov. 25, when a plain clothes officer observed two males stealing stereo equipment from a vehicle parked in Lot 49, near the Mather Career Center.

The two males, Timothy J. DeBlase and Jeffrey A. Mulvey Jr., both 18, of Northampton, were arrested and charged with breaking and entering nighttime for felony, larceny over $250, wanton destruction of property over $250, and possession of a burglarious instrument.

Mulvey pleaded guilty to all charges during his pre–trial hearing yesterday at Hampshire County District Court in Northampton, and was sentenced to 90 days in the Hampshire County House of Corrections, a year probation and $575 restitution.

According to reports from the prosecution, plain clothes officer S. C. Westerling was parked in an unmarked vehicle and observed, through binoculars, two males in the southern– most area of Lot 49 who appeared to be looking into the rear part of vehicles as they passed by. Westerling further observed the men break into a vehicle, remove stereo equipment and load the stolen

Turn to CAR, page 3

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Safety cameras may soon be installed in Lot 11 in order to stop further car vandalism and theft.

Online book buying wave of the future

By Danielle Fugazy
Collegian Staff

Waiting in line for textbooks may become an obsolete practice for students as an increasing number of computer companies offer their services online.

Along with nationwide private companies, the University of Massachusetts Textbook Annex and the Student Government Association (SGA) are offering students online services for purchasing textbooks.

The Annex service offers UMass students the best prices for books online.

The Textbook Annex's online service is the first online book buying service on a university campus, according to Rick Rabe, president of Riverview Systems Limited.

Riverview, the company which supplies the Annex with all its point of purchase equipment and software, is also responsible for the new online services. Rabe, who has been in the business for 15 years says selling books online, "is a natural extension of our business."

"Now that the technology is available we can offer the service. The Annex gets more traffic than it can efficiently handle," said Scott Cashmen, manager of the Textbook Annex.

Everything that is inside of the Annex is online at http://estore.aux.umass.edu. Books will be available for pick up one business day after an order is placed at one of the designated spots of choice.

However, only credit cards and UCards are accepted for payment.

According to Cashmen, the Annex has no intention of making any other kinds of payment available because it does not want to create lines at the designated pick up areas.

Some Annex online benefits are that you don't have to wait in line, all UMass books are available, and the system is easy to use.

Another alternative the SGA is offering students is a book swap. According to SGA Secretary of University Policy, Avi Khanna, creating a book swap UMass is a logical way to give students a chance to save some cash. The swap is done online and you can swap your books with people from different universities at: www.umass.edu/rso/sga/. According to the SGA it takes the "middle man out of the equation."

Using the online swap, students can look for the book they need and then contact the person who is selling the book. Although the swap allows for better money savings, in order for it to work efficiently more UMass students need to use it. A book posted in California will coin students just as much as a book from the Annex (when adding shipping and handling charges), but if students from UMass swap books then the exchange won't cost. Currently there are 4,099 books

Turn to BOOK, page 2

LAUREN KOSKY / COLLEGIAN

Increasing online textbook services provide students with a way to avoid lines like these at the Textbook Annex yesterday afternoon.

Flexible Child Care at UM

By Jason Trenkle
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts Affordable Child Care would last spring after an outgrowth of recent negotiations with the Graduate Employee Organization and pending a final licensing inspection by the Office of Child Care Services.

Fully equipped with an observation room and a wide area qualified to care for 16 toddlers at most per block of time, the child care center has adapted its curriculum to meet the academic schedules of parents.

The child care space was approved by the Office of Child Care Service's licensor after having passed the Massachusetts health and safety standards in early January. Without the license, the child care facility would not have been permissible.

Child care services, being offered in three–hour and four–hour blocks of time between Monday and Friday, are hoping to adapt to the needs and time schedules of the parents.

Student families with part–day child care needs will have first priority for enrollment in the flexible program and University employees, second.

In order to best accommodate the different income families looking for child–care support, a sliding fee was developed based on family size and household income to make the service widely available.

Maryanne Gallagher, director of University Child Care Services, feels the opening of the facility has been a wide success.

"There has been a great deal of campus effort to have the classroom ready for the summer," Gallagher said. "We have so many people to thank."

The unique nature of the flexible–schedule program and the varied attendance of the children in the program allows for the curriculum and activities to be modified in accordance with their schedule Gallagher said.

According to a press release from the Chancellor's Office, the flexible child care's program scheduling will meet Massachusetts Office of Child Care Services licensing criteria and follow accreditation criteria as outlined by the National Academy of Early

Turn to CARE, page 2

LAUREN KOSKY / COLLEGIAN

Delbar and Saoirse play yesterday afternoon in the Flexible Child Care Center, located in Skinner Hall.

Approval of town budget up in the air

By Jill Carroll
Collegian Staff

As the preliminary stages of the lengthy Amherst budget approval process begins, some groups proposing budgets may have to do some belt cinching to keep the town out of debt.

Director of Administration and Finance for Amherst, Nancy Maglione, said during a Select Board meeting Monday that while the municipal budget came in under a 5 percent increase cap, three other budgets did not.

The budget proposals for the elementary schools, library and regional schools came in above the cap and if they are approved as is, Maglione said, they would put Amherst $500,000 in debt.

But that isn't likely to happen, said Eva Schiffer, a member of the Amherst Select Board. Schiffer said the proposals would most likely be cut down to fit the budget.

It will be up to the schools and library to find places to cut funding but Schiffer feels that will be a difficult task.

"Crocker Farm has to be renovated and improved," Schiffer said in a recent interview. "The schools need renovation because the buildings are so old. You can't just let everything go to pot. It's going to be very hard. That's why we've been saying for a year and a half to watch operating budgets," Schiffer said.

Operating budgets, which include wages and benefits, make–up 82.3 percent of costs, according to a General Fund line Item summary provided by Maglione.

The budgets have to go through the Select Board and Town Meeting finance committee which will vote on various aspects of the budgets. The votes are really recommendations the Town Meeting will consider when making the final decision on the budgets.

Select Board members haven't begun examining or voting on the sections of the budget yet.

Turn to BUDGET, page 3

Amherst looks at new parking permits

By Aimee Wallis
Collegian Correspondent

Members of the Amherst Parking Commission (APC) held an open town meeting at the Bangs Community Center Tuesday night to discuss the Central Business District Parking Permit System, proposed to be effective September 1999.

About 30 people attended the meeting consisting of Amherst College faculty, uptown residents and business owners voicing their opinions and proposals to appeals of the parking problem in Amherst.

The suggested CBD Parking Permit System will eliminate 264 parking spaces uptown, some of which are metered spots, and will distribute parking permits to residents and employees of the area.

The parking permit spots will be designated on many side streets uptown such as Spring Street, North Street and South Prospect Street and the popular parking lots surrounding the Town Common.

While many business owners agreed with the APC that there are not enough spots available for uptown employees, some voiced concerns about their customers.

Adrian Wilkens, owner of The Mercantile, a novelty/clothing store, explained that the customers of the businesses should not be denied the option to park in these proposed CBD Parking Permit areas.

"The students are our business. If we eliminate places for them to park then we'll have nothing," Wilkens said.

Fred Hartwell, a member of the APC, disagreed with Wilkens' view on the University of Massachusetts commuters.

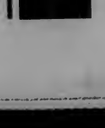
Hartwell explained that the biggest problem in the parking dispute is the UMass commuters who he referred to as the 800–pound gorilla. Hartwell said, "The 800–pound gorilla is the commuting UMass students. We need to control that ... if we do that we can give out permits easily."

Many business owners were in an uproar about the price of permits. Margaret Roberts, vice chair of the APC noted that full time business owners would be charged $120 per year, $25 for a part–time employee. Business owners replied that this would make it harder to hire part–time help that is only making $6 an hour and then have to pay an additional fee to park.

Tom Wolf, the owner of a non–profit organization, was furious about paying for a permit when he is supporting the uptown businesses everyday.

"By charging me for permits, I will have a harder time parking," he said. "We support the town economy by

Turn to PARKING, page 2



EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Friday	Saturday
HIGH: 30 LOW: 20	HIGH: 31 LOW: 11	HIGH: 23 LOW: 8

SOURCE: CNN.COM

NEWS

Senate votes on witnesses

Senators voted in favor of hearing testimony from key witnesses — including Monica Lewinsky — in President Clinton's trial.

PAGE 3

Hip hop grows up

Entering the mainstream and with no sign of slowing down, the hard–to–define music genre has taken over the industry. Check out our look at the world of rap and hip– hop.

ARTS

PAGE 5

Final exams on the hard wood

Both men's and women's hoop teams are running out of opportunities to chase down the NCAA tournament. Nekole Smith's Minutewomen face St. Bonaventure tonight in one of their last chances.

SPORTS

PAGE 16

Arts & Living 5
Classifieds 14
Comics 15
Crossword 15
Editorial 4
FYI 14
News 2
Sports 16

ON THE INTERNET
www.dailycollegian.com

Faculty club to undergo renovations

The University of Massachusetts has closed the second floor of the Faculty Club in Stockbridge House under orders from the state building inspector.

The second floor, which houses two rooms, contains only one exit. The building inspector, Louise Viera, insists that the floor can not be opened until another exit is constructed.

She also requested that the University submit a proposal to address other building code issues by Feb. 15. These issues include the need for improved exit signage, proper emergency doors, emergency lighting and the installation of a fire alarm system.

"Facilities planning is reviewing the code report and will respond as requested," said James Cahill, the director of facilities planning.

According to Dennis Scott, the manager of the Faculty Club, the second floor is generally used as a meeting space. Scott says that the rooms in the second floor accomodate 10- 15 people each, and are used three to four times a week. Due to the closing, the first floor will now be used for meetings, and private dining space may also be arranged.

The Faculty Club, also called the Boltwood-Stockbridge House, is located on Stockbridge Road. It is comprised of two buildings: the Stockbridge House, which was built in 1728 by Samuel Boltwood of Hadley; and the Homestead, which was built in 1731. The Homestead originally was located near the present site of the Lederle Graduate Center, but was moved in 1972.

The Faculty Club contains a restaurant, bar and lounge, as well as meeting rooms, recreational space, and ping pong and pool tables.

— Jake Lilien

■ book

continued from page 1

posted for swap. New books cannot be purchased through the swap.

Bigwords.com, a virtual bookstore, is one of growing nationwide companies also taking part in student textbook sales. Bigwords.com sells or rents new and used books to college students with the promise of a better, cheaper and more convenient alternative. The system is easy to use and there are plenty of new and used books to be found.

Once an order is placed and paid for by credit card, the books are shipped at no additional cost. Customers who tell a friend about bigword.com are also rewarded with a 5 percent discount on their purchase. Buyback is at 40 percent.

Wizeup.com is yet another online company with a different idea. Instead of buying a complete textbook, students may download only the chapters they want. According to Joshua Schainbaum, of wizeup.com, "we're giving you a better product at a better price."

Students do not have to pay for the whole textbook through wiseup.com and there is an add/drop test drive period, which provides the first three chapters free for a thirty day period before returning or paying for it. The disadvantages of this system are that there is no buy-back program, and it is not easy to use.

VarsityBooks.com sells both textbooks and best-sellers online. Eric Kuhn, Chairman and CEO says, "We are strongly committed to providing students with an easy to use, cost-saving alternative to the traditional campus bookstores."

They charge a flat rate of $4.95 for shipping and handling and guarantees books will be delivered in three business days.

In a search for a random sample of UMass required textbooks, the Annex had the overall best prices for UMass students.

However, nationwide online services offer hit-or-miss savings and are worth a try, although without the guarantee that they carry the needed textbooks. Wizeup.com did not carry any of the needed books in the sample.

■ parking

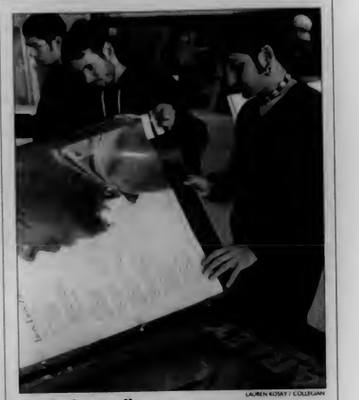
continued from page 1



buying lunch and dinner here. I spend the day here."

Wolf also said, "Why would I stay in Amherst if I am going to get taxed and have no where to park? I should go to Northampton."

Residents may purchase permits for $25 a year if their car is already registered in the town of Amherst. However students registered outside the community may buy permits for $50 a year.

A proposal for students applying for permits is also up for debate. The permits would cost $50 and the students would then be allowed to park in the same spots that are designated for business owners as well.

Along with the suggested permit system is the idea to build a two-story garage in the lot that is currently located by Boltwood Walk behind Bueno y Sano. The first level will be underground and the second will be ground level. The garage will add 100 spaces to the area.

LAUREN KOSKY / COLLEGIAN

Deck the walls

Jeff Jolin, a junior women's studies major, and Matt Gannon, a junior history major, peruse the poster sale in the Student Union Ballroom yesterday afternoon.

The recommended daily allowance of the Collegian is one paper a day. Have you had your till today?

■ care

continued from page 1

Childhood Programs.

Educational programs will be provided based on practices similar to other UCC classrooms on campus. An advisory board has been formed consisting of representatives from GEO, Student Government Association (SGA) and enrolled parents. The board will serve to monitor and provide feedback on the advancement of the educational programs.

Gallagher feels the flexible and affordable child care center has been a needed addition to the University and feels spaces will fill fast.

"I would encourage parents with toddlers to fill out application forms because it'll give us more information as to the need of toddler care," Gallagher said.

For more information and to receive an enrollment application, call UCC at 545-1566.

U.S. cigarette makers face suit

By Brendan Farrington
Associated Press

MIAMI — The Venezuelan government sued the leading U.S. tobacco companies yesterday, becoming the second foreign country to try to recover the public costs of treating sick smokers.

"For decades, Big Tobacco's conduct has caused an incalculable loss of life, disease, disability, pain, suffering, illness and economic loss to the users of Big Tobacco's products," said the lawsuit, filed in Miami-Dade County Circuit Court.

The lawsuit seeks billions of dollars. Attorney Steven Marks, who is representing Venezuela, said economists have been hired to better calculate the damages.

Venezuela claims it suffered because of decreased productivity of its labor force and lost taxes. The tobacco companies knew their products were addictive and caused illnesses that killed Venezuelans, and also attempted to thwart attempts to reduce tobacco use, the lawsuit said.

"It mirrors the state and federal claims that were filed against the tobacco companies," Marks said. "Venezuelan lives are worth just as much as American lives."

British American Tobacco Co., a defendant, makes Lucky Strike, Kent and other cigarettes and controls about 76 percent of the Venezuelan market. Philip Morris Inc. controls most of the remaining market.

The lawsuit also names R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corp., Lorillard Tobacco Co. and Liggett Group Inc.

The Tobacco Institute Inc., The Council for Tobacco, Research-U.S.A. Inc. and the Tobacco Institute Research Committee are also named.

Venezuela tried for 10 months to negotiate with the tobacco companies, seeking restrictions or limits on cigarette marketing, increased education on the dangers of smoking and additional cancer research funding, Marks said.

Some companies refused to meet with government officials or discuss compensation, he said.

Mark Smith, a spokesman for Brown and Williamson, said the case is "a cynical attempt on part of foreign government officials to hijack the U.S. legal system."

"These matters should properly be handled by the courts and with the domestic cigarette companies in these countries," he said. "In most instances, these countries have not named in their suits domestic manufacturers in their own countries."

Greg Little, associate general counsel for Philip Morris, added that the lawsuit was filed "by the wrong party, in the wrong place, for the wrong reasons."

The lawsuit was filed in Miami because one of the defendants, the Brooke Group Ltd., is based here and the city has ties to Venezuelan government and business offices. Miami is also better suited to hear a case involving a Spanish-speaking country, Marks said.

NEW AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO-KICKBOXING • YOGA
• Classes Daily
• Certified Instructors
• Suspended Wood Floor
• Area's Largest Room
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst 256-0080

MORE MACHINES! Yoga • Cardio Kickboxing • Reebok Step • Low Impact • Area's Largest Room BEST PRICES!
MAKE '99 FINE
Get in Shape!
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
256-0080
Rt. 116, So. Amherst

Up to 40% Off New Textbooks

With inventory for the nation's largest colleges in one place – chances are we have your books in stock!

• Only $4.95 shipping ... no matter how many books ordered
• Guaranteed 30-day, no-hassle return policy
• Fully secured transactions

varsitybooks.com
your online college bookstore

■ budget

continued from page 1

During the Select Board meeting Monday, Town Manager Barry Del Castilho explained the three recommendations for increases in the Amherst municipal budget.

Other groups that are asking for increases but were not accommodated in the proposal will have to be heard before the Board can vote on the municipal budget.

Schiffer said while the Board looks at all the budgets the most time is spent on the municipal budget.

The Board briefly goes over the other budgets but not in detail.

But she said the finance committee will go through all the budgets with a fine toothed comb.

"All this goes on forever before the Town Meeting," Schiffer said.

While the fiscal year 2000 budget may need cutting in some areas to stay in the black, the fiscal year 2001 budget will need bigger solutions to break even.

Maglione said at the board meeting that Amherst cannot maintain its current level of funding in the future because revenue such as education reform will be phased out next year.

Unlike fiscal year 2000, in 2001, Maglione said, the 5 percent increase cap won't be enough to keep the budget in the black because of the loss of revenue.

■ car

continued from page 1

items into Mulvey's car.

When Westerling approached, the two ran side by side, trying to conceal themselves behind parked cars. The officer stopped them, with weapon drawn, and arrested Mulvey and DeBlase. He later found a home repair tool set, a lansport backpack filled with tools, and a "kicker box" with "punch" speakers in Mulvey's car, as well as several bongs and pipes used for marijuana.

Luippold said he suspects the two had been coming to campus "for some time," with the express purpose of breaking into student vehicles. Members of the committee hope the installation of video cameras in parking lots will prevent further crime and aid in the identification of car thieves like Mulvey.

Senate says no dismissal in trial

By David Espo
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Republican-controlled Senate blocked dismissal of the impeachment case against President Clinton on yesterday and then voted for new testimony from Monica Lewinsky and two other witnesses — but by margins well short of the two-thirds that would be needed to oust the president.

In a pair of roll calls in the hushed Senate chamber, all 55 Republicans voted against dismissal and for the witnesses opposed by the White House. They were joined by a single Democrat, Russell Feingold of Wisconsin, leaving them far below the 67 needed for conviction.

"The president will not be removed from office," Senate Democratic leader Tom Daschle declared moments later in comments swiftly seconded by the White House. "For the good of the country and in keeping with the Constitution it is now time to end this trial."

Even before the votes, Daschle and Majority Leader Trent Lott were at work trying to fashion a bipartisan agreement for the balance of the trial, including videotaped depositions of Lewinsky, presidential friend Vernon Jordan and White House aide Sidney Blumenthal.

By late afternoon, Lott told reporters the two parties had exchanged offers and he said he was hopeful for agreement by today on a timetable for a final vote on the articles of impeachment by mid-February. He suggested the witness depositions — possibly videotaped — could take place over the weekend or Monday, and left open the question of whether the White House might then decide it wanted witnesses of its own.

Daschle, too, said he was hopeful of an agreement within 24 hours.

There was no debate on the Senate floor before yesterday's two votes, but numerous senators issued written statements afterward.

"I believe it is premature to dismiss this case at the present time," said Richard Shelby, an Alabama Republican who had previously expressed misgivings about witnesses. He said he believed the prosecution "should be allowed the opportunity to demonstrate whether there is new and significant information that would justify live testimony."

Apart from Feingold, Democrats were unanimous that whatever Clinton's wrongs, they weren't impeachable offenses. "However reprehensible that conduct was, I do not believe it is constitutional grounds for removing from office a president elected by the people," said North Dakota's Byron Dorgan.

White House lawyers have warned repeatedly that calling any witnesses would mean protracted delays to allow for time for a review of documents thus far withheld from the president's team. But in a prepared statement he read to reporters in a Senate corridor, Special Counsel Gregory Craig omitted any mention of a drawn out process consuming many months.

"Today's events made clear that the votes are not there to convict and remove the president from office," he said.

Sixty-seven votes would be needed. Any further proceedings, "run counter to the best interests of the Congress, the presidency and the American people," Craig said.

Democratic sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the White House would not seek to delay the depositions with a demand for extensive preparation time. Only if one of the witnesses made a new disclosure that was potentially harmful to the president's case would they insist on a review of evidence thus far kept from them, these sources said.

Yesterday's trial proceedings, with Chief Justice William Rehnquist presiding, began with the customary prayer from the chaplain, Rev. Lloyd Ogilvie. "Leadership has its defining days in which critical decisions must be made," he said.

The roll calls that followed within moments were somber — if utterly lacking in suspense — as 100 senators sat quietly at their seats until called on alphabetically to announce their votes. There was one light moment, when Democratic Sen. Barbara Mikulski of Maryland mistakenly sided with the Republicans against dismissal, then swiftly won permission from Rehnquist to correct herself.

Child care improving at UMass

By Jason Trenkle
Collegian Staff

Graduate students like Flobert Tanga, who have enrolled their children into the new Flexible Schedule Child Care Center, have noticed the impact it has created in their lives, but many other student/faculty parents are looking for more available space as the semester goes on.

Tanga's daughter Juliana used to attend the University Child Care. Now, having enrolled her into the Flexible Program, Tanga has been able to afford his studies.

"It's been a very big help for me in spending almost $500 dollars a month with University Child Care, to near nothing with the Flexible Care," he said. "It's a very good thing for students with families and particularly international students not eligible for any federal help."

Three full-time teachers run the child care facility from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and are working to create a curriculum to meet the flexible schedule of the care center. Supervising teacher Ashley Fogle feels the task is difficult in adapting methods in reflection to the parent's changing class schedule.

"It was a challenge to set up a room to adapt to children's needs at different parts of the day," Fogle said. "It's not a consistent group."

As a result, Fogle and the supervisors in the program are waiting a couple weeks before making any changes to enrollment policies. In moderation, they have complied with Office for Child Care Services (OCCS) guidelines and have limited enrollment for these reasons.

"This is a quality child care setting," Fogle said. "Before we go about extending our hours of operation, we need to observe how the children cope with various schedules and interact with different groups of children on a daily basis."

With a large group of student and faculty parents asking for extended hours, the Flexible Child Care staff says they recognize the need for more flexibility in the enrollment policy.

However, because of the scarcity of applications meeting standards of qualification, child care staffing became limited says Maryanne Gallagher, director of University Child Care.

"Had we been able to find more candidates with the specific qualifications, we may have been able to open for the evening hours," Gallagher said. "I am confident we'll be able to hire enough qualified staff in the fall to extend our program for the evening hours."

Parents like Tanga and his daughter Juliana are grateful the child care center was able to be up and running this semester.

"Next year, Juliana will be eligible for pre-school," Tanga said. "Even though she will not be part of the flexible day care, I am still a strong advocate for the program, for without it there are many others would not be able to support ourselves and our families."

LAUREN KOSKY / COLLEGIAN

Thawing out...

After more than a week of icy conditions, sunny weather has melted most of the ice on campus.

Up on current events?... News is looking for writers.

STRENGTH • FLEXIBILITY • COORDINATION
CARDIO KICK BOXING
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB • 256-0080
Mon @5:30
Thurs @5:30
Sat @2:00
www.amherstathletic.com

WELCOMING BACK STUDENTS

RETURN YOUR TEXTBOOKS WITH YOUR RECEIPT FOR A "NO QUESTIONS ASKED" REFUND THROUGH FRIIDAY FEBRUARY 12TH, 1999.

Textbook Annex
AMHERST
www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex
University Store • Textbook Annex
SAVE YOUR RECEIPT

Our Refund Policy
If you purchase an incorrect title you may return it for a refund within 7 calendar days of the first day of classes. Thereafter incorrect titles may be returned within 48 hours of purchase provided the book is new and unmarked.

1. Textbooks from dropped courses may be returned during the month of February. Present your student ID and receipt(s) for updated course schedule obtained from the Registrar. Books must be unmarked.

2. Keep your receipts. Refunds will be issued only to the person whose name appears on the receipt(s) accompanying the book.

3. Always have your current ID card with you when making transactions.

The return of unsold books to the publisher begins in the middle of the semester. After the seventh week you might not be able to return the book you need.

textbook annex
Spring '99 Schedule

We accept cash, personal check, Ucard, Visa, MasterCard as forms of payment.

We begin to return unsold books to the publishers in the middle of the semester. Students are encouraged to get the books they need for the semester as soon as possible after official enrollment in a course.

buyback
FIRST WEEK - January 25-30
Tues.-Fri. 9am - 5pm
Friday 9am - 5pm
SECOND WEEK - February 24
Monday-Wednesday 9am - 5pm
Thereafter, Monday-Friday 9am-4pm at the Textbook Annex, beginning February 12, 1999

annex rush
Spring 1999 Book Rush Hours
Tuesday, January 26 9am - 8pm
Wednesday, January 27 9am- 8pm
Thursday, January 28 9am - 8pm
Friday, January 29 9am - 8pm
Saturday, January 30 11am- 5pm
Monday, Feb. 1 -Friday, Feb. 5 9am - 6pm
Thereafter - Monday - Friday 9am - 4pm

--- The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian ---

Which way is up?

Tanya Mannes

What are some of the words that come to mind when you hear that a person your own age has had a baby? I have heard things like "lazy," "stupid," "short-sighted," and "pathetic." These days, people who have children "too young," meaning "pre-education, pre-financial achievement," are objects of contempt or pity.

Former high school classmates are discussed with a superior attitude by those of us free from such real responsibility. "I hear Sarah has one little girl, another on the way. Well, she'll never leave Worcester."

Why the disdain? Why are we so quick to dismiss the honorable role of parenthood? Contemporary society stigmatizes young mothers and fathers as "lazy," when in fact many of them are working hard to support the choices they have made, to become parents.

Granted, early marriage and childbearing — meaning before the age of 20 — are universally discouraged in modernized societies. Throughout the past three decades, educational attainment has become more significant in determining a person's life chances. Without a college education, it is difficult to rise above the poverty line. Since the performance of adult responsibilities requires an extensive period of training and a substantial investment, people are not considered ready to support a family until their early 20s.

It is implied that children are almost an indulgence, a luxury; they should be considered within the context of a successful life. But what is a successful life? Once a person has children, has she or he forfeited the right to seek happiness and financial success? And once children have been born, can we forget about them because they did not arrive, for whatever reason, on society's prescribed timetable? It seems that we are quick to dismiss those who have children as "out of the game."

But in fact, many of them are actively seeking better lives for themselves and their children; for instance, consider the students with children who attend UMass. That's why they are here.

But it gets progressively more difficult to juggle child-rearing and Chaucer. It's difficult because we have not kept pace with the Western world, notably Scandinavia, with childcare options for working and student parents. This week the Flexible Child Care Center opened its doors, and not a moment too soon. The Graduate Employee Organization had launched a campaign of awareness to combat the indifference of many people to the cries for "affordable, flexible, quality child care on the UMass campus."

Bureaucracy alone does not explain why this has taken so long. It has taken five years to accomplish because of the social stigma of being a young parent trying to get an education. Welfare mothers get the coldest reception of all. In fact, for UMass undergraduate students on welfare, the temperature is chillier than it has been all winter.

I refer, of course, to the backpedaling that Chancellor Scott has done on his support of an emergency housing voucher for students affected by welfare cuts. He has been quoted as saying that it was easier to cut the program and help students in other ways, than to deal with the misconception that he was superseding the welfare law by replacing decreased welfare benefits. Students are advised to "go to the financial aid office for individual assessment and advice." This is a dismissal of the "invisible" student parent.

The National Organization for Women's web page provides information on the Welfare Reform Act. It was signed by President Clinton in August of 1996, and it "rips the safety net of income support" from the nation's poorest people, such as poor single parents with children (among others). The legislation includes an end to entitlement to cash welfare, work requirements for able-bodied adults and a lifetime limit of five years.

The act requires work for the poorest members of the population, regardless of the fact that a significant portion of workers' jobs already fail to raise them out of poverty. The minimum wage of $5.15 an hour is so low that a full-time job at that wage provides just $10,712 — less than the poverty level of $13,330 for a family of three, and just $100 over the poverty level for a family of two.

To pay for the program, Congress further undermined the availability of affordable child care by cutting the Child and Adult Care Food Program. This leaves students with children dependent on their school to supplement some of the aid that they have lost as of December, when much of the "reform" took effect.

While I am pleased that Skinner Hall is now open, I am unconvinced that we, as a university, cannot do better than just providing a bare necessity such as childcare. Where are our priorities? Do we really want to "freeze out" those of us who have lost funding, through our indifference? The relatively small amount of money that it would take to get some students on welfare through this academic year is not much to ask from our university. The $50,000 in housing vouchers that was approved, and then revoked, by the Chancellor would have been a step in the right direction.

We must ask ourselves if we can dismiss the students with children on this campus as "lazy," or less-deserving of an education than anyone else who receives a state handout in the form of financial aid. For a generation that considers itself above most forms of prejudice, there is a long way yet to go. These days, being a parent is something of a radical, subversive act. If the rest of us were as progressive as we claim to be, we could support the brave choices that some of our peers have made.

Tanya Mannes is a Collegian columnist.

Whether or not

Dan Viens

What makes up a typical American day? First you wake up and try to collect yourself. Then you shower and maybe have something to eat. Once your eyes are fully adjusted to the light you venture outside. You go out to your job, or to classes or maybe just to run some errands. After the day is over you come back home. At home you'll probably eat dinner and then maybe have some time for relaxation and entertainment. After that it is time for bed. Repeat.

That is the typical American life. It's just about the same thing everyday. Of course there are exceptions and of course there are people who don't fit this mold. For instance, hookers mix in a lot more sex, rock stars have a lot more time for drug use and prison inmates have more time than most people for working out and being contemplative about their life.

I am not really interested in the big things that make up everyone's days. I don't want to analyze where people work, who their friends are or where they live. What I am interested in are the little passing conversations that people have during the day. Each of us probably has about 50 meaningless conversations each day. In these conversations nothing is said and nothing is revealed about either of the participants. They are pointless, but they must occur in order to seem polite.

Imagine seeing someone in your office building every single day. You know their first name and that is it. You have no idea whether or not you have anything in common with them. You don't know where they live, how old they are, where or if they went to college or even their last name.

"Imagine seeing someone in your office building. You know their first name — that's it. You have no idea whether or not you have anything in common."

Because of this it does not really seem important in the scope of your life to talk to this person. However, those two seconds of awkwardness as your eyes meet and then look down not knowing what to say seem to last an hour. So naturally people try to find something to talk about. What do most people choose when pressed for a conversation topic? The answer is of course, the weather.

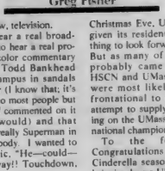
Weather is an obvious choice. Many people may dismiss conversations about the weather as being meaningless. This, however, is not the case. Weather is the only truly universal event. Weather always occurs and for people in the same geographic area it occurs exactly the same for everyone. By talking about the weather to someone you are kind of saying, "Hey man, we are all in this world together."

If you talk to someone about the weather you can be sure that no matter how much of a loner you might think you are you have at least one thing in common with everyone else. The flip side to that is even if you think that you are the coolest kid around you are still going to hate getting rained on like everyone else.

Because weather is such an important event there is a group of people who have silently become some of the most important leaders in our society. They have given us the gift of avoiding all awkward moments in hallways. These people aren't the type of leaders that make decisions as to the well- being and progress of our country. They don't even give us spiritual guidance or financial advice. What these leaders actually do is keep us abreast of the upcoming weather.

These leaders are known as meteorologists. Day in and day out meteorologists use all of their fancy radar to give us reads of conversational topics. You might think that the real reasons they tell us the weather are so we can dress accordingly and so we can make plans that will not get ruined. These things are true, but they are merely coincidental. What they are actually doing is making all of us feel like we are authorities on something and giving us all something to offer to a conversation.

If you don't believe me or you think this is stupid please think about the following. How often can a man and a woman have a very good conversation about sports? Let's face it, for the most part men know a hell of a lot more about sports. You can't really get into a nice passing conversation about religion either. You have to worry about people having different beliefs than you and stuff like that.



Pretty much any subject you can think of can be looked at from many different angles. This however is not true about the weather. The weather is fact and it is happening to all of us. Some people might like snow better than others, but either way a conversation about it will always be civil and polite.

When someone walks in from outside, we always want to know what it's like outside. When someone comes back from a vacation we want to know if they had good weather. When we talk on the phone to someone far away we always want to know what the weather is like. The simple reason for this is that weather is the only subject that everyone knows everyone else can understand. This is why I believe the weathermen and women of the world are truly great persons for doing their duty of keeping us aware of our ever-changing universal surroundings.

Please do our great meteorologist friends a favor. Know that the next time you say, "Boy, is it cold out there," you are really saying, "I know it is cold out there, but don't worry we all feel it and we are all going to get through it together."

Dan Viens is a Collegian columnist.

We heard you win

Greg Fisher

After two days of studying, cramming until all hours of the night, coffee and two exams, it was finally Saturday afternoon. It wasn't any typical Saturday though, as our football team was in the Division I-AA National Championship game, for the first time in a very long time.

All I had planned to do was sit in my hammock (yes, I have a hammock in my dorm room), drink a few beers with friends and watch our football team try to win its first national championship. I knew the game was on ESPN, but as in the past when basketball games were shown on nationally televised ESPN, I was confident our school administrators would find a way to broadcast the game on HSCN.

After all, the majority of the fans at UMass games are usually UMass students. We're the ones who support our teams and spend the little money we own for food, beverages and t-shirts at the various sporting events across campus. Plus, it's not every day a team picked to do mediocre in it's own conference shocks the nation and makes it to the final game of the season.

So there I was, in my hammock, beer in one hand, remote in the other, ready for a day of hard hitting action. Click, on goes my 13-inch TV screen, flick over to channel 19 where I see, "You are listening to..." whatever our campus radio station is.

OK, maybe it's on another one of the campus stations. So I go through the all the stations and channels, 1-83. Nothing! I couldn't believe it. Could our school be neglecting its student body because a certain something hasn't happened in over 20 years?

Maybe the two guys on the radio were just doing a pregame analysis and the game would be on in a few minutes. So I went back to good old Channel 19 where I still saw the same message and heard, "First down, UMass!" The game was already on! Not only was it the radio but it was two UMass students doing their best at play-by-play and color commentary.

I mean don't get me wrong, I'm all for student radio and sport broadcasts, but when I turn on the TV that usually means I actually want to watch something, not a blue screen with a message that is self-explanatory. Moving pictures, different camera angles, Khari Samuel sacking the Georgia Southern quarterback. You know, television.

"I had to find a way to watch the game at an off-campus location that had cable and ESPN."

I wanted to hear a real broadcaster. I wanted to hear a real professional doing color commentary to tell me that Todd Bankhead walks around campus in sandals during the winter (I know that; it's not that strange to most people but Sports Illustrated commented on it so I figured I would) and that Adrian Zullo is really Superman in a much smaller body. I wanted to hear an emphatic, "He—could—go—all—the—way!! Touchdown, touchdown!"

But no.

Instead, now I had to find a way to watch the game at an off-campus location that had cable and ESPN. Luckily for me, my friend Scott, hearing about the campus tragedy, had invited me over to his place in the Boulders to watch the game.

I had already started to drink a beer and now I had to drive to Scott's risking my life and my license as I was now going to drive with alcohol in my system and on my breath. We all know how the town of Amherst and UMass feel on that situation. Just look in the Campus Police log.

So by the time I walked the mile and a half to my car in yellow let, waited for my piece of junk to warm up, and then drove over to the Boulders, the first half was over with UMass strongly in control of the game. How? I don't know.

During a very stressful week of finals that included finals on Saturday and stretched up until the day before Christmas Eve, UMass could have given its resident students something to look forward to and enjoy. But as many of you know, this probably came about because HSCN and UMass administrators were most likely too non-confrontational to make an honest attempt to supply the students living on the UMass campus with the national championship game.

To the football team: Congratulations on a wonderful, Cinderella season and thanks for bringing home UMass its first football national championship. You can look for me in the stands as much as possible in the next few years, because as we've all been told by our parents, "You can't count on television for everything."

But what they left out was, "Especially when the network has the initials HSCN."

Greg Fisher is a UMass student.

Doonesbury

BY GARRY TRUDEAU

LET YOUR VOICE BE HEARD! WRITE FOR ED-OP!

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545-3500 • Fax (413) 545-1592 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor-in-Chief Mike Messaros Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Position Vacant Developing Nations Editor
Tanya Mannes Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Jewish Affairs Editor

Position Vacant Multicultural Affairs Editor
Laura Forster News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Co-Sports Editor
Paul Teves Co-Sports Editor
Julie Fialkow Women's Issues Editor

Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Prestes Distribution Manager
Laura Keller Promotions Manager

Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life, became the College Signal in 1901, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1936. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1998. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

CALVIN

THEATRE & PERFORMING ARTS CENTER

Sat. Feb. 6 • 8 pm
Chick Corea & Gary Burton Duets

Thu. Feb. 11 • 8 pm

LADYSMITH BLACK MAMBAZO

Fri. Feb. 19 • 8 pm
An evening with Sir George Martin
The Making of Sgt. Pepper, a multi-media keynote address

Wed. Feb. 24 • 7 pm
the Iron Horse's 20th Anniversary Concert
featuring
Maura O'Connell, The Bobs, Tuck & Patti, The Nields, Salamander Crossing, Dave Van Ronk

2/6 Chick Corea & Gary Burton Duets
2/7 The Northampton Arts Council's Silver Chord Bowl
2/11 Ladysmith Black Mambazo
2/19 An evening with Sir George Martin: The Making of Sgt. Pepper, a multi-media keynote address
2/20 Dollar Night: The Sound of Music

2/24 • CALVIN

Coming Soon: 2/24 Iron Horse Anniversary Concert, 3/6 Cirque Eloize, 3/7 Arcadia Players, 3/18 James Galway, 3/19 Nai-Ni Chen Dance Company, 3/27 Citizen Kane*, 3/28 The Wizard of Oz, 4/10 Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Co., 4/11 The Adventures of Cordurory, 4/16 Cassandra Wilson, 4/23 Sonny Rollins, 4/24 Terry Gross, 4/25 Ravi Shankar, 5/2 Laura Ingalls Wilder: Growing Up on the Prarie, 5/15 Vertigo*, 5/23 Phantom of the Opera, 6/19 West Side Story*, 7/15 Gone With the Wind*, 10/15 Cesaria Evora

CALVIN THEATRE - 19 KING STREET, NORTHAMPTON, MA 413-584-0610

Tickets for the Calvin Theatre are available at the Northampton Box Office, Thornes Marketplace in Northampton. To charge by phone call 586-8686 or 1-800-THE-TICK. Visit www.massdive.com for more information.

all shows all ages!
Pearl Street Nightclub

ONLY AREA APPEARANCE! THU. FEB. 11 • 8:30 PM
PEARL ST. BALLROOM
FROGWINGS is
Kofi Burbridge (From Aquarium Rescue Unit) on keys & flute
Oteil Burbridge (From the Allman Brothers Band & A.R.U.) on bass
Jimmy Herring (From A.R.U. & Jazz is Dead) on guitar
John Popper (From Blues Traveler) on vocals & harmonica
Marc Quinones (From the Allman Brothers Band) on percussion
Butch Trucks (From the Allman Brothers Band) on drums
Derek Trucks (From the Derek Trucks Band) on guitar

WED. FEB. 3 • 8:30 PM • PEARL ST. BALLROOM
Strangefolk

SAT. JAN. 30 - 8:30 PM - BALLROOM
JOHNNY WINTER
TUE. FEB. 2 - 8:30 PM - BALLROOM
SALIF KEITA & THE WANDA BAND
WED. FEB. 3 - 8:30 PM - BALLROOM
STRANGEFOLK
FRI. FEB. 5 - 8:30 PM - CLUBROOM
LAUREL AITKEN WITH THE N.Y. SKA-JAZZ ENSEMBLE
SAT. FEB. 6 - 8:30 PM - BALLROOM
MAX CREEK
WED. FEB. 10 - 8:30 PM - BALLROOM
LUCIANO
THU. FEB. 11 - 8:30 PM - BALLROOM
FROGWINGS featuring Kofi Burbridge, Oteil Burbridge, Jimmy Herring, John Popper, Marc Quinones, Butch Trucks and Derek Trucks
FRI. FEB. 12 - 8:30 PM - CLUBROOM
BIM SKALA BIM
COMING SOON: The Samples, Lee "Scratch" Perry with Mad Professor, The Dr. Lee PhD Tour, John Brown's Body, Sekadeh, Robin Trower

PEARL STREET NIGHTCLUB, 10 PEARL ST., NORTHAMPTON, MA • THE IRON HORSE, 20 CENTER ST., NORTHAMPTON, MA

Tickets for all shows available at the Northampton Box Office, 2nd Floor, Thorne's Marketplace, Northampton 1-800-THE-TICK or 413-586-8686. Tickets for the Iron Horse are available at For The Record in Amherst. Tickets for Pearl St. are available at For The Record, About Music in Greenfield and Platterpus Records in Westfield. 24-Hour Concert Info: (413) 584-0610 or visit www.massdive.com all shows music alone shall live all ages!

IRON HORSE MUSIC HALL

TUE. FEB. 2
7 PM
IRON HORSE
Legendary reggae vocal group
ABYSSINIANS

THU. JAN. 28 • 8:30 PM
Tight jazzy grooves
THE SLIP AND JIGGLE THE HANDLE
FRI. JAN. 29 • 7 PM
French-Canadian sister act
KATE & ANNA McGARIGLE
SAT. JAN. 30 • 7 PM
Jazz harmonica pioneer
TOOTS THIELEMANS / KENNY WERNER DUO
SAT. JAN. 30 • 10 PM
Bulgogton's avant-funk orchestra
VIPERHOUSE
SUN. JAN. 31 • 7 PM
Young jazz bass hero
CHRISTIAN McBRIDE
TUE. FEB. 2 • 7 PM
Legendary reggae vocal group
ABYSSINIANS
WED. FEB. 3 • 7 & 9:30 PM
Country giant explores his roots
RICKY SKAGGS & KENTUCKY THUNDER
THU. FEB. 4 • 7 PM
Red-hot Creole accordionist
TERRANCE SIMIEN
FRI. FEB. 5 • 8:30 PM
The Valley's best party-rock band
TRAILER PARK
SAT. FEB. 6 • 7 PM
A voice to die for
JENNIFER KIMBALL
SAT. FEB. 6 • 10 PM
Southern blues-rock jammer
GIBB DROLL Plus Rockwell Church
SUN. FEB. 7 • 7 & 10 PM
Swamp-rock pioneer
DR. JOHN
MON. FEB. 8 • 7 PM
Amazing multiphonic singing
THROAT SINGERS OF TUVA: HUUN-HUUR-TU
TUE. FEB. 9 • 7 PM
Out-jazz perfection
MATTHEW SHIPP / WILLIAM PARKER DUO
WED. FEB. 10 • 7 PM
Singer-songwriters to watch for
CHRISTIAN BAUMAN, KEVIN SO & MARK ERELLI
THU. FEB. 11 • 8:30 PM
Canadian guitar pop sensations
SLOAN Plus Local Rabbits
FRI. FEB. 12 • 10 PM
Late '60s style roots-reggae
WINSTON GRENNAN & SKA ROCKS
SAT. FEB. 13 • 10 PM FREE SHOW!
Ovation Guitars presents:
PRESTON REED
With special guest Jeff Pevar
SAT. FEB. 13 • 7 PM
Boston's best acoustic rocker
MELISSA FERRICK
SUN. FEB. 14 • 7 PM
A women's benefit
MARY LOU LORD, MERRY AMSTERBURG, JULES VERDONE & DEB PASTERNAK
MON. FEB. 15 • 7 PM
Host of the Grateful Dead Hour
DAVID GANS
Plus Up Jumps the Devil
COMING SOON: Scottsville Johnny acoustic, Patricia Barber and Danilo Perez, Nalfa Toujours, Susan Werner, Living Daylights, Mike Welch, Virtual Consort

COURTESY FINE ARTS CENTER

Bodies, rest and motion

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet performs Tchaikovsky's Serenade, among other selections, next Thursday, Feb. 4, at the Fine Arts Center.

Pi Lambda Phi
International Fraternity
BE A PART OF UMASS' NEWEST FRATERNITY
Pi Lambda Phi will excel in:
Academics • Brotherhood • Leadership
Community Service • Athletics
Diversity • Social Events
100% Haze Free • Open to all race and creeds
Take Greek life to a higher level
Pizza, Pool & Pi Lam
Jan 28th and Feb 2nd
Meet outside Bluewall at 10pm
For more info contact:
Cliff 546-1860 cifh@student.umass.edu
Chris 546-5816 badgerdogs@aol.com

NEW AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO-KICKBOXING • YOGA
• Classes Daily
• Certified Instructors
• Suspended Wood Floor
• Area's Largest Room
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst, 256-0080

AEROBICS
• Area's Largest Room — STEP
• Certified Instructors — LOW IMPACT
• Classes Daily — YOGA
• Shock-absorbing Floor — CARDIO KICK BOXING
• Walk-ins Welcome — HI/LOW
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 SO. AMHERST

Yoga • Cardio Kickboxing
Reebok Step • Low Impact • Area's Largest Room
MORE MACHINES
BEST PRICES
MAKE '99 FINE
Get in Shape!
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 Rt. 116, So. Amherst

TOTAL FITNESS
Without Waiting In Line
$139 3 months
STUDENT SPECIAL
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
Rte. 116
So. Amherst • 256-0080

Something Every Friday
Presents Comedian
Johnny Lampert

Comedian Johnny Lampert has appeared on HBO's Comedy Showcase, Montreal's Just for Laughs Festival, MTV's "Spring Break", and Comedy Central. Johnny has a one-man show called "Separations Anxiety" that is a semi-autobiographical presentation that gives structure to his stand-up routine about living at home.

January 29, 1999
Bluewall Cafe, 8pm FREE

The movie "Ronin", starrine Robert DeNiro will be shown following the performance. "Ronin" will also be shown on sunday, January 31, 199 in the Campus Center Auditorium.

For more info, please call 545-3600 or visit or website: http://www.umass.edu/events/calendar.htm

This series is made possible through a grant from Auxiliary Services and the office of the Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs.

What is http://estore.aux.umass.edu ?

UNIVERSITY STORE'S Textbook Annex UMASS AMHERST

* It is your online bookstore. Browse and buy your textbooks by academic department and course number. Every book for every course that's ordered at the Textbook Annex can now be purchased online.

* You can order your books for convenient on-campus pick-up at one of three locations at the start of school:

- Franklin Dining Commons
- Hampden Dining Commons
- University Store at the Campus Center

* Or have your books delivered to your home by UPS. [Sorry, UPS is not available on-campus.]

* Textbooks bought online can be returned or sold at the buy-back the same way as purchases made at the Textbook Annex. You can find our return policy at the web site.

* Your credit card number and personal information are kept confidential, and your purchases are supported by our on-campus staff here at the University of Massachusetts.

Your online textbook store.
Web Convenience/In-store Service

Big TV winners at Globes

Tube Notes with Ryan Benharris

This past Sunday, NBC aired the second most important award show that showcases television's elite performers. Though the Golden Globe Awards are inferior to the Oscars and the Emmys in almost every single way, the annual presentation display does hold quite a lot of merit.

It seems that the recipients of the awards take them seriously, and try not to acknowledge the fact that the awards are not considered television's grand prize. All together it was a spectacle filled with enjoyment and disappointment that would not be complete without a full investigative breakdown.

First, I would like to express my happiness, and congratulations to Jim Carrey for winning best actor in a drama, because I have been a fan of him since his days back on "in Living Color" and feel that a long over-due respect for an excellent actor has been granted. His portrayal in The Truman Show was one of the absolute best performances I have ever witnessed.

Though the film awards at The Golden Globes were exciting, and are probably a prelude to March's Oscar ceremony, I would like to focus on the awards that were presented to the masters of the small screen. The Golden Globe Awards have a history of taking a different approach to television, and presenting awards to recipients that sometimes seem a little obscure.

Underdog nominees that have walked away with Golden Globe awards in the past have been Claire Danes for her role in "My So Called Life," and "Party of Five" for best drama series. In both of these cases, these two shows would have probably been taken off of the air due to low ratings if they had not won an award. Since then, they have become fan favorites.

One of the most talked about stories from this past Emmy awards was Helen Hunt's triumph of being the first person to win an Oscar and an Emmy for best actress in the same year. Hunt, who was presented with best actress at the 1998 Oscars for her role in As Good as it Gets, also won a best actress in a comedy series Emmy for her role in "Mad About You."

Unfortunately, Hunt's winning streak has come to an end. The award for best actress in a comedy series was presented to "Darma and Greg's" Jenna Elfman, whose new series has become quite popular since debuting on ABC in the fall of 1997. Elfman does an excellent job in this show, and certainly is deserving of the award. Many people felt that the favorite for best actress would be "Ally McBeal" star Calista Flockhart, but she was denied the award much like at last year's Emmys.

The winner that everyone is talking about this year is Keri Russell for her award for best actress in a drama series, for her portrayal of the title character in "Felicity." In September's Emmy awards, this prize was given to Christine Lahti from "Chicago Hope." Ironically, Lahti was not even nominated for the award at the Golden Globes.

The fact of the matter here is that Russell should not have won this award. Her series is sub-par — not even the best that the WB network has to offer. Though Russell is a good actress, and has extremely appealing qualities on her show, she is not the best actress on any drama series from 1998.

In my opinion, Kim Delany should have won this for her role in "NYPD Blue," and a close second would be Juliana Margolis for "ER."

In the category of best actor in a drama series, the case was the same. There was really no consideration given to last year's Emmy winner, Andre Braugher, for his role in "Homicide: Life on the Street." The award was given to "The Practice's" Dylan McDermmot, and there could not have been a better choice.

This show is not only excellent, but the acting is superb, and he was awarded a prize for his superior talents. "The Practice" was also awarded with best drama series, and Camryn Manheim was awarded with best supporting actress in a drama series.

David Kelley, the creator of "The Practice" was awarded with another award, when his "Ally McBeal" was given best comedy series. This was the worst choice of the evening. There is a reason why this series was not presented with this award at the Emmys, and the Golden Globes were wrong to present it this award.

For the past five years, this award has gone to "Frasier" at the Emmys, and that definitely is a better series than "Ally McBeal." However, the absolute best series on television is "Spin City," and Michael J. Fox was awarded with a best actor in a comedy series for his lead role.

The most prestigious award of the night, the Cecile B. DeMille Award, was presented to crazy man Jack Nicholson. A speech was given about Nicholson by his long time friend and co-star in some films, Warren Beatty. Beatty and Nicholson did not act like the customary teary-eyed friends that are seen so often when this award is presented, instead trading barbs and jokes.

The Golden Globe Awards were exciting, if nothing else. They were interesting to watch and ended with an advertisement for next year's Golden Globe Awards. One can only wonder what next year will have in store for the world of television.

Ryan Benharris is a Collegian columnist.

Art this spring will be blooming

By Emily Trask
Collegian Staff

Jumping right back into the swing of things, the Five-College area isn't wasting anytime this spring semester to bring us some of the finest performances in the world. In terms of music, dance, art and theater this season should prove to be very exciting.

The Fine Arts Center (FAC) at the University of Massachusetts will be kicking off its season with the 10th Annual Fine Arts Gala on Saturday, Jan. 30. The Royal Winnipeg Ballet, performing works by Tchaikovsky, will present the first performance of the FAC spring season on Feb. 4.

Other upcoming FAC events include: The London City Opera and the National Operetta Orchestra in Die Fledermaus ("The Bat") and Kol Simcha, Europe's klezmer band, which is comprised of Olivier Truan, piano, Michael Heitzler, clarinet and saxophone, Anders Bostrom, flute, Daniel Fricker, bass, and David Klein, saxophone and percussion.

As part of its 20th anniversary celebration The New WORLD Theater of the University of Massachusetts will be presenting Two Evenings of Solo Arts on Feb. 18 and 19. This two-day event will include Hazelle, by Hazelle Goodman and Jails, Hospitals, and Hip-hop, by Danny Hoch.

The Augusta Savage Gallery at UMass will screen a video entitled Too Close to Heaven: the History of Gospel on Tuesday, Feb. 15. The narrator of the video will be UMass professor Horace Boyer. He will give introductory remarks preceding the video and lead a discussion afterwards.

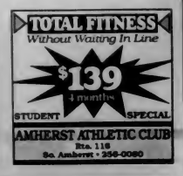
The University of Massachusetts Department of Music and Dance will begin its season with a performance by a newly formed group of wind players, under the direction of Malcolm W. Rowell Jr., who will play specially selected pieces on Sunday, Jan. 31.

Also in an upcoming recital on Tuesday, Feb. 2, faculty members Laura Klock, horn, David Sporny, trombone, and Nadine Shank, piano, will try to answer the question "What provides the impetus for a piece of music?"

The University of Massachusetts Orchestra, conducted by Mark Russell Smith, will present a concert of major Romantic works on Friday, Feb. 12. Also featured will be the UMass Chamber Choir, conducted by E. Wayne Abercrombie, and the Choir of Eastern Nazarene College, led by Timothy Shetler.

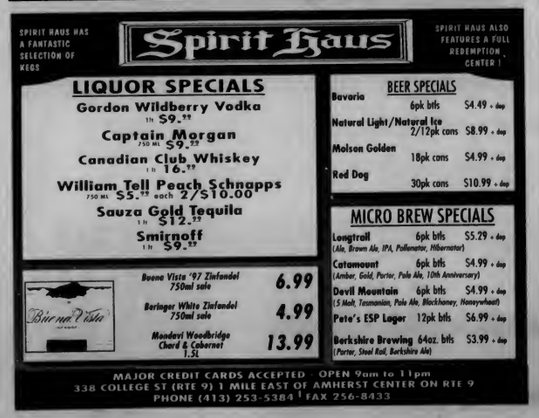
For information regarding UMass Music and Dance performances call the Bowker Box Office at 545-2511.

As part of their '99 winter season The Massachusetts International Festival of the Arts (MIFA) will present two exuberant one-act plays, Heart's Desire and Blue Kettle, written by one of Britain's leading playwrights, Caryl Churchill, from Feb. 24 through 28 at CityStage, Springfield.



The MIFA winter season officially begins on Feb. 6 in Northampton with two performances of Phillip Hayes Dean's Paul Robeson, starring Floyd Patterson III, and also includes The Old Ship of Zion, a definitive concert of African American gospel music performed by the Freedom Choir of Springfield with the direction and narration by Horance Clarence Boyer. Call the MIFA at 1-800-224-6432, for details.

The Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance, beginning this weekend, will present a number of productions including Party Booby Trap, written and directed by Katie Rubin, as well as Tofu and Potatoes, and an original performance work created Mabel I. Lajes, in collaboration with students from the Pioneer Valley Charter High School for the Performing Arts.



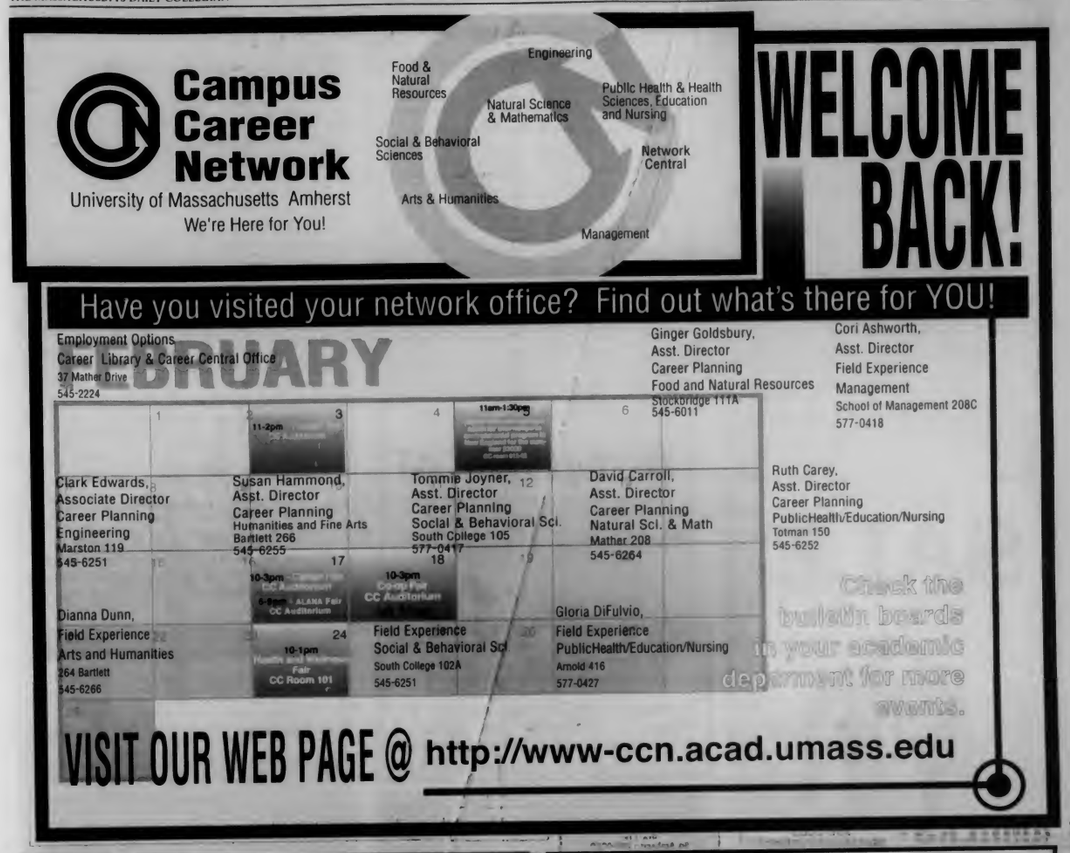
expand your minds write for arts....it will change your life.

WANTED: Volunteers to serve on the
Judicial Hearing Board

A great experience for students who:

are interested in student leadership
wish to enhance communication skills
want to build their RESUME!
want to learn about the University's judicial system

Requirements include:
full time enrollment
2.0 G.P.A.
no current judicial sanction



You can pick from one of three training sessions
all sessions held in campus center**

Tuesday February 9	Wednesday February 10	Monday February 22
5:00-7:00 p.m.	1:00-3:00p.m.	7:00-9:00 p.m.
Room 162-75	Room 911-15	Room 803

Applications available at The DEAN OF STUDENTS Office
Located in 227 Whitmore

Any Questions? Please contact:
Paul Vasconcellos or Jolene Crook
Dean Of Students Office
227 Whitmore
Phone: 545-6281

DON'T MISS OUT ON THIS EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY!!!

~Film Clips~

A CIVIL ACTION (dir Steven Zaillian, with John Travolta, Robert Duvall, playing at Mountain Farms) Based on Jonathan Harr's bestseller, the story of Boston personal injury attorney Jan Schlichtmann taking on two large corporations translates well to film. Director Zaillian keeps the movie taut and tense, and elicits terrific performances from Travolta, Duvall, William H. Macy and Kathleen Quinlan. One of the most well crafted films to come out of Hollywood in a while. A– (Kevin Monahan)

PATCH ADAMS (dir Tom Shadyac, with Robin Williams, Monica Porter, playing at Mountain Farms) Williams is boyish and timid at times, magnanimous and courageous at others in another amazing performance. He plays Patch, a middle-aged medical student with a passion for curing people through humor. Avoiding its sometimes melodramatic storyline, Patch Adams, with Williams help, becomes the feel good movie of the year. B+ (Adam Martignetti)

SHAKESPEARE IN LOVE (dir John Madden, with Joseph Fiennes, Gwyneth Paltrow, playing at Academy of Music). Art and life have had a chaotic history, alternatively frustrating and inspiring each other. In Shakespeare in Love, the Bard (Joseph Fiennes) is suffering writer's block at the dawn of the first performance of the yet-unwritten Romeo and Juliet, until he finds his muse in Paltrow. Wit, enchantment, high comedy and passion follows. A marvelous supporting cast, led by Judi Dench and Geoffrey Rush, and an impeccable script, co-written by noted playwright Tom Stoppard. A (Bryan McAllister)

STEPMOM (dir Chris Columbus, with Julia Roberts, Susan Sarandon, playing at Mountain Farms). The previews for Stepmom lead you to believe the film examines the dynamic relationship between a family, but Stepmom soon erupts into a schmaltzy, melodramatic, ultra-depressing vehicle for Roberts and Sarandon. If you like to cry, try this one. C+ (Stacey Shackford)

THE THIN RED LINE (dir Terrence Malick, with Sean Penn, Ben Chaplin, playing at Mountain Farms) An hour into the film, it becomes painfully obvious that director Malick hasn't made a movie in 20 years. The filmmaking is archaic, obtuse and virtually inaccessible. The story is segmented and disjointed to the point of being non-existent. One of the most impressive casts ever assembled is wasted, as Malick focuses on images instead of people. Thin, formless, forgetiable. D+ (A.M.)

■ value

continued from page 5

music, by simply maturing as a product of the 90's hyper-culture, hip-hop increasingly became a heaping side-dish in your in-take of popular media.

Now, in 1999, it has become the main course. Today kids can watch a full hour of "Dawson's Creek" and still have time to hit up the local mall to cop the latest FUBU jacket or DMX CD. And let's face it — although its authentic parameters have been long-established by blacks and Latinos, hip-hop has become an industrial megalith because of its support from white males.

Check the facts: Between Oct. 1, 1998 and Dec. 31, 1998, Jay Z's Hard Knock Life sold over three million copies, coast to coast. Master P's hand-built No Limit Records released seven albums, all of which sold over five-hundred thousand records (with the majority of sales coming from the Midwestern and southern regions alone.) In the same time span, The Source magazine outsold every other publication on the newsstands – including Entertainment Weekly, TIME and Rolling Stone.

More and more marketing and advertising has been geared around rap music audiences; from Sprite ads to Nike commercials, hip-hop is pulsating through the fabric of society in virtually every facet. (Even pre-schoolers can identify somebody like Mase, who, along with other rappers, appeared on the Rugrats movie soundtrack this past Christmas.)

With eye-popping record sales and staggering appeal that seems to increase by the day, rap music has edged its way to become one of the most dominant forms of American entertainment. But the quintessential question remains: has its quality and authenticity suffered from overexposure and industrial corruption?

Although this is a heated topic, consider all the variables and perspectives for discussion. Lauryn Hill has epitomized the successful crossover from a credible hip-hop persona to a re-defined pop-icon. Without compromising her musical integrity, she has earned mind-boggling acclaim while tallying ground-breaking record sales.

She has carried both rap music and popular culture through her diverse chambers of deep-rooted femininity and altruism. However, Lauryn's accomplishments are unique. Unfortunately, the harsh reality of making music for the masses corrupts musical integrity and standards of individuality. This is why The Miseducation of Lauryn Hill severs commercial sound barriers, and separates her, the pure musician, from the entertainer.

This concept is important because in today's mass-media infrastructure, hip-hop has become entertainment more than music (Toys 'R' Us now carries Master P action figures). Speaking of the No Limit CEO and former CBA star, Percy Miller has earned an elite spot in Forbes magazine's highest paid entertainers. He charts slightly ahead of James Cameron, the Academy Award-winning director of Titanic, only the most successful movie of all time.

P's album, Da Last Don, was among the best selling albums of 1998, with over four million copies sold. His record company is by far the world's No. 1 independent label and with its success, he has singlehandedly brought rap to its lofty status west of Pennsylvania. Even though No Limit's weekly, assembly-line products earn Miller nothing more than a fat wallet, critical praise is barely an afterthought for him. But is Master P compromising hip-hop culture to capitalize on its national appeal? Is Sean "Puffy" Combs? Mase? DMX? Even Jay Z, LL Cool J, Wu-Tang, Wyclef and ever other rap artist/group that sells thousands of records each day?

Many of these artists work on multiple levels as they attempt to tight rope the fine line between art and commerce. Some seek to sell records and write songs that are likely to catch fire in suburbia USA; others simply make music and are widely acclaimed for their work.

Consequently, the face of hip-hop is constantly interchangeable, but the core of its sound remains the same. Although popular entertainment has created a mainstream rap culture, various sub-cultures will continue to emerge, breathing fresh life into a thriving subterranean world. All in all, hip-hop as a secular entity has secured its pinnacle status in American society. Namsayin'?

David Katzoff is a Collegian columnist.

Reason №4 why you should take
HyperMCAT
4 Materials
1.5 full-length MCATs, hundreds more MCAT passages in workbooks, and over 4000 pages make up the most extensive set of MCAT preparation materials in existence.
800-2-REVIEW www.review.com
Courses held on the UMASS campus! Smith, Mt. Holyoke, and WNEC as well.
THE PRINCETON REVIEW

BUB'S BAR-B-Q
"Pig Out In Style"
VOTED BEST BARBQ AND BEST RIBS FOR THE PAST 14 CONSECUTIVE YEARS BY THE ADVOCATE - (413) 548-9630

GET IN SHAPE IN SHAPE NUTRITION
•Fat Burners •Creatine •Protein Powders
20%-50% Off Retail Prices Everyday
•Andro •Vitamins/Herbs •Food Bars and more...
65 University Dr. Amherst 549-7434

Do Your Math Homework FASTER & SMARTER!
With the ProSolv® Symbolic Calculator for Win 95/98, your study time will be more efficient and productive.
It shows all the steps in your problem.
*Special student price: $28
Now available at The University Store
(800) 755-2150 www.prosolv.com

Sidewalk SALE
(Indoors, of course)
Winter Shoes Clothing & Accessories
Wednesday January 27th thru Sunday January 31st
ZANNA
downtown Amherst

We Sell BEER & WINE on SUNDAYS
MONTAGUE MINI MART
Super Bowl Sunday Only
Open 12noon- 9pm
We accept Visa & Mastercard
367-9551
Sorry, no kegs or beer balls

1997 CASTAWAY LOUNGE 1998
Adult Entertainment proudly announces new hours
NOW OPEN ON MONDAYS AT 4PM
6 Beautiful Entertainers
TUESDAY - SATURDAY 12NOON - 1AM
46 Beautiful Entertainers
Coming on Mondays: AMATEUR NIGHT
1st Prize $200.00
2nd Prize $100.00
3rd Prize $50.00
Starts Monday, Feb. 15
Ladies must apply in person
1997 For BEAUTIFUL GIRLS that need money 1998
No experience? No transportation? We will provide everything
Call (413) 665-8733 Ask for Jim

EMERGENCY MEDICAL TRAINING
By Human Services Training Consultants, Inc.
Part Time Evening Classes start February 8, 1999
Call UMASS, Continuing Education at:
545-0474

New Years Resolution:
You've got to get away!
Cheap tickets Great advice Nice people
Boston/ Nairobi $955 r/t
Boston/ London $206 r/t
Boston/ San Jose, CR $452 r/t
Boston/ Tokyo $716 r/t
Council Travel
Council on International Educational Exchange
44 Main Street
Amherst, MA 01002
Phone: 413-256-1261

WITH EVERYTHING THIS BANK ACCOUNT HAS TO OFFER, WE COULDN'T MAKE YOUR LIFE ANY EASIER.
UNLESS, OF COURSE, WE PAID FOR YOUR TUITION.
Only the Student Value Package gives you so much for so little
BankBoston
Get Free SUBWAY® Sandwiches
1. Valid school ID or acceptance letter required. To qualify for X-Press Check and Reserve Credit you must be at least 18 years of age and have no adverse credit history. 2. If you make withdrawals, deposits, transfers, and balance inquiries electronically by phone, ATM, or computer only, the monthly fee is discounted to $1. The normal monthly Student Value Package fee is $6. 3. Purchase a six-inch Subway® Sandwich and a 21-ounce soft drink and get a second six-inch Subway® Sandwich and 21-ounce soft drink of equal or lesser price free upon presentation of a Student Value Package coupon. Offer expires May 31, 1999. Offer available at participating Subway® locations and may not be combined with any other offer. One coupon per person per visit. Subway is a registered trademark of Doctors Associates Inc. 4. Online Banking with BankBoston HomeLink® is free (e.g., transferring funds, checking balances). There is a $5.50 monthly fee for Online Bill Payment with HomeLink.
Member FDIC

■ Hill

continued from page 5

and popular hip-hop, which is dependent on things like MTV and radio stations and is available to pretty much everyone.

In the 1990s, at the risk of wildly oversimplifying, popular hip-hop has calcified into two camps: gangsta and party. Gangsta, led by artists like Dr. Dre and Wu-Tang Clan, is generally sonically dark and lyrically harsh, descending into the dark heart of cities and painting sharp, unforgiving portraits of the life there. On the other side of the coin, party hip-hop focuses more on noise and dance than any explicit message, exemplified by the stuff all over hip-pop radio these days, Timbaland, Missy and Puffy.

It's not to say that gangsta rap and party rap can't be good or innovative music, clearly they can. But without the dynamic combination of social vision, lyrical invention and sonic unpredictability that characterizes the best hip-hop, the genre as a whole loses steam, force and danger.

Gangsta rap can get cliched and short-sighted, wasting energy and venom, like a snake swallowing its own tail. Party rap gets the crowd jumping for a few years, but then it floats away. Obviously there are exceptions, but with the loss of genre-busters 2Pac and Biggie Smalls and the absence of Public Enemy from the radio, it seemed like 1998 would be the same old thing for popular hip-hop.

Instead, 1998 yielded not one, but two mainstream breakthroughs that changed the rules of popular hip-hop through the integration of soul elements and unique social viewpoints: Lauryn Hill's much lauded The Miseducation of Lauryn Hill and Outkast's Aquemini.

It's not surprising that Hill's solo album did so well commercially, considering the tremendous success of The Fugees. What is surprising is the way critics fawned over her like she was the second coming of Aretha Franklin. With all that praise, its hard to say that the album isn't at least slightly overrated; some of the production is overly busy and not every song hits, but there are still an overflow of great moments.

From the lovely toss-off cover of "Can't Take My Eyes Off of You" to the albums best track, the lurching "Lost Ones," Lauryn proves that she can sing, rap and also bring everything together on the technical side, quite an achievement. Whether you think her attitude gets a little preachy on songs like "Doo-Wop (That Thing)" or not, it must be acknowledged that she has presence and something to say. Anyway you slice it, it sounds great coming out of the car stereo.

The real hip-hop/soul masterpiece of 1998 was Aquemini, the third album from Atlanta duo Andre Benjamin and Antoine "Big Boi" Patton, better known as Outkast. They are best known for the recent single "Rosa Parks," one of the best singles to come out in years in any genre. Its a sweet, bouncing little song that ties in imagery from the civil rights movement and provides a good introduction to the treasures of the album.

Aquemini sounds like nothing else, blending a loose rapping style with limitlessly creative production that is given space to breathe by the duo's willingness to stretch songs out to six and even eight minutes. The songs are filled with a goofy sense of humor and a collective verbal imagination that skillfully weaves in fantastic and surreal imagery that carries great metaphorical weight, such as the way they use aliens to talk about race relations.

The aliens, and the "outcasts," are people not accepted by mainstream America. Outkast means to give them a voice. The key to the genius of the album is the way it deals with real issues, detailing the conflicts and joys of life in Atlanta, but also retains an ecstatic, unbound sense of sound. Not only do they talk about the social problems of real life, but they use their imaginations and their giant grab-bag of American music to see beyond it and to offer hope for reorganizing it.

Whether it is universal that Lauryn Hill and Outkast are the "best" popular hip-hop artists out there is a very debatable question. What is undeniably heartening is that, with the rising popularity of these two artists, the popular hip-hop "canon" is instantly deepened. It shouldn't be possible for anyone to conceptualize hip-hop as guns, money and dancing alone and, with these two artists on the radio, it's not.

Hip-hop is men and women standing up and saying something about their world, and the best hip-hop, like the best music, does more than just state a world view. It dreams a way forward.

Lauryn Hill: B+ Outkast: A

Rob Roensch is a Collegian staff member.

its coming dailycollegian.com dailycollegian.com dailycollegian.com daily colegian.comdailycollegian.com dailycollegian.com daily colegian.com dailycollegian.com daily colegian.comdailycollegian.com dailycollegian.com dailycollegian.com daily colegian.com its coming

TAIZÉ
Sunday mornings, 11am at the Ark
Episcopal Chaplaincy at UMass
PRAYER • CHANT • SILENCE
Episcopal Chaplaincy at UMass
758 North Pleasant Street
(2 doors north of Lederle Tower)
549-5929

Valentine's Day
It's right around the corner, and we've got the gifts that could save your life!
Shopping.com
500 Minute Pre-Paid Phone Cards $59.99
11.9¢ per Minute
All Bestsellers 30% Off List Price...
We also carry VIDEOTAPES at Incredibly Low Prices!
All Billboard Top 40 CDs only $8.99 each... EVERY DAY!

Write for arts
The Fine Arts Center Series February Events
A Royal Treasure
CANADA'S ROYAL WINNIPEG BALLET
IN AN ALL-TCHAIKOVSKY EVENING
North America's oldest ballet company—and one of its best—presents an enchanting evening of dance accompanied by a full orchestra. The program features Allegro Brillante, Tchaikovsky Pas de Deux, and Serenade, all choreographed by George Ballanchine, and Act II of Swan Lake
"Their dancing brims with clarity, precision and spare."
— Jennifer Dunning, The New York Times
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, CONCERT HALL, 8PM
Presented with the generous support of Hudson Mall at Belchtown and the Valley Advocate
The Bat Takes Flight
LONDON CITY OPERA IN DIE FLEDERMAUS
BY JOHANN STRAUSS
World-class voices, a full orchestra, sparkling Viennese settings, and the Waltz King's delightful music make for an astonishing night at the Fine Arts Center. In this beautifully staged and costumed production, a celebrated U.K. company soars in one of the world's best loved operettas.
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 9 CONCERT HALL, 8PM
Presented with the generous support of WGBY TV57
Klezmer for the New Millenium
The Fine Arts Center and WFCR's Jazz a la Mode present
Kol Simcha
Europe's Klezmer Band
Fresh from Carnegie Hall, this engaging quintet bridges traditional Yiddish folk music and their oughly modern influences that range from American jazz to Middle Eastern rhythms. Expertly blending old styles and new, Kol Simcha ("Voice of Joy" in Hebrew) is unique musical alchemy you won't want to miss
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, BOWKER AUDITORIUM, 8PM
A Breed Apart
AWADAGIN PRATT PIANIST
Awadagin Pratt's brilliant, unconventional approach to the classics makes every concert a transcendent experience. His program will include Bach, Brahms, and Pictures from an Exhibition by Mussorgsky
"Pratt's performance is sublime." — The Pittsburgh Tribune-Review
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, BOWKER AUDITORIUM, 8PM
WE'RE LOBBYING FOR THE FUTURE! While our new lobby is under construction, please enter the Concert Hall via alternate entrances. On-site signage and guides will show you the way.
The Fine Arts Center University of Massachusetts Amherst
Call 545-2511 or 1-800-999-UMAS for tickets
TICKETS ONLY $5 $7 $9 FOR FIVE COLLEGE STUDENTS

AEROBICS
• Area's Largest Room
• Certified Instructors
• Classes Daily
• Shock-absorbing Floor
• Walk-Ins Welcome
STEP
LOW IMPACT
YOGA
CARDIO KICK BOXING
HI/LOW
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0098 SO. AMHERST

New Years Resolution:
You've got to get away!
Cheap tickets Great advice Nice people
Boston/ Nairobi $955 r/t
Boston/ London $206 r/t
Boston/ San Jose, CR $452 r/t
Boston/ Tokyo $716 r/t
Council Travel
Council on International Educational Exchange
44 Main Street
Amherst, MA 01002
Phone: 413-256-1261

WITH EVERYTHING THIS BANK ACCOUNT HAS TO OFFER, WE COULDN'T MAKE YOUR LIFE ANY EASIER.
UNLESS, OF COURSE, WE PAID FOR YOUR TUITION.
Only the Student Value Package gives you so much for so little
BankBoston
Get Free SUBWAY® Sandwiches
1. Valid school ID or acceptance letter required. To qualify for X-Press Check and Reserve Credit you must be at least 18 years of age and have no adverse credit history. 2. If you make withdrawals, deposits, transfers, and balance inquiries electronically by phone, ATM, or computer only, the monthly fee is discounted to $1. The normal monthly Student Value Package fee is $6. 3. Purchase a six-inch Subway® Sandwich and a 21-ounce soft drink and get a second six-inch Subway® Sandwich and 21-ounce soft drink of equal or lesser price free upon presentation of a Student Value Package coupon. Offer expires May 31, 1999. Offer available at participating Subway® locations and may not be combined with any other offer. One coupon per person per visit. Subway is a registered trademark of Doctors Associates Inc. 4. Online Banking with BankBoston HomeLink® is free (e.g., transferring funds, checking balances). There is a $5.50 monthly fee for Online Bill Payment with HomeLink.
Member FDIC

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Do a little dance, make a little glove

Minuteman goaltender Markus Helanen will be tested once again when Boston College visits Amherst tomorrow. Helanen has played well despite a struggling defense.

This Super Bowl a shot at vindication

By Barry Wilner
Associated Press

MIAMI — For more than three decades, Super Bowl Sunday meant little to the Atlanta Falcons. It was a day to spend almost anywhere but in front of a television set, watching two other teams vie for the NFL title.

For more than two decades, Super Bowl Sunday was downright painful for the Denver Broncos. It was a day for fans to stay away from their TV sets to avoid the carnage.

When they meet at Pro Player Stadium on Sunday, both teams might spend a moment reflecting on just how far they've come in the past year.

For the Broncos, their sixth Super Bowl is entirely unlike all the others. They've come here as champions, carrying a self-confidence and, yes, a swagger that they gained by finally winning the big game.

They're even keeping a light-hearted atmosphere at practices. Yesterday, a light plane trailing a message of "Broncos' Keith Burns at Beachplace Today 7-10 p.m." drew some good-natured razzing from his teammates, who yelled, 'You Da Man."

The Falcons, never before a championship factor, finished 7-9 in 1997. Yet now they've come to Miami with the highest of expectations, a slight sense of awe mixed in with a heavy dose of innocence, and the recognition of how different things are this January.

While both are playing for the same reward, they are approaching the chance to be atop their profession from entirely different perspectives.

Happily for Denver, that means not having to answer all those "Why did you lose?" questions.

"It's a lot more pleasant, the fact you're not talking about past Super Bowl failures all the time," John Elway said, "It's a heck of a lot more positive. From 1988 until last year, I answered the question whether my career would be complete without a Super Bowl victory. I haven't had to answer that question since."

Now the questions are about repeats and dynasties. The Broncos are so self-assured that they have no problem dealing with those topics. In the past, they merely hoped they could win a Super Bowl. Now, they know they can.

"Whenever you get into a game of this magnitude and lose four in a row, it definitely takes some wind out of your sails," said Mike Lodish, who went through his own personal Super Bowl trauma (0-4) with Buffalo before joining Denver and getting that first title 12 months ago. He wasn't even in the league when the Broncos lost their fourth Super Bowl in as many tries in 1990.

"To win it is something you can't measure, the feeling you get is so great."

That feeling has bred a boldness and created a confidence in the Broncos that is immediately noticeable. Where previous AFC champs from Denver seemed to fear what might happen in the Super Bowl, these guys can't wait to prove their mettle once more.

"Last year, we had all the questions about never having won a Super Bowl," placekicker Jason Elam said. "We were big underdogs to the Packers and no one gave us a chance against them. I think there was more pressure on us in that game.

"This season, we came in expecting to go back. We're playing with a lot of confidence, but at the same time, we're not complacent. We're not taking the Falcons for granted."

But just about everyone else took them for granted for nearly as long as the Super Bowl has existed.

It has been clear all week that the Falcons — with the rare exceptions of Cornelius Bennett, Eugene Robinson and coach Dan Reeves — feel privileged to be here. They might not be in over their heads, but they aren't exactly old hands at this Super Bowl stuff, either.

"I've been through 12 hard years of blood, sweat and tears," Jessie Tuggle said, "and to finally get here, how much sweeter can it be than that? I wanted to be a part of the solution for the Atlanta Falcons after so many years of losing. It's a long time coming for me, us, the organization and the whole city. Nobody at the beginning of the season thought the Atlanta Falcons would be here in Super Bowl 33."

Reason №4 why you should take
HyperMCAT
4 Materials
15 full-length MCATs, hundreds more MCAT passages in workbooks, and over 4000 pages make up the most extensive set of MCAT preparation materials in existence.
800-2-REVIEW www.review.com
Courses held on the UMASS campus!
Smith Mt Holyoke and WNEC as well
THE PRINCETON REVIEW

AEROBICS
• Area's Largest Room
• Certified Instructors
• Classes Daily
• Shock-absorbing Floor
• Walk-ins Welcome
STEP
LOW IMPACT
YOGA
CARDIO KICK BOXING
HI/LOW
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-2000 SO. AMHERST

The winning touchdown. The post-game celebration. The national championship. Be there. Only closer. Write for sports.

STRENGTH • FLEXIBILITY • COORDINATION
CARDIO KICK BOXING
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB • 256-0080
Mon @ 5:30
Thurs. @ 4:45
Fri. @ 4:15
Sat @ 2:00
www.amherstathletic.com

TOTAL FITNESS
Without Waiting In Line
$139 4 months
STUDENT SPECIAL
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
Rte. 116
So. Amherst • 256-0080

WELCOME BACK FRIENDS!
PRUDDY'S is OPEN TILL 3:00 AM
21 b.y.o.b. 18 to party
THURSDAY Friday Saturday
DANCE MUSIC & FRIENDS

GET READY TO ROOT FOR THE BAD GUY.
MEL GIBSON
PAYBACK
PARAMOUNT PICTURES PRESENTS AN ICON PRODUCTION MEL GIBSON "PAYBACK" GREGG HENRY
MARIA BELLO DAVID PAYMER CHRIS BOARDMAN STEPHEN McEVEETY RICHARD STARK
BRIAN HELGELAND AND TERRY HAYES BRUCE DAVEY BRIAN HELGELAND
www.paybackmovie.com ORIGINAL SOUNDTRACK ON VARESE SARABANDE CDs READ THE MYSTERIOUS PRESS NOVEL THEATRES EVERYWHERE THIS FEBRUARY

On Sale Now!
alanis morissette
FEB 11
junkie tour 1999
with special guest
liz phair
TIX AT THE MULLINS CENTER BOX OFFICE. THRU OUTLETS INCLUDING MOVIES & MORE • MAIN MUSIC SHOP) & CHARGE-BY-PHONE: (413) 733-2500 (860) 525-4500.
New CD Supposed Former Infatuation Junkie in stores now Produced By Metropolitan Entertainment Group

■ Tulane

continued from page 16

should have played UMass in the I-AA National Championship game. Every team should receive the respect if they play Division I competition.

Another team with the fate of the Green Wave is the Marshall Thundering Herd. Marshall was a contender for the national championship every year in Division I-AA, but it has gone an impressive 20-4 in their first two seasons as a Division I-A team. Even if they had gone undefeated this season, chances are, they wouldn't have been playing for the national championship.

So what is the answer to this problem? Simple: organize the bowls into a playoff system. Why can't Division I-A do it? The players in Division I-AA, II and III have an opportunity to win in the tournament. Remember, the Minutemen were ranked No. 11 heading into the playoffs, but finished as national champs.

The college regular season is usually done by the last Saturday in November. On the first Saturday in December there would be eight bowl games, and it would also serve as the Sweet Sixteen. Those bowls would consist of the eight weakest bowls, like maybe the Aloha, Liberty and Independence Bowls.

In the second week there would be four bowls, the Sugar, Cotton, Outback and Peach Bowls, which can serve as the quarterfinals.

During the third week you could have the Orange and Rose Bowls as the semifinals, and on Jan. 2 they could play the Fiesta Bowl as the national championship.

Simply stated, who knew what Tulane was capable of doing? Realistically, it probably wouldn't have won it all, but if it knocked off BYU, who's next, a Big 12 team? You never know. If the BCS is going to take it away, why not let the team lose it on the field.

Who wants to continue watching teams celebrate a national championship, while other undefeateds sit there and watch a team who hasn't beaten them celebrate.

Bowl playoff system. It's just an idea, but why not 12-0 Tulane?

Paul Teves is a Collegian columnist.

Sprewell a hit in N.Y.

By Chris Sheridan
Associated Press

NEW YORK — The greeting for Spree was one of unabashed glee.

Latrell Sprewell received a roar of approval in pregame introductions at Madison Square Garden last night as he prepared to play his first game in almost 14 months.

If the fans haven't forgiven him for his attack on Golden State coach P.J. Carlesimo, they didn't show it.

Sprewell, introduced fourth among the Knicks' five starters, received the warmest response of them all.

In fact, there were more boos for Patrick Ewing, the president of the players' union, than there were for the league's so-called poster child for bad behavior.

"I think I'll be fine regardless of what the response is," Sprewell said yesterday morning at the Knicks' shootaround. "I'm going to go out to compete and play and have fun.

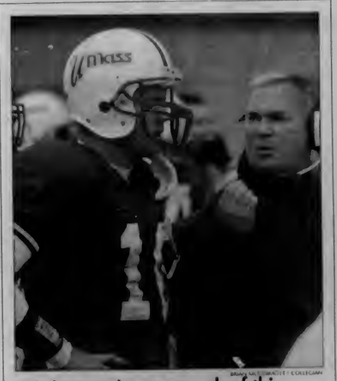
"Whatever the response is, I'm not going to worry too much about it. If it's good, I'm happy with that. If it's bad, I'm going to try to change that by working hard. But I can't let it affect the way I play on the floor."

Sprewell was on the court practicing more than two hours before the game, his hair tied in cornrows and flapping in the breeze whenever he ran.

Sprewell said he was operating at about 80-85 percent of peak efficiency, although the range on his jumper, he said, was not much better than college three-point range.

After failing to even touch the ball in the first three minutes of the game, there was no way Sprewell could have ignored the noise the first time the ball came his way.

On his first touch, the crowd roared as he went one-on-one against Kendall Gill and drew a foul. His first shot came some 30 seconds later, a clean jumper from 17 feet that hit nothing but net.



Again, the decibel level of the crowd's approval was somewhat stunning.

■ track

continued from page 13

ly good performance, tying the school record in the high jump. Carole LaPlante qualified for the New Englands in the shot put.

This Saturday, the Minutewomen will travel to Boston to compete in the Terrier Classic, hosted by Boston University.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

We just can't get enough of this

One more look at the miracle worker, Mark Whipple, and his quarterback, Todd Bankhead, during their national championship football season.

COLLEGIAN Sports

NEW AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO-KICKBOXING • YOGA
• Classes Daily
• Certified Instructors
• Suspended Wood Floor
• Area's Largest Room
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst. 256-0080

STRENGTH • FLEXIBILITY • COORDINATION
CARDIO KICK BOXING
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB • 256-0080
Mon @ 5:30
Thurs. @ 4:45
Fri @ 4:15
Sat @ 2:00
www.amherstathletic.com

SUPER SAVINGS FOR THE SUPERBOWL WEEKEND!
LIQUORS 44
Don't Drink and Drive
Everyday Pricing
1/2 KEGS NATURAL LIGHT & ICE $34.99 + DEP
1/2 KEGS ICEHOUSE, RED DOG, ROLLING ROCK $36.99 + DEP
1/2 KEGS BUD, BUD LT., BUD ICE $40.99 + DEP
Coors & Coors Light CASE OF 30-12 OZ. CANS $15.99 + DEP
BUSCH & BUSCH LIGHT CASE OF 30-12 OZ. CANS $11.49 + DEP
MOLSON GOLDEN • ICE • LIGHT 2-12 PK. BOTTLES $14.49 + DEP
SAM ADAMS ALE • LAGER • WINTER LAGER 12 PK. BOTTLE $9.49 + DEP
Budweiser. & Bud Light CASE 24-16 OZ. BOTTLES $15.99 + DEP
J.W. DUNDEE HONEY BROWN LAGER 12 PK. BOTTLES $6.99 + DEP
CAMAMOUNT 6 PK. BOTTLES $4.99 + DEP
FRANZIA 5 LT BAG-IN-A-BOX CHABLIS, BLUSH, RHINE, CHEN BLANC, WHITE GRENACHE PTI. COLOMBARD, WESTFIELD RED, CHILLABLE RED $6.99
CITRA WINES ALL FLAVORS 1.5L $5.99
SUTTER HOME CHARDONNAY, MERLOT, CABERNET SAUVIGNON 1.5L $8.99
BLACKSTONE MERLOT 750 ML. $8.99
CORBETT CANYON WHITE ZINFANDEL 1.5L $4.99
GEORGES DUBOEUF BEAUJOLAIS - VILLAGES 750 ML. $5.49
JACK DANIELS COUNTRY COCKTAILS 4 PK. $3.69
SMIRNOFF VODKA 1.75L $15.49
Captain Morgan SPICED RUM 1.75L $18.49
POLAND SPRINGS GIN 1.75L $9.99
JOSE CUERVO GOLD TEQUILA 750 ML. $10.99
CANADIAN MIST 1.75L $12.99
INVERHOUSE SCOTCH 1.75L SALE $12.99 MAIL-IN REBATE -3.00 FINAL COST $9.99
POLAND SPRINGS VODKA 1.75L $8.99
Discounts Available on Cases of Wine & Liquor. Ask For Details.
AT THE STOP & SHOP PLAZA
HADLEY 253-9344
NORTHAMPTON 586-3007
HOLYOKE 534-4555
SALE PRICES THURS. 1/28/99 THRU WEDS. 2/3/99
NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

MEN'S FOOTBALL DIVISION 1-AA
THESE, AND HUNDREDS OF OTHER ITEMS ARE AVAILABLE AT THE UNIVERSITY STORE, WHERE COLLEGIATE CASUALS CARRIES THE WORLD'S LARGEST SELECTION OF UMASS CLOTHING!
new niversity.
Not like a mall... Better.
Collegiate Casuals
M-F 9 to 5
Sat. 11 to 4
(413) 545 - 2619

Applications are Available!
for Affordable Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program to open January 25th
university of massachusetts child care at 63 amherst
University Child Care will open a Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program in Room 4, Skinner Hall on January 25, 1999!
Pick Up an Application Packet at:
University Child Care Office - 112 Berkshire House
GEO Office - 201 Student Union
GSS Office - 919 Campus Center
Dean of Student Office - 227 Whitmore
Commuter Service & Housing Resource Center - 428 Student Union
Or call UCC at (413) 545-1566 and an application will be mailed to you.
Enrollment priority will be given to undergraduate and graduate student families based on financial need. Second enrollment priority is given to University employee families based on financial need. Tuition costs fall on a sliding fee scale, based on family size and household income. A family earning under $14,500 will receive fully subsidized tuition.
Apply Today!

HAVE FUN
and learn something, too
Performing Arts Division (PAD)
the community's music school
Music, Theater, and Dance Instruction for students of all ages and levels of ability acting, ballet, Irish Step dancing, belly dancing, modern/jazz dance, tap, voice, vocal improv, rock and roll choir, bagpipe, drumming, piano, chamber music, guitar, blues jam, sight reading, composition, clowning
featuring faculty from the Five Colleges and area professionals
credit option available; classes start the week of February 8
for more information, call 545-0519 or e-mail ttarr@admin.umass.edu
Lifelong Learning Workshops
Expand your skills, advance your career, improve your personal life, learn something new flexible formats, short time commitment, and low cost
art and photography, astrology, business and financial planning, career and personal development, computers, dance, English as a Second Language, family and life skills, food and drink, health and fitness, home and garden, languages, music, personal awareness, religion and spirituality, study skills and test taking, writing, literature, and drama, cultural trips and tours.
workshops start the week of February 8
for more information, call 545-0474 or e-mail sfaili@admin.umass.edu UMASS Division of Continuing Education University of Massachusetts Amherst excellence within your reach

Collegian Classifieds

113 Campus Center University of Massachusetts • Phone: (413)545-3500 Fax: (413)545-1592

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Fraternities/Sororities: Looking for a DJ for your next function? DJ Fooz is now booking, specializing in date parties and formals. Call Tim 549-9127

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Lantern Court (Sunderland)- 2 bedroom. Close to bus stop. $550. Call 665-6705.

AUTO FOR SALE

90 Honda Accord Excellent interior, new brakes + exhaust one owner 157,000 miles. $3000 or B/O 413-552-0806

88 Ford Festiva Runs well 96kn $1000 665-8076 or 5-5547

1988 Ford Festiva High miles well maintained current sticker $500 256-6087

Pontiac Bonneville. 90 4DR 98Kmiles single owner. Retail book 4350 asking 4000. Best offer 549-0844

WANTED: Toyotas, Novas, Prizms, Sentras. Any condition. Cash paid everyday. 1-800-649-4795.

COMPUTERS

Mac Powerbook 520 modem ethernet software installed. Perfect for papers and emailing $600.00 NEG. 546-4517520/HR PT/FT!!!

EMPLOYMENT

Process Our CompanyMail or Email From Home or School For Details: Email: Apply4now@smart-bot.net 770-937-6764

Jobs At The UMass Annual Fund. Flexible evening hours earn $5.50/hour plus fantastic bonuses gain computer and communications skills come to the basement of Memorial Hall and apply today students only 545-3509

EMPLOYMENT

Grill Cook Breakfast Experience Part Time day hours including weekends Apply 7am-3pm Nancy Janes 36 Main St. Amherst

General Labor $7.50 Amherst location needs your help all winter shoveling snow & sanding walk ways. Only available for work one or two days a week? This is the perfect job for you. Call United Personnel Services today to learn more about how snow+work=$$ 800-363-8200

Part Time non-smoking, unscented person wanted for housework, errands and dog walking $8.65 323-5088

EXCEPTIONAL SUMMER OPPORTUNITY—Camp Wayne, NE PA (3 hrs/NYC)—Soprts oriented. Counselor/Specialists for all Land/Water Sports: Golf, Tennis, Outdoor Adventure, Mtn. Biking, Rocketry, Sailing/Waterskiing, A&C, Drama, Radio, Video. Campus interviews. Please call 1-888-549-2963 or wayneboys@aol.com

More Than Just SUMMER EMPLOYMENT. Camp counselors needed for a private, residential camp in the beautiful Pocono Mountains. We are looking for people with a dedication to children, enthusiasm for diversity, and a desire to share their passion and expertise in any one of the following areas: COMPUTERS, CIRCUS ARTS, BASKETBALL, MAGIC, VOLLEYBALL, TENNIS, DANCE, VIDEO, CREATIVE WRITING, ESL, SOCCER,COOKING, RADIO, ROCK, ROBOTICS, GOLF, SKATEBOARDING, ROLLERBLADING, ROCKETRY, NEWSPAPER, FINE ARTS, CREATIVE CRAFTS, MOUNTAIN BIKING, CLIMBING WALL. Call 1-800-399-CAMP Ask for Dan or Nigel

EMPLOYMENT

Free Radio + $1250! Fundraiser open to student groups & organizations. Earn $3-$5 per Visa/ MC app. We supply all materials at no cost. Call for info or visit our website. Qualified callers receive a FREE Baby Boom Box. 1-800-932-0528 x 65. www.ocmconcepts.com

Fraternities-Sororities-Clubs-Student Groups Earn $1,000-$2,00 this semester with the easy CIS three hour fundraising event. No sales required. Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so call today! Contact Dan Wolman at CIS, (800) 922-5579

Childcare needed 4 hours a week 665-7483

On Campus Spokes Person Positions Available CIS is currently hiring motivated outgoing college students for spokes person positions $10.00-$15.00 an hour 10 hours a week on campus call Jodi Grant 800-567-6247

Public Relations Jobs Applications are now available at the University Admissions Center for tour guides,student admissions reps, and summer counselors. Deadline is Feb.5,1999

Work Study Experienced Childcare Persons needed Monday nights 4:30 or 5:30 until 8:00. $7.00 per hour. Apply at Commuter Services, 428 Student Union, 545-0865

Whitewater guides and kayak/raft Photographers wanted for part,full time summer jobs outdoor and athletic background a must will train for both positions. photography position requires some experience. Call Crab Apple Whitewater for info 413-339-0188

EMPLOYMENT

Counter Help + Drivers Wanted Must be able to work 20 hrs a week. Apply at DP Dough

ENTERTAINMENT

DJ For Hire Dj Fooz is now booking for Spring Semester. Call Tim 549-9127

FOR RENT

Rental Problems? Questions about your lease/security deposit deductions? Questions about subletting/assigning leases? Questions about the condition of your new house or apartment? Contact the Student Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995

FOR SALE

Giant Mountain Bike. Bar ends, lock. Like new. $120. Call 546-1773

HOUSE FOR RENT

Summer Rentals Cape Cod Group Summer Rentals. Some waterfront houses, some with swimming pools. Falmouth area. Call Diamond Real Estate 1-508-477-1900.

INSTRUCTION

CARDIO KICKBOXING Amherst Athletic Club. Train with the pros! 256-0080.

Boxing Lessons with retired pro. Djata Bumpus $160.00 for 8 private sessions Call 413-732-8817 for Apt.

ROOM FOR RENT

5 Deerfield Country setting quiet + private. 10 miles form Amherst. 1 large furnished bedroom suite with private bath + study phone/tv/cable optional $475.00 1 furnished bedroom $350.00 mature female grad students, share with single female, non-smoking 413-665-8318

ROOM FOR RENT

Take Over My Lease! Jan-July '98. Moving to California in two weeks & need to find someone. 1 bedroom in 2 bedroom apt. Furnished, spacious, & clean. $345, all inclusive + electric= @$15 per month. Awesome place, awesome roommate staying. Bus drops you off four doors from your own. Call Lori or Daniel @ 665-4149 till 11:30 at night.

One nice room available in a four bedroom Alpine Commons apartment. Move in Jan 1 or possibly earlier. Two full bathrooms. On bus line. Great roommates! Apartment is fully furnished with the exception of the bedroom. $314.50/month. ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED! Please call Jenny at 253-2050 ASAP.

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom. Brandywine. For Spring/late December. Call Jeremy 549-6955.

ROOM WANTED

Want to Move, but need replacement? Willing to swap room in apt for similar Kevin 256-5961

TRAVEL

Spring Break: hundreds of student reviews, rankings, articles, and discussions: the unrivaled guide on where to go by people who went. http://www.studentadvantage.com/spring-break

Classifieds Now Available

Visit the Collegian and place one TODAY

Five College Community Calendar

THURSDAY, JAN. 28

Meeting — The Cannabis Reform Coalition will be holding a meeting at 7 p.m. in Earthfoods for volunteers wishing to work on the marijuana legislation ballot question.

Production — The Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance production of Party Booby Trap will be held weekdays from 1-4:30 p.m. Call 542-2277 for reservations.

FRIDAY, JAN. 29

Comedy — The UMass Something Every Friday Program presents stand-up comedian Johnny Lampert in the Bluewall Cafe at 8 p.m. The film "Ronin" will follow the performance.

Comedy — Stand-up comedian Norman B. will perform his stand-up routine entitled "Deviations From the Norm" at 8:30 p.m. in the Java Hut in Sunderland.

Production — The Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance production of "Party Booby Trap" will be held weekdays from 1-4:30 p.m. Call 542-2277 for reservations.

Speech — Ken Howard, notable stage, film and television actor, will give a speech on acting in the Experimental Theater at 3 p.m.

NOTICES

Abstracts — Present your community service, thesis research, creative work, independent study or study abroad at the state-wide conference on Undergraduate Research, Scholarly, Creative and Public Service Activities. Applications can be picked up at 504 Goodell by March 1.

Community — A limited number of residence hall rooms will be available for the relatives and friends of graduating UMass students for the night of Saturday, May 22. Commencement housing applications are available at the University Conference Services Offices, 918 Campus Center. To guarantee a reservation, completed forms with full payment must be returned to University Conference Services by May 7. There will be no on-site registrations.

Submissions — Submissions are being accepted for the Spectrum Literary Magazine. The deadline is Feb. 12. Also searching for the 1998-99 cover contest winner. Deadline is the end of December. Call 5-4220 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed to train and facilitate workshops on contraception and sexually transmitted disease prevention during spring semester 1999. Men and women needed. Contact Karen or Day at 577-5188 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed for the Massachusetts Substance Abuse Information and Education HELPLINE. For more information call (617) 536-0501 ext. 201 for more details.

FYIs are public service announcements printed daily. To submit an FYI, please send a press release containing all pertinent information, including the name and phone number of the contact person to the Collegian, c/o the Managing Editor by noon the previous day.

SPECIAL HOURS! Tues., Weds., Thurs. - This Week Only! 8:30am to 7pm!

Just another way that WE GIVE 100% We give all of our profits to support University Programs

New Ustore Not like a mall... Better.

HSCN Housing Services Cable Network

2	HSCN Bulletin Board	16	The Learning Channel
3	CBS/3 Hartford	18	UVC-TV19
4	CBS/4 Boston	20	ABC/40 Springfield
5	ABC/5 Boston	21	Gavel to Gavel
6	PBS/57 Springfield	22	NBC/22 Springfield
7	HSCN Movie Ch.	23	Syndance
8	UPN-/20 Hartford	24	Bloomberg Financial
9	Weather Channel	25	CTN
10	NBC/30 New Britain	27	TBS
11	Fox/61 Hartford	28	BET
12	PBS/24 Hartford	29	TV Land
13	WOCH & HSCN	30	Univision
14	International	31	Comedy Central
15	UMass Academic TV	32	Cartoon
16	WB/ New Haven	33	Much Music
17	HSCN Programming

Sorry, There are no TV listings for today.

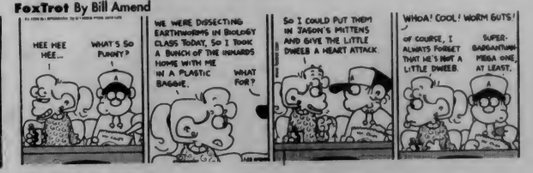
Rose is Rose By Pat Brady

Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Robotman By Jim Meddick

Non Sequitor By Wiley

Non-Cents By John Zaccone Jr.



Robotman By Jim Meddick

Dilbert By Scott Adams

FoxTrot By Bill Amend

Dilbert By Scott Adams

HEY, VAN GOGH!

QUIT YOUR CRYING OVER THE FACT THAT CATHY ISN'T ON THE COMICS PAGE ANYMORE. DRAW YOUR OWN REPETITIVE, UNFUNNY COMIC! OR EVEN BETTER, DRAW A FUNNY ORIGINAL ONE!

SUBMISSIONS CAN BE DROPPED OUT AT THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE, 113 CAMPUS CENTER BASEMENT. GIVE THEM TO MIKE MESSAROS. HE LOVES COMICS!

— COMICS MUST BE DRAWN IN BLACK INK, IN DIMENSIONS OF 2" BY 6 1/4"

— THE COLLEGIAN RESERVES THE RIGHT TO NOT PUBLISH ANY COMIC DEEMED RACIST, SEXIST, HOMOPHOBIC OR ANTI-SEMETIC.

FOR THE FULL COLLEGIAN GUIDELINES REGARDING COMICS, JUST ASK DOWN AT OUR OFFICE!

Horoscopes

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) — It's a good idea to relive something that has inspired you in the past. Don't forget all the good things that have been a part of who you are.

PISCES (Feb. 19–March 20) — Take the time today to figure certain things out before jumping into situations with complete abandon. Success right now is a combination of intellect and instinct.

ARIES (March 21–April 19) — You'll find yourself wishing you were in someone else's shoes before the day is out. If you play you cards right, you can enjoy a new success.

TAURUS (April 20–May 20) — The truth is the best thing for you at this time. Rely on it exclusively in times of doubt, and you'll come through with flying colors.

GEMINI (May 21–June 20) — You mustn't pretend to be something you're not today. Someone will discover that you're engaged in some kind of deception. Stick to the facts.

CANCER (June 21–July 22) — Once again you will enjoy the notion that life is a gift, and today you can prove that it's possible for anyone to play whatever hand is dealt.

LEO (July 23–Aug. 22) — Take care that you don't congratulate yourself for something well done before it is truly complete. Don't assume the outcome will be favorable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) — You'll spend a great deal of time trying to figure something out in your head today, but you must really try to judge it with your heart.

LIBRA (Sept. 23–Oct. 22) — It's a good day to let go and see where your instincts take you. Someone may try to hold you back, but your natural skills will see you through.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23–Nov. 21) — Something that is well– done is worth doing again and again! There's no reason to move on to something else before you're ready.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) — You may find yourself wishing you were in someone else's shoes as the day wears on, but an encounter after dark will make you forget all that.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) — Someone may try to "lay down the law" for you today, but something you're recently experienced will have you yearning for something "dangerous."

Quote of the Day

"It is only with the heart that one can see rightly; what is essential is invisible to the eye."

-Antoine de Saint-Exupery, "The Little Prince"

Close to Home By John McPherson

"Oh gosh, ma'am, I'm sorry! I forgot to take the little magnetic security thing off your CD!"

Today's D.C. Menu

Call 545-3626 for more information.

Casey "Ill lighting" Kane

Magnum McDiesel

Ken "speedy" McDonald

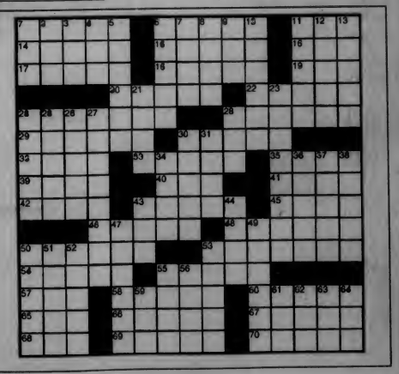
Joe "don't ask" Savitch

Lisa "no way" Metcalf

Dave "help me" Parmenter

ACROSS

1 Prance
6 Hum
11 Fido's foot
14 Met offering
15 Mature
16 Pasture
17 Cygnus star
18 Go inside
19 Grp.
20 Actor Pitt and namesakes
22 Often-heard song
24 Put on, as makeup
28 Shut down
29 Tell
30 Porcupine spina
32 Food
33 Establish
35 Artist's workplace
39 Eight: pref.
40 Flower garland
41 Capri, e.g.
42 Norse god
43 Stitch loosely
45 Suffering
46 Preliminary version
48 Crops
50 It's often catered
53 Get ready
54 Broadway offerings
55 Audibly
57 Coal scuttle
58 Green fruits
60 Surgical implant
65 Vexation
66 Happening
67 Enthusiastic
68 Mom's guy
69 Writing tables
70 Run-down



DOWN

1 Cape — cottage
2 Gibbon, for one
3 Animal home
4 Before, to a poet
5 Cottontail
6 Trepidation
7 Fruit peel
8 Makes a choice
9 Society-page word
10 Sign up
11 Trudges
12 Lofty nest
13 Engaged in
21 Coral formation
23 Candy on a stick
24 Jargon
25 Roost
26 Ninth planet
27 September holiday
28 Spanish hero El —
30 Knight's adventure
31 Part of ICU
34 Norwegian monarch
36 Japanese city
37 Pamphlet
38 Nervous
43 Saloon
44 Neutral color
47 Took a chance
49 Rows of shrubs
50 Plant parasite
51 Goddess of flowers
52 Bleached
53 Fence supports
55 Overwhelms
56 Piece of chain
59 — Got You Under My Skin"
61 Actress Charlotte
62 Vital statistic
63 Nourished
64 Attempt

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

D	A	T	E		P	E	A	R		S	C	A	B
A	L	A	R	M		R	A	G	E		W	A	L	E
R	O	U	G	E		T	R	A	C		A	N	T	E
N	E	T		B	O	M	B		D	R	O	P	A
			C	L	U	E		W	I	L	D	E	R
M	A	R	R	I	E	D		I	M	A
O	C	E	A	N		S	T	I	N	G	I	E	S
S	H	A	K	E		D	A	N	I	E	L
S	Y	M	P	H	O	N	Y		H	A	I	K	U
			F	O	N		F	L	O	S	S	I	E
E	X	H	A	L	E		E	Y	R	E
B	R	E	A	T	H	E		V	I	O	L	A
I	N	N	S		A	M	A	N		S	L	O	P	E
R	T	O	Y		L	A	S	T		S	E	P	I	A
D	E	N	Y		L	E	E	S		S	E	E	R

1-28-99 © 1999 United Feature Syndicate

SPORTS

Thursday, January 28, 1999 — The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

UMass hoops squads fight for life

Monty Mack has been the most consistent player on a UMass men's basketball team that has seen its share of ups and downs.

Sliding men go to play Flyers next

By Seth Koenig
Collegian Staff

The chances of appearing in the NCAA Tournament are quickly falling farther and farther out of reach for the Massachusetts men's basketball team as the squad continues to struggle through a key stretch in its schedule.

After losing their last two games to Atlantic 10 opponents, the Minutemen will have a chance to return to the winners column when they travel to Dayton, Ohio to battle the Flyers tonight.

Each encouraging sign that UMass has shown this season has been followed by a frustrating setback on the road to the post-season.

The Minutemen dropped a 66–60 decision against Fordham for the first time since the Rams have joined the conference just subsequent to a strong showing at Temple and three– consecutive victories.

Disappointing losses to Villanova, Davidson, Iona and St. Bonaventure were each sandwiched between UMass victories over an eight–game stretch between Dec. 12 and Jan. 13, showing an alarming inconsistency in Massachusetts' performances. Each time the Minutemen seemed to put all the pieces together, the team would then lose to an arguably sub–par opponent.

The Flyers could be the perfect remedy for UMass' troubles. A conference foe, Dayton has lost four of its last five contests to fall to 8–9 on the season, including a matchup against Virginia Tech. The Hokies were held to 40 points at the William D. Mullins Center in a loss to the Minutemen on Jan. 2.

Still, it cannot be assumed that Dayton will help the Massachusetts cause.

"It's one of the toughest places in the league to play, to be honest," UMass coach Bruiser Flint said. "So it's going to be a tough game, but we've got to come ready to play."

The Flyers are led by sophomore Tony Stanley with 16.0 points per game and Mark Ashman with 5.6 rebounds per game.

Guard Monty Mack leads UMass' offensive charge with 17.4 points each time out. Center Lari Ketner leads the team with rebounds with 6.7 a game, but his production varies greatly from contest to contest. Against Fordham in the Bronx, Ketner scored 21 points and retrieved 14 boards in a win, but the center couldn't break double digits in either in their matchup at the Mullins Center Tuesday.

Ketner, like most of his teammates, seems unsure of himself from night to night.

"We've got to be mentally prepared to play and then physically you go out there and do what you try to do," Flint said.

That game plan might include keeping the ball out of the paint on offense. Perimeter shots tend to attract fewer fouls, and the Minutemen have shot themselves in the foot from the line, with a 57.2 percentage.

Both teams play at a similar pace. UMass pours in 64.1 points a game, while holding their opponents to 63.1 an outing. Dayton boasts slightly more in both categories, with 67.8 and 64.6, respectively.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Like the men's team, the Minutewomen need to play exceptionally well the rest of the season to break into the NCAA Tournament.

Minutewomen to take on SBU

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts women's basketball team will conclude a three–game road swing tonight in the unfriendly confines of the Reilly Center, as it faces St. Bonaventure (WMUA 91.1, 5:15 p.m.).

The Minutewomen (10–11, 5–3 in the Atlantic 10), have had to endure arguably their toughest traveling sequence of the year heading into Olean, N.Y. for today's contest.

The team left for Hartford yesterday afternoon, before boarding a plane for Pittsburgh, where it will connect for another flight to Buffalo.

From there, they will take a bus to their final destination, with the hope that they will have enough energy to bring home a victory.

This type of off–the court exertion may be the last thing the Minutewomen want to encounter at this point in the season.

UMass has been playing with only seven healthy players over the last several weeks, with the hope that freshman center Caroline Nehls and junior guard Jaywana Bradley will soon return to action.

The Minutewomen played a pair of games in Ohio last weekend, as they defeated Dayton, 63–56, last Friday before falling to Xavier, 64–51.

Point guard Kathy Coyner was stellar on Friday night, leading the team with 15 points and nine assists. Tez Kraft added 13 points and nine rebounds.

UMass was clearly fatigued on Sunday, as it shot an abysmal 34 percent from the floor and was outrebounded 56–27 by the Musketeers.

Nekole Smith led the Minutewomen with 10 points in the losing effort, and Yolanda Rayside chipped in with nine points off the bench.

With three days off, coach Joanie O'Brien was clearly hoping her team would get a breather before making the strenuous trip northbound.

O'Brien will undoubtedly be looking to devise strategies to limit the production of the Bonnies' star, Hilary Waltman.

The 5–foot–10 forward enters tonight averaging 21.1 points, as well as 5.9 rebounds per game.

Waltman, a solid shooter from most spots on the floor, also has a nice passing touch, as she has contributed with just over three assists per contest.

One of Waltman's frontcourt mates, Melissa Fazio, will be the second scoring threat UMass will have to focus its efforts on.

Fazio has poured in 16 points a game, and has brought down 6.7 rebounds a night as well.

The Bonnies may not appear to pose much of a challenge (ar as their record is concerned (7–11, 1–7 A–10), but the Minutewomen will not overlook anybody in their current predicament.

With Bradley's knee still sore, and Nehls still nursing a foot injury, it is possible that the Bonnies will only have to contend with seven players or fewer by game's end.

After all, on Sunday UMass was down to five bodies after Coyner and Smith fouled out of the game.

Right now, it is imperative for their postseason hopes that the Minutewomen continue to work with what they have available until the wounds heal.

Weeks reflects on life, hoop

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

PHILADELPHIA — He always played the game with the heart and the intensity level of a lion, but for now Tyrone Weeks's basketball career has come to a halt.

"I am ready to move my life in a new direction," Weeks said. "I am in a transition period, personally, right now."

The 6–foot–7 power forward was a two–year captain for the Massachusetts men's basketball team and is one of 32 Minutemen to reach the 1,000–point plateau.

A native of Philadelphia, Weeks overcame poverty and family problems to become the backbone of the Minutemen last season with his physical inside play and superior will to win.

Weeks' perseverance in the classroom earned him the right to play during last year's campaign under Proposition 68 after he forfeited his freshman season due to NCAA academic requirements.

After graduating from UMass last spring with a double major in education and African–American studies, Weeks played briefly for the local Springfield Slamm of the Eastern Basketball League.

Weeks then signed on to play professionally in Argentina, a stint that lasted for the previous four months.

While Weeks performed well and was able to grasp the style of play overseas, he was unable to adapt to the culture and other off–the–court elements that he was forced to endure.

"The game is different over there," Weeks said. "The basketball itself wasn't the problem though. We had to travel by bus most of the time, often for long distances. And after the games, I really was not able to enjoy myself being that everything was so unfamiliar."

Amongst the directions Weeks is considering turning to, coaching the game appears to be a front–runner, and a logical option at that.

"I've told Ty several times he would be an excellent high school coach," Massachusetts coach Bruiser Flint said. "He would be particularly good at that level because he is great with kids, and he certainly knows the game."

In the meantime, Weeks has tried to catch a glimpse of this year's Minutemen squad, most recently during the 65–57 loss to Temple at the Apollo.

A member of the Final Four team in 1995–96, Weeks has seen many highs and lows while playing for the Minutemen, and he feels that this year's team has the potential to turn things around.

"UMass still has a good team, they just need to pick up the intensity right now," Weeks said. "A lot of teams go through slumps, even the great ones."

Weeks has maintained a relationship with fellow Philly native Lari Ketner, and has given some advice to the senior center who has had some struggles on the court this season.

"I just told Lari to hang in there, and keep playing his game," Weeks said. "The key for him is not to get frustrated and to keep his head up, and everything will work itself out."

Weeks will continue to follow the team while he has the chance and is planning to return to Amherst before season's end.

"It has been a while since I stepped foot in the Mullins Center," Weeks said. "I am greatly looking forward to seeing the team play at home, and greeting the fans and friends that I made over the five years."

Two undeniable factors in Weeks's success were that he always gave 100 percent, and he made players around him better because he demanded them to produce.

"I always tried to make my presence felt both on and off the court," Weeks said. "Winning has always been very important to me, and I wanted to make sure the team was always in a position to do so."

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Tyrone Weeks

Women's track fares well at NE Cup

By Bryan Smith
Collegian Staff

This past weekend, the Massachusetts women's track and field team placed second at the New England Challenge Cup finals. Brown won the meet with 214 points, while UMass finished with 161.5 points, ahead of Atlantic 10 rival Rhode Island (121).

Ivy League foes Yale (88) and Dartmouth (81.5), and Boston College (45) rounded out the finishers. This comes on the heels of a first–place finish the previous weekend in the Challenge Cup Trials.

UMass was led by senior Rose Bryan, who won the triple jump with a jump of 36–feet–1.05–inches and the 55m high hurdles with a time of 8.06 seconds. She also placed second in the 200m with a time of 25.84 seconds.

With her performance, Bryan was named Atlantic 10 Performer of the Week. She holds team season best marks in the 55m hurdles (8.06), 300m (42.28), and the triple jump (38–feet–7–inches). She has qualified for the New England Championships in the 55m hurdles and the triple jump.

Senior Shelanda Irish had a strong performance, winning the long jump with a jump of 18–feet–9–inches and placing second in the 55m dash with a time of 7.25. Both were season bests and good enough to qualify her for the ECAC Championships.

Nicole Way also fared well by winning the mile (5:01.65) and finishing second in the 800m (2:19.9). These, too, were season highs and made her eligible for the New England Championships.

Another strong showing was turned in by junior Andrea Comeau, who placed third in both the high jump (5–feet–6– inches) and the 500m (1:17.55).

In the New England Challenge Cup Trials, Melanie Bell and Abby Rubino qualified for the New England Championships in the 55m dash. Shelanda Irish and Rose Bryan qualified for New Englands. In the 800m, Nicole Way and Kristin Cisowski qualified for New Englands. Way also qualified for the New Englands in the mile.

Taneka Miller qualified for the New Englands in the high jump. Rhianna DaCruz had an exceptional-

Turn to TRACK, page 13

Tulane or not Tulane; a title bid made

The Senior Bowl this past Saturday marked the official close of the college football season, as well as the bowl season. Now the debate can officially begin about what can be done to improve the situation for next year.

The season included the Tennessee Volunteers going a perfect 13–0 and winning their first national championship since the 1940s with a 23–16 win over Florida State in the Fiesta Bowl. This one–two meeting was set up by the Bowl Championship Series, an alliance formed to create a national championship game every year between No. 1 and No. 2.

Finally, the most important thing which happened in college football was UMass winning the Division 1–AA National Championship.

However, the one thing the BCS didn't calculate was what happens when more than two teams are undefeated. This scenario almost played out when UCLA, Tennessee, Kansas St. and Tulane were all undefeated heading into the final weekend, but luckily for the BCS only two undefeateds remained. Unfortunately, those two Division I undefeateds didn't play one another. Instead, Florida State played in the national championship game.

The question remains, why not Tulane?

The Green Wave of Tulane did everything right in 1998. It went 11–0 in the reguiar season, and beat everyone on its Division I schedule, and then won the Liberty Bowl over Brigham Young, a team which is respected in Division I. Yet the Green Wave still has no respect.

They won all their games. They defeated their Western Athletic Conference bowl opponent in convincing fashion. However, that win wasn't good enough either.

The question becomes, why would you leave an undefeated Division I team out of a possible shot at a national championship?

Arguments include a weak schedule of other Division I level schools. So if they don't have a chance, then why are they allowed to play in Division I–A? Maybe they

Turn to TULANE, page 13

The Massachusetts

DAILY COLLEGIAN

Volume CV Issue 4 — New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 — Friday, January 29, 1999

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

A recent report revealing employee discontent has lead to labor–managment meetings at University Health Services.

Health Services in need of remedy to cure employee morale problem

By Jill Carroll
Collegian Staff

A fact–finding report has revealed employee morale is what's ailing at University Health Services (UHS) as accusations of mismanagement and concerns that health care providers are stretched too thin were reported.

The report was issued this month after fact finder and arbitrator, Nancy Peace, interviewed employees from all levels of UHS including top administrators like Director Bernette Melby.

Peace said the 44–page–report was not meant to solve the institution's problems.

"I have not found facts. Rather, I have reported others' perceptions of the facts. Furthermore, the parties directed me to make no specific recommendations with respect to remedies," Peace wrote.

"I think the report's pretty damning," said Kathy Rhines, Radiology administrative manager and chapter board member for the Service Employees International Union (SEIU) representative for student affairs. "I think most staff feel we can't be successful with the kind of leadership we have now."

Melby agreed with the report's findings that employee morale needs some urgent care.

"The quality of care at University Health Services is excellent. Now, we need to work on improving the environment in which people work," the Director said in a press release.

Melby refused to comment about the report beyond what was stated in the University press release.

But if a remedy for morale is needed, Melby feels she can't prescribe it, according to Peace.

"The director is of the opinion that one cannot work on morale. She said that all one can do is create a system where people can flourish," Peace said in the report.

The report summarized the morale of employees at different levels of the organization.

"Those who are upper–level administrators are, on the whole, very supportive of the Director and of the changes that have been made in the past four years. Doctors were generally supportive, but also expressed some concerns. Department heads, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, nurses, educators, technicians and clerical staff were, on the whole, distressed, distrustful, hurt and angry," Peace wrote.

Nursing Director Carolyn Parker and Medical Director Allen Calhoun would not comment on the report.

The report came after a survey was taken of UHS employees last spring that revealed the severity of the morale, staffing and financial troubles. After the report was released the University decided to hire a third party to examine the issue and enlisted Peace.

Blame for the problems at UHS was placed on both sides of the labor/management line by employees in the report. Peace found that several upper–level managers said the professional staff union was protecting inferior employees.

"Several upper–level managers expressed frustration at the unions' going to bat for incompetent people and bad behavior," Peace said.

Simon Keochakian of the SEIU said this comment is a contradiction after UHS received 95 of 100 possible points from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO) last semester.

"In one breath they say hooray, hooray [over JCAHO]. Then in the next breath they say they [employees] are incompetent," Keochakian said.

Peace found that responses from the middle management group and staff were almost uniformly negative.

"They [managers] now charge that under her [Melby] administration they have been ethically compromised, that there has been a lack of leadership at the top, that the director has engaged in inappropriate behavior, that communication has shut down, and that there has been fiscal mismanagement," Peace wrote.

Nurse practitioners and physician assistants reported to Peace that their workloads were overwhelming.

"This group has a high level of distrust toward both the nursing director and the director. They believe these administrators are making unreasonable demands that are threatening quality of care and patient safety," Peace said.

Staffing shortages are requiring staff to be on–call more often, to work more hours and to take more late shifts in Urgent Care, Peace said. The report said the problem was exacerbated by Nursing Director Parker's unwillingness to be part of the on–call pool. Staff reported that Parker said she is always on–call and therefore does not need to be part of the pool.

"The on–standby NP [nurse practitioner] could have worked all week, 8–5, then has to come in and work Friday night from Midnight to 8 a.m. When this happened to me I felt incredibly unsafe as a clinician. I was too fatigued to think clearly, and the unit was very busy with inebriated patients," said one nurse practitioner who was quoted in the report.

Comments from physicians varied from content to concerned.

"One physician described UHS as a wonderful place to work," Peace wrote. "Other physicians, however, expressed concerns about unsanitary conditions in certain areas and worried about the threat of privatization."

Peace also summarized Melby's

Turn to Health Services, page 2

New tax laws assist students

Student loan interest yields tax break this year

By George A. Chidi, Jr.
Collegian Correspondent

The pains of student loan debt will get a novocain shot at tax return time, thanks to new tax laws affecting student loan interest.

Under new rules in effect this year, interest paid on student loans will be a kind of tax deduction, said Gerry Brachman, a tax preparer and instructor for H+R Block in Northampton. "It's technically an adjustment, not a deduction, but it's as good as or better than a deduction."

"Once a student begins paying off student loans, usually six months after leaving school, the interest paid on the loans reduces adjusted gross income on taxes. A lower adjusted income reduces income tax and effectively increases the amount of other deductions," said Brachman.

It's good news, considering students at University of Massachusetts are taking on increasingly large personal debts to meet the costs of higher education.

Jessica Emerson, a senior history major, has about $10,000 in debt now and said she expects to have around $15,000 by the time she graduates. She's not alone.

According to the fiscal year 1998 financial aid report in the UMass President's Report, 40 percent of UMass students have $10,000 or more of debt at graduation, and 52 percent will graduate with some amount of debt.

Average graduation debt in FY 1998 was $14,646, according to the report.

Graduate students took on greater debt burdens, "averaging between $11,397 and $18,956," according to the report. For both graduate and undergraduate UMass students, "the number of student graduating with debt and the average indebtedness incurred by those students increased significantly between FY 1992 and FY 1997," the report stated.

Without such debt, students like Pearson couldn't attend UMass, however.

"It was the only way I could go to school," she said. "I don't think (the new tax law) would encourage or discourage me from taking out the loans."

Debt repayment doesn't climb up on the list of school worries until graduation is near, said Giovanna Verri, a senior communications major.

"I'm just thinking about loans now," she said. "I fear graduation day."

Tax time can shock first–time filers, particularly college students. The biggest misperception, said Brachman, is that full time students don't owe federal taxes.

"They come in and say so–and–so told me that students are exempt from income tax," he said.

Unmarried college students must pay federal taxes if their adjusted gross income is greater than $6,950 and pay state taxes if it's over $8,000, Brachman said. Everyone over 18 must also pay social security tax on their income.

Scholarship money used directly for educational expenses is tax exempt, but not money used for room and board, he said.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

A winter's tale. . .

Cold weather descended onto campus yesterday afternoon.

Call for immediate vote on Clinton fate rebuffed by Senate Republicans

By David Espo
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Senate Republicans on Thursday crushed a Democratic call for an immediate vote on President Clinton's fate and adopted their own plan to allow public airing of Monica Lewinsky's videotaped testimony at Clinton's impeachment trial.

The rapid-fire developments on the Senate floor followed strict party lines after Senate leaders deadlocked in daylong efforts to negotiate a bipartisan timetable for the conclusion of the trial.

Both sides envisioned a final vote on impeachment by Feb. 12, and the depositions are to begin on Monday. But there were numerous differences on key details in the interim.

The vote was 55 to 43 against a motion by Sen. Tom Daschle, the Democratic leader, to go immediately to four final hours of debate and then vote on the two articles of impeachment accusing Clinton of perjury and obstruction of justice.

Before that, the Senate rejected Daschle's plan to limit to writing all records of the depositions of witnesses, preventing the videotaping the House Republican prosecutors want and the White House opposes.

The Republicans then pushed through their rules — 54–44 — which would permit videotaping of the questioning and leave open the possibility that it would be aired publicly.

The voting came after hours of sparring between Republicans and Democrats over the way to conduct the final stages of the trial.

Republicans wanted to .save room for a vote on "fact finding" that would state formally that Clinton had committed offenses, even if he wasn't to be removed from office.

The Democratic scenario would have prevented Republicans from even submitting such a document for a vote. On the issue of witness questioning, Democrats wanted to exclude any videotaped material from the trial record — meaning that images of Ms. Lewinsky would not be available for public showing.

The Republicans countered with a proposal to allow portions of the depositions to be made public "whether transcribed or on videotape."

At the White House, spokesman Joe Lockhart called for a swift end to the trial and said that in the Senate, "the Republican majority has to answer to the country of why they want to continue to extend this process."

Lott's spokesman, John Czwartacki, said Republicans "want to preserve the right of the Senate to use videotape as it sees fit.... The Democrats want to foreclose and gag the Senate's right to use videotape in evidence before we heard what is in there."

The "findings of fact" emerged as a major hurdle to an agreement, as well. They would involve a formal finding that Clinton committed some or all of the alleged offenses - but would not remove him from office. Some Democrats objected strongly, even before the small group of Republicans working on the issue had produced a final draft.

"We should not be able to do by majority vote what the Constitution contemplates by a two-thirds vote," said Sen. Richard Bryan, D-Nev. "It would be constitutionally fraught with...peril."

Russia reports higher production

By Mitchell Landsberg
Associated Press

MOSCOW - Russia's industrial production grew by 3.1 percent in the last quarter, an unexpected result of the country's economic crisis, the government said Thursday.

Yuri Maslyukov, the first deputy prime minister in charge of the economy, predicted that production would continue to grow this year by as much as 1 percent — a major accomplishment, if true.

The increase is the result of perhaps the only silver lining of the country's economic crisis, which began last August with the devaluation of the ruble and the government's effective defaulting on its foreign debt.

Because the ruble has lost value against foreign currencies, imports have become more costly and cheaper Russian goods are more attractive to consumers. That has given a boost to some Russian companies, especially those that produce consumer goods for the domestic market.

Maslyukov said the engineering and food industry had fared the best in the October-December quarter. He said the growth that quarter over the previous three months was the highest recorded since the 1991 Soviet collapse.

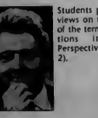
Maslyukov announced the production figures during a meeting with a mission of the International Monetary Fund, which is assessing Russia's economic performance, Russian news agencies said.

Maslyukov was upbeat after the meeting, telling reporters that Russia might still get some help from the IMF. The IMF has said Russia must approve a sound budget to get new loans, and it has criticized the existing draft budget as unfeasible.

The budget is currently being considered in Russia's parliament, where the two houses are sparring over how the government's money should be allocated.

Governors who make up the upper house of parliament, the Federation Council, pushed Thursday for changes in the draft budget so it would grant equal distribution of budget funds between the federal government and the regions.

The governors have threatened to veto the budget, now wending its way through the lower house, the State Duma, if it hurts the regions' interests. They also complain that the allocated money is divided unfairly.

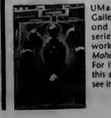


But the government of Prime Minister Yevgeny Primakov has broad support in both houses of parliament, and the budget is expected to be passed soon despite heated arguments.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Saturday	Sunday
HIGH: 28 LOW: 11	HIGH: 23 LOW: 7	HIGH: 31 LOW: 16

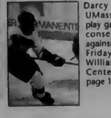
SOURCE: CNN.COM



The Bill Clinton Issue

Students provide thier views on the meaning of the term sexual relations in Campus Perspectives (see page 2).

NEWS PAGE 2



Temple for the Gods

UMass' Hampden Gallery hosts the second installment in a series of Tibetan artwork called The Black Mahakala Shrine Room. For information about this and other displays, see inside.

ARTS PAGE 5

The King of the Ice

Darcy King and the UMass hockey team play game two of three consecutive game against Boston College Friday night at the William D. Mullins Center. (See Sports, page 10)

SPORTS PAGE 10

Arts & Living 5
Classifieds 8
Comics 9
Crossword 9
Editorial 4
FYI 8
News 3
Sports 10

ON THE INTERNET
www.dailycollegian.com

Campus Perspectives

Compiled by Jason Trenkle
Photos by Brian McDermott

What is your interpretation or understanding of the term "sexual relations?"

"I think what the President and [Monica] Lewinsky did was sexual relations. She went into the situation willingly and made the decision to get involved so I don't see what she is complaining about."

Caroline Watson-Felt
Freshman
Theater

"I think that what President Clinton had with Monica Lewinsky was sexual relations."

Amy Ishak
Senior
Communications

"If the two people are willing. In this sense, anything that involves touching or kissing, not on the cheek, could be considered to be sexual relations."

Jason McCormack
Freshman
Engineering

"It's something to be determined by the individual couples involved. They should decide the meaning together."

Jon Leonard
Sophomore
Pre-English

"I would say it's any kind of relationship that goes beyond a normal everyday interaction between two people."

Jill Norris
Senior Nursing

"There has to be intercourse between the two people. I don't feel oral sex counts. I do think anal sex, however, constitutes sexual relations."

Erica Servello
Freshman
SOM

COLLEGIAN NEWS INTERESTING
AND ALWAYS LOOKING FOR WRITERS.

Health Services

continued from page 1

view of UHS on several issues.

"With respect to the allegations of discontent that gave rise to this fact finding, the director noted that one of her colleagues had pointed out that she was the third director 'they' had done this to," Peace wrote.

"In the report it says that they have done this to three other directors. Who is they?" Rhines said. "To say they did it to three other directors is a myth."

Among several issues, Peace said Melby mentioned financial troubles as a concern.

"Greater fiscal soundness of the organization is also one of the director's objectives, because without it, UHS is not able to do adequate planning," Peace said.

Dean of Students and Associate Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs, Jo-Anne Vanin, who directly supervises Melby, said she will be looking into solutions.

"Clearly, the report indicates there is no simple solution to the problems at Health Services, but I am committed to ensuring that the necessary steps are taken in the coming weeks and months to move forward on these issues," Vanin said in a press release.

Solutions are just what are currently being sought through meetings between labor and management. The first meeting took place last Wednesday and the second is scheduled for next Wednesday.

"We're deliberating how to deal with the information," Keochakian said. "We're not really at a point to say this is the way it will go."

But flu bugs and sprained ankles don't stop for meetings.

"In the meantime, while we have this conflict, we have a health center [to run]," Rhines said.

BELLS PIZZA HOUSE
$1.00 off any large Grinder
Coupon Expires 5/31/99
549-1311

UMass Sports

MORE MACHINES BEST PRICES
Yoga • Cardio Kickboxing
Reebok Step • Low Impact • Area's Largest Room
MAKE '99 FINE
Get in Shape!
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
256-0080
Rt. 116, So. Amherst

NEW AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO-KICKBOXING • YOGA
• Classes Daily
• Certified Instructors
• Suspended Wood Floor
• Area's Largest Room
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst. 256-0080

WELCOMING BACK STUDENTS

RETURN YOUR TEXTBOOKS WITH YOUR RECEIPT FOR A "NO QUESTIONS ASKED" REFUND THROUGH FRIDAY FEBRUARY 12TH, 1999.

Beginning TUESDAY FEBRUARY 16, 1999 textbooks from dropped courses may be returned with a sales receipt and an updated course schedule.

The schedule may be obtained from the registrars office in Whitmore: do not wait for them to mail.

New books must be in new condition. No marks, writing, water damage etc.

Any incorrect titles purchased after TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 9TH must be returned within 48 hours of purchase. Schedule, syllabus or other proof of incorrect purchases must be presented, along with sales receipt.

Remember the last day to return textbooks with no questions asked is FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 12TH.

www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex

UNIVERSITY STORE
Textbook Annex
AMHERST

www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex

University Store • Textbook Annex
SAVE YOUR RECEIPT

Our Refund Policy

If you purchase an incorrect title you may return it for a refund within 7 calendar days of the first day of classes. Thereafter, incorrect titles may be returned within 48 hours of purchase providing the book is new and unmarked.

1. Textbooks from dropped courses may be returned throughout the month of February. Present your sales receipt and a copy of your updated course schedule obtained from the Registrar. Any new books must be unmarked.

2. Keep your receipt(s). Refunds on textbooks cannot be made unless the sales receipt(s) accompanies the book.

3. Always have your current I.D. available. This is required for any refund transactions.

The return of unsold books to the publisher begins seven weeks after the beginning of the semester. After the seventh week you might not be able to purchase the books you need.

textbook annex Spring '99 Schedule

We accept cash, personal check, Ucard, Visa, MasterCard as forms of payment.

We begin to return unsold books to the publishers in the middle of the semester. Students are encouraged to get the books they need for the semester as soon as possible after official enrollment in a course.

buyback
FIRST WEEK - January 29-30
Tues.-Fri. 9am - 5pm
Friday 9am - 5pm
SECOND WEEK - February 24
Monday-Wednesday 9am - 5pm
Thereafter, Monday-Friday 9am-4pm at the Textbook Annex, beginning February 12, 1999

annex rush
Spring 1999 Book Rush Hours
Friday, January 29 9am - 6pm
Saturday, January 30 11am- 5pm
Monday, Feb. 1 -Friday, Feb. 5 9am - 6pm
Feb. 8- 12 Mon.- Fri. 9am- 5pm
Thereafter - Monday - Friday 9am - 4pm

UMass HOCKEY VS.
Friday 7PM @
MULLINS CENTER
University of Massachusetts Amherst
HOCKEY EAST

Up to 40% Off New Textbooks

With inventory for the nation's largest colleges in one place – chances are we have your books in stock!

- Only $4.95 shipping ... no matter how many books ordered
- Guaranteed 30-day, no-hassle return policy
- Fully secured transactions

varsitybooks.com
your online college bookstore

--- The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian ---

Sweet home UMass

Last year, I was offered the unique opportunity to spend the fall 1998 semester in Spain. I was dismayed last May with the realization that I was leaving my home (UMass) for eight months, but I was excited about the challenge and became a better person from my journeys. There are, however, those things that you miss when you leave a place that you care about as much as this one. Those things so unique to UMass — good or bad — will stay with you always.

I survived eight months without Pinnochio's or DP Dough. I can't remember my last John Adams "round robin," and I haven't taken a substance-induced stroll around the pond since last spring. My car wasn't towed all year until I moved into Brandywine this past week, and I haven't waited in a Whitmore-length line since I took a "W" in Computer Science 105. These memories may seem inconsequential, or even annoying tidbits one normally wishes to forget, but everyone has those recollections that will remind them of college.

"Ask anyone you know over the age of 32 to name six people they went to college with, because I haven't met anyone that can do it."

James Bachman

How about last year's spectacle we called campus elections? Or what about the last exam you were late for because you couldn't get a parking spot? Remembrances aren't always positive at the time, but they affect us in a way that we can't change, and they travel with us over the years. When I leave UMass, I'll remember 4 a.m. caffeine-inspired study sessions in the 10th floor lounge with the same blurry nostalgia as those drunken saunters in the snow from Hobart to "wherever she lived." I'll remember the hassle of buying $400 worth of books and the shocking discovery that the same books are only worth $40 the following May. These odds and ends will be tied together inside of me for eternity.

You're probably thinking that these stupid events are not what you'll take from your university experience, that your memories will be of your friends, roommates and lovers. And for a select few of you, that may be true. However, ask anyone you know over the age of 32 to name six people they went to college with, because I haven't met anyone that can do it.

Let's face it, you won't remember everything. It simply comes down to the fact that dating "Mary Jane" will not stick in your head for as long as the day that you got lost on the 25th floor of the library. The professor's class you learned the most in does not stand out in your mind like the class that had words like "mandatory" and "unexcused" 19 times in its syllabus. Your friend Nate, who used to vomit out the window every weekend will surely slip your mind... all right, maybe you'll remember that kid.

The point is, college isn't just about the major events. It's about living in a community where little things affect you every day, and where sometimes seemingly insignificant events mean more to you in the future than they seem at the present moment. So, next time you're cursing that late bus or sitting at your $30 per week work-study job, relax and enjoy this time while you have it, because nothing will ever be the same again.

James Bachman is a UMass student.

The SHADOW OVER WASHINGTON.

Duke'n it out

Sex-crazed politicians everywhere breathed a collective sigh of relief the other day when David Duke announced that he was running for Congress. Just as a refresher, David Duke is the former hood-wearing member of the Ku Klux Klan. The Klan is not a very nice organization, and in fact, it actually exists on the premise of hate.

Old Davey is trying to put a very positive spin on his "views" these days. He is crusading for all "European-Americans." We Euro-Americans are apparently having our rights stripped out from under us, and according to Mr. Duke, he is simply trying to defend our national heritage.

"Duke also bragged about how he got 60 percent of the white vote in his district primary. That's great Dave, but gee wiz! Why didn't you get any of the black vote?"

Brian Lohnes

As if our political scene wasn't already looking like the main reactor at Chernobyl, David Duke is actually making the situation worse. Duke seems to be the embodiment of all things morally wrong. He is a politically correct hate-monger who has bizarre and very scary theories about certain racial and ethnic groups.

Mr. Duke was on a political interview show recently where he spoke about his new book and his candidacy for Congress. Duke spoke about how Jewish people are trying to destroy the genetic integrity of the shrinking Euro-American group. The Dukemaster was very uptight when he was speaking about how white people were going to be a minority in fifty years or so. I really don't think that one day, all other racial groups are going to suddenly just prey on the "white minority" like Duke thinks they will.

Duke was also trying to prove that the Founding Fathers had planned our nation to be made up of only white people. When asked by the host of the show why he thought this, Duke replied, "just look at the documents that founded our country."

What the hell does that mean? Nowhere in any historic document does it say anything about white supremacy or anything to that effect. I think Duke is going to sneak into the national archives with a Sharpie and stick a post script on the Constitution.

Duke also bragged about how he got 60 percent of the white vote in his district primary. That's great, Dave, but gee wiz! Why didn't you get any of the black vote? Best get your "people" on that.

The scary thing is that Duke looks a lot like Dan Quayle and he speaks in this hypnotic, quiet tone. One look at the guy and he seems very professional and put together. Then he opens his mouth and the hate starts flowin'.

The one good thing that a person like David Duke does for our political system is to provide us with someone that we can all rally against with dislike. Sure there are probably a couple of thousand folks living in the black hills of the Carolinas that hang on his every word. But then again, those are also the people who stood beside him when the crosses burned.

In this time of political debauchery, we see too many people who played the good guy go bad. Bill Clinton and Bob Livingston are just two guys in a whole junk heap of fallen heroes. Duke never pretends to be the good guy, and he never hides himself. David Duke claims to be "scandal-proof," and in a technical sense, he may be right, yet every word I hear him say makes me want to reach through the TV screen and punch him in the throat.

I lean to the liberal side of things in the political spectrum, and guys like Duke make my stomach turn. I think it may be because he may actually win an election or maybe he will influence someone to fight for the rights of all Euro- Americans in a more violent and right-wing manner. I know that all conservative Republicans out there don't think of David Duke as someone to be proud of, but some of them do and that scares me.

I wonder where David Duke gets off being such an out of touch guy. He can't think that his views are very popular among large groups of people. I watched in mouth-gaping amazement as Mr. Duke calmly and perkily told the world about his messages of discrimination, sugar-coated hate, and intolerance. Duke seemed all too happy while telling the host about how many ethnic groups are systematically taking over the world and slowly eliminating us white folks. Being one of the white folks, I share none of the paranoid, clinically insane views of Mr. Duke. I think that Duke is afraid because he very well may be strung up when the white people are no longer a majority.

Politics are a very strange game that powerful people play. David Duke obviously has some power and that is a scary thing. The Dukinator may try to cover his views up in politically correct sugar-coating, but everyone can see what his basic principles are. He thrives on hate and intolerance, and there is obviously some market for that down in the South.

Thankfully, it seems that everywhere else has caught on to the fact that the whole hate thing has died down a lot since the days of the Civil War. David Duke is more powerful in a social aspect than in a political aspect. He shows all of us that we still have work to do as far as racism in this country goes. I will take the liberty of speaking for a lot of European-Americans by saying, "Leave us the hell alone." We've been doing pretty well without your help Dave, and we want to keep it that way.

Brian Lohnes is a Collegian columnist.

Glamour and prestige

I want to blow up the touch-tone registration system. It rarely has anything good to say to me. Looking at my schedule makes me a little more angry than usual this semester. I'm a senior journalism major, and I have two classes. That's right, two. The rest are "oversubscribed."

How does this happen? Well, you can ask your professor to let you into the class, but they'll probably tell you to talk to the department. The department says its hands are tied by the administration, who controls absolutely everything. Of course, that's not what the administration says. It says it is impotent and inadequate because of the state, who won't give it any money.

Well damn, that's pretty sad. Of course, Massachusetts has a two billion dollar surplus, and that stunningly unintellectual guy in charge of us, by the name of Paul Cellucci, says that he really loves education. Of course you do, Paul. We all love education and hate criminals. It's the way to be.

Of course, if you've been reading the papers, you would say, I must be the stupid one here! David Scott is really increasing the prestige of the University. UMass is now an International Institution. Well dammit. I still can't get into a class, and I want a straight answer telling me why.

Last October, good ole' David took a trip to France, then one to Israel, and then he hosted a whole enchilada of the finest educators from Latin America to come up, chow on doughnuts, and talk about teachin' in good old Amherst. This was all in one month. When I read about it, I could almost feel the prestige seeping into my pores. Of course, I was in Thompson Hall at the time, and that feeling went away when I noticed that half the desks in the lecture hall were broken. Real prestigious.

So why is it that a senior can't get into classes in his major? I'll tell you why: because journalism, and most liberal arts majors for that matter, just ain't very sexy. They're about learnin' and thinkin', and they don't get too many high paying jobs or fast results. You see, prestige is what we really want around here. We want results, and people getting high paying jobs right away. We want wealthy alumni who dedicate money to build buildings and we want professors who spend 90 percent of their time doing "ground breaking" research, saving a solid 10 for the students. That's how you build prestige.

Kids with Journalism, English, or Philosophy degrees — sure they thought a lot in college and probably have a whole bunch of interesting views — but damn! Being smart never made anyone prestigious, and we'll be damned if they're going to eat up valuable resources that could be spent on an Honors College or our nationally ranked polymer science program. I mean, come on. Just for learning? About "regular" stuff?

And these low income GEO members who want what, a free hand out? Come on. Do you see IBM giving out money for housing? How 'bout Microsoft? Of course not. Any good corporation "trims the fat", making sure there are no free passes. You know, the $50,000 that these people want for housing so they can stay here (this is in addition to the sturdy $8000 a year they make after taxes, mind you) that damn near comes directly out of the $16 million we're spending on the Honors College. Any corporation needs to make tough decisions in favor of the greater whole. Sorry, folks, we're trimming fat here. No room for freeloaders.

Speaking of the big and shiny Honors College, President Bulger was quoted in the Globe saying it was for people dedicated "to the task of learning." That's kind of funny. He must have meant "learning to get results" or "learning how to acquire prestige." We all know that as a corporation, UMass' focus is on results, but I guess that you do have to learn some stuff to get results. Yeah, I can see what you're getting at Billy. Sure!

Jason Owens

But I'm sure that Billy wouldn't argue that we're in the '90s, and we're about results first and foremost; learning is second. Or better yet, learning how to get results. Learning just to learn is for your own personal time. College is about getting you ready for a job. Results are job placement in famous companies, wealthy alumni who remember where they came from, and free money from companies who want us to do their research for them. Learning is great, but come on, who are we kidding? We're not here to learn, we're here to get jobs.

You see, Chancellor Scott and big Pauly back in Boston, we don't get upset with the order of things — that isn't our generation's way! We're not going to fight some battle over ideology that can't be won. I'm pretty sure that your generation did that and lost. But still, we will get testy if we think you're laying the b.s. on a little too thick. The thing that pisses us off is that you pretend that the University is about learning when it's not. That's the annoying part. We know that it's a big, mean world, that we're here to get a good job, and that if we want to learn, we can do it on our own time. We also know that if we choose to enter into a major that isn't going to "cash in" for the University in the next five years, then we're not likely to be getting new professors, classes, or buildings. It just isn't a pragmatic way to spend funds. We know.

You see, department heads and administrators, we aren't going to fight you because the University is a giant, result oriented, employment churning out, fast food style corporation. What do we look like, hippies? It sure is annoying when you all pass the buck to each other in some lame attempt to make us think that it's due to anyone's choice other than yours that we can't get a class. Just say, "Mr. Owens, I'm afraid your schedule doesn't fit into our plans this semester." No excuses and no blaming others. We're in the '90s here. Just give it to me straight. When I get out of here, I'll know that I graduated from a prestigious university. We know you're running a tight ship here, so do us a favor and quit with the b.s. and give it to us straight. It's much easier to swallow that way.

Jason Owens is a UMass student.

Doonesbury BY GARRY TRUDEAU

There will be a brief, mandatory meeting for all current and interested Ed/Op writers on Wednesday, Feb. 3 at 7 p.m. down in the Campus Center basement. If you have any questions, call Tanya, Gary or Alexis at 545-1491.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545-3500 • Fax (413) 545-1592 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor-in-Chief Mike Messaros Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Position Vacant Developing Nations Editor
Tanya Mannes Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Jewish Affairs Editor
Position Vacant Multicultural Affairs Editor
Laura Forster News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylanski Co-Sports Editor
Paul Teves Co-Sports Editor
Julie Fialkow Women's Issues Editor
Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Prestes Distribution Manager
Laura Keller Promotions Manager
Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Mondays through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life, became the College Signal in 1903, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1956. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1994. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

~Art Galleries~

AMHERST COLLEGE — The Mead Art Gallery is currently presenting a broad selection of artwork: Reflections of India, The Grand Tour: Italy and the Middle East, George Washington's 200 Years, Aaron Siskind's Harlem Document and The Hanged Man: Cezanne and the Art of the Print. Gallery hours are weekdays 10 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Thursdays until 9 p.m. Weekends 1 p.m.-5 p.m. Call 542- 2335 for more information.

MT. HOLYOKE COLLEGE — Various artwork by Alexis Kuhr, Nancy Campbell, Nathan Margalit, Marion Miller, Carleen Sheehan and Joe Smith is on display at the College's Museum of Art.

SMITH COLLEGE — A Renaissance Treasury: The Flagg Collection of European Decorative Arts and Sculpture is being displayed at the Museum of Art. Call 585-2760 for more information.

SMITH COLLEGE — Staff Visions, an annual exhibit of arts and crafts created by the Smith College staff, at the Hillyer Gallery. Gallery hours are weekdays, 8 a.m.-8 p.m. Saturday, 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Sunday, noon-8 p.m. Ends Feb. 5.

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS — Kathmandu: The Mahakala Room at the Hampden Gallery. A modular temple about Tibetan culture and deities. Call 545-0680 for more information.

COURTESY HAMPDEN GALLERY

Tibetan culture comes to life in The Kathmandu Project, currently on display in the Hampden Gallery.

Life becomes art in newest book

NEW YORK (AP) — "The phenomenon of a Richard Simmons fascinates me. What other culture would anoint a diet guru who's fat? He's this fat little guy!"

Like it matters. Neal Gabler knows full well why America embraces clownish, roly-poly Simmons: He's entertaining. As he would have to be. In a nation bathed in hot and cold running entertainment, why would any of us waste time on someone who doesn't amuse us?

But it goes a little further. Gabler says our entertainment whirlpool has taken us beyond passive audience state, and absorbed us into the act. "Life has become art," he declares, "so that the two are now indistinguishable from each other."

What happens when all of us Tickle Me Elmos start tickling back?

Gabler explores such questions in his new book Life the Movie, subtitled "How Entertainment Conquered Reality. Starring Everyone." (Rolling! Action! Welcome to the world of post-reality!)

"Entertainment drives the economy," Gabler says. "But while I mean conventional entertainment, I'm also talking about the way we want to perform in our own lives, so that we buy clothes, we buy a car, we live in a house, and we use a certain toothpaste, all of which contribute to the image that we want to project as entertainers performing our own lives for the audience of others - and ourselves, as well."

So it's one for the money, two for the show, and — uh-uh, honey — don't step on my Air Jordans!

"But I'm no prophet of doom," says Gabler, a dapper man with a salt-and-pepper beard who authored the splendid Walter Winchell biography Gossip, Power and the Culture of Celebrity. Talking about his new book, he speaks in thoughtful pauses and animated bursts. And he radiates unapologetic good cheer. "I don't say, 'Entertainment debases us and destroys our cultural values.' I love entertainment!"

ARTS & LIVING MEETING

There will be a meeting for all those interested in writing for Arts & Living this semester on Wednesday, Feb. 3, at 7 p.m. in the Collegian offices, 113 Campus Center Basement. New writers are encouraged to attend along with returning writers. Call 545-1361 and ask for Bryan for more info.

GET IN SHAPE IN SHAPE NUTRITION

•Fat Burners •Creatine •Protein Powders

20%-50% Off Retail Prices Everyday

•Andro •Vitamins/Herbs •Food Bars and more...

65 University Dr. Amherst 549-7434

McMurphy's Uptown Tavern

Superbowl Bash
Free Pizza
Sunday 1/31

37 North Pleasant St.

SIGN UP FOR BOSTON GLOBE

Today Friday January 29 and the week of 2/1 - 2/5 in the Campus Center concourse
Monday - Friday 9am - 4pm

Spring Term	2/1/99 -5/14/99
7 Days MON-SUN	❒ $31.00
6 Days MON- SAT	❒ $20.00
5 Days MON- FRI	❒ $17.25
SUNDAY ONLY	❒ $11.00

Name_____ Year of Grad._____
Campus Address_____
Campus Phone_____
If you are paying by credit card, please complete: ❒ VISA ❒ MC ❒ AMEX ❒ DISCOVER
Card Number_____ Exp. Date_____
Cardholder Name_____ Signature_____

WANTED: Volunteers to serve on the

Judicial Hearing Board

A great experience for students who:

are interested in student leadership
wish to enhance communication skills
want to build their RESUME!
want to learn about the University's judicial system

Requirements include:
full time enrollment
2.0 G.P.A.
no current judicial sanction

You can pick from one of three training sessions
all sessions held in campus center**

Tuesday February 9	Wednesday February 10	Monday February 22
5:00-7:00 p.m.	1:00-3:00p.m.	7:00-9:00 p.m.
Room 162-75	Room 911-15	Room 803

Applications available at The DEAN OF STUDENTS Office
Located in 227 Whitmore

Any Questions? Please contact:
Paul Vasconcellos or Jolene Crook
Dean Of Students Office
227 Whitmore
Phone: 545-6281

DON'T MISS OUT ON THIS EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY!!!

UPC Presents...

BRAND NUBIAN

Brand Nubian has reunited with the original founding members, Grand Puba, Lord Jamar, Sadat X and DJ Alamo. With this effort they dropped their forth album Foundation last September. These innovators are on tour with the original cella dwellas, Das Efx. Brought here by University Productions and Concerts to shred nukes and to bring back live hip hop for the '99.

Das Efx

Friday February 19th at 7:30
Student Union Ballroom
$10 UMass Students
$15 All Others
General Admission

Tickets Available at:
Tixs Unlimited -UMass (413)545-0412
Grow Room Records -Amherst (413)549-9296
For The Record -Amherst (413)256-6134

UPC

For More Information Contact:
University Productions and Concerts (413)545-2892
..Coming on Thursday March 4th, Black Eye Peas

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Soderhölm comes home

Toni Soderhölm and the UMass hockey team prepare to meet No. 7 Boston College Friday in what has proven to be the friendly confines of the William D. Mullins Center.

HAVE FUN
and learn something, too

Performing Arts Division (PAD)

the community's music school

Music, Theater, and Dance Instruction
for students of all ages and levels of ability

acting, ballet, Irish Step dancing, belly dancing, modern/jazz dance, tap, voice, vocal improv, rock and roll choir, bagpipe, drumming, piano, chamber music, guitar, blues jam, sight reading, composition, clowning

featuring faculty from the Five Colleges and area professionals

credit option available; classes start the week of February 8

for more information, call 545-0519 or e-mail ttarr@admin.umass.edu

Lifelong Learning Workshops

Expand your skills, advance your career, improve your personal life, learn something new flexible formats, short time commitment, and low cost

art and photography, astrology, business and financial planning, career and personal development, computers, dance, English as a Second Language, family and life skills, food and drink, health and fitness, home and garden, languages, music, personal awareness, religion and spirituality, study skills and test taking, writing, literature, and drama, cultural trips and tours.

workshops start the week of February 8
for more information, call 545-0474 or e-mail sfaili@admin.umass.edu

Division of Continuing Education
University of Massachusetts Amherst
excellence within your reach

UMass men to face Rutgers

By Alexander Wood
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts men's swimming team will dive back into action this Saturday as they take on Rutgers University at 1p.m. at the Joeseph R. Rogers, Jr. pool. As the Minutemen prepare to host the Scarlet Knights, they hope to build on the momentum created after coming off a huge win over the University of Connecticut, back on January 23rd.

Against UConn, Senior Brian Wisniewski took two individual first place finishes in the 200 IM (1:55.62) and the 200 back (1:54.63), to assist his team to a 138-101 decison over the Huskies. Wisniewski's time in the 200 IM was a team best this season. The senior swimmer has tallied five first place finishes this season, being named the WHMP/UMass Athlete of the Week at the weekly UMass Sports Luncheon.

Also stepping up to fill the injury voids left by senior tri- captain B.J. Brannan (mononucleosis) and senior Geoff Gear (knee) with first place finishes were sophomores Chris Arsenault in the 200 free (1:43.71), Joe Martin in the 100 free, Billy Brown in the 200 breast, and freshman Carlos Ramos in the 50 free.

Coach Russ Yarworth is "very pleased" with his bruised and battered UMass squad.

"That's a big win, especially with a depleted team," said Yarworth. "We've been having a rough year this year in terms of injuries and players dropping out. It's just frustrating."

The Minutemen started out looking very strong on paper, but due to the recent injuries and drop-outs the team has struggled to a 6-5 overall record. Yarworth gives his swimmers a great deal of credit for their efforts in the win over the Huskies and is looking forward to what should be a good match against the Scarlet Knights.

Saturday's meet with Rutgers will be the final home contest of the 1998-99 season for Yarworth's troops. UMass is 3-1 all time against Rutgers, and in the two schools' last meeting, Massachusetts came away with a sound 150-92 victory over the Scarlet Knights.

"Rutgers is very good on paper, they have good young swimmers, a good coach and the best facilities in the country. But we didn't think we could take UConn and we did." said Yarworth.

After Rutgers, the Minutemen will visit Fordham to finish off the season February 6. The coach remains upbeat and optimistic about his program's chances in the post-season as the team's regular season draws to a close.

"The way these kids are training, anything can happen, they're a great bunch." said Yarworth

Women's swimming hosts Rutgers

UMass seniors prepare for last home meet

By Kathleen Ralls
Collegian Staff

Most television shows drudge up old characters (dead or alive) and celebrities (even Tom Selleck) to boost their end of the year ratings during sweeps week in May.

The Massachusetts women's swimming and diving team (7-2) has a similar goal while it attempts to recover from its first dual meet loss to Boston College (166-134) this past Tuesday night, before it begins to prepare for postseason action. Tomorrow the team will have that opportunity when it hosts Rutgers University at 1 p.m. at the Joseph R. Rogers, Jr. Pool in Boyden Gym.

It will be the last home meet for four seniors (Julie Alexander, Amy Mullen, Shana Strothers and Kim Schadt) who have dedicated an immeasurable amount of time to the team and to the sport they love.

Rutgers hasn't been able to hold a candle against UMass as they trail 0-4 in the series. Last year, the Minutewomen stifled the Scarlet Knights, 130-112. A young squad, Rutgers is led by freshman Angell Morse, who has been piecing together an outstanding first-year campaign. The Pleasanton, Calif. native has placed well in all freestyle events including medley and relay competitions. Morse was a member of the foursome that set the new Rutgers school record in the 200 relay freestyle at the Rutgers Invitational in November.

Sophomore Megan Harris has also enjoyed a successful season in the 400-meter relay. Other members that provide a solid backdrop for the rest of the Scarlet Knights include Ellie Engle, Giana Natali and Patty Olson.

The Minutewomen opened their season 5-0 before coming in second at the Harvard Invitational in December. Besides the loss to the Eagles, UMass' only other loss was to Connecticut this past weekend (170-73).

Freshman Anne Dettloff holds the season's best in the 100 freestyle, 200 freestyle, 500 freestyle and 1000 freestyle. Freshman Andrea Kazanjian has stepped right into the fold, holding the UMass season's top times in the 100 butterfly and second in the 50 freestyle and 200 butterfly. Other solid contributors include junior Andrea Spencer, sophomore Sarah Newell, freshman Becky Hunnewell and Alexander.

At Tuesday night's meet, junior Elizabeth Risotto set two UMass home pool records in the 100 yard backstroke (58.72) and the 200 yard backstroke (2:04.89). Risotto finished first place in both events. The Setauket, NY native's time in the 200 yard was just two seconds off her own school record set at the Harvard Invitational.

Risotto is currently ranked first in the Atlantic 10 in both the 100 yard back and the 200 yard back. Dettloff has a hold on third place in the 500 yard free while Kazanjian sits second in the 100 yard butterfly.

The women's diving team is led by Kim Shadt who leads the team's scores in the 3-meter dive in both dual and open meets. The senior owns UMass' top ten score in all four diving events. Sophomore Robin Velona, freshman Signe Dahlquist and freshman Kristen Foss fill out the rest of the best for Massachusetts.

Next week the Minutewomen head to Fordham for their last regular season meet. After that, they gear up for the Bell Atlantic-Atlantic 10 Championships on February 18-20 at the Flickinger Aquatic Center in Buffalo, NY. This year's swimming and diving NCAA championships will be held in Athens, GA on March 18-20.

TOTAL FITNESS
Without Waiting In Line
$139
4 months
STUDENT SPECIAL
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
Rte. 116
So. Amherst • 256-0080

Valentine's Day
is just around the corner

Let them know how special they really are to you...

for the mere price of ten cents a word you can give the one you love something to cherish forever..

Their very own Collegian Classified from you

... won't you look good. Of course you will, as long as you get your message in by the deadline of Tuesday Feb.9th.

PREREQUISITE: ADRENALINE

Drive. Intensity. Those aren't words you're likely to see in many course requirements. Then again Army ROTC is unlike any other elective. It's hands-on excitement. ROTC will challenge you mentally and physically through intense leadership training. Training that builds your character, confidence and decision-making skills. Again, words other courses seldom use. But they're the credits you need to succeed in life. ROTC is open to freshmen and sophomores without obligation and requires about five hours per week. Register this term for Army ROTC

ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE

MS113 – Introduction to Military Science, 1 credit per semester
Contact Captain Patrick Maloney
545-2321

UM women's gymnastics set to battle rival New Hampshire on the road

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts women's gymnastics team will continue to try to build off of their recent success in an attempt to knock off the University of New Hampshire this weekend at UNH.

The Minutewomen have dominated this rivalry in recent years winning the last five, including last year's 191.325-191.125 result. All of the recent meets have been close.

UMass coach Dave Kuzara knows that because both teams step it up for this rivalry meeting, the Minutewomen must continue to improve the way they have in each meet this season.

"We have to continue to improve, like we did from the URI to Michigan meet. It will take a big weekend to win," said Kuzara. "Both teams are very evenly matched; we will just need to rise up for the meet and hopefully score a lot of points towards regionals."

The Minutewomen have counted on junior Mandy Mosby early on this season in not only the all around, but also in individual events. Mosby has the best score on the team for the balance beam with a score of 9.800 against No. 12 Michigan, along with the best all around score of 38.700 also against the Wolverines.

Mosby also holds the second best score in the floor exercises (9.650) and the uneven bars (9.750). Mosby is also third on the team in the vault with a score of 9.550.

"I think Mandy Mosby will be crucial for us, she is always a big part of our lineup," Kuzara said.

Jobi Goldberg will also be a big part of the lineup. Goldberg currently has the best score on the floor exercise with a 9.700. She also has the second best all-around score on team with a score 38.375 against Michigan.

"Goldberg is currently number one in the A-10 (Atlantic 10 conference) in total scoring, and we will need her to have a good weekend in order to win," Kuzara said.

Michelle LoPresti will also need to be on top of her game for UMass to knock off UNH. LoPresti currently has the best performance in the vault to date this season with a score of 9.625 against Rhode Island. Although her overall numbers are lower on the team, coach Kuzara is just waiting for LoPresti to break out.

"Michelle LoPresti stepped it up last meet, but we are just waiting for her to explode," Kuzara said.

Other contributors for UMass have included Mary Mucore who is second in both the vault (9.600) and the beam (9.750). Moore is also third on the team in all-around with a score of 37.825; she, too, posted her best mark against Michigan.

Jennifer Pokrana will also have to step up in order for the Minutewomen to be successful on Sunday. UMass will need a performance similar to the one she gave against the Rhody Rams on the uneven bars, in order to defeat the Wildcats.

"We need everybody to start firing on all cylinders and to be consistently better, the way they have been in the first two meets, because this is a big rivalry and both teams want to win," Kuzara said.

Minutewoman Notes: Kuzara, a sixth year coach, has compiled 63-35 record and has also led the Minutewomen to two A-10 Championships and five consecutive NCAA Northeast Regional appearances. He also is two wins away from becoming the school second all-time winningest coach.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Amy Caputo and the UMass gymnastics team prepare to battle rival UNH, and look to improve their .500 record.

Mack deserves respect

UMass guard shows he's among the A–10's elite

Memo to the Atlantic 10: When considering who to name the league's Player of the Week in the future, don't forget to scope out the Massachusetts men's basketball team.

Forget their win-loss woes, the fact of the matter is the Minutemen feature one of the league's premier players in shooting guard Monty Mack.

Pound for pound, point for point, Mack has clearly established his presence in the Atlantic 10. His scoring average coming into this week ranked second in the league. He has one of the best three-point shots around. Dayton coach Oliver Purnell even said that Mack has the quickest shot release in the nation.

Yet Mack has not received a weekly award. Going by the numbers he certainly has deserved it.

Case in point: Last week, Mack averaged 21 points per game as UMass split a trip to Philadelphia. Last Saturday at Temple he not only poured in a game-high 27 points, he contributed nine assists as well.

Monty Mack

But when the Atlantic 10 weekly report was released on Monday, Xavier's Lenny Brown and La Salle's Donnie Carr shared Player of the Week honors.

Not that there aren't reasons for either player. Brown averaged 22 ppg as the Musketeers collected three wins. He highlighted his week with a 31-point performance against Fordham on Jan. 23.

Carr led the Explorers to a double-overtime win over crosstown foe St. Joseph's with a 28-point, 11-assist showing.

Both are solid picks for last week's award — especially Brown. Both are also repeat picks (Brown was first tabbed the week of Jan. 3-9, Carr the week of Dec. 6-12), something the A-10 has not shied away from. Temple's Pepe Sanchez has accrued a pair of awards this season, Shawnta Rogers of George Washington has five, Rhode Island's Rookie of the Week total is up to six, all for Lamar Odom.

Jorma Kansanen

UMass, on the other hand, hasn't been represented in either the Player or Rookie lists all season. Dayton is the only other Atlantic 10 school without a weekly mention.

The argument that the Minutemen's rollercoaster results have damaged Mack's cause is moot. The curse of losing hasn't kept Fordham (8-9, 2-6 for a conference winning percentage of .250) from putting Alejandro Olivares on the list. Rolan Roberts of Virginia Tech (6-11, 1-6, .143) was honored earlier this season.

And Mack has the credentials to back up consideration. His 17.4 ppg is third in the A-10, behind only Rogers (20.7) and Carr (18.1). Brown and Bevon Robin are right behind with 16.9 ppg.

He can also shoot the lights out from downtown. He is seventh in the league in three-point percentage and third in threes made (2.89 a game). His free throw percentage would rank second in the league if he had a few more trips to the line under his belt. He had 314 points on the year, going into last night's game at Dayton, and he could reach 1,000 before his career is over.

Ironically, some of Mack's best performances have come in UMass losses: furthering the debate that a hot-handed player on a cold-shooting team deserves recognition. Against the College of Charleston in November (a 77-75 loss), Mack hit all but two of his long-distance tries and finished with a game-high 34 points and three steals. When Davidson walked away with a 75-66 overtime win, Mack had accounted for 24 points, 20 in the first half.

He's also performed well in victory with two 24-point performances on the season, a game-high 20 points against Kansas and a game-high 19-point evening when Duquesne came to town.

What makes this situation even stranger is that Mack will get consideration for Atlantic 10 Player of the Year, and will likely receive several all-conference first team votes.

Unfortunately for the junior, he plays in a league that, despite its lack of national prominence, features some of the best guard play in the country. With players like Rogers, Sanchez, Robin, Brown, Carr and Tim Winn jostling for room in the spotlight, it's easy to see how it may have taken a while for Mack to make the marquee.

It shouldn't have taken this long.

Casey Kane is a Collegian columnist.

Something Every Friday

Presents Comedian

Johnny Lampert

Comedian Johnny Lampert has appeared on HBO's Comedy Showcase, Montreal's Just for Laughs Festival, MTV's "Spring Break", and Comedy Central. Johnny has a one-man show called "Separations Anxiety" that is a semi-autobiographical presentation that gives structure to his stand-up routine about living at home.

January 29, 1999
Bluewall Cafe, 8pm FREE

The movie "Ronin", starring Robert DeNiro will be shown following the performance. "Ronin" will also be shown on sunday, January 31, 188 in the Campus Center Auditorium.

For more info, please call 545-3600 or visit or website: http://www.umass.edu/events/calendar.htm

This series is made possible through a grant from Auxiliary Services and the office of the Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs.

STRENGTH • FLEXIBILITY • COORDINATION
CARDIO KICK BOXING
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB • 256-0080
Mon @ 5:30
Thurs. @ 4:45
Fri. @ 4:15
Sat @ 2:00
www.amherstathletic.com

EMERGENCY MEDICAL TRAINING
By Human Services Training Consultants, Inc.
Part Time Evening Classes start February 8, 1999
Call UMASS, Continuing Education at:
545-0474

AEROBICS
• Area's Largest Room
• Certified Instructors
• Classes Daily
• Shock-absorbing Floor
• Walk-ins Welcome
STEP
LOW IMPACT
YOGA
CARDIO KICK BOXING
HI/LOW
www.amherstathletic.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB 256-0080 SO. AMHERST

Write for Sports...It's the Best

TAIZÉ

Sunday mornings, 11am
at the Ark
Episcopal Chaplaincy at UMass

PRAYER • CHANT • SILENCE

Episcopal Chaplaincy at UMass
758 North Pleasant Street
(2 doors north of Lederle Tower)
549-5929

Applications are Available!
for Affordable Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program to open January 25th

University Child Care will open a Flexible-Schedule Pilot Program in Room 4, Skinner Hall on January 25, 1999!

university of massachusetts child care at the amherst

Pick Up an Application Packet at:
Or call UCC at (413) 545-1566
and an application will be mailed to you.

Enrollment priority will be given to undergraduate and graduate student families based on financial need. Second enrollment priority is given to University employee families based on financial need. Tuition costs fall on a sliding fee scale, based on family income, and families earning under $14,500 will receive fully subsidized tuition.

University Child Care Office - 112 Berkshire House
GEO Office - 201 Student Union
GSS Office - 919 Campus Center
Dean of Student Office - 227 Whitmore
Commuter Service & Housing Resource Center - 428 Student Union

Collegian Classifieds

113 Campus Center University of Massachusetts • Phone: (413)545-3500 Fax: (413)545-1592

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Fraternities/Sororities: Looking for a DJ for your next function? DJ Fooz is now booking, specializing in date parties and formals. Call Tim 549-9127

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Lantern Court (Sunderland)- 2 bedroom. Close to bus stop. $550. Call 665-6705.

AUTO FOR SALE

1989 Subaru Wagon 4WD Automatic blue highway miles $1800 978-544-3783

90 Honda Accord Excellent interior, new brakes + exhaust one owner 157,000 miles. $3000 or B/O 413-552-0806

88 Ford Festiva Runs well 96k $1000 665-8076 or 5-5547

1988 Ford Festiva High miles well maintained current sticker $500 256-6087

Pontiac Bonneville. 90 4DR 98Kmiles single owner. Retail book 4350 asking 4000. Best offer 549-0844

WANTED: Toyotas, Novas, Prizms, Sentras. Any condition. Cash paid everyday. 1-800-649-4795.

COMPUTERS

Mac Powerbook 520 modem ethernet software installed. Perfect for papers and emailing $600.00 NEG. 546-4517

EMPLOYMENT

$20/HR PT/FT!!! Process Our CompanyMail or Email From Home or School For Details: Email: Apply4now@smartbot.net 770-937-6764

Part Time non-smoking, unscented person wanted for housework, errands and dog walking $8.65 323-5088

EMPLOYMENT

Jobs At The UMass Annual Fund Flexible evening huurs earn $5.50/hour plus fantastic bonuses gain computer and communications skills come to the basement of Memorial Hall and apply today students only 545-3509

Grill Cook Breakfast Experience Part Time day hours including weekends Apply 7am-3pm Nancy Janes 36 Main St. Amherst

General Labor $7.50 Amherst location needs your help all winter shoveling snow & sanding walk ways. Only available for work one or two days a week? This is the perfect job for you. Call United Personnel Services today to learn more about how snow+work=$$. 800-363-8200

EXCEPTIONAL SUMMER OPPORTUNITY— Camp Wayne, NE PA (3 hrs/NYC)—Soprts oriented. Counselor/Specialists for all Land/Water Sports: Golf, Tennis. Outdoor Adventure, Mtn. Biking, Rocketry, Sailing/ Waterskiing, A&C, Drama, Radio, Video. Campus interviews. Please call 1-888-549-2963 or wayneboys@aol.com

Childcare needed 4 hours a week. 665-7483

On Campus Spokes Person Positions Available CIS is currently hiring motivated outgoing college students for spokes person positions $10.00-$15.00 an hour 10 hours a week on campus call Jodi Grant 800-567-6247

Work Study Experienced Childcare Persons needed Monday nights 4:30 or 5:30 until 8:00. $7.00 per hour. Apply at Commuter Services, 428 Student Union, 545-0865

EMPLOYMENT

Public Relations Jobs Applications are now available at the University Admissions Center for tour guides,student admissions reps, and summer counselors. Deadline is Feb.5,1999

More Than Just SUMMER EMPLOYMENT. Camp counselors needed for a private, residential camp in the beautiful Pocono Mountains. We are looking for people with: a dedication to children, enthusiasm for diversity, and a desire to share their passion and expertise in any one of the following areas: COMPUTERS, CIRCUS ARTS, BASKETBALL, MAGIC, VOLLEYBALL, TENNIS, DANCE, VIDEO, CREATIVE WRITING, ESL, SOCCER,COOKING, RADIO, ROCK MUSIC, GOLF, SKATEBOARDING, ROLLERBLADING, ROCKETRY, NEWSPAPER, FINE ARTS, CREATIVE CRAFTS, MOUNTAIN BIKING, CLIMBING WALL. Call 1-800-399-CAMP Ask for Dan or Nigel

Free Radio + $1250! Fundraiser open to student groups & organizations. Earn $3-$5 per Visa/ MC app. We supply all materials at no cost. Call for info or visit our website. Qualified callers receive a FREE Baby Boom Box. 1-800-932-0528 x 65. www.ocmconcepts.com

Fraternities-Sororities-Clubs-Student Groups Earn $1,000-$2,00 this semester with the easy CIS three hour fundraising event. No sales required. Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so call today! Contact Dan Wolman at CIS, (800) 922-9579.

EMPLOYMENT

Whitewater guides and River Photographers wanted for part,full time summer jobs outdoor and athletic background a must will train for both positions. photography position requires some experience. Call Crab Apple Whitewater for info 413-339-0188

Counter Help + Drivers Wanted Must be able to work 20 hrs a week. Apply at DP Dough

Males Wanted For Exercise Science Study- earn up to $125-Call Steve 548-3877

Part Time Jobs with the Sierra Club work on an urgent campaign to protect wildlife and wilderness full time/career positions available earn 55-70$/day Call Alex 413-256-6434 Amherst Center

Note Takers Wanted
$200-$1500/class
Post your lecture notes on the Internet
SIGN UP ON LINE
WWW.STUDY247.COM

ENTERTAINMENT

DJ For Hire Dj Fooz is now booking for Spring Semester. Call Tim 549-9127

FOR SALE

Giant Mountain Bike. Bar ends, lock. Like new. $120. Call 546-1773

HOUSE FOR RENT

Summer Rentals Cape Cod Group Summer Rentals. Some waterfront houses, some with swimming pools. Falmouth area. Call Diamond Real Estate 1-508-477-1900.

INSTRUCTION

CARDIO KICKBOXING Amherst Athletic Club. Train with the pros! 256-0080.

INSTRUCTION

Boxing Lessons with retired pro. Djata Bumpus $160.00 for 8 private sessions Call 413-732-8817 for Apt.

LOST & FOUND

Lost: Silver pin with four green stones great sentimental value. $50 reward. Call 253-5929 or 545-4681

ROOM FOR RENT

S Deerfield Country setting quiet + private. 10 miles form Amherst. 1 large furnished bedroom suite with private bath + study phone/tv/cable optional $475.00: 1 furnished bedroom $350.00 mature female grad students, share with single female, non-smoking 413-665-8318

Take Over My Lease! Jan-July '98. Moving to California in two weeks & need to find someone. 1 bedroom in 2 bedroom apt. Furnished, spacious, & clean. $345, all inclusive + electric= @$15 per month. Awesome place, awesome roommate staying. Bus drops you off four doors from your own. Call Lori or Daniel @ 665-4149 till 11:30 at night.

One nice room available in a four bedroom Alpine Commons apartment. Move in Jan 1 or possibly earlier. Two full bathrooms. On bus line. Great roommates! Apartment is fully furnished with the exception of the bedroom. $314.50/month. ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED! Please call Jenny at 253-2050 ASAP.

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom. Brandywine. For Spring/late December. Call Jeramy 549-6955.

One bedroom available in 4 bdrm house. Begins March 1. Belchertown $280 month. Call 323-9794

ROOMMATE WANTED

Roommate Needed for Hobart Lane Call 549-7461-Jeff. Only $250 a month

Want to Move, but need replacement? Willing to swap room in apt for similar Kevin 256-5961

TRAVEL

Spring Break: hundreds of student reviews, rankings, articles, and discussions: the unrivaled guide on where to go by people who went. http://www.studentadvantage.com/spring-break

WOULD YOU LIKE TO MOVE OUT NEXT SEMESTER? PLACE AN AD IN THE CLASSIFIEDS AND GET WHAT YOU WANT!!

ARE YOU MOVING OUT OF YOUR HOUSE OR APARTMENT? WANT TO RENT IT OUT TO SOMEONE ELSE?

PLACE AN AD IN THE COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS AND GET RESULTS QUICKLY!!

THERE ARE TONS OF PEOPLE LOOKING TO MOVE!

PLACE AN AD TODAY!

Five College Community Calendar

FRIDAY, JAN. 29

The UMass Something Every Friday Program presents stand-up comedian Johnny Lampart in the Bluewall Cafe at 8 p.m. The film Ronin will follow the performance.

Comedy — Stand-up comedian Normen B will perform his stand-up routine entitled "Deviations From the Norm" at 9:30 p.m. in the Java Hut in Sunderland.

Production — The Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance production of "Party Booby Trap" will be held at 8 p.m. in Webster Studio Three at Amherst College. Call 542-2277 for reservations.

Speech — Ken Howard, notable stage, film, and television actor, will give a speech on acting in the Experimental Theater at Amherst College at 3 p.m.

SATURDAY, JAN. 30

Production — The Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance production of "Party Booby Trap" will be held at 8 p.m. in Webster Studio Three at Amherst College. Call 542-2277 for reservations.

SUNDAY, JAN. 31

Film — The film Ronin will be shown in the Campus Center Auditorium at 8 p.m. The event is sponsored by Something Every Friday

Party — There will be a Super Bowl party at 6 p.m. in the Malcolm X Cultural Center. The event is free and refreshments will be served Production — The Amherst College Department of Theater and Dance production of "Tofu and Potatoes" will be held at 8 p.m. in the Experimental Theater at Amherst College. Call 542-2277 for reservations.

MONDAY, FEB. 1

Celebration — The Jewish Community is invited to come by the Chabad House table on the Campus Center Concourse from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. to celebrate Tu Bishvat. There will be an array of special fruits and foods

Meeting — The feminist Majority Leadership Alliance will hold a general meeting at 6:30 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge

Meeting — The UMass Outing Club will hold a general meeting at 7 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom No experience necessary and anyone may attend.

Conference — Share your experiences and learn more about learning communities at a conference entitled "Making Connections: Learning Communities for a Student-Centered University" on Feb. 5 from 8:30 a.m.-3 p.m. in room 163 of the Campus Center. To register for this free conference and lunch call Anna Malone at 545-0051.

Information — The Alcohol and Drug Education Program at UHS offers general information, referral, and training workshops in room 248 of UHS weekdays from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Call 577-5161 for more details.

Submissions — Submissions are being accepted for the Spectrum Literary Magazine. The deadline is Feb. 12. Also searching for the 1998-99 cover contest winner. Deadline is the end of December. Call 5-4220 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed to train and facilitate workshops on contraception and sexually transmitted disease prevention during Spring semester 1999. Men and women needed. Contact Keren or Day at 577-5188 for more information.

NOTICES

Abstracts — Present your community service, thesis research, creative work, independent study or study abroad experience at the state-wide conference on Undergraduate Research. Scholarly, Creative, and Public Service Activities Applications can be picked up at 504 Goodell until March 1.

Community — A limited number of residence hall rooms will be available for the relatives and friends of graduating UMass students for the night of Saturday, May 22. Commencement housing applications are available at the University Conference Service Offices, 918 Campus Center. To guarantee a reservation, completed forms with full payment must be returned to University Conference Services by May 7. There will be no on-site registrations

FYIs are public service announcements printed daily. To submit an FYI, please send a press release containing all pertinent information, including the name and phone number of the contact person to the Collegian, c/o the Managing Editor by noon the previous day.

SPECIAL HOURS! Tues., Weds., Thurs. - This Week Only! 8:30am to 7pm!

Just another way that WE GIVE 100% We give all of our profits to support University Programs NEW Not like a mall. Better.

HSCN Housing Services Cable Network

HSCN Bulletin Board	The Learning Channel
CBS/3 Hartford	UVC-TV19
CBS/4 Boston	ABC/40 Springfield
ABC/5 Boston	Gavel to Gavel
FOX/57 Springfield	NBC/22 Springfield
[illegible] Movie Ch.	Sundance
UPN/20 Hartford	Bloomberg Financial
[illegible] Channel	[illegible]
[illegible] New Britain	[illegible]
Fox/61 Hartford	[illegible]
CBS/24 Hartford	TV Land
WCCH 6 HCTV	Univision
[illegible]	Comedy Central
[illegible] Electric TV	Cartoon
UMass [illegible]	Much Music
HSCN Programming

Sorry, no T.V. listings today

FoxTrot By Bill Amend

Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Campus Kids By Adam Souliere

Non Sequitor By Wiley

Rose is Rose By Pat Brady

Robotman By Jim Meddick

Dilbert By Scott Adams

Dilbert² By Scott Adams

Rose is Rose² By Pat Brady

Hey, Van Gogh!

Quit your crying over the fact that "Cathy" isn't on the comics page anymore. Draw your own repetitive, unfunny comic! Or even better, draw a funny original one. Submissions can be dropped off at the Collegian office, 113 Campus Center Basement. Give them to Mike Masserio. He loves comics!

— Comics must be drawn in black ink, in dimensions of 2" by 6 1/4".

— The Collegian reserves the right to not publish any comic deemed racist, sexist, homophobic or anti-Semitic.

For the full Collegian guidelines regarding comics, just ask down at our office.

Horoscopes

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) — You're likely to figure something out in your head that others have been calculating for quite some time. You may have trouble proving it, however!

PISCES (Feb. 19–March 20) — Someone who loved you knows the truth about an issue that has been troubling you for some time. Today is the day to listen to what is in your heart.

ARIES (March 21–April 19) — You can create something today that will inspire you to go after something very special. Don't let your critics hold you back. Listen to "the voice."

TAURUS (April 20–May 20) — You'll be able to see something in your surroundings today that others are missing. What you do with it will make all the difference.

GEMINI (May 21–June 20) — Grant yourself a little more time to see things as they are today. Focus on what seems to "speak" to you most directly.

CANCER (June 21–July 22) — The unknown will seem very familiar to you today. Put your faith in what seems "natural" to you. You actually hold all the cards right now.

LEO (July 23–Aug. 22) — Trust in your own talents today. There's no reason for you to be "forced" into doing something that seems strange or unclear to you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) — You're going to have to pay for what you want today, but you may be able to get a bargain price. Later, you'll have a gift for someone.

LIBRA (Sept. 23–Oct. 22) — Something you usually do on your own can be shared with a friend or loved one today. As a result, a new and exciting form of communication will blossom.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23–Nov. 21) — "Never" is a word you should avoid today, as you're entering a brief period of flux where almost anything is possible — if you allow it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) — You're going to have to follow the rules today, but you'll be able to interpret them in a manner that suits your immediate needs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) — You may be "reading into" things a bit much at this time, but soon your interpretation of certain events will be valuable to you, as well as others.

Quote of the Day

"In a word: 'TROLL!' "

–Overheard

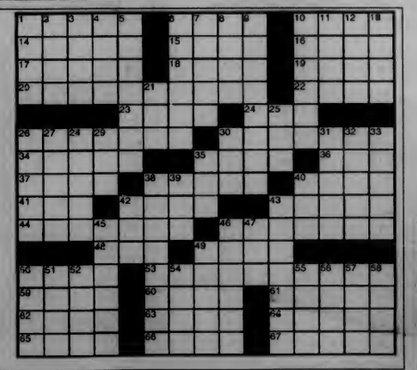
Close to Home By John McPherson

"Of COURSE we care about the headaches and eyestrain your data processors are experenceing. That's precisely why we've installed ibuprophen dispensers on every monitor.

Today's D.C. Menu
Call 545-2626 for more information.

NO FOOD for you

Night Editor	Skippy Perry
Photo Technician	Magnum McDiesel
Copy Editor	SHAKFORD!!!!!!
Production Supervisor	Joe Danger Savitch
Production Staff	Wonder Boy Charles Mc Cool Lisa



ACROSS
1 Rapids' craft
6 Stuff
10 Sea eagle
14 Parcel out
15 Rajah's wife
16 See
17 Not fresh
18 Ogled
19 Extreme
20 Used item
22 Shade trees
23 Harvest or crescent — —
24 — and outs
26 Unison
30 One with "r" problems
34 Legal
35 Cheers
36 Me, to Miss Piggy
37 Wicked
38 Teakettle part
40 Be concerned
41 — King Cole
42 Chilled
43 Boring tool
44 Husky, e.g.
46 Furniture wheels
48 Attention
49 Some parents
50 Bear: Lat.
53 Fought for 59 Tack
60 Roll-call answer
61 Hollow stone
62 Ocean's motion
63 Prepare for publication
64 Actor David —
65 German river
66 Pigments
67 Lean

DOWN
1 Poison ivy symptom
2 Can. province
3 Custardy dessert
4 Blabbed
5 Halted
6 Beliefs
7 Synthetic fabric
8 Over again
9 Burning the — oil
10 First-born
11 Make muddy
12 Standard
13 — out: makes do with 21 Dawn goddess
25 Negative votes
26 Bakers' needs
27 Of ships
28 Exclusive group
29 Zip
30 Water, in Quebec
31 Likeness
32 Tenderer
33 Layers
35 Lightning —
38 Singed
39 Wooden pin
40 Mow
42 Actress Lupino
43 Gives homework
45 Merchant
46 Bill Haley's group
47 Guitar
enhancer, for short
49 Al Osmond
50 "Do — others"
51 Plunder
52 Not front or back
54 Actress Lamarr
55 French eye
56 PBS series
57 Blissful abode
58 Fender-bender problem

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

C	A	P	E	R		D	R	O	N	E		P	A	W
O	P	E	R	A		R	I	P	E	N		L	E	A
D	E	N	E	B		E	N	T	E	R		O	R	G
			B	R	A	D	S		O	L	D	I	E
A	P	P	L	I	E	D		C	L	O	S	E	D
R	E	L	A	X		O	U	I	J	E	L	L
G	R	U	B		F	O	U	N	D		L	O	E	T
O	C	T	O		L	E	I		I	S	L	E
T	H	O	R		B	A	S	T	E		P	A	I	N
			D	R	A	F	T		C	H	O	K	E	S
A	F	F	A	R			P	R	E	P	A	R	E
P	L	A	Y	S		A	L	O	U	D
H	O	D		K	I	W	I	S		G	R	A	F	T
I	R	E		E	V	E	N	T		E	A	G	E	R
D	A	D		D	E	I	S	K	I	S		S	E	E	D	Y

1-29-99 © 1999 United Feature Syndicate

UMass dodges defeat at Dayton

Mighty Mack drains game–winner with 10 seconds left in overtime

By Aaron Saykin
Collegian Staff

Whew! After escaping Dayton with a thrilling 59–57 overtime victory last night, Massachusetts men's basketball coach Bruiser Flint finally had his chance to breathe a small sigh of relief... and change the dress shirt he had soaked from 45 minutes of nervous perspiration.

He had known there was no way his team could cling to post–season hopes any longer with a loss at the hands of the Flyers (8–10, 3–5 A–10). So the Minutemen (9–10, 5–3 A–10) responded in much the same fashion they always seem to do when their backs are against the wall.

"I told the guys that they never gave up tonight," Flint said. "Every time we needed a big basket, we made it. Every time we needed a big rebound, we got it. Every time we needed a big stop, we stopped them."

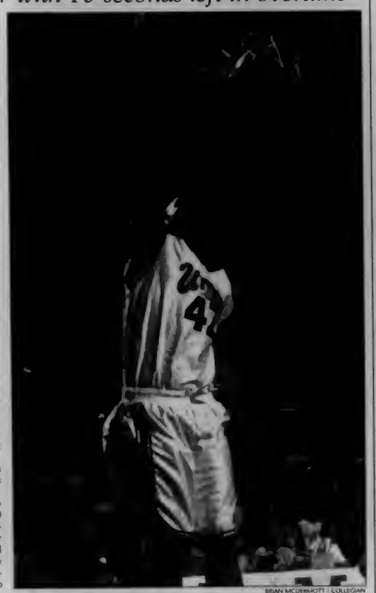
Of all the "big baskets" Flint had alluded to, none were larger than Monty Mack's game–winning pull–up jump shot to give UMass the lead for good with 10 seconds remaining in the overtime period. The junior shooting guard exploded after the first half, scoring 12 of his 15 points when the Minutemen needed them most.

"That's what he needed to do, and that's what we talked about," Flint said of Mack's ability to penetrate and score. "He stepped up and he did it."

From the opening moments of the contest it was evident that Flint had found a way to wake his sleeping giant. Lari Ketner, who finished one of his finest performances of the season with 16 points and 11 rebounds. Ketner, along with Mack, was also instrumental in defensively containing Dayton's scoring threats.

"Monty and Lari really made [The Flyers' top scorers Mark] Ashman and [Tony] Stanley work hard for their shots," Flint said. "They didn't get anything easy, and that was the difference in the game."

After falling behind 25–15 late in the first half, the Minutemen clawed their way back into the game with a 14–0 run. Dayton recaptured the lead moments later, eventually extending it to four points, 53–49, with under two minutes remaining. Ketner and Mack tallied the next four UMass points to notch the game at 53 a piece with 44 tics left.



The Minutemen had an opportunity to win the game in regulation, but sophomore guard Jonathan Depina had difficulty getting the ball to Mack, whom Flint had chosen to take the final shot. UMass also trailed on two occasions in the extra frame, but Mack's pull–up jumper with 10 seconds left gave his team their first lead of the period, and iced the game for the Minutemen, who were looking to rebound from a two–game losing streak.

Again the unsung UMass hero was junior forward Chris Kirkland, who added 13 points, including an enormous three–point play near the end of regulation. It now seems as though Flint made one of his best coaching moves of the season when he inserted his most reliable bench–player into the starting line–up at the beginning of January.

"[As for] Chris Kirkland, you can't play much better than he's playing right now," Flint said.

The Minutemen next travel to Austin, Texas for Sunday's 3:30 p.m. match–up with the Big 12 powerhouse Texas Longhorns. Under the direction of first–year head coach Rick Barnes, who recently returned Clemson to the college basketball map, Texas is expected to play an extremely physical game.

Material from WHMP contributed to this report.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Ajmal Bassit looking to throw it down, while he helps lead the Minutemen charge against the Dayton Flyers.

Men's gym wins

Minutemen deep–six Navy

By Gary Mendese
Collegian Staff

Last Friday, the Massachusetts men's gymnastics team sent the U.S. Naval Academy sailing out to sea after UMass' fourth meet of the season. The Minutemen dominated the Midshipmen with a score of 217.6 to 211.05.

Senior captain Stephen Pryor won three individual events and finished first in the all–around with a 55.3. Pryor won the vault (9.25) and parallel bars (9.25), finished second on the pommel horse (9.35) and tied for the top spot on rings with sophomore J.J. Hershey (9.4). Coach Roy Johnson was content with the victory over Navy, which rectified the loss to the Midshipmen last year.

"I have two things to say," said Johnson. "One is thank you, Navy, for being so poor on rings. And two, thank you, Steve Pryor, for doing so well."

Pryor's title as all–around champion is no surprise to this squad, as the New York native captured the all–time all–around high score of 57.825 last season. The talented gymnast was named Athlete of the Week for this past weekend's performance. These consistent performances will be a great benefit to the Minutemen's chances of earning a spot at NCAA regionals this year.

Other contributions in last weekend's meet included sophomore Chad Bennett, who claimed the second place spot on the floor exercise with a 9.25. Senior Brad LeClair tied for the second spot on the pommel horse with a 9.35, while senior Dan Young snagged second on vault (9.2) and third on rings (9.1). And leading the newcomers on the team, freshman Matt Plumser placed second on high bar with a score of 9.0.

Although the men should feel confident with their recent victory, the battle is far from over, as this meet was just the tip of the iceberg. There is a long haul of over 10 meets ahead, starting this Saturday, Jan. 30 in Cambridge, where UMass will face M.I.T. and Vermont — two fairly local teams that are more than familiar with the Minutemen. UMass pulverized the Engineers and Catamounts last season with an astonishing pair of 50 point wins.

"Even though we have won in the past, the guys take the meet very seriously," said Johnson. "It's a great opportunity for us to get a very high score."

Johnson expects great things from his team, especially from his younger gymnasts.

"Chad Bennett and [sophomore] Eric Bacon have great vaults. Bryan McNulty is also someone we should keep our eyes on. He could potentially have the nicest vault on the team," explained Johnson.

Although Johnson remains optimistic about future performances, two of his major contributors to the team are injured. Sophomore Andy Leis broke his hand around Christmas and will not be competing in the next few meets. Also, junior Jeff LaVallee was forced to sit out last week due to a severe case of the flu.

"Jeff will most likely compete this weekend, he's doing much better. Andy was given clearance to start working out again, and we hope he'll be back in shape for the Michigan meet on Feb. 20," said Johnson.

With the gigantic victory over M.I.T. and Vermont last year, the Minutemen have little to fear about walking away victoriously. But the thing that matters most is the score. Those who make it to regionals, and subsequently nationals, are the teams with the highest scores throughout the region.

The biggest battle next weekend is a mental one; the Minutemen have to push themselves in order to gain the highest possible team score. With talented freshmen like Plumser and consistent veterans like Pryor, the men have the potential to come out on top. This weekend's set of meets should test whether the Minutemen can pave the road to success.

UMass hockey needs a spark from offense to defeat BC

By Michael Kobylanski
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts hockey team will get a shot at redemption for Tuesday night's 7–1 trouncing at the hands of Boston College tonight when the Eagles visit the William D. Mullins Center for a 7 p.m. face–off (WMUA 91.1 FM).

Although the Minutemen (6–15–2, 3–10–2 in Hockey East) suffered a step backwards in Chestnut Hill a few nights ago, the play of goaltenders Markus Heianen and Mike Johnson was encouraging. Despite the fact that the two combined to allow seven goals, many of those tallies were the result of breakdowns by the UMass defensive unit.

"I don't think that goaltending was our problem tonight," said Massachusetts hockey coach Joe Mallen following Tuesday night's game. "I think that it was getting the puck out of our own zone."

"In the first period we got the puck out of our end fine," he said, "But in the second period we didn't do that. You're not going to win games when you're playing with the puck in your zone."

The UMass blueliners will need to step up their play against the Eagles top scoring threats, notably sophomore All–American Brian Gionta and linemate Blake Bellefuille. Gionta notched two goals and two assists against the Minutemen on Tuesday, while Bellefuille also added a pair of goals.

"B.C. has a lot of team speed, especially with Gionta," Mallen said. "They took it to our defense tonight, which is something that hasn't happened too much this season."

Other key players to watch for the Eagles includes senior Chris Masters, winger Jay Caulfield, and defenseman Mike Mottau, who leads the defending national runners–up in assists.

Offensively, the Minutemen are going to have to find a way to beat sophomore goaltender Scott Clemmensen. The Iowa native appeared mystically out of the cornfields last season and onto the national scene, leading B.C. to the NCAA championship game.

This year he has also been solid in the cage for the Eagles, and allowed only one goal in two–plus periods of work against UMass the other night.

"He's solid. He's a workhorse and plays a lot of games for us," said Boston College hockey coach Jerry York about Clemmensen. "He's been on top of his game for the last three or four weeks. He's been on a great roll and he's made some key saves when we needed him most."

One of the offensive bright spots for the Minutemen lately has been the emergence of the line of Jeff Turner, R.J. Gates and Ray Geever. This trio, along with juniors Jeff Blanchard and Nathan Sell, will be looked upon for some punch up front tonight.

"Ray has done a terrific job. He's gone from earning time as a walk–on — seven games last year — to playing in every game this year," Mallen said. "Jeff [Turner] has also been playing really well, along with R.J. They're an all– sophomore line that we're hoping to build on."

Tonight's game will be the second of three in a row against the Eagles. The season series will conclude on Friday night in Chestnut Hill. After that game, UMass will have completed its season series with the top three teams in the conference, New Hampshire, Maine and B.C.

"That's the good news. Now we get to play them at home," Mallen said. "It [the Mullins Center] has been good to us. We beat Maine and B.U. there, and now we have to see if we can get back up in the saddle for B.C."

Men's track looks to rebound

Track looks for boost against Holy Cross & CC

By Matthew Despres
Collegian Staff

Placing first out of seven teams at the Boston University Winter Carnival on Dec. 5 helped get the UMass men's indoor track team out of the gate faster than the competition. Since then they have cooled off...slightly. First place has eluded them in the two events since BU, but they haven't fallen entirely out of the picture.

The Minutemen will look to recapture their momentum from the BU meet when they travel to the University of New Hampshire this Saturday to battle Holy Cross and Central Connecticut.

Leading up to this weekend, UMass took part in the New England Challenge Cup Trials in Orono, Maine. The top three finishers at this event were allowed to move on, and UMass came in at No. 3 behind Dartmouth and Maine. The Minutemen as a whole seemed to just get by. Senior Ben Baraldi put in a stand–out effort; his time of 7.77 seconds in the final round gave him the victory in the 55 meter hurdles, but it was his impressive preliminary time of 7.70 that qualified him for the New England Championships and the IC4A Championships.

At the finals, the Minutemen managed to finish with 52.75 points, placing ahead of only Maine (37.75), falling to the likes of UConn (171.75), Brown (151), Dartmouth (89.75) and Boston College (53). Senior Matt Ely led all Minutemen, finishing second in the 800 meters with a time of 1:56.39.

Other notable performances were turned in by senior B.J. Cardoza, who placed third in the weight throw (52'11") and junior Vic Morency, who followed Cardoza with a toss of 52'4". Morency was also busy in the shot put, where he placed sixth. Senior Albie Vasquez finished third in the pole vault.

Coach Ken O'Brien had mixed emotions about his team's performance over winter break.

"Inconsistent could be one word I could use to describe the performance throughout the team. Some exceeded, and others were average. The five week layoff had left us a little rough around the edges," O'Brien said.

Anyone who knows track, however, knows that a squad led by O'Brien will not stay rough for long. He says that the squad began to show improvement, and they should be prepared for the meet this weekend.

"This [the UNH meet] is really a terrific event. We always see two teams locked up that are of equal ability, and we, along with UNH, should battle for the top spot," O'Brien said.

UMass pulls to .500 with win over Bonnies, 70–63

By Jackie Leroux
Collegian Staff

Despite a sparse squad and a rigorous travel schedule the Massachusetts women's basketball team (11–11, 6–3 in the Atlantic–10) was able to pull out a win over St. Bonaventure (7–12, 1–8 in the A–10) last night, 70–63. Senior forward Tez Kraft snagged her 500th rebound in the waning minutes of the first half; she also has over 1000 career points.

The Minutewomen were forced to travel up to Olean, N.Y. without the services of senior center Yolanda Rayside. Rayside separated her shoulder in practice on Wednesday. The injury could possibly end Rayside's season.

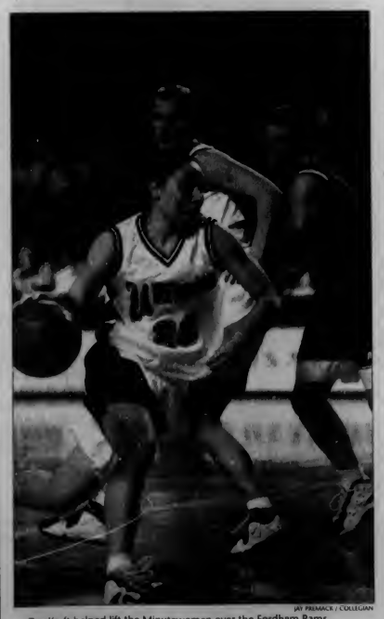
Traveling to St. Bonaventure was also a trial for UMass. The team caught a flight out of Hartford on Wednesday to Pittsburgh. From there the Minutewomen took a flight to Buffalo, which was followed by a two–hour bus ride to the University.

"We played pretty hard, although we did play the first half a little slow," coach Joanie O'Brien said. "St. Bonaventure always has good defensive teams, but we were able to pick it up in the second half."

The Minutewomen's fatigue seemed to show in the first half, as they lost a seven point lead due to sloppy play. The score was tight throughout the first ten minutes of the half, before UMass went on a small run to pull ahead. With the Minutewomen down 13–10 sophomore point guard Kathy Coyner hit two consecutive threes to pull UMass ahead 16– 13.

Led by freshman center Nekole Smith, who had 12 points in the half, UMass continued to build their lead. The team eventually pulled ahead 30–23 with 4:10 left to go in the half. From there the Minutewomen's play turned sloppy on both ends, and they went into halftime leading by one, 31– 30.

Senior guard Erin Sober nailed a three to open up the second half for the Bonnies, but Kraft and Smith were able to give the lead right back to UMass. Kraft had a layup and a three, and Smith hit two lay–ups to pull UMass 40–35.



Three straight jumpers from sophomore guard Melissa Fazio pulled the Bonnies within two with just over 13 minutes remaining in the game. A layup from senior forward Hilary Waltman, the leading scorer in the A–10, would tie the game at 43.

Smith hit one of two free throws to make it 44–43. She missed on her next attempt, but senior forward Lucia Madajova was able to grab the rebound and nailed the putback, making it 46–43 UMass.

Solid free throw shooting from St. Bonaventure kept them within at least nine the rest of the way, but they were unable to overcome five Minutewomen scoring in double digits. Smith completed a double–double with 17 points and 10 rebounds. Kraft finished with 14, Madajova with 10, Coyner with 12, and junior guard Alison MacFarland also collected 10.

The Minutewomen will return home this Sunday for the first time since Jan. 19. UMass will be hosting Fordham (6– 13 overall, 2–7 conference) in the William D. Mullins Center (WMUA 91.1) at 2 p.m.

Material from WMUA contributed to this report.

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN

Tez Kraft helped lift the Minutewomen over the Fordham Rams.

(no more splitting headaches)

Free AT&T Call Organizer℠ Service. Say good-bye to the hassle of splitting phone bills between roommates. Plus, enjoy 10¢ a minute calls and get 100 FREE minutes.

Live off campus? Get FREE AT&T Call Organizer Service.
Why let us keeping up to speed in the dorm room gossip line. AT&T Call Organizer Service lets you keep track of all the calls between roommates, so you'll know who made what call when.

100 FREE MINUTES

AT&T One Rate℠ Off Peak*: Now you can relax in touch with the people in your life for 10¢ a minute, 7pm - 7am Sunday - Friday. Plus, it applies to instate calls. And there's no monthly fee. What a relief. Sign up and start economizing and save with AT&T wherever you're headed.

Sign up now and get 100 FREE minutes.*
Visit www.att.com/college
or call 1 800 654-0471 and mention offer code 66114

It's all within your reach. AT&T

The Massachusetts

DAILY COLLEGIAN

Volume CV Issue 5 | New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 | Monday, February 1, 1999

Volunteers sought to teach about women's health issues

By Julie Fialkow
Collegian Staff

proposed headline: Women's Health Group Seeking Volunteers to help educate campus.

National Studies have shown up to 50 percent of college women are infected with the papilloma virus (genital warts).

Karen Donnelly, coordinator of the Women's Health Group, said the frequency of sexually transmitted diseases in college-aged women is one of the topics they will be educating the campus community about, in the upcoming semester.

The group, which is part of the Health Education Division at University Health Services (UHS), is comprised of both undergraduate and graduate women, and is looking for volunteers interested in participating.

"We need people to help us work on projects. We have planning meetings for these projects, but if someone has a strong interest to develop a project, they can or the group can help develop it," Donnelly said.

Students can get one credit for their participation, she added, for three-hours worth of volunteer work.

Donnelly said the group will be planning events for Eating Disorder Awareness week which is February 22-26.

"During that week, we'll have a media education program. There'll be a table in the Campus Center possibly, with both negative and positive body images of women," Donnelly said.

"We'll have people look at them and ask them which they think are positive and why. We'll also have workshops, and videos on campus cable," Donnelly said.

Other events in the works are distribution of Women and Alcohol fact cards in March, a smoking outreach program in April, a domestic abuse Clothesline Project in March or April, and ongoing STD and Breast Self-Exam workshops.

Donnelly said the group was created four years ago, but then stopped for a short time, probably due to lack of interest.

"In 1992 there was a report put together about women's perception of UHS services. A lot of women talked about what issues they would like to see more education about," she said.

Due largely in part to the report's findings, a group of students got together and started an informal Women's Health Group.

"A graduate student started working on developing body image workshops and breast health projects. It was a gradual process," Donnelly said.

The mission statement of the Women's Health Group states: "...empowerment at the individual level will involve increasing knowledge regarding health issues, increasing self-efficacy for health related behaviors, and increasing self- esteem."

Donnelly sees a number of benefits for student volunteers.

"First of all, they can get experience working in community health education. All aspects [of the group] use interpersonal skills that you have in a workshop type setting. But you can also gain experience and knowledge about other ways to reach people, like press releases, Campus Center tables, and cards," Donnelly said. "A lot of people on campus are not being reached. How do you let people know about health issues and how do you get them to change their behavior?"

Donnelly, who is a public health graduate student, said the group is also a good forum for discussion of women's health issues.

"It is a neat group for people to come into because it has some structure. We are hoping people [health professionals] will come in and talk about different health issues. There is some education you can get out of it for yourself too," she said.

Grant funds go to foreign languages

By Danielle Fugazy
Collegian Staff

A $244,492 grant for the Five College Foreign Language Resource Center is going towards the design of a web-based archive of 15 languages regarded as "critical" by the U.S. Department of Defense.

According to the college collective, Five Colleges, Inc., the grant is from the National Security Education Program. Completion of this two-year project will allow people access to the language archive via the World Wide Web and language resource centers at schools and colleges via DVD-ROM.

This teaching tool uses both audio and video to create a cultural context for foreign language learning. Even at an introductory level, said Professor Elizabeth Mazzocco, director of the Five College Foreign Language Resource Center, evidence suggests that the best way to acquire a language is by learning it within a cultural context.

There are currently 15 languages which will be available in the archive. They are Bulgarian, Croatian, Czech, Hindi, Hungarian, Indonesian, Japanese, Korean, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Serbian, Swahili, Thai, and Turkish.

The languages chosen fall into the category of "critical" as defined by the department of Defense.

According to Carol Angus, the associate coordinator for public information and publications for Five College Inc., "critical" refers to the "areas of the world that are key and tend to be areas Americans know a little about."

According to Mazzocco the new video archive represents a pioneering effort to utilize new technologies to make learning accessible to people with a broad range of needs and interests, both on campus and beyond.

Anyone preparing to travel, to study, or to work internationally will be able to use the archives. In addition, all the exercises assume no prior knowledge of the target language and all expose the learner to common situations travelers confront, for example, using a tele-

Turn to FUNDS, page 2

Party lines divide how to spend the surplus

By Alan Fram
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — With federal surpluses looming larger than ever, lawmakers are bracing for a yearlong tax-cut fight as President Clinton prepares to release a $1.77 trillion budget for 2000 that ignores the Republican call for across-the-board reductions in tax rates.

The president's proposal, which he is sending to Congress today, projects surpluses totaling $2.41 trillion over the decade ending 2009, people familiar with the package said. That is nearly $160 billion less than the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office envisions for the same period, but still a huge sum the two parties are already wrangling over.

"That makes for a pretty good fight, I think," Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., said in an interview yesterday.

Clinton's plan also assumes the federal government will collect $18.9 billion from 2001 through 2004 from settlements the tobacco industry has reached with the states, the sources said.

The president wants to use the money to pay for tobacco-related health costs for millions of veterans, federal workers, American Indians and the poor. But the fate of the money is in question because state officials have promised to contest federal claims to any portion of the money.

Clinton's budget favors narrowly aimed tax breaks like $1,000 credits for long-term health-care patients and disabled people trying to return to work. It would shower billions of dollars on the Pentagon, schools and mass transit, plus smaller amounts on everything from helping the mentally ill to restoring salmon populations in the Northwest.

All his plans require congressional action, and it is unclear how cooperative the two sides will be considering acrimony built by Clinton's impeachment trial and in the run-up to the 2000 presidential campaign. Already, Republicans are on the attack.

"There's no question this document is the rebirth of big government," Domenici said.

Following Clinton's lead, both par-

Turn to PARTY LINES, page 2

Dog days of winter
An Amherst local waits patiently for his owner's return.

Ex-Gay conversion a possiblity?

By Ken McDonald
Collegian Correspondent

If you're gay or lesbian, you may be able to be "cured," according to the basic theory of the right-wing "ex-gay" movement.

Members of the movement believe people of homosexual orientation can heal themselves through a fundamentalist religious conversion.

Surina Khan, an associate analyst at Political Research Associates (PRA), spoke about the movement Thursday afternoon in the Campus Center.

She warns that although this philosophy does not sit well with the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender (LGBT) community, it is gaining media attention and mainstream credibility.

PRA is a think-tank that monitors the political right.

Khan has been closely watching the actions of the ex-gay movement. Khan said members of the movement attempt to reach out to gays and lesbians and embrace them in a more "traditional," Christian manner.

Khan said unlike the comments of such televangelists as Pat Roberston the ex-gay movement seeks to embrace a homosexual individual, and then, seeks to have that person "renounce" their homosexuality via Christian scripture and meditation.

Khan said once that has happened, ex-gays adopt themes of the Christian right.

"People are born homosexuals because homosexuals are a mistake," Khan said as examples of the right's themes. "Child abuse and molestation causes homosexuality."

Khan urged the GLBT community not to react in similarly harsh terms as homophobics do, but more understanding ones for those that want to try this conversion.

"If these people can be reached, they can't be demonized," Kahn said about the growing numbers of homosexuals that are moving in the direction of the ex-gay movement.

"It is important to distinguish between the followers of a movement and the leaders of a movement," Khan said.

She said members of the movement are seeking what they think will be a better life for homosexuals, while the ex-gay leaders have "a broader theocratic agenda."

According to Khan, it is not only gays and lesbians that question their sexuality that are being targeted, but

Turn to GAY, page 3

Actor tells students 'Trust your gut'

By Laura Chaves
Collegian Correspondent

Tony Award winning actor, Ken Howard, shared advice and anecdotes about acting with a gathering of students and faculty in the Curtain Theater last Friday.

Speaking informally with the audience, Howard examined his acting career by comparing his experience in the theater and film industries.

"Anyone who says it's the same thing is crazy. It's not. When you're on the stage, you're up there and you either got it or you don't," Howard said.

Howard candidly reflected on his career and the joys and pitfalls of the acting industry. While sharing his own personal and often humorous memories, he invited students to share their trials and tribulations.

"My goal is to make myself available to you," Howard said.

The Friday presentation, sponsored by the UMass Theater Department, kicked off the department's spring schedule of events.

The audience, composed primarily of Theater majors, had the opportunity to ask the seasoned actor questions as to what they might expect come graduation day.

"I will tell you this," Howard said. "I promise the amount of enjoyment you get is almost inversely proportional to the amount of money you are being paid."

"I really enjoyed it," said senior Theater major Michael Chiavaroli. "I especially liked that he discussed his personal experiences in the business. It's rough, and hearing other actors speak gives some perspective on what to expect."

Howard, an Amherst College graduate, majored in English and furthered his academic career at the Yale School of Drama. However, he left school a year early to pursue a role in the Neil Simon/Burt Bacharach musical Promises, Promises. He earned a Tony Award for Child's Play and a Theater World Award for his portrayal of Thomas Jefferson in the Tony Award winning musical 1776, later reprising the role in the film version, 1776, Independence.

Howard's other film credits include: Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon, Oscar, Ulterior Motives, Clear and Present Danger, The Net, Tactical Assault and the recently released At First Sight. He also starred in the ABC series "Adam's Rib", "The Manhunter" and "The White Shadow."

Concluding his lecture, Howard advised graduating seniors to "Trust your gut, even when conventional wisdom, whatever that is, dictates otherwise. You just have to trust your gut."

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Tuesday	Wednesday
HIGH: 43 LOW: 19	HIGH: 38 LOW: 32	HIGH: 46 LOW: 30

SOURCE: CNN.COM

Extra money leaves parties at odds

President Clinton's budget surplus proposal leaves Republicans frowning. (See story above).

NEWS PAGE 8

Hole's idea was this?

Courtney Love and Hole plan to team up with shock- rocker Marilyn Manson on tour this Spring. Check out some other breaking music news inside.

ARTS PAGE 6

The downward spiral

Junior guard Monty Mack scored 26 points, but it was not enough as the Massachusetts men's basketball team suffered another setback with a 76-63 loss to Texas in Austin yesterday. page 12

SPORTS PAGE 10

Arts & Living 5
Classifieds 10
Comics 11
Crossword 11
Editorial 4
FYI 2
News 10
Sports 12

ON THE INTERNET
www.dailycollegian.com

KARA STOKES/ COLLEGIAN

A shadow cast

Amherst residents are draped in the season's shadows as they wait for a bus.

Albanians divided as peace talks start

By Robert H. Reid
Associated Press

PRISTINA, Yugoslavia — Only days before Kosovo Albanians were expected to talk peace with the Serbs, U.S. and British envoys were shuttling between hotel rooms, explaining conference plans to rival ethnic Albanians who wouldn't even sit together.

Beyond that common goal of independence for their Kosovo homeland, ethnic Albanian leaders are divided by deep personal and philosophical differences, petty rivalries and a desire for power. The success of the international Kosovo peace conference, which the United States and five major European powers have called for Feb. 6, may depend largely on whether these groups can speak with a single voice in negotiations with the Serbs.

"There is considerable pressure now for them to unite, and it's not only coming from the international community but from inside the Albanian community as well," Veton Surroi, an influential ethnic Albanian journalist, told The Associated Press.

Independence from the Yugoslav republic of Serbia is a goal agreed on by most Kosovo Albanians, who form 90 percent of the province's 2 million people.

Mahmut Bakali, the former Communist Party president in Kosovo, says international pressure will probably lead the rivals to overcome their differences.

"There is no difference in the goal of independence," he said. "These rivalries are irrational."

Still animosities are huge and have sometimes exploded into bloodshed.

In September, moderate politician Sabri Hamiti was critically wounded in an unsolved ambush after expressing readiness to negotiate only self-rule — the goal of the talks in Rambouillet, France.

The key ethnic Albanian players are Ibrahim Rugova, the twice-elected "president" of a Kosovo government which the Serbs have never recognized and the Kosovo Liberation Army, which has rebounded from battlefield defeats last summer.

Although independence remains his goal, Rugova has accepted a plan for an "interim solution" to grant Kosovo sweeping autonomy for three years.

After that, Serbs and ethnic Albanians could reconsider full independence. But Albanian state television quoted senior KLA official Jakup Krasniqi as saying "negotiations organized in a rush do not guarantee success for the solving of the Kosovo problem."

Krasniqi, who met last week with U.S. envoy Christopher Hill, was quoted by the rebel news agency Kosova Press as saying the guerrillas "remain open to negotiations with relevant international actors."

Rugova, a French-educated poet, pacifist and symbol of Kosovo Albanian resistance, was for a decade the unchallenged leader of his community until the KLA emerged in November 1997 to launch a campaign of armed struggle.

Rugova is an unlikely leadership figure, especially in a region with a tradition of iron-fisted, charismatic rule.

A soft-spoken, almost reclusive figure, Rugova did not venture outside of Pristina for months during last summer until Hill virtually dragged him out of the city to see the depth of suffering among the people he would lead.

On the other side stands the KLA, whose attacks against Serb police prompted President Slobodan Milosevic to launch his massive crackdown on the ethnic Albanian community last February.

■ party lines

continued from page 1

ties have agreed to set aside most of the surplus to shore up Social Security for the pending retirement of baby boomers, though they disagree how to do it. But while both sides also say extra money is needed for defense and education, Republicans want to devote hundreds of billions of surplus dollars to a 10 percent across-the-board reduction in income tax rates.

The idea, supported by many House and Senate Republicans alike, highlights how GOP lawmakers from the two chambers seem determined to move past internal divisions that stymied action last year on taxes. Domenici is looking at a plan that would gradually phase in the rate reductions, costing perhaps $650 billion over 10 years or more.

Democrats are already launching offensives against the Republican proposal, including their often-used argument that the GOP is mostly trying to help the rich. Because higher-income people earn more money and pay higher tax rates, a 10 percent reduction in all income tax rates would mean the average higher-income person would get a bigger dollar savings than low-income Americans.

"One of the last things we want is to present something that's more beneficial to the wealthy than it is to the working class," Sen. Frank Lautenberg of New Jersey, top Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee, said yesterday.

In addition, in documents it has distributed to Democratic congressional aides, the White House contrasts the GOP proposal with Clinton's plan to set aside $536 billion of the surplus for federal contributions to new investment accounts the president would establish to help people save for retirement.

■ funds

continued from page 1

phone, eating out, or going to the bank. The archives "will open doors," Angus said.

Video "is ideal for providing learners with this critical kind of merged linguistic and cultural knowledge, precisely because it includes a visual context that personalizes the foreign culture and language in a way usually not available until the learner arrives in the target country," Mazzocco said.

sporty, yet practical

textbooks to go!

free delivery

buy online • new and used • save up to 40%

big words

www.bigwords.com

Valentine's Day

is just around the corner

Let them know how special they really are to you...

for the mere price of ten cents a word you can give the one you love something to cherish forever..

Their very own Collegian Classified from you

... won't you look good. Of course you will, as long as you get your message in by the deadline of Tuesday Feb. 9th.

GOP lacks luster in public poll

By Will Lester
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Republicans are lagging in the polls these days on issues ranging from trust over handling the nation's problems to their overall popularity as the Senate's GOP leaders press the impeachment case against President Clinton.

But observers agree it is not as important how long the trial lasts as how effectively Republicans can change the subject back to the nation's business once the trial ends.

Political analyst Charles Cook, noting the time until the 2000 election, saying: "Two years is a long time, if you use it well." Democratic strategists are heartened by polls that find nearly six out of 10 people disapprove of how Senate Republicans are handling the impeachment trial. Two-thirds of the public approve of the way Clinton is doing his job, according to several surveys. At the same time, polls released over the weekend by The Washington Post, the Los Angeles Times and Newsweek magazine showed 64 or 65 percent of respondents opposing the president's conviction and removal from office. The findings, which carried a margin of error of plus or minus 3 or 4 percentage points, are consistent with earlier polls.

Perhaps more troubling for Republicans is the Democratic advantage on handling of top issues. A recent Pew poll gave Democrats a marked lead over which party has the better ideas on such concerns as education, health care reform and Social Security. Democrats were the narrow choice regarding the global economy and even had a 45 percent-32 percent advantage in the traditionally strong GOP area of tax cuts for the middle class. Republicans won on morality.

The margin of error on the Pew poll of 1,200 adults, taken in mid-January, was plus or minus 3.5 percentage points.

While Clinton speaks of of such "kitchen table" issues as education, health care and Social Security in his State of the Union address and other speeches, Republican leaders face media questions about impeachment.

KARA STOKES/ COLLEGIAN

A face lift for the new year

Bruegger's Bagels, left, is currently closed and undergoing renovations and expansion. Bueno Y Sano, right, underwent a similar transformation over the break.

AIDS originates from primates

By Daniel Q. Haney
Associated Press

CHICAGO — Where did the AIDS virus come from? Scientists believe they have solved this lingering mystery. The answer: chimps.

In a presentation yesterday, researchers from the University of Alabama at Birmingham said they have convincing proof that the virus has spread on at least three separate occasions from chimpanzees to people in Africa. One of these cross-species transmissions was the start of the epidemic that now infects about 35 million people worldwide.

Chimps, which have probably carried the virus for hundreds of thousands of years, apparently do not get sick from it. Figuring out why could be important.

"This is excellent science with biological and virological importance. If we understood how the chimp has dealt with this infection over time, that could have implications for human medicine," said Dr. Kevin DeCock, an AIDS expert at the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta.

While chimps have long been suspected as the source, "there have been a lot of loose ends that made people uncomfortable drawing that conclusion," said Dr. Beatrice Hahn.

Whatever its origins, HIV is a recent affliction of people. At last year's Conference on Retroviruses and Opportunistic Infections, Dr. David Ho and others from the Aaron Diamond AIDS Research Center at Rockefeller University presented evidence that the virus probably first infected humans in the 1940s or early '50s.

At the opening of this year's meeting, Hahn made the case that this event almost certainly occurred in west equatorial Africa when someone caught the virus from a chimp, perhaps after killing the animal for food.

Hahn said her team nailed down the connection by analyzing frozen tissue saved from a chimp named Marilyn that died from complications of childbirth at a U.S. Air Force primate center 14 years ago.

The chimp version of the AIDS virus — the microbe now thought to be the grandfather of HIV — is called SIVcpz. It is extremely rare among chimps in U.S. lab colonies, apparently because these animals are removed from the wild as babies and so are never exposed to the virus sexually.

Until recently, SIVcpz had been isolated only three times. The fourth turned up when a colleague cleaning out a lab freezer ran across Marilyn's specimens and sent them to Hahn. Her team was able to perform various kinds of genetic analysis that were unavailable when the chimp died.

■ gay

continued from page 1

individuals who are secure in their sexuality also.

Kahn described how influential members of the GLBT community have been successfully persuaded to work in ex- gay publishing houses.

Also, groups such as the Christian Coalition have had to realize that the language of hate and intimidation does not recruit new members.

Their recruiting tactics have proven successful, Khan said, mentioning the large quantity of ex-gay information gathering agencies and magazines.

The ex-gay movement, which did not receive support from the religious right in the 1980s because it was seen as a way to embrace homosexuality, now receives fiscal support from major right wing organizations who see it as a valuable tool to project their anti-homosexual views, Khan said.

Surina Khan appeared courtesy of the Stonewall Center Spring Lecture Series, GLBGSO, Women's Studies and the Chancellor's Task Force on GLBT matter.

The lecture series offers students a one-credit independent study option, via the Women's Studies Department.

Diversigize the Collegian!!!
We are still looking for Editors on the Multicultural, GLBT, and Developing Nations desks.
Come down to the Campus Center basement to apply or call 5-1851 for more information.

Information about the University Alcohol Policy:
Important changes in sanctioning • WHAT EVERY STUDENT SHOULD KNOW

Why Changes in Alcohol Sanctions?

• The University has a responsibility to implement policies to protect the rights of members of our community from the negative actions of those who abuse alcohol.
• Recently there have been some severe and unfortunate incidents involving the misuse of alcohol in our community. The misuse of alcohol is of grave concern to all of us.
• Irresponsible and abusive behavior can hinder a student's academic performance, endanger their personal health, and negatively impact on the campus environment.

What do the sanctions really mean?

Housing Probation: A specified period of time during which any further alcohol violations (or other Code of Student Conduct violations) may result in Housing Removal or Housing Relocation.

Housing Relocation & Restriction: You will be assigned to a different residence hall, cluster, or area and you will be prohibited from entering the residence hall, cluster, or area in which you previously lived.

Housing Removal & Restriction: You will not be allowed to live on campus for a specified period of time. You will be prohibited from entering the residence hall(s) from which you are restricted.

Permanent Housing Removal & Restriction: You will not be allowed to live on campus ever again. You may not enter any residence halls ever again.

University Probation: A specified period of time during which any further alcohol violations (or other Code of Student Conduct violations) may result in Suspension from the University.

Suspension: A specified period of time during which you cannot participate in any University sponsored activities. You will be barred from all University premises. You will lose academic credit for a suspension that takes effect during a semester. A suspension may be recorded on your transcript.

*Any monetary losses as a result of Housing Removal will be your own responsibility.

What are the possible consequences for violating the campus alcohol policies? Alcohol Sanctions – Effective September 1998

What are the University alcohol policies?

II.D.10.a Alcohol-Underage Drinking/Possession: In accordance with Massachusetts law, you must be 21 or older to drink or possess alcoholic beverages. If all residents of a room are under 21 years of age, no alcoholic beverages are allowed in the room at any time.

II.D.10.b Alcohol –Open Container in Public Space: The consumption of alcohol or possession of an open or shatterable container of alcohol is prohibited in all common areas of residence halls including, but not limited to, public corridors, stairwells, bathrooms, kitchen units, and lounges. Note: Residents over the age of 21 may consume alcohol in their rooms, whether the door is open or closed.

II.D.10.c Alcohol –Large Volume: The amount of alcohol that an individual student may possess is limited to a 24-pack case of beer or 64 ounces of wine or other alcohol. Kegs, beer balls, and other large volume containers that contain alcoholic beverages are not permitted.

II.D.10.d Alcohol-Providing Alcohol to an Underage Drinker: Residents who are of legal drinking age may not provide alcohol to students under the legal drinking age.

CODE VIOLATIONS	FIRST OFFENSE	SECOND OFFENSE	THIRD OFFENSE
II.D.10.a Under age 21 possession and/or consumption II.D.10.b Open container of alcohol in public space	Housing probation for one year AND Alcohol Education	Relocation and restriction from current residence hall AND Substance abuse referral to REAP	Housing removal and restriction from current residence hall for one year AND Suspension from the University for one year
II.D.10.c Possession of keg or large volume of alcohol II.D.10.d Dispensing alcohol to minors	Housing removal and restriction for one year and substance abuse refer ral to REAP OR Relocation and restriction from current residence hall AND Substance abuse referral to REAP	Permanent housing removal and restriction from all residence halls AND University probation	Suspension from the University for one year

Note: All sanctions are cumulative. Consequently, students who already have a judicial history may receive more severe sanctions. Sanctions may also be enhanced based on the severity of the behavior and the impact on the community.

How can we help you?

Alcohol Education Workshop
The goal of the Alcohol Education Workshop is to assist those students who are first time offenders of the UMass alcohol policy. The workshop provides the opportunity for students to examine University Alcohol policy and Massachusetts Law, as well as to re-evaluate their personal choices with regards to alcohol use. It is an interactive, two-hour session that explores the common alcohol myths, physiological effects of alcohol use, impact of alcohol abuse on community life, and strategies for change. Additionally, it provides information about other campus resources. Sessions are conducted by alcohol educators and will be held from 7-9 PM on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday during the academic year.

Residential Education Alcohol Program
The Residential Education Alcohol Program (REAP) is a University of Massachusetts Student Assistance Program for addiction prevention that offers substance abuse counseling to all UMass students. Started in 1987 by UMass Housing Services, REAP uses a time-limited counseling and intervention process that helps students change problem substance abuse behaviors. Services include individual assessment and counseling, group counseling, crisis intervention and resource/referral information. The staff can conduct a confidential drug/alcohol use assessment, concluding with a recommendation, if necessary, for follow-up treatment/counseling. Short-term individual therapy is also available for students within the program. REAP is the only UMass program that offers court-mandated counseling. Students who are court-referred are responsible for completing their mandated counseling within their stated probationary periods. Students may also be referred to REAP as a result of a judicial sanction. The Judicial Workshop consists of 2 individual counseling sessions and 3 three-hour group sessions. Students are also required to complete written self-evaluation assignments between sessions. REAP is located in Moore Lobby in Southwest. For further information, call 545-0137.

For Questions and Information About The Alcohol Policy and Sanctioning, Contact: Dean of Students Office 545-2684

The following additional publications are available in the Dean of Students Office:
*University Alcohol Policy
*Overview of the University of Massachusetts Amherst Judicial System
*Undergraduate Rights and Responsibilities
*Residence Hall Manual
*Are You At Risk?

Other Resources:
Athletic Health Enhancement Program (AHEP) 545-4588
Employee Assistance Program (EAP) . . . 545-0350
Health Education Division 577-5181
Mental Health Services 545-2337
Residential Education Alcohol Program (REAP) 545-0137
Health Services 577-5000

Campus Web Pages:
University Health Services:
www.umass.edu/uhs
UHS Mental Health Division:
www.umass.edu/uhs/mentalhealth
UHS Mental Health Issues:
www.umass.edu/eap.issues.html
Residential Alcohol Education Program:
www.housing.umass.edu/html/reap.html

Published by the Dean of Students Office University of Massachusetts, Amherst

... The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian ...

Try a little tenderness

Allow me to recite a cliche. "If we were all just a little nicer, the world would be a better place!"

On Dec. 28, I had a date at the Taunton Superior Courthouse. No, I wasn't there to defend my obsession with knocking old ladies down the stairs. I had that civil obligation that all American citizens dread — jury duty.

Taunton has gotten a fairly bad reputation in the past few years. Their police captain, simply known as "Captain Good," was arrested last year for illegally selling confiscated firearms.

Captain Good is now known as "Captain Incarcerated." The bottom line is that I didn't know that much about Taunton and if I could get through the day, serve my civil duty and go home, I would be happy. However, it wasn't that simple.

I found the parking garage at about 8:45 a.m. and was happy that I had a few spare minutes. I took the keys from the ignition and placed them on the passenger seat. I walked out of the car and as I shut the locked door the keys sitting on the seat seemed to scream out, "Hey moron, forgetting something?"

Now, if you've ever locked your keys in the car you know what I'm talking about when I say it happens in slow motion. You always seem to notice that the door is locked and your keys are in the car at the exact same time. Everything seems to slow down and your brain tells you to stop the door from slamming, but it's already shut.

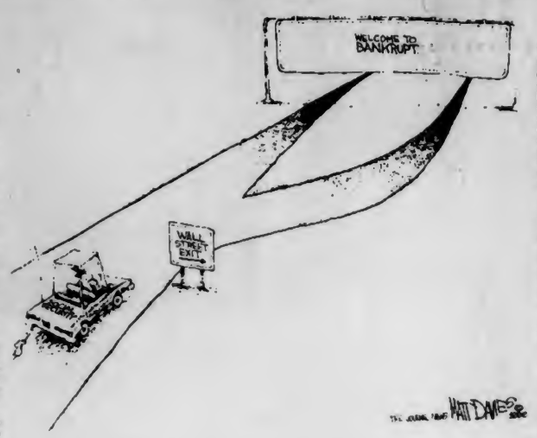
Of course my cell phone was in the car sitting right next to the keys. So now I had to resort to asking the parking garage attendant what I should do.

The attendant in the garage told me he would just call the Taunton Police Department and they'd bring their slim-jim to let me in. All I could think of was Captain Good walking up to me and saying, "So, you locked yourself out, you low-life degenerate," then proceeding to shoot me with one of his contraband guns. The man told me that it never takes the cops more than five minutes to arrive.

A while later, there was no sign of a police officer, and the attendant was saying brilliant things like, "It's cold out today." He then pointed out proudly how it would be impossible for him to lock himself out of his car because the precision piece of equipment from 1955, with 12 colors of rust, had no locks. I told him that I was going to court and asked if I could work something out to get my keys back before serving my duty.

When I walked into the courtroom there was no one else there. I walked into the judge's chamber and the nice woman with the big mole on her face said, "What are you doing here?!"

I explained to her that I was reporting for jury duty and she responded with, "Can't you use a phone?" I thought of beating her over the head with a phone, but instead intelligently responded, "Huh?"



She told me that had I known how to use a phone, I would have called last night and found out that jury duty was canceled and I didn't have to show up. So angrily, I walked back to the parking garage. After an hour, no one was there to help. Luckily, a cruiser passed by and Jimmy, the 90-year-old parking lot attendant, waved him down. When the cop rolled his window down, and Jimmy told him that I had locked my keys in the car, the officer said, "Good for him."

He told me to walk next door to the fire department. When I got there, two men came back to the garage with me, and had a race to see who could get into my car faster. The fireman who was working on the driver's side door won, and asked to check my license and registration, which I couldn't find.

My life was made miserable through bad luck and other people's rudeness. Like I said before, if we could all be a little nicer, the world would be a much better place.

Ryan Benharris is a Collegian columnist.

Ryan Benharris

To thine own self...

The scenario: It's New Year's Eve. You are at a party where people are proving that they are definitely ready for 1999. There has been some semi-major damage to a very nice home. People are upstairs having drunk sex on somebody's little brother's bed.

More importantly, your best friend has been having some serious problems lately. It's nobody's business but his own (and certainly not yours, beloved reader of mine), and he's had too much to drink. He's angry and more than a little out of control. Most of the damage to his house that night is his own doing. Now it's three in the morning and he wants a friend, who has had just as much to drink as he has, to take him for a ride. What do you do?

"I always said that I did what I liked. I didn't give a damn about the opinions of others."

Rob Schulze

The answer is, of course, obvious. You step in, the Voice of Reason, and you stop it. You take a few hits for it maybe, and you make some problems but you definitely lay the smack down and don't allow either of them to get anywhere near that car. You possibly save both their lives. It's the right thing to do, no question at all.

So why did I do no such thing?

Why did I feel like garbage as I watched them both get into the car and yet do nothing? Why did I go home right after they left and head to bed with the logic being, "Hey, I have to work tomorrow." Why did I drop the ball?

Of course, I have no answer for my actions. People who fail on that magnitude never do. I could rationalize it down to nothing (I'm an old hand at that) and store it away in the Black Hole of Guilt, never to appear again. I have no Intention of doing that this time, however. Everything I ever felt myself to be, failed in that moment and I just won't let that moment define me.

I always said that I did what I liked. I didn't give a damn about the opinions of others. They don't like my music? My clothes? Me? Screw 'em! But when it was on the line, it was as though there were a million piercing eyes in the room, pointed directly at my forehead. No one else was saying a thing. Why should I be the one making a scene? Of course they were all probably muttering the same thing (and I hope they are all feeling guilty as well, although I doubt it), but these thoughts paralyzed me. I would have willingly entered into a humiliating, futile, loud argument had someone said that pro wrestling is stupid, but I couldn't bring myself to break the silence when it counted.

And it's not like I didn't know either. I was the most sober person on the Eastern Seaboard at the time. I'd had all the requisite health education in the fine Massachusetts public school system. Certain drunk driving fatality statistics from Ms. Eddy's sophomore year class kept popping up in front of me. I knew how much they'd both had and I knew that it was way too much. I was up to my eyeballs in knowledge but all the education in the world equals zero, without action.

So now you may be wondering, if this bothers me so much and if I am such scum, why I am writing this particular column at all? Instead of a sequel to my highly insightful Batman piece. The obvious reason is, of course, that other people might read this and not make the same mistake, but even I don't really believe that one. People will do what they do regardless of what I write, until perhaps they actually have this happen. The other reason is personal. I never want to forget this thing that I did. Writing it down like this and having it distributed to half the humanity in my immediate vicinity should take care of that job rather well. I do believe in learning from one's mistakes (in fact, it's probably the best way to learn), but that's impossible without first admitting to them. The next time this happens I will draw on this experience and not be afraid to do what is right. I do realize that that last sentence sounds like it's from some pretentious therapy booklet, but it's also the truth.

Oh yeah, I never did mention whether anything bad happened to them on their little ride.

Does it matter?

Rob Schulze is a Collegian columnist.

Escort service misused by some

As you probably know, the UMass Police Department offers an escort that makes scheduled stops circling campus every half hour. If you're too afraid to walk across campus, then this is the perfect transportation. But what if you're too lazy?

What if you and a group of friends are too lazy? Do you still take it?

"Total sarcasm aside, there are probably a great many people that would rather not be back here at UMass quite yet."

Emily Vacanti

For the past year and a half, I've used the escort service solely because I have been too afraid to walk across campus alone at night. Unfortunately, I have not been allowed into the van because it was already at capacity. That would not have bothered me if a group of big guys were not already in it. I weigh 133 pounds. Each of these guys easily weighed between 200 and 250 pounds, but I was the one left out in the dark. Situations like this make me think that the escort service is regarded more as a one-way taxi than anything else.

The original purpose of this service was to transport people from one on-campus destination to another who were afraid to walk alone at night. The year before I started here there was not a fixed route. If you wanted safe transportation, then you had to call to request it. Due to requests, a fixed route was developed.

Now anyone can hop on. The only necessity is for there to be enough room. Do groups of three, four, or five really need to be taxied across campus because they can't get off of their butts and exercise lightly for 10 or 15 minutes? I think not.

Not being allowed in the van inspired me to take a self- defense course (another offering of the school from the P.E. department). I figured that if I had to put myself at risk because of the laziness of others, then I could at least reduce the risk by preparing myself for an attack.

This brings me to another point. Do people, both men and women, actually get attacked on this campus? Yes, they do. I have been attacked while crossing campus and like a fool, the thought — "It will never happen to me" — was in my head at the time. In the first week of my freshman year it happened. It does happen.

I also personally know of several others who have been attacked. For me it's gotten to the point where if I can't get into the van and decide to walk home, then I look out for other females. If I see one, I immediately join her for the safety of both of us. When I walk alone I constantly look behind my back. Any large campus is not safe when the sun goes down.

Regarding an actual taxi service, Amherst is without one. If you find that you cannot catch a bus early enough in the morning or because of infrequent hours during the later and weekend hours, then you have to refer to Northampton for a taxi. When trying to get across campus — other than the bus system which does not operate on weekends or past midnight — you have nothing.

Too many students think of the escort service in the wrong way. They should stop regarding it as a taxi service and see it as a device for the safety of all who need to get across campus alone. Otherwise who knows what will end up happening to some unsuspecting, naive person.

Emily Vacanti is a UMass student.

Ode to joy

So, you're back to the University of Massachusetts after your five-week Christmas hiatus. You're probably not particularly thrilled about that because, well, now you have responsibility thrust back on your chest. Fun fun. I don't believe any of us can think of anything more enthralling than writing a 10-page paper about the biology of a dung beetle, especially after a terribly relaxing month of doing nothing in particular.

Total sarcasm aside though, there are probably a great many people out there that would rather not be back here quite yet. That's a crying shame because there are oodles of reasons to be happy that we've returned to this glorious institution.

Seth Koenig

First of all, the country's two favorite holidays, Christmas and Super Sunday, are both over. What better way to occupy the vacated space in your consciousness than with that dung beetle paper. Santa has come and gone, and for the seventeenth straight year, you've caught your parents taking the milk and cookies. As for the Super Bowl, well, John Madden didn't come down your chimney and give you gifts like he was supposed to. Let's face it, the stress of the holidays is overwhelming and we're all happy they're over.

Secondly, the weight you gain between Dec. 23 and Jan. 2 makes your first semester seem like a Jenny Craig clinic. It's true that the constant parties and food are fun, but now it's time to start paying attention to the belt size again, and the task is much easier here at UMass where tasty vegetarian meals are offered every day at your nearby dining commons.

Another good reason to be happy you're back at the University is because of all of the cool things to do around here. In the course of one week in November, both the Counting Crows and Elton John came to the Mullins Center. Sugar Ray, 311 and Live all stopped by during semester one as well, and semester two will no doubt boast more big bands.

Not to mention the Minutemen basketball and hockey teams. You can't beat UMass sports (unless you're Michigan or UCLA or someone). There are games going on almost everyday for some sports, and thus, something to do.

If you're not impressed with sports or concerts, there are nifty protests to take part in almost all the time. In the fall, we saw the republican students protest the banning of alcohol, the gay and lesbian students protest the Red Cross, and the teachers assistants protest the handling of their contract negotiations. Back home, the only thing to protest is the wrongful use of the remote control.

If you are one of those people that simply doesn't like to do anything, that's fine. There are times when I don't want to do anything too, so I understand how you feel. I can feel that we've bonded...

Now that we've finished our emotionally stimulating time together, I'll continue.

For those of you who prefer lounging around and watching the world go by, UMass is still better than home. Here at the Amherst campus, there is always a quiet place to sit and zone out or take a nap. There is a good chance that nobody will bother you as you strive for that ultimate relaxation. I recommend wearing sunglasses so that the professors don't see what you're trying to do, though.

Another popular activity for lounge lizards to partake in is people watching, and there certainly are people to watch at the University of Massachusetts. There are big people, little people, colorful people and bland people. Regardless of your sex, there are attractive folks of the opposite one that are constantly passing by at any given point on the campus. Watch away.

After all that's said and done, you can still get an education by taking a bit of your busy schedule and writing papers; perhaps about dung beetles, if you're lucky. One of the wonderful things about UMass is that you can format your own major, so that only can you have a better time than you would be having at home, you can get a degree for it! Won't future interviewers be impressed when you flash them your resume, complete with a bachelor of arts in musical performance attendance with a minor in human observation.

I think that about settles it. If you find floormates or classmates or, well, mates that are bummed out about coming back to UMass, just tell them to read this article, and then the few of you can go skipping and frolicking through the snowdrifts of Massachusetts, happy to be at school and happy to be alive.

Seth Koenig is a Collegian staff writer.

Two important events this Wednesday, Feb. 3:

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

113 Campus Center • University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 • (413) 545-3500 • Fax (413) 545-1992 • http://www.umass.edu/rso/collegian

Casey Kane Editor-in-Chief Mike Messaros Managing Editor Styve Ogando Business Manager David Voldan Production Manager
Steve Salerno Jr. Advertising Manager David Parmenter Advertising Production Manager Edgar Barros Senior Diversity Editor

Bryan McAllister Arts & Living Editor
Edgar Barros Black Affairs Editor
Position Vacant Developing Nations Editor
Tanya Mannes Editorial/Opinion Editor
Position Vacant Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Issues Editor
Elana Premack Jewish Affairs Editor

Position Vacant Multicultural Affairs Editor
Laura Forster News Editor
Brian McDermott Photography Editor
Michael Kobylarski Co-Sports Editor
Paul Teves Co-Sports Editor
Julie Fialkow Women's Issues Editor

Joseph D. Savitch Editorial Production Manager
Position Vacant Artistic Production Manager
Position Vacant Systems Manager
Daniel Hahn Finance Manager
Mark Presten Distribution Manager
Laura Keller Promotions Manager

Jaclyn E. Alberti Classifieds Manager
Position Vacant Operations Manager
Maureen Majerowski Assistant Operations Manager
Marty Pappas Classified Advertising
Thomas F. Sweeney, Jr. Graphics Advisor/Instructor
Jacob Buckley-Fortin Webmaster

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is published Monday through Friday during the University of Massachusetts calendar semester. The Collegian is financially independent from the University of Massachusetts, operating solely on revenues generated by advertising sales. The paper was founded in 1890 as Aggie Life, became the College Signal in 1901, the Weekly Collegian in 1914 and then the Tri-Weekly Collegian in 1956. The Collegian has been published daily since 1967, and has been a broadsheet publication since January 1994. For advertising rates and information, call (413) 545-3500 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Art, poetry offered up at Augusta Savage Gallery

By Bryan McAllister
Collegian Staff

If you're looking for the best way to experience diverse culture here on campus this spring — something that's cheap, convenient and especially different — than stop in at the Augusta Savage Gallery located in the New Africa House, at the bottom of Central Residential Area's hill. The Gallery is offering a number of free, open events that focus on cultural and artistic traditions.

COURTESY AUGUSTA SAVAGE GALLERY

Poet Corey Cokes visits UMass on Feb. 24 to read his award-winning poetry.

One such event starts Feb. 8 and runs through March 12, called "Impermanence." It's an exhibit of recent drawings by California-based artist Leslie Kenneth Price. The artist's drawings explore spirituality and nature, transformation and rebirth. Price's work has been widely exhibited for the last 25 years and she teaches art at Humbolt State University in Arcata, Calif. An opening reception for Price's work will take place on Monday, Feb. 8, from 5 p.m.–7 p.m.

Another event is from UMass professor of music and dance, Horace Boyer, will introduce and discuss a video screening of "Too Close to Heaven: The History of Gospel" on Tuesday, Feb. 16, at 7 p.m. The video is a documentary about the growth of gospel music and its evolution into the genres of jazz, blues and rock-and-roll. "Too Close to Heaven" mixes rare live footage of performances and insightful interviews, with the likes of Rev. Jesse Jackson.

Outspoken, award-winning poet Corey Cokes arrives at the Gallery on Feb. 24, at 7 p.m. to give a reading. Cokes won the 1996 National Poetry Slam Competition and performed in the Boston Globe Book Festival, as well as many other festivals and competitions throughout the U.S. He also recorded a CD of his poetry entitled When the Smoke Clears.

March and April will also feature many artists and events, including an art exhibition by students of the Amherst Regional Middle School, running from March 23–April 28. On April 1, renowned guitarist Brandon Ross visits the Gallery to give a solo performance.

Blue Stories, a new documentary film by Larry Banks, screens on April 14, and features conversations and performances from musicians.

The gallery is free and open to the public. Gallery hours are Monday and Tuesday, 1–7 p.m., Wednesday–Friday 1–5 p.m.

Hole, Manson double the show

By Kevin Monahan
Collegian Staff

COURTESY GEFFEN

The bare Celebrity Skin of Hole gets ready to tour, with a surprise partner...

In what is one of the most combustible tours of the year, shock-rockers Hole and Marilyn Manson have decided to hit the road together. The glam images recently adopted by both bands should suit each other well. However, sparks have already started to fly even before the first date was scheduled (which, by the way will start on Feb. 28, in Spokane, Wash.).

Apparently Manson wanted 80's bands like Fun Boy Three and The Fine Young Cannibals to replace openers Monster Magnet for the second half of the tour, while Hole wanted something "more modern." Manson has also been spewing out the bile on Hole frontwoman Courtney Love. In last month's NME, Manson branded Love as "an opportunist" Hmm... sounds a little bit hypocritical... but just a little bit. Manson also said that he "would not consider [Love] a friend." (Ouch!)

Hole guitarist Eric Erlandson said, "I'm just psyched to tour with anybody." Well, at least his standards are high. For those of you who can't wait to see Manson slice himself open, or Love's breasts to pop out of her shirt onstage, the "Beautiful Monsters" tour will be coming to Worcester on April 9.

COURTESY NOTHING RECORDS

Marilyn Manson, perhaps out to get more mainstream fans after a slightly disappointing selling of Mechanical Animals.

Rapper Busta Rhymes appeared in court last Thursday on a weapons charge. Rhymes (born Trevor Smith) and his manager were picked up in the Chelsea neighborhood of New York City on a routine traffic stop.

"[The gun] was sitting in the car in plain view," said William Brison, N.Y. district attorney spokesman. Possession of an unlicensed firearm in New York is a class D felony (to go along with the additional misdemeanor charge of possession of a class D substance), which could land both men in prison for seven years if convicted.

Tom Waits is set to release his new LP, Mule Variations In April. Appearing on the album alongside Waits will be Primus' Les Claypool, blues-guitarist John Hammond, and guitarist Smokey Hormel (best known for working with Beck) among others. Waits also plans a small tour in support of his new album, which will be his first tour in almost 10 years. By "small tour" expect four to six dates in major cities, two of them being New York and Los Angeles.

Release of the week: Indie-rockers Built to Spill's Keep It Like a Secret, slated for release tomorrow. The Woodinville, Wash. trio have kept the lengthy jamming down to a minimum.

"About the only thing we really wanted to do was make the songs shorter than the last record. That was our only criteria for new songs," said singer/guitarist Doug Martsch. Look for our review coming soon.

For the most up-to-date information, check out www.addict.com.

Information about the University Alcohol Policy:

Important changes in sanctioning • WHAT EVERY STUDENT SHOULD KNOW

Why Changes in Alcohol Sanctions?

- The University has a responsibility to implement policies to protect the rights of members of our community from the negative actions of those who abuse alcohol.
- Recently there have been some severe and unfortunate incidents involving the misuse of alcohol in our community. The misuse of alcohol is of grave concern to all of us.
- Irresponsible and abusive behavior can hinder a student's academic performance, endanger their personal health, and negatively impact on the campus environment.

What do the sanctions really mean?

Housing Probation: A specified period of time during which any further alcohol violations (or other Code of Student Conduct violations) may result in Housing Removal or Housing Relocation.

Housing Relocation & Restriction: You will be assigned to a different residence hall, cluster, or area and you will be prohibited from entering the residence hall, cluster, or area in which you previously lived.

Housing Removal & Restriction: You will not be allowed to live on campus for a specified period of time. You will be prohibited from entering the residence hall(s) from which you are restricted.

Permanent Housing Removal & Restriction: You will not be allowed to live on campus ever again. You may not enter any residence halls ever again.

University Probation: A specified period of time during which any further alcohol violations (or other Code of Student Conduct violations) may result in Suspension from the University.

Suspension: A specified period of time during which you cannot participate in any University sponsored activities. You will be barred from all University premises. You will lose academic credit for a suspension that takes effect during a semester. A suspension may be recorded on your transcript.

*Any monetary losses as a result of Housing Removal will be your own responsibility.

What are the possible consequences for violating the campus alcohol policies? Alcohol Sanctions – Effective September 1998

What are the University alcohol policies?

II.D.10.a Alcohol-Underage Drinking/Possession: In accordance with Massachusetts law, you must be 21 or older to drink or possess alcoholic beverages. If all residents of a room are under 21 years of age, no alcoholic beverages are allowed in the room at any time.

II.D.10.b Alcohol –Open Container in Public Space: The consumption of alcohol or possession of an open or shatterable container of alcohol is prohibited in all common areas of residence halls including, but not limited to, public corridors, stairwells, bathrooms, kitchen units, and lounges. Note: Residents over the age of 21 may consume alcohol in their rooms, whether the door is open or closed.

II.D.10.c Alcohol –Large Volume: The amount of alcohol that an individual student may possess is limited to a 24-pack case of beer or 64 ounces of wine or other alcohol. Kegs, beer balls, and other large volume containers that contain alcoholic beverages are not permitted.

II.D.10.d Alcohol-Providing Alcohol to an Underage Drinker: Residents who are of legal drinking age may not provide alcohol to students under the legal drinking age.

CODE VIOLATIONS	FIRST OFFENSE	SECOND OFFENSE	THIRD OFFENSE
II.D.10.a Under age 21 possession and/or consumption II.D.10.b Open container of alcohol in public space	Housing probation for one year AND Alcohol Education	Relocation and restriction from current residence hall AND Substance abuse referral to REAP	Housing removal and restriction from current residence hall for one year Suspension from the University for one year
II.D.10.c Possession of keg or large volume of alcohol II.D.10.d Dispensing alcohol to minors	Housing removal and restriction for one year and substance abuse refer ral to REAP OR Relocation and restriction from current residence hall AND Substance abuse referral to REAP	Permanent housing removal and restriction from all residence halls AND University probation	Suspension from the University for one year

Note: All sanctions are cumulative. Consequently, students who already have a judicial history may receive more severe sanctions. Sanctions may also be enhanced based on the severity of the behavior and the impact on the community.

How can we help you?

Alcohol Education Workshop
The goal of the Alcohol Education Workshop is to assist those students who are first time offenders of the UMass alcohol policy. The workshop provides the opportunity for students to examine University Alcohol policy and Massachusetts Law, as well as to re-evaluate their personal choices with regards to alcohol use. It is an interactive, two-hour session that explores the common alcohol myths, physiological effects of alcohol use, impact of alcohol abuse on community life, and strategies for change. Additionally, it provides information about other campus resources. Sessions are conducted by alcohol educators and will be held from 7-9 PM on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday during the academic year.

Residential Education Alcohol Program
The Residential Education Alcohol Program (REAP) is a University of Massachusetts Student Assistance Program for addiction prevention that offers substance abuse counseling to all UMass students. Started in 1987 by UMass Housing Services, REAP uses a time-limited counseling and intervention process that helps students change problem substance abuse behaviors. Services include individual assessment and counseling, group counseling, crisis intervention and resource/referral information. The staff can conduct a confidential drug/alcohol use assessment, concluding with a recommendation, if necessary, for follow-up treatment/counseling. Short-term individual therapy is also available for students within the program. REAP is the only UMass program that offers court-mandated counseling. Students who are court-referred are responsible for completing their mandated counseling within their stated probationary periods. Students may also be referred to REAP as a result of a judicial sanction. The Judicial Workshop consists of 2 individual counseling sessions and 3 three-hour group sessions. Students are also required to complete written self-evaluation assignments between sessions. REAP is located in Moore Lobby in Southwest. For further information, call 545-0137.

For Questions and Information About The Alcohol Policy and Sanctioning, Contact: Dean of Students Office 545-2684

The following additional publications are available in the Dean of Students Office:
- University Alcohol Policy
- Overview of the University of Massachusetts Amherst Judicial System
- Undergraduate Rights and Responsibilities
- Residence Hall Manual
- Are You At Risk?

Other Resources:

Athletic Health Enhancement Program (AHEP)	545-4588
Employee Assistance Program (EAP)	545-0350
Health Education Division	577-5181
Mental Health Services	545-2337
Residential Education Alcohol Program (REAP)	545-0137
Health Services	577-5000

Campus Web Pages:
University Health Services:
www.umass.edu/uhs
UHS Mental Health Division:
www.umass.edu/uhs/mentalhealth
UHS Mental Health Issues:
www.umass.edu/eap.issues.html
Residential Alcohol Education Program:
www.housing.umass.edu/html/reap.html

Published by the Dean of Students Office University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Connery, all-star cast can't save Playing by Heart

Ryan Phillippe and Jesse James Bruton star in a scene from Playing By Heart, with Angelina Jolie.

By Adam Martignetti
Collegian Staff

PLAYING BY HEART
Directed by Willard Carroll with Sean Connery, Gillian Anderson, Angelina Jolie
Playing at Showcase Cinemas, West Springfield

Playing By Heart may have an intricate plot structure, but it is far too simple to merit its original title Dancing about Architecture — a metaphor which, oddly, seems out of place in the film. Sure the characters are quirky, self-conscious, and even paranoid (perhaps ordinary for Los Angeles), but the respective romances follow an all-too-likely Hollywood pattern. The word love is tossed about with a seemingly reckless abandon and apparently no significance, until all the relationships are commenced happily in a fairy tale fashion.

It's just too easy. The couples meet, after a twist of fate, there is enough conflict to make you believe they might not get together, usually a melodramatic plot twist, and finally, they love each other after some heartfelt conversation.

Playing By Heart follows the separate stories of six couples: an outgoing, martini-drinking, club-gal with her blue-haired, wide-eyed, sullen club-guy, a detached, fearful playwright with a strikingly well-groomed architect, a caring mother and her dying gay son, a married woman and her sexual flings with a minister, a desperate man trying to come to grips with his failed marriage, and an aging couple faced with medical problems and passed marital trouble.

Besides the seductive Los Angeles skyline, which slips so easily from day to night, the couples all have one thing in common — they are struggling to understand or even define love. The irony is that for each couple the word takes on a different meaning; hence, they are dancing about love.

The storytelling is at times erratic, but more often beautifully fluent. Telling seven stories at once with no connection other than the unsaid, underlying theme is difficult, but director/screenwriter, Willard Carroll, manages to give some depth to each of the relationships. Establishing the characters at the beginning does prove difficult as the story jumps around quickly and almost inexplicably. Carroll even resorts to the tired name caption device to drive his barrage of faces home.

With that task done, the story manages to slide relatively effortlessly back and forth between the separate threads. All the relationships have plenty of charm and intrigue, but Carroll might have been just a bit too ambitious. He can't possibly treat all of the relationships fully because there were just too many stories, especially since at least two were unnecessary. Of course, Carroll cleverly ties all his characters together in the end, which is satisfying and compensates for other shortcomings.

The large, talented ensemble cast shines brightly, ultimately holding the fragmented movie together. Newly crowned Golden Globe winner, Angelina Jolie, outdoes herself as the talkative, in your face, sharp witted, sentimental bombshell. Jolie smiles angelically one moment and crushes your ego the next. Ryan Phillippe is perfect opposite Jolie in his "macho exterior, but really a softie at heart" role. Gillian Anderson does a remarkably good job with a tough character — the withdrawn, depressed, love-spurned loner. Jon Stewart is remarkably boyish and charming and funny and believable, exceeding all expectations. The always-cool Sean Connery pairs nicely with Gena Rowlands as the two readily exchange quips providing the quaint enchantment necessary for the aging couple.

Still, Playing by Heart has characters that seem overly neurotic, romances a bit too over-wrought, and an ending a bit too easy to be thoroughly believable. Everything just materializes without a journey to follow. The cinematography is sleek, quick, and fanciful. The cast is pretty, charming and witty. The plot is erratic, perhaps, but fairly clever and interesting. Still, the movie is lacking certain intangibles to bring it all together. Some scenes appear oddly out of place. Others raise points of confusion making it harder to appreciate the underlying current. Some are unnecessarily long while other are prematurely abbreviated. As a result, the movie never has any type of consistent flow until the very end — which was beautifully done.

Ironically, Playing By Heart actually lives up, or down, to its generic title. It has some elements of a great movie — an amazing cast with an ambitious script — but ultimately succumbs to its own weight and heftiness. The movie is not poorly done, it was just conceived in a way that proved to be akward on screen. This leads me to believe that in some alternate universe there is a great movie called Dancing About Architecture. C+

First sight a harrowing experience

By Publisher Mayes

AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO·KICKBOXING·YOGA
Classes Daily
Certified Instructors
Air-conditioned Wood Floor
Amherst's Largest Room
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst, 256-0080

the movie At First Sight, had no visual memory when he regained his sight at age 51. The experimental surgery fixed his eyes, but his mind didn't know how to interpret the images that were flooding his senses.

Instead of the blessing he was expecting, seeing became a daunting task. Sometimes he would just close his eyes to block out all the images that were overwhelming his mind.

"I had to go through so many adjustments," said Jennings, now 58 and living in this Atlanta suburb. "I could never figure out what I was looking at."

In the nearly eight years since the surgery restored the vision he lost as a young child, Jennings' eyesight has deteriorated to the point where he can only make out some shapes and distinguish between light and dark.

But that doesn't bother him.

"It's really more easy to be blind than see," he said.

The movie, which opened last month, stars Val Kilmer as Jennings and Mira Sorvino as his wife, Barbara. The Jennings met with the cast before shooting began.

"Mira said I gave her one of the best massages she ever had," Jennings said, instructing his wife to pull out the photo of him rubbing the actress' shoulders.

As a child growing up in the Blue Ridge Mountains near Montvale, Va., Jennings contracted polio, meningitis and cat-scratch fever. After lapsing into a coma, doctors gave up hope for the 3-year-old boy.

"They sent me home to die but I'm still living," he said.

He left the hospital paralyzed from the waist down and with his eyesight fading. But Jennings' mother, Pearl Layman of Roanoke, Va., nursed him back to health.

"We really worked with him. I didn't give up hope," she said.

With her help and that of his cousins, Jennings learned how to walk and talk again. But they couldn't help his deteriorating eyesight. Soon, the young boy could only differentiate between light and dark.

At age 6, Jennings went to the state institution for the deaf and blind. He then studied massage therapy and eventually took a job as a masseur at the YMCA in DeKalb County, near Atlanta.

That's where he met Barbara. They had a few dates but she married someone else and moved to Vermont. In 1988, Jennings found out that Barbara had divorced and returned to the area.

Turn to SIGHT, page 7

Why fly commercial? Buy a plane

By Penny Richards
Associated Press

LOWELL, Mass. — Having trouble getting convenient flight reservations for a trip? Do what David and Harriet Lyons did. Buy your own airplane.

The Lawrence couple now is taking flying lessons through Eagle East Aviation at the Lawrence Airport.

"We were trying to plan a vacation to Washington, D.C., the day before we wanted to go, only to discover we couldn't get reservations," Mr. Lyons said. "Given the way we tried to plan the trip, we thought it would be beneficial to learn to fly. And now we're really enjoying it!"

Mrs. Lyons smiles as she recalls the day her husband turned to her and said, "Hey, let's buy a plane!" This is the same man who, as both grew tired of their long commutes to their corporate world jobs from their New Jersey home — his to Wall Street in New York City and hers to the Pennsylvania state line — looked at his wife one day and said, "Let's join the Peace Corps!" So they did.

They spent a year and a half in Antigua teaching mathematics to high school students. Now they are back in the corporate world. He is 31, a manufacturing capacity planner. She is also 31 ("born two days apart") and a quality engineer. They met at Carnegie Mellon University in Pennsylvania in a math class — "We're math geeks," she said.

Learning to fly is a complicated venture. The two explain the flight course they are taking with instructor John Pearl. They must learn to read maps and charts, file flight plans, fly using nothing but instruments (for times when they fly in cloudy or inclement weather!), and know how to do a maintenance check on their plane before every flight.

They have yet to fly at night or in bad weather. And that is just a small slice of the skill and knowledge they must gain before they can earn a pilot's license. One of them is at the airport every weekday morning at 5 a.m. for a 1-hour flight before work.

"We only have one plane, so we have to take turns during the week," Mr. Lyons said. On weekends, they are able to get into the air for four or five hours at a time. They fly with their instructor, circling the area around the Lawrence airport, practicing "touch and go" landing approaches (coming in for a landing, touching the wheel to the runway and immediately pulling back into the sky), or cruising out to the Salisbury coast to practice maneuvers.

"Salisbury is a popular area to practice because it is in between two big air spaces, Logan and Pease [in Portsmouth, N.H.]," Mr. Lyons said.

If his wife is flying and doing unusual maneuvers, he gets airsick sitting in the rear passenger seat. So he usually stays on the ground when she is practicing. They each have about 20 hours of flight time, and have taken a solo flight without their instructor.

Mrs. Lyons said her reaction to her first solo flight was one of awe mixed with excitement. "I thought, 'I'm all by myself and I'm doing it!' It's better than chocolate," she said.

But she said her first experience of landing the

Turn to FLYING, page 7

WELCOMING BACK STUDENTS
UMASS
UNIVERSITY STORE'S
Textbook Annex
AMHERST
www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex
University Store • Textbook Annex
SAVE YOUR RECEIPT
Our Refund Policy
If you purchase an incorrect title you may return it for a refund within 7 calendar days of the first day of classes. Thereafter, incorrect titles may be returned within 48 hours of purchase providing the book is new and unmarked.
1. Textbooks from dropped courses may be returned throughout the month of February. Present your sales receipt and a copy of your updated course schedule obtained from the Registrar. Any new books must be unmarked.
2. Keep your receipt(s). Refunds on textbooks cannot be made unless the sales receipt(s) accompanies the book.
3. Always have your current I.D. available. This is required for any refund transactions.
The return of unsold books to the publisher begins seven weeks after the beginning of the semester. After the seventh week you might not be able to purchase the books you need.
RETURN YOUR TEXTBOOKS WITH YOUR RECEIPT FOR A "NO QUESTIONS ASKED" REFUND THROUGH FRIDAY FEBRUARY 12TH, 1999.
Beginning Tuesday, February 16, 1999 textbooks bought during the current semester must be returned with a sales receipt and are subject to condition and price.
The schedule may be obtained from these locations. Please do not wait for the last minute!
New books must be in new condition (no damage, writing, water damage etc.)
Any incorrect titles purchased during the current semester must be returned within 7 calendar days of purchase. Books purchased online must be returned within 48 hours of purchase. Incorrect purchases must be processed along with sales receipt.
Remember the last day to return textbooks with no questions asked is Friday, February 12th.
www.aux.umass.edu/textbookannex
textbook annex
Spring '99 Schedule
We accept cash, personal check, Ucard, Visa, MasterCard as forms of payment.
We begin to return unsold books to the publishers in the middle of the semester. Students are encouraged to get the books they need for the semester as soon as possible after official enrollment in a course.
buyback
FIRST WEEK - January 29-30
Tues.-Fri. 9am - 5pm
Friday 9am - 5pm
SECOND WEEK - February 24
Monday-Wednesday 9am - 5pm
Thereafter, Monday-Friday 9am-4pm at the Textbook Annex, beginning February 12, 1999
annex rush
Spring 1999 Book Rush Hours
Monday, Feb. 1 -Friday, Feb. 5 9am - 6pm
Feb. 8- 12 Mon.- Fri. 9am- 5pm
Thereafter - Monday - Friday 9am - 4pm

COURTESY GENA ROWLANDS

Second-string

Former box office champion Varsity Blues was ousted this weekend by another teen movie, She's All That.

Write for Arts
Whether you're a freshman or even a sixth-year senior, we want to hear your opinion on local concerts, CD's, films, theatre and more. Come down to the Collegian in the Campus Center Basement or call 545-1361 and ask for Bryan.

Fewer money films at Sundance fest

By Michael Fleeman
Associated Press

PARK CITY, Utah — Has Sundance gone sane on us? Consider that the makers of Happy, Texas, a comedy that generated the most interest by movie buyers at the annual Sundance Film Festival, turned down a reported $10 million and settled for the third-highest bid, from Miramax Films, for what sources said was $2.5 million plus a raft of promises from the studio and a big chunk of the box office.

"This festival has a rep for becoming a feeding frenzy," said the film's director, Mark Illsley, who insisted that he was more interested in finding a studio that would properly market and release his movie than one with a big checkbook. "When I came up here I said that I didn't want that to happen with this film."

There's a different business mood at this year's Sundance Film Festival, 10 days and more than 100 films in the normally quiet ski resort above Salt Lake City. Maybe it's because of a hangover from last year's festival, with millions of dollars spent on art films in bidding wars that left everybody dizzy.

Or maybe it's just the films.

"I have been personally a bit disappointed," said Mark Urman, president of Lions Gate Releasing, which emerged from last year's festival with what he called "so many goodies," including Gods and Monsters. Affliction and Buffalo 66.

"From the standpoint of buying and selling, we have thus far found it a little light. Actually, a lot light."

Through midweek, Lions Gate hadn't purchased a single film. "There is a conventional wisdom that the films are weaker than they have been for some time," said Mark Ordesky, president of Fine Line Features. But he added, "I'm not sure I agree."

Case in point: Fine Line paid what sources said was around $500,000 for the domestic rights for Trick, a gay romantic comedy about a musician and a sexy go-go dancer. Tori Spelling of "Beverly Hills 90210" plays one of the men's best friends.

Also, Artisan Entertainment paid between $1 million and $2 million for the distribution rights to one of the most inventive films of the festival, The Blair Witch Project, a terrifying horror story about three young documentary filmmakers who disappear in the Maryland woods while searching for the truth about claims of a local witch.

The trio's story is told through their raw film footage which is found a year later.

The filmmakers — graduates of the until-now little known film school at the University of Central Florida — didn't get to the point of teen slasher films but focused on exploiting the fear of the unknown. Many of the shots are shaky, poorly lit flashes of clothing or grass taken as the photographer runs as the run from an unseen force.

Also, the movie is almost completely improvised. The three young actors were sent into the forest by directors Eduardo Sanchez and Daniel Myrick for a week, then subjected to a range of unusual and scary situations, which they were instructed to capture on film or videotape. All the dialogue is improvised and all the camera work is done by the actors.

One night, while the actors were trying to sleep after four days in the rainy woods, the directors surprised them by blaring the recorded sounds of laughing children.

"Then we really started to shake," said actor Michael Williams. "There was no acting there."

But the biggest acquisition news out of the festival centered on Happy, Texas — big because the cash payout wasn't.

Happy is the story of two convicts on the run who are mistaken by the Texas town locals as a gay couple the town had hired to train its slate of 5-year-old girls competing in the Little Miss Fresh-Squeezed Beauty Pageant.

To keep from blowing their cover, the men go along, all the while trying to figure out how to rob the town's bank. The film features a strong performance by William H. Macy as the local hick sheriff with his own sexuality issues.

The buzz over this $1.7 million movie, financed largely by Illsley and his relatives, was so loud that journalists couldn't get into the Monday night press screening; the room was packed with film buyers from the studios. After seeing the movie, a sort of Some Like It Hot meets In and Out, the buyers eagerly opened their checkbooks.

The filmmakers were confident going into the festival about a potential sale, but they vowed not to take the money and run, concentrating instead on the longer term.

"I never made any money in my life, so why should I start now," said Happy co-producer and co-writer Ed Stone.

During negotiations, the filmmakers and their representative from the William Morris agency spoke with each distributor in detail about their plans for the movie. In the end, the filmmakers selected their top four distributors, then solicited one round of money bids, not giving the suitors the opportunity to counter the competition with higher offers.

"I said, 'If you've got your ace in the hole, play it now,'" Illsley recalled.

Illsley declined to go into specifics, but sources said Miramax paid for the $1.7 million production cost and another $800,000 in deferred payment to the actors for a total dollar deal of $2.5 million — far less than the top offer of $10 million from at least one rival studio.

That's also considerably less than the $6 million Miramax paid last year for Next Stop, Wonderland and well below the record $10 million Castle Rock paid for The Spitfire Grill in 1996.

Neither lived up to expectations at the box office.

In exchange for less cash, however, Miramax promised an aggressive national release schedule for the movie, significant television advertising and a tentative commitment to release the film in October, to help assure the filmmakers the movie wouldn't languish on Miramax's shelf as others have.

Also, with a big share of the film's gross, Illsley and Stone stand to make a fortune if the movie grosses over $20 million.

"The fact of the matter is, I'm at the beginning of my career. I'm looking at this as a way to get my career going," Illsley said. "A lot of people trusted us in working on this movie, and I was determined to take care of the movie."

■ sight

continued from page 6

"Twenty years went by in a matter of minutes," Mrs. Jennings recalled about their reunion. "It was as if we had just seen each other the day before."

About three months later, they married. But before they walked down the aisle, Mrs. Jennings asked her fiance to see her family ophthalmologist, Dr. Trenton Wesselhamm.

"I figured I didn't have too much to lose," Jennings said.

There have been fewer than a dozen cases of long-term blindness being reversed, but Mrs. Jennings thought it was ironic that Jennings was able to distinguish between light and dark.

■ flying

continued from page 6

plane was scary.

"As you land, you are still going at about 80 to 85 miles per hour, and in effect, you are driving yourself into the ground. It's just not a natural thing to do," she said.

Of his first solo flight, Mr. Lyons said he was simply aware of how alone he was in the plane. "You notice how big that empty [seat] is next to you," he said.

Even though both have solo experience, the two cannot fly together without an instructor because they have not yet earned their pilots' licenses. To do so would, technically, be carrying a passenger. It will be a few months and many more hours of practice and learning before they are ready for the licensing exams.

Have a great week from Arts!!
Contests, Coupons, & Giveaways
AmherstOnline.com
Bookmark It!
Arts!! Experience it...
Reason №4 why you should take HyperMCAT
4 Materials
15 full-length MCATs, hundreds more MCAT passages in workbooks, and over 4000 pages make up the most extensive set of MCAT preparation materials in existence.
800-2-REVIEW www.review.com
Courses held on the UMASS campus! Smith, Mt. Holyoke, and WNEC as well.
THE PRINCETON REVIEW
One semester, for a year, for a lifetime
THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE AUP.
The education is American.
The mix is international.
The setting is Paris.
The advantage is yours.
AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF PARIS
Does your calculus class demand electronic countermeasures?
...just infiltrate the software section of your campus bookstore.
www.wipeout.com
EMERGENCY MEDICAL TRAINING
By Human Services Training Consultants, Inc.
Part Time Evening Classes start February 8, 1999
Call UMASS, Continuing Education at: 545-0474
5 Barbers
Proprietors Jim Reed and Terri Loiseau
Amherst Barbers
Tel. 253-1722
Hours: Mon-Fri. 8-5:15 Sat 8:30-4:45
9 $ and up
Appointments Not Necessary
Reason №2 why you should take our GRE course.
You'll score more...
2 Our students improve an average of 212 points. And they significantly out-score students who took that other course.
800-2-REVIEW www.review.com
Courses held on the UMASS campus! Smith, Mt. Holyoke, and WNEC as well.
THE PRINCETON REVIEW
Glacier National Park
Where do you see yourself this summer?
A. Commuting in bumper to bumper traffic?
B. Sharing a trail with a mountain goat as you hike through snow capped glacier peaks?
A. Spending the summer with the same old crowd?
B. Meeting your new best friend under the "Big Sky" of Montana
A. Spending hot and humid summer nights next to an air conditioner
B. Watching millions of stars & the northern lights on a clear, cool August night
If you answered "B" to any of the above, choose a summer in the "Last Best Place".
St. Mary Lodge & Resort
(Glacier Park's finest)
We will be on campus February 3, interviewing for our 1999 summer season. Call (800) 368-3689 to schedule an interview.
GET IN SHAPE IN SHAPE NUTRITION
•Fat Burners •Creatine •Protein Powders
20%-50% Off Retail Prices Everyday
•Andro •Vitamins/Herbs •Food Bars and more...
65 University Dr. Amherst 549-7434
BEAT THE WINTER CHILLS!
Basement Specials
20% OFF All Regularly Priced Wind Pants!
ONE STOP 20% OFF All In-Stock 1999 Planners and Calendars
ONE STOP 25% OFF All In-Stock UMASS Spiral Notebooks
Bookworks 25% OFF All 1999 Pictorial Calendars in Stock
RIGHT ON RIGHT HARD $2.49
M-F 9 to 5 Sat. 11 to 4 (413) 545 - 2619
NEWniversity Store

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Swingin' Around!

Jennifer Pokrana and the UMass women's gymnastics squad went head-to-head with New Hampshire this weekend. See tomorrow's Collegian for the story.

Trouble for birds
E.R. jailed

By Paul Newberry
Associated Press

MIAMI — Pro Bowl safety Eugene Robinson of the Atlanta Falcons was cleared yesterday to start the Super Bowl hours after his arrest on a charge of soliciting an undercover police officer for oral sex.

Falcons coach Dan Reeves said the team would not discuss the Saturday night arrest until after the championship game against the Denver Broncos. But he had no misgivings about allowing Robinson to play.

"That's strictly up to Eugene," said Reeves, speaking poolside from his team's hotel. "As far as I'm concerned, and as far as the league is concerned, he can play. He'll have to make that decision later in the day."

Robinson's father, Samuel, said he expected the defensive back to play.

"I think he needs to," the father said in the hotel lobby. "I think he needs to get out there and do his job. There's a lesson here somewhere."

Reeves sought to contain the attention surrounding the arrest in the hours leading to the game, the first time in 33 years the Falcons were playing for the NFL title.

"That's something that's a family matter and we're going to treat it as a family matter," he said. "I love Eugene unconditionally."

Police said Robinson was arrested at 9 p.m. on Biscayne Boulevard, a major street frequented by prostitutes and drug dealers.

Most Falcons players refused comment, but linebacker Henri Crockett said he was in "shock."

"I don't believe it ...anybody but Eugene," Crockett said yesterday from the hotel lobby. "I don't believe Eugene would do something like that.

"I know what kind of person he is. There has to be something more to it."

Robinson, whose family is with him in Miami, is one of the team's most popular players and has spoken frequently of his deep religious faith.

"Unfortunately, even as Christians, we do things wrong," Reeves said. "We're all sinners."

Defensive tackle Shane Dronett said the Falcons remained intent on concentrating on the game.

"We're not going to let it distract us," he said. "We'll stand beside Eugene. Until he says something, we're not worried about it."

Dronett added, "I'm sure he's innocent. He was probably in the wrong place at the wrong time."

Robinson was driving a car, and was alone, when he offered the officer $40 for oral sex, said police spokesman Angel Calzadilla. Robinson was released from Miami Police headquarters around 11 p.m. to a Falcons official. He promised to return for a court appearance, which is usually scheduled within 21 to 30 days. After being released, Robinson was consoled in his hotel room by several teammates, including linebacker Cornelius Bennett and Ray Buchanan, according to Samuel Robinson, who also was in the room.

"He didn't say anything about what happened, and I didn't ask him," the father said. "But you could see he was crushed. I've never seen my son with that look of concern and disappointment in his entire life."

Bennett spent more than a month in jail during the last off-season after pleading guilty to sexual misconduct.

"Bennett has been there before," Samuel Robinson said. "I'm glad he was there to support Eugene."

Earlier Saturday, Robinson lounged by the hotel pool with his wife, Gia, and their 9-year-old son, Brandon. The couple also has an 11-year-old daughter, Brittany.

"The children asked questions. They have feelings," Samuel Robinson said. "My son talked to both kids, and that's a good deal."

Samuel Robinson said he was "very concerned" for his daughter-in-law.

"She's doing better today," he said. "She had to compose herself."

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

A Stroke Behind

The Massachusetts men's swim team fell to Rutgers this weekend in home action. See tomorrow's paper for the round-up.

COURTESY MEDIA RELATIONS

Flying High

The Minutewoman swimming and diving team defeated Rutgers at Joseph R. Rogers Pool this weekend. Pick up tomorrow's Collegian for the recap.

new improved editions-
makes learnin' 120% faster!

textbooks to go!

free delivery

buy online • new and used • Save up to 40%

big words

www.bigwords.com

PREREQUISITE: ADRENALINE

Drive. Intensity. Those aren't words you're likely to see in many course requirements. Then again Army ROTC is unlike any other elective. It's hands-on excitement. ROTC will challenge you mentally and physically through intense leadership training. Training that builds your character, confidence and decision-making skills. Again, words other courses seldom use. But they're the credits you need to succeed in life. ROTC is open to freshmen and sophomores without obligation and requires about five hours per week. Register this term for Army ROTC.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE

MS113 – Introduction to Military Science, 1 credit per semester
Contact Captain Patrick Maloney
545-2321

Despite depleted roster, Minutewomen down Fordham with all–around effort

By Jackie Leroux
Collegian Staff

It takes a licking and keeps on ticking. The Massachusetts women's basketball team (12–11, 7–3 in the Atlantic 10) simply refuses to give up.

The team has lost a total of five players this season, reducing its numbers to just eight. With guard Jaywana Bradley in and out of the lineup due to injuries, numbers sometimes shrink to seven players. Yet the Minutewomen have still managed to stay focused and determined.

JAY PERMACK / COLLEGIAN

Finishing with 11 points, UMass point guard Kathy Coyner did her part to lead the Minutewomen over A–10 East challenger Fordham yesterday.

As yesterday's 83–51 thrashing of Fordham (6–15, 7–3) shows, there is still talent among the UMass ranks, and there is perseverance. They beat the Lady Rams with strong defense and an overall team effort, continually forcing Fordham into bad passes and poor shots.

On the offensive end they dumped the ball into their dominating post players. UMass scored 59 of their points in the paint, Fordham had only 13.

"When we play as a unit, we are pretty good," said coach Joanie O'Brien. "This makes two games in a row where we have had five people in double figures and I'm pretty sure that hasn't happened in a long time."

All eight players saw substantial court time, and everyone scored. Senior center Lucia Madajova had a double–double in the game with a career–high 15 points and a game–high 10 rebounds. Junior guard Alison MacFarland also pulled in 15 points, along with a game–high eight rebounds.

Rounding out the scoring was senior forward Tez Kraft with 13 points, freshman center Nekole Smith with 12, and sophomore guard Kathy Coyner with 11. Freshman center Caroline Nehls had eight, freshman guard Tonia Thomas five, and junior guard Jaywana Bradley had four.

The real team effort, however, came from the defensive end. The Minutewomen out–rebounded, out–muscled, and out–hustled the Fordham Lady Rams. They forced Fordham into 17 turnovers, and out–rebounded them 25–35. UMass took advantage of these turnovers as well. They scored 16 points off of turnovers, while Fordham scored just five. The Minutewomen also had 12 second–chance points to Fordham's six, along with 16 fast–break points to Fordham's two.

There are just six games left in the season before UMass heads to the A–10 tournament. UMass currently holds second place in the Atlantic 10 East, just one game behind St. Joseph's. The Minutewomen are on the road this weekend, taking on Temple Friday, and then facing St. Joseph's on Sunday.

The real test for UMass however, will be from the A–10 West. The West contains such powerhouses as Virginia Tech, George Washington and Xavier. UMass will host Virginia Tech on Feb. 12.

"We are in a situation where our backs are against the wall," O'Brien said. "And [the players] know that if they let down at all they are going to give one away."

The real test for UMass however, will be from the A–10 West. The West contains such powerhouses as Virginia Tech, George Washington and Xavier. UMass will host Virginia Tech on Feb. 12.

"We are in a situation where our backs are against the wall," O'Brien said. "And [the players] know that if they let down at all they are going to give one away."

■ hoop

continued from page 12

with only eight healthy bodies, O'Brien was unable to give several of the starters a much needed break.

As a result, MacFarland, Madajova, and Kathy Coyner were forced to play over 30 minutes even though it was not imperative that they do so.

Despite being understandably fatigued at times, the Minutewomen have responded well to adversity all season, leaving them one game behind St. Joseph's in the A–10 East.

"As long as we stay sharp mentally we can still reach our goals," O'Brien said. "We are in a situation where our backs are against the wall."

Minutewoman Notes : Junior guard Jaywana Bradley (four points, three assists) made a successful return to the UMass lineup after missing five of the last six games... UMass will travel to Philadelphia this weekend for two games including Temple on Friday night, and a showdown with St. Joe's Sunday at noon... The Minutewomen now hold an a 8–4 lead in the all–time series against Fordham.

■ hockey

continued from page 12

but more importantly, on the scoreboard. After coming out with the same intensity in the first period of Friday's game as they did in Tuesday night's loss to the Eagles in which they trailed 1–0 after one, UMass had to be satisfied with a 1–1 tie at the end of the first period.

They successfully executed their game plan of limiting the Eagles offensive chances, improving their man–to–man coverage and slowing the game down.

In the second period the Minutemen came out with the same intensity and style of play. They also continued to improve offensively. They created more solid chances in front of the BC net but Clemmensen turned them all away and UMass appeared to grow frustrated from their missed opportunities as the period went on. UMass also began to loosen up defensively while trying to force plays in the offensive zone.

The Minutemen began to lose discipline and at 19:23 of the period, with defensemen Randy Drohan serving a two minute minor for cross–checking, the Minutemen paid dearly for their mistakes. The Eagles' Alex Dolinar dished a pass out in front of the net to his linemate Andy Powers who then relayed the puck over to defenseman Bobby Allen who had darted in from the blue line. Allen slapped home a one– timer and the Eagles had a 2–1 lead after two.

If Allen's late goal in the second had not completely switched the momentum back to BC, then Jeff Farkas' early third period goal(3:37, from Masters and Dolmer), did the job. With three UMass players draped around him, Farkas managed to wrist the puck far side over Helanen's shoulder and give the Eagles a commanding 3–1 lead. After that, UMass seemed to play a more desperate game and on many occasions were off target with their shots.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

The UMass hockey team fell this weekend to Hockey East foe Boston College, who claimed a 3–1 victory at the William D. Mullins Center Friday night.

No. 20 Indiana downs Penn St., 98–95 in OT, at State College

By David Kinney
Associated Press

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — A.J. Guyton scored 33 points, including a decisive 3-pointer with five seconds left in the second overtime, as No. 20 Indiana rallied from 16 points down to beat Penn State 98-95 yesterday.

Guyton scored 11 points in two back-and-forth overtime periods, including a long three to send the game into a second overtime. Luke Recker, coming off the worst two-game stretch of his career, added 20 points and 11 rebounds as the Hoosiers (17-7, 4-5 Big Ten), lost 90-85 in overtime to Minnesota on Tuesday night.

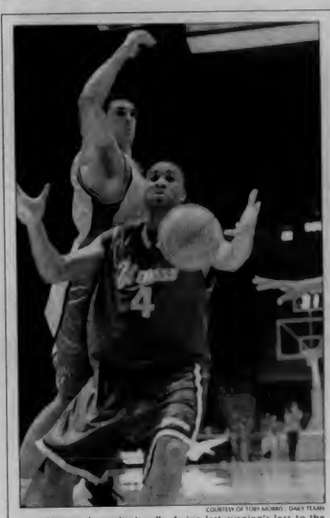
Recker hit a layup with less than a second left to send the game into overtime and a free throw to tie the game at 95-95 with 53 seconds left.

Dan Earl led Penn State (10-9, 2-7) with a career-high 28 points, while Calvin Booth had 23 points, 12 rebounds and eight blocked shots. Penn State was 2-6 in January.

Joe Crispin added 21 points, but for the third time against a Top-25 team, his last-ditch three went awry.

Indiana, trailing 80-78 with 33 seconds left in regulation, misfired on two 3-pointers in the final 10 seconds. But Recker rebounded the second shot and put it back with less than a second left, sending the Hoosiers into overtime for the second straight game.

Titus Ivory had given Penn State the two-point lead on a driving layup.



Penn State opened a seven-point lead with 4:24 left in regulation when Crispin hit two free throws and a deep 3-pointer — both after steals at the other end.

Recker pulled Indiana within a point on two spectacular plays. First, he fell to the floor on a missed three, but got up in time to corral the rebound and sink a 15-footer. Then he batted down a pass at the other end and took it in for a layup.

After two free throws by Penn State, Guyton tied it at 76-76 with a 3-pointer with a minute left in regulation.

In falling behind by 16 points early on, Indiana looked like the team that had lost two straight games, but the Hoosiers recovered to take a 33-32 halftime lead when Guyton and Recker found their shots.

After a first half of lopsided runs, the teams traded the lead 13 times in the second half.

COURTESY OF TOBY MORRIS / DAILY TEXAN

Lari Ketner loses the handle during last evening's loss to the University of Texas.

■ game

continued from page 12

Northeastern, and battled to a 2–2 tie at the Mullins Center. It will be another crucial battle in UMass' fight for the final spot.

Coming into this past weekend the Huskies were also only two points up on the Minutemen for the final spot in the Hockey East quarterfinals.

The biggest test left for the Minutemen in the final stretch comes in the form of a home and home with the Providence Friars. In their only meeting of the season, the Friars beat up on the Minutemen in Providence. The Friars skated circles around the Minutemen before finally beating them 8–1. In order for UMass to grasp the last spot they will need to at least split if not win both games with Providence.

The two games with the Friars come late in the season on Feb 26 and 27. At this point you can expect the Hockey East to be tighter then ever, and those two games will be crucial for UMass.

But first things first for the Minutemen, they will first need to worry about their third meeting with the Eagles of Boston College. UMass will need to take another huge leap forward in getting to Hockey East prominence by attempting to knock off another conference giant.

Coach Mallen talked about it being time for his team to "make some noise in Hockey East," well now is the time.

There are several quality players on this team who need to pull it all together for the stretch run.

Team leaders to this point include Jeff Blanchard who needs to regain his early season form for the Minutemen to achieve their post–season goals. He currently has five goals, 13 assists and 18 points. The line of R.J. Gates (2–5–7), Ray Geever (2–7–9) and Jeff Turner (5–9–14) will need to continue its current hot streak.

On defense, the Minutemen need capatin Dean Stork (7–3– 10) to continue to light the lamp for them, but they also need freshmen Toni Söderholm (1–2–3) and Chris Brannen (1–2–3) to scored more.

In net it will be the same old story. The Minutemen will need to provide some good defense for Markus Helanen so he can continue to dominate between the pipes.

For those of you who have followed this team you know that they are a much better team than their 6–16–2 record shows (3–11–2 in Hockey East).

It's time for the Minutemen to put it all together for a full 60 minutes for the last nine games.

SHOPPING FOR PRICE?

YANKEE

- DISCOUNT OIL -

NORTHAMPTON HOLYOKE
584-4112 • 535-1888
• SAME DAY DELIVERY •

University Health Services
Mental Health Groups Spring '99

MONDAY

Coed Self Exploration Group
(for Undergraduate Students)
In this group members will be able to address their relationships such as: friendship; intimacy; family issues; work and school, etc. MEMBERS MAY JOIN THIS GROUP AT ANY POINT IN THE SCHOOL YEAR (as space permits).
Monday, 1:00 - 2:30 p.m.

Supporting Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Identities
Exploring such issues as coming out, building community, dating relationships, family of origin and stress management.
Monday, 3:45 - 5:00 p.m.

MORE GROUPS BEGINNING IN THE FALL

TUESDAY

Time Limited Therapy Group
(for Undergraduate Students)
This semester-long group will provide a safe environment for looking at relationships. There will be opportunities to learn ways to make changes in interpersonal patterns.
Tuesday, 3:30 - 4:50 p.m.
Groups are conducted by Mental Health Division staff. Group sessions are covered under UHS Basic Health Plan and Kaiser pre-paid plan. Groups require an initial screening which can be arranged by calling 545-2337 or by stopping by at 127 Hills North Mon. - Fri. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. For further information refer to the Mental Health web site at www.umass.edu/uhs/mentalhealth

THURSDAY

Women's Self-Exploration Group
(For older undergraduates, graduate students, student dependents and Kaiser members.)
This group provides an opportunity for women to explore personal relationships, work, studies, family of origin, health, acculturation and other relevant concerns. THIS GROUP IS ONGOING WITH MEMBERS ADDED AS SPACE PERMITS.
Thursday, 9:00 - 10:30 a.m.

Coed Self-Exploration Groups
(For older undergraduates, graduate students, student dependents and Kaiser members.)
This group provides an opportunity for men and women to explore their interpersonal relationships. THIS GROUP IS ONGOING WITH MEMBERS ADDED AS SPACE PERMITS.
Thursday, 3:30 - 5:00 p.m.

Food Matters
This group will provide a safe and confidential environment for women who want to work towards changing unhealthy eating and exercise habits, and creating a positive self concept. Self-esteem enhancement and alternatives to emotional eating will also be addressed.
Thursday, 3:30 - 4:50 p.m.

CALL 545-2337

Collegian Classifieds

113 Campus Center — University of Massachusetts • Phone: (413)545-3500 Fax: (413)545-1592

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Fraternities/Sororities: Looking for a DJ for your next function? DJ Fooz is now booking, specializing in date parties and formals. Call Tim 549-9127

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Take over my lease 1 bedroom apartment in Puffton Village. Gas heat & hot water included. 560 a month. Suitable for two Aviable Now!! 549-6434 Sabriya or Jamila

AUTO FOR SALE

Purchasing a used car? Having your car repaired? Do you know you legal rights ? Contact the Student Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995

'86 Camrx 155,000 miles, New tires, Brakes, Timing belt excellent condition for age. Asking $1800. 586-1717

1994 GEO Prism LSI 180,000 miles, standard transmission, ABS, CD, and much more, Excellent condition throughout. Asking 5,000 586-1717

'87 Subaru 4x4 Wagon runs, drives, looks, decent $850. May Trade for motorcycle 773-8586

1989 Subaru Wagon 4WD Automatic blue highway miles $1800 978-544-3783

90 Honda Accord Excellent interior, new brakes + exhaust one owner 157,000 miles. $3000 or B/O 413-552-0806

88 Ford Festiva Runs well 96kn $1000 665-8076 or 5-5547

1988 Ford Festiva High miles well maintained current sticker $500 256-6087

WANTED: Toyotas, Novas, Prizms, Sentras. Any condition. Cash paid everyday. 1-800-849-4795.

COMPUTERS

Mac Powerbook 520 modem/ethernet/software installed. Perfect for papers and emailing $600.00 NEG. 546-4517

EMPLOYMENT

$20/HR PT/FT!!! Process Our CompanyMail or Email From Home or School For Details: Email: Apply4now@smartbot.net 770-937-6764

Mothers helper wanted 10-15 hrs/wk afternoons. Must have car and references. Call Jamie 549-7788

Personal Assistant for busy professional $7.00 an hour. Laundry, cat care, paperwork etc. 413-259-1227

Put up Posters in Amherst, Northhampton + colleges $6.00 An hour. Need car Extremely responsible 413-259-1227

Public Relations Jobs Apply now to be a Tour Guide, Admissions Rep or Summer Counselor. Exp'd guides, counselors, and reps on the Campus Center Councourse Feb.1-5 to answer questions.

Help Wanted Earn extra cash!!! Make your own hours!!! Roponsible students to market/manage Citibank promotions on campus. Free giveaways! Earn $400+/Week. Call Joann at 1-800-950-8472 Ext. 117

CRUISE SHIP EMPLOYMENT - Workers earn up to $2,000+/month (w/tips & benfits). World Travel! Land-Tour jobs up to $5,000-$7,000/summer. Ask us how! 517-336-4235 Ext.C50012

Work Study Job: Peer Housing Counselor $6.50 per hour. Apply 428 Student Union or Call 545-0865

EMPLOYMENT

Personal Care Attendant Wanted 6 to 12 hours per week for women in Amherst. Call Helen 545-1908 - 253-9462

Jobs At The UMass Annual Fund Flexible Evening hours earn $5.50/hour plus fantastic bonuses gain computer and communications skills come to the basement of Memorial Hall and apply today students only 545-3509

Grill Cook Breakfast Experience Part Time day hours including weekends Apply 7am-3pm Nancy Janes 36 Main St. Amherst

General Labor $7.50 Amherst location needs your help all winter shoveling snow & sanding walk ways. Only available for work one or two days a week? This is the perfect job for you. Call United Personnel Services today to learn more about how snow+work=$$. 800-363-8200

Part Time non-smoking, unscented person wanted for housework, errands and dog walking $8.65 323-5088

Work Study Experienced Childcare Persons needed Monday nights 4:30 or 5:30 until 8:00. $7.00 per hour. Apply at Commuter Services, 428 Student Union, 545-0865

Whitewater guides and River Photographers wanted for part,full time summer jobs outdoor and athletic background a must will train for both positions. Photography position requires some experience. Call Crab Apple Whitewater for info 413-339-0188

Counter Help + Drivers Wanted Must be able to work 20 hrs a week. Apply at DP Oough

EMPLOYMENT

Males Wanted For Exercise Science Study- earn up to $125-Call Steve 549-3877

More Than Just SUMMER EMPLOYMENT. Camp counselors needed for a private, residential camp in the beautiful Pocono Mountains. We are looking for people with a dedication to children, enthusiasm for diversity, and a desire to share their passion and expertise in any one of the following areas: COMPUTERS, CIRCUS ARTS, BASKETBALL, MAGIC, VOLLEYBALL, TENNIS, DANCE, VIDEO, CREATIVE WRITING, ESL, SOCCER,COOKING, RADIO, ROCK MUSIC, GOLF, SKATEBOARDING, ROLLERBLADING, ROCKETRY, NEWSPAPER, FINE ARTS, CREATIVE CRAFTS, MOUNTAIN BIKING, CLIMBING WALL. Call 1-800-399-CAMP Ask for Dan or Nigel

Fraternities-Sororities-Clubs-Student Groups Earn $1,000-$2,00 this semester with the easy CIS three hour fundraising event. No sales required. Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so call today! Contact Dan Wolman at CIS, (800) 922-5579

Childcare needed 4 hours a week. 665-7483

On Campus Spokes Person Positions Available CIS is currently hiring motivated outgoing college students for spokes person positions $10.00-$15.00 an hour 10 hours a week on campus call Jodi Grant 800-567-6247

Part Time Jobs with the Sierra Club work on an urgent campaign to protect wildlife and wilderness full time/career positions available earn 55-70$/day Call Alex 413-256-6434 Amherst Center

EMPLOYMENT

EXCEPTIONAL SUMMER OPPORTUNITY— Camp Wayne, NE PA (3 hrs/NYC)—Sports oriented, Counselor/Specialists for all Land/Water Sports: Golf, Tennis, Outdoor Adventure, Mtn. Biking, Rocketry, Sailing/Waterskiing, A & C, Drama, Radio, Video. Campus interviews. Please call 1-888-549-2963 or wayneboys@aol.com

HELP WANTED Earn extra cash!!! Make your own hours!! Responsible students to market/manage Citibank promotions on campus. Free giveaways! Earn $400+/week. Call Joann at 1-800-950-8472 Ext. 117

NoteTakers Wanted $200-@1500/class Post your lecture notes on the internet SIGN UP ON-LINE@ www.STUDY24-7.com

ENTERTAINMENT

DJ For Hire Dj Fooz is now booking for Spring Semester. Call Tim 549-9127

FOR RENT

LOCKERS FOR RENT $5 for spring semester. Going fast! Come to Commuter Services, Room 428 Student Union

FOR SALE

Giant Mountain Bike. Bar ends, lock. Like new! $120. Call 548-1773

FURNITURE

Have used furniture or household items for sale? Are you looking for furnishings, appliances or entertainment equipment? Use the commter Services WEB Page bulletin board: http://home.oit.umass.edu/~cshrc

HEALTH & BEAUTY

ATHLETES, build muscles, endurance, burn fat with 100% pure Amino Acid formula Creatine Monohydrate, ect... Call 617-471-2366

HOUSE FOR RENT

Summer Rentals Cape Cod Group Summer Rentals. Some waterfront houses, some with swimming pools. Falmouth area. Call Diamond Real Estate 1-508-477-1900.

LOST & FOUND

Lost:Silver Pin with four green stones great sentimental value. $50 reward. Call 253-5929 or 545-4681.

PERSONALS

Making Love Easy. For the Valentine's Day impaird. Electronic cards, animated kisses, relationship advice, love in the news, discussion: www.studentadvantage.com/qpid

ROOM FOR RENT

One Bedroom Available in 4 bdrm house. Begins March 1. Belchertown. $280month. Call 323-9794. Matt

S Deerfield Country setting quiet + private. 10 miles from Amherst. 1 large furnished bedroom suite with private bath + study phone/tv/cable optional $475.00. 1 furnished bedroom $350.00 mature female grad students, share with single female, non-smoking 413-665-8318

Take Over My Lease! Jan-July '98. Moving to California in two weeks & need to find someone 1 bedroom in 2 bedroom apt. Furnished, spacious, & clean. $345, all inclusive + electric= @$15 per month. Awesome place, awesome roommate staying. Bus drops you off four doors from your own. Call Lori or Daniel @ 665-4149 till 11:30 at night.

ROOM FOR RENT

1 bedroom in 2 bedroom. Brandywine. For Spring/late December. Call Jeremy 549-6955.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Roommate to share 3br apt with 2 other students in Belchertown. 250 plus util washer/dryer on busline 323-0120

Share lagre house with grad students $320/mo. includes utilities. Greenfield 773-8586

Roommate Needed for Hobart Lane Call 549-7461-Jeff. Only $250 a month

ROOM WANTED

Want to Move, but need replacement? Willing to swap room in apt for similar Kevin 256-5961

SERVICES

Do your have questions about your rights? Do you think your civil rights have been violatd? Find out! Contact the Student Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995

Have you been ripped-off by a retailer? Contact the Student Legal Services Office regarding your rights as a consumer. 922 Campus Center, 545-1995

TRAVEL

BOSTON SPRING BREAK'99 To Mazatlan from $599 To Cancun from $369 7 nights, 5 to 14 FREE meals 10 to 32 hours of FREE drinks CALL FREE 1-800-244-4463 Visit our web site www.collegetours.com

Spring Break: hundreds of student reviews, rankings, articles, and discussions: the unrivaled guide on where to go by people who went. http://www.studentadvantage.com/spring-break

TRAVEL

STOP! DON'T SWALLOW THAT CONDOM. Save up to 70% on travel, or even travel free.

And no nervous feeling in your stomach when you go through Customs.

www.go4less.com/student

Are you looking to send a message to someone special on Valentines Day?

Place an AD in The Collegian Classifieds!

Five College Community Calendar

MONDAY, FEB. 1

Celebration — The Jewish Community is invited to the Chabad House table on the Campus Center concord from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. to celebrate Tu Bishvat. There will be an array of special fruits and foods.

Meeting — The Feminist Majority Leadership Alliance will hold a general meeting at 6:30 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge.

Meeting — The UMass Outing Club will hold a general meeting at 7 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. No experience necessary and anyone may attend.

TUESDAY, FEB. 2

Film/Video — The Black History Film Series sponsored by the UMass Black Student Union is featuring Rosewood, at 7:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium. Free and open to all.

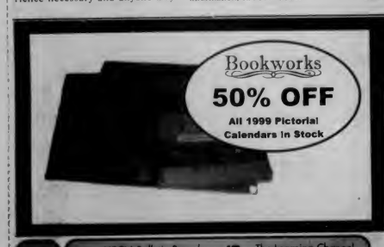
Information — A drop-in informational session on eating disorders will be held from 4-5:30 p.m. in Room 302 in University Health Services. Registration is not required. For more information, call 577-5181.

Meeting — Pride Alliance, the gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgender and straight ally undergraduate student organization, will be meeting at 7 p.m. in room 162-75 of the Campus Center. For more information, call 545-0154 or email pride@snaf.umass.edu.

NOTICES

Abstracts — Present your community service, thesis research, class work, independent study, or study abroad at the state-wide conference on Undergraduate Research, Scholarly, Creative, and Public Service Activities. Applications can be picked up at 504 Goodell by March 1.

Community — A limited number of residence hall rooms will be available for the relatives and friends of graduating UMass students for the night of Saturday, May 22. Commencement housing applications are available at the University Conference Services Offices, 918 Campus Center. Completed forms with full payment must be returned to University Conference Services by May 7. There will be no on-site registrations.



Conference — Share your experiences and learn more about learning communities at a conference entitled "Making Connections: Learning Communities for a Student-centered University" on Feb. 5 from 8:30 a.m.–3 p.m. in room 163 of the Campus Center. To register for this free conference and lunch call Anne Malone at 545-0851.

Information — The Alcohol and Drug Education Program at UHS offers general information, referral, and training workshops in room 234 of UHS weekdays from 8:30 a.m.–5 p.m. Call 577-5181 for more details.

Submissions — Submissions are being accepted for the Spectrum Literary Magazine. The deadline is February 12. Also searching for the 1998-99 cover content winner. Deadline is the end of December. Call 5-4220 for more information.

Volunteers — Volunteers are needed to train and facilitate workshops on contraception and sexually transmitted disease prevention. Contact Karen at 577-5188 for more information.

FYIs are public service announcements printed daily. To submit an FYI, please send a press release containing all pertinent information, including the name and phone number of the contact person to the Collegian, c/o the Managing Editor by noon the previous day.

Just another way that WE GIVE 100% We give all of our profits to support University Programs — University Store "Not like a mall. Better."

MONDAY EVENING — C - Campus — FEBRUARY 1, 1999

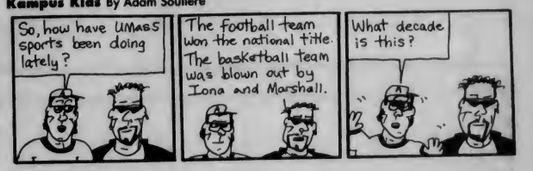
C	6:00	6:30	7:00	7:30	8:00	8:30	9:00	9:30	10:00	10:30	11:00	11:30
WEDH 🅔 12	Wishbone 'R'	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer 'R'		Antiques Roadshow 'R'		It's Work Like a World (In Stereo)		Part 1 of 3 'R'		Connecticut Journal
WFSB 🅒 3	News	CBS News	Inside Edition	Hollywood Sq.	Ent. Tonight		Raymond	Becker 'R'	L.A. Doctors "Maybe It's You"		News 'R'	Late Show 'R'
WBZ 🅒 4	News	CBS News	Hollywood Sq.	Ent. Tonight		Cosby 'R'	King	Raymond	Becker 'R'	L.A. Doctors "Maybe It's You"	News 'R'	Late Show 'R'
WCVB 🅐 5	News 'R'	ABC News	Inside Edition	Chronicle 'R'	20/20 'R'		"Hotforce" (1999, Drama) Scott Baiula, Joanna Going 'R'				News 'R'	Nightline 'R'
WLVI 🅒 7	Sister, Sister	Fresh Prince	Home Imp.	Friends 'R'	7th Heaven (R) (In Stereo) 'R'		Hyperion Bay "The Takeover"		News 'R'		Friends 'R'	Nanny 'R'
WHDH 🅜 7	News	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! 'R'	"Vanished Without a Trace" (1999, Drama) Shelley Long 'R'				Dateline (In Stereo) 'R'		News	Tonight Show
WTXX 4	Home Imp.	Judge Judy 'R'	Judge Judy 'R'	Judge Lane	Dilbert 'R'	DilbertS 'R'	Sentinel "Sentinel, Too" 'R'		News	Newsradio 'R'	Married...With	Tonight Show
WVIT 10	News	NBC News	Ent. Tonight	Hard Copy 'R'	"Vanished Without a Trace" (1999, Drama) Shelley Long 'R'				Dateline (In Stereo) 'R'		News	Tonight Show
WTIC 🅒 11	Simpsons 'R'	Friends 'R'	Friends 'R'		TV Guide Awards (In Stereo Live) 'R'				News		News 'R'	Tonight Show
WWLP 🅤 22	News 'R'	NBC News	Wheel-Fortune	Jeopardy! 'R'	"Vanished Without a Trace" (1999, Drama) Shelley Long 'R'				Dateline (In Stereo) 'R'		News 'R'	Charlie Rose (In Stereo) 'R'
WGBY 🅟 6	Creatures	Business Rpt.	Newshour With Jim Lehrer 'R'		Antiques Roadshow 'R'		It's Work Like a World (In Stereo)		Part 1 of 3 'R'		News 'R'	Nightline 'R'
WGGB 🅐 40	28	News 'R'	ABC News	Seinfeld 'R'	Frasier 'R'		20/20 'R'		Dateline 'R'		Frasier 'R'	Cheers 'R'
WSBK 🅤 38		Judge Judy 'R'	Judge Judy 'R'	Seinfeld 'R'	Frasier 'R'		Dilbert 'R'	DilbertS 'R'	Sentinel "Sentinel, Too" 'R'		Med Abt. You	Med Abt. You
WTBS 🅤 46		Family Matters	Family Matters	Roseanne 'R'	Roseanne 'R'		"Edward Scissorhands" (1990, Fantasy) Johnny Depp.				Law & Order 'Star Struck' 'R'
AAE 🅤		Northern Exposure 'R'		Law & Order "Hepiess" 'R'			Biography Dr. Laura		Investigative Reports 'R'		Sports	Moneyline 'R'
CNN 🅒 32		Worldview 'R'	Moneyline Newshour 'R'		Crossfire 'R'		World Today 'R'		Larry King Live 'R'		Newsstand: Time (R) 'R'	Sports
COM 🅒 36		Saturday Night Live 'R'		Daily Show (R)	Sten & Money		s"s "Fools" (1964, Comedy) Rebecca De Mornay, Mary Gross.			Kelz-Therapist	Bob-Margaret	Daily Show
DISC		New House	Fix-It-Line (R)	Wild Discovery: Pandas			Fun Food (R)		Space Colonies: Stars		Space Shuttle (R)	Fun Food (R)
ESPN		Up Close	Sportscenter				College Basketball Syracuse at Connecticut. (Live)				College Basketball Kansas at Kansas State. (Live)	Sportscenter
LIFE		Ellen 'R'	Ellen 'R'	Party of Five 'R'	Afterschools' 'R'		Chicago Hope "Love & Hope" 'R'		s "The Other Mother: A Moment of Truth Movie" (1995, Drama)		New Attitudes	Golden Girls
MTV		Countdown	Cvil (In Stereo)	Beavis-Butt.	Beavis-Butt.		Sift a Ofly	Video Clichés	Ultra Sound: Nine Days		Road Rules	Tom Green	Loveline (In Stereo)
NICK		Figure It Out	Secret of Alex	Doug 'R'	Rugrats 'R'		Hey Arnold! 'R'	Allen Strange	Brady Bunch	Wonder Years	Jeffersons 'R'	Laverne	I Love Lucy 'R'	Bewitched
SCIFI		Quantum Leap (In Stereo) 'R'		Amaz. Stories	Star Trek	This Side of Paradise 'R'			Sliders "Just Say Yes" (R) 'R'		Welcome to Paradox (R) 'R'		Twilight Zone	Star Trek 'R'
TLC	28	Home Again	Home Again	48 Hours "Lottery Fever" (R)		Volcano (R)			Loch Ness-Religious		Strange Science: Bizarre		Volcano (R)
TNT		Due South "One Good Man" 'R'		ER "Long Day's Journey" 'R'		WCW Monday Nitro (In Stereo Live) 'R'							Mortal Kombat: Conquest 'R'
USA		Hercules: Legendary Jrnys.		Xena: Warrior Princess (R) 'R'		Walker, Texas Ranger 'R'			WWF Raw 'R'		WWF War Zone 'R'		New York Undercover 'R'
HBO		(5:45) s"s "Columbo" (1989) Ted Danson.			BMM First	s"s "The Edge" (1997, Suspense) Anthony Hopkins, 'R' 'R'			Sopranos "Meadowlands" 'R'		s"s "Ent to Eden" (1994, Comedy) Dana Delany. (In Stereo) 'R' 'R'
MAX		(3:00)		s"s "Trojan War" (1997) Will Friedle. PG-13 'R'		s"s "Stepfather III' Father's Day" (1991) Robert Wightman. 'R' 'R'					s"s "Zero Sum" (1997) Timothy Bottoms 'R'		Compromising
SHOW		s"s "Changing Habits" (1997) Moira Kelly. (In Stereo) PG-13'				s"s "Universal Soldier" (1992) Jean-Claude Van Damme, 'R'

3	HSCN Bulletin Board	18	The Learning Channel
4	CBS/3 Hartford	19	UVC-TV19
5	CBS/4 Boston	20	ABC/40 Springfield
6	ABC/5 Boston	21	Gavel to Gavel
7	PBS/57 Springfield	22	NBC/22 Springfield
8	HSCN Movie Ch.	23	Sundance
9	UPN/20 Hartford	24	Bloomberg Financial
10	Weather Channel	25	CTN
11	NBC/30 New Britain	27	TBS
12	Fox/61 Hartford	28	BET
13	PBS/24 Hartford	29	TV Land
14	WOCH & HSCN	30	Univision
15	International	31	Comedy Central
16	UMass Academic TV	32	Cartoon
17	WB/New Haven	33	Much Music
18	HSCN Programming

Spunk By Mike LaRiccia

Drabble By Kevin Fagan

Dilbert By Scott Adams



Non Sequitor By Wiley

Rose Is Rose By Pat Brady

Kampus Kids By Adam Souliere

Robotman By Jim Meddick

Robotman By Jim Meddick

Dilbert By Scott Adams

Foxtrot By Bill Amend

Horoscopes

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20–Feb. 18) — In order to get the answers you need to deal with current circumstances, you're going to have to ask certain questions as soon as possible.

PISCES (Feb. 19–March 20) — If you're going to break through certain barriers today, you're going to have to do it alone. You'll have moral support, but you're essentially on your own.

ARIES (March 21–April 19) — You'll surprise friends and loved ones by doing something that seems entirely unexpected. Actually, it's been planned for a very long time.

TAURUS (April 20–May 20) — Now is no time to be "heroic." There are certain things that need to be done, and you must consider practical realities as you progress.

GEMINI (May 21–June 20) — This is a good day to express your concern regarding certain plans that have been put into motion which present a number of dangers.

CANCER (June 21–July 22) — Don't be shy about asking for help today. You have certain things to accomplish and certain obstacles to overcome, and there are no two ways about it.

LEO (July 23–Aug. 22) — The time has come for you to make a decision: you can go forward, or you can change direction. Either way, you will surely feel challenged.

VIRGO (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) — When you're not tending to pre-assigned tasks, this is a good day for you to do what comes naturally. By all means, prioritize!

LIBRA (Sept. 23–Oct. 22) — While you tend to affairs that are not about to wait for anyone, someone you know and trust can tend to the planning stages of a future project.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23–Nov. 21) — You can do without certain things, in favor of certain other things. All you have to do is make a choice, and decide what is most important to you.

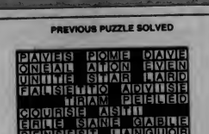
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22–Dec. 21) — You're in need of a little "insurance" today, and an arrangement with someone "in the know" can get you exactly what you need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22–Jan. 19) — A realization that something is unavoidable is sure to act as a remarkable motivator today. What you do surely can make a difference!

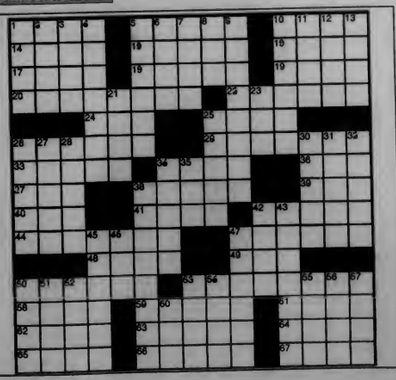
Quote of the Day

"Nobody puts Baby in the corner."

–Dirty Dancing



Close to Home By John McPherson



ACROSS
1 Thick carpet
5 Jockey — Cordero Jr.
10 Rope fiber
14 Slinger Horne
15 "Klute" star
16 Sandwich cookie
17 Clumsy boats
18 Cook slowly
19 Speech problem
20 Forceful
22 Overused expression
24 NATO relative
25 Loafer, e.g.
26 Red, to a poet
29 Female feline
33 Perch
34 Smile
36 Hood's weapon
37 Hit
38 Tine
39 Blended whiskey
40 Single
41 Taxicab
42 Not those
44 Massive tree
47 Speaker
48 Teen woe
49 Wages
50 Light
53 Pouched animal
58 Debatable
59 Claw
61 Unlocked
62 Part of a window
63 Silly
64 Had on
65 Winter toy
66 Walking sticks
67 Ski-resort's need

DOWN
1 Czech, e.g.
2 Roll-call answer
3 Egyptian symbol
4 Vaporous
5 Once more
6 Midday
7 Tiny insect
8 McMahon and Aarner
9 Securing, as a plate
10 More sacred
11 Idle or Dickerson
12 Sweden materias
13 Vatican head
21 Snip's pole
23 Captain's journal
25 Reek
26 Shady spot
27 Debby or Daniel
28 Bounded along
30 Heron
31 Authority
32 Guide
34 Mark papers
35 Legendary bird
38 Representing speech sounds
42 Pitfall
43 Fodder-storage areas
45 Did a restaurant job
46 Mo. for most Libras
47 Hazards a guess
50 Mischief makers
51 Hockey score
52 Zero
53 Highlands group
54 Sharpen
55 "Once — a time"
56 Roman ruler
57 Was aware of
60 Med.-workers' org.

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

2-1-99 © 1999, United Feature Syndicate

Today's D.C. Menu
Call 545-2626 for more information.

Franklin
LUNCH
Santa Fe Chicken Samwich
Vegetable Egg Roll
DINNER
Lemon Pepper Cod
Cavatelli Supreme
Savory Stuffed Pepper

Worcester
LUNCH
Santa Fe Chicken Sandwich
Vegetable Egg Roll
DINNER
Lemon Pepper Cod
Cavatelli Supreme
Savory Stuffed Pepper

Hampshire
LUNCH
Santa Fe Chicken Sandwich
Vegetable Egg Roll
DINNER
Lemon Pepper Cod
Cavatelli Supreme

Berkshire
LUNCH
Santa Fe Chicken Sandwich
Vegetable Egg Roll
DINNER
Lemon Pepper Cod
Cavatelli Supreme
Savory Stuffed Pepper

Night Editor — Laura Forster
Photo Technician — Kara Stokes
Copy Editor — Jill Carroll
Production Supervisor — Lisa Metcalf
Production Staff — Stephen Mackey, Allen Mackey

UMass hoop falls to Longhorns

Texas blasts UMass by 12

By Aaron Saykin
Collegian Staff

Fitting, isn't it? Monty Mack was the lone star yesterday for the Massachusetts men's basketball team, which was stung by host Texas 76-65 in the Lonestar State.

Once again the junior guard from South Boston reminded the world of college basketball that he is the only bona fide UMass scorer, netting 26 points when all was said and done. Senior center and NBA hopeful Lari Ketner added 16 points and 11 rebounds for the Maroon and White, but remained quiet after scoring eight of his team's first 10 points.

During a game which the Longhorns were in no real jeopardy of losing, the Minutemen (9-11, 5-3 A-10) were never in a position to even take the lead. And as the team's record again sinks to two games below .500, it can forget about any chance of an at-large bid to the NCAA Tournament, and begin to worry about qualifying for an at-large bid to the N.I.T.

The main ingredient in the Texas (12-9) recipe for success against UMass was seven-foot center Chris Mihms, who seemed to score at will against Ketner, who actually defended him rather well but was unable to contest Mihm's turn-around jumper. After a 12-point opening frame, Mihms finished the game with a dominating 20 points and 17 rebounds for the Longhorn's, who have now won 10 of their last 12 games after a 2-7 start.

"Mihms can score and he's a big kid — much bigger than I thought," UMass coach Bruiser Flint said. "I thought Lari did a good job on him. He made some tough shots. He made some fade-away jumpers, but [overall] he did a great job."

On one occasion, the Minutemen appeared as though they would claw their way back into the contest. Trailing by only five points after a Mack jumper early in the second half, UMass watched Texas stretch the lead back to 10 points, 43- 33, after Chico Vazquez connected on a three pointer.

"I though we battled in the second half, but not in the first [half]," Flint said. "We did some pretty good things, played some pretty good defense, but we had our chances, and we came up short a couple of times."

Although he has usually been effective in the second half of many games, team captain Charlton Clarke did not play in the final 15 minuter of the game. Instead, Flint opted to use sophomore guard Jonathan Depina because he was disappointed with the lack of leadership by Clarke.

"I'm just a little bit disappointed," Flint said of his senior point guard. "...You've got to have the right attitude to win, and he just didn't want to give us what we wanted today."

What may come as a shock to many is the up-beat attitude of Flint after his team suffers a defeat. After his Minutemen were embarrassed at home against Fordham last Tuesday, the third-year coach had hoped two of his seniors, Clarke and Ketner, could rally the team to win its final ten games of the season... and perhaps plant some type of seed in the minds of the Tournament selection committee members. But those potential ten straight wins have now slipped to only a possible eight straight wins. With conference foes such as Rhode Island, St. Joe's, St. Bonaventure, George Washington, Xavier, and Temple looming ahead, Flint may be lucky if his team emerges from the stretch with a winning record. Nonetheless, he has made every attempt to keep his players in a positive frame of mind.

"We've got eight games left in the league," he said. "Temple lost [to St. Bonaventure], and that helps us out a little bit. Rhode Island is in the same spot as us. They're tied with us at 5-3 in the league. I told the guys it's about attitude. If we have the right attitude we'll win eight games. If we don't [have the right attitude], then we'll win some and lose some."

COURTESY OF TOBY MORRIS / DAILY TEAN

Despite the high flying antics of Jonathan Depina, the UMass men's hoop squad fell to the Texas Longhorns yesterday evening.

Open Down Under ends in controversy

By Steve Wilstein
Associated Press

MELBOURNE, Australia — Touched by scandal and marred by nastiness, the Australian Open ended with the emergence of new talents and the resurgence of old ones.

Martina Hingis claimed her third straight title and Yevgeny Kafelnikov grabbed a second Grand Slam trophy. But it was what went on outside the lines that defined the year's first major tennis tournament.

It was defending champion Petr Korda playing in defiance of his peers' calls for his banishment.

It was 19-year-old Amelie Mauresmo, France's wonderfully talented potential champion, frankly discussing her lesbian relationship as no player has since Martina Navratilova.

It was Hingis making disparaging remarks about Maureesmo's body and sexual orientation, then denying what she said even though her comments in German were recorded on tape.

Mauresmo, who beat No. 1 Lindsay Davenport in the semis, lost the final but displayed poise under pressure and won admirers for her honesty and integrity.

The tournament began with the fuss over Korda's drug case, players taking an unusually united stand in demanding that he be banned for a year for testing positive for an anabolic steroid at Wimbledon. Korda won leniency from an appeals panel, and came to Australia determined to defend his title.

That case remains unresolved, though Korda won another round on the eve of the finals. A judge in London ruled the International Tennis Federation cannot contest the appeals panel ruling. The ITF said it will appeal again, and Korda can keep playing in the meantime.

The men's draw suffered from the start when No. 1 Pete Sampras, twice the champion, said he was too tired to fly Down Under. When Australia's favorite players, U.S. Open champ Patrick Rafter and runner-up Mark Philippoussis, lost early, a lot of the air went out of the event for the hometown fans.

When Andre Agassi lost in an apathetic, if not pathetic, effort against American journeyman Vince Spadea in the fourth round, the last squeak of interest in the men's draw vanished - for everyone except the small but marvelously vocal Swedish fans.

The Swedes, painted and garbed in yellow and blue, bellowed and chanted and leaped up between every point, exhorting their great Viking hope, Thomas Enqvist, right down to the last miserable double fault on match point of the error-strewn final.

Less than six months ago, Kafelnikov didn't think he could win another major tournament. Now, after thanking Sampras publicly for not coming, Kafelnikov says he's ready to soar.

"There's a lot of different things that happened to me, to just relieve pressure from my head," Kafelnikov said yesterday after beating Enqvist 4-6, 6-0, 6-3, 7-6 (7-1).

"When you combine these things," Kafelnikov said, "you feel like you can jump over the China wall without having any difficulties. That's how I feel right now."

The lanky Russian, who won the 1996 French Open, came back from the brink of retirement to win his second Grand Slam title, a feat he says is better the second time around because it dispels any notion he is a "one-Slam wonder."

Kafelnikov is the hardest worker in tennis. He played 150 matches last year — 27 more than nearest rival Pat Rafter and 68 more than Sampras, in 10th place. He has played more matches than anybody else on the tour for four of the past five years.

UMass drops second of three to Boston

By James P. Murphy
Collegian Staff

Coming into Friday night's Hockey East's match-up with No. 7 Boston College, Massachusetts assistant coach Dale Dunbar said that the keys to success for the Minutemen hockey team would be, "to slow the game down, contain them (the Eagles), one on one, and keep the puck out of our own zone."

The Minutemen succeeded in all those areas, but only did so for 60 percent of the game, losing a tight defensive battle to the high-flying Eagles, 3-1.

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Dean Stork scored UMass' only goal Friday night, as the Minuteman hockey team fell to Boston College, 3-1, at the William D. Mullins Center.

UMass came into the game on the heels of an embarrassing 7-1 loss to the Eagles Tuesday night at Kelley Rink. Now the Minutemen would be playing in the friendly confines of the William D. Mullins Center, where they held a 4-5-1 record. After playing five out of their last seven games on the road, the Minutemen were definitely in the mood for home cooking and they showed it as they appeared to be hungry.

Right from the opening face-off, UMass was clearly a different team than the one that showed up at Kelley Rink. UMass was executing their game plan of better man-to-man coverage and slowing down the explosive BC offense. The Minutemen were also getting some offensive chances of their own.

Unfortunately for UMass, the more offensive chances they had, the more the Eagles had, and at 13:47 of the first period the Eagles took advantage of one those chances, capitalizing on a defensive lapse by the UMass defense. BC captain Brendan Buckley dug the puck out from along the boards, fed it out to Jeff Farkas, who then left a drop pass for Chris Masters. Masters took the pass and ripped one by goalie Markus Helanen, for his 11th goal of the season and a 1-0 Eagle lead.

The Minutemen did not let this 1-0 deficit discourage them or their game plan. Less than four minutes after Master's goal, UMass found themselves on a five on three power-play. At 17:23 of the period, Jeff Turner found Captain Dean Stork at the point and Stork found the back of the net, delivering a blistering slap-shot past BC goalie Scott Clemmensen and knotting the game at one. After one period of play, the Minutemen found themselves not only tied with the Eagles in shots

Turn to HOCKEY, page 8

UM hockey looks at stretch run for conference birth

By Paul Teves
Collegian Staff

After losing the second of what will be three consecutive meetings with Boston College, 3-1, the pressure really begins to mount for the UMass men's hockey playoff hopes.

The Minutemen dropped their second consecutive game to the Eagles on Friday night, when Chris Masters and Jeff Farkas each provided a goal and an assist performance to lift the Eagles to yet another Hockey East victory.

For the Minutemen the stretch run will be the key as to whether or not they qualify for the last quarterfinal spot.

The race at the bottom of Hockey East is as intense as the race at the top, for the Minutemen who face teams just above them in the standings during the final stretch run in the seven of their last nine games of the season, it will be crucial for them to be prepared to do some damage in the league.

UMass coach Joe Mallen talked about doing some damage in the league this season and UMass has taken some baby steps as well as some leaps and bounds this season in that direction. They defeated and tied the No. 2 team in the nation, Maine. They also dropped Boston University for the first time since 1920 and since becoming a Hockey East team, 5-4. But for Mallen's squad to take the final step they will need to win-out a good percentage of their games.

Besides BC and Army, the Minutemen will face seven games against teams that are just a couple of spots up the standings ladder in Hockey East.

The Minutemen will have to worry about teams like Merrimack, who they will face twice down the stretch. In their only other meeting this season, the Minutemen came from behind to edge out Merrimack at the William D. Mullins Center, 3-2.

UMass will need two equally impressive performances to edge ahead of the competition.

The Minutemen will also have a pair of road games against UMass-Lowell. UMass dropped a heartbreaker to Lowell earlier in the season at the Mullins Center, 4-3. They led Lowell with less than a minute to go in regulation, before surrendering the game-tying goal and then an eventual game winner in overtime.

It will not get any easier for the Minutemen as the pair of games will both be played in Lowell. The Minutemen have struggled this season away from the Mullins Center.

Lowell currently sits only two points ahead of the Minutemen in the battle for the eighth spot in the conference.

UMass will also need to deal with Northeastern one more time. Thus far this season the Minutemen have dropped a 7- 2 decision at

Turn to GAME, page 9

Women's hoop wallops Fordham at Mullins

By Sanford Appell
Collegian Staff

Paced by the dynamic duo of Alison MacFarland and Lucia Madajova, the Massachusetts women's basketball team cruised past the Fordham Lady Rams 83–51 yesterday at the William D. Mullins Center.

MacFarland and Madajova both posted 15 points for UMass (12–11, 7–3 Atlantic 10), to lead the way as all five Minutewomen starters earned double-digits.

"Luc told me if I didn't get her the ball, she wouldn't cook dinner for me tonight," MacFarland said of her roommate Madajova.

Madajova was likely responsible for a five-course meal last night, as MacFarland dished out eight assists, many of which were to the Slovakian center.

Massachusetts coach Joanie O'Brien got solid production from all eight players she had at her disposal.

Yesterday's win was the second game UMass played without senior center Yolanda Rayside, who separated her shoulder on Wednesday.

In Rayside's absence, UMass got superb production out of their freshman post players. Nekole Smith notched 12 points on 5–of–10 shooting, and Caroline Nehls, in her second game back from a foot injury, tallied eight points and four rebounds.

"We know it can't be one person trying to take on Yolanda's load," O'Brien said. "It is going to be a team effort, and Luc is working with Smith and Nehls now to help get them prepared for the task."

It remains to be seen if Rayside will be able to return by season's end.

In the meantime, UMass is prepared to go about its business, as evidenced by the thrashing of the Lady Rams yesterday.

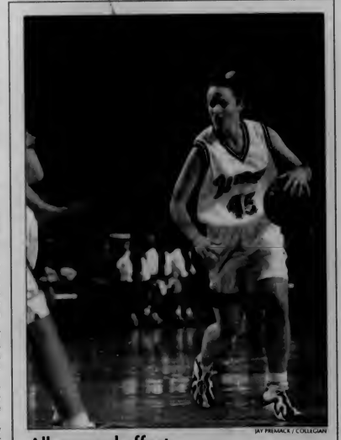
The Minutewomen led wire-to–wire in this contest as they struck early and often.

UMass opened up a 19–10 advantage with 12:06 remaining in the first half, as Madajova powered her way in for a lay– up after a well–timed entry pass from Tez Kraft (13 points and five rebounds).

Tez Kraft

Fordham struck back with two three–pointers courtesy of Mauree Garvey (team–leading 16 points) and Beth Michuda, but UMass guard Tonia Thomas answered with one of her own to settle the troops.

By the end of the first half, the Minutewomen had established a firm grip on the lead, 43–29, thanks in great part to 58 percent shooting from the floor, and a 19–11 edge on the boards.



MacFarland did much of her offensive damage in this first session, as she shot an unblemished 5–for–5 from the field for 11 points.

The second half was more of the same as UMass simply dominated every aspect of the game.

UMass blistered the Lady Rams (6–15, 2–9 A–10) for 10 straight points over a 4:30 stretch to boost its lead to 67–42 with 7:07 to play.

From there the game was all but locked up, but

Turn to HOOP, page 9

JAY PREMACK / COLLEGIAN

All–around effort

Alison MacFarland connected for 15 points and pulled down a game–high eight rebounds as the UMass women's hoop team crushed Fordham. See related story, page 9.

The Massachusetts

DAILY COLLEGIAN

Volume CV Issue 6 — New England's Largest College Daily • Founded in 1890 • Daily Since 1967 — Tuesday, February 2, 1999

Fire, kegs found at frat; IFC to investigate matter

By Stacey Shackford
Collegian Staff

A dumpster fire, illegal keg possession and building code violations may result in serious penalties for the University of Massachusetts chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa.

The Amherst Fire Department, responding to a dumpster fire at 510 North Pleasant St. at 4:54 a.m. Saturday, also discovered four illegal kegs and a padlocked door at the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

While firefighters were extinguishing the dumpster fire, individuals inside the fraternity targeted firefighters with laser pointers, said Fire Captain Timothy Atteridge.

Atteridge contacted the police, who entered the building through a window in the basement. The occupants of the building then "scattered" and locked themselves in rooms, Atteridge said. The police lacked a search warrant and were unable to enter the rooms, but discovered the padlocked front door, a violation of state fire and building codes.

"[The padlock] was not needed to keep the door locked," Atteridge said. "It was there to keep people from getting out."

Atteridge removed the padlock with bolt–cutters while police attempted, unsuccessfully, to speak with three people

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Phi Sigma Kappa may be facing serious penalties for illegal keg possession and state fire and building code violations.

"passed out in the pool room," he said.

The police issued a citation and an $800 fine ($200 per keg) to the president of Phi Sigma Kappa for violating the keg bylaw, which requires that all kegs be registered, with the town. The president refused to comment.

In addition to the keg citation, Phi Sigma Kappa could face penalties from the University. Michael Wiseman, director of Greek Affairs, said the Student Code of Conduct alcohol policy applies to fraternities as an extension of on– campus housing. According to recently revised alcohol policy sanctions, a first offense violation for keg possesion can result in housing removal and substance abuse referral to the Residential Education Alcohol Program (REAP).

In the case of a fraternity violation, the matter would be investigated by the Office of Greek Affairs and the Dean of Students Office, and later by the Judicial Board of the Inter–Fraternity Council (IFC), Wiseman said. If the entire membership is found responsible, a number of penalties are possible, including mandatory participation In the Alcohol Education Workshop or REAP program, community service, national chapter probation or loss of University recognition.

The Dean of Students Office was unavailable for comment, but IFC President Adam DeCruz said the Judicial Board of the IFC will be investigating the incident. The state fire marshall may also investigate the fire and building code violation, with potentially serious consequences, Atteridge said.

According to Atteridge, fraternity dumpster fires have been occurring quite frequently this year. IFC Treasurer Dan Backer said he believes the fires are the result of random acts of vandalism.

"It usually happens late at night when no one is around," he said. "It only takes a match to light a fire. Unfortunately we can't catch them; there's no much we can do... It's kind of like car vandalism. All we can do is keep an eye out and hope it doesn't happen."

But Atteridge disagrees. "It's a little more than just random acts of vandalism when it happens with the frequency that it does," he said.

Atteridge said he suspects the fires are being set by fraternity members. He said he extinguished a dumpster fire at 496 N. Pleasant Street the previous night and observed that Phi Sigma Kappa's dumpster was overflowing with garbage. He warned the assistant fire chief on duty of a possible dumpster fire at the fraternity. Trash removal was attempted, but was unsuccessful due to a number of cars blocking the dumpster.

However, Atteridge noted that "there was not a car within 50 feet of the dumpster" when he arrived to extinguish the fire Saturday morning.

"They knew there was going to be a dumpster fire," he said. "They moved their cars. The area was wide open."

Kafelnikov is the hardest worker in tennis. He played 150 matches last year — 27 more than nearest rival Pat Rafter and 68 more than Sampras, in 10th place. He has played more matches than anybody else on the tour for four of the past five years.

Officials say smoking observed in local bars

By Jill Carroll
Collegian Staff

The findings of two observers checking for smoking in Amherst bars has prompted the Board of Health to hire an officer to enforce the smoking ban.

The officer, Gregory Boyce, started making the rounds this weekend, according to Health Director Epi Bodhi.

"He went out this weekend. He will be issuing tickets," Bodhi said.

The report, which was an observation log from two observers, was issued to the Board during its last meeting and detailed the number of smokers in 10 bars from Dec. 15 1998–Jan. 17 1999.

Charlie's was checked twice in December by the observers and no smoking was reported. Michael's Billiards was also checked twice and no one was caught with a burning butt.

Rafters also had nothing but conversation in the air after three smoking checks, one of which surprised the observers.

"12/19 — very crowded— no one smoking (after a basketball game — not one butt!) — 9 to 10:30 p.m.," reported the observers in the log.

The remaining bars, Barrelotti's, Delano's, McMurphy's Cafe, Mike's Westview, Old Amherst Ale House, The Pub and The Spoke, were all checked between two and five times and reportedly allowed smokers to keep on puffing.

Three of the four bars that currently have jury trials pending due to unpaid tickets issued for violating the ban, were checked four times and one was checked five times.

McMurphy's Cafe, which has not been issued tickets, was also checked four times. The air was clear on all but one occasion.

"1/10 — private party — smoking observed through window," stated the observation log.

Even with an officer issuing tickets to bars with a blue haze in the air, bar owners are not starting to choke.

"I'm not concerned about tickets. I don't think I'm going to pay," said Eugene O'Neil, owner of the Old Amherst Ale House. "We try as hard as we ever have [to comply]."

"We're trying to comply," said Judie Teraspulsky, owner of Barrelotti's and Judie's restaurant. "We're not kicking dirt in the [Board of Health's] face and trying to piss them off. They don't expect extra people to check for smoking."

Teraspulsky said the Board won't hold a bar responsible for someone hiding in the corner and smoking. She said they issues tickets if the bartender allows smoking in plain view.

While the ban is meant to benefit staff and patron's health it could be creating a dangerous situation according to one owner.

"We find cigarette butts in the trash can in the men's room... and the women's room with paper towels and everything," O'Neil said.

Marielana DiNatale, an owner of Mike's Westview, was the first of the bar owners to have a trial.

On Jan. 25, a jury found DiNatale "responsible," for a ticket issued July 17, 1998 for violating the smoking ban. She will have to pay the $200 ticket and a $100 court fee. The charge was reduced from a criminal to a civil charge.

"[There was] no criminal finding. They found her civilly responsible," said Steven Winniman, the Springfield lawyer representing several bars in Amherst.

DiNatale declined to comment on the trial or the ban.

Winnlman will be heading into the courtroom to face juries in six more trials this spring for tickets issued to Douglas LeBlanc, owner of The Spoke and O'Neil.

Regional Student Program cuts tuition for some

By Jake Lilien
Collegian Staff

The New England Board of Higher Education's Regional Student Program allows Massachusetts residents to enroll in out–of–state degree programs at a greatly reduced cost.

Under the Regional Student Program (RSP), students interested in obtaining a degree in a program not offered by Massachusetts public colleges and universities are often entitled to attend out–of–state schools for 150 percent of the regular in–state tuition.

For example, if a Massachusetts student is interested in a bachelor's degree in pharmacy, a program not offered by any Massachusetts public institution, he is entitled to major in pharmacy at the University of Connecticut at the cost of $6,237 a year — 150 percent more than the tuition of a Connecticut resident (4,159), but far lower than the standard out–of–state price ($12,676).

The RSP applies to both graduate and undergraduate students. Other programs among the hundreds offered to Massachusetts students by RSP schools include film studies, insurance and technical management.

Not all out–of–state programs qualify, though, even if a specific major is not offered by Massachusetts schools.

"While there are certain programs that are not included in our program," said Wenday A. Lindsay, the RSP associate director, "It is usually because a comparable program is available in the student's home state, even if the majors aren't identical."

The New England Board of Higher Education (NEBHE) contends that the RSP saves money not only for the students involved, but also for taxpayers.

As a result of the RSP, state colleges and universities can avoid duplicating expensive programs.

NEBHE released a survey report to commemorate the 40th anniversary of the program. According to the survey, 7,223 New England students enrolled in the Regional Student Program (RSP), saving them approximately $32 million in total. The average annual savings of an RSP student was $4,423.

The report also showed that a full 87 percent of RSP students receive financial aid In addition to the RSP tuition cut.

Forty–nine percent of the students are "first–generation students" — meaning that neither of their parents have attained a bachelor's degree, and 50 percent come from families with an income of $50,000–a–year or less.

Nearly half of the students surveyed said that they learned about the program through college admissions officers and publications. The NEHBE maintains that the "strategic utilization" of the RSP at New England colleges has been key to its expansion.

At Lyndon State College in Vermont, RSP students account for nearly 25 percent of the student population.

"The future New England economy will require an educated workforce in many fields which enroll RSP students," reads a NEHBE newsletter. "But college costs have outpaced inflation for many years, college debt levels are very high, and students and their families are concerned about the cost of a higher education.

"New England residents of all ages and circumstances will continue to find tuition relief in the future, while studying RSP–eligible majors that prepare them for fulfilling 21st century careers."

Lewinsky deposed in private session

By Larry Margasak
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A House prosecutor questioned Monica Lewinsky under oath yesterday in her first sworn statements since the impeachment trial began. Presidential lawyers passed on the opportunity to pose their own questions.

The deposition of the former intern took place in private, in the Mayflower Hotel's presidential suite, but was videotaped for senators weighing the impeachment charges.

Senators can view the tape as early as today, and excerpts could end up being shown as part of the trial, which will resume Thursday. Or senators could vote to bring Lewinsky to the floor for live testimony about her relationship with Clinton and attempts to conceal it, a less likely development.

Rep. Ed Bryant (R-Tenn.) asked Lewinsky a number of questions on behalf of the prosecution team during the deposition session, which took about six hours including lunch and other breaks. But the three presidential lawyers who were there asked her no questions, said two sources familiar with the session. The sources spoke only on condition of anonymity.

The proceeding took considerably less than the eight hours allotted for questioning. Participants, under strict secrecy orders from the Senate, declined to describe the session as they left. Lewinsky's recollection of Clinton's actions and words are crucial to the Senate's consideration of several matters: her affidavit in the Paula Jones civil lawsuit falsely denying a sexual affair with Clinton, the job search after she appeared on the Jones witness list and the retrieval of presidential gifts by Clinton's secretary.

The House team promised in advance to shun intimate questions about the sexual affair.

Presidential friend Vernon Jordan will be questioned today and White House aide Sidney Blumenthal tomorrow — in depositions in a private room at the Capitol — before the trial resumes on Thursday.

Republican Rep. Ed Bryant of Tennessee, a former prosecutor with a low-key style, questioned Lewinsky for the prosecutors who are pushing to remove Clinton from office. Two female lawyers — private attorney Nicole Seligman and Deputy White House Counsel Cheryl Mills — were the main questioners for Clinton's side.

The chances were slim for any bombshells since Lewinsky would risk her immunity deal with Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr by saying anything that was inconsistent with her prior testimony. If senators decide that viewing the videotapes provides all the information they need, they can proceed to closing arguments in the perjury and-obstruction case and meet the goal of ending the trial by Friday, Feb. 12, or sooner.

In previous votes on procedural matters, Democrats have demonstrated more than enough strength to block conviction and removal of the president by the required two-thirds vote.

Indeed, some Republicans have questioned the strength of the House case alleging grand jury perjury, raising the possibility that charge may not receive even a majority.

Meanwhile, some GOP senators also reacted negatively to a New York Times story that said Starr had concluded a grand jury could indict a sitting president.

David Kendall, a private lawyer representing Clinton, said yesterday he was asking a federal court to require Starr to show why he and his staff "should not be held In contempt for improper violations of grand jury secrecy" in connection with such speculation of a possible indictment.

Child abuse focus of grad class

BRIAN MCDERMOTT / COLLEGIAN

Instructor Lisa Fontes, a UMass alumna, is teaching the class "Child Maltreatment" through the education department this semester.

By Jason Trenkle
Collegian Staff

In an attempt to educate students on child abuse and violence, the University of Massachusetts School of Education is offering a course on the prevention of child maltreatment and abuse.

The course, Education 615B: Child Maltreatment, is being offered for graduate students for the first time through the department and is the only course of its kind to be offered through the University.

The course focuses on fields of child abuse ranging from physical, sexual and psychological abuse. Instructor Lisa Fontes, a 1992 UMass graduate in counseling psychology, feels the goal of the course is to educate students on the basis of improving treatment of children and the intervention of abuse.

"My intentions of this course," Fontes said, "Is to help make schools the kind of safe and supportive environments where all students can flourish."

Child maltreatment has been found to be a common and damaging part of growing up for many children, Fontes said. Such abuse and neglect, she feels, can impede children's development and affect the courses of their lives.

Fontes said the most commonly documented case of child abuse in the United States is neglect. This would include isolation and humiliation of children, which could lead to suicide attempts.

Pointing to suicide attempts as being one of the many outcomes of teen violence, Fontes' course progresses to the topic of prevention and recovery.

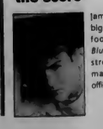
"Most people think of suicide at

Turn to ABUSE, page 2

EXTENDED FORECAST

Today	Wednesday	Thursday
HIGH: 39 LOW: 3	HIGH: 44 LOW: 6	HIGH: 42 LOW: 5

SOURCE: CNN.COM



Saddam garnering support

Iraqi officials said yesterday that they are on Saddam Hussein's side in his continuing controversies with the U.S. and the United Nations.

NEWS PAGE 3

Dawson knows the score

James Van Der Beek's big screen high school football tale, Varsity Blues, is still going strong with the teen market at the box office.

ARTS PAGE 5

Back in the saddle again

Jeff LaVallee and the Massachusetts men's gymnastics team came through with a pair of victories over the weekend.

SPORTS PAGE 10

Arts & Living 5
Classifieds 8
Comics 9
Crossword 9
Editorial 4
FYI 8
News 1
Sports 10

ON THE INTERNET

www.dailycollegian.com

■ abuse

continued from page 1

least one point in their lives," Fontes said. "Young people make suicide gestures and attempts with some frequency for many reasons and most people that complete a suicide have made some type of an attempt before."

In fact, Fontes says everyone, at least some point in their life, has thoughts and feelings about suicide. Concern over the issue arises when an individual commits suicidal gestures, actual self-harm without lethality.

"Suicidal gestures are an attempt at suicide but with the notion they'll be stopped," Fontes said. "Many students mean to gesture, but they end up dead."

Parts of the course will be also focus on gay and lesbian youth in attempts to make schools a more supportive environment.

"Suicide attempts are more common among gay and lesbian youth than among other people," Fontes said. "It has to do with stress from feeling unsupported by their sexuality."

Other areas of the course will focus on issues such as physical and sexual abuse. Fontes referred to an incident occurring in which a third-grade child was physically abused by a peer and the school ignored the situation. The mother is now suing the school. Fontes feels many people are unaware of how common physical abuse can be.

"When some people think of sexual harassment, they think of the trivial incidents, but in fact, many girls and some boys are afraid to go to school because of how their peers will treat them," Fontes said.

Veronica Williams, a graduate student in psychology, is excited to have the course offered for the first time.

"It's very important we are able to recognize signs of abuse and cultural factors that affect the different ways we view abuse," Williams said.

Fontes edited a book titled "Sexual Abuse in Nine North American Cultures," which is required for the course.

Correction

In the Jan. 27 issue of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Amanda Genao was misquoted. It was also incorrectly stated that Genao is on welfare. The Collegian regrets the error.

No really, I read the articles too.

Come to the Collegian and apply for a job because we want you to.

Police Log

Annoying Behavior
Jan. 28
Loud individuals throwing snowballs outside Cance Residence Hall were "moved along" by an officer.

An individual in Hampshire House was reported harassing an employee. The incident is under investigation.
Jan. 27
Individual was reported for disrupting a class in session at Hills House. The subject left prior to police arrival.

Offensive pictures were affixed to a resident's door at Lewis Residence Hall.

B&E/Burglary
Jan. 28
Access was gained through a vehicle soft-top in Lot 44, north of Sylvan, and a stereo was stolen.

A vehicle was broken into in Lot 11, north of Alumni Stadium. Nothing was stolen, but an attempt was made to steal a stereo.
Jan. 27
A vehicle was broken into in Lot 11, north of Alumni Stadium. A stereo system was stolen.
Jan. 26
A cellular phone was reported stolen from Lot 65.

Drug Law Offenses
Jan. 26
The odor of marijuana was reported in Washington Residence Hall.

Health/Safety Hazard
Jan. 28
Environmental Health and Safety was dispatched to check on a suspicious odor in Goodell Library.

Larceny
Jan. 28
An individual in Johnson Residence Hall reported illegal charges on a credit card never received from company.
Jan. 27
Equipment valued at $65 was reported stolen from Thayer Laboratory.

A backpack was reported stolen from the Textbook Annex.

Motor Vehicle Theft
Jan. 27
A vehicle was reported stolen from Lot 11, north of Alumni Stadium.

Suspicious Person/Activity
Jan. 29
A damaged vehicle in Lot 44, north of Sylvan, was investigated regarding a possible "hit and run" accident.
Jan. 28
An individual in John Quincy Adams Residence Hall reported receiving an annoying e-mail.

An individual in Coolidge Residence Hall received a bill for a credit card never received from the company.

An individual entered Kennedy Residence Hall without proper identification.

Traffic Stop
Jan. 29
Drake R. Randall, 22, of 79 Colonial Village, was arrested and charged with an expired inspection sticker and lack of license.
Jan. 27
Yu S. Kim, 19, of 121B Brittany Manor, was arrested and charged with the unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle, and no inspection sticker.

Roland A. Shaughnessy, 28, of 153 Amherst Rd., Sunderland, was arrested and charged with operating a motor vehicle with suspended license, and no inspection sticker.

Vandalism
Jan. 28
Damage to a bathroom stall in Machmer Hall was reported.

Environmental Health and Safety responded to a burnt poster in a recreation room of Cashin Residence Hall.
Jan. 27
Swastikas were drawn on two doorways in Thatcher Residence Hall.

Tires were slashed on a parked vehicle in Lot 22, west of University Drive.

The Collegian is currently hiring for the following positions: Day Graphics, Night Graphics, Developing Nations Editor, Multicultural Affairs Editor and GLBT Issues Editor. We are also looking for general news and feature writers.

Pi Lambda Phi
International Fraternity

BE A PART OF UMASS' NEWEST FRATERNITY

Pi Lambda Phi will excel in:
Academics • Brotherhood • Leadership
Community Service • Athletics
Diversity • Social Events

100% Haze Free • Open to all race and creeds

Take Greek life to a higher level.

Pizza, Pool & Pi Lam
Jan 28th and Feb 2nd
Meet outside Bluewall at 10pm

For more info contact:

Clif 546-1860 clfh@student.umass.edu
Chris 546-5816 Bangarong@aol.com

Valentine's Day
is just around the corner

Let them know how special they really are to you...

for the mere price of ten cents a word you can give the one you love something to cherish forever..

Their very own Collegian Classified from you

... won't you look good. Of course you will, as long as you get your message in by the deadline of Tuesday Feb.9th.

new improved editions- makes learnin' 120% faster!

textbooks to go!
free delivery
buy online • new and used • save up to 40%

big words

www.bigwords.com

So many places to go...
Laura Sherritt, a senior biochemistry major and peer counselor in the study abroad office, advises Iyore Otabor, a junior biochemistry major, on international programs to England.

Saddam claims support from the masses

By Vijay Yoshi
Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq — A senior Iraqi official scoffed yesterday at the new American strategy to topple Saddam Hussein, saying the Iraqi people supported their president.

Deputy Information Minister Hamid Saeed called the effort to oust Saddam the act of "a loser looking for failure."

"We feel strong. I say it with confidence: Iraq shall stay, the government in Iraq shall stay, Saddam Hussein shall stay and the others will fail," Saeed said.

Earlier this month, President Clinton designated seven Iraqi organizations opposed to Saddam to receive up to $97 million in American military support. Two of the groups said they turned down the offer.

The Iraqi Information Ministry blasted Frank Ricciardone, the Clinton official given the task of coordinating Iraqi opposition groups in the overthrow effort. Ricciardone toured the Middle East last week.

"We know that this hooligan is in charge of directing groups of traitors, agents and aging mules who call themselves opposition," a ministry statement said.

Last week, Assistant Secretary of State Martin Indyk, on a Persian Gulf tour, said in Bahrain that American allies in the region feel "we should talk less and do more" to oust the Iraqi leader.I who shoots down an enemy

Getting carded
Junior nutrition major Kelly Turo photographs John Provost, an EPRA graduate student, in the UCard office yesterday afternoon.

Civil right activist passes away at the age of 109

By Martha Waggoner
Associated Press

RALEIGH, N.C. — Sadie Delany, a slave's daughter who overcame challenges of race, gender and age and became a best-selling author at age 104, came home yesterday to be buried near her sister and writing partner.

About 275 people filled a small stone chapel yesterday to celebrate the life of Sarah L. "Sadie" Delany. She and her sister, Dr. Annie Elizabeth "Bessie" Delany, were centenarian authors who wrote "Having Our Say: The Delany Sisters' First 100 Years" with journalist Amy Hill Hearth.

The 1993 book, which chronicled what life was like for blacks before the civil rights movement, became a top seller, inspired a Broadway play and has been used as a college text.

Delany, 109, died last week at her home in Mount Vernon, N.Y., a New York City suburb.

Delany's great-grand niece told mourners yesterday that like so many strangers, she came to know a side of her relative by reading the book. Until then, Brandi Delany said, she thought Aunt Sadie was just a retired home economics teacher, a "sweet aunt who acted far younger than her age."

Instead, the book showed that her Aunt Sadie was a pioneer, far ahead of her time.

"I'm happy to know that Aunt Sadie has gone to be reunited with her father, mother and nine brothers and sisters," Brandi Delany said.

SYRACUSE STUDY ABROAD

Zimbabwe • England • Italy
Hong Kong • Spain • France

- Wide-ranging courses
- Internships & service-learning
- Business programs in 3 countries
- Organized study-travel
- Grants, scholarships, loans
- Placement in foreign universities

Syracuse University 119 Euclid Avenue Syracuse, NY 13244
800-235-3472 suabroad@syr.edu http://sumweb.syr.edu/dips

Thank you for reading the Collegian, New England's Largest College Daily!

NEW AEROBICS NEW
CARDIO-KICKBOXING • YOGA
• Classes Daily
• Certified Instructors
• Suspended Wood Floor
• Area's Largest Room
www.amherstathletics.com
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
460 West Street
South Amherst. 256-0080

COLLEGIAN NEWS IS THE RICE MILK IN YOUR HEALTH NUGGETS!

GET IN SHAPE IN SHAPE NUTRITION

•Fat Burners
•Creatine
•Protein Powders

20%-50% Off Retail Prices Everyday

•Andro
•Vitamins/Herbs
•Food Bars and more...

65 University Dr. Amherst 549-7434

TRENT GRAPHICS THE ART PRINT & POSTER SALE

Over 2000 Images - art reproductions, photography, nature, music, humor, romantic, landscapes, movies, photo mosaic, floral, ethnic, celebrities, sports, animation images, poster hangers, frames and more! All at Low Prices!!

HUNDREDS OF CLOSEOUT SPECIALS FROM THE 1998 STOCK!!
DISCOUNTED 20-50% OR MORE!
- Look For The Color-Coded Sale Labels -

Monday-Friday
February 1-5
Campus Center Concourse
In Front of the Bookstore
9am - 5pm

Visa, MasterCard, AmEx & UCard Accepted

http://www.postermart.com

Massachusetts is looking for 50 outstanding individuals to TEACH in our public schools.

Could this be YOU?

Teach in Massachusetts

- $20,000 signing bonus
- Intensive summer training
- Placement
- Ongoing support

All Majors Welcome!
Current Seniors • Mid-Career Professionals

Information Sessions

UMASS/Amherst
Wednesday, February 3
6:00 pm
The Career Center
Room 904.08

SMITH COLLEGE
Thursday, February 4
7:00 pm
Wright Hall
Common Room

Massachusetts Signing Bonus Program for New Teachers

website: www.doe.mass.edu/tqe • call at: 781.388.3300 ext. 323

A program of the Massachusetts Department of Education

— The views and opinions expressed on this page are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Collegian —

Smoking in bars should be allowed

So you've finally achieved your dream of opening up your own business. You've purchased an entire building, half of which you plan to turn into a restaurant, the other half a bar. After almost a year of construction inside and the hiring of enough employees to get yourself started, you turn on the neon lights that say "open" for the first time. The only problem is that the local public health officials tell you that you can't even smoke in your own bar because it's a threat to public health.

You become frustrated that after all of that work you had put into your dream, you can't even do something that's perfectly legal within its boundaries. You talk with other owners in the town and realize that many have the same opinions that you do, that the town should not have the right to regulate your private business.

> "My belief is that if an owner wants a restaurant or bar to allow smoking, then the owner should be able to."
>
> Jason Weisenbach

Across the Pioneer Valley, many towns have enacted complete bans not only on smoking in restaurants, but some, like Amherst, have gone so far as to outlaw it in bars as well. Town health boards believe that the current state law of a minimum of 50 percent non–smoking seating in restaurants over 25–person occupancy does not go far enough.

There are plenty of reasons to believe that smoking causes public health problems, so these bans can be justified in those terms. We all know that cigarette smoke contains carbon monoxide, causes birth defects and leads to emphysema. We also know that second–hand smoke, the major focus in these recent laws, is also damaging to the lungs.

Knowing all of this, the Amherst Board of Health believes that it is not only in the best interest of the people, but it is the opinion of the majority that smoking should not be allowed in bars or restaurants. This is also presumably because only about 25 percent of the population considers themselves full–time smokers.

However, there have been questions raised by many food service owners, of bars more specifically, that despite these figures, their customers have not demanded a smoke–free establishment. Three bars in Amherst, Delano's, The Spoke, and the Old Amherst Ale House, not only have rejected the value of the law, but have allowed customers to smoke regardless of the law. They now face trials in the future if the problem is not resolved out of court.

Contrary to the health board's view, several bar owners have said that the recent ban of smoking was not in the best interest of their customers. One owner has said "They never asked us." They know that the percentage of their customers who smoke is much higher than 25 percent.

Bars are not the only ones that feel this way. In recent surveys across the Valley, it has been found that an increase in Springfield's restaurant business is directly linked to it being the only place in that area that allows smoking. Surrounding no–smoking communities argue that its restaurants are where that influx in Springfield has come from.

I feel the main question regarding smoking in restaurants and bars is whether the interest in health of workers and customers is more important than the freedom to do business in the way an owner chooses to do so. And I feel that surveys such as the Springfield one and the rejection of Amherst town laws by bars shows that the health boards may have gone too far.

Current state laws certainly do not offend smoking customers, for there will always be a smoking section in restaurants under those. However, with the high percentage of non–smokers, one would think that smoke–free restaurants would be in heavy demand. This is true for bars as well.

Therefore, I feel that if there is such a demand for smoke– free restaurants and bars, then these establishments would already exist, right beside the ones that allow smoking. This would allow the customers to dictate to the owners exactly what they wanted, and also allow the owners to choose how they want their business to be run.

This idea is not a far–fetched one, for it has happened with restaurants and bars before. When customers wanted a vegetarian restaurants, they began to open up with much success.

My belief is that if an owner wants a restaurant or bar to allow smoking, then the owner should be able to. This is because it is a private business, run without taxpayer support, and therefore should exist independently of the community in which it is in.

However, if such a private business is run with taxpayer support, like many large sports complexes are, then the taxpayers have a right to regulate what goes on inside them. If the people do not want smoking in these publicly–funded businesses, then that is the way they should be.

I also feel though, that even if public businesses do not allow smoking, they should provide a place for smokers to smoke. Places such as the Mullins Center have no such place, and the only way to smoke is to leave the building, which of course means no re–entry. There is no reason why a smoker should not be able to have a cigarette during a three–hour event, simply because of a law.

Thus, while second–hand smoke is a threat to non– smokers' health, forcing private businesses to do something they may not want to do by outlawing smoking rejects the freedom that owners deserve. The demands of the customers and the opinions of the owners should dictate whether or not smoking is allowed in a certain establishment, not a generalized opinion of health boards that rejects the freedom of 25 percent of the nation to smoke.

Jason Wiesenbach is a Collegian columnist.

Paperback writer

"In this business, sex is like candy — plentiful and cheap," LL Cool J writes in his autobiography "I Make My Own Rules." Right on, LL. He's referring to the music business, of course, but it's so much like the college newspaper business. Trust me.

In fact, the general sexiness of college is quite astounding. Just the other day I was commenting to someone, "Man, today is sexy." They were like, "Dude, I'm just waiting for the bus." My take is, if you can't handle the inherent sexiness of the college experience, go to Westfield State.

Which is why I've pretty much decided to write my autobiography. Someone has to tell the outside world what college is like these days.

Mike Messaros

Someone has to be a spiritual guide, like that guy who took Dante through the Inferno. You know, that Greek guy. Wore a toga.

After 22 years of sweet, sweet life I've decided to throw my hat in the ring with fellow blonds Loni Anderson and Brett Butler (although with me, the curtains match the carpet, if you know what I mean) and write all about Mike.

And why the hell not? I mean, William Bulger wrote an autobiography, and not even UMass students read it, so why would anyone else? ("I can't wait until he starts talking about UMass Dartmouth! Turn off the TV, I'm in for the night!")

Dixie Carter wrote an autobiography, and she wasn't even the funniest Designing Woman (that was Jean Smart) or the sexiest (that was Annie Potts. And let me just say that there's a certain something about those One–a–Day tea commercials she does. Yes.) or the one with the most sass (Delta Burke, naturally). Besides having the oh–so–southern name Dixie, she doesn't have too much going for her.

Dixie was the Designing Woman who would go on some diatribe at the end of every episode, shaking as she was trying to control her anger, going on and on about some pointless junk.

"I don't make chicken pot pie for any man, regardless of race, collish or creed. And I remember when mah grandpappy sat me down on his lap at the old plantation and said 'Girl you will be a woman soon.' I will always remember that, sir, and you will always remember that you can make your own chicken pot pies!" Right on, Dixie.

I hated that show.

(You know, it's really about time someone gave Dixie Carter the what–for. If it had to be me, then so be it.)

Granted, despite appearances, not everything about my life is sexy. Like right now, the clam chowder I just had is not sitting pretty at all (not sexy). Getting together anecdotes and stories has become a pain in the rear admiral as I start to dissect my day. Only so many chapters can start with "Got up late again. Still feel sleepy." But I'm committed to telling it like it is. If LL can, so can I. Hey, I dropped my toothbrush in the toilet today, and I'm not afraid to let you know.

What you begin to understand in the early stages of autobiography writing is that everything is fodder for the page. What seems like uninteresting minutiae is actually character–defining shade. Take this passage In LL's autobiography: "Alphonso [Ribiero], who plays Max, the nerdy doctor on In the House, is off–the–hook crazy. He races cars and motorcycles and stuff, and he loves practical jokes." You go, Alphonso.

LL has made the genius choice of defining himself through his friends. Hey, so Alphonso is "off–the–hook crazy." LL's down with that. Even if he is relegated to playing the nerdy doctor. I've got to remember that ploy, because talking about how good I am at NHL 99 is only going to work for so many chapters.

Oh, and the pictures! Whoo! I've got some of the pictures I sent into TigerBeat (which those fruitcakes rejected for some reason — just because I've never been on Saved by the Bell), along with the suggested captions ("Mike's pants don't fit." "Mike gets his fingers stuck in a bottle."). Then I've got the family archive pictures ("Mike takes a bath in the sink — age 19"). Anybody else smell a best–seller?

It all comes down to this: when I was eight I got an opportunity to go to the mall and meet Mr. Peanut. Of course, now I know that it wasn't really an actual anthropomorphic peanut, but a guy in a fake plastic peanut shell. A let down, to say the least, but not like finding out that Boy George was a guy. Anyways, I got to shake his hand and I asked him, "Mr. Peanut, what does it take to be a star, just like you?"

"Well, it takes a big heart, strong arms and a head full of dreams, kiddo," he told me. "Anymore questions?"

"Yeah, why does your breath smell like my parents' recycling bucket after their 4th of July party and not like peanut butter?"

Needless to say, Mr. Peanut had to be restrained by security officer McDermott. But his words stuck with me. McDermott's, that is. He said, "Kid, never mess with a drunken peanut." And I can say that I haven't since. Well, twice, but once he was asking for it.

But now's the time for me to make my mark. LL Cool J says so, and so does Mr. Peanut. Even if they don't wear togas, I don't know who better to be my spiritual guides.

Mike Messaros is a Collegian columnist.

Get some priorities

I do not have time to be an investigative journalist. I understand from book and television private eyes and reporters that the only way you find out anything is to keep bugging everybody until somebody tries to kill you. Then you find out who has taken out a contract on your life and you are really getting somewhere in your investigation. I don't have time for that. All I can do is notice stupidity.

For example, Chancellor Scott is talking about reducing the teaching staff of the University.

The parking lot of Worcester Dining Hall was torn out and replaced with a parking lot. Chancellor Scott is talking about reducing the teaching staff of the

Ben Melancon

University.

A $30,000 parking lot would have been built next to Orchard Hill last semester except that there was some student dissent and cold weather. Chancellor Scott is talking about reducing the teaching staff of the University.

The steps of the Student Union were pulverized and rebuilt to look pretty much the same, except for the missing bushes on the pond side that were paved over. Chancellor Scott is talking about reducing the teaching staff of the University.

People with large machines spent over one day each working on every tree stump on campus: chipping them out, tracking their roots to the ends of the earth, and destroying every single last one of them. Chancellor Scott is talking about reducing the teaching staff of the University.

A month was spent renovating the elevator in my building: it now has new flooring and stops every two seconds to chirp. Chancellor Scott is talking about reducing the teaching staff of the University.

Employees at Health Services were unhappy, and so a fact–finding mission was commissioned. A 44–page report revealed months later that employees at Health Services are unhappy. Chancellor Scott is talking about reducing the teaching staff of the University.

Money may be spent on cameras in the parking lots to record people who break into cars.

To finish the sentence, Chancellor Scott is talking about reducing the number of professors and being a first–rate University at the same time. Reducing the number of professors and being a first–rate University at the same time. That doesn't happen. There is a reason why all the best colleges want the first thing you know about them to be their low faculty–to– student ratio.

We are here to be taught by professors and not by teaching assistants who, no matter how wonderful or dedicated they are, do not have the time or the authority to put together a top–notch course. All public education, from elementary school to (especially) the college level should be getting more money from the state and federal governments.

The money UMass receives can be spent better. I would rather be in a school where every building is falling apart, but the teaching staff is world–class than one with new steps and no tree stumps. Tree stumps are nice to sit on anyhow.

And putting a building up for the "better for my education" Commonwealth College at the cost of keeping professors? The part of my brain devoted to logic is causing an ear ache trying to escape through my left ear canal. The Commonwealth College does not need a new building. The University needs more professors. The most educationally attractive aspect of the Honors Program concept is smaller classes. I, for one, will volunteer the Dickinson fifth floor east lounge if no other rooms on campus are forthcoming to teach a small class in.

Some money coming to UMass is earmarked for the Commonwealth College. Providing more small classes (for the Honors Program, but that anyone can take) is the way to spend this sum. Assuming that each individual professor is already teaching approximately the optimal number of classes, the only way to do this is to hire more professors.

Will our University have enough teachers for us to learn in the future? To Whom It May Concern: Please spend the available money on my education and not on parking lots.

Ben Melançon is a UMass student.

Letters to the Editor

Language was all hacked up

To the editor:

